A GRANDLY-BRED STALLION.

Dictatue, Son of the Mighty Red Wilkee and a Mare by Dictator.

Among the horses that have reduced their records at tbe Breeders' meeting at Oakland during the past week is Dictatus, tbe bandsome son of Red Wilkes and Miss Lollie, by Dictator. No more grandly bred stallion ever lived in America than this fellow, and we doubt if a speedier one ever existed. More tban once has the writer seen Dictatus go to the balf mile pole in one minute, in actual races at that, and while the driver was doing his best to pull him back to a less killing gait In his youth Dictatus was spoiled for a race horse, acquiring tbe habit of rushing away at the start at the very utmost limit of his speed, a fault very hard to cure, and one that will prevent the very gamest horse in the world from winning at a mile. We have seen him in races where the heats were paced in 2:12 or better go round the entire field on the outside of the track and reach the half in one minute or a second slower, wben if he could have been rated there was no question but a mark of 2:05 was within his reach. But he was spoiled and he will probably never be a race horse. That he is game no one who has watched him will deny. He came the last half of a mile at Napa two years ago in 1:02, after being two distances out at the quarter, and saved his distance. At Oakland last Saturday he won his first race, getting a mark of 2:19¼, though he had previously had a record of 2:21, made in the fourth heat of a race at Stockton after finishing second three times in 2:14 or thereabouts. On the same day tbat he won his first race, a three-year-old daugbter, Dictatress, paced a mile in 2:18¼, winning first money.

DICTATUS 2:19 1-4

THE MOST FASHIONABLY-BRED STALLION IN CALIFORNIA

Dictatus is such a grandly-bred horse that he cannot help being a great sire. He is by the great Red Wilkes, sire of 138 in the 2:30 list. His dam is Miss Lollie by Dictator; second dam Gold Pen, by Mambrino Abdallah; third dam a daughter of Harold; fourth dam by Mambrino Patchen; fifth dam by Snowstorm.

His bloodlines are marvelously rich in trotting trains. He traces five times to Hambletonian 10, twice to Mambrino Patchen, the greatest of broodmare sires; three times to Mambrino Chief 11, and twenty-seven times tc imp. Messenger. He is a good individual, and one of the biggest little borses ever seen on a race track. Standing 15.2 hands high he will weigh over 1100 pounds, and is certainly all horse. His foals, but two or three of which are four years old, are all good lookers. With his breeding and speed he should be at the bead of some first-class stock farm, and if he should secure such a place, his fame as a sire will follow.

INTO THE 2:20 LIST.

Many Horese Have Lowered Their Records Since the Breedere Meeting Began.

During the four days which have elapsed at this writing (Friday morning) since the opening of the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders Association Saturday, June 25th, the following horses have either lowered their records or gone into the standard list from the green class. It will be noticed that no less than four trotters and five pacers heretofore without records have, with two exceptions, gone into the 2:20 list at the first attempt. One of these exceptions, the three-year-old "Who Is It," was not required to, as he won his race without being extended, and when 2:20 speed is necessary to win be will be found ready to deliver the goods. We give below the names of all horses that have reduced their records or acquired new ones at this meeting up to and including Thursday's races:

JOHN BRIGHT'S GREAT RACE.

Sir Dixon'e Son Defeats Pink Coat and Han d'Or at Chicego.

At Latonia Thursday of this week, Talbott Brothers' great colt John Bright defeated the Derby winners Pink Coat and Han d'Or in the Himyar Stakes, running the mile and an eighth in 1:53½ and winning by four lengths from Han d'Or with Pink Coat third. These tbree were the only starters. Pink Coat was the first away, but at the quarter pole Han d'Or took the lead and set a killing pace for Pink Coat and John Bright. After passing the half-mile post John Bright took second place away from Pink Coat and then Matthews sent him after Han d'Or. Turning into the stretch he shot by Han d'Or like a ghost and was soon two lengths to the good. Conley on Han d'Or and Martin on Pink Coat put their mounts under the whip, but they could not catch John Bright, who won easily by four lengths. Han d'Or got the place from Pink Coat after a fierce drive. The value of the stake to tbe winner is $5,500.

John Bright is by Sir Dixon, son of imp. Billet and Jacomet, by imp. Leamington. His dam is Brightlight, by Hindoo: second dam, Delight, by Jack Malone; third dam, Vesperlight, by Cbilde Harold; fourth dam, Budelight, by imp. Glencoe; fiftb dam, Gaslight, by imp. Leviathan, and so on back to the eleventh dam, Miss Windsor, by the Godolphin Arabian.

At Washington Park, Chicago, St. Calatine won the Englewood Stakes Thursday, beating Miss Gussie and Uarda, while Mr. Corrigan's Sardonic, winner of the Latonia Oaks, was fourth. The mile was run in 1:40¾. The value of the stake to tbe winner is $2,320. The same day Sutton finished second to Cherry Leaf, a mile and fifty yards in 1:43¾, and in the last race of the day Hohenzollern was second to Natbanson at tbe same distance and in exactly the same time.

THE great running meeting at Butte, Montana, opens to-day. The outlook for a big attendance is good and many high-class horses from the East as well as California are entered in the stakes and purses. After nearly one month at Butte the horses will then go to Anaconda for another month of racing under the same management.

DENVER'S GREAT MEETING.

One of the greatest meetiags ever held west of the Missisippi closed at Denver, Colorado last Saturday in e blaze of glory. Not only was the fastest race of the year pased there, bnt the fastest ever paced in the far west. Chehalis, the black cyclone of the north, son of Altamont and the great Tecora, was the winner and reduced his record to 2:05½, enc was compelled to do this by Anaconda, the bay son of Knight and a danghter of Algona, bred by J. B Haggin of Rancho del Paso. Anaconda was lapped on Chehalis every heat. The Denver meeting has been almost an uninterupted series of victories for California-bred horses, snd many of them secured low records. Following is a list of the principal California and Oregon horses that got new marks et the Denver meeting:

Chehalis	2:05¼	Stamboulette	2:14¼
Anaconda	2:07	Geo. W. McKinney	2:14½
Raymond M	2:09¼	Hazel Kinney	2:15½
Miss Logan	2:12¼	Fannie Putnam	2:16¼
Klatawa	2:14	You Bet	2:17½

Among the principal winners of barness horse pnrses at the meeting are the following. The figures given are after deducting the money paid in entrance fees, and shows what each received net. It will be seen that the Californians lead by far.

T E. Keating	950
McDowell & Wise	675
G. R Sanders	600
E. A. Colburn	150
W. J. Harris	276
Kountz & Barnes	276
A. Hayward	300
Lewis Peterson	300
Dr. Boucher	275

Among the rnnners California is also to the front, genial By Holly winning more than twice as mnch as any other owner. Those winning over $200 are as follows:

B. C. Holly	$1,380
Weaver & Co	675
W. P. Dingley	820
Fred T. Wood	530
Frank McMahon	725
E. Lanigan	770
Roland & Maley	475
Joe Kern	276
William J. Sullivan	145
J. M. Lybrand	300
Fred Kraft	276

The principal race of the meeting was the free-for-all pece, which came off last Saturday. An account of it follows:

The warming up of the pacers was watched with interest. As each horse appsared his good points were seen and commented on. Anaconda was the only one in the race that was not accoutered with hopple gear. The start was straggling, with Kate Medium back a length. At the quarter Anaconda and Chehalis were in a lively contest for first. Carbonate was third and Ophelia fourth. Chehalis moved up at the three eighths with that peculiar pacing jump that gains for him at every stride, but is called a break by the judges. He settled down to business, pacing steadily as soon as he was ahead, and at the half had a length and a half the best of it. Carbonate was two lengths further back. At the three-quarters Kate Medium had crawled up on the three leaders and when Carbonate made a burst in the stretch Kate followed nim closely. Through the stretch it was Chehalis and Anaconda almost neck and neck, the black getting under the wire one-half length in the lead. The time, 2:05½, cut the track record from 2:09½, and cut Chehalis' record from 2:07½. It was also the fastest heat ever paced in the month of June.

Kate Medinm also got the worst of the start in the second heat. The odds in the betting had remained the same on all but Chehalis, who had advanced to 1 to 10. Patrols had been sent about the track to watch the actions of Chehalis, It belng charged he was running half his miles. One of these was at a point near the quarter mile post. When Kate Medinm saw him she went off her feet and Judge Colburn was nnable to get her down again, the result being she was distanced. The heat was another test between Chehalis and Anaconda, the latter coming like a whirlwind at the wire, but missed getting in by a scant nose. Chehalis was set back to third place for running, and Medium was distanced. Judge Colburn protested the diitancing of his mare on the ground that I was an officer of the association who frighteoed her into a run. The judges decided to let her start again. At this Keating, Frazier and Wallace declared they would not [illegible]. The decision was against the rules and they would not submit to it. The rules plainly state that only in a case of accident to e distenced horse or his sulky can he be allowed to start again. To settle the tronble Judge Colburn withdrew his mere.

When the horses were brought ont for the third heat it wes discovered that Carbonate's red, Chehalis' blne and Anaconda's white were the national colors. The heat was e second exposition by Chehalis of how to hreak end keep a steady head. The judges did not see as much breaking as in the former heat end let it stand as paced ont. It wae another match race between the Californian and the black, Chehalis getting it by a head. The last heat went as the third had, with the exception that Frazier took Chehalis two lengtha to the lead and held him there throughout the mile. The black paced every foot of this heat and paced it cleanly. The average time of the four heets was 2:06¾, in itself e feat worthy of eny meeting late in the fall.

Racee at Honolulu.

Down at the Hawaiian Island a race meeting was held on the 11th of last month, that was nnique in its character. It was given by the Hawaiian Jockey Club and was a great snccess. A feature of the day which will interest horsemen here was a very long program of races, which began in the forenoon. At midday a recess of an hoor was taken, during which the large crowd of people dined at the clnb house or restanrants, or picnicked on the lawns. Racing was then rasnmed and continued until lata. Tha day was a perfect ona and the stands were crowded to their ntmost capacity. There were ten races on the card, some of them heats.

Tha pacing race between W. Wood, 2:07, Creole, 2:15, and Loupe, 2:09¼, was the attraction of the day. "Doc" Durfee drova Wood, and Harry Agnew was up behind Loupe. Wood won in two straight heats, tha best tima being 2:17, which lowers the island record four seconds. Loupe did not show up very well. Wood was a big favorite.

In a race for 2:25 trotters or pacers between Irish Lass, Violin and Flora G., the first named won in 2:17 1-5 and 2:22.

Tha winners of tha running races were: Half-mile dash, Vanns, in 0:49½; five-eighths dash, Royalist, 1:03; one mile dash, Antidote, 1:49½; six furlongs, Venns, 1:16, tha island record; three-fourths-mile dash, Antidote, 1:17; one-mila dash, Sympathetic's Last, 1:49; one and one-qnarter-mile dash, Sympathetic's Last, time not given in report. It will be seen that By Holly's old horse is doing pretty well on Hawaiian climate, as he was was able to win two races in ona day.

THE sons and danghtara of Red Wilkes are breeding on ramarkably well, and thair produce are proving game race winners and stylish drivers. Ha is already credited with 71 sons that bave sired performers with records of 2:30 or better, and his daughters hava already produced 75 that hava gained 2:30 honors. Red Wilkes has snch a ruggad constitution, and is a horsa of snch wonderful vitality, that it seems probable that he may liva to a greater aga than his sira Georga Wilkes (2:22), or his paternal grandsira, tha formar of which was 26 and tha latter 27 years old at tha tima of their deaths. Ha is proving ona of tha greatast and most prepotent hraedars of this ganeration.

JAMES DUSTIN is now at Winslow, Ma. Ha has procured a driver's licensa from tha National Trotting Association and will be seen in the sulky this year.

THE BREEDERS' MEETING.

Daeh System Pleaese the Public and Drawe Good Crowds—Excellent Racing, Faet Time, Good Management and Perfect Weather the Featuree of the Week.

Last Saturday afternoon when the horses were called up for the first race at the Oakland track, there were three or four thonsand people on the grounds. The grand stand was well filled, while the betting ring and the paddock were crowded with gentlemen who admira tha light harness horse and enjoy seeing him strain every nerva to trot or paca faster than his rivals. Tbree bookmakers were kept busy during the afternoon chalking up the odds and taking the money which was handed up to back opinions as to the capabilities of the various horsas. The day was almost perfect—the breeze a little too heavy for fast time, but just right for comfort. Never hefora in tha history of the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders Association has thera been better management of a meeting. Everything seemed to be working like a piece of machinery and there were nons of those tedions delays such as are too often seen on trotting tracks. The dash system of racing seemed to catch tha approval of the crowd at once. When the first heat had been trotted and won, for a moment thera was a feeling that they ought to go out again after a twenty minutes rest, but it was soon realized that the race was over and winning tickets were cashed in and an effort was made to get on tha next one.

In the judges stand were Directors A. H. Cohen, F. W. Covey and T. J. Crowley and Richard Ledgett acted as clerk of the scales. Across tha track T. M. Pearson, F. Vetter and Clarence Day held their watches and gave the official time.

In the first race thera were seven starters, Silver Queen, Joe Selby Ed Winship, Rect, Favor, Bertha R. and Mamia Riley. Ed Winship on tha strength of soma fast workouts was made the favorite at 3 to 2, Favor, a good looking son of Daley 2.15½, was nibbled at at 6 to 1, while 8 to 1 was offered hy the bookies against any of the others. After two ineffectual attempts to get away they were sent off to a straggling start, the favorite, though the pole horse, being four lengths behind. Joe Selby went to tha front immediately and maintained that position to the stretch, but hera Favor and Mamie Riley collared him and as ha had no speed left was compelled to take third position as they passed under the wire. The mila was made in 2:21¼.

Dictatns, that royally bred and fast son of Red Wilkes that in three years of campaigning had through bad luck and many other canses never succeeded in winning a race, and never hut one heat, was thought by the wise ones to have the chance of his life in the second race, and was backad from 3 to 1 down to even money. Fitz Aymon and Butcher Boy were next favored at 2 to 1, Cora S. 4 to 1, and Bess H. 6 to 1. The start was a good one and soon made, Cora S. shooting to the front when the word was given. Masten seemed to have more control over Dictatus than any driver that had previously handled him, and did not allow him to rush away to the half in a minnte or less, but dropped into second position until tha far turn was reached in 1:10 and then turned him loose. Dictatns was not up to a hrnsing race, however, and when Fitz Aymon challenged him in the stretch it took about all there was in the chestnut stallion to win ont in 2:19½. After a race or two more Dictatns should not be defeated in 2:15. His owner Clarence Day was congratulated on all sides on a final victory after years of disappointment.

In the third race, for three-year-olds of the three-minnte class, thera were four starters: Mr. A. O. Gurnett's Who Is It, a grey son of Nutwood Wilkes and Lassie Jean, and grandson of Lexington Belle, being such a strong favorite that 2 to 5 was the best the books would offer against him, Sybil S. was 4 to 1, Maud Murray 7 to 2, and California 3 to 1. It was a case of Who Is It first and tha rest nowhere, and he won as he pleased, Sybil S. being second. The mile was made in 2:24½, bnt the colt could bava done it in 2:20 or better.

There was a splendid field of fast ones in the 2:13 trot, consisting of Jack W., 2:12½, Galette, 2:12½, Mamie Griffin, 2:12¾, Monterey, 2:13¾, and Thompson, 2:15. Jack W. was made the favorite, selling in the auctions for as much as all the others in the field. In the books ha started at even money, hut was backed down to 1 to 2. Mamie Griffin went from even to 6 to 5, while Galetta was 2 to 1, and Monterey and Thompson were as good as 5 to 1 when the bell rang. It has always been a hard thing for Monterey, big strider as he is, to get around the first turn without breaking, bnt he did it this time, and Jack W. was the one that failed to maka the turn without leaving his feet. Pete Williams made a masterly driva with his stallion and took him right to the front. After that thera was not a horse in tha race able to head him and he came home two lengths ahead of Galetta, with the favorite in third position. Monterey reduced his record half a second, trotting tha mile in 2:13¼, which is certainly a good performance for tha first race of the year, and if nothing happens the son of Sydney and Hattie, by Commodore Belmont, should get a record below 2:10 this year.

The heat race, best two in threa, for 2:40 pacers, was the last on the program. Primrose was picked to win the first heat and was heavily played in the books at 2 to 1, I Direct being at 3 to 1 and tha others from 4 to as high as 20 to 1. I Direct, a typical son of Direct out of Francesca, by Almont, made a runaway race of it. Thare was nothing alsa in tha race that seamed to be in tha sama class with him, and ha led in hotb heats by ahont twanty lengths until eased up in tha stretch. His heats ware mada in 2:22½ and 2:18½, and ha can beat this time considerably. The only long scoring of tha day was at tha beginning of this race, and the horses cama down tha stretch fourteen times befora thay got away. Tha work of Mr. Havay was very good, howaver, in tha majority of his starts, and tha horses wara not at tha post as long as thay ganarally are at a running meeting. Following are the summaries:

SECOND—DAY—TUESDAY, JUNE 28.

While the large crowd of Saturday was not duplicated at the track Tuesday, there was a very fair attendance. The day was an ideal one, and the racing excellent. In the first race an accident occurred which resulted in that popular driver, Walter Maben, being thrown from his sulky and his right arm broken just above the wrist. It was but three years ago at Napa when Mr. Maben met with a somewhat similar accident and suffered the dislocation of his left shoulder. Then, as now, it was soon after the opening of the trotting season, and particularly unfortunate on that account. There was but one bone broken in this accident, and with care Walter will be able to drive his horses by the time the Los Angeles meeting takes place.

In the first race, which was for 2:30 pacers, there were eleven starters. I Direct, on the strength of his win the first day, was made favorite and well backed. After a few trials they were sent away to a fair start, Resort soon taking the lead, Primrose second and Dictatress third, with the others scattered out behind. They passed the quarter in 31¾ seconds. In going up the backstretch Resort broke and swerved, which caused Thompson, the driver of Primrose, to pull out to avoid a collision. The sulky wheel struck the fence and he was thrown out, but not hurt, while tha mara ran away in the lead of all the others. As Maben with Polo and Smith with Gaff Topsail came up to the place where Thompson lay on the ground, Gaff Topsail shied and the two sulkies collided, throwing Maben out with the result above stated, and another runaway was on. Of course there was a greater effort on the part of some to keep out of the way of the runaway than to win the race, but Kent kept Dictatress going and she finished in front of Lady Margaret after a hot drive through the stretch with I Direct third. The time was 2:18½, which mark she could have beaten. This is the first of the produce of Dictatus to get a record, and she goes inside the 2:20 list at that.

The second race was for pacers of the 2:19 class. There were six starters, bnt the race was between Fitz Aymon and Dictatus. The former got the verdict by a short half length after a whipping finish by both drivers through tha stretch. Time, 2:18¼, the same as the previous race.

Tedions scoring marred the effort of tha 2:17 trotters to get away, Geo. Washington causing most of the trouble, by repeatedly breaking just before reaching the wire. After eleven score downs they finally got off, Washington going to the front with Clay S. next. The race was between these two, and was an exciting one from the half-mile pole home, being a close contest all the way. Clay S. outlasted Washington who was somewhat lame, and came under the wire by a length in the good time of 2:14. Clay S. was well driven by Rodriguez and looks better this year than he ever did.

But four horses started in the 2:12 pace. Little Thorne, the Stockton pacer that took a record of 2:14¼ last year, was tha favorite and won with ease after allowing Plunkett to go to the half in 1:06½, where he broke and finished fourth. Little Thorne is a very sweet gaited fellow, going without hopples. He paced the mile in 2:13½.

The 2:40 trot, best two in three, was an easy thing for Rect, the son of Direct, 2:05½ and Lilly Stanley, 2:17½. Rect is the property of Mr. C. L. Griffith, and is gaited for a 2:10 trotter. Mamia Riley, a daughter of McKinney, got second money and Dexter D. third money. The time of the two heats was 2:16½ and 2:19¾. Following are the day's summaries:

THIRD DAY—WEDNESDAY, JUNE 29.

Wednesday was an off day for tha bookies as four out of five favorites won. Tha weather was delightful and some of tha contests so close that the racing was pronounced excellent aven though no very fast time was mada. In the race Little Miss was favorite at even money, Dr. J. being 7 to 2, Diamond 3 to 1 and the others from 8 to 20 to 1. Little Miss did not disappoint her backers, but they had a thrill when she broke just before reaching the quarter pole and fell back to fifth position. Webster got her to going, however and made a splendid drive. She trotted the middle half very fast and had them all beaten at the head of the stretch, winning handily in 2:17½.

Primrose was the favorite for the second race, and might have won had not the memory of her accident the day previous made her break at the spot where it occurred on the back stretch. Rex Alto then took command and won easily with Dictatress second and Primrose third. The time was 2:18¼.

Butcher Boy, the favorite, at 3 to 5, captured the special race for horses owned by members of the Golden Gate Park Driving Club. There were four starters and the Butcher rather outclassed the others, though there was a strong play on Ashton at 2 to 1. He won both heats handily, the best time being 2:18.

The 2:27 trot was an easy thing for Jib Albert, son of Albert W. and one of the handsomest horses in the State. He won all the way, and took a record of 2:17½, which he should lower considerably this season.

The special mile dash between Charles David, Lindo, Peanuts, Harry Ramon and Polo was the last race of the day. Charles David was played as though he had it already won at even money and 3 to 5. He won it very handily, although Peanuts was driven very wide and might have made a better showing. The summaries of the day's races are as follows:

FOURTH DAY—THURSDAY, JUNE 30.

There was good racing at the track on Thursday. The race between the free-for-all trotters was worth a long journey to see, and was not only close and exciting, but fast. Favorites were beaten in the majority of the races. The opening event of the day, the 2:30 trot, had five starters. Of these, Sable Francis, a daughter of Sable Wilkes, driven by James Sullivan, was the favorite at 3 to 2. Silver Queen and Ed Winship were at 3 to 1, and Forrest W. and Bertha R. could be played at 5 and 6 to 1. The start was a good one. Forest W. and Silver Queen both broke before reaching the quarter-pole, and failed to get with the others after that. Bertha R. went out into the lead and it looked for a time like her race, but Sullivan made his drive with Sable Francis, collared Bertha, and the latter, finding the pace too hot, went into the air, and Sable won easily in 2:23½, Bertha being second and Ed Winship a good third.

The free-for-all had but four starters—Ethel Downs, a favorite at 6 to 5, Aster next at 2 to 1, Monterey fairly well played at 3, and Galette at 5 to 1. At the start Bunch immediately sent Ethel to the front, closely pressed by Aster, who trotted as well as he ever did in his life. Going up the backstretch Aster got to Ethel's wheel, and around the far turn they were like a double team, and it seemed to be Aster's race. But suddenly Williams began driving Monterey, and though on the outside he gradually drew up even with the leaders and was passing them, but the big striding horse found his old trouble in negotiating a corner and broke disastrously. Williams was twenty lengths behind when he got his horse going again, but he made up lots of ground and finished third. The race between Downs and Aster was a pretty one down the stretch, but the daughter of Boodle was a little too speedy for Aster and she won by a length in 2:12½. It was a pretty race, and had Monterey kept his feet he would have reached the wire in about 2:12 and probably won.

From this on the favorites failed to win. In the 2:10 trot, mile heats best two in three, Mojava was selected by the wise ones to win, but the wheels of his head made faster revolutions than the wheels of the sulky he was hitched to and he finished outside the money. The winner turned up in Silver King, Pete Williams bay mare by Silver Bow. In the second heat she just equalled her former record of 2:20½. She was 12 to 1 before the first heat and after winning that 7 to 5 could be had against her chances of winning. Addison, the black son of James Madison was well liked and played heavily at 4 to 5 after the first heat but could not do the trick.

Old Plunkett struck a soft spot in the 2:14 pace and won it in 2:15. The Stockton wonder Little Thorne was almost a prohibitive favorite at 1 to 6, and few cared to play Plunket at 5 to 1 or Ketchum at 4ours. Little Thorne, like Mojave, was troubled with a hen in his bonnet,and could not be made to pace steadily. His disastrous break gave Plunket the race and though the talent was dumped, it was mostly in their minds as but little money was played on the race. The opinion has been expressed at the track that Little Thorne can beat Al Gregor, but he can never do it if he acts as he did Thursday.

The last race of the day was won by Iran Alto who had broken in the first heat and been distanced. He acted better this time. It was a race for named horses, and Brice McNeill, Nellie Bly and Uncle Johnny, the winner of second money in the heat race were the other horses to start. Brice McNeil was made the favorite with Uncle Johnny next in favor. This was a breaking race and was won by Iran Alto through his good acting. McNeil went to a disastrous break soon after leaving the wire and after getting square away and trotting fast managed to get up near enough to the others to profit by breaks of Nelly Bly and Uncle Johnny and get the place. Following are the summaries of the day.

Diablo Selected to Lead All Others.

Mr. L. E. Clement, a noted Eastern writer on harness horse matters, has selected Diablo, 2:09½, owned by William Murray of Pleasanton in this State, as the prospective greatest sire of trotters and pacers. Mr. Clements writes in the Rural World as follows:

"Mr. J. H. Wallace has selected Arion, 2:10½ at two years, as the great sire of trotters up to date, giving as his reason his immense speed as shown at two years with so little training as could have been given to him up to that time. Arion is located in the East, has unlimited wealth behind him, is now nine years of age, and has two in the list. Sired by Electioneer out of Manette, dam of Orfino, 2:18, out of Emblem, by Tattler. I would sooner trust Diablo, 2:09½, at four years, who is by Chas. Derby, a son of Strathmora, that is out of a daughter of Electioneer. At 14 years of age Derby is the sire of two trotters and five pacers and with records from 2:08½ to 2:25, and now easily one of the leading sires of the Pacific Coast. Arion and Diablo, both the same age, get the Pilot Jr. cross from the daughter of a son. Arion's doubling up in Nutwood from Miss Russell, but there Arion stops.

Alcantara was one of the best sons of George Wilkes, and he sired the dam of Diablo. The second dam was a producing daughter of Bayard, the third dam one of the greatest, if not the greatest, daughter of Mambrino Chief, and the fourth dam the dam of Rosalind, 2:21, the best daughter of Alexander's Abdallah. Strathmora was one of the greatest sons of Hambletonian. Charley Derby should easily lead Electioneer as a sire. He was longer and stronger brad. His five-year-old record of 2:20 shows he had the speed and his son Diablo I would expect to make a greater sire than Arion or any other horse I now think of. I am well aware that environment and opportunity have as much to do with the success of a sire as does the breeding, but I look to see superior breeding in this case overcome environment."

Mr. Murray will no doubt feel complimented that a writer of Mr. Clements' ability should select his horse as the coming great sire of light harness horses.

The Breeding of Miss Logan, 2:12 1-2.

At Denver, June 18th, Miss Logan, a pacing mare, bred, reared, trained and driven by Dr. A. W. Boucher of San Jose, won a race in straight heats, the time being 2:17¼, 2:12½ and 2:17. It is said by those who have seen this mare in her races and at her work that she is one of the fastest pacers that ever wore harness, and although she was afterwards defeated at the meeting when she met horses that could repeat in 2:14 and better, it was explained that she was out of condition and in fact had never been properly trained. To the half she can go like a streak of greased lightning, and it is on record that she got to the half in 1:01½ in the second heat of her winning race at Denver after pacing the first quarter in 32½ seconds, which shows that her second quarter was paced in 29 seconds, a 1:58 gait. Miss Logan is by Gen. Logan, 2:23¾, a son of Alex. Button, The Buttons all had speed, but were never noted as stayers, although a few of them won long drawn out races. Miss Logan's dam was a daughter of the thoroughbred horse Firetail, by Norfolk out of Fanny Howard, by imported Riddlesworth. The writer has a very distinct recollection that this horse Firetail was one of the fastest horses to tha half mila post that raced on California tracks in the early '70's. He was a bright chestnut, if we remember correctly, and had a way of carrying his bright red tail out behind when running which gained him his name. He ran in a race or two at the State Fair in 1872 or 1873, and would make a runaway race of it to the half, but would then begin to wave that "brilliant bright red hair" of his and be beaten off by the time he reached the stretch. Now with the Button and Firetail blood in her veins, Miss Logan should, by right of inheritance, have extreme speed, but we do not expect she will break the world's record at a mile, or win where heats are hotly contested and raced in 2:07 or better. Firetail was a thoroughbred and a fast one, but he could not go the route, and that sort of thoroughbred blood is not the proper foundation on which to build a family of long distance trotters or pacers.

A Coming Champion.

If no accidents happen him the bay three-year-old colt John A. McKerron, by Nutwood Wilkes, dam Ingar, by Director, should get a very low record in his eastern campaign this year. This colt was bred and is owned by Martin Carter, of Irvington, Cal., of the well-known firm of Carter Bros., and proprietor of the Nutwood Stock Farm. Nutwood Wilkes 2:16½, himself a handsome and fast trotter is proving a sire of early and extreme speed. His son Who Is It, that won the three-year-old race on the opening day of the Breeders meeting, getting a record of 2:24½ could have lowered that mark considerably had it been necessary as he simply jogged along ahead of his field. John A. McKerron was started in his two year old form four times. His first start was at Chico August 17, 1897, where he was second to Prince Ansel both heats in 2:22½ and 2:20½, being well up in each heat. One week later he again met the same field but was not right and only secured third money, but finished a good second in the last heat of the race in 2:25½. September 1st at Woodland, again with the same field of colts, which consisted of Prince Ansel, Dr. Frasse, Corinne Dillman and Lynhood, Prince Ansel led him a length in the first heat in 2:26, but John A. McKerron secured the next two in 2:24½ and 2:25½, getting his best record in that race. At Sacramento seven days leter he won the State Fair Stake for three year olds, Dr. Frasse and Prince Ansel being the contending horses. In his work this year, which was very limited, he showed some remarkable bursts of speed, and trotted a mile over the San Jose track in 2:18 before being shipped to Colorado. Tuesday June 21st he won the $500 purse for three-year-olds at Denver, jogging home in both heats in 2:25 In the second heat of this race his driver Wm. Cecil let him step along in the first half, going the first quarter in 34 seconds and the second in 31 seconds, reaching the half in 1.05 when the colt was pulled up and jogged in. John A. McKerron has repeatedly shown quarters in 30 seconds, and he stands an excellent chance of coming home this fall with the three-year-old colt record now held by Arion 2:10½. William Cecil has handled this colt admirably so far and has never overworked him. McKerron is a handsome bay about 15.3 and as will be seen by the pedigree tabulated below is bred to trot fast and far. His sire Nutwood Wilkes 2:16½,is a grandly bred horse,while his dam is by that game race horse and sire of champions Director, and his second dam a full sister to that game old trotter Gibraltar 2:22½, by Echo. With the speed, breeding and individuality which this colt possesses he should make a great sire of early and extreme speed and game race horses when his racing days are over. His pedigree is as follows:

- Nutwood Wilkes (2:16½)
  - Guy. Wilkes, 2:15¼ { Geo. Wilkes, 2:22 / Lady Bunker
  - Lida W., 2:18¼ ..... { Nutwood, 2:18¾ / Belle, by Geo. M. Patchen Jr., 2:27
- Ingar
  - Director, 2:17 { Dictator / Dolly
  - Annie Titus { Echo / Dem of Gibraltar, 2:22½

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—A letter received at Palo Alto from Dover, New Hampshire, states that Betonica (p), 2:10½, and Idolita (2), by Monaco, recently sold at auction by Palo Alto at Fasig's Blue Ribbon Sale, Cleveland, are working nicely. Betonica stepped a fifth heat in 2:17, and after his work wanted to kick the front door of his stall.

Idolita worked a mile in 2:32, last half in 1:12, last quarter in 34, last eighth in 15 seconds, a 2:08 gait. Pretty clever two-year-old for month of June. The people in that locality think he is a great youngster.

By Monaco, 2:19½, son of Electioneer: Lady Ellen bay colt, Lizzie bay colt, Jessie M. brown filly, Esther chestnut filly, Palatine brown filly, Sontag Mohawk grey filly, Cecil bay filly.

By Advertiser, 2:15½, son of Electioneer: Edith brown colt, Cressida, 2:18¾, black colt, Waxana bay colt, Ashby chestnut filly, Manetta brown filly, Clarian brown filly, Lady Nutwood chestnut filly, Rosemont chestnut filly.

By Dexter Prince: Perita chestnut colt, Carrie C. bay colt, Coral, 2:18½, bay colt, Idlemay bay filly, Liska bay filly.

By Azmoor, 2:20½: Elden brown colt, Marion bay colt, Sylla Barnes bay colt, Ahwaga bay colt, Nina B colt, Lauretta bay filly, Violet bay filly.

By Altivo, 2:18½, son of Electioneer: Wildmay bay colt, Lula Wilkes brown colt, Wildflower brown colt, Floweret bay colt, Sonoma black colt, Novelist bay colt, Orphina bay colt, Flower Girl bay filly, Lilly Thorn bay filly, Mary Osborne chestnut filly.

By Wildnut, son of Woodnut: Bell Bird bay colt, Maiden bay colt, Manzanita bay colt, Lady Agnes chestnut colt, Nellie Benton chestnut colt, Helena bay colt, Ladywell black filly, Loraneer bay filly, Palita bay filly, Ansalma bay filly, Sweet Rosa brown filly, Avena black filly.

By Hambletonian Wilkes: Maria bay colt, Bounibel, 2:17¾, bay colt.

By Boodle, 2:12½: Aris, 2:16¾, chestnut colt.

By Adhell, 2:23: Rowena, bay colt, Linnet, brown colt, Gertruda Russell, 2:23½, brown filly, Sweet Water (2), 2:26, brown filly, Sallie Benton, 2:17¾, brown filly, Athena, 2:16½, brown filly.

By Stephen, son of Advertiser: Ellen black colt.

By Boxwood, son of Nutwood: Etta B. chestnut filly.

The training stable at Palo Alto is now made up of twenty-four head of one, two and three year-olds and the four-year-old Morocco, by Electricity, dam Mana, by Piedmont.

In the breaking barn are twenty-one yearlings, being broke double and single. In the kindergarten are eighteen head of yearlings getting their first lessons.

RIO ALTO.

Sulky Notes.

THE meeting is a success.

ORBIN HICKOK is in New York for medical treatment.

BOOKBETTING on trotting and pacing races seems to please the public.

YOU BET is another McKinney to enter the list. He got a record of 2:17½ at Denver.

AZOTE has been suffering from lameness and has not been able to start at the meeting.

IF the Abbot, 2:11½, stays right he will be sent against the record of Alix, 2:03¾, in the fall.

FROM the looks of the Denver summaries, Tom Keating has about the best stable that ever went over the Rockies.

BERT SHELDON JR. has won 201 heats in 2:30 or better. Only Goldsmith Maid is credited with a greater number.

JOHN NOLAN, 2:14, is the fastest green trotter of the year. He is a son of Prodigal, 2:16, and took his record at Denver.

DAWNLIGHT, 2:23½, by Blue Dawn, dam Lady Horton, dam of Annie Stevens, 2:13¼, was shipped to Europe last week.

ONE of these fine days prices of horses will go up with a jump, and the reason will be that there will not be horses enough to "go round."

AFTER changing hands a number of times, the California trotting mare Visalia 2:12½ will be campaigned by John A. Davidson, Pittsburg, Pa.

FROM the manner in which Secretary Gocher is issuing licenses, it does not look as though the reinsmen had any objection to the new rule.

CHAS. DAVIN, the chestnut gelding that won the last race on Wednesday, surely ought to be fast. He is by Sidney, out of Nona Y., 2:25, by Admiral.

THE worlds records may not be broken this year at either gait, but it begins to look as though the 2:10 list at both gaits will be greatly enlarged before Christmas.

IRISH LASSIE, the bay pacing mare by St. Patrick, paced a mile in 2:17 at the Islands last month. She is considered about the best harness animal on the Island.

THE latest on the Eastern tracks is a Chinese driver. He has not yet taken out his license, but it is said intends to apply for one. He can't help but ride some fast miles as "the Chinese must go."

COMPLETE summaries of the Denver meeting which appear in the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN to-day will be appreciated by the horsemen at the track. This is the only list published by any paper in California, and was sent by our special correspondent.

THE probability is that Geo. W. McKinney is getting a little too much work for a young horse. He won three straight races in two weeks, some of them hotly contested and split heat affairs. It is no wonder he was beaten in his fourth race a few days after.

"BILLY" DURFEE has been seen in the sulky at the Oakland track several times during the meeting. If he will put spectacles on and get a few gray hairs in his head (not many) he will look so much like his father that people will be taking him for C. A. and calling him "McKinney."

REPORTS of Searchlights lameness have been handed about but a letter from Denver to the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN states that one day last week the great pacer worked a mile in 2:05½ apparently not all out, and the writer adds that no horse ever looked more fit than the handsome son of Darknight.

THERE are over forty trotting bred mares now at Oaklawn Farm, Illinois, being bred to the French Coach stallions there. The best individuals among them are by Nutwood, Young Jim, Republican, Strathmore and Herod, but there is not very much choice among them, all of them being what might be termed extra good individuals.

ANDY MCDOWELL was called down by the Judges at Denver last week. In a race where his mare Fanny Putnam started the horse Shecam won the first heat in 2:18½, and the judges thought Andy was not trying, so they declared all bets off and gave Andy a little talking to. He won the next three heats with Fanny Putnam easily, giving the mare a record of 2:16½.

NOT so long ago the Government contractors abandoned Colorado as a field wherein cavalry mounts could be procured to fill contracts and declared that suitable horses could not be found on the ranches of the State. Now comes the information that a breeder, by name John W. Springer, has sold direct to a purchasing agent of the Government, 250 horses for army use, the price being from $100 to $125 per head. The horses were got by Coach stallions from mares by standard-bred stallions out of native range mares.

SOME time between July 18 and Sept. 16 James A. Murphy's mare Emily, 2:11, will meet Margaret, 2:13½, in a match race for $2,500 a side. The money has been deposited with James Butler of New York, ex President of the Fleetwood Park, for two weeks, and arrangements for the match will be completed this week. The race, so far as Mr. Murphy is concerned, will serve partly to take the place of the Guinette, 2:05, John R. Gentry, 2:00½, $20,000 match which the death of the first named at Mr. Murphy's farm at Park Ridge declared off.

THE National and American Trotting Associations should bar all horses bearing the name of patent medicines or other articles, which are bestowed upon them for advertising purposes.

"Hobbs has a theory about the war." "What is it?" "He says it was intended to make the bicycle go to the rear end push the old-fashioned four-legged horse once more to the front."—Chicago Record.

KLAMATH in his exhibition race with Caryle Carne went to the three quarter pole in 1:35½, finishing the mile in a jog in 2:11¼. He looked as well as he ever did in his life and surely has all his old time speed.

BILLY GAINES, 2:18¾, by Allie Gaines, Bob Kneebs, 2:27¾, by Hershon, Lady Wilkes, 2: 6½, by Ellerslie Wilkes, Forrester, 2:22¼, by Belmont Forest, and Enderly, 2:29¾, by Victoria, have been shipped to Europe.

MR. E. D. WIGGINS of Washington, D C., owner of Martha Wilkes, 2:08, in her day the champion race mare of America, is in California on a short visit, and attended the Breeders meeting at Oakland this week.

DOLLIE MADISON, a gray mare by James Madison, started in the three-minute class at Mineola, Long Island, June 15th and won easily in straight heats, the best time being 2:31¼ This mare can trot in 2:20 when necessary.

GOV. BROWN, a Missouri horse, won first prize at a late horse show in England as the best horse shown of any breed. The horse was by Badger Sprague, and was well known in St. Louis, having won 17 premiums before he was sold to his English owner.

LIGHTNING splintered the three-quarter pole at the Readville, Mass, track, whereon was inscribed a statement that Star Pointer had turned that track in less than two minutes, and now the superstitions are wondering if it portends the smashing of the record this season.

JOHN P. GIBBS, a well known Eastern trainer of trotters, died at Bangor, Maine, June 15th. He owned Cephas, 2:11¼, and drove him in many races. Gibbs lost his health, sold Cephas for $4,000 to James Butler of New York, and retired to his home in Maine, where he resided until his death.

WE understand there are two yearling colts by Dictatos, one out of a mare by Nutwood 600, the other out of Aunty Wilkes, 2:22½, by Guy Wilkes, for sale in Alameda at very low prices. These youngsters ought to sell on their breeding alone, and we understand they are both very fine lookers.

LITTLE MISS, by Sidmore, took a record of 2:17½ and won her race after making a break on the first turn and falling back to last position forty lengths behind the leader. She is one of the sweetest-gaited trotters at Oakland, and is another good one brought out by J. M. Alviso's skillful handling.

FALROSE has been mated with sixty-eight mares in Yolo county this season. This is probably the heaviest season made by any horse in California this year. Falrosa is by Fallis, son of Electioneer out of Roseleaf, by Buccaneer, is a large bay horse, a good looker, and his produce are generally of good size and style.

JIB ALBERT, Mr. C. L. Griffith's bay gelding that won the 2:27 trot Wednesday in 2:17½; is as handsome a horse as has appeared on the track. He is a blood bay, large and grand looking, with a bold, resolute way of going that attracts attention at once. He won easily enough and should get a low mark this year. He is by Albert W. out of the dam of Flying Jib and is a pure-gaited trotter.

THE green trotter John Nolan, a son of Prodigal, 2:16, earned a mark of 2:14 at Denver. It is said that last year this horse started out a pacer and was extensively entered in stakes in Ed. Tipton's Montana circuit. When Dick Benson landed in Butte the young horse had shifted his gait to the trot, and Benson was unable to make him pace.

TWO of the winners on the opening day of the Breeders Meeting at Oakland carried the blood of that grand old race and broodmare Eagless, by imp. Glencoe. Who Is It, the grey three-year old colt by Nutwood Wilkes that took a record of 2:24½, has Eagless for his third dam, and I Direct, another three year-old that went inside the 2:20 list in his first race this season, has Eagless for his fifth dam.

LENA N. bled at the nose in her first race at Denver and was distanced in the third heat. Five days after when she started at the same place in the 2:12 pace, McDowell asked permission of the judges to go easy for the first two heats to see what effect the mishap of the previous week had had on his mare. He found she was all right and after allowing the others to split up the first four heats came on and won the next three as he pleased.

THE first new 2:10 performers of 1898 came to hand in the 2:12 pace at Denver in which race both Roberts and Raymond M. got records of 2:09¼. Roberts is a chestnut gelding, by Aragon, (brother to Pat Downing 2:13), son of Abe Downing, dam Zeta Zong, by Ned Forrest. Raymond M. is a black horse, by Thorndyke, a great grandson of Volunteer, out of Viola, by Alamasa, he by Alamosa, he by Alamo, son of Almont. Both are Colorado bred.

THE veil over her face which is worn by Little Miss was put on by her owner on account of her showing a disposition to break when small lumps of dirt were thrown in her face by a horse that was in front of her. He saw a statement in the columns of this paper that some drivers in the East had used an ordinary piece of mosquito bar netting over the face in cases of this kind with good results and tried it on his mare. She won the first time out with it.

SILKWOOD 2:07, it is announced, is in good form and will make a start at the Los Angeles fall meeting if nothing goes wrong. He will be taken up this week and worked with the idea of having him ready for the races in September.

IT is too bad to see that game old champion Bishop Hero being reced when he should be retired on a pension of good pasturage and idleness for the rest of his days. He is 15 years old and as game as he ever was, but he can't keep up with the horses of his class, no matter how hard he tries. He took the five mile record of 12:30¾ in 1893, and it has never since been equalled. He can still trot a mile close to his record of 2:21, but he should not be required to do so.

THE Santa Ana fall meeting will come off as heretofore announced, at least no official notice has been given to the contrary. The story that the meeting is likely to fall through, which has been current lately, is without foundation in fact. Quite a nice bunch of horses are in training at the Santa Ana track. There are some good ones among the number. Some of them, unless all signs fail in dry weather, will be heard from in good shape before the season closes.

AMONG the busy men at the Oakland track since the meeting opened is W. J. Kenney, the bike man. As a machinist Kenney has few equals and when it comes to putting a bike in order, making the wheels run true or repairing a bike that has been smashed up, Kenney has no superior. His place of business is at 531 Valencia street, in this city, where he buys and sells second hand sulkies and keeps them for rent. He can be found at the track every day during the meeting.

IN considering the adoption of the common remedy of indigo as a curative and general preventative for equine diseases, as has been recalled by many papers recently, horse owners should beware of making the awful mistake of thinking all bluing, as commonly used, is indigo, says an exchange. Many of the mixtures used in household purposes as bluing are dangerous compounds that would possibly cause the death of horses if placed in their drinking water. Genuine indigo, not common bluing, is the drug recommended.

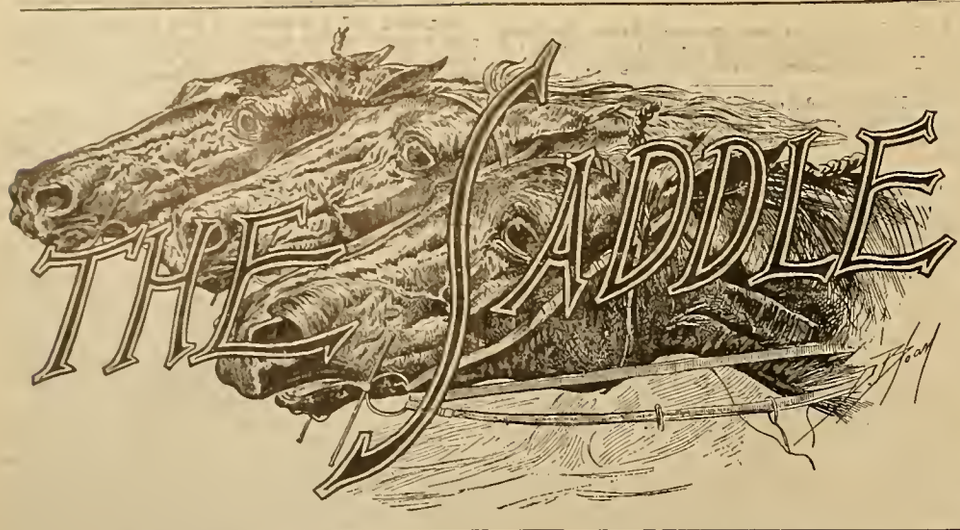
THIS is the way the Commercial Advertiser of Honolulu speaks of "Doc" Durfee who went down to the Islands to drive W. Woods and won with him, breaking the Island record: "A new candidate for honors as a race horse driver here made his bow at the park on Saturday. This was Mr. Durfee, son of the great American driver of the same name. The young man made his debut here behind the great horse W. Wood. Durfee is cool, skillful and a remarkably good judge of pace. For his debut he made the record of driving the fastest mile ever shown on the track here in a race."

PRIMROSE must have shown plenty of speed in her work, as a hot tip has been out on the mare every time she has started, but she has failed to land. She is very uncertain when it comes to a close contest and makes most disastrous breaks. Her best showing was in the race where she was run into the fence throwing her driver out. Had the accident not happened she might have won. The next day she went steadily enough in the lead until she reached the spot where the accident happened, when the remembrance of it again put her off her feet and she was out of it, though she finished third.

THE second payment of $50 has been made by the following California owners in the Horse Review $30,000 stake for foals of 1896. There are no further payments to be made this year on colts that do not start in the two-year-old division, but on all trotters that start for the $10 000 allowed two-year-olds $50 additional had to be paid yesterday. Palo Alto Stock Farm, b c Elegido and b f Alula, by Altivo, 2:18½, b f Asombrosa, by Azmoor, 2:20½, and b c Idolita, by Monaco, 2:19½; P. Power, Livermore, b f by Direct, 2:05½, dam Lady Dexter, by Dexter Prince; J. M. Alviso, Pleasanton, blk f by Direct, 2:05½, dam Rosita A., 2:14½.

MR. J. M. ALVISO has two foals from his mare Rosita A., 2:14¾, that was sent East and sold at Fasig's Blue Ribbon sale. One, a two-year-old filly by Direct, 2:05½, repeatedly paced quarters in 34 seconds over the Pleasanton track this spring with only three weeks' handling. The yearling colt, which is a son of Diablo, 2:09¼, was simply taught to wear a harness. The fifth time he ever had the harness on his back he was hooked to a bike and Mr. Alviso paced him an eighth in 20 seconds. Considering he had two good ones, and too good to take any chances of injuring while young, Alviso turned them out and will not work them any until next spring. They are both capable of great things if nothing happens them.

MAY OVERTON, late manager of the Hermitage Stud, Nashville, Tenn., is not out of the harness by any means, says the Horseman. He owns a beautiful farm across the turnpike from the property named and the chances are that next year he will have Bow Bells, 2:19½, shipped back there from Kentucky to be placed at the head of a small but select stud. Mr. W. W. Estill states that Bow Bells has covered fifty six mares this season and that 70 per cent. of them were already believed to be safely with foal. Mr. Estill also says that he has turned away more mares than had been booked to Bow Bells. He attributes the great popularity of the horse to the speed and campaigning ability of Boreal, 2:15¾, as a three-year-old, and Janie T., 2:14, as a two-year old. Bow Bells is Mr. Overton's individual property, the Hermitage stud never having owned an interest in him. Soon after buying Wedgewood, 2:19, for the Hermitage people, Mr. Overton visited Palo Alto for the purpose of buying a son of Electioneer for the company. He bought Candidate, by Electioneer, dam Nora (by Messenger Duroc) the grandam of Betonica, 2:10¼, mainly because the horse resembled his illustrious sire very much and because of the great speed shown in his trials. Bow Bells was then a suckling, and so pleased was Mr. Overton with the looks and breeding of the baby son of Electioneer and Beautiful Bells that he took the risk of buying him at the price of $5,000, intending, in the event of the company declining to share in the expense, to pay for him out of his own personal means. The company did refuse to put up for the colt, and thus Bow Bells became Mr Overton's individual property. Before the colt was shipped East to Te[illegible] Senator Stanford offered to give $25,000 on condi[illegible] the colt be allowed to remain his property.



THE AMERICAN DERBY.

Two weeks after winning the St. Louis Derby and defeating the speedy Plaudit and Bannockburn, Pink Coat, son of Leonatus and Alice Brand by Hindoo, captured the American Derby at Chicago with 127 lbs. on his back, the heaviest weight ever carried by a winner of that classic race. Warrenton, whose dam is also the great grandam of Pink Coat was only a nose behind.

Isabey secured third money, four lengths behind Warrenton. Mirthful, the 6-to 5 favorite, finished fourth, with the rest of the field strung out. The Derby was run over a slow track and a heavy wind was blowing up the stretch. Thirty thousand people witnessed the race.

At the start Warrenton showed half a length in front of Bannockburn, with Isabey and the others closely bunched. Eva Rice, with Tommy Burns in the saddle, shot to the front and set the pace, passing the stand the first time. Bannockburn and Mirthful were close up, while Martin on Pink Coat was last by several lengths.

After six furlongs had been covered Littlefield let down the favorite's head and he went to the front, running easily and opening up a gap of two lengths. Martin, in the meantime, had joined issues with the bunch and was overhauling the leaders one by one. Caywood was taking matters leisurely with Oliver's candidate, Warrenton, while Bannockburn seemed to have something left.

It was Mirthful all the way to the nine-furlong pole. Pink Coat, Warrenton and Isabey, who had been slow to get in motion, attending him. Martin called on his mount three furlongs from home and he drew away from the field, apparently an easy winner. Mirthful shut up like a clam when pinched, but Caywood made one of his stretch rides with Warrenton, and it was nip and tuck to the last sixteenth, Martin's riding landing his horse a winner.

Pink Coat inherits his racing qualities, for in his veins are the strains of the best blood of the American thoroughbred. He is owned by Woodford & Buckner, and is by Leonatus, out of Alice Brand. As a two-year-old Pink Coat started five times, winning twice, being third once and unplaced twice. His first appearance was in a purse race at Louisville at four and a half furlongs, and he defeated Sound Money, First Call, Rastus, and others, after making all the running in 0:56.

His last appearance as a two-year-old was at Cincinnati on July 10th, when in a purse race at five and a half furlongs he finished fifth. Malvolio won in 1:08¼ easily by a length. Previous to his start at St. Louis Pink Coat had only faced the flag once this season. This was at Harlem on June 1st, in a purse race at six furlongs. He carried 110 pounds, and beat Dave Waldo, Donna Rita, The Devil and others. He won in an impressive manner in 1:14¾. As will be seen by the tabulated pedigree which follows, his veins are full of the best sire lines according to the Lowe figure system. Following is a summary of the race:

American Derby, $10,000 added, one mile and a half—Pink Coat, 127 (W. Martin), 4 to 1 and 8 to 5, won; Warrenton, 122 (Caywood), 10 to 1 and 3 to 1, second; Isabey, 122 (Knapp), 4 to 1, third. Time, 2:42¾. Mirthful, Bannockburn, Midian and Eva Rice also ran.

The Dam of Young Emilius.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—The Turf, Field and Farm of June 10th contains a criticism of the suggestion that from my reading of the English Stud Book, Mr. Bruce and others in America appeared to have gotten the pedigree of the dam of Young Emilius wrong. The writer hereof believes in sustaining authenticated authorities, such as the English and American Stud Books, but when the authors thereof so mix up and confuse their work that their readers are honestly misled they are not justified in allowing their pedagogy to turn them into anger and abuse of honest criticism.

Even Mr. Bruce (and to him above all others are we indebted for the preservation and records of the pedigrees of American thoroughbreds) has made mistakes, such as his personal knowledge should have led him to avoid. Some he afterwards corrected, others he has not. Who would ever have suspected Mr. Bruce of making such an error as appears in the breeding of the dam of Zuleika, as given in Vol. 4, page 53, American Stud Book, which he corrected in Vol. 5, page 76. Imp. Prunella, by Comus, is properly recorded in Vol, 1, page 121, but in the "Index of mares arranged under their sires," Vol. 6, page 1180, we find "Belmont (by American Boy, out of Prunella, by imp. Glencoe)" which makes a very great change in the breeding of Prunella, but no person would think of accepting it as correct. That is not the way in which corrections are made, nor is that the place in a work of that character where any person would seek corrections.

An Index is nothing more or less than a ready reference to the contents of the book, and because some person in later years has revised and gotten out a new edition of a work, and made additions to its index, does not correct or change the text of the book. The proper course was pursued in the case of Zuleika. While I was right in relation to the breeding of Young Emilius—out of Cobweb—the suggestion that he was the sire of the dam of imp. Australian was undoubtedly wrong.

The Turf, Field and Farm critic is very inaccurate in his references. His first reference to Vol. 8, page 81, English Stud Book, is wrong. Emilia is not there, but can be found on page 135, as by Young Emilius. His second reference, page LXVII Vol. VII., is also wrong. She is not there, but will be found on page LXVI, Vol. VIII., of the index of mares under their sires. Again, his reference to Vol. IV., page 227, for Eric is wrong, but I find in Vol. IV., page 423, Shoveler, by Scud, and among her produce "Eric, by Emilius," and in the Index "Eric (now Young Emilius) 423. Not a word is there under Shoveler to indicate that she ever had a foal named Young Emilius, or to indicate that the name Eric was changed to Young Emilius.

The rule of the English Stud Book, when a change of name has been made, has been to note the same in the book, as is shown in the case of "Hackwood (afterwards Delpini)," by Highflyer, Vol. I., page 51, "Decoy Duck (afterwards Sharper), by Ranthos," Vol. I., page 205, "Rover (afterwards Tom Tug), by Herod," Vol I., page 105, and numerous other similar cases all through the work. I have found in Vol. V., page 248, English Stud Book, under Persian, by Whisker, among her produce, "1840, b f, Emilia, by Young Emilius (out of Shoveler)," and again in Vol. VI., page 150, a similar record. In addition to that is a note at the foot of page 514, of Vol. IV., under Xarife, by Moses, as follows: "Purchased for the French Government at the Hampton Court sale in 1837." Xerifa produced Juanita, by Lottery, and Juanita, bred to Young Emilius, out of Cobweb (sent to France in 1834), produced in 1844 a mare named Emilia (dam of Souvenir, sire of Lollypop), which shows quite conclusively that the Young Emilus out of Cobweb remained in France and could not have been the sire of the dam of imp. Australian. Instead of good-naturedly saying I was mistaken and showing wherein with his proofs, he resorted to quite the reverse. I am always willing to acknowledge when I am mistaken, and make amends as far as possible. I have now found and given the proofs which the critic of the Turf, Field and Farm failed to give. E. I. ROBINSON.

The Passing of Monmouth Park.

Another echo from the thoroughbred world worth comment is the report of the recent sale of the Monmouth Park race course for $40,000. Monmouth Park is at Long Branch and for years was one of the most popular and successful of the larger running tracks. Something like eight or ten years ago it was rebuilt on the most stupendous scale. There were three different courses. The outer circular one was of a mile and three-quarters; the inner circular one was of a mile and a half, and there was a straight course of a mile and three-eighths. The grand stand seated 10,000 people, and had a centilever "overheng" which sheded the lawn for 75 feet. The length, from one end to the other, of the grand and club stands was 1,100 feet, and there were seven acres of roofing area. Over 100 stands could be arranged in a crescent in the betting ring and leave "room to rent." There were boxes for 1,060 horses, and a harrow, to cover all three of the tracks, had to travel 87 miles. Even the superb Morris Park at Westchester, N. Y, was dwarfed by this colossal racing plant, besides which those in Europe shrink into insignificence. It was the realization of the dreams of David Dunham Withers—"the Nestor of the American turf"—and nothing else like it has ever been seen, before or since. It was opened with a flourish of trumpets in 1890, and its first season saw one world's record after another "go glimmering" over its wonderful straight course. On August 28th Salvator ran his world-famous mile in 1:35½ over it, and the seven furlongs which Bella B. won there in 1:23½ and Benquet's mile and a quarter in 2:03½ are two other marks that have never since been equaled.

But Monmouth's career was to be as brief as splendid. The merry-go-rounds at Clifton, Guttenberg—"the Gut"—Gloucester City, Dundee, etc, where from Jan. 1 to Dec. 31 the hideous burlesque of so-called "racing" was carried on through rain, hail, sleet, snow, ice, and all sorts of weather, day after day, month after month, year after year, had become a stigma on the moral status of the commonwealth of New Jersey against which it at last rose in rebellion and wiped out summarily by the passage of the most drastic anti-betting laws. It was the deathblow of running races in Jersey. The "merry-go-rounds" fell, and in their fall magnificent Monmouth, too, came crashing down. Never was the lesson of the degeneracy of the "sport of kings" so forcibly demonstrated—its absolute dependence on its gambling adjuncts so lastingly proven. Monmouth, apparently just at the threshold of a history of unprecedented brilliance, was closed. Its gates were nailed up, its spacious courses lay fallow, all its sweeping domain became, except for a few horses trained there, as forlorn and useless as the decayed, wooden elephant in "Les Miserables," in which the gamin Gavroche found a home. A year or so later Mr. Withers died and then its doom was sealed. The jockey club went into insolvency, and the property was advertised for sale by the sheriff of the county. Under one pretext or another a stay in proceedings was always had and it still lay intact until, a few weeks ago, it was sold to Martin R. Van Keuran, of Plainfield, N. J., once its track superintendent, who acquired for $40,000—less than a third the cost of the grand stand alone—title to the entire property, sixty-six acres of ground, with tracks, buildings and all appurtenances.

What the future of Monmouth will be no man may say. Whether it will become dismantled or become merely a memory, its history a melancholy chapter in the annals of the "game," or whether it will be kept up awaiting a possible future day when its old glories may once more revive, only time to come may record. But there is little hope of the latter contingency. New Jersey has never regretted, nor shown any disposition, to rescind her anti betting laws. Trotting still makes some headway in the State. Last year there were fourteen meetings there at which standard time was made. But running is dead, and even the hope of its renaiscense is remote—"Volunteer" in Horse Review.

Answers to Correspondents.

A. J. N., Oregon.—[I note from the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN of June 18th that the gray mare Leora has been mated with Captive, and as Leora was bred and raised in Lakeview, we would be pleased to have you give the breeding and best performance of the horse with which she is mated.] Answer—Captive is a chestnut horse, foaled in 1893, by Strathmore—Black Maria, by imp. Bonnie Scotland, second dam Planchette, by Dick Brown, third dam Odd Trick by Lexington, fourth dam Little Trick, by Priam, fifth dam by imp. Bluster, etc. Captive started seventeen times as a two-year-old, winning 6 races, having 7 seconds, 2 thirds, and was unplaced but twice. In his three-year-old form he faced the starter 42 times, being first 15 times, second 12 times, third 9 times and was unplaced in 6 of his races. At Latonia in July of that year he defeated Howerd Mann, Lobengula and other good ones at a mile and an eighth by two lengths in 1:55¼. August first on the same track he won the Cincinnati Hotel Handicap, one mile and a quarter. He captured the September Stakes at Coney Island, one and three-eighths of a mile, carrying 102 pounds and defeating Requittel and Casette. December 4th, at Ingleside he defeated 'Ostler Joe and Fred Gardner easily a mile and an eighth in 1:56 with 107 pounds up. Three days afterwards at the same distance and carrying 109 pounds, he defeated Installator Semper Lex, Grady, Kamsin, Little Cripple, The Dragon and Rey del Bandidos. This was probably his best race as he ran the distance in 1:55 at that time the track record. He started but a few times in 1897 and but once this year.

C. J. R., Soleded—Will you inform me whether Maggie O., by Shannon, is recorded or not, and whether I could have a young stallion foaled in 1892 by imported Brutus out of Maggie O. registered and what the fee would be? Answer—Maggie O., by Shannon, is recorded in Vol. VI of the American Stud Book. It will cost you $2 to register your horse in the Stud Book. To register with "The Jockey Club," and race horses over Eastern tracks one has to register foals by November 1st of the year they are foaled. If this is not done, in order to race over their tracks you will have to pay a fee of $2, and $50 fine additional. Address Jas. E. Wheeler, Registrar, 173 Fifth avenue, New York.

Does More Than Claimed.

WALCOTT, Ind., March 23, 1896.

The bottle of Gombault's Caustic Balsam just received, for which accept thanks. Yes, you have my consent to publish my letter to you in regard to the merits of the Balsam. It is all and more than you claim for it. I had no ax to grind in speaking so highly of it. I have used it many times and know whereof I speak. It is a grand medicine.

CHAS. E. ROSS.

Saddle Notes.

COL. JACK CHINN is said to be doing some excellent starting at Latonia.

THE twin foals at the Spreckals ranch by Eolo, dam Irena E., are getting along famously.

NINETY per cent of the money wagered on the Suburban by the public remained with the book-makers.

PAT REGAN acted as starter of the runners on the last day of the Denver meeting and got his field away in good shape.

TOM GREEN'S Flaischmann, who enjoys the distinction of having taken Ornament's measure, has hopelessly broken down at Cincinnati,

THE Santa Bella colt, by Ormonde, is a most promising-looking youngster, according to experts who have recently visited the Macdonough ranch.

JOCKEY DERBY was about the best boy at the Denver meeting. The fact that he rode to win every time made his mount the favorite every time he started.

AT Chicago last Monday Ballicoso won a mile race in 1:41¾, St. Catalina won at six furlongs in 1:14¾, while Olinthus was second to Ailyar, four furlongs in 0:49¾.

THERE were as high as ten thousand people at the Denver track on one day of the meeting. The grand stand was crowded by ellowing the ladies to enter the gates free.

IT is probable, says Centaur in the N. Y. Advertiser, that the starting machine now in use at Sheepshead Bay will be discarded entirely and that the startar will rely entirely upon his flag.

ACCORDING to the Denver papers, the race track tout was the only drawback to the meeting held there. The tout is a nuisance wherever he is. He should be abolished from every track in America.

WILLIE BEAUCHAMP, who has been riding in great form this year and has ranked among the leading Western jockeys this season, has left Latonia for Butte, Mont., where he will ride for Mr. Marcus Daly.

EX-SECRETARY W. C. WHITNEY has purchased of Arthur White the three-year-old chestnut filly Gaisha, by Iroquois, dam Treda Wind, by imp. Great Tom, for $5000. Geisha is a high-class filly and a valuable acquisition to Mr. Whitney's stable.

THE field, to which the admission charge is 50 cents, is so popular that the Coney Island Jockey Club has decided to double the size of its field stand and to roof it over. The new field stand will be ready for the autumn meeting at Sheepshead Bay.

JEAN BERAUD with Tod Sloan up and carrying 127 pounds and at odds of 2 to 5, won the $20,000 Great Trials Stakes at Sheepshead Bay last Saturday. He won very easily, beating Kingdom four lengths. Mr. Phinizy got third place. Time, 1:13.

THE three race tracks of the Keystone Racing Association located at Iron Hill, near Elkton, Md., are advertised at a sheriff's sale. Since the passage of the anti-racing act at the last session of the Maryland Legislature racing has been discontinued at these tracks.

THE 123 Rancho del Paso yearlings sold in New York brought a total of $62,925, an average of $511.72. The sixty-three McGrathiana and Runnymede yearlings sold Monday night brought $55,725, an average of $884.33. The seventeen Hanovers averaged $1,325.

SARDONIO, Mr. Corrigan's good Morello filly, annexed the Latonia Oaks, worth $4,900 to the winner, last Saturday. Loonia Clayton piloted her to victory at 109 pounds. Her Favor was second and Martha H. third. Time, 2:14½. The distance is one and a quarter miles.

CHARLIE BOOTS was in a heap of anxiety over his colt Borgia at Chicago last week. It seems that on Tuesday, June 21st, a slight swelling was discovered on the right fore ankle. Not much was thought of it, but after his gallop on Wednesday the swelling increased greatly, and it was evident that the son of Brutus had a slight sprain. He did not walk very lame, and next morning was better. He did not start in the American Derby, however.

THE Sheepshead Bay Handicap at one mile was won by Sampar Ego 116 (Taral) last Saturday. The mile was run in 1:42. Semper Ego won by three lengths. Domitor was second and Tragedian third.

J. STORY CURTIS is the last horseman to invade England with a string. He left New York on the Manitoba Saturday, with Method, a full brother to Ornament, Knight of the Rosa, a full brother of The Huguenot, and several others.

STARTER JAMES B. FERGUSON has lost his noted broodmare Encora, she dying a few days ago. Encora was the dam of Ed Corrigan's flying mare Helter Skelter, Phil Dwyer and other good performers. She was foaled in England in 1879, and was by Cymbal—Gratitude.

METHOD (brother to Ornament), b c, by imp. Order, dam Victorine; Knight of the Rosa (brother to Henry of Navarra and The Huguenot), ch c, by Knight of Ellerslie, dam Moss Rosa, the property of J. S. Curtis, with several others, were shipped to England on the steamer Manitoba, Saturday, June 18th.

JOHN BIELENBERG has a new stallion at the head of his thoroughbred farm at Dear Lodge, Montana. It is a handsome four-year-old colt by Favordala. The colt is at present called Favordala Jr., but would have been named Admiral Dewey only some one else got in ahead of Mr. Bielenberg. Eolian, the predecessor of Favordala Jr., is dead.

MR. FOXHALL KEENE is so impressed with the yearling Dominos, the first crop of their sire, that he has decided not to sell any of them this season, but to reserve them for the racing stable of his father and himself. There are fourteen of the Domino's, and individuality and breeding considered are one of the most valuable bunch of yearlings of the year in America.

CAYWOOD, who is riding in better form that ever before, heads the winning jockeys at Harlem with twenty-six wins, followed by Clawson, twenty-two; H. Martin, sixteen; Rutter, fourteen, and Turner, ten. Rutter, a light weight, has come to the front pretty rapidly, as he has not been long in the riding business. Harlem has more than its share of real capable jockeys.

FRED MULHOLLAND acted as one of the judges at the Denver meeting. In a race in which Bill Howard was a starter and clearly outclassed his field Mulholland called up Dingley, the jockey, and told him that unless he made an effort to win he would not ride any more during the season. Bill Howard was 2 to 1 in the books before the conversation took place and soon afterwards was an odds-on favorite. He won by a block.

THE fifteenth annual sale of the Dixiana thoroughbred yearlings attracted a big crowd of horsemen to Sheepshead Bay Thursday, June 23d. The sensation of the auction was the purchase by J. E. Maddan of the filly by imported Masetto—The Sweepar for $5,000. Jack Joiner also ran into four figures to secure the Himyar—Lady Agnes colt. Her knock-down price was $2,200. The thirteen head brought $11,575, an average of $890 per head.

AMONG the answers sent to the London Sportsman in the prize contest in the selection of the best stallion to mate to Perdita II. (dam of Persimmon is the following: "13, Caecilian Kloster, Cologna, March 7, 1898. Sir:—As the most suitable mate in the world for Perdita II., I chose that successful American sire Ornament, whose sire is out of Angelica, own sister to St Simon, and whose pedigree contains the best sire figures. Yours, &c, H. GRAY."

DOCTOR HASBROUCK, the great turf performer, now located as premier sire at Jos. D. Lucas' Goodwood farm, has his first crop of yearlings this spring. Owner Lucas will sell these yearlings, as well as the get of his other stallions, Donald A., imp. Ahana, Buckmaster, etc., through the Eastern Company, of New York, at Brighton Beach race track, on the 6th of July next. There will be great interest felt in these yearlings on account of the superlative merit of their sire as a great race horse, with both speed and weight carrying capacity as well.

ONE hundred and twenty-three Rancho del Paso yearlings brought $62,725, an average of $511.72 at the sale in New York. The highest price was paid by C. Fleishmann & Co, who bid $3,550 for the black colt by Hanover out of Raclare. Burns & Waterhouse were heavy buyers, twelve going to their bids. They were all colts and the sons of imp. Artillery—Bedotte, imp. Prestonpans—imp. Beeswing, imp. Joly—Blithesome, Nomad—Canta, imp. Golden Garter—imp. Fusee, imp. Golden Garter—Gnila, imp. Goldfinch—Lydia, imp. Midlothian—Loleta, imp. Goldan Garter—Martini.

A MOVEMENT is on foot among some dissatisfied owners to get up a new racing association on the co-operative plan, writes "Centaur" in N. Y. Advertiser. The outlook for the new movement is hardly brilliant, and it is doubtful whether it will even get as far as the late lamented Horseman's Protected Association did on its stormy passage toward sensible public and professional recognition. The Socialistic aspect of the movement is against it. Then, horsemen as a rule are apt to squabble among themselves, and that disposition will prevent the cohesiveness without which a large co-operative enterprise such as that suggested could not maintain itself. In the third place, it would be difficult to obtain competent men, in whom the public had confidence, to manage the affairs of such an organization. Finally, the Jockey Club would not assign dates, and it would not receive the indorsement of the State Racing Commission. The object of the Percy-Gray law, under which we are now racing, and which has received the sanction of the Court of Appeals, was to diminish instead of increase the number of racing associations.

THE petition of Jockey Chevalier, of Little Pete fame, for reinstatement was again before the Turf Congress Committee recently but was not considered. The petition of Jockey Hall, who was ruled off at Nashville, was rejected. William McGuigan lodged complaint against John Schorr for abusing him at Memphis last April, in front of the judges' stand, after he had run up Sea Lion in a selling race. The Appeals Committee decided that it had no jurisdiction in the case, and said it should have been brought to the attention of the presiding judge of the track, Lewis M. Clark.

THE McGrathiana yearlings, property of Milton Young, and the Runnymede, property of Messrs. Clay & Woodford, were sold at the American Horse Exchange on Monday evening, June 20. A good attendance of turfmen was present, the bidding spirited and the prices good. The highest price of the sale was $6,100, paid by C. T. Patterson for the Lamplighter—Harebell colt from the McGrathiana collection. P. J. Dwyer paid $4,000 for the bay colt by Bramble, out of Semper Clara, from the Runnymede lot. The total amount for sixty three head was $55,725, an average of $384.52. The McGrathiana lot of forty-two brought $41,725, an average of $993.45, and the Runnymeda twenty-one brought $14,000, an average of $566.66.

SIX subscriptions are advertised to Isinglass, the fee being 300 guineas, which, to an American, seems certainly a most exorbitant demand for an untried horse. St. Frusquin's fee is 250 guineas. It seems that seven of the mares sent to Isinglass last season proved to be barren, which was grievous consummation after so heavy an outlay, the service fee seldom, if ever, being returned in England, nor is another service given the following year in such cases. This horse, however, had nineteen foals, including colts out of Jenny Howlett (dam of Chittaboh), St. Margurita (dam of Seabreeze), and Novitiata (dam of Marco), and fillies out of Reprieve, Satchel and Sweet Sauce (dam of Kirkconnel). There were also three foals which died.

AFTER Lonnie Clayton had got back to Cincinnati after riding Tillo to victory in the Suburban he said to a turf reporter: "It was a very nice race. The boys don't ride there like they do here. There is no reckless crowding of the course. The main thing in a big event is to get a good place and keep it. I was fourth to the half, then third or second on entering the stretch. I won by a good neck, but not so handily, for I was whipping. Probably had the race been of less importance I would have simply sat still. Tillo had a long stride and it doesn't do to let a long-striding horse let down in speed in a finish that is at all close, for it takes too long to reach top speed again. I believe Sempar Ego would have won with a stronger boy up. Ornament would have had a good chance with less weight.

THE horses Royal Lancer, Malody and Rose D'Or were ruled off all the tracks by the judges at Overland. Owners John Broyles and Fred Kraft and Jockey Guy Neal were ruled off at the same time. The reason was the hiding away and secreting of Royal Lancer after the last race Saturday evening. The race was a selling one and the Lancer won. After the race the price of Lancar was run $350 over the selling price, and he was bid in for the owner. A jockey supposed to be Neal was placed on the horse and could not be fonod yesterday. Kraft was implicated in the deal and was ruled off also, with his horses. The rulings of the Overland judges are good on all American association tracks and all associations working with them. The purses won by Lancer and Malody had not been paid by the track association and will be held for the defaulting over-price.—Denver News.

THE stockholders of the Hawthorne track are in a legal tangle in connection with the plant, writes Broadchurch. On application of John Brennock and James Burk, a temporary injunction was granted against Ed. Corrigan and others, restraining them from disposing of the club property, and the case will soon be heard on its merits. An application for a receiver was also made. Affairs in connection with the Hawthorne are a bit complicated, with a lot of bad feeling thrown in. Ed. Corrigan and his friends wish to have racing there in the late summer and fall, but it is possible the court proceedings may act in the nature of an estoppel, although it is said the chances are the other way. A decision will be reached pretty soon. Ed Corrigan is quoted as saying that if there is to be no racing at Hawthorne, there will not be racing at any other local track. My own opinion is the tangle will be unraveled in some way or other, a compromise effected, and that there will be racing at both Harlem and Hawthorne during the late summer and fall.

THE Board of Appeals of the American Turf Congress held a special meeting at Latonia Thursday, June 16. The most important matter for adjustment was the case of R. R. Rice & Co. vs. the New Memphis Jockey Club. The point of issue developed in connection with a selling race at the recent Memphis meeting out of which Rice & Co. claimed from Stanton & Tuckar the three-year-old filly Lady Irene. Rule 78 of the American Racing Rules prescribes that the full names of all persons in any wise interested in a horse must be given with the first entry made. When Rice & Co. first arrived at the Memphis track and gave to the Secretary the names of the horses in their string they at the same time registered the names of the members of the firm. After they claimed Lady Irene and took her, in accordance with the claiming clause of the Turf Congress rules. Stanton & Tucker protested the claim on the ground that they had failed to register the names of the members of the firm when they made their first entry. Presiding Judge Clark decided that the objection of Stanton & Tucker was well taken, and he thereupon ordered Rice & Co. to return Lady Irene. Rice & Co. then referred the matter to the Board of Appeals. That body on June 15 overruled Colonel Clark's decision. They decided that Rice & Co., in registering the names of the members of that firm on their arrivals at the track, prior to making any entries, had fully complied with the requirements of Rule 78, and that they had a right to claim Lady Irene and to keep her. In accordance with the decision of the Appeals Committee, Stanton & Tucker will be obliged to give up Lady Irene to Rice & Co., if they demand her the amount which, in accordance with the claiming rule they deposited at the time with the Secretary of the New Memphis Jockey Club.

THE BREEDERS MEETING.—When the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders Association announced its programme of dash races this year there were some who thought a great misteke had been made. In the Eastern States, where trotting and pecing races on the old three-in-five plen still draw crowds and pleese the public, there was not much favor given the new departure, bnt the Breeders, always a leading and progressive organization, went boldly forward. The entry list exceeded expectations, and now that the new order has been given a week's trial, the verdict of the public and the horsemen is that it is an improvement over the old methods. When everything is taken into consideration the meeting now in progress at the Oaklend track is one of the best ever held in Californie. It is an off year for this State. Crops are a total failure in some sections and a partial feilure in many. True, there are a few counties in California tbet heve raised better crops than usual this year, but they are very few. There are no district fairs to arouse the breeders of horses and other stock to the spirit of rivalry, and times are hard and money difficult to get. The war fills the minds of the people, and there are many thing to distract their attention from the sport of harness racing. But with all the adverse circumstances three thousand people went to Oakland on the opening day of the meeting and during the week the attendance has been fairy good. Among the horsemen who are at the meeting there is almost a unanimous opinion that dash races are preferable to three-in-five heat contests, and if the gate receipts were sufficient to permit the association to give $100 purses for them there is no doubt but more of California's best horses would stay in the State instead of journeying across the Rockies at great expense in the hope of winning greater sums than are hung up here. There have been many improvements in the manner of conducting the meeting. In the judges' stand there has been promptness and fair ruling. The timers are alert and the time by quarters is chalked in large, plain figures on a blackboard as soon as taken. The announcement of the first heat of horses is flashed instantly on the Harris annunciator, while "Jack's" announcement of results can be heard and understood by all. The racing has been good. Up to Thursday evening no less than ten horses had dropped into the 2:20 list, which we think has never before been done in four days' racing in America, while several others heve reduced their records materially. The Board of Directors and the Executive Committee of the P. C. T. H. B. A. are to be commended for the excellent manner in which they have maneged the meeting. It is proving a success, and this afternoon and Monday next will probably see immense crowds that will test the capecity of the grounds and grand stands. The Speed Committee is now at work arranging a program for the two weeks to follow the present meeting. The horse owners should make the entry list as large as possible as there will be no other meeting in California until the State Fair opens in September.

MORE HARM THAN GOOD.—Working for the good of horsemen and horse breeders is the duty of every journal devoted to those interests, but there has been a strong tendency on the part of some too enthusiastic editors to overdo the matter. If they hear that a hundred head of horses or mules are needed by a corporation or the government, the announcement is loudly made that the demand for the animals is booming and multiplying the true figures by ten, publish to the world that a thousand are needed at some stated point immediately, with the result that owners rush in with their stock only to find that the market is glutted and no chance in the world to dispose of them. We hold it to be the duty of every horse and stock journal to do every thing in its power to bring the buyer and seller together but it should be done without misrepresentations to either. To assure a breeder that there is a ready sale for everything he owns or can raise, or to attempt to foist on a buyer a lot of old skates only fit for the bone yard is criminal, and does more to injure the horse business than anything else. There is a demand for good horses and a growing one at that, but there is no sale for scrubs, and the man who breeds or tries to sell them finds his mistake whenever he reaches the market.

HORSES AND CATTLE WANTED.—There is at present in California a gentleman who has been sent here by the proprietors of a large plentation and stock farm in the Hawaiian Islands to purchase for them a number of head of well-bred stock. Among others, he desires to get a stout thoroughbred stallion for breeding purposes, but speed is no object, as it is not the intention to breed race horses. He also wants two good roadsters, one to be a pacing mare that can do a mile in 2:40, both to be reliable animals that a lady can drive. He also wants a saddle horse, a single-footer. In addition to these he will purchese thirty good mules and twenty-five young Aberdeen-Angus bulls and a few cows and heifers. Now, this gentleman is an expert and knows just what he wants. If he can find animals to suit he will be willing to pay a fair price. Any of our readers who have animals of the description set forth in his advertisement should address Faris & Spinks at Sacramento. The advertisement tells just what he wants.

CALIFORNIA HORSES are going to the front right along. Since the few stables left this State for the East last month winning brackets and reduced records have been the rule with both running and harness horses bred and raised in California. B. C. Holly heads the list of winning owners at the great Denver meeting, and the probabilities are that at Butte and Anaconda the biggest share of the purses will be won by horses bred or trained in this State. At the Denver and Omaha meetings Anaconda 2:07, Miss Logan 2:10¼, Stamboulette 2:12¼, George W. McKinney 2:14¼, Hazel Kinney 2:15½ and many others have added fame to this State as a horse breeding country and brought money to the purses of their owners. We are informed by a gentleman who has sold many horses in the East, that the simple name of California is a drawing card at any eastern horse auction, and if the breeders of this State are only careful to keep up the quality of their shipments the good name of California, as a producer of high class horses, will be maintained and the horse breeding business will suffer no loss.

THIS YEAR the French three-year-old trotters eligible to compete for purses offered by the Government and the Societe d'encouragement all have names beginning with the letter R. Last year the three-year-olds' names began with Q and the owners were hard pushed to find euphonious titles. This system makes it comparatively easy to determine the age of any prominent French trotter.

HERE are the conditions of a line of races that figure on French trotting programs: Prix Fuschia—Trotting to saddle, 3,000 francs ($600), for colts and fillies foaled and reared in France, three years old, trotted to seddle and not having won in France or abroad, a sum equel so 1,500 francs ($300)—1,600 francs and the entries to the winner; 800 francs to the second horse; 400 francs to the third and 200 francs to the fourth; entry fee 30 francs ($6); weights 60 kilograms (ebout 135 lbs.) distance, 3,200 metres (about 2 miles). Would it not be a good thing if some of our beaten trotters and pacers could have a similar chance?

THERE is scarcely an American hero from George Washington to George Dewey but hes enjoyed a horse race. Washington, Jefferson, Jackson, Grant, Sheridan, Shermen and hundreds of others that could be mentioned, always attended the races. W. C. Whitney, the man who did more than any other to build our present navy, owns both trotters and thoroughbreds, and Admiral Dewey, who has proven to the world that our navy is a first-class one, finds one of his greatest pleasures in witnessing a horse race. But not one of them ever visited a pool room.

IT MATTERS NOT, seid an observer, whether a horse that can speed a 2:40 gait, is strictly trotting bred or coach bred, if he has the size, style and is thoroughly broken he will command fancy prices. Only lest week a six-year-old gelding from Nebraska brought $750 at St. Louis, and yet he was out of a half-bred Clyde mare, and by a trotting-bred stallion that is not heard of ten miles from his stable door.

HAY is at an average price of $15 per ton throughout the Sacramento valley and it is not thought probable that the price will go any higher before the rains come and the grass grows again.

Lilly Stanley, 2:17 1-2, and Her Produce.

Rect, the black gelding that took a record of 2:16¼ et Oakland on Tuesday of this week, is a son of Lilly Stenley, 2:17½, now owned by the Santa Rosa Stock Farm in Sonoma county. Lilly Stanley is a handsome bay mare, bred by Coombs Bros. of Napa end sired by Whippleton 1883, dam Dolly, e mere brought to this State from the East, hut whose pedigree was never traced. Lilly Stanley was trained end driven by Wm. McGraw and won several hotly contested reces, but after getting a record of 2:17½ in 1888, received a severe sprain of the ankle when being taken off a train and was never afterwards fit to race, but had she not met with the accident could easily have teken a mark of 2:12 or better. Lilly Stanley was then hred to Director and foaled a bay colt that was called Rokeby. He was taken East in the Salisbury string and got a mark of 2:13¾ es a three-year-old, end Dr. Lathem, who wes East with Salisbnry that year informs us that he was much better. Bred to Direct Lilly Stanley produced Rect, that has just jumped into the list and placed his merk at 2:16¼. There is now at the Santa Rose Stock Farm a two-year-old by Direct, out of Lilly Stanley, that has been named On Stenley, and he is said by those who have seen him move to be one of the most promising youngsters in the State of California. He has been entered in the colt stakes et the State Fair end if he starts will surely give a good eccount of himself. Lilly Stanley has been hred to McKinney, 2:11¼, twice and has a very handsome yearling filly by this greet horse, elso a suckling colt by him. It is more then probahle thet Lilly Stanley, 2:17½, elready in the great broodmare list with two with low records, will hefore the year 1900 heve two more of his produce to enter the charmed circle.

Death of Nancy Lee.

Nancy Lee, the noted broodmare, is dead. She was foaled just twenty years ago this spring. If she had never produced anything but Nancy Hanks this would have been enough to have forever kept her name prominently before the horse world. But aside from the great Nancy she produced Dictator Wilkes, the Iowa sire that is giving us such a high-class lot of race horses. At death she was owned by J. Howard Supplee, Bryn Mawr, Pa., and was heavy in foal by Director, 2:17. She died suddenly with an acute case of colic. She looked really much older than she was. She was sired by the great Dictator and was out of Sophia, by Edwin Forest 49. Her second dam is Sophronia, by Parkers' Brown Pilot, son of Copperbottom. The next dam is by Bertrand and the fourth by Lence. There are several young things out of Nancy Lee by good horses which with work will render a good account of themselves and add greater fame to their illustrious dem. Nancy Lee was at one time owned in California, having been purchased in the East by Samuel Gamble for the late Mr. Hobart when that gentleman had one of the grandest collections of stallions and broodmares in the world at his San Mateo Stock Farm. She was taken East with the others and sold at the dispersal sale after Mr. Hobart's death.

For a New Classification.

A large attendance of members of the San Francisco Kennel Club were at the meeting on Wednesday evening last. The classification question was the main subject at issue, the result of discussion, etc., was the acceptance by the club of the following classification:

I.—The Puppy Class shall be for dogs over six months and under twelve months of age. No entry can be made or accepted of one under six months of age, or whose date of birth is unknown.

II.—The Novice Class shall be for dogs never having won first prize at any recognized show, wins in the puppy class excepted.

III.—The Open Class shall be for all dogs of any age over six months, except champions.

IV.—The Premier Class shall be for any dogs having won three first prizes in the open class at any recognized shows and four wins in this class shall constitute a champion.

N. B.—Wins in the Winners' Class of the present classification shall count as wins in the Premier Class.

In connection with the foregoing the following resolution was adopted:

WHEREAS, The classification, now in force by the American Kennel Club, is not satisfactory to the members of this club and

WHEREAS, We understand that it is also unsatisfactory to a majority of fanciers on this coast as well as elsewhere; and

WHEREAS, Said subject of classification will come up for discussion at the September meeting of the A. K. C., and

WHEREAS, We desire to have all the delegates from the Coast Clubs united and working in harmony at said A. K. C. meeting; therefore, be it

Resolved: That it is the sense of this club that a general meeting of delegates be called for Wednesday, July 27, 1898, and that all show clubs on this coast be requested to send two delegates, and all specialty clubs send one delegate to said meeting to discuss the classes as above set forth so that a classification may be presented to the A. K. C. satisfactory to all, and for the adoption of which all shall work unitedly to the end that the country clubs may have more support and that champion wins shall not be cheapened.

It is proposed to invite the co-operation of all show and specialty clubs in the United States in the settlement of this momentous question, the gentle breezes of which are now fluttering the wind-tattered sails of the patched and tinkered barque of Pacific Coast dogdom. That the good ship may point her bow-wows to a final haven of peace, rest and agreement is a consummation of good fortune that is to be devoutly wished. In canina circles, from the Alpha of the St. Bernard muzzle to the Omega of where the Schipperke's tail ought to was, expectation is rife and eager; the judgment and comment of the East on the new phase of the "Western muddle puddle" is awaited with some little curiosity.

Another Good One.

An addition to the coast St. Bernard ranks that will meet the approbation and well wishes of all earnest fanciers is the recent purchase from the Alta Kennels, Toledo, Ohio, by Mr. F. H. Bushnel of that grand brood bitch Challenge Melru Sylvia No. 38,180. This great St. Bernard was whelped March 17, 1895, by Champion Melrose, No. 21,772, out of Lady Sylvia No. 29,435. A record of her winnings in the East is as follows: Omaha, 1895, 1st in puppy class; Chicago, 1896, V. H. C., novice class, dogs and bitches; Grand Rapids, 1896, 1st in open class; St. Louis, 1697, reserve in open class; Chicago, 1897, 1st in open class, also St. Bernard Club medal; Louisville, 1897, 1st in open class; Pittsburg 1897, 2d in open class; Baltimore, 1897, 1st in open class; Minneapolis, 1897, 1st in challenge class; Milwaukee, 1897, 1st in challenge class, also special for best brood bitch.

The promising young English setter Queen's Dart (Queenie—Dart's Breeze) has recently been added to Mr. E V. Sullivan's kennels at Menlo Perk.

Mr. E. V. Sullivan recently presented a pair of elegant oil paintings of the greyhounds Fireball and Sem, to Chas. M. Fisher. The pictures have been handsomely framed and now adorn the wall of Fisher and Rusconi's place of business. Gentlemen who have seen them praise these works of art very highly.

We note in our kennel registry column this week some notable whelpings at the Merriwe Kennels. In the litter whelped by Wattlebloom to Twister, are 1 dark brindle dog, 2 black dogs, 2 dark brindle bitches, 2 light brindle bitches and 2 black bitches. In the litter whelped by Cermen to Weretah are 1 fawn dog, 1 fawn and white dog, 3 black and white dogs, 1 black dog and 4 fawn bitches.

We note that among the actors billed in the cast of Uncle Tom's Cabin (soon to be inflicted on one long suffering public through the medium of the California Theater) will be Chas. Dresser's three Great Dane dogs, Blinker Murphy, Orchard Trilby and Rebecca. They will bay the canvas moon glimmering over the southern bayou and pursue the terror stricken Eliza (whose only fear is that the ghost may not walk) and her saddle-colored kids across the frozen papier mache' river. Rebecca is supposed to look after Marks, as the letter individual is usually "physicky" and should be thrown to the dogs.

Coursing is booming again in Los Angeles. The temporary depression caused by a change in the management of the coursing park, has been overcome by reason of good judgment on the part of the intervening managers, who speedily found out that they did not understand the business and "got out from under." All lovers of the sport will be glad to learn that F. D. Black, who made coursing such a success, has again taken the park in hand. This means a good infield and quarters for the dogs, a band concert every coursing day for the ladies, a lunch counter where you can buy something to eat and a cafe where there will be something to drink. Mr. Black knows his business and is not afraid to spend money to make the game popular and keep it so.

To chronicle the death of two St. Bernards of national fame owned by one kennel, first Hellgate Defender then Duke Wadsworth, within a few weeks of each other is bad enough, but what will our St. Bernard fancy think of the climax to this extremely hard run of luck which comes with the news of the death of Ch. Le Prince. Mr. Gould's experience has been particularly distressing even for a veteran breeder, but to go through this trill like this at the very outset of one's "fancy" is a trial luckily that very few have had to bear. The mere money value of such a loss does not enter into this case, probably, but the fact that two at least of these dogs were right in the front rank, and one considered at the top of the tree as far as any competition he had met with, makes the situation more deplorable. These sort of dogs are not bred every day. Mr. Gould tells us that "Le Prince had been very well until a few days before his death, when he had a little eczema on his back. Dr. Sherwood cut away part of the skin, and he would probably have recovered had it not been for the very hot spell that we had, and he finally succumbed." That Mr. Gould is game is borne out by the following remark: "I feel that I have had my share of hard luck for this year and it is somewhat discouraging, but do not intend to give up. The others are doing very nicely, especially the young English bitch." The latter is a bitch Mr. Gould imported from England, Marvelcroft, a daughter of Duke of Florence, firsts and specials at Truro and Sheffield, only times exhibited. A rough bitch with the finest set of legs and bone we have seen on her sex, rich coloring, fine head and any amount of quality. She will make a name for herself. We are sure that the news of his latest loss will be received with the sincerest sympathy by Mr. Gould's fellow fanciers. The history of Ch. Le Prince is probably only too familiar to those interested in St. Bernards. But as a matter of record we may add that he was whelped in April, 1892, bred by Messrs. Smith & Baker, and was by Young Brute, out of Rustic Beauty, the latter imported by Mr. Reick and afterwards owned, until her death, by Mr. Pratt, from whom Mr. Gould purchased Le Prince and his sister La Princess. We believe Young Brute was also an inmate of Mr. Reick's kennel, and returned to England. Le Prince was imported by Mr. Pratt, first exhibited at New Orleans and then shown at New York in 1895, where he won, but going on to Detroit the next week he was beaten by American Cæsar under Mr. Mortimer, the decision going chiefly on condition. The next week at Chicago he retrieved his position and from that time has always been at the head of his class. In the articles on St. Barnerd type in these columns, Le Prince has come in for criticism on account of his length of head, but his magnificent depth and rich quality combined with all-round good form made him a dog of his breed, and served to pull him to the top. As has sired some good stock, having had lots of chances, chief among his get being Le Roi, now in Mr Gould's kennels, and Prince Sylvia, Le Comte and others, not to mention the good youngster belonging to Mr. O'Donnell and bred by Mr. Dudley Waters, that died recently. St. Bernard breeders have always been anxious to see Le Prince meet Sir Ethelwood, both had their friends, and in good condition they would have put up a competition worth going far to see. We do not believe Mr. Gould will exert himself to strengthen his kennels until after the warm weather. The loss of Le Prince is all the more deplorable in that the field of really good rough dogs is so limited.—The American Stock-Keeper.

Olympic Gun Club.

A disagreeable day and also e certain emount of indifference brought about by a surfeit of trap shooting within the last 6ve weeks caused e very small ettendance at the monthly shoot of the Olympic Gun Club at Ingleside last Sunday. The three high men in the medal shoot were Webb, twenty-6ve; Nauman, twenty-three, and Haigbt, twenty-two. The best possible score in this race, under the club handicaps, is twenty-five. Several shooters with the bandicap allowance exceeded the limit nnmber, as follows: F. Fendner, twenty-six out of thirty-one; "Edwards," twenty-seven out of thirty-three; N. H. Nenstadter, twenty-seven out of thirty-three; Owens, twenty-eight out of thirty-five; Hynes, twenty-seven out of thirty-6ve. The handicaps and summary of scores was as follows:

The Shoot at Suisun.

The live-bird end blue-rock tournament given in Suisun, Sunday, June 19th, by the members of the Suisun Gun Club attracted a large number of visitors. The day was en ideel one for shooting end some excellent scores were made. Quite a number of "crack shots" took pert in the contests, among whom were H. Stellings, the femous trep-shot of Yolo county, H. Peters end Henry A. Bassford, the veteren sbooter of Vscaville, T. Pickett and Charles Reems, top notchers of the Napa Gun Club, Otto Feudner of the Olympic Gun Club, Sen Frencisco, was elso present, but he did not enter any of the contests. In the efternoon he gave an exhibition shoot whicn greatly interested a large number of spectetors. His clever skill end unerring aim elicited much appleuse. Some of the "locel cracks" were distinctively in evidence as testified by the score list.

The prettiest string of the day wes mede by T. Pickett, only three birds out of ten calling for the use of the second barrel. Stellings also mede e string of ten straight. H. Perkins heeded the list in Event No. 2, and grassed nine out of ten birds. In the blue-rock contest John A. Wilson was the most successful competitor, bis shooting being unusually good. The tournament commenced at 10 A. M. and lasted until 6 P. M. Although the thermometer was high, a balmy breezs prevailed during the afternoon and made it pleesant for those in attendance. Ahout eighty dozsn pigeons were used in the different matches, which followed each other in lively and prompt order, Quile e number of blue-rock contests took plsce during tbe day, but the main interest was taken in the live-bird events. The touroament was impertially and well carried out and wss slso a success 6nancially.

The scorers were W. H. Bryan end E, P. Hilborn. The committee in charge of sffairs consisted of H. Perkins, J. A. Wilson, J. A. Keyes and T. L. Robinson.

Oeklend—Robert Boyer. Devisville—Henry Stellings.

An emicable and good-netured feeling perveded the different contests. Not a single protest or dissatis6ed comment was heard during the day.

The boys who lined up on the eastern side of the ground had a lively time in lowering the stray pigeons, Ray Miller of Feir6eld succeeding in securing about forty birds which dodged the competitors et the traps. The shooting in the "free" territory, at times, resembled a bomberdment, and the rivalry afforded many amusing incidents to the spectators.—Soleno Republicen.

Blue Rocks at Chico.

The sportsmen of Cbico had a well ettended trep-shoot on the recetrack grounds, Sunday June 19th. Judging from the interest taken in the shoot steps will probably be taken to meke the sport frequent and lasting in that vicinity. The principel events of the day were a twenty-five target race end e six-men-teem rece under Capteins Brooke end Johoson respectively. The scores by ronnds in the first event were:

Stockton Gun Club Annex.

The blue-rock shoot of the Gun Club Annex last Sunday was not very well attended on account of the hot weather end the baseball game at the grove. The handicap shoot was won by George Swain. Frank Merrill took second money, and Bert Lyons third. The best record was made by Merrill, who sbot twenty-five straight and got forty-three out of 6fty. The bendicep of Swain, however, was too much for him.

The South End Clnb sboot at Colma last Sunday brougbt out but a fair attendance of members. Several pool and prectice events were sbot out. The next shoot of the olub will be a week from tomorrow. The principel event of the day will be the teem metch with tha Golden Gate Gun Club.

In speeking about guns suitable for trep-shooting, an Eastarn gun manufacturer of considerable experience said recently that his firm had much trouble in pursuading intanding purchasers to order guns of sufficient waight for use at tha traps. For field shooting, ha said, a faatharwaight of 5¾ pounds up to 6½ pounds was ample, unless tha shooter wanted to use his gun on ducks, in which case a 7¾-pound was none too heavy, while guns of more weight would give aven better satisfaction if ducks were flying well and coming into the decoys freely. A light gun gives too much recoil, if a powder suitable for breaking targets is used. In other words a light gun punishes the man who shoots heavy loads out of it far too saverely for him to continue to do good work. He recommended all trep shooters to order a 7¾-pound gun of a known make, as in such a gun they had one which would do better all-around work than any other. If field shooting alone were the object, a gun one and a half pounds lighter was just the thing, as by far the mejority of shots in the field are fired at objects under thirty yards rather then over that distance from the shooter. And a light load of powder does good work up to that distance, and for the mattar of that at even greater distances on occasions.

"Gun headache" is an affliction that seems to be the lot of some people, and for which nothing but putting the gun away for the day appears to be of any use. The general opinion seems to be thet the "gun headache" is due in a great measure to light guns and heavy loads of powder, with the consequent jar from the recoil. This jar, acting upon a nature which is delicetely adjusted as to dyspepsia or poor eyesight, seems very liable to produce the condition of affairs complained of. Very often hunters who have breakfasted early, begin to feel symptoms of a headache as the noon hour approaches. The empty stomach asserts itself, and must be stilled, or the headache will grow worse and worse. Old hunters always advise stopping for lunch as soon as a man feels hungry; it is a sure thing that no man who is beginning to feel faint from hunger can do good work with a gun. Eat a little and the headache will, nine times out of ten, disappear for the day at least.

To the man who shoots once a week, and then only for a half day on Saturday, shooting at the trap seems more like play than anything else. But to the professional, the man who has to shoot four or five days each week, and has to try hard all the time so as to keep his position with his firm, shooting becomes more of a labor than play. The strain on a man when he is at the score and trying to do his best, is very severe. Old and tried at the traps as a man may be, it is a fact that when he returns from the score after making a straight, his pulse is beating about twice as fast as it ordinarily does. The shooter may not feel excited, but his pulse shows the strain; and the continued strain, day after day, and all day long, is very wearing on a person who is not in "thorough training." For this reason, rather than perhaps from choice, the professional trap-shooter is not only abstemious in the matter of smoking and drinking, but also retires to bed in good season realizing that the body requires its full share of rest after a day's work at the traps.

In view of the enormous totals rolled up at some trap-shooting tournaments a sportsman's journal asks whether trap shooting is not being made too easy. It does look as if something should be done to make shooting harder, at any rate for the experts. It is not so very long since a twenty-five straight was a comparative rarity, but now it is very seldom, unless the wind is blowing a gale, that one or more twenty-fives are not made if any of the good shots are around. In the recent record-breaking events at Parkersburg, there were twenty-two entries, and out of that number five scored 25, three 24 and five 23; thus out of 325 targets shot at by these thirteen men, only an average of one target per man was lost, making a total average for the thirteen men of 96 per cent. This fact goes to prove conclusively that the targets must have been thrown easily, for outside of "Leroy" there was not a known crackerjack among the crowd. The members of the squad were: F. E. Mallory, 24; S. T. Mallory 25; "Leroy," 25; E. O. Bower, 25, and F. M. Kisar, 25. No matter how easily the targets were thrown, it was great shooting anyway to break the first 120 straight, with a total of 114 out of 125.—Commercial Advertiser.

Catalina's Great Sport.

The gay and festive tuna. The fish that ont leaps and out pulls any living fish, has taken Avalon by storm, and for the past month some fine catches have been made there, E L. Doran holding the record for the greatest number for the season, namely, eleven, and for the greatest number in one day, he having taken three. Now, in emulation of the Tarpon club, which flourishes in Florida, the tuna fishermen have a Tuna club, to which are eligible all man who have taken a tuna over 100 pounds in weight, with rod and reel, and a line of not more than 21 strands. This may not at the first glance seem much of an ordeel, yet when it is remembered that the line is little larger than one would use on an eye glass, it is something of a feat to take a fish, and such is the peculiar make-up of anglers that many would give $100 to $200 to take a fish of this kind. As might be expected, the Tuna club is limited as to numbers, as few men have taken the fish. The president is the man who has taken the heaviest fish, and he holds office until some one beats his record, and the vice-presidents range down according to the weights of their respective fishes, and as fish are constantly being taken, the officers of the club are constantly sliding up and down. At the present writing the slate stands as follows, but if the fish should happen to hite wall to-day the list might be altogether reversed and changed by night: President C. F. Holder of Pasadena, a 183-pound tuna; first vice-president, W. C. P. Morehouse, Pasadena, 150 pounds; second vice-president, M. C. Arnot, Elmira, F. Y., 148 pounds; third, S. Grean Campbell, New York, 140 pounds; fourth, H. G. Vachall, England, 130 pounds; fifth, H. K. Macomber, Pasadena, 138 pounds; sixth, C. R. Leuddar, St. Louis, 125 pounds; seventh, E. L. Doran, Los Angeles, 116 pounds; eighth, J. M. Studebaker, South Band, Ind., 115 pounds.

One point to be noted in this club, every man holds office, everybody except the president is a vice president, and it is an open field for skillful handlars of the rod and reel. A few days ago the Tuna Club turned out and had their pictures taken, while the envious public looked on, and it was a mighty showing. The fish ranged from 183 pounds down to 130, and each one represented a fight on a slender line of from two to four hours, in which the slightest mistake would have lost the fish. A number of famous anglers are to be seen on the beach daily, man who have fished in every sea and whipped the streams and lakes of every State. Such are C. R. Scudder of St. Louis, Mr. Fitch Dewey of Toledo, Mr. Studebaker of South Bend, Ind.; Mr. Dicking of Riverside, a famous tarpon fisherman; Mr. Schanck of Brooklyn, one of the best-known anglers of New York, and who is a candidate for the Tuna Club presidency, and proposes to get it, if it takes all summer. Mr. E R. Saratton, from El Paso, is an Aransas Pass tarpon fisherman, and a member of the Tarpon Club, which has a fine club house at the pass. He carries around a picture of a 200-pound tarpon and tells the story of its capture to wondering audiences. Every morning some of these and many more anglers of national fame may be found at the stands of the watermen—at Jim Gardner's Chris. Ringsen's or Mexican Joe's where they retail the experiences of the day or some other day—anent raw tuna hooks—discuss rods and pass the compliments of the season with the members of the Ananias Club, whose badges glistan in the sunlight. The layman hears some strange tales at such times—stories of the "lunkers" that got away, of the 300-poundar that took 700 feet of line; of the fish that smashed a $75 reel, and of another who jerked Mr. J. Neal Plumb's $100 outfit overboard off Church rock, when he and Mexican Joe were rowing along fast asleep, trolling for yellow tails. Terrible jokers are some of these men. The small, tired man with a record kept a tenderfoot up the canyon for a week hunting for frogs which he said was a killing bait for the Catalina tarpon, but there are no tarpons and no frogs at Cataline. It was ex-Governor Markam, a member of the Ananias Club, who advised a Whittier angler to use squirrels for yellow tail bait. Some one passed him off Sugar Loaf, and he was sitting looking pensively at the ocean while the squirrel had climbed into the boat on the other side and was dozing in the sun. As tuna fishing is new, some information as to the methods may be of interest. What is known as a yellow tail rod will answer, and all the waterman have outfits, but if a fisherman wishes to own his own tackle and wants the best he should buy a Vom Hopa Niobe bass rod, or what is known as a Hall bass rod. This has been tested by such fishermen as Mr. Arnott, Mr. Torranca of Mt. Lowe, Colonel Morehouse and others. Mr. Scudder used one in his seven-hour fight with a tuna. The rod weighs perhaps sixteen ounces, and costs about $25. The real should be a Vom Hope, because these are the only ones that so far will stand the punishment. The real should hold 900 feet of 21-strand line wet, and it costs from $20 to $75, and is as finely made as a watch. The line is what is known as terpon line or cuttyhunk, 900 feet of which costs, say $2 50. Then equipped with a good oarsman, such as Jim Gardner, Mexican Joe, Hodson, Harry Elms, Carl, Chris Ringsen or half a dozan others, whose stands line the beach, you are ready to make what is known as a "break for the Tarpon club." Some employ launches to tow them, others merely row out into the bay, as Mr. Fitch Dewey. The fishing is in the morning and evening. At the latter time, from 4:30 to 7.30, a big flying fish is the bait, towed about 100 feet astern. Perhaps the tunas are looking all about, perhaps not. You may not get a strike, then again your boatman has not rowed fifty yards before wish—zip, z-e-e-e-e, and there is an explosion astern, a cloud of foam rises and seems to come hissing along at you, a big blue and silver body dashes into the air like an arrow and comes down with unerring aim upon your bait, and the musical voice of the reel rises on the air, and measure after measure of the tuna two ship is reeled off. Nothing in the annals of fishing compares to the rush of a tuna in best condition. It is sensational to a degree, dramatic, and not a few man literally go to pieces before it, demoralized, lose their first, which accounts for the small membership of the Tuna Club, and for the fact that the members of the club catch most of the fish. The tuna rushes away, proceeds down, circles about the boat, and tows the boat several miles—as one towed Mr. Scudder 20 miles, Mr. Studebaker 5 miles, and Mr. Holder 8 miles. If the fisherman is as skillful and as powerful of Mr. Doren, he may take his fish in one hour, but the catch is more than likely to take two hours, and is exciting to a degree. The fish is never still, being constantly on the move, though it should be said that there is a marked difference in the fish, some making remarkable fights, others not doing so well; but the average tuna will give the average anglar the fight of his life. During the past week many hooks and lines have been lost, it being found impossible to stop the fish, it is assumed that there are some fish biting that range up to 300 pounds.—Los Angeles Herald.

Transporting Live Fish.

A new method of transportation for live fish from seaports into the interior has just been patentad by a Danish fish dealer, P. H. Lohman, of Copanhagan, and the system is so simple and yet so perfect that one wonders why it has never been thought of before. The invantor had a number of large bags made of waterproof material, strong oilcloth appearing to give the best results. These bags after being filled with water and fish to be sent to inland, are laced at the top and either suspended in the cars from hooks in the roof of the car, or from folding frames taking almost no space and allowing the close hanging of these bags so that there is but little movement between the bags. They may also be set upright along side each other, but suspension has been found to be preferable, particularly for long distances. Several transports of fish made over long distances have shown the splendid features of the new system, for the fish arrived in excellent condition after a 16-hour ride.

Chicago Fly-Casters.

The fourth contest of the Chicago Fly-Casting Club held at Garfield Park, Chicago, Saturday June 18, 1898, shows the following scores:

Names.	Long Distance Feet.	Distance & Accuracy Per Cent.	Accuracy & Delicacy Per Cent.	Bait Casting Per Cent.
F. N. Peet	110	80 1-3	——	81
I. H. Bellows	102	——	——	96 4-5
B. W. Goodsell	105	89 1-3	——	91 3-5
H. G. Hascal	102	74 1-2	——	96
J. E. Strong	100	——	——	——
C. G. Ludlow	94	78 1-3	——	83 4-5
C. A. Lippincott	84	67	——	93
N. C. Heston	——	70 2-3	——	95
G. W. Salter	——	68 2-3	——	96 1-5

H. A. Newkirk	——	29 2-3	——	86 2-5
L. F. Crosby	——	——	——	85 1-5
C. Antoine	——	——	——	84 2-5

The medal for long distance fly-casting was won by F. N. Peet; for distance and accuracy, by B. W. Goodsell and for bait casting by A. C. Smith.

Coming Events.

July 16-17.—San Francisco Fly-Casting Club. Eighth series of Saturday and Sunday contests. Stow Lake, Golden Gate Park.

Black bass open season commenced yesterday.

Russian river is reported to be in only fair condition for black bass fishing at present.

Bay fishing continues to be excellant. The wary striped bass is caught quite frequently from the railroad wharves across the bay.

Fishing in the coast side streams is reported to be excellent at the present time, many good catches having been made especially in the Purissima.

There is an unusally fine run of salmon in Monterey bay now. Herman Oelrichs has made some grand catches recently. Other anglers are having great sport and plenty of good luck.

Reports from the Truckee are to the effect that the fishing at present is first-class. Col. C. G. Young returned from the vicinity of Boca last week. He caught a number of fine large fish during his visit.

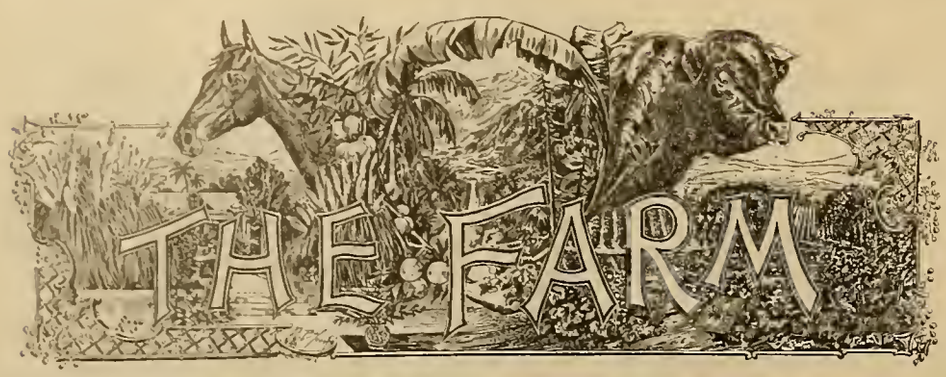
Jim Maynard and Ellis Johnson will fish Salmon Creek tomorrow and Monday. This stream has rewarded anglers recently with a number of good fish, some of them twelve and fourteen inches in length.

Black bass fry will be taken from Lake Chabot and the lake near Niles. Some of these fry will be placed in the San Joaquin; other favorable locations will be selected, although the demand for black bass fry is far in excess of the supply.

Fly-fishing on the Yuba near Cisco is reported to be excellent. On the Sacramento at Sims anglers have been getting good results. The McCloud offers splendid fly-fishing just now. The salmon have not gone up the McCloud yet to any extent, only a few stragglers have been taken so far.

J. H. Semmi left town last week for a three weak's trip. His first point is Wahber Lake, where the fishing has been all that the most ardent sportsman could desire up to date, thence he proposes to go to Independence Lake for a sample of angling in that body of water, just, so to speak, to get his hand in for the finish of his vacation along the Truckee at or near Boce.

Serious complaint is made by the Sebastopol Times as follows: The lawless practice of blowing up with giant powder the black bass that were deposited in the laguna about two years ago is being carried on continually in a merciless and shameful manner. Every few days a stick of powder is touched off under the water and as a result dead bass in great quantities can be seen floating on the surface.



Advantage of Sheep.

1. They are profitable.
2. They weaken the soil least and strengthen it most.
3. They are enemies of weeds.
4. The care they need is required when other farm operations are slack.
5. The amount of investment need not be large.
6. The returns are quick and many.
7. They are the quietest and easiest handled of all farm stock.
8. Other farm products are made more largely from cash grains, while those from the sheep are made principally from pasture.
9. There is no other product of the farm that has fluctuated so slightly in value as good mutton.
10. By comparison wool costs nothing, for do not horses and cows in shedding their coats waste what the sheep saves?

In conclusion: Sheep pay.

Many of the wheat fields of Yolo county went 15 sacks to the acre this year of drought and poor crops. Yolo, you're not so dry.

Just as we were closing our forms last week the glad tidings were flashed over the wire that the wool market had actually opened in Montana at sixteen and sixteen and a half cents per pound, and that some large deals had been made at these figures.—Rocky Mountain Husbandman.

The Buena Ranch company of San Diego, has a gang of men planting forty acres to tobacco. The Cuban crop will be so short for the next few years owing to the war that there will be big money in the marketable tobacco raised in the United States.

Two hundred and ninety-five head of cattle were shipped Tuesday by the railroad from Pleasanton. Their destination was the Sargent ranch near Lodi. The stock was purchased in this vicinity by Mr. Bailey, and the average price paid was in the neighborhood of $16 a head.

Several thousand head of cattle from various parts of Oregon and many from California will be pastured on the Klamath reservation this season. The agent has already granted permits to a number of stockmen, and the Indians are fencing their allotments in order to accommodate them.

Claus Spreckels' great sugar beet factory at Salinas, Cal. now nearing completion, will be the largest plant of this kind in the world. The working capacity will be 3,300 tons in 24 hours, and the daily output of raw sugar will be about 450 tons. The main building is 582 feet long and 102 feet wide.

Australia has found what she has long sought—a means to exterminate the pest of rabbits. The experiment of inoculating some of the short-tailed gentry with chicken cholera and turning them loose to spread the disease has proved a great success. Farmers in the lower part of the San Joaquin valley might do well to try this plan on the omnipresent jack-rabbit.

"The State Supreme Court," says the Redding Free Press, "refused to grant a writ of habeas corpus in the case of James Barry of Cottonwood, who went to Trinity county and was arrested for non-payment of the grazing tax on foreign sheep as provided in an ordinance of that county. The legality of the ordinance was sustained and Mr. Barry will now pay the tax."

A farmer in Pettis county, Missouri, shipped to St. Louis twenty head of Galloway steers that averaged 1 600 pounds each and received five cents a pound, making $80 a head or $1,600 for the lot. Such an illustration as this of the big profit that may be made in well fed cattle ought certainly to encourage the making of an effort in the far west to feed up and raise better stock.

The best reports of wheat yields that have been received in town from summer fallowed wheat in this section are from the ranches of A. W. Root and Henry Voight. On the former's land the yield is eight sacks per acre, and on the latter's nine sacks per acre. The ranches are six miles east of Modesto. D. F. Mullen, living further east, reports that his grain, is turning out ten sacks.—Stanislaus News.

The export movement of horses from the Chicago market developed signal improvement for the week ending May 21, 658 head being shipped to foreign countries against 454 head the previous week. The arrival of the new London buyers, Messrs Rock Marian, S. Moffit, George Slater and O'Neill, greatly stimulated the trade, and under keen competition prices advanced $5 and $10 per head on all export grades. The greatest activity developed in the sale of draft horses for the German and English markets, one especially choice heavy team of matched Percherons, weighing 4 000 pounds, being negotiated to the London dealer, Rock Marian, for $705, the highest price reported since 1892. Domestic dealers withdrew from the contest at $650, and the consummation of the sale demonstrated that breeders are offered great encouragement to raise prima heavy drafters for the foreign trade. London led in the volume of importations.

The Times, published at Jacksonville, Oregon, a wool growing section, says: There are buyers for wool, but no sellers. The growers are not willing to sell at any price yet offered. The clip in Oregon is 20 per cent. larger than last year. So far this year only one big lot has been sold in Pendleton. The heaviest wools at this time command 8 cents per pound and the lighter wools as high as 14 cents.

Harvesters are humming throughout the valleys and conflicting reports of the yield reach this city. One man makes a trip through the wheat fields and returns with stories of a very short crop, while another brings in glowing accounts of how the yield will exceed the most sanguine expectations of even the farmers themselves. It will probably be some weeks before the exact amount of wheat raised in this State will be known.

Last week a special train of fourteen carloads of sheep left Petaluma for Ukiah. The cars contained 1,000 sheep, the property of A. J. Fairbanks. They were driven over from Schellville on Monday and loaded on the cars the next day en route for the Fairbanks ranch in Humboldt county. On the same day Fairbanks shipped twenty-one carloads of sheep from Windsor to the Humboldt county ranch. He states that the stock up that way is looking better than he ever saw it for this time of the year.

Pamona Beacon: For a long time it was believed that good apples could not be grown in Southern California, and most of the apples consumed here were imported from the North and East. This fallacy has, however been thoroughly exploded. Some of the finest apples that have ever been seen or tasted are now raised in Southern California, especially in the San Diego mountain country; also around Westminster and Downey, and in the Antelope valley, which last named place promises to become one of the leading apple-growing regions of California, as well as a great producer of almonds and olives.

The people along the margins of the Sacramento river have learned that they have the cheapest and best system of irrigation in the State, and that their lands, when irrigated, are the most productive, says the Colusa Sun. They will begin to appreciate the full value of the Sacramento river; that it has raised out of the waters a magnificent body of alluvial land so situated that the water when raised to the surface will run back for miles with scarcely any expense, and then when the products are ready for the market there is a cheap system of transportation that can never be subject to monopoly. They are learning to care for these lands, and this river, and will more jealously guard and protect them.

A simple method of preserving wooden posts set in the earth for fences or other purposes is given by a writer in the Bautechnische Zeitschrift—namely, that of turning them upside down, that is, reversing them from the position which they had while growing as portions of the trunk of a tree. The reason for this is that the capillaries of a tree are so arranged as to promote the ascent of fluid from the root upward; consequently a log set in the ground in the same relation as the trunk of a growing tree will draw moisture from the ground to a considerable height, and the wood so moistened will decay, while, on the other hand, if the log is set with the other end up, the action of the capillaries tends to oppose the ascent of moisture.

Some of the statisticians are putting out big estimates for the American wheat crop this year. We do not know that we have seen the largest of these estimates, but we call to mind one of 730,000,000 bushels. This is more than 100,000,000 bushels in excess of the largest crop hitherto reported, which was 611,000,000 bushels in 1891. The crop for 1897 is conceded to have been 530,000,000 bushels. With not over one-half and perhaps not over one-third of a crop in California this year, it is hard to realize such a large increase in the country's aggregate as 200,000,000 bushels. Still, a big crop is not impossible. Most of the States are reported to have larger crops than last year. Oklahoma is put down at 40,000,000 bushels, an increase of 100 per cent over 1897. Captain Phillips, who has been in Kansas, says: "I never saw the wheat crop look as fine as it does in that State. I believe Kansas will have 100,000,000 bushels.

Some time since a few choice boxes of oranges from the ranch of Justice James Mills, on Arlington Heights, Riverside, were shipped to Canada and distributed among some of the prominent officials of the Canadian government. Mr. Mills is in receipt of letters praising the quality of the fruit, but the most interesting statement is made by a wealthy and influential man, who says that he has never seen anything like the navels—that such fruit never reaches the Canadian market. That this should be true certainly implies great neglect on the part of the Southern California Fruit Exchange of an important and valuable market. The distribution of our fruit is one of the great problems of the future, and we cannot afford to neglect any market that we can reach. Mr. Thompson of Duarte, originator of Thompson's improved navel, says that he has shipped considerable fruit to Toronto and Montreal this winter, and has always realized better prices than elsewhere. Some important Canadian cities are nearer Southern California than Boston, Philadelphia and New York, and the Canadian market certainly ought to be thoroughly exploited.

The Lodi watermelon crop is practically nil this year, and the melons which will be raised in the southern part of the State will do well to supply Los Angeles. Heretofore watermelons have been shipped into Los Angeles from Arizona, but the drought has also done its work in that territory. In Fresno county there are about 250 acres in watermelons, which will provide about as many carloads. The watermelon crop will certainly be short in this State as the Fresno output will scarcely supply San Francisco.

Riverside Press: This is certainly the alfalfa grower's harvest year. One rancher remarked in the Press office the other day that he had sold two and a half tons to the acre of his second cutting at $12 per ton or $30 per acre. He figures on six cuttings, but the total would be about enough to average five cuttings of two and a half tons per acre. That means $150 per acre this year from the alfalfa crop. Of course alfalfa hay will not be worth $12 per ton usually, but some ranchers will be able to pay for their land by the returns of this years crop, and can face the future of their industry with great complaisance.

The Department of Agriculture will soon have a supply of hog serum for experiments during the cholera season and will distribute it among the agents probably during the present month. It is the plan of the department to use the serum in all localities where cholera prevails, and the experiments will be carried to as wide a range as the means at the disposal of the department will permit. The efficacy of the serum as a cholera cure will be thoroughly tested and the farmers of the country be given full information concerning the results obtained. Should the trials establish the serum a cure the department will explain its methods of manufacture, giving the public the benefits of its investigations.

The farmers in the vicinity of Lompoc are engaged on a big irrigation ditch which, when completed, will materially increase the wealth of all the surrounding region. They propose to divert the water of the Santa Ynez river three miles above Lompoc. This will be conveyed through a ditch, which will be twenty feet wide and eight miles long, and will place 8 000 acres of the most fertile land in Salinas valley under irrigation. Next spring 1,000 acres of this land will be sown to alfalfa. It is the purpose of the farmers to make Lompoc a dairying center. Two additional creameries will be in operation the coming season, and with the increase of the feed supply by the completion of the big irrigation ditch, other creameries and improvements will be added as rapidly as practical.

A very satisfactory experiment is being made in Montecito in road repairing. It is the use of oil sand from the petroleum wells of Summerland. Chuck holes are filled with it, and it packs down, making a springy and dustless roadbed. It is an idea that could be utilized to a greater extent with advantage, as it makes sprinkling less necessary. Some of the great Eastern railways have lately adopted the method of sprinkling their tracks with crude petroleum to keep down the dust, and by going over the road once or twice a year with the oil a great deal of discomfort in traveling is avoided. Used on a wagon road the oil sand does not cling to the wheels, and the only disadvantage is the slight odor which is not disagreeable to the average person.—Santa Barbara Press.

M. L. Robertson, Attorney-at-Law, Dallas, Texas, says: Enclosed find remittance for Wellington's Improved Egg Food. I find it unfailing in its result with Roup, Cholera, and other diseases of Poultry. We have other poultry preparations here, but they fail to give satisfactory results. Remember—These results have accumulated for sixteen years. If your dealer does not keep it insist on his getting it.

Gentlemen—Enclosed please find two dollars, for which send me two boxes Continental Ointment. I have used two boxes and I think it will take two more to cure a valuable mare that has diseased feet. Veterinary surgeons have examined her and pronounced her incurable; but since I began using Continental Ointment, I entirely cured one foot, and the rest are getting well. Previous to using your Ointment I doctored her two years to no effect, but I am now satisfied I can cure her with nothing but Continental Ointment.

Trotting Instinct.

The two well-known writers "Iconoclast" and "Hark Comstock," in a controversy on the instinct of a horse to trot, seem to me to be very little apart in their ideas after all, and each advances some very sound arguments, writes Hawley in the American Stock Farm. I have always believed that the instinct to trot is one of the most essential things in a trotter. It goes without saying that this instinct is rarely found in a horse that is absolutely without breeding, and one would naturally expect generations of rich trotting blood to intensify this instinct. There is, however, an absolute necessity in good conformation, for no matter how strong may this instinct be, if the conformation is defective the purpose cannot be carried out. Unlike the setter or pointer cited as an example by "Iconoclast," the trotter must exert himself physically, while the dog is motionless while following his instinct. The trotter's instinct leads him to action, to speed, and if his conformation is naturally opposed to this he may try ever so hard but fail to accomplish much. I once owned a trotting mare that showed this instinct to a marked degree, yet was so defective in conformation that she banged her knees, and was so faulty in action that she was unable to stick to a trot for more than a few rods. Other horses have been seen with apparently good form and frictionless action that lacked the instinct and would not try. consequently were of no value as trotters. George Wilkes must have been a horse of wonderful trotting instinct, as he tried and stuck to a trot at all times, and this is a characteristic among his descendants. This trait or quality naturally is the result of breeding, just as it is in any other animal. One would not expect the pointer to act as the setter does nor the greyhound to fight, nor the chicken to swim. Trotting instinct is, therefore, one of the several essential points in a great trotter—in other words, part of the machinery, and without it the horse is a failure.

A trotter is not a freak of nature, but is really the result of the application of science. This will be demonstrated more clearly in years to come, when the rules are more scientifically applied. I do not mean that all the scientific breeding in the world can give to a horse instinct to trot, but it can materially assist, and when the instinct appears it will be the result of good judgment. There is no doubt that a man can produce horses of good individuality just as mice have been bred without tails, by mating mares of nearly perfect form to stallions of the same. Milton Young, the noted thoroughbred breeder, has given great care and attention to the subject of good individuality. His idea is that horses intended for racing should have fine heads and necks, straight hind legs, oblique shoulders, short backs, and should stand with the feet well under them. He has always had this aim in view when purchasing mares and stallions, and as a result can show a very large percentage of foals each year with these characteristics. Of course, occasionally a weed will be found, but scientific breeding will produce proper conformation and will give the horse a grand pedigree. These together help nature to give the instinct to do whatever is wanted.

What percentage of foals will have this instinct to a very marked degree may be asked. As far as I have been able to ascertain, about one in ten, which is a large percentage indeed, as any experienced horseman will attest. If it were as easy to produce a horse with this instinct as it is to produce a richly bred and highly formed horse, great ones would be plentiful. All scientific experiments are not successful. So no man can expect to produce an Alix every time, but by breeding scientifically and using good horse sense the results will be better than in the past, when men bred in a haphazard manner and cared for little beside blood lines, which while highly essential, are worthless unless good judgment is used.

Scientific breeding has made yearling thoroughbreds have as much speed as older horses, and the same should be true to a certain extent with the trotters. No man can breed great race horses at will, but he can come nearer doing it by scientific breeding than any other way.

There can be no doubt, as "Hark Comstock" says, that it is physical construction that enables a horse to train on to a high rate of speed and racing ability, for weaklings never make giants and weeds among horses rarely grow into world-beaters.

"Hark Comstock" speaks wisely when he says that these two qualities, instinct and physical adaptation, while entirely distinct in nature and kind, are dependent on each other for the highest perfection. The great trouble in the past has been that men failed to see the logic of this, and aimed at one without the other.

Requirements of Cavalry Horses.

The army regulations prescribe the kind of horses desired for cavalry, as follows:

"The cavalry horse must be sound and well-bred, gentle under the saddle, free from vicious habits, with free and prompt action at the walk, trot or gallop, without blemish or defect, of a kind disposition, with easy mouth and gait, and otherwise to conform to the following description:

"A gelding of uniform and hardy color; in good condition; from 15¼ to 16 hands high; weight not less than 950, not more than 1,150 pounds; from four to eight years old; head and ears small; forehead broad; eyes large and prominent; vision perfect in every respect; shoulders long and sloping well back; chest full, broad and deep; forelegs straight and standing well under; barrel large and increasing from girth toward flank; withers elevated; back short and straight; loins and haunches broad and muscular; hocks well bent and under the horse; pasterns slanting and feet small and sound.

"Each horse will be subjected to a rigid inspection, and any animal that does not meet the above requirements in every respect must be rejected. A horse under five years old should not be accepted unless a specially fine, well-developed animal."

"Why You Should Use It."

Mr. T. P. Schwartz, prominent horseman at Gardnerville, Nev., writes June 18th as follows: "Having treated several horses with Quinn's Ointment and meeting with great success, I would like to ask for the agency in the State of Nevada. Send me six bottles C. O. D." This is the universal expression of the leading breeders and horsemen from Maine to California. For curbs, splints, spavins, windpuffs and all bunches it has no equal. Regular size, $1 50. If you cannot obtain it from your druggist, address W. B. Eddy & Co., Whitehall, N. Y. For sale in San Francisco by Messrs. J. A. McKerron and J. O'Kane.

BECOME A MAN

This will interest those who have doctored with "medical companies" and "free prescription" fakes and electric belts, until they are thoroughly disgusted. I am a well known physician of Chicago and have made nervous disorders and all diseases peculiar to men a special study for 20 years. I haven't a remedy that will do wonders in a few days, but with patience and the correct use of my treatment I will guarantee to MAKE A MAN OF YOU IN TIME. For a short time I will send a full month's treatment of my "NERVE-SEEDS" with some valuable instructions, for $1.00, or 6 boxes (a full course) for $5 00. I HAVE CURED THOUSANDS AND CAN CURE YOU. If suffering from a chronic disease of any nature write me in confidence at once. All medicines sent in plain wrappers.

In the Superior Court of the City and County of San Francisco, State of California. No. 63,816.

Sosie M. Lewiston, plaintiff vs. Thos. E. Lewiston, defendant.

Action brought in the Superior Court, City and County of San Francisco, State of California, and the Complaint filed in said City and County of San Francisco in the office of the Clerk of said Superior Court.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA send greeting to Thos. E. Lewiston, defendant. You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above-named plaintiff in the Superior Court, City and County of San Francisco, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons, if served within this County; or, if served elsewhere, within thirty days. The said action is brought to obtain a judgment and decree of this Court dissolving the bonds of matrimony now existing between plaintiff and defendant, upon the ground of defendant's failure to provide for more than two years last past for plaintiff the common necessaries of life, said failure to so provide being caused by the idleness of defendant. Plaintiff also asks for the custody of the minor child, the issue of the marriage, also for general relief, as will more fully appear in the complaint on file, to which special reference is hereby made. All of which will more fully appear in the complaint on file herein to which you are hereby referred. And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint, as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief therein demanded.

Given under my hand and seal of said Superior Court at the City and County of San Francisco, State of California, this 14th day of April, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and ninety eight.

The Trotting Horse.

BY CHARLES MARVIN.

This great practical horse book is a handsome, three hundred page octavo, bound in cloth, elegantly printed superbly illustrated, and explains in every detail the remarkable success of CHARLES MARVIN and the whole plans and methods pursued at Palo Alto as to breaking, training, shoeing, galting, driving, keeping racing and breeding trotters.

Read what J. C. Silby, the owner of St. Bel, says of this book: "In this work Marvin has let out all the mysteries of the craft, and it is so simple and plain that any breeder, owner, trainer or rubber who has any relish for his business can take a colt as a yearling and develope to the highest and fullest extent that colt's capacity as a trotter. The work impressed me so strongly that I have ordered twenty copies, and shall place one in the hands of every rubber on our farm."

OPENING DAY AT HARTFORD.

How the Horses Won at Historical Charter Oak Park.

The "Old Glory" meeting, the first of the season at historic old Charter Oak Park, the scene of so many memorable battle between the giants of the trotting turf, opened on Monday, July 4.

One of the features of the day was the new world's record established by the Village Farm gelding The Abbott, in the wagon championship race, when he trotted the second heat in 2:12¼. It is true that it is not the fastest heat ever trotted to wagon, for Elloree stepped a mile at Cleveland in 2:10, but her record was not accepted by the Register Association.

It was, taken altogether, a great day for Village Farm. It was the first start of the season made by the stable, and when the returns were all in it had won three out of four of the races on the program, and Ed. Geers, the farm driver, piloted the winner, Rubenstein in the other.

The program opened with The Pilgrim 2:30 trot, for which ten horses turned for the word. Kentucky Frank, a roan gelding by Eagle Bird, that W. C. Trimble brougbt out this seaion and had marked in 2:19¼, sprinted away with the first heat in 2:14⅗, but he didn't hold out as he began. After leading his field into the stretch in the second heat Ed Geers brought the early favorite, Tudor Chimes up from the rear ranks, and taking him to the outside of the track overhauled first one and then another of the leaders, and just trimmed Landlady at the wire by a head in a beautiful finish in 2:16½. Tudor Chimes landed the next two heats in slower time, but there were two or three, the black gelding All Day, by Ambassador, out of Old Lowland Girl, and the Direct mare Beatrice, that it will do to keep an eye on.

The 2:05 pace was a cheap race for the class of horses engaged. None of them was right up to concert pitch, and Rubinstein, with Geers up, was never headed in the three miles, with the midget pacer, Dan Q., chasing him home in two of them.

Alcidalia was the notable absentee from the list of starters in the 2:11 trot, but Hans McGregor, who has shown such high form this season, and Tommy Britton were among those that faced about for the word.

In the opening heat Tommy Britton made a disastrous break in the first quarter and fell back more than a distance. Hans McGregor had the heat well in hand all the mile, and won pulled up in 2:12¼, with Maple Valley in second place.

The second heat Britton was on his good behavior, and he chased McGregor over to the quarter in 0:32½, and they passed the half locked in 1:04¼, where Britton drew away, and the race was ended right there. Hans McGregor's old curb broke out on him again, and he pulled up at the wire in fifth place, with Maple Valley again second.

McGregor was so lame that after a couple of scores in the third heat Kinney drew him. There was nothing left in the race that could begin to stretch Britton's neck, and he won handily.

There was a good deal of interest manifested in the Uncle Sam Road Wagon Championship, for which five horses, The Abbott, 2:11¼, Grace Hastings, 2:08, Newcastle, 2:11¾, David B., 2:09, and Token, 2:12, took the word.

It was a race of mile heats and the opening mile was a pretty one for four of the horses, all except Token, that was dancing in the rear most of the mile, and caught the banner, went well bunched, but Geers brought The Abbott through at the end of tbe mile and won the heat in 2:14 from Newcastle, with Grace Hastings in third place and David B. fourth.

In the next heat The Abbott made a bad break on the first turn and fell back fully ten lengths. Newcastle stepped to the front and led into the upper turn. In the meantime The Abbott was stepping fast, and striking the upper turn marched around the bunch like a cooper around a barrel. It was a marvellous burst of speed he showed here, and at the three-quarter pole he was a neck in front of Newcastle. Down the stretch both were under a hard drive, and Geers had to exe t all his masterful resources to hold his advantage but he managed to land The Abbott first at the wire by a short neck in 2:12¼, amidst great enthusiasm. The last half was officially timed in 1:03¾, the final quarter in 30¼ seconds. Think of that, to road wagon and pulling 200 pounds! It was a wonderful performance.

*New Record.

VILLAGE FARM and the Electioneer family gained another champion record when The Abbott won the wagon race at Hartford in 2:12¼.

TOGGLES' GREAT RACE.

Strathway's Son Wins the Fastest Trot of the Year and Gets a New Record.

On any prominent Eastern trotting track not less than ten thousand people would have congregated to see such a race and such a field of horses as the free-for-all trot produced at Oakland Thursday. The starters were Zombro, 2:11, Aster, 2:12, Etbel Downs, 2:10, Mamie Griffin, 2:12, Clay S., 2:14, and Toggles, 2:12½, and when the race was finished Toggles' record was 2:10¼, whicb is the fastest heat ever trotted on the Oakland track. The other horses were defeated, but not one of them disgraced. Mamie Griffin had the pole and they were going steadily except Zombro when the word was given, and he was trotting, but not at his usual square gait and he broke before reaching the turn, falling twenty or thirty lengths behind Mamie Griffin, who went right out in the lead, with Aster and Toggles behind her. She was at the quarter in 32½ seconds and reached the half in 1:04¾, which is the fastest half of the meeting.

At this point Toggles began an argument with Aster, who was two lengths behind the leader, and the two geldings had it hammer and tongs around the turn and were closing on the black mare. Toggles had the most speed and Aster dropped back as they turned into the st etch, while Strathway's son and Blackbird's daughter were headed for the wire and not lessening their speed after passing the three-quarter pole in 1:38½.

But where was McKinney's greatest son. When he broke at the start it was thought he was out of the race, but he had made up the lost ground, and trotting the middle half on the outside of the track in 1:04 had passed all but Mamie Griffin and Toggles. After turning into the stretch Donathan thought he could pass Mamie on the inside, but found himself pocketed and was compelled to pull clear out across the track. And how Zombro did respond and trot. He must have gone a two minute gait for he gained rapidly, but the leaders were too far ahead and too near the wire for him to reach them. Toggles was full of trot too, and he increased his speed nearing the stand and Mamie Griffin could not stand the excitement and broke, which lost her the race, Toggles coming under the wire a winner by nearly a length, Mamie second and Zombro third. The clip was a little too fast for Aster.

Clay S., interfered with badly by Zombro's first break, was off his feet at the first turn and came almost to a standstill, but made up a lot of ground and trotted the remaining three-quarters in 1:39 Had there been no breaks made by Zombro or Mamie Griffin, the mile would surely have been made in 2:09 and it would be a very shrewd guesser who could name the winner, and the probabilities are that it would have been a hard race for even the judges to decide.

Toggles deserves the honors for his victory, and trotted a grand mile, at no time showing any fainthearted-ness, while his gait and style of going were perfection. The same horses meet at the track to-day in a race of heats, best two in three, and in all probability Monterey, 2:13¼, will start with them. It will be a hot race from start to finish, and the man who can pick the winner and back his judgment can win a barrel of money. No grander field of horses ever scored up for the word in America than will start in this race to-day, and not less than five thousand people should be there to see them trot.

Racing at Hanford.

After considerable effort on the part of those interested in horse flesh and racing, the Hanford Racing Association was formed a few weeks ago and the first meeting, which held for two days, closed July 5th, after a most successful session. The races on the Fourth were very largely attended and were very good indeed. There were two running races and two harness events. In the quarter mile and repeat, Chris Evans was the winner, running both heats in 25 seconds. Birdy won the three-quarter dash, with Defender second and Durango third The time was 1:19.

Kitely won the 2:40 trot, 2:39 being the best time. The free-for-all pace was easy for Glenway. He paced the first heat in 2:34 and the second in 2:37½.

There was not such a large attendance the second day, but the racing was much enjoyed by those present.

The first race was the 2:30 class, and C. Nanny's Glenway, Howard's Little Billy and J. Fisher's Silas Simon were the contestants. Glenway took the first heat, going the mile in 2:32½, Silas Simon second, Little Billy third. The second heat was won by Simon in 2:34, with Billy second and Glenway third. In the third heat Glenway won out in 2:32½, Simon second and Billy third.

The three-eighths mile and repeat race, B. F. Hobart's Skirmisher won in two straight heats, time 38 seconds. Burris' Violet second and Dagg's Tulare Chief third.

One mile hoggy horse race was between G. E Shore's Alto, Dunlap's Lucy G., Kirkman's Smoothy and C. K. Ragan's Ida D., the latter being drawn off after the second heat. Alto took the first heat in 2:44, Smoothy second, Lucy G, third, and Ida D. fourth. In the second heat Smoothy came under the wire in 2:44 with Lucy G. second and Alto third. Smoothy took the third heat in 2:42, Lucy G. second and Alto third.

In the one-mile novelty race, purse $20 at every post, Defender, of the Hanford Stables, won the first quarter in 25 seconds and the half in 50 seconds. Hobert's Durango led at the three-quarter post, in 1:19 and at the mile stake the watch marked 1:47 as the horse flashed under the wire and won out. Kirkman's Birdie was left and Burris' Chris Evans flew the track.

The feature of the races was the excellent judgment of Leander Norris in the driving of Glenway and the splendid showing made by Silas Simon, driven by that good horseman, Joshua Albertson. Silas Simon is by Col. K. R. and has been handled by Mr. Albertson only one month, and is the promising property of Joe Fisher.

The association paid out $435 in purses, and considering the success of the first meeting, the organization of which Geo McCord is President and F. L. Howard is Secretary, has reason for looking forward to a bright future.

The track having been rebuilt and not having much work time was exceptionally good for soft track. Attendance very good for Fourth of July and the first race meeting for several years. The association feels satisfied and will give another meeting the last week in September.

Portland Meeting.

The race meeting at Irvington Park is over. The horsemen have been paid in full. The racing was the best that has been seen in Portland for many years, all of which reflects much credit upon Mr. Dammeier, who brought about these results. While the meeting was not a financial success the management do not feel the least bit daunted by their first effort, but intend to give a much better meeting in September. They fully realized that it would be expensive to build up racing here before they took hold of it, and feel fully repaid for the few hundred dollars they lost, in being able to give a meeting that was otherwise a success. The date set for their fall meeting is September 17th to 24th inclusive, and nothing will be left undone to make this meeting better in every respect than the spring meeting; stakes will be offered for trotters, pacers and runners, and we predict that the horsemen and public generally will give this meeting their hearty support. The horsemen speak in the highest terms of the treatment received at the spring meeting, which will do much toward making the fall meeting a success.—Rural Spirit.

Chas Jeffries left Portland, Oregon, last week with Bill Frazier, 2:14, and Granite, 2:27½, for the Eastern Circuit. They have both been entered in some large stakes. Bill Frazier entered in the $5 000 stake for 2:13 pacers at Hamline, Minn. They will make their first start at Davenport, Ia., July 7th.

California Horses in the East.

"Yarrum," the most entertaining of newsgathers who write on harness horse topics, has the following to say in the Horse Review of some of the California horses and trainers now in the East :

Stamboulette is, in my opinion, a very great race horse, the greatest trotting stallion California has sent East since Directum. In his races he wears all the boots but knee boots, even elbow boots and hock extensions on his hind shin boots, but he is square-gaited and very steady. He has a very strong will of his own and wants to hack up and kick the spots off of any other horse that gets in his precinct when he is being cooled out, consequently they do him up off by himself. He seems to be a nice horse to handle in a race, however, and Van Bokkelen has no trouble in rating or placing him where he pleases. Both Stam B. and Stamboulette are extremely short-backed horses, both go wide behind with lots of hock action and both are very long striders. Stam B. strides twenty-one feet at speed. Ellert is a brother to Stamboolette and is also a member of Van Bokkeleo's stable. I saw him work out a few times, and although he has lots of speed I did not like him as well as his brother, as he was a little unsteady and not so good-gaited.

As a trainer of pacers it is quite evident that Tom Keating has few, if any, superiors. Two years ago he drove Agitato to the three-year-old race record of 2:09¾. Last year he brought out Searchlight, the best three-year-old the world ever saw, and in the bay colt, Klatawah, that he has with him now, he has one that will probably make a new world's record for three-year-olds during the next month. Klatawah is a handsome, good sized bay colt by Steinway. Last year he wore hobbles, but now he wears quarter boots only, and I was one of four men that timed him a last quarter in just 30 seconds in a recent workout. When you stop to consider that besides Klatawah Keating has Searchlight, a pacer that has been a mile in 2:05¾ and don't wear a hoot of any sort, and Anaconda, another one that has been a mile in 2:05¼ and wears nothing but a pair of quarter boots, you are forced to admit that as a trainer of pacers he has never had a superior.

The mile that the half thoroughbred mare, Miss Logan paced at Omaha in 2:10¼ is the fastest of the year for a green one. She paced that mile very easy and acts as if she could step one in 2:08, although she is handicapped by a set of very heavy hobbles that remind one of the set St athherry, 2:04¼, used to wear. Miss Logan showed symptoms of being a bad actor at the score in Denver, but she seems to be getting better all the while. She is owned and driven by Dr. Boucher, of California.

Mr. Charles Merling, the expert shoer of track horses, who is coming down the line with the California contingent, has invented a pneumatic horse shoe pad that will enable any sore-toed trotter to step down a cement sidewalk as fast as he would he able to go over a rubber track, and there are those who are of the opinion that the device will revolutionize the harness-horse business as much as did the bike sulky. I saw three or four horses wearing them with excellent results at Denver, and Mr. Merling kindly let me examine a set of them that he was about to put on Andy McDowell's little mare Nettie Jefferson, 2:10¼. The air sack of course is rubber and the covering is raw hide. The tube and valve projects out behind, where it lays up in the crack of the frog, and after it is properly put on it can be inflated to any degree by a common bicycle pump. When blown up it projects below the surface of the shoe and relieves the concussion, according to the degree inflated.

At Omaha some of the horses that failed to get a race were worked out quite glib. The great three-year old trotter John A. McKerron worked a half in 1:03½. And McDowell let Lena M. step along a last half of one heat in 1:00½, last quarter in 0:29½, and she was hooked to a cart at that. Most of her work consists of two-mile heats well within herself. For instance, I saw Andy work her two two-mile heats at Denver, one in 4:29 (first mile in 2:20 and second in 2:09), and another one in 4:30 (first in 2:20 and last one in 2:10). She looks big and strong and is evidently taking her work well.

American Horses for Europe.

There is one business that has not yet been crushed by the war, and that is the export trade in horses. In fact, Europeans are buying more American horses than ever, if anything, and it now seems that more than half of the world's cavalry will ultimately be supplied with American mounts.

European faith in the American horse for any purpose is, comparatively, a new thing. It was born of the slump in horseflesh on this side of the sea that came with the trolley and bicycle boom. Before that American prices were invariably too high for the European pocket, but then the surplus of horses soon became so great as to cut prices down two or three times in half, reducing them below the European figures, in fact. This encouraged buyers from abroad, and heavy shipments of horses soon began. It was not long after the first consignment of American beasts to the other side before their sterling qualities were fully recognized, and to-day they are among the most popular animals offered in any of the great European horse markets.

Nearly 70,000 horses were sent abroad from the United States last year. Of these, 42,070 were shipped from New York alone, and at the present rate the total shipments from that port will be larger this year than last.

At the present time shipments are going forward in greater numbers and with greater steadiness than ever before, said a gentleman connected with the export trade the other day, Regularly on Saturdays the Atlantic Transport line of steamers plying between New York and London carries a cargo of 350, while a like number is also taken each Saturday by the Wilson Furniss line, sailing direct for London. On Tuesdays regularly from 300 to 500 are taken by the big White star freighters, and on Saturdays there are shipments of almost equal proportions by the Hamburg-American boats. Besides, irregular shipments go by the Wilson line to Hull, Glasgow and London, fortnightly shipments are sent by the Phœnix line to Antwerp, and tramp steamers often include horses in their cargoes.

"The biggest dealers in these horses on the other side are, probably, William Croit, of Liverpool, and Pritchard & Moore, of London. They hold weekly sales, Croit's being on Tuesdays and Pritchard & Moore's on Wednesdays, and the number of horses disposed of by each every week is about 350.

"It would not be easy to find out how large a proportion of these horses are bought for cavalry service," the speaker continued, "but I have no doubt that a larger number of those going to Austria find their way into the cavalry than elsewhere. Unquestionably the cavalry service of that country now includes thousands of horses bred on this side of the water.

"Austrian cavalry horses are undoubtedly selected with greater care than those of any other country. Horses with hoofs pointing inward or outward are invariably rejected. To be accepted the hoofs should point straight to the front, since horses with such hoofs are rarely subject to 'interference' or 'over-reaching,' two vices which are considered decidedly detrimental in cavalry mounts. Horses with ewe necks and unduly sloping shoulders are also thrown out, while, of course, the animal with a deep chest, high withers and an arched neck is always in demand. American breeders have lately been paying especial attention to these points, and if the good work is continued right along the demand in this country for European cavalry horses is sure to increase almost indefinitely."

France and Russia probably come next to Austria as buyers of American horses for the cavalry service. Russia buys them in great numbers, openly, the same as Austria; but not so France. Such a course, as the writer was informed by the horseman above quoted, would raise the biggest kind of a row among the Gauls. They hold that everything bought by the government should be produced in France, if possible, and that French horses are second to none in the world.

This is unquestionably true with regard to heavy animals for draught purposes, but the French product of horses fit for cavalry falls far short of the demand. American horses get into the service, however, through the hands of speculators, who buy them at sales in Vienna, Bologna and Brussels and then take them in France, where they are turned out and kept for a season and then sold to the government as genuine French-bred animals.

American Horses Win English Championships.

Vivian Gooch, an Englishman who has a fancy for American horses, visited the New York Horse Show last fall, and while there purchased five horses which he took home with him. He entered these in the classes to which they were eligible at the Crystal Palace Horse Show held in London recently and captured two championships, eleven first prizes, and one second prize. The record is a remarkable one, for one of the horses, Star of the West, defeated all the cracks of England. The first victory for Star of the West was gained in a single harness class, the high quality of which may be imagined from the fact that the judges highly commended seven of the entries and gave only third prize to George Angus' American gelding, Von Harbinger, who, when shown by Joseph E. Widener of Philadelphia at Madison Square Garden last November, won the harness championship. Mr. Widener sold Von Harbinger to Mr. Angus for 920 guineas. In the class for horses that had not won first prizes, Star of the West again got the red ribbon (which stands for first prize at English shows), second being Louis Mieville's black gelding Mellon, by Monarch. There were fourteen entries in this class, and among the five commended was Mr. Angus' American chestnut gelding Silver Leaf, also sold by Mr. Widener as a mate to Von Harbinger.

Consternation was excited among the English breeders in the class for harness horses over 15 hands when Mr. Godsell's celebrated horses, Lady Lofty and Lord Bath, who have been in the habit of carrying off first prizes whenever shown, were obliged to take second and third prizes behind the American conqueror, Star of the West. There was a great furor and hubbub over the decision and much difference of opinion was expressed. In the last of the single classes, in which there were twenty entries, many of them American, speed and action were alike considered. N. Veraeke's American horse, a gray, won the first ribbon, and Walter Winan's brown gelding Lake Erie was placed second. Mr. Gooch won both first prizes in the classes confined to American horses, with Star of the West, who had Star of the East as his mate in the class for pairs, and also again beat Lord Bath and Duke of York in the class for big pairs and in the tandem class. Star of the West won the Championship of £10, given by Sir Walter Gilbey, which completed Mr. Gooch's marvelous success, his total being two champion prizes, eleven first prizes, and one second prize, with five horses shown.

Quite a number of harness horsemen left Portland last week for the Independence track, where they will train until the fall meetings begin, September 1st.

GOOD RACING CONTINUES.

Trotting Horse Breeders Providing First-Class Sport for the Public.

The admirer of light harness horses and contests of speed between them can surely be entertained by going to the Oakland track on any day of the meeting now in progress there under the auspices of the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders Association. The attendence is not all that could be desired, but there are many causes for this. Probably three hundred horsemen who are regular patrons of both running and trotting meetings are now absent in the East and Montana.

The Sausalito poolrooms take five or six hundred people across to the Marin shore every day, who would in all probability go to see the trotters if the opportunity to play twenty-four running events each day was not offered them. Taking everything into consideration the attendance has been fair throughout the meeting and as for the racing it has been most excellent. For a small crowd the betting is more than lively, and the bookmakers have been heavy losers on many occasions. The starting has been first-class. Delays are not tolerated and the last race is over by five o'clock every day.

ELEVENTH DAY--FRIDAY, JULY 8.

It was high class racing that the horsemen served up on Friday, July 8th at Oakland. There was an increased attendance over the previous days of the week, and all were pleased with the very excellent program offered by the Breeders Association. The first race of the day was won by Silver King, owned and driven by Pete Williams. Little Miss, still rather tender footed from the corns which had been bothering her, was second. Silver Ring trotted to a record of 2:18 and might have knocked a second off that had it been necessary.

All were pleased to see Mr. J. C. Kirkpatrick's mare Azelia win the special race. She took both heats handily, the fastest being 2:24¾. She was driven by Dan Mizner, whose judgment in rating a horse is equal to that of any driver at the track.

Rect, son of Direct and Lily Stanley, an odds on favorite, played with his field and won the 2:30 trot as he pleased. It is hard to guess just how fast this fellow can go. He wins every time he starts and has never been required to go better than 2:16½, but he can certainly knock several seconds from that mark.

In the race for 2:12 trotters, Aster won after a hot fight with Galette the last fifty yards of the mile. Brooks had to shake the son of Dexter Prince up quite lively at the end of it, but he lasted long enough to win. The mile was made in 2:12½.

Clay S., at 2 to 1, captured the 2:14 trot in 2:15¼, beating Osito, Mojave and Thompson. The big horse is one of the steadiest and best gaited trotters on the track, and can trot faster than his record which is 2:14.

TWELFTH DAY—SATURDAY, JULY 9.

The last day of the first two weeks of the meeting attracted quite a large attendance. There were several very close contests during the day and the favorites were beaten every time but once.

Two hours before the regular program began, the much-talked of match race between five horsee owned by members of the Golden Gate Park Driving Club came off. It was a two in three affair and was won by Haviland, driven by Geo. Berry. The best time was 2:27. After the race was finished, Mr. Stewart, owner of Dandy Pat, one of the beaten horses, challenged Haviland's owner for another mile. It was accepted and Haviland won again.

Two daughters of Nutwood Wilkes opened the regular program of the day by dropping into the list in a race especially arranged for them. Where Is She took the first heat in 2:25 and Central Girl got the next two in 2:22¼ and 2:28½.

Primrose was favorite for the race for pacers without records, but Resort was steady and fast that afternoon and he beat I Direct out in 2:15½ while the odds against him were 5 to 1. Primrose was third.

Inferno, having won his initial race in such fast time was made favorite for the 2:18 pace, but after Beechwood had won the first heat in 2:15¾, there were many who thought the Diablo colt was not quite so good as he had been. His backers stood by him, however, and he was heavily played. Just after getting the word in the second heat, however, tha hack strap of Inferno's herness broke and Murray was forced to dismount before reaching the quarter mile pole and led Inferno back to the stand. Beechwood won the heat in just the same time as the first, Butcher Boy giving him a pretty strong argument at the finish. Murray was certain that he could have won the race with his colt had the accident not happened.

There was another accident in the free for-all trot in which Zombro was the favorite. Aster broke and swerved at the far turn and Zombro collided with him, throwing Donathan out, wrecking the sulky, but doing no damage to himself. Donathan was not injured and the horse galloped for the gate leading to his stall and was easily stopped. Toggles and Ethel Downs had the race to themselves and the former won in 2:13 and looked as though he could have gone faster.

Little Thorn, who seems to outclass the majority of the pacers at the track was favorite in the 2:14 pace and won it easily after going to a stand still break when the word was given.

Plunkett finished last in the 2:14 pace, but that did not prevent his beating the horses that started against him in a special pace soon afterwards. Plunkett only had to pace in 2:18 to win this race. Hijo del Diablo was second. This colt is not as good as he was last year when he got a record of 2:11¼, and he showed nothing like his old time speed.

THIRTEENTH DAY—MONDAY, JULY 11.

Although the horses were competing for smaller purses on this, the third week of the meeting, the sport was first-class, and in the 2:13 trot, Mamie Griffin, Col. Henshaw's handsome daughter of Reavis' Blackbird, trotted a splendid race and lowered her own and the track record to 2:12. James Sullivan handled the mare in a superb manner. No driver has more patience than he with an erratic animal and he has had lots of experience with that sort. Mamie Griffin always had a world of speed, but is so nervous and high-strung that it has been almost impossible to get her to trot a full mile this early in the season.

The opening race of the day was a special for named pacers. Hijo del Diablo won, F. W. being second and Delphi third. F. W. is not acting right, but is very fast and when he rounds to and gets over his rankness he will be a hard one to beat.

Walter Mahen sprung a surprise on all but the Los Angeles contingent and his friends by winning the heat race, for 2:30 pacers, with the mare Lolita, a daughter of Sidney out of a mare by Altamont. Resort was the favorite and won the first heat, but was stopping badly and Lolita nearly nipped him out. She was then made favorite and won the next two in 2:17 and 2:18½. She would have won the first heat had not one of the tires on her bike blown up on the back stretch. Lolita was purchased by Mr. C. A. Winship at a Los Angeles auction sale for the munificent sum of $35 a few months ago.

President Knight's little bay mare, Silver Queen, won the 2:20 trot handily in 2:21, but her genial owner was not present to enjoy it, having taken a trip to his home in Marysville. Favor seemed to have the most speed but he could not stay the route, or else the clip was too fast for him.

"Our Jack," another fine-looking trotter belonging to Col. Henshaw, was driven to victory by Sullivan during the day. "Our Jack" was a favorite, won the race from start to finish and trotted the mile in 2:17¼. Myrtle Thorne was a good second and was timed separately in exactly the same notch. She got off a couple of lengths behind and trotted a good and game race.

FOURTEENTH DAY—TUESDAY, JULY 12.

New records were the rule at the track on Tuesday, six horses getting marks for the first time or reducing former records. There were six starters in the first race for 2:19 trotters. Myrtle Thorne was the favorite at 3 to 2, and won in 2:18, a quarter of a second below her former mark. She was splendidly rated by her driver, Billy Donathan, not going to the front until the half mile pole was reached. She trotted the last quarter in 33¾ seconds. Dr. J. was second.

In the 2:18 pace Beachwood was the favorite at 1 to 2. The daughter of Silkwood won easily enough in 2:15, the real race being between the little three-year-old filly, Dictatress and Butcher Boy for the place. Dictatress beat him by a head in a driving finish and stamped herself a game and consistent three-year-old. She has started three or four times a week since the meeting opened and has finished inside the money on nearly every occasion, although meeting aged horses that pace in 2:15 or better.

Two horses took lower records in the 2:15 pace. Much Better a bay mare by Charles Derby, won the first and last heats in 2:15½ and 2:19½, Abdine, son of Wilkesdale and Abbie Woodnut getting the second heat in 2,17½.

The special trot for named horses was the only race of the day in which a new record was not made, Boodle's son Thompson won it easily in 2:17¼, Mamie Riley being second. Mojave, unsteady as usual, lost the race by not being able to keep his feet. He had plenty of speed, however, and trotted very fast after, through a break, dropping at least a quarter of a mile behind the others.

The first attempt to decide the special race between Pilot McClellan, Menlo Belle, Listerine and Nelly Bly was something of a farce. Donathan was trying hard enough with Pilot McClellan; but the other three, all with more speed than he, seemed to be doing their best to avoid a record and at the same time secure second money. They laid back until Donathan was a safe distance ahead in the stretch, and then made a furious drive for place. The scheme did not work. The judges called it no heat, declared all bets off and made them trot the race over again. Pilot McClellan had completed the oval in 2:26½, but Nelly Bly won the second attempt in 2:20½ pulled up. Nelly Bly is by Starboul and should trot a mile in 2:18 or better when driven out.

FIFTEENTH DAY—WEDNESDAY, JULY 13.

The first two in three race that has required four heats to decide, opened the day's sport Wednesday. Silver Ring, Our Jack, Our Lucky, Mabel McKinney and Little Miss were the starters. Our Lucky and Our Jack were the favorites at even money. Our Lucky had just arrived from Los Angeles, where he had worked a mile in 1:12¾, so there was quite a play on him by the wise people who learn all these things. He won tha first heat easily in 2:16½, Mabel McKinney being second and Silver Ring third, Our Jack breaking and finishing fourth and Little Miss, still very sore from her corns, was distanced. It was 1 to 3 on Our Lucky for the next heat, and he would have won it had his driver sat still at the finish. But he saw Silver Ring coming fast and urged his horse to a break thirty yards from the wire and let him run in without making an effort to bring him to a trot. The heat was very justly given to Silver Ring, and the time, 2:15½, is a new mark for her. Our Jack had got settled down by this time and won the next two heats in 2:18 and 2:20¼. Our Lucky and Mabel being distanced in the third heat through disastrous breaks.

Game old Plunkett won again in the special for named horses. He can win whenever the time is not better than 2:17, and if he feels just right can come very near reaching his old mark of 2:13¾. If not allowed to go too fast to the half he can pace miles in about 2:18 all day. He won from Hijo del Diablo, who stopped badly in this race, F. W. and Delphi, not being in it at any stage of the game owning to their unsteadiness.

Mr. Falvey's horse, Resort, who is ably handled by Billy Donathan, did not have much trouble in winning the heat race for pacers. Resort is very fast, but must be rated or he will die away coming home. He can pace quarters any time in 31 seconds. Donathan drove him admirably in this race and did not allow him to pump himself out going the first part of the mile. Lady Margaret was a good second in both heats.

The last race of the day was for named horses, and was won by old Melvar, driven by Billy Johnson, the well known colored driver who has not been seen in the sulky for some time. The win was a very popular one, and Johnson got an ovation when he weighed in. Melvar won all the way.

SIXTEENTH DAY—THURSDAY, JULY 14.

No better day's sport or grander racing was ever held on the Grand Circuit track in the East than was seen at the Oakland track to-day. The free for all, in which Toggles covered himself with glory and reduced his record to 2:10¼, is fully described on the first page. Before the race the betting in the books was Toggles 3 to 2, Mamie Griffin 5 to 2, Zombro 4 to 5, Aster 5 to 2, Ethel Downs 5 to 1, and Clay S. 7 to 1. A round of applause greeted Toggles and his driver, Clark, when the latter dismounted.

In the 2:30 pace Resort won another victory end did it easily in 2:17¾, while Lady Margaret and the bay horse Don, by Falrose, had a very hot race for second money, the mare getting the verdict by half a length.

Much Better is justifying her name and her breeding and 2:10 is probably not beyond her reach this year. She won the heat race off the reel, putting in both in the same mark, 2:15¼, and did it in a jog.

Another son of Strethway went into the list when Lindo won the last race in 2:19½. Thomas H., a new green one by Dexter Prince out of a mare by old Thad Stevens, was the contending horse, though Polo looked to have speed to burn at the first score down, and that's what he probably did with it, for he broke badly and finished last.

High Breeding and Extreme Speed.

In reply to a question addressed to him as to whether the legal profession was not overcrowded even then, Daniel Webster replied: "There is always room—on top." Just so with trotting horse breeding. There always has and always will be an eager demand for an animal of the most extreme speed capacity, and at prices which leave an extremely handsome margin of profit to the breeder. There is no money in producing an animal of moderate speed, except sufficient size, beauty and elegance be joined thereto to make him desirable as a carriage or park horse, writes "B." in Turf, Field and Farm. The breeding industry is establishing itself on business lines more and more positively all the time, and I believe that those who recognize this fact and breed only for the highest excellence and the most extreme speed will be amply rewarded, while others will fall by the way, and I believe these objects can be obtained only by the judicious use of the right kind of thoroughbred blood. It would be simply rethreshing old straw to enumerate the large number of our greatest trotting performers that show the thoroughbred close up in their pedigrees. These are matters of fact, and history familiar to every thoroughly posted horseman.

We demand a higher character or type of horse for a successful campaigner at the present time than was the case a few years since. Our races are now trotted in time which although exciting no comment at the present, would have been formerly regarded as simply marvelous. When Flora Temple trotted in 2:19¾ it was boldly asserted and implicitly believed that the performance would never be duplicated. When Dexter trotted in 2:17¼ he was regarded as the wonder of the world, and when Goldsmith Maid excelled this performance by trotting in 2:17 her performance was doubted. The track was said to have been short, and the feat was widely commented upon. In fact, it was only after careful survey of the course by a perfectly competent civil engineer, who attested to its full length over his signature, that the performance was at length accepted. When this same mare later reduced her record to 2:14, she was the idol of the entire country, and men said her equal would never be seen. But all this is completely changed at the present time. Even two-year-olds now trot to faster records than any of the old time champions. In those days the time made in races was generally the fastest in the first and slower in each subsequent heat, and a race of five or six heats would show a great difference in the rate of speed. But this also is now changed. Heats are now not only trotted much faster, and the rate of speed not only maintained, but generally quickened as the race progresses. Races of five, six and seven heats are not infrequent where the time of the first heat is not only the slowest, but the time of all the heats will range within a second or so. Consequently, a successful campaigner at the present time must be a horse of greater speed and gamer than formerly, and we can introduce these qualities only by the judicious use of the right kind of thoroughbred blood.

A Meeting at Ingleside.

Members of the Golden Gate Driving Park Association held a meeting at the Palace Hotel, last Tuesday evening, and decided to give two days of matinee racing at Ingleside track, September 9th and 10th, the first being Admission Day and a legal holiday. A good program will be arranged and liberal purses offered. It is probable that there will be a larger list of entries than ever before in the history of this organization, and as the members are all enthusiastic boomers of their meetings, there is certain to be a large attendance. It would not surprise anyone if five or six thousand people turned out to see these races.

HOOF-BEATS.

The dams of eight 2:15 performers are booked to Wilkes Boy this season.

Joe Patchen, 2:01¼, will be almost wholly in the exhibition business this season, and most of his work will be in the East.

Fannie Putnam Andy McDowell's pacing mare by Christmas, won two heats and a record of 2:15¾ at Omaha in the three minute class, but could not land first money, being beaten out by Wiggaletta, a grey mare by Dumes.

As was predicted, the name White Hat is a hoodoo for the pacer sired by Col. K. R. that Dan McCarty sold. He paced a mile better than 2:10 in a trial, but has done nothing but get distanced in every race he has started in since.

John Nolan, 2:14, stands 16 hands high. He was a pacer last year, but shod with 10 ounce shoes forward and four-ounce toe weights is a good-gaited trotter. His sire is Prodigal (2:16) and his dam Fantasia, took a trotting record of 2:17¾ at Butte, Mont., last year. Fantasia is by Ranchero (2:18½), and he was by Clark Chief Jr., a son of Clark Chief, by Mambrino Chief. The dam of Ranchero was Mary Eagle whose sire was American Clay, and whose dam was by imported Hooten, sire of the second dam of the renowned Altamont. This chap is bred for a race winner.

This story is told at Hartford, where the interest in racing was never so keen as at present, pool selling or no pool selling. An Irishman wished to purchase a horse that could trot a mile in 2:10. A German friend sold him an animal that he guaranteed to do the trick. Our friend from Erin took the horse, secured a harness and sulky and went to the race track to try the speed of his new horse. The best trial mile was made in 3 10. This aggravated the Irishman and he started out to find the German who sold him the horse. When he succeeded in finding him, he was very much excited. In that state of mind he swooped down on the German saying: "Say Dutch you told me that the horse I bought from you could trot a mile in 2:10, but the best the stake could show me at the race track was 3:10!" "Vell," said the German, without ruffling up in the least, "can't you vait a minit?"

A Worcester, Mass., correspondent of the American Horse Breeder has this to say of a historical wagon: At the recent auction sale of horses and carriages of the late ex-Mayor Pratt, held in Worcester, June 13, 1898, there was sold a skeleton wagon with a history. Hitched to this wagon Flora Temple trotted her fastest mile to wagon, making the champion record for those days—2:24½. This occurred in 1856. The wagon was bought by F. J. Nodine, of whom the late Mayor Pratt purchased it. It was built by the late Peter Dubois, of New York city, who was then considered the best builder of skeleton wagons in the world. E. S. Pierce, the well-known wine dealer, purchased the wagon, and the next morning hitched his two pacers, Major Wonder, 2.09¾, and Uncle Tom, 2:14¾, to it, and gave them a mile over the Agricultural Park at Worcester in 2:35¼. The venerable wagon is now nearly as good as when new, and Mr. Pierce says it sits as easy as any he has ever used. This relic should call to mind the deeds done in the olden times, when Hiram Woodruff was a conspicuous figure on the trotting turf.

Sable Wilkes and Ellen Mayhew.

The Providence Open Air Horse Show was a complete success. The Bryn Mawr Farm, Hon. F. C. Sayles, proprietor, had a splendid lot of horses to exhibit. Sable Wilkes clearly outranked any competition and I know of but one or two here in New England that have a right to be counted better than he as an all round sire of trotters, says a correspondent of Trotter and Pacer. To begin, he is a grandson of the founder of the Wilkes dynasty; his sire, Guy Wilkes, was the greatest race horse and sire begotten by George Wilkes; himself a race horse of the highest order, and a holder of the four-year-old record of his time, and lastly the sire of speed early and extreme, as is shown by Oro Wilkes, record of 2:11.

A nice point was made in the decision regarding the best broodmare. Mr. Sayles showed Ellen Mayhew, 2:22, by Director; she is the dam of Oro Wilkes, 2:11, and several others. She won first prize; no mare in this Eastern country can parallel her record of production. Last year at the Boston Horse Show the judges placed her second to Nancy Hanks, 2:04, which had a very good-looking yearling by Arion, that was all; it was undeveloped and had all of its education to gain and its ability to prove, before it could in the sense for which it was bred entitle its mother to a position superior as a matron to one which had five grand examples in speed production. Ellen Mayhew, 2:22, Alix, 2:03¾, and a mare by Red Wilkes which was the dam of a horse with a record of 2:16¼, were shown in the broodmare class. Ellen Mayhew received the first premium, the Red Wilkes mare, the producer, was second and Alix third, and here there was a bit of criticism against the inferior award to the great racing queen. It seems unwarranted. Alix was a great trotter, superior to Nancy Hanks, we think, but as a broodmare, she is not in the class, she has never bred, and had she, then the value of her produce would have to be tested before she could be called a better broodmare than the New England dams which produced the trotters, George A., 2:12½, and Bismarck, 2:13¾, both trotters and race horses, now in Europe. They both excel Nancy Hanks and Alix so far and so does the mare shown by Red Wilkes.

A Two-Mile Race.

On Wednesday last a match race for $25 a side came off over the Oakland track between two horses owned by members of the Golden Gate Park Driving Club. They were both trotters, one being the gelding Reetinous, by Antinous, owned by Mr. Schwartz, the other the handsome little mare Lottie, owned by Mr. C. W. Parks. Lottie is by Cupid and her dam by Bismarck. Dr. Dalziel, the well known veterinary, was selected as stakeholder, judge, time-keeper and starter and performed the Pooh Bah act to the satisfaction of all concerned. There was but little scoring and they got away to a good start. Lottie was a little too speedy for her rival and won in 5:10, the first mile being trotted in 2:40, the second in 2.30. After the finish there was some talk of making the race over for $100 a side, but it did not amount to anything but talk. The race was trotted at 12 o'clock, two hours before the races under the auspices of the Breeders Association were held, and though not more than a hundred people were on the grounds at the time, the interest manifested over the result exceeded that aroused by many of the regular contests.

Palo Alto Stock Farm,
Menlo Park, Calif., June 24, 1898.
Mr. B. H. De Huy, Denver, Colo., Dear Sir:—I have given your "Balmoline" a thorough trial and find it to be a specific for healing flesh wounds, cracked heels, chafes and sores. It's healing qualities are unsurpassed. I believe it to be the best in use. Yours respectfully,
F. W. Covey, Supt. Horse Dep't.

Sulky Notes.

READ the State Fair announcement on last page.

PERCY, by Ponca da Leon, was second in 2:16¼ at Columbus, O., and acted like a race horse.

FRANK WALKER has been engaged to handle the flag during the Kentucky Breeders meeting.

WAYLAND W. got third money in the 2:12 trot at Detroit. Best time in the race was 2:13¼.

EXPLOIT, the son of Clay that made a pacing record of 2:15½ at Columbus, has a trotting record of 2:19¼.

BUMPS had a license to defeat Chehalis at Peoria, as his record is 2:04¾, while Chehalis' best mark is 2:05¼.

DR. BOUCHER won with Miss Logan at Ottawa, Ill. 2:13½ in the second heat was the best she was asked to do.

JASPER AYRES, 2:11¼, by Iris, is in training at Readville Park and will be raced this season by A. J. Lee, of Boston.

SEARCHLIGHT and Dione won at Peoria Thursday. The pacer cut his record to 2:07 and Diona reduced hers to 2:11¼.

F. W. LEAVITT, programmer of the California Jockey Club, has secured the program privilege for the California State Fair.

THE horseman who have seen Homboldt Maid 2:13¼ being given her work at Peoria, Ill., think she will get a mark of 2:10 this year.

2:10 WILL be beaten in California this year, and if Zombro keeps as good as he is now, 2:08 ought to be opposite his name by September.

IN the 2:30 pace at Hartford, Conn., July 6th, Arlington, a green pacer, took a record of 2:09¾ and won two heats, but was beaten in the race.

THE famous little Electioneer mare, Bonita, 2:18¾, owned by J. W. Hull, Minneapolis, Minn., has been bred to Cervus, 2:23½, son of Sphinx.

THE free-for-all trot, mile heats, best two in three, should draw a big crowd to the Oakland track to-day. It will be a contest from start to finish.

ANY live man or association that will get up a week's trotting meeting at Stockton or Santa Rosa during the month of August can make it pay.

QUICKLY, a bay gelding by Hummer, is booked for a low record this year. He won a four-heat race at Detroit last week and paced to a mark of 2:14½.

JOHN A. MCKERRON won the three-year-old race at Ottawa, Ill., so easily that it was not even a workout for the great colt. The fastest time was 2:26.

STAR POINTER paced an exhibition mile at Peoria last Thurday in 2:02¼. He will equal his record of 1:59¼ this fall if he keeps right and may lower it a shade.

REGAL WILKES, 2:11¾, is dead. He was a bay stallion 11 years old, sired by Guy Wilkes, 2:15½, dam Margaret, 2:28, by Sultan, and was the sire of Last Chance, 2:16¼.

JOHN NOLAN, 2:14, and Querist, 2:14½, were both foaled at Marcus Daly's Bitter Root Ranch, Montana, in 1893, but were sold by Mr. Daly before they were developed.

V. BOCK, Berlin, Germany, has bought of Major Sam Morgan, Lexington, the trotting mare Lillie B., by Constantine, 2:12½, dam Albion, by General Benton, price $2,000.

ED GEERS won every race on the opening day at Charter Oak Park, and the winning horses were all Village Farm entries. The next day he won both races in which he had entries.

IT is announced that Atlanta, the dam of Alix, 2:03¾, has not been bred to Sable Wilkes, as was reported, but has been sent to New Hampshire to be mated with Patronage, the sire of Alix.

A HORSEMAN of Carthage, Mo., has named his horse Umbrella. He ought to be good on a wet track.—Turf, Field and Farm. Yes, as his owner will always have a shade the best of it.

BIDS for the betting privileges of the California State Fair will be received by Secretary Smith up to August 18th. The privilege will be let as a whole—hooks, auctions and mutuels to be used.

DIRECTUM KELLY, four-year-old son of Direct, lowered his record to 2:14¼ at Hartford last week. He is entered in the M. and M. stake, and other large stakes and purses to be trotted this year.

IQUIQUE, by Clay, in Al Hutchings' stable, seems to have the makings of a really fast trotting stallion in him, judging from the way he finished at Columbus a close second in the 2:40 trot, in 2:16½.

It is reported that the management of the national horse show has decided to prohibit all blue ribbon winners at any of its previous shows from competing in any but championship classes.

THOMAS H. is a pretty fair pacer for a green horse. He was second in his first race in 2:19½. He is a large horse and a good looker, and was sired by Dexter Prince out of a mare by old Thad Stevens, the great four miler.

THE fastest heat ever paced in an actual race in this State is the 2:07 made by Silkwood at Santa Ana, where he met W. Wood in the free for all for a purse of $1,000. Silkwood won in straight heats, the other two being in 2:09¾ and 2:09.

SAMUEL GAMBLE calls our attention to the fact that the pedigree of Claos Almont, 2:12½, was quoted wrong in these columns last week. He is by Santa Claus, out of Balla Byron by Bowman's Clark Chief, second dam Bella Hook, by Almont.

A CARLOAD of mares have been shipped from Spokane Wash., to be bred to McKinney. In the lot is the dam of Klamath, who foaled a fine filly on the car while on the way. Another is Deta, a sister to Chehalis, 2:05¼, owned by W. H. Peel.

THERE are a great many stock breeders who are pretty fair politicians. They should remember that the members of the Legislature and the Governor to be elected this fall should be men who are friendly to the stock interests and in favor of the district fairs.

HENRY BOKHOLT, of Malta, Mont., has returned from Crookston, Minn., to which place he has just taken three carloads of horses. He states that the Eastern horse market is improving right along and he intends to make another shipment in the near future.

THE report published in some of the eastern papers that Secretary Gocher of the National Trotting Association had waived the license rule at the Valley Park meeting is pronounced false by that gentleman. Mr. Gocher is not given to waiving National rules.

CHEHALIS was beaten in his race at Peoria, Illinois Wednesday. Bumps took first money, Chehalis second and Anaconda third. The best time in the race was 2:05. As the telegraph gives no further particulars of the race we shall have to wait until next week for a full account.

JESSE BROWN, of Corvallis, is enthusiastic over his two-year old Altago stallion. The animal is out of Juliet by Pathmont. He tipped the beam last week at 940 pounds, and is undoubtedly destined to become the largest Altago ever born. He is to be taken to the Oregon State Fair this fall.

THE following horses went in the list at the Portland meeting: Anna J. (p), 2:21¼, by Conifer—Dashwood; Granite, 2:27½, by Deputy—by Guy Wilkes; Walter A. (p), 2:28¼, by King Patchen—Hazel (dam of Ann Alene, 2:22½), by Chance, son of Rockwood; Ben Bolt (p), 2:25, by Alexis—by Duroc Prince.

MAMIE GRIFFIN, 2:12, a handsome large black mare, with grand trotting action, game and full of nervous energy, should make a great broodmare when her racing days are over. The chances of her being in the great broodmare list as soon as she has a couple of foals old enough to be trained will be first-class.

QUITE a number of harness horses at Portland were not among the number of starters at the spring meeting. Among them we mention Meteor, 2:17¼, Miss Jessie, 2:14, Bonner N. B., 2:17., Helen J., 2:22½, McMinnville Maid, 2:22, Sleepy Tom, 2:28, Lady Carefnl, 2:31½, besides a number of youngsters and green ones.

ANSELMA, 2:29½, by Ansel, lately foaled prematurely three dead foals, two fillies and a colt. All were perfectly formed and the same color and markings as their sire, Starkirk. Anselma was one of Robert Bonner's consignment to the Kellogg sale last December, and was bought by E. D. Eldridge of Stephentown, N. Y.

THE fastest heat ever made in a trotting race in California was made by Ottinger, son of Dorsey's Nephew, at Stockton September 25, 1896. He defeated Iago, Stam B., Altao, Toggles, Visalia and Ethel Downes. Iago won the first heat in 2:11¼, Ottinger taking the next three in 2:09¾, 2:10¼ and 2:09¾. Stam B. was second in three heats.

IN the matter of purchasing new grounds for the track and stock quarters for the State Agricultural Society's exhibits a committee, consisting of Directors Barrett, Wilson and Cox, has been named to consider sites and prices of locations offered and submit its findings to the board. This will require at least sixty days, after which final action will be taken.

ONE hundred and ten foals have so far this year put in an appearance at Oaklawn Farm, Wayne, Ill., dropped by pure-bred French coach and Percheron mares. There are yet some ten or a dozen mares to foal. In addition considerably over a score of half-bred French coach foals have been dropped by trotting-bred and other native mares at that farm.

MANON 2:21, winner of fifty heats better than 2:30 (dam of A. L. Kempland 2:18½; Eclipse 2:25¾, and Milroi), is dead at Bitter Root Stock Farm, Montana. She was a bay, 15¾ hands high, twenty-one years old, and was bred by the late J. W. Knox at San Jose, Cal.; was a full sister to Woodnut 2:16½, being by Nutwood 2:18½ and out of Addie 2:39, by Hasbrouck's Hambletonian Chief. She had at foot a foal by Baronade.

ED B. YOUNG, a brown gelding, four years old, bred by Monroe Salisbury and by Direct 2:05½, out of Lilly Langtry, by Nephaw, won the 2:20 pace at Charter Oak July 8th, taking a record of 2:11¼. As a two year old Ed. B. Young paced to a mark of 2:22. His dam Lilly Langtry is also the dam of Dudley 2:14. Dr. Latham, of Oakland, who started East with a stable of horses yesterday, has a two-year-old by Diablo whose second dam is Lilly Langtry as above.

JULY 6th was a day of casualties at Charter Oak Park, Hartford, Conn. In the final heat of the 2:09 pace, Reina fell on the first turn, throwing her driver, Bowen, violently to the ground. He was picked up unconscious, having sustained quite serious injuries. Bright Light, driven by the Village Farm trainer, "Ed" Geers, was trailing Reina, and she went over the mare, throwing Geers from his sulky and dislocating one of his ankles. In the fifth heat of the 2:20 trot, Milan Chimes, one of the best green trotters in the Village Farm stable, fell dead in the homestretch, after having won two heats.

THERE was lots of fun at Willows on the Fourth. A race for hoggy horses came off over the track at that place. It was won by Geo. Mellor's Major in three straight heats after Col. Crawford's Venus had won the first heat. The best time was made by Major who trotted the second heat in 2:56.

MASCOT, by Stamboul, who sired Querist, 2:14½, was sold at auction in New York nine years ago, when he was two years old and untried, both as a trotter and a sire of trotters, yet he was by Stamboul, 2:07½, from the great broodmare Minnehaha, by Stevens' Bald Chief. The bidding was spirited and stopped at $26,000, Marcus Daly being the purchaser. Mascot, however, proved of little account in any manner; and it is said was afterward sold by Mr. Daly for $125.

MUCH BETTER, a bay mare by Chas. Derby from None Better by Allandorf, son of Onward, is another of the many good ones bred at the Oakwood Park Stock Farm. Her mark of 2:15¼, made at the Breeders meeting this week, is not the measure of her speed and she is very likely to get a mark below the teens before the year is out. She is four years old, is owned by Dr. Bull, and has been driven some by Mr. A. H. Cohen on the Alameda track. She is now being handled by C. F. Bunch.

A THOUSAND persons attended the races at the Coronado race track, San Diego, on the Fourth of July. The three minute trot was won by Mr. Fred Fanning's Pat C., the best time being 2:34 W. H. Phillip's Midget and C. A. Schreder's Highland Lad started in a match race, which was won by the former in 2:39. A pacing race was won by I. L. Borke's Milo, the best time being 2:32. The day's sport concluded with a half mile and repeat running race. This was won by Mr. Silbes's Prince in the fairly good time, for the track, of 51 seconds.

"WHEN W. B. Fasig hears of that race he will be kicking himself because he did not buy Toggles when he had a chance," said Sam Gamble at the track Thursday when Strathway's son had won the free-for-all and took a new record of 2:10½. "When Fasig was out here he learned that Toggles was for sale," continued Mr. Gamble, "and went down to look at him, but did not take him for some reason. I never saw an easier or prettier driver than that fellow, and he would be worth a good deal of money in New York for a road horse, and very few would have any license to outbrush him. I believe he could pull a wagon around the Cleveland track in 2:10."

EVERY lover of a good horse will be sorry to learn that Stam B., 2:11¼, has been shipped back to his owners, Tuttle Bros., of Rocklin, Placer county, in charge of Mr. J. Ivey, the gentleman who has given him most of his training since his colthood. He was entered some in the East and both Mr. Ivey and Mr. Keating, who was to drive him in his races, thought he had a chance to beat all trotters. His trouble is a splint on the outside of one front leg below the knee. It retired him prematurely last season and laid him on the shelf again during the Denver meeting this spring. When Stam B. is right there are few horses that have any license to beat him, and Keating thought that 2.05 would not stop him.

THERE is a report current at the Oakland track that just before the last race on Wednesday last, Capt. B. E. Harris hired a small boy to go to Melvar's stall and play on a harmonica that popular negro melody, "Mr. Johnson, Turn Me Loose." At any rate, when Melvar appeared on the track for the last race, that old-time colored jockey and driver, Billy Johnson, was behind him, attired in a flaming red coat and cap, and when the word was given he took the old horse out in front and kept him there until at the finish it was Melvar first and the rest nowhere. When Johnson emerged from the stand after weighing out there was an outburst of cheers and applause that would have been a compliment to a military hero.

STRATHWAY, the sire of Toggles, 2:10¼, is certainly a great sire of speed for his opportunities. Besides Toggles, he is the sire of Strathmont, 2:12½, Homeward, 2:13½, Annie Roonay, 2:17, Lindo, 2:19½, Stoneway, 2:23¾, and several others. Strathway was bred by A. L. Whitney, and is by Steinway out of Mr. Whitney's great mare, Countess, the dam of Dawn, 2:18¾, one of the fastest horses that ever looked through a bridle in California. Countess was by Hambletonian 725, out of a mare called Fly, of unknown breeding. Strathway is himself a fast horse and has a record of 2:19, made at Tulare in 1892. Being by that great sire of speed, Steinway, and out of Countess, Strathway cannot help but sire very fast horses when bred to the proper mares.

ANOTHER car-load of California horses left for the East yesterday over the Central Pacific. Dr. H. S. Latham's string of four, consisting of Secret, 2:27, by Secretary, a two-year-old by Diablo out of a mare by Richard's Elector, and a gelding, full brother to J. R., 2:17¼, were in the car; also O. Marchand's Lady O., 2:15, the two-year-old filly Jeannetta, by Chas. Derby from Lady O., and a colt called Woodmark out of Lady O., by a son of Antavolo. Mr. Louis Schaffer sent the two pacers, Arthur L., 2:15, and Toots, a green horse by Monbars out of the dam of Arthur L. These horses will be entered in the new Western Circuit. Jeannatte, Mr. Marchand's filly, is entered in the two-year-old division of the Kentucky Futurity to be trotted this year.

THE first world's record of the year was made in the road wagon race at Hartford, on July 4th. The Abbot reducing the recognized wagon record first to 2:14 and then to 2:12¼. The old race record was 2:16¾, made several years ago, by Hickok's gelding Alfred S., who hauled one of the high-wheeled skeleton wagons. Later in a trip against the watch Guy trotted in 2:13 to bike, a record eclipsed by the Chimes gelding in his second heat. But Elloree, at a Cleveland matinee, trotted in 2:10. No official recognition was given her performance however, and her owner was, last fall, shown that the record, straight and beyond question was hers by simply arranging an afternoon's sport to rule. Mr. Morris haliavad that Elloree's marks were safe as they stand, as if recorded in the books. There is danger, however, that The Abbot may deprive her of her honor. That he is a remarkably fast horse is shown by the fact that he trotted the last part of the second heat (to wagon) as fast as Ellorea ever went a first half to sulky—last half 1:03, last quarter, 30¼ seconds.—American Sportsman.

State Fair Stakes.

The following stakes have been offered for runners at the California State Fair which opens September fifth and continues two weeks. Entries to these stakes will close on August 15th:

The Victor Stakes—For three-year-olds and upward. Entrance $10, to accompany nomination; $15 additional for horses not declared by 4 P. M. day preceding race, with $300 added by the society, of which $50 to the second and $25 to the third; $100 additional and stake to be named after winner if Victor's time 1:40, is beaten. One mile.

Novel Racing at Elkwood.

Racing without revenue is something of a novelty to the professional racegoer, and racing without betting is even a more novel idea. But both of these things happened on the Fourth of July at Elkwood Park, N. J., where "Phil" Daly, Jr., the crack amateur pigeon shot, and a number of the other young men of his set in Monmouth County, N. J., ran a race meeting. The track is almost within a stone's throw of the magnificent race track built on the old Withers estate, which was abandoned as a race track when New Jersey adopted a Constitutional amendment making bookmaking illegal, and the few New York racing men who journeyed down to Elkwond were reminded of former great equine struggles when they passed the Monmouth Park track.

The crowd at Elkwood Park was not a very large one, even though Monday was an off day in racing in the vicinity of New York, but there was racing with lincansed Jockey Club jockeys and horses that ran on the big tracks, and that is what New Jersey has not had since the reform wave swept over it. Judge Joseph J. Burke was in the stand as the representative of the Jockey Club, which granted the license for the meeting, and Mat Byrnes, formerly the trainer for Marcus Daly, handled the flag. There were four thoroughbred races and a trotting match, best three in five, and the sport on the whole was clean and interesting.

The meeting was, of course, run at a loss, for the purses were of $300 each, and there were no privileges to let out, but Mr. Daly and his companions demonstrated that racing can be conducted in New Jersey even under the present stringent laws. Whatever speculation was indulged in did not appear on the surface, but the quiet smiles of the men told plainly enough that there was enough speculation to satisfy them, even if it was in the form of private wagers.

The trotting affair was a match race arranged by Dr. Gagnon, whose encounter with Frank Beard at the Waldorf-Astoria, while the Horse Show was going on at Madison Square Garden last fall, is still remembered by society men. Dr. Gagnon and Percy Higgins, a well-known society man, trotted their horses, and Mr. Higgins won the match in the fifth heat.

The results of the running races were: Five furlongs—Rose May won, Col. Tenny second, Kostrelitzkri third. Time, 1:09½. Second race, six furlongs—Lew Ryan won, Stay Sail second, St. Fiusquin third. Time, 1:23. Third race, five furlongs—Sir Florian won, Water Girl second, Kostrelitzkri third. Time, 1:09½. Fourth race, one mile—Black Dude won, Alerum second, Ella Daly third. Time, 1:55½.

The Horse in Battle.

A veteran cavalry horse partakes of the hopes and fears of battle just the same as his rider. As the column swings into line and waits, the horse grows nervous over the waiting. If the wait is spun out he will tremble and sweat and grow apprehensive. If he has been six months in service he knows every bugle call. As the call comes to advance the rider can feel him working at the bit with his tongue to get it between his teeth. As he moves out he will either seek to get on faster than he should or bolt. He cannot bolt, however. The lines will carry him forward and after a minute he will grip, lay back his ears, and one can feel his sudden resolve to brave the worst and have done with it as soon as possible. When the troopers begin to cheer and the sabers to flash the horse responds. An exhilitation fills his heart; he will often scream out, and his eyes blaze and are fixed steadily in front. No matter how obstinate he was at the start, he will not fail as the lines cover the last fifty feet of space. If a volley comes and he is unhurt he will lower his head and toss it right and left, and then take a sudden breath for the crash. If charging infantry he will thunder straight at a man and knock him down; if against a line of horsemen, he will lift his head and front feet as if going over a fence.

A man seldom cries out when hit in the turmoil of battle. It is the same with a horse. Five troopers out of six when struck with a bullet are out of their saddles within a minute. If hit in the breast or shoulder up go their heads and they get a heavy fall; if in the leg, or foot, or arm, they fall forward and roll off. Even with a foot cut off by a jagged piece of shell a horse will not drop. It is only when shot through the head or heart that he comes down. He may be fatally wounded, but hobbles out of the fight to right or left and stands with drooping head until loss of blood brings him down. The horse that loses his rider and is unwounded himself will continue to run with his set of fours until some movement throws him out. Then he goes galloping here and there neighing with fear and alarm, but will not leave the field. In his racing about he may get among the dead and wounded, but he will dodge them if possible, and in any case leap over them. When he has come upon three or four other ridarless steeds they fall in and keep together, as if for mutual protection, and the "rally" on the bugle may bring the whole of them into ranks in a body.

A horse which has passed through a battle unwounded is fretful, sulky and nervous—the same as a man—for the next three or four days. His first battle is also the making or unmaking of him as a war horse. If the nervous tension is too great he will become a bolter in the face of danger. If the test has not been beyond him he will go into the next fight with head held high and flecks of foam blowing from his mouth as he thunders over the earth.—St. Louis Republic.

Saddle Notes.

Polish won three races in foor days at Butte.

George Snider has gone to Lewiston, Idaho, to ride for Joeeph Porter.

Gotobed won at a mile and seventy yards at St. Loois last Monday in 1:47¾.

Sam Hildreth has bought for W. A. Pinkerton of L. A. Legg the horses Candleblack and Floronso for $5,000.

Satsuma won at Washington Park last Monday, displaying his old-tima form and ronning six and a qoarter furlongs in 1:17.

Miss Rowena hroka the Montana record for five and a half forlongs by running that distance in 1:07½ at Botta on Monday last.

Hermanita was jammed against the rail at Butte and so badly injured that sha will probobly not face the starter again at that meeting.

W. Overton is engaged in all tbe two-year-old stakes at Saratoga and Morris Park, as also in the Junior Champion Stakes, worth $15,000.

St. Louis racing is patronized better tban ever. The averaga attendance is 3.500, and tbere are usoally seventeen bookmakers doing business.

John S. Campbell, trainer for H. L. Frank is praised hy the Botte papers for tha splendid condition in which his horses hava gona to the post.

Bromley & Co.'s colt, Rosebod, by Duke of Montrose, dropped dead aftar fioishing last in a five-furlong raca at Brighton Beach last Toesday.

J. Lamly has obtained his release from tha stabla of M. F. Dwyer. Lamly thought he coold secore more racing mounts as a frea lanca, and Mr. Dwyer consented to the change.

Rancho del Paso yearlings ware sold at New York recently. Mr. Mackey still has nearly a hondred more left at Peoria, Ill., and is thinkiug of disposing of tham by public sala in Chicago.

Hiero, the three-year-old colt by Salvator–Firenzi, started in a maiden race at Butte, July 8th, a warm favorite and finished third. Ha won five and a half furlongs last Wednesday in 1:12¼.

Winning straight mutoals at Botte July 8th, averaged $49.30. This would mean in hookmaking ahont 9 to 1. Tha largest was $85.50 and the smallest $16.40. Placa averaged $23.94, or nearly 4 to 1.

H. L. Frank's chestnot colt Mallakwa won a fiva furlong race at Butte Joly 5:h, aftar jomping over the harrier like a hurdler and running away for a quarter of a mile. Tha two year old beat Ray Hooker by a length in 1:02.

The attendance at the Butta maeting averages ahout fifteen hundred daily, and tha betting is spirited. Nothing hut tha motoel system is allowed, and it seems to not only suit tbe pohlic, bot is very profitable to the association.

May Boy, tha St. Carlo colt, on whosa accoont B. C. Crampton was extradited to California for alleged embezzlament, is still in tha hands of Crampton's friends at Botte. Johnnie McLaughlin has attached the horse for wages doe.

McPryor, an old "skate" that has heen on the Montana turf saveral seasons, gave everybody a surprise at tha Butta track July Foorth, hy winning a hurdle race. Mutuals paid $225.60. At Danver tbis horse ran second in a similar race.

The following notica signed "J. Howard, Secretary," is posted in tha Washington paddock: "Beginning with the races Monday, Joly 11tb, the declaration fee in fields of four or less horses will he 25 per cent, of the first money of the porse.

Floronso, bay colt hy Fonso that ran bere last season, won at Washington Park Joly 6th, running one mile and fifty yards in 1:42½. While working ona morning a few days previoos, ha ran off with his rider and covered a half mile in 48 seconds.

The Stewards at Latonia were called opon to act in tha matter of the osa of electrical appliances hy jockeys. They did it with sommary swiftness, ruling off the track a man locally noted in politics and otherwiss, Arlis Duffy, togetber with his trainer, C. H. Derbold, and W. W. Charchen, an electrician.

In 1892 W. O'B. McDonoogh sold Sinfax to parties in Laka coooty, Oregon, who hava since osed the fast son of Wildidla in tha stnd, and in the reports of Oregon races we notice that tha sons of Sinfax are winning races on tha "cow paths" as tha Oregon tracks are called.

Fire hroka out at the St. Louis track, Joly 6th, and destroyed the Schreiber, Maffit, Simmons, Maddox, McHale, Cravaling and Bernays' barns. Three of the Bernays horses, Equitome, Anonyma and a two-year-old wera horned to death. Two of Creveling's, Abe Fashion and a two-year-old, wera also destroyed. All the otber borses wara saved.

Phillip Fair, a three-year-old by Racine, won two races at tbe Lake View, Oregon fair the first week in Joly. One was a dash of six furlongs, tha other at one mile and an eighth. The track was a slow one. The time of tha first raca was 1:17. The mile and an eighth was ron in 2:02.

Espirage, by the Belle Meade sire, Inspector B., has hesn beating most of the good two-yaar-olds at Chicago. She has recently won fiva straight races for Louis Ezell, and that gentlemen, who is a breeder in a small way himself, is going to prepare this filly specially for her Futurity engagement at Sheepshead this fall.

Present owners of mares directly descended from imp. Miss Lumley might ohtain a purchaser hy addressing Thos. G. Stevenson, New York, who is most anxious to secore some of this stock. Miss Lumley was the dam of several fillies, and Mr. Stevenson wonld deem it a favor if he were informed of their whereabovts.

Osculation, now in Montana, comes honestly by her speed, her sire heing the great Salvator, while her dam, Yum Yum, by Ojoondago, was a grand raca mare, sha having ron a daad heat over the Saratoga track with tbe mighty Kingston, 1 1 8 mile in 1:54. Yum Yom is also the dam of tha stake winner, Nanki Pooh.

The Washirgton Park Club of Chicago, having promised Mayor Harrison to regulate open pool selling at the race track hy removing the hatting stands and otherwise regulating hetting, the Mayor has expressed himself as satisfied, and unless the Civic Federation takes tha matter op again, there will ba no forther interference with the Washington Park meetirg.

Ogden, Johnny Campbell's discovery and Futority winner, has developed into a great race horse this year. On Jone 30:h he won a mile race handily and July 2d won tha Long Island Handicap, defeating, among other good ones, the great Ornament. Mr. Daly appears to hava made an advantageous changa in placing his horses in the hands of Lakeland.

The sale of the Glenwood yearlings at Brighton Beach last week was not a very great success. The fourteen head sold brought a total of $2,085 an averaga of less than $150. A filly by Dr. Hasbroock—Nyanza sold for $10, another hy the sama sire from Lsdy Clementina brought hot $25 and several more sold for less than $50. But four bronght over a hundred dollars.

At Oceanside, San Diego county, Saturday, July 2d, a match race for $150 a side came off hetween H. P. Mills gray mare Desdamona and William Wolf's chestnot horsa Palo mares. Tha distanca was ona mile and Palomares won from start to fioish in 1:53. Nearly the entire populaion of the little town of Oceanside attended tha raca and many hundreds of dollars changed hands on the result.

The best yearling sale of the year in point of prices realized was Wm. Easton's sale of L. O. Applehy's Silver Brook Farm yearlings at Sheepshead Bay. Twenty four head bronght $25 575, an average of $1,065.62. Tha star of the lot was a magnificent hay colt by Hanover—Ursuline Nun, whicb Bromley & Co. secured for the sum of $9,500 after a hot hidding contest with Sydney Paget and John E. Madden.

"Tod" Sloan, the premier jockay of America, is seriously ill at his cottage at Sheepshead Bay, suffering from appendicitis. Nohody except Sloan's most intimate friends knew anything of his illness until just before the races on Wednesday. Sloan was hilled to ride several moonts, which, accordingly, were heavily backed. When tbey came to the post Tod was not op, and the story of his illness circolated through the stables.

If the romors going ahont New York are troe Tod Sloan will remain in this country next year and ride for Mr. W. C. Whitney. Of course, if Tod has been induced to give op his riding Englisb horses in 1899, it has been hy the offer of a princely retainer, and there is no doobt bot the pay he will receive for riding Mr. Whitney's horses will he much larger than that gentleman received for attending to the many doties which devolved upon him as Secretary of the Navy.

The list of winning owners at tha Coney Island Jockey Club meeting shows the excellent forming of ths conditions for the different days in the general resolt. Of the $135,000 distribnted in stakes and porses no less than eighty five owners ara represented. Ths highest individoal winning was by Sydney Paget, who, mainly through Jean Bereaud's victory in the Dooble Event, carried off $21,130, whils Hamburg and Marcos Daly's other cracks broogbt his total winnings up to $20,710.

"Curley" Brown, the crack starter, writes from Buffalo tbat the racing game at Fort Erie is excellent and that tbe sport is daily growing in favor There are plenty of horses and good ones, too, at the Canadian track, and the game is anything hot soft. Brown also writes that ths coming meeting at Montreal will be backed by a clnb composed of 400 of the city's hest business men, and it promises to he a grand soccess. The horsemen following tha Palmer-Hendrie circoit are well satisfied with their treatment, and the syndicate has made a hig soccess of it.

Heliobas, tbe $10,000 colt, is no longer in the hands of Frank Jones. Eugena Leigh, who is to handle the colt for Bromley & Co., sent his foreman, Frank Kelly, down from Chicago to Latonia to take charge of him, and Mr. Jones turned the son of Farandole over to his owner's representative. Tbe veteran trainer was very much delighted to ha relieved of his charge. Mr. Kelly and Dr. Queen, Bromley & Co.'s private veterinary, will giva the valuable colt the closest attention ontil his condition is such as to maka tha trip safe, when Kelly will take him to Chicago.

Ed Corrigan was at Latonia last week, retorning from the farm at Midway, Ky., where his yearlings are kept. He reports tha youngsters all in good shape, with some very promising ones among them. Asked if Hawthorna wonld open this season, he said: 'Yes, immediately following tha closa of the Washington park meeting." Wben asked if he expected "the other fellows" to waga a war on his track he said: "No, I do not. Of coorsa, I do not know. We are all in the same hoat, howavar, so far as tha law against poolselling is concarned, and if I hava to close all tha rest will have to closa, too."

A dispatch from London states tbat Richard Croker's colt Knickerbocker, sinca his win in the Exning Plate at Newmarket, has been tbe talk of the English torf. It is contended hy even the most conservative and claimed hy tha most experienced turfmen and trainers, that he is hy all odds the hest 2-year-old that has been uncovered this season. He is looked upon as a sore winner of next year's Derhy, har accident.

Gaspebonk was killed in a collision with Her Favor while working at Washington Park Saturday morning. Tha boys were not injured and Her Favor will recover. A singular feature of the accident is the fact that hoth horses were from the same stabla and working together. The rider of Her Favor, coming from behind, sang out, "Pull out," instead of this the other boy "pulled in" and so the collision occorred, Boanerges, chestnut colt by Spendthrift—imp. Llandrino, ran a sensational race at Washington Park last week, when, with 110 pounds up, he defeated The Roman (107) by two and a half lengths,, and won, pulling up, running ona and three-sixteenths miles in 1:58¾, lowering the world's record a quarter of a second. The last two times oot this horse was badly beaten hy inferior animals when in races where miles were run in 1:40 and 1:41. In this race Boanerges ran tha first mile in 1:39 1-5 Tbe world's record for the distanca was 1:58½, made hy Henry Yoong, at Washington Park, July 14, 1894.

Horses not entered under the nama of their right owners will he debarred from receiving any money won in tha races at Washington Park in the future. The judges came to this understanding after considering the cases of Bellicoso and Cherry Flame in tbe last race on July 4th. Bellicoso won. It was foond that neither of them were entered nnder tha names of their right owners, and the judges came near taking the money away and giving it to the foorth horsa, tha first entered according to the rules. Hildreth and Doss wera each fined $100 and a warning sent out to all other owners to observe the rnls in the futura.

Here is a chance for tha owners of thoroogbbreds. A. H. and D. H. Morris have issued a sweeping challenge for foor match races at $5,000 a side each, one for four-year-olds, one for three year-olds, ona for two-year-old colts and tha other for two-year-old fillies. Tha challenge is open to any racing stable in the world. The acceptor must, however, own ths horses that he wishes to race against the Morris champions. The Friar woold be the hearer of the scarlet in the four-year-old race, Bowling Brook in the three-year-old race, and, it is presomed, Filligrane in the two-year-old colt raca and Prestidigitatrica in the two-year-old filly race.

When Hamborg won tbe Realization he fairly tiptoed his field. Tha fractional time tells the story of the race as it was run, viz —0:37, 0:49 1-5, 1:03, 1:17, 1:30, 1.56, 2:15 1-5. Furthermore, Hamborg was pulled op doring the last half mile. He coold have knocked off at least two seconds from the Realization record mada by The Friar last year (2:48 2 5) with seven pounds less than Hamburg carried. It is really the hest race that has been run doring tbe ten years of tha existence of the Realization. Plandit, who finished second was not disgraced. Ha ran an honest race, but met his soperior. The fact that the Hogoenot was beatan hy Charles Boyd proves that, strictly speaking, he is hardly in the front rank of tha second-class three-year-olds. Handball and Latson were presomably started on the off chance.

W. Overton, bay colt hy Belvidere—Penipah, is considered about the best two-year-old in tha West. At Washington Park, July 7th, he picked up 121 poonds and after exhausting some of his superfinoos energy by breaking tha starter's harrier four times, he ran five furlongs in 1:00¾, defeating a splendid field of two-year-old colts easily. Tha race was the Kenwood Stakes and the field was a strong ona. Formero was the favorits and the California colt was heavily played at 8 to 5. King Barleycorn was 2½ to 1, and received some support, while Overton was always 3 to 1. Thera was some delay, and when the flag fell Overton was well to the front, while Formero was next to last. Lohos shot to tha front for an eigbth and then gave op, when Overton took command and was never in danger, winning rather easily hy one and one half lengths from Hardy Pardee, wbils Formero, running a splendid race from where ha got off, was third.

Speaking of the great 3-year-old Traverser, Jimmy McCormick, who trained the colt for Borns & Waterhouse last wintar, said: "Traverser ran too many races in California last winter to do much this summer. Hs was a sick colt when I got him last fall, and wa had to nursa him up for nsarly two months before we could prepara him for a race. After his last race in Burns & Waterhoose's colors he went off again, and I tried to pursuade Bradley to let me keep him in California ontil the middla of May anyway. Bradley wouldn't have it. He insisted npon racing him and his poor showing proves tbat ha overestimated the colt's capacity for work. Traverser is really an excellent animal, and if he had been torned oot aftar he left us until the fall it would hava taken tbe best three-year-old in the East to have beaten him. I believe that he would come aroond by fall avan now if he wera sent to Saratoga for a coople of months and brought down for the Coney Island Jockey Club's aotomn meeting."

Some ingenioos rascals worked a gama from Paris that eventoally landed tham in jail, but brought tham a rich harvest hefora they were detected. A certain bookmaker named Carter, living in London, advertised to accept bets on all French races of importanca and set noon of each day as the latest hoor at wbich wagers would he taken and the odds at the post or corrent at the time named should rnle. Threa times a day, tha London mail leaves Paris; at 10 A. M., noon, and 3 P M. Thesa schemers connived with some of the men in the post office and together they postmarked a lot of envelopes each day witb the noon stamp, the data and hoor officially marked on the envelops being the only evidence accepted hy tha bookmaker as to the time tha letter was mailed. Aftar receiving the resolts of the day's first races, the schemers mailed their wagers on the horses they knew had won and, of course, the penciller had to pay. They won aboot a thonsand poonds hefore their little game discovared and then the bookmakar prosecoted them, tha result above stated.

MONTANA AND COLORADO MEETINGS.

Butte, Montana	July 2d to Ang. 6th
Anaconda, Montana	Ang. 10th to Sept. 11th
Dillon, Montana	Sept. 21st to 24th

SANTA ROSA, NAPA AND STOCKTON.—Nearly two hundred horses are now at the Oakland track that will have no other engagements after the present meeting closes until the State Fair opens, September 5th. During the entire month of August they will be idle unless meetings are held elsewhere. Of the many places in California where good tracks are located, the three cities above mentioned are particularly capable of giving meetings this year that will pay a good profit. Santa Rosa has not had a meeting for years, and a week of good racing such as the horsemen now here are ready to give would at least draw three or four hundred people to the track each day and even that small crowd would make the venture safe against loss, to say nothing of the advantage to hay and grain dealers, harness makers, hotel and restaurant proprietors, and many others who always reap a big benefit from a race meeting. Napa had no meeting last year, but crops are good in that valley this season, and the people would turn out to see good racing as they formerly did. Stockton can always draw a crowd as was evidenced last year when the new club there gave a meeting. The horsemen are willing to start for small purses as they must keep their horses in training. Hay is cheaper in the country than here which is another reason why they should like to go to the country tracks. If some of the enterprising citizens of the towns mentioned will only go to work on this idea and carry it out energetically they will not regret it. Six or seven hundred dollars per day in purses is all that is necessary to give. Half this amount can be secured easily from the book privilege. With the proper effort to see the different bookmakers and an assurance of a good program, three or four of them can be induced to cut in at $100 per day. Gate receipts ought surely to reach $200 per day in either of the above towns, and the other privileges will bring quite a sum. It is not a chance that will be taken by anyone in giving these meetings, as proper effort will secure a guarantee of all expenses before the first race is started. Will not the residents of the three towns above mentioned put their shoulders to the wheel as of yore and hold meetings this year. It will pay them in more ways than one and be of advantage to every horse owner and breeder.

THE STATE FAIR has announced its trotting and pacing program for 1898, full particulars of which appear in our advertising columns. With a desire to please the horse owners and the public the dash system has been adopted for harness events, though one heat race will be given each day. The purses are liberal, $300 being hung up for dashes and $400 for heat races, best two in three. It was decided to have alternate trotting and running during the twelve days of the meeting. The first day, September 5th, will be a harness horse day. The conditions are: Five to enter three to start. If but two appear to start, money to be divided two-thirds and one-third. Entrance 5 per cent, and five per cent from money winners. Division of purses, 60, 30 and 10 per cent. Entries close August 15th with the Secretary. Each day will witness five events, one of which will be a mile and repeat race, thus giving quick action and a snappy afternoon's sport. Under this system horses can be raced every day and not feel the effects of racing, as they do after a six or seven heat race. The running stakes are as liberal as usual, and at a later date the full program of running events will be announced. The following members of the Board of Directors of the State Agricultural Society were present at this meeting: A. B. Spreckels, president; General J. W. Barrett, Fred Cox, F. D. Cobb, C. M. Chase, F. W. Covey, J. E. Terry, Dr. W. B. Mathews and J. W. Wilson, with Edwin F. Smith Secretary. These gentlemen are one and all at work for the success of the Fair of 1898, and there is no doubt but it will be as successful as any in the history of the institution. As has been stated before in these columns it is the duty of every stock breeder, from the man who raises poultry to the owner of the 50,000 acre stock farm, to make as many entries in the live stock department as possible this year. There is no better way to advertise stock, or no more certain way of finding buyers. Every horseman should carefully study the speed program and make his entries in time. A goodly list of entries at the State Fair this year will assist materially in paving the way for a restoration of the old circuit of 1899, a consummation which every breeder in California should strive for.

A LETTER FROM LEWIS THORNE, the energetic and progressive Secretary of the Los Angeles Agricultural Association brings information that the association has been compelled to declare off the five $100, three-percent entrance purses offered for trotting and pacing events to be held at their fall meeting. Mr. Thorne regrets greatly that this course was necessary, but says the requisite number of entries were not obtained, so nothing else could be done. He adds "we shall get out a very attractive program of trotting and pacing events about the first of August and have the entries close during the State Fair. Good purses will be offered for all classes and if we can get good contests we shall not require so many entries, as we find that good contests bring in good gate receipts." It can be predicted with absolute certainty that the prediction will be fulfilled that the Los Angeles meeting this year will be fully up to any previous meetings held there both in the amount of money offered, the management of the racing and the attendance of the public. By the time the State Fair opens, all the trotters and pacers now in training in California can be pretty well classified and we believe owners will enter liberally for the southern meetings. There will certainly be a better opportunity to earn money with a good horse at Los Angeles this year than at any other place on the Coast.

TWO WINNERS, one of which was purchased at auction for $35, the other for $65, are now at the Oakland track, and have records of 2:17 and 2:21, respectively. They are both well bred, however. On Tuesday next at the salesyard of Killip & Co., corner Market street and Van Ness avenue, thirty head of trotting-bred mares and geldings, the property of Thomas Brown, Esq., are to be sold for the high dollar. By looking over the catalogue mares by Dexter Prince, James Madison, Cupid, Alcona, Nephwood and other standard sires will be found listed, and as all are comparatively young and entirely untried for speed, the chances are that more than one sold Tuesday at a very low price will figure in the list of winners next year or the year after on the California trotting tracks. One glance at the catalogue already issued and to be obtained on application to this office or to Killip & Co., will assure any one familiar with trotting blood that some very richly trotting-bred ones are in this lot, and by going to the salesyard any time up to Tuesday the horses can be inspected. They are one of the best looking lots that has been brought here for sale for some time. Some excellent roadsters are among them, besides several fine family animals. This is an opportunity to get good ones at your own price and should not be missed by any one who wants a horse.

C. J. HAMLIN is without a doubt one of the brainiest men that ever bred a trotter. He has made a success of both breeding and racing horses, and a few days ago he said to an Eastern newsgatherer:

"I am a horseman from the love of it, but it is also a pleasure to know that I am financially successful. For the last three years I have won more money than any man in the business. And I believe it is just as easy to have speed and strength and beauty as to have speed and strength and ugliness. I never buy a homely horse, and by selection and breeding, I am developing the trotting horse along the lines of its highest beauty. I believe almost anything can be accomplished by these methods, and, as for speed, there is no reason why the two-minute limit may not be reached and passed, though I may not live to see it. When I was a boy, living in the Berkshire hills, we had no sweet corn. We used to go out in the field and get the common, coarse corn and roast it and think it delicious. Now we have a corn that is so sweet and tender that it fairly melts in the mouth. Yet it was developed from that old corn by a continuous process of selection. That's my theory about horses. I was looking over the entries for the coming season to-day and they are bigger than ever. It is evident that the war will have no bad effect upon racing."

THE THREE WEEKS of trotting and pacing at Oakland under the auspices of the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders Association have been eminently successful from two points of view—the horsemen have entered liberally and given excellent racing, and the Association has fulfilled all its promises. The attendance has not been what it should be, however. Whether the meeting will be continued another week was to have been decided by the Board of Directors at a meeting held yesterday afternoon at an hour later than that on which this paper's forms go to press, but the announcement as to the continuance, if any, will be made through the daily papers.

RENNIE BROS of St. Helena, Napa country, proprietors of the Vineland Stock Farm, have a number of standard-bred colts for sale, as can be seen by reference to their advertisement in this issue. Parties desiring good road horses should communicate with these gentlemen as they have some very choice animals, all young, sound and in good condition. A yearling filly by Diablo, 2:09¼, is among those offered for sale and she is a very handsome youngster and bound to be fast.

NUMBER SIX of Goodwin's Official Turf Guide, containing all racing throughout the United States and Canada up to July 1st, has just been issued. This is a valuable work for horsemen, giving as it does full details and a form sheet of each race, besides additional information which is almost invaluable to turfmen. None should be without it. For sale at this office.

Bred to Pace, But Trots.

Crito, a two-year-old colt that is a square trotter and has shown his ability to trot in 2:25 already, is thus described by "Yarrum" who saw him trot at Omaha.

"Crito is another puzzle for the few people who are still unable to see that the two harness gaits are practically one as far as breeding has anything to do with them. He was sired by the hobbled trotter Falmont, 2:14, who was a natural pacer; his dam was a pacer with a mark in the thirties, by the pacer Sea Foam; his second dam was a saddle bred mare and Crito himself was a natural pacer and wore the hobbles twice before he could be induced to adopt the trotting gait. In spite of all this he has learned to trot close to 2:20 with six weeks' training to a sulky, and his way of doing it is absolute perfection. This great trotting baby is a small racy-built bay colt with a white strip in his face and goes with round knee action in front and very little hock action. His driver, Mr. Huntington, informed me that the colt was very headstrong and unsteady on the start, and that he was inclined to pull and tear his mouth all up until rigged with a large covered bit, held in place by a tight nose band that kept the bit from pulling back in his mouth. Rigged with this bit and with a chin strap to keep his mouth shut he commenced to steady down and learn to trot. Mr. Huntington had the colt's sire, Falmont, entered in the 2:13 trot at Omaha and considered him good enough to trot in 2:10 or better, but in his preliminary work the horse split one of his hoofs and will probably be retired to the stud for good.

DAN M. last season was a rank failure. This year he has been beating the crackerjacks on the Central New York Circuit. Asked what worked such a reformation in the horse, his owner, Patrick Maloney, was unable to give a definite reason. "Last fall," he said, "I commenced driving him on the road, and part of the time had him pulling a truck. This spring he took to his training kindly.

The nse of dogs was formerly probibited, but very few hnnters observed tbe clanse. The open season is of six weeks' dnration, from Jnly 15 to Angnst 26.

Olympic Live Bird Shoot.

The regular monthly pigeon shoot of the Olympic Gon Clnh at Ingleside last Snnday drew a fair attendance of the members. The birds were a rather fast lot, notwithstanding which a number of good scores were made. Sixteen shooters faced tbe traps, and of these W. J. Hynes. W. E. Mnrdock and J. Sweeney had clean scores, tbose who came second with eleven each have been looked upon heretofore as being in the expert class. Up to date W. J. Golcher ranks as high man. his score being fifty-six killed ont of sixty. C. A. Haight ranks second with fifty-five ont of sixty, and H. C. Golcher comes next with a credit of fifty-four.

Empire Gun Club.

A high wind prevailing last Sunday during the regular monthly shoot of the Empires at Alameda, reduced the chances for good scores materially. Several practice events at ten birds preceded the first club race of the day, the classification race. In the second event, the re-entry match, Andrus took first money, Mitchell and Hauer divided second, La Motte won third and fourth money went to Fischer. Ricklefson was high man in tbe medal race with a score of 22. The only entry in the high average event was King, whose score was not np to his usoal average. The scores in detail are as follows:

The Shoot at Porterville.

Tbe initial blne-rock tournament of the Porterville Gun Club held on Sunday, July 3d, was well attended by the local shooters and visitors. The general average of shooting was good; the shoot being very successfolly condncted. This meeting promises to be the beginning of a general and increased interest in trap-shooting in that vicinity.

Live Bird Tournament at Napa.

The Napa Gnn Clnb announces an open-to all tonrnament at live birds to be held Sunday, July 24th and Monday, July 25th. The program for the first day will be: First event, six birds, entrance $2.50, high guns to win; second event, ten birds. entrance $5, $10 added; third eveot, ten birds, entrance $5, $10 added; fourth event, ten birds, entrance $3. $5 added (open to shooters who have not won in the previous events). For the second day the events scheduled are: First ten blue birds, entrance $2 50; second, ten birds, entrance $3; third, ten birds, entrance $5; fourth, six birds, entrance $2.50

The races will be under the A. S. A. Rules, excepting that the referee will order another bird when a shooter discharges both barrels at once, whether the bird shot at be killed or lost. The shooting will commence at 10 A. M. each day and the Club will provide free bus accommodation for the shooters. Purses in all high gun events will be devided as follows: Ten entries or less, two moneys, 60 and 40 per cent; eleven to fifteen entries, three moneys, 50, 30 and 20 per cent; more than fifteen entries, four moneys, 40, 30, 20 and 10 per cent.

Chas. M. Fisber and Harry Wiese leave town to-day for a two week's deer-hunting trip in the country back of Mount Hamilton. They will to-morrow, in company with Fred S. Butler and Jeff Bolton, shoot doves near Sunol before striking out for the deer ranges.

The Pasadena Gun Club have elected E. Kayser, President and J. Welsh Secretary-treasurer to serve during the ensuing year. The club now numbers fifteen members and has good quarters and shooting ground on the Bixley ranch near Long Beach.

We are advised by the representative of the American E. C. and Schultz Powder Co., Limited, that a material reduction in the price of their smokeless powder has been made.

There is an increasing demand for 16 guage guns and also a fair demand for 20 guage guns. These guns seem to give great satisfaction in field shooting.

NOTICE TO ANGLERS.

Every angler is invited to drop us a line occasionally, telling us of the condition of the streams they have visited, the killing line, the number and size of the fish caught, or any other item of interest to anglers.

Fly-Casting at Stow Lake.

The tenth series of contests by the San Francisco Fly-Casting Club will take place to-day at 2 P. M. and to-morrow at 10 A. M.

The next regular business meeting of the club will be held Tuesday evening, July 26th in the Mill's Building.

Fresno Notes.

Fresno county is rapidly coming to the front in the important matter of fish and game protection and propagation. Under the energetic work of an efficient county official, backed up by the assistance and moral support of sportsmen as well as the public at large, the county is in line for the favorable consideration of sportsmen. The following from the Fresno Republican of July 6th will be of interest to the angling fraternity:

Andy Ferguson, the fish and game warden, is preparing to leave in a few weeks to stock the streams of the high Sierras with trout. He will go to Pine Ridge and from there expects to cross the mountains to Rock Creek. Trout will be taken from the rivers and canyons where they abound and transferred to streams which are not supplied with piscetorial dwellers.

In August he will receive a consignment of rainbow, cutthroat and Loch Levin trout, which he will take on pack animals to the mountains and deposit in the streams. On account of the falls there is but few fish in many of the mountain streams, but when they are stocked for a few years he believes there will be a great deal of fine fishing in this county. He has had a number of cans made especially for taking the fish to the mountains by pack animals, as the trails are not passable for wagons. It is a difficult matter to transport the fish, but with the exercise of care it can be done safely.

He does not receive the young trout from the State hatcheries until they are pretty well grown and able to stand the journey. Some of them will be placed in all the principal mountain streams and the falls will kill but an inconsiderable number of them, for it is the tendency of the trout to go toward the head of a stream.

Mr. Ferguson remarked that he was in Visalia the other day and several citizens told him that Tulare county is becoming one of the finest fishing resorts in the county. It is estimated that a thousand people would visit the county this year to enjoy the mountain angling, and that the wagon road from Visalia to the Yosemite park would be built largely through the efforts of the pleasure seekers who wish a convenient means of access to the fish-stocked streams.

The Warden says that there is plenty of food in the mountain streams of this county for fish, and that in a few years Fresno will have as fine mountain fishing as any county in the State. This is the second year that the streams were stocked with fish supplied by the Fish Commission, and the Commissioners last year highly complimented Mr. Ferguson for the manner in which he distributed in the mountain streams the consignments of fish. They promised to send him the best trout they had this year, and he expects some fine specimens of fish.

Queer Fish.

Amphibious fishes are to be found in various quarters of the globe. Beginning in Europe, there is the blenny, which, when kept in aquariums, has been proved to require at least an hour's pure air out of water to preserve it in good health and spirits. In the tropics is found the periophthalmus, which is singularly amphibious and hops over the muddy flats in search of food, notably the crabs and mollusks left stranded by the retreating tide. This fish is so active on land that it is difficult to catch, and various specimens brought from Mauritius were secured by means of a shotgun—truly a unique method of killing fish. This fish is also found at Ceylon, and it is noticeable that when chased they prepare to escape by land rather than by water; they really seem to appreciate the sport.

Artificial baits, spoons, etc., which have lost their brilliancy, can easily be brightened by using a small quantity of nitrate of mercury and applying with a piece of chamois.

When to "Strike."

We have received several queries, says the American Angler, on the subject of "when to strike" the book into the mouth of the fish. A great diversity of opinion and practice prevails among anglers as to the policy of quick or slow "striking." We do not follow any iron-clad rules when on a stream, as we are convinced that slow work will answer on some streams better than quick action, and vice versa on other waters. A striking illustration of this fact occurred on an outing of some years ago on the Ontonagon in Northern Michigan, where the trout are sluggish feeders. The part of the stream on which we camped consisted mainly of long stretches of quiet pools, with only, here and there, a limber rapid, the fish being found in greatest numbers in the pools, there being but few where the swift water prevailed. After we had fished for an hour or two and basketed a number of fine fish, our guide remarked that he had never seen so few trout lost after being hooked, or so large a proportion hooked when they rose to a fly. This was easily explained. The writer is naturally slow in striking, which just suited those indolent fish. Insect food was plenty on the stream, dropping down from the lower branches of the over-hanging alders and the lazy trout would swim leisurely up to a fallen bug, take it into their mouths automatically, as it were, and then retire below slowly for repose and digestion. Unlike the valiant and vigorous fish of our Eastern mountain streams, a knowledge of the "rise and take" of which is more a matter of intuition rather than knowledge with the angler, these Ontonagon trout did not seem to feel the gritty impact of the metal, ere the steel had done his work. They were lazy fish, made so, doubtless, by the ease with which their food was obtained and the prevailing quiet of their habitat. We append the opinions of prominent angling writers on the subject "When to Strike:"

Thaddeus Norris—In most cases when trout rise freely and are in earnest they will hook themselves, for the yielding of a pliant rod, as the fish takes the fly, allows him to bear off his prize; but when he attempts to cast it from his mouth, the spring of the rod fixes the hook in his mouth as he relaxes his hold. So it frequently happens that the rise is seen and the strain on the hook is felt at the same moment. A fish may even miss the fly and make another effort to seize it, if not drawn too hastily away. When a fish, therefore, takes the fly vigorously, it is only necessary to keep the line taut. A mere turn of the wrist may be given to fix the hook more firmly in its mouth.

Genio. C. Scott—In striking, let it be with sufficient force to fasten the hook in his jaw.

Charles Hallock—If the strike be made with vigor or desperately, either the trout will be jerked high in the air, the tackle will be broken, the hook will tear out, or, what is more probable, the hook will miss altogether.

Wells—The eye must never for an instant stray from the fly, and at the slightest commotion in the water near where the fly is, or where it is supposed to be, strike at once and strike hard.

Francis—If a fish rises, a slight upward turn of the wrist will be sufficient to fix the hook; but beware of striking too hard—the lightest is not only sufficient, but far the best. As to giving any direct rules when to strike they would be of little avail, as sometimes fish rise quickly and take quickly; sometimes with more circumspection, and sometimes altogether falsely. Practice alone will teach the angler what to do and when to do it.

Cummins—When a trout takes your fly do not strike too hard; more fish are lost by anglers striking when using small flies than are secured by such means. The line tightened is sufficient in most cases, particularly in fishing streams.

Ephemera—I think that he who strikes too quickly labors under a greater disadvantage than he who strikes too slowly. The moment you see and then feel a rise, strike gently from the wrist. As a general rule strike a little sideways. A fish frequently takes your fly under water, and then, feeling the rise, he somewhat quick, yet strike as gently as possible.

Cyclopedia of Field Sports—Many strike too slowly, many too quickly, and a correct few at the critical moment. We have fished with many young hands who have struck the moment they saw a fish rise, and consequently, though the bait must have been risen at, the mouth had never received it. The critical fish stroke is made by a very quick but very gentle wrist motion, by which the hand is canted upwards, being displaced about two inches only. Such a stroke made instantly the fish actually reaches the fly, which is learned by habit, at the moment he has closed his mouth on it, and before he has time to throw it out again, is sure to secure the entrance of the hook without causing alarm to the fish by unnecessary violence.

Ronalds—When a fish has risen throw into the curl occasioned by the rise, or a yard or two above it, allowing the fly to float down to the supposed place of the fish, when probably it will be risen at and be himself hooked, provided the angler had the knack of striking, which knack, like all others, is acquired only by practice. It must be done by a very sudden but not very strong strike; a twitch of the wrist is sufficient.

Game Warden Andy Ferguson of Fresno recently caused to be arrested two Japanese for using dynamite in Kings river near Sanger. The Sanger constable took the prisoners before a Justice of the Peace; one of the Japs immediately pleading guilty was sentenced under the provisions of an old statute to 100 days imprisonment. Before the second case was similarly disposed of Ferguson arrived on the scene and explained the situation. The Jap already convicted was released and re-arrested on a new complaint. Had Ferguson not taken such action the Japs undoubtedly would have been released on habeas corpus proceedings, the Justice not having jurisdiction in cases covered by the complaints filed, before new warrants could have been served the dynamiters would have placed their unscrupulous carcasses beyond the reach of the law officers. As the matter now stands the cases will be properly brought before a Superior Court and with the direct evidence at hand a conviction is assured. Game Warden Ferguson is known as a hardworking and painstaking official.

Mike Geery writes as follows to J. H. Sammi who has just returned from a fishing trip on Webber Lake:

"Here I am at Bocca. Jack we are having grand sport. I shipped two boxes yesterday and two boxes this evening: Fish range from one-quarter to two pounds. Bradford is making big catches in Prosser Creek pond late in the evening. "June Bug" Walker, E. V. Sullivan La Forge and Judge Carroll are here, Henry Skinner and John Siehe will be here Sunday. Give kindest regards to Al Cuming and tell him I am ever so thankful for the fish which arrived in A 1 condition. In haste to catch the night train to Truckee."

Neither salmon nor trout are found in any of the streams emptying into the Indian ocean. Some of these waters teem with carp, which are called Himalyan trout, but these fish have not the remotest relationship with the salmonidae. In Central Asia, however, trout and salmon are common in all the streams which flow into the Chinese and Eastern Asiatic seas. In Japan great numbers of salmon, so called, ascend the rivers, but these fish are pale-fleshed and inferior to the Western salmon, although they run in weight from 20 lbs. to 30 lbs.

A salmon was caught in the Columbia recently which measured 4 feet, 8 inches in length and weighed 83 pounds. It was said to be the largest ever caught in the river.

C. G. Young has had great sport at Sims. John Butler received some elegant fish from him during the week, some of them weighing a pound and a half.

Fishing on the Truckee continues to be first-class. Many anglers from this city are taking advantage of the sport offered along this royal trout stream.

C. A. McGettigan's (San Jose) black Cocker bitch Pocbe (Ch. Woodland Duke—Girl) to H. A. Wegener's Dufferin Pastime (Ch. Viscount—Polly Pastime), July 3, 5, 1898.

SALES.

H. A. Wegener sold a black cocker dog puppy (Dufferin Pastime—Peg Woffington) to Houghton Sawyer, San Francisco, July, 1898.

WHELPS.

T. J. Blight's cocker bitch Black Sue (Sender's Bob—Chippie) whelped July 1, 1898, four dogs and two bitches to E. C. Plume's Champion Viscount (Ch. Pickpania—Tootsie).

H. White's R. C. St. Bernerd bitch Tomah (Mascot Bernard—Merchant Princess) whelped June 26, 1898, 2 dogs and 2 bitches to same owner's Roxie Savage Taylor (Bosco of the Rockies—Nellie, Queen of Wasatch).

H. White's R. C. St. Bernard bitch Bernerda (California Bernardo—Empress Josephine) whelped July 10, 1898, 14 puppies to same owner's Eborecum (Scottish Prince—Lady Glenn).

C. S. Appleby's (Santa Clara) greyhound bitch Pride of the Valley (Laurelwood—Oakland Maid) whelped July 1, 1898, 5 dogs and 4 bitches to J. H. Rosseter's Emin Pasha (imp. Major—imp. Daisy).

Deckelman & Panario's greyhound bitch Pet Kirby (Glenkirk—Miller's Rabbie) whelped June 2, 1898, 5 dogs and 4 4 bitches to same owner's Royal Oak (Lord Clifton—Daisy II)

—— pointer bitch Stella (Glenheigh—— ——) whelped June 6, 1898, 6 dogs and 4 bitches to C. M. Fisher's Jim P. (Black Joe—Black Bess).

An ambulance built especially for dogs and small animals, and the only one of its kind in the world, has just been put in use in the veterinary department of the University of Pennsylvania. The exterior of this palace car dog wagon is decorated on each side with a vignette of a grand looking St. Bernard, and the inside is covered with removeble antiseptic pads to guard against contageous diseases.

In order to avoid belligerent encounters between the injured four-footed patients of this traveling hospital, it has been provided with movable slides so that the interior can be divided into various sized compartments. It contains also cages attached to the top and sides for pet birds and poultry. The plans for the ambulance were drawn by Dr. John W. Adams, and they called for the best of material, the springs provided reduced all jarring to a minimum.

Derby Entries for the Pacific Coast Field Trials.

Twenty-nine entries were filed with Secretary Kilgariff for the sixteenth annual Derby of the Pacific Coast Field Trials Club, to be run at Bakersfield, Monday, January 23, 1899. The entries closed on Friday, July 1st; of these nominations, twenty-five of them are English setters and four are pointers. The entries last year were sixteen pointers, six English setters and one Irish setter, a total of twenty-three, six less than this year. Pointers were in the majority at last year's Derby and carried off most of the honors, the limited number of pointer candidates this year has probably been caused by a scarcity of young dogs of proper age, which same reason was stated as a cause for the lack of setters and preponderance of pointer entries in the last Derby. The pointer interest also has undoubtedly suffered an appreciable loss in the death of Glenbeigh at Bakersfield, last January. Of sires in the setter entries, John Schumaker's Valiente is represented by eleven candidates, E. V. Sullivan's Dash Antonio by four. J. E. Lucas has both a setter and a pointer entry this year. The Verona Kennels have made no nominations for the coming Derby owing to the heavy losses by distemper among their English setter puppies, but they will have an indirect representation in the entry of Henry Betten's Verona California. A number of new names appear among the owners on this year's list, which is certainly an indication of increasing interest in the sport on the Coast. Considerable confusion was created in making entries for this Derby by reason of premature publication notices and inaccuracy of dates given; this resulted in the cancellation of several entries by Secretary Kilgariff. Eligible setter or pointer entries were for dogs whelped on or after January 1, 1897. The complete list of entries is as follows:

ENGLISH SETTERS.—J. E. Lucas' (San Rafael) black, white and tan dog Pio Pico (Luke K.—White Wings) whelped March, 1897.

Webster Jones' (San Francisco) black, white and tan dog Purcell J. (Dash Antonio—Patty B) whelped May 27, 1897.

Union Coursing Park

The coursing at this park on Saturday did not bring out any sensational work, in the drawing it so happened that nearly all the courses were between fast and slow dogs, making the runs very one-sided. Almost any odds were paid in order to get up money, and in the eighth race Rosette sold a favorite over Rich and Artless as high as 35 to 1. In the fourth race between Right Bower and Traveler, the odds went to 20 to 1 in favor of Right Bower, and in the sixth between Mira Monte and Perfection, they went to 25 to 1 in favor of Mira Monte. In the thirty-two races only two short-enders won, Rapid beating Liberty Bell in the thirteenth race at odds of 2 to 5, and Fear Not beating Terrona in the thirty-first at 1 to 4 The e was a heavy play on the first race, the best of the day, between Sportsman and Sarcastic. The betting opened at even money, but Sarcastic finally sold on the short end. Sarcastic won the race leading Sportsman all the way.

On Sunday the event of the day was the work of E. V. Sullivan's game old hound Flying Buck. Never before had the Buck displayed such speed and gameness, veteran leashmen noted significantly the easy manner in which he led up to the hare by two lengths such flyers as Jester and Promise Me. They quietly hacked the old hound in the final, while the moneyed element overwhelmed the auctioneers with Rosette coin, giving 2½ to 1 in their eagerness to get aboard the supposed foregone conclusion. The Buck beat Rosette from the slips and she played second until the hare worked up and down the fence where she scored a couple of points on turns, then the dog got in again and outpointed her and killed. Precita Girl also was a thorn in the side of the talent. After putting out Rapid at 2½ to 1, she sent the fleet Fear Not to his kennel, who was a favorite at 10 to 1.

Followers of the favorites had a sorry day of it. Three short-enders, each at 2½ to 1, won in a row in the morning round, Gossoon beating Hot Stuff, Precita Girl beating Rapid and Fear Not vanquishing Thornhill. Every course in the Sapling Stake also went contrary to the calculations of the wise division, Prince Charming being on the short end at 3 to 1, when he outfooted Maid of the Hill for the big end of the purse.

The results Saturday were as follows:

Open Stake: First Round—D Dowst's Sarcastic beat J McNeil's Sportsman; E V Sollivan's Jesse Moore beat B & S Kennels' Butter Scotch; T Butler's Susie beat E & R Scott's Dr Norman; E V Sullivan's Right Bower beat R E Cochran's Traveler; E V Sullivan's Pretender beat Gibson & Moore's Monitor; E V Sollivan's Mira Monte beat Fred Davies' Perfection; S E Portal's Laurelwood beat D Dickson's Bernice; Curtis & Son's Rosette beat Pasha Kennels' Rich and Artless; S E Portal's Our Boy beat Foley & Kelly's Reviver; Larkey & Rock's Hercules beat Pemhroke Kennels' Wildflower; J J Warren's Sweet Lips beat S McCullough's Magneto; D J Healey's Rusty Gold beat Labusen & Duncan's Wheel of Fortune; Curtis & Son's Lady Campbell beat J A Watson's Sky Queen; John Kerrigan's Lady Blanche beat C F Ingersoll's Glenwood; Al Austin's Douglas beat B Dougherty's Peaceful Glen; Curtis & Son's Cavalier beat B & S Kennels' Brandy and Soda; E V Sullivan's Flying Buck beat J H Perigo's Wayfarer; B & S Kennels' Belle of Seville beat E C Rosin's Santa Rose; H R Baldwin's Jester beat D Hooper's Mary K; J A Watson's Miss Skyrocket beat Calamity Kennels' Beatrice; W M O'Neil's Promise Me beat T J Cronin's Magnet; E V Sullivan's Blackstone beat J J Edmonds' Forget; E & R Scotts' Mystery beat J Monkhouse's Black Pete; Pasha Kennels' Arapahos ran a bye; Al Austin's Glenstone beat S E Portal's Lightning; J McCormack's White Lily beat B & S Kennels' Beauty Spot; Thos McEldowney's The Gossoon beat D Kean's Spry; J L Sears' Hot Stuff beat Pasha Kennels' Alameda; Labusen & Duncan's Precita Girl beat J H Smith's Bendigo; J McCormack's Rapid beat Larkey & Rock's Liberty Bell; E V Sullivan's Fear Not beat Pemhroke Kennels' Terrona; T J Cronin's Thornhill beat J L Sears' Beauty.

On Sunday the runs were:

Open Stake: Second Round—Sarcastic beat Jesse Moore; Right bower beat Susie; Laurelwood II beat Pretender; Rosette beat Mira Monte; Hercules beat Our Boy; Rusty Gold beat Sweet Lips; Lady Blanche beat Lady Campbell; Cavalier beat Douglas; Flying Buck beat Belle of Seville; Jester beat Miss Skyrocket; Promise Me beat Blackstone; Mystery beat Arapahoe; Glenstone beat White Lily; The Gossoon beat Hot Stuff; Precita Girl beat Rapid; Fear Not beat Thorhill.

Third Round—Right Bower beat Sarcastic; Rosette beat Laurelwood; Rusty Gold beat Hercules; Lady Blanche ran a bye with Sky Queen, Cavalier being drawn; Flying Buck beat Jester; Promise Me beat Mystery; Glenstone beat The Gossoon; Precita Girl beat Fear Not.

Fourth Round—Rosette beat Right Bower; Rusty Gold beat Lady Blanche; Flying Bock beat Promise Me; Precita Girl beat Glenstone.

Fifth Round—Rosette beat Rusty Gold; Flying Buck beat Precita Girl.

Final—Flying Buck beat Rosette.

Sapling Stake: First Round—T Sullivan's Maid of the Hill beat W J Jones' Rustan; J Murnane's Wolfe Tone beat George Whitney's Thistle; W J Jones' Prince Charming beat W D Murphy's Silence.

Ingleside Coursing Park.

The coursing at Ingleside Park last Saturday and Sunday was under the auspices of the new management, consisting of Messrs. H. A. Deckelman (chairman), Wm. Halpin, W. O. Elmer, Wm. Thompson, P. Rock and D. Shannon. The two days' coursing was successfully conducted, the hares being in good condition gave the dogs some lively work, the first five started up making their escape. The famous Eastern dog Ida beat Fair View in the first round, but succumbed to Hadiwist on Sunday. She shows speed and works cleverly and will no doubt give a good account of herself before long. The crack hound Mialmo lost to Myrtle first and then to Eclipse in the consolation stake. The talent and short-enders made about an even deal in the two days' running.

The results in the first round of the All-aged Stake on Saturday last was as follows—Deckelman & Panario's Glen Chloe beat J Rooney's Lassie Hayes; Lowe & Thompson's Victor beat G H Thomes' Lady Belle; Kay & Trant's Trilby beat C Sullivan's Parnell; J Sheehan's Lass o' Gowrie beat E M Elkus' Telephone Girl; P Brophy's Benicia Boy beat Kay & Trant's Killarney Lass; Kay & Trant's Crosspatch beat J I O'Brien's Statesman; Deckelman & Panario's Old Glory beat W Graham's Sunnyside Maid; D Shannon's Sprig o' Hill beat T J Burke's Little Pete; Kay & Trant's Leonora beat D Kaher's Belle of Moscow; Napoleon Kennels' Fireball beat F Black's Coralie; G H Burfiend's Royal Prize beat Kay & Trant's Eclipse; O'Connell Brothers' Log Boy beat James Byrnes' Clipper; Handy & Smith's Ida beat Lynch & Maher's Fair View; Alfred Haight's Hadiwist beat Larkey & Rock's Minerva; J. Braddeley's Hobson beat S. Hansen's Our Climate; Lowe & Thompson's High Born Lady beat Alfred Haigh's Hattel; J O'Dowd's Clifton Lass beat P O'Donnell's Counterfeit; D Shannon's Swinnerton beat Lynch & Maher's Dakota: Derby Kennels' Mona beat D Chilla's Happy Day; J Dean's Gladiator beat D Hooper's L S Conley; J P O'Donnell's Las Palmas beat Handy & Smith's Persimmons; Kay & Trant's Masterpiece beat E M Elkus' Telephone Belle; Napoleon Kennel's Pacific Queen beat F Murphy's Gilt Edge; F Black's Occidental beat J Farley's Tullamore; W T Sullivan's Trink beat Dillon & Reilly's Queen B; J Sheehan's Lady Jane beat J Murnane's Valley Maid; T A Gaffney's Sir John Arnott beat Napoleon Kennels' Decorator; H Weber's Montana beat D Shannon's Systematic: Dillon & Reilly's Granuaile beat S Morgan's Flag; Larkey & Rock's Myrtle beat J Dean's Mialmo.

On Sunday, the winning coorses were as follows:

Consolation stake—Lynch & Maher's Fairview beat D Chilla's Happy Day; Kay & Trant's Eclipse beat J I O'Brien's Statesman; F Murphy's Gilt Edge beat Napoleon Kennels' Decorator; D Kaher's Belle of Moscow beat J Murnane's Valley Maid; D Hooper's L S Conley beat E M Elkus' Telephone Girl; James Byrnes' Clipper beat W Graham's Sunnyside Maid; J O'Dowd's Clifton Lass beat Dillon & Reilly's Queen R; Larkey & Rock's Minerva beat D Shannon's Systematic; J Dean's Mialmo beat J Farley's Tullamore; Alfrod Haigh's Hattel beat Lynch & Maher's Dakota.

Final—Clifton Lass beat Eclipse.

All-aged Stake: Second Round—Echo beat Victor; Lass o'Gowrie beat Trilby; Crosspatch beat Benicia Boy; Old Glory beat Sprig o' Hill; Leonora beat Fireball; Royal Prize beat Log Boy; Hadiwist beat Ida; Hobson beat High Born Lady; Swinnerton beat Counterfeit; Gladiator beat Mons; Masterpiece beat Las Palmas; Occidental beat Pacific Queen; Lady Jane beat Trink; Sir John Arnott beat Montana; Myrtle beat Granuale.

Second Round—Lass o' Gowrie beat Glen Chloe; Old Glory beat Crosspatch; Leonora beat Royal Prize; Hadiwist beat Hobson; Gladiator beat Swinnerton; Occidental beat Masterpiece; Lady Jane beat Sir John Arnott; Myrtle ran a bye.

Third Round—Lass o' Gowrie beat Old Glory; Leonora beat Hadiwist; Occidental beat Gladiator; Myrtle beat Lady Jane.

Fifth Round—Myrtle beat Lass o' Gowrie.

DOINGS IN DOGDOM.

Chas. M. Fisher has just received a promising black pointer pup from the recent litter by Stella—Jim P.

F. H. Bushnell's St. Bernard bitch, Melro Sylvia, will be bred to Alta Kennels' Prince Sylvia (Champion Melrose—Lady Sylvia) before coming to this Coast.

The collie under shipment from South Africa to Thomas H. Browne, is now at Newcastle, N. S. W., and will arrive in San Francisco on a ship sailing from that port.

A good rub down for dogs, administered after a hard day's training at field work, is almost an essential condition for form success. The mouth and nostrils should be well washed, the back and legs massaged and rubbed a little before they get their roll and stretch in the straw or kennel quarters and a little additional stimulating food given over-night. The dog should be looked after carefully so as to avoid colds, temper or inflammation of the lungs.

An Old-Time Rodeo.

The Cline-Bull ranch on the Feather river was the scene of an old-time rodeo last Friday and Saturday. Maurice Caldera of Hollister had his stock on pasture at this ranch, and he ordered his cowboys to make a round-up.

They began at 4 o'clock Friday morning, and there was plenty of hard work for the boys as the brush was very thick in the bottoms, and it was late in the afternoon before the stock were all gathered in a large round corral which had been built for the occasion.

After a lunch the real work commenced and it was a sight to see the boys handle the riatos.

George Tripplett of Tres Pinos, did some clever work catching calves that were in the open field.

Darkness put a stop to the work which was resumed Saturday morning when over 100 calves were branded.

Joseph De Rosa, an expert rider, gave an exhibition of his skill for the benefit of those present by riding a couple of young steers until they became perfectly docile.

Jake Ebert took several lessons from H. Dunning, and his skill with the rope and horsemanship were praised by the "Cow Boys."

When the boys had finished work a fine dinner was served up by Mr. Caldera, to which the boys did full justice. The bowl was passed around again and again in honor of the old-time round-up, and the boys told yarns of Vasquez raids in San Benito county, which, though often repeated, seem like good old wine, to improve with age.—Marysville Appeal.

Big Land Deal,

Stockton, July 8.—The largest single land transaction ever recorded in this county was placed on record to-day. It is a contract entered into by James C. Smith, the well-known farmer on the Sacramento road, to sell his entire ranch for $400,000. The purchaser is Charles F. Blandin, of San Francisco. The first $100,000 is to be paid in monthly installments of $10,000 each, and the remainder of the purchase price in annual installments of $75,000. As the installments are turned in a portion of the land is to be released, in accordance with a price set forth in the document.

The Smith ranch contains some of the richest land to be found in the State of California, and as the tract purchased amounts to upward of 2,200 acres, it is supposed that Mr. Blandin's intention is to subdivide it and sell in small parcels.

Low Price for Hay Predicted.

A gentleman over from Monterey county, who is a prominent dealer in cattle, says, in his opinion, that hay will be down to $12 per ton within the next three months and gives as a reason that, as the State of Nevada refused to allow the cattle of California to be pastured there when the quarantine law was revoked, the farmers of that State have raised a large crop of hay, and as there will be no cattle in Nevada to eat it, the cattle of California having mostly been sent to Wyoming and Nebraska, a hay market will have to be found, and as there is a shortage in this State, Oregon and Nevada will compete and prices will come down. In view of this belief he has urged his friends to sell all the hay they can now at the prevailing high rate, so as to be on the right side.—Hollister Free Lance.

How many cattlemen or range riders know how to take off a hide from a dead animal in proper manner? In skinning beef hides and calf skins keep the back of the knife close to the hide and draw it tightly with the left hand. This is a simple rule, but by following it the probability to cut or score is considerably lessened. On the foreleg the knife should go down to the armpit, so called, and then forward to the point of the brisket. On the hind leg the cut should be made from the hoof of one down the back of the leg, semi-circularly across one to the other and on to the hoof. The thrust should never be cut crosswise, and the horns and tail bones should always be removed. The operation of salting is equally important. To salt hides thoroughly a water bucket full of good salt should be used to each sixty-pound hide, the quantity for larger and smaller hides being in proportion. After this they should be rubbed and rolled up. Independent of cuts and scores hides which are not taken off in the manner specified are classified as No. 2s, and if dried on fences or exposed to the sun or weather are only fit for the glue maker. A butcher's skinning knife should always be used, and no employe should be permitted to take off hides without one, as the loss from one hole in a hide would buy several such knives.

Here is a recipe for harness dressing adopted by the United States Government: One gallon of neat's foot oil, two pounds of bayberry tallow, two pounds of beeswax. Put into a pan over moderate fire. When thoroughly dissolved add two quarts of castor oil; then while on the fire stir in one ounce of lampblack. Mix well and strain through a fine cloth to remove the sediment; let it cool and keep it in tin cans.

Irrigation on a small scale in this part of the valley has proved a success says a Salinas paper, and now the large land owners are willing to give the matter their undivided attention. If the necessity of irrigation was ever apparent to our citizens it is to day when the large grain ranches of this vallay are as dry and barren as a desert.

Recognizing the fact that the Salinas valley is peculiarly blessed with a supply of water for irrigating purposes the Salinas Valley Land and Irrigation Company has decided to run a twenty-five foot ditch from the river near Camphora (along the adobe land), passing through the lands of Field, Dood, Callaghan, Williams, Lanini & Badasci and that of the Gonzalez brothers, thence crossing the railroad near Joseph Juri's place north of town and extending on to Chualar.

The ditch will carry five feet of water and will have an almost unlimited capacity. It is intended to irrigate the lands in the winter when the water is plentiful in the Salinas river.

W. K. Brown, the secretary of the company, has a large force of man and teams at work breaking the ground and the work will be pushed forward as rapidly as possible. The camp of the men at present is on the Callaghan ranch, but in a short time it will be removed to the old race track near town. About fifty men and teams will be employed.

A visitor to the cattle ranges in the territories nowadays, after an absence of ten years find many changes. Some are surprising innovations. The economy and commercial prudence that business men elsewhere have had to employ to be successful in the past few years have been carefully exercised by the cattlemen. Many economical methods that would have been thought contemptible in managing a herd and ranch a dozen years ago are now practiced on the ranges. The day of prodigality on the ranges and of the glory of cattle kings and queens has gone. Nowadays the bodies of dead cattle are saved and sold. No one thinks of leaving the pelt on the animal found dead on the range. Time was when such pinching was left for the poor half-breed Indians. Even the piles of bones left after dehorning operations are saved and made a source of revenue. The fertilizer that went to waste on the ranges is sent at so much a ton to horticultural districts for use in the orchards. New methods are in vogue by which time and wear and tear on the horses are saved. A half dozen horses and cowboys do twice as much work and cover twice as much territory as formerly. The branding of the herd is done by improved contrivances that save half the time.—Denver Field and Farm.

Mr. C. D. Dorris has completed his new pumping plant for irrigation. It consists of a dug well twenty-five feet deep and six feet square. In the bottom of this shaft he sank three five-inch and one nine-inch tubes to an average depth of fifty feet and secured four flowing wells. The water is raised by a sixteen-foot windmill which works thoroughly a six-inch stock pump with a twelve-inch stroke. The capacity of the mill is forty gallons per minute in an ordinary wind, which for ten hours will raise 24,000 gallons. With a pump of this character twenty acres of alfalfa could be thoroughly irrigated, besides doing much watering for other purposes. Water is the solution of present conditions in this section.—Lompoc Record.

William Dodson and son Luther, of Fowler, Cal., returned last week from Kansas City, where they went to dispose of two carloads of mules and horses. The journey both ways was made via the Santa Fe route. They made the journey through in just six days, stopped at Needles, Winslow, Albuquerque and La Junta, to feed, water and exercise their stock. The round trip was made in just two weeks. Mr. Dodson received an average price of $43 per head for his mules and from $17.50 to $33 each for seven head of horses. His stock was purchased by a man who took them on to Virginia. Mr. Dodson reports that crops all through Kansas are fine and that farmers are making money.

Wheat dealers are somewhat appalled with the magnitude of the work of handling the wheat crop of the Northwest, which is sooo to be harvested. Some think it will be between 30,000,000 and 40,000,000 bushels The amount of money and the number of ships required to handle this amount of grain is something enormous.

Cows with spectacles are to be seen on the Russian steppes. The steppes are covered with snow more than six months of the year. The cows subsist on the tufts of grass which crop above the snow, and the rays of the sun on the snow are so dazzling as to cause blindness. To obviate this calamity, it occurred to a kind-hearted man to protect the cow's eyes in the same way as those of human beings, and he manufactured smoke-colored spectacles which could be safely worn by cattle. These spectacles were a great success, and are now worn by upward of 40,000 head of cattle, who no longer suffer from the snow-blindness which once caused such untold suffering among them.

A Maryland farmer who grows Dorset sheep offers to sell yearling rams to any responsible party with the agreement that if they are killed by dogs they need not be paid for. He says he saw one of his ewes leave the flock to attack a wolf hound, and she made him forget which way he was intending to go. If this is true, the introduction of the Dorset may solve the question for those who would like to keep sheep, but say they cannot from fear of loss by dogs; yet, pugnacious as they are when dogs are round, it is said that the rams are even less liable to attack parsons who enter the field than some other breeds.

On the old Gennett ranch in Fairview this year an exceptionally large crop of hay has been harvested and the result of the baling of the greatest part of it by Wm. McAnliffe and crew show almost incredible figures, taking the season into consideration. On 30 acres of barley 137 tons were baled and from 10 acres of wheat 50 tons of excellent hay was the result. From the 100-acre tract the returns show 347 tons of baled hay, one stack of hay in the field, 20 tons, and 20 tons stored in the barn. In this section of the county several other good hay crops have been harvested.—Hollister Bee.

It is reported from the War Department, Washington, that within the last two weeks the government has expended more than half a million dollars for mules. Prices for this hybrid were around $40 when the outbreak of the war and the proposed invasion of Cuba necessitated large purchases on government account and the mules recently bought have averaged around $100, with some as high as $140. During 1896, mules decreased in numbers about 60,000, but present conditions are such as to stimulate materially the patronage of jacks this season.

During the past ten days 313 carloads of sheep have been shipped from Huntington, Baker county, Oregon. About 170 cars will be shipped in the next few days, besides a large number which have not yet been dated on account of the uncertainty of their arrival. Most all of the sheep are being shipped to Montpelier, and from there they will be trailed to Nebraska.

It is estimated that between 20,000 and 25,000 sacks of barley will be raised in Ventura county this season. The acreage planted to beans will aggregate, it is believed, 4,000 acres, but what the yield will be no one has yet ventured to say, as that depends entirely upon climatic conditions between now and harvest.

Stevenson Bros., who have just cut 1,000 acres of barley on Robert's Island, will have 40 sacks, or more than 80 bushels to the acre. Will some of our contemporaries in the East, that have been talking so much of California's dry season, make a note of this?

The extent of the forest fire which swept the country last week, says the Folsom Telegraph, covers some 20,000 acres of land and the loss is fully $50,000 in stock, hay, grain, houses, barns, fences, cordwood, timber and pasturage.

F. E. Pixley, Corte Madera, says: Since using Wellington's Improved Egg Food, have had no disease in my flocks, and their combs are as red as blood. We also have plenty of eggs when high in price, which we never had before. Its results are truly wonderful. Remember—Every grocer keeps this Egg Food in stock.

Veterinarians Know Its Use.

Pomona, Cal., June 7, 1897.

Since I have practiced my profession (Veterinary Surgeon) in this place I have had occasion to prescribe your "Gombault's Caostic Balsam," contrary to my usual method of practice, which is to avoid the use or recommendation of any proprietary medicine, but experience has shown me its value. When I came here in '93 the remedy was unknown. I think if I can make some arrangement with you for an exclusive agency for this community I can push the sale of the same in a way that will be highly satisfactory to you and profitable to myself. If you will come to some understanding with me, please advise me of the terms you are willing to give.

W. F. Young, P. D. F.—Dear Sir: I have this far found the Absorbine worthy of the high reputation to which it has attained, and for many cases of soreness after a hard day's work, Wind Galls, Strains and Sore Backs, I am without knowledge of a more effective cure, and horsemen of whom I know, are equally pleased with the many results. Believe me, dear sir, Yours truly,

The Original Hobson's Choice.

With the news of the Marrimac episode in Santiago harbor so many journalists were simultaneously struck by tha brilliant idea that tha familiar phrasa, "Hobson's choica," had received a new meaning in America, that tha words hava gained a new and vigorons leasa of lifa. For a whila the daring of tha yonng nineteenth cantury officer may be confused in America with the historical sixteenth century predicament; hot the latter has had probably too long a start to he easily supplanted. "Hobson's choice will get back to its old homely meaning, and "Hobson's daring" will have tha laurels. Various editors and correspondents have been looking up tha origin of tha ancient saying. The circumstances are givan as follows: During Shakespeara's and Milton's tima it was the custom for gentlemen to ride homa from tha theater on horsehack, hiring tha horsa, as wa do a cab, at a stand. Naturally each ona wished to hava the best horse,and much confosion ensued, whila soma poor animals wara never taken. A university carrier and the first keeper of a backnay stable at Cambridge, England, named Thomas (or Tobias) Hobson (1544-1631), conceived tha plan of placing his horses in line and forcing his customars to taka the one nearest tha door of the theater. It then became no longar a matter of parsonal selection, hut of "Hobson's choice," that is, "this or nona." It is recalled that Miltcn wrote and dedicated a coupla of little poems to Hobson.—Rochester Post-Express.

Credit to the Groom.

When it comes to repeating and racing, a borsa will do hetter in the hands of a poor driver than in the hands of a poor groom. Indeed, tha most successful trainer and driver in the world can do no good, even with a high-class horse, unless that horsa has a caretaker wbo knows his husiness and attends to it. Tha function of the groom should not ba overlooked or underestimated, and good grooms should ha given tan times more credit for tha success of the successful campaigners than they usually ara. No horsa will long stay right when tha staga of severa repeats is reached unless ha is properly cared for, and tha accomplished groom is not the product of a faw weeks' experience around a training stabla. Many high-class racing pr spects "go wrong" just about the time they should ha ahle and ready to go out and pay their way simply becausa they are not given competent cara and treatment during the final days of thair preparatory work, and any trainer who puts an inexperienced or incompetent groom on a racing prospect not only does himsalf a great injnstice, hut inflicts inexcusahla and far-reaching damaga on the owner. Competent, careful and snccessfnl grooms do not, as a rnle, receiva one-half tha consideration and credit to which they are entitled, for no horsa ever raced successfully for any length of tima unless his groom was right.—Western Horseman.

The Newe Will be Printed.

Tbe public who read turf journals must he furnished news of horses in training and will be,notwithstanding objections sometimes mada by trainers and drivers. There was a tima in the history of trottars that ownars and trainers could keep horses covered up, but that tima is gona never to retnrn. And tha reason why it is gona is this: The public to-day knows if horsea ara to be successful they must ba worked and when under instructions some of tha public will ba thera to sea them. Whan trainers try to hide that fact then it becomes more noticeabla and, in consequence, will ha all tha more talked about. The very moment a horsa is entered that moment almost the public knows tha horse must hava shown great speed or wonld not hava bsen entered. Tbe class cuts no figura any more. Horses go almost as fast in slow classes as tbey do in fast classes. Drivers who object to notices of horses in training being made are certainly way behind the times and are somewhat prematurely old. Men who own stallions, some of whose colts are in training, want news of their advancement. If facts are not published, ask for them and ask why they are not given. A driver can be so cranky about such thiogs that his best friends may feel alarmed about him. Cranks of that kind are about as bad as the kind who are always telling what things they hava done and can do. Tha West, tbank fortune, is full of progressive trainars and drivers who are always courteous and affahle. Tbe "cranky" kind and "know alls" ara grown on poorer soil than we have in the West.—Spirit of tba West.

The Wormeere are Plungere.

Tha main topic of conversation at tha Criterion Club in New York just now is tha wondrous good luck of "Allia" Wormser and his hrother Louis, who is better known as "Baby."

Tha young men have for a week or mora heen plunging at the Sbeepshead track, and with results tbat were ss satisfactory to themselves as they wera disastrous to tha bookmakers.

A conservative estimata of their winnings, based upon tbeir own statements and those of tbeir friends, and reinforced by admissions on the part of men at the track, is somewhere in the neighborhood of a collective $65,000.

Meantima there have been joyous hours at tha Criterion Club, of which organization the youngmen are activa members. Tha Wormsers, in addition to their other good qualities, are generous to a degree. In consequence of which wina has heen as water within tha club quarters ever sinca Saturday last, and the end is not yet. Tha hrotbers ara so well knowu around town tbat it is soperfloous to say much about them. They can hardly he called mem bers of the upper Broadway crowd. But for all that they are as fond of having a good time as tha next man. Their connection with tha track and other public sports has always been characterized by the breadtb and liberality only possible to tha born sportsman.

Cheap Advice.

Give young colts oats as soon as they will eat them.

The sire should not he fat but thrifty and vigorous.

Whila you can buy almost any kind of a mare you can only sell a good one.

Well trained and active saddla horses will always command good prices.

Tbe health and vigor of the horse depends upon tba regularity, quality and sufficiency of tbe food supplied.

The heavy farm team that is kept for heavy work should not ba driven faster than a walk when on the road.

Whila it is well anough to find out what thera is in a borsa by properly testing his capacity, speed and staying qualities, care must ba taken not to train to excess.

In many cases colic troubla with horses may ha avoided by paying attention to the condition of their bowels and seaing that thay ara not allowed to become constipated.

In no other animal is the mattar of market valua mora positively affected by breeding than in a horsa. Hera at least blood will tell.

A sound mara with no constitutional defects is the only ona which can ha depended upon to produce a sound healthy colt.

By feeding a mara ground feed in a running trough tha colt will learn to eat much younger and will make a better growth and development than if it must depend on tha mare's milk alone.

One of tbe cheapest and best feeds for horses in summer is unthreshed oats rnn through a cutting-box with a small quantity of wheat hran added, tha whola sligbtly dampened. It supplies a complete ration at a low cost.

BY CHARLES MARVIN.

This great practical horse book is a handsome, three hundred page octavo, bound in cloth, elegantly printed superbly illustrated, and explains in every detail the remarkable success of CHARLES MARVIN and the whole plans and methods pursued at Palo Alto as to breaking, training, shoeing, galting, driving, keeping racing and breeding trotters.

Read what J. C. Silby, the owner of St. Bel, says of this book: "In this work Marvin has let out all the mysteries of the craft, and it is so simple and plain that any breeder, owner, trainer or rubber who has any relish for his business can take a colt as a yearling and develope to the highest and fullest extent that colt's capacity as a trotter. The work impressed me so strongly that I have ordered twenty copies, and shall place one in the hands of every rubber on our farm.

SUMMONS.

In the Superior Court of the City and County of San Francisco, State of California. No. 63,816.

Susie M. Lewiston, plaintiff vs. Thos. E. Lewiston, defendant.

Action brought in the Superior Court, City and County of San Francisco, State of California, and the Complaint filed in said City and County of San Francisco in the office of the Clerk of said Superior Court.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA, send greeting to Thos. E. Lewiston, defendant.

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above-named plaintiff in the Superior Court, City and County of San Francisco, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons, if served within this County; or, if served elsewhere, within thirty days. The said action is brought to obtain a judgment and decree of this Court dissolving the bonds of matrimony now existing between plaintiff and defendant, upon the ground of defendant's failure to provide for more than two years last past for plaintiff the common necessaries of life, said failure to so provide being caused by the idleness of defendant. Plaintiff also asks for the custody of the minor child, the issue of the marriage, also for general relief, as will more fully appear in the complaint on file, to which special reference is hereby made. All of which will more fully appear in the complaint on file herein to which you are hereby referred. And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint, as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief therein demanded.

Given under my hand and seal of said Superior Court at the City and County of San Francisco, State of California, this 14th day of April, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and ninety eight.

Action brought in the Superior Court, City and County of San Francisco, State of California, and the Complaint filed in said City and County of San Francisco, in the office of the Clerk of said Superior Court.

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above-named plaintiff in the Superior Court, City and County of San Francisco, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons, if served within this County; or, if served elsewhere, within thirty days. The said action is brought to obtain a judgment and decree of this Court dissolving the bonds of matrimony now existing between plaintiff and defendant, upon the ground of defendant's desertion of plaintiff, said desertion having continued for more than two years last past and having been without the consent or connivance of plaintiff; also, for general relief, as will more fully appear in the complaint on file, to which special reference is hereby made. All of which will more fully appear in the complaint on file herein to which you are hereby referred. And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint, as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief therein demanded.

THREE DOLLARS A YEAR

MATTIE HOWARD'S FAMOUS RACE.

Trottsd Twsnty Miles in 59:30 1-4 and Won $5,000 for Col. Dicksy.

At an auction sale of trotting hred horses which took place in San Francisco last Tuesday, three mares were sold who traced directly to old Mattie Howard,the mare that won $5,000 for her owner Col. Geo. W. Dickey, of this city, by trotting twenty miles in less than an hour. This happened away back in Decemher 1871, and there was one of those old-time crowds present that it would do the heart of a trotting horse admirer good to see at the present day. The het was $1,000 to $5,000 that the mare would do the trick and as hut very few horses had ever accomplished such a feat in the history of the world,it was not difficult for Col. Dickey to get the odds of 5 to 1.

She was to trot in harness, to rnle, driven hy Barney Rice, who weighed 150 pounds, and get inside the score of the twentieth mile when the hell struck the expiration of the hour.

The racs was judged hy Mr. John M. Duncan,Captain E. J. Weeks and Abner Barker; Mr. Crittenden and two other gentlemen timers.

Mattie Howard was a chestnut sorrel, and was sired by Owen Dale, her da n a Spanish mare. Her height 14½ hands high; her weight ahout 700 pounds, and her age—according to the statement of her owner—eight years.

The mare had two previous races of five mile heats, losing one and winning the other. Her best recorded time for a single mile was 2:36.

Ths driver of Mattie Howard was Barnev Rice, whose management of the little trotter was the suhject of unqualified praise. She was said to be naturally vicious, and often unmanageahle; hut under his skillful n.anipulation of the reins she never hroke but once during the race, and that was in the first quarter of the last half mile. She made only three or four skips, when Barney hrought her down, and "put her home" in the most scientific manner. Col. Dickey drove the horse Dick Gough, as "teaser." At the end of the fourth mile Colonel Dickey drew off, and did not occupy the course again until the last quarter of the nineteenth mile.

The eighteenth mile had been finished before the least evidence manifested itself that the mare felt fatigue. She showed no distress hy heavy breathing or a laggard pace, hut the close ohserver could see at that time that she would have heen pleased with a little indulgence. Still she "kept up her lick," and dashed forward as though conscious that great things were expected of her. She had never heen strnck with the whip hut responded nobly to the word of her driver, and it was the general impression after she had finished the race, that she could not only have reduced the time if Barney had allowed her to, hut gone two or three miles more without "losing her feet."

First mile	2:59	Eleventh mile	2:56
Second mile	3:00	Twelfth mile	3:05
Third mile	3:02½	Thirteenth mile	2:55
Fourth mile	3:01	Fourteenth mile	2:59
Fifth mile	2:55 4-5	Fifteenth mile	3:01
Sixth mile	2:47	Sixteenth mile	3:01
Seventh mile	3:02	Seventeenth mile	3:04
Eighth mile	2:56	Eighteenth mile	2:55
Ninth mile	2:58	Nineteenth mile	3:00
Tenth mile	2:51	Twentieth mile	3:00½

Aggregate time, 59:30¼—leaving the mare 29¾ seconds to spare.

When the race had been completed a shout went up from ths crowd that made the welkin ring. The mare was instantly blanketed, nnhitched from the shafts and led out on the track, where she was instantly enclosed and patted hy her admirers. When her month was sponged it was seen that she manifested scarcely any distress, and she was led away to her stall seemingly ready to go another mile or two.

New Comers to ths List.

As will he seen by references to the following list 33 horses entered the 2:30 list at the summer meeting given hy the Breeders Association at Oakland, June 25th to Jnly 16th:

THE ranks of the freak named horses on the turf have lost a shining light and one of their members has joined the si.ent majority of thoroughhreds. What's It To You, a three-year-old gelding, by Forester—Maggie Moore, that raced once at Latonia, recently dropped dead. It was reported that he stumhled over his name, while galloping, and the fall killed him instantly. Kittie Lick, The Ladle, Can I Forget You, We Know It, Ninety Cents, Wheel In Ths Head and many more creations of disordered hrains will mourn the loss of their worthy hrother, What's It To You.

FOUR of ths get of Kremlin, 2:07¾, took standard records at Terre Haute recently. Three of them are out of the same mare, a daughter of Kentucky Prince.

MEETING AT SANTA ROSA.

Harnsss Horsss Will Race Six Days, Beginning August 20th.

In next Saturday's issue of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN there will in all prohability he announced the full program of a six-days' meeting to he held at Santa Rosa, Sonoma county, heginning Satnrday, August 20th and continuing on the 22d, 23d, 24th, 25th, 26th and 27th, closing on the last-named day, which also falls on Saturday. It is some six years since a meeting was held in this, the prettiest and largest town in northern California, and as the crops throughout the heantiful Sonoma valley have yielded largely this year and the section is very prosperous, there is every reason to helieve the meeting will he one of the most successful and best attended given in any of the outside districts for years.

The meeting will he given under the auspices of the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders Association and the program will consist of races for trotters and pacers, mile heats, hest two in three, for uniform prses of $300 each, which is indeed liheral for this year in California, and the same as offered hy the State Fair.

The citizens of Santa Rosa have agreed to subscribe liberally to a fund towards giving this meeting,and it is certain that Pierce Brothers, proprietors of the celebrated Santa Rosa Stock Farm and owners of the splendid track where the meeting is to he given, will not only give the use of the track for the meeting, hut assist materially in other ways to insure its success. There are at least 150 good hox-stalls at the track that can be used by the sojourning horses, excellent hay can he had for $15 per ton, and the climate of Santa Rosa is as near perfection at this time of the year as any spot on earth.

The entries to the State Fair close August 15th, five days hefore this meeting will hegin, so that a horse getting a fast record will not be barred from his class at the Sacramento Fair, and contests will surely be the rule in all the races at Santa Rosa.

While the meeting will be of benefit to Santa Rosa and the adjoining country,and should be aided in every way possible hy the people of that section, a duty devolves upon the horsemen to make the entry list as large as possihle. In this year when other localities are too poor to give meetings, the horse owners should see that the interest in harness affairs is kept up as much as possible, that there may he a return to good times next year when appropriations for the district agricultural fairs will, hy the grace of a legislature and a Governor elected by the people, be again restored.

Some fifty or sixty more horses are already at the Santa Rosa track in anticipation of this meeting and as soon as the program is announced at least 100 more will be shipped there from different portions of the State. The Santa Rosa Democrat truly says in relation to the proposed meeting:

"For a long time Sonoma county has been waiting for an opportunity to have a race meet, and now one has presented itself. A little energetic work on the part of the committee, and there is no douht of the success of the meet. The holding of such a race meet as that promised hy the association would be an immense attraction, and would hring hundreds of people from all over the State to this city. A Press Democrat reporter discussed the matter with a number of citizens on Wednesday afternoon, and one and all said: 'Let us have the race meet hy all means; we will do all we can to hoom the thing along, and we know many here who will do the same. It has been suggested that the exhihit of county products could he held in a hall in the city and he open at night. With attractive musical programs and a nice exhibit this could at this time be made an unqualified success,"

SAM GAMBLE'S IDEAS.

A Few Words That Should Be Heeded by All California Horse Breeders.

San Francisco, July 17, 1898.

Editor Breeder and Sportsman:—When the announcement was made last winter that the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders Association was to give several weeks of dash trotting races in June and July, and through the courtesy of the officers of the California Jockey Club the meeting was to come off over its beautiful course at Oakland, the news was received with genuine pleasure by all interested in the turf, and I heard expressions of delight from the breeders, owners and trainers in all parts of the country that I visited, and knew that the trial of the dash system would be watched with the greatest interest. And now it is most interesting to me to hear the people in this part of the country express their different views upon the recent meeting and give their reasons why it failed to draw out that enthusiasm which existed a few years ago. The cry of some is that the interest is lost, and that the depression in the prices of harness horses makes it impossible to bring back its once great prosperity.

I could make several apologies for the lack of enthusiasm at trotting meetings here in late years, but as I don't wish to convict myself I will consult some leading attorney before doing so. No person need spend any time in smoothing down the feathers of the plumage on my back, over my predictions of the prosperous future and good prices for the 2:10 or better, level-headed, good-gaited trotter or pacer, or the handsome, high-stepping park horse. They are already here. The breeder and owner who desire to secure those prices must first learn, however, what the wealthy people require, as they are the only ones who can pay these high prices. Then ascertain the market value of the stock you have for sale. Again, a breeder must have stock so educated that it can be shown to the buyer that they have the capability of trotting or pacing in 2:10 or better before those fancy prices can be reached. The handsome park animal must be schooled so as to attract the attention of those who pride themselves on owning handsome, airy, blue ribbon prize winners. This takes experience, and it is a trade in itself to educate an animal up to that point. When a breeder sells any animal say for $100 to $300, it is then rated by the first buyer as raw material, and is sent to some person who understands how to educate the animal. It takes time, patience and great knowledge to instruct a horse and get him into that shape where he can go on dress parade before a critical audience and show his ability to perform. Even then it is a question as to what he will bring as there are many circumstances connected with the sale of any great park, running, trotting or pacing horse that cannot be foreknown and which determine the price. I have seen many a green, uneducated animal sell for four times its value and others sell for that much less, and the latter when shaped up and educated to a high degree of speed or to step high and have the airs of a French dancing master, to sell for a price away up in the thousands and attract more than a passing attention. Then after the great animal has shown its merit, the attention is drawn back to the breeder and the place that produced him, and if there is more raw material of like quality or prospects it will bring higher prices.

It has been my fortune to revise my own ideas of these things after investigation. I notice that it appears to be a crime in some quarters to be a theorist, but theory generally precedes discovery, and while my opportunities of seeing animals that sell to-day for large prices may not equal those possessed by others in this State, I can say that I have seen many horses sold in this and the Eastern market which I considered brought four times their worth, as in my opinion they had not the requisite earning capacity for any use. I have formed my judgment from close observers that I know are good judges and willing to pay at all times a fair price for any high-class animal that has some prospects of selling again at a profit. But my eyes are for me a better guide than the eyes of others. My motto has always been, "By their works shall ye know them," and I care very little for theory. What I look at is practice, and I look into their catalogues after viewing their stock, the blue ribbons they have won, and the amount of money they have earned.

A most excellent judge of the market value of the best breeds and branches of the 2:10 performers and money-earners said to me, about three months ago, that he was not one of those who thinks that the passing of the sound, handsome, speedy, useful animal is threatening now, as he never felt more confident in the future demands for great turf and park performers. There are no better representatives of good business men than those adventurous gentlemen, Messrs. John E. Thayer, Hon. W. W. Estill, J. Malcolm Forbes, J. W. Daley, Col. R. G. Stoner, C. J. Hamlin, E. H. Harriman, Marcus Daly and ex-Secretary of the Navy Tracy, and all are confident in the future. Again, we see England, Russia, Germany, France and Austria competing in the light harness horse enterprise and sport, and they are "wise and wealthy sportsmen," well up to their wants and business and taking the greatest interest in the American trotter, also creating an enthusiasm in speedy driving in many of the principal cities of Europe. The day is close at hand when we will see international harness contests.

It is the duty of every business man and farmer throughout this great horse producing State to maintain the State's past commanding position as a producer of good all-round harness animals, and to maintain that position there must be harmony and enthusiasm between all. "Live and let live" is the spirit which all racing associations should pursue. It is well known that the average association and horse owner finds it a difficult matter to make expenses these days. It is a well known fact every great turf performer must be educated up to the point before he can go elsewhere and add fame and money to his name. Therefore there must be circuit meetings throughout the State at which both running and harness events will be given. Horse shows and district fairs as important to the breeder of handsome harness horses as the racing circuit.

Let the horsemen of all classes come together and demonstrate quickly how easy it is to accomplish results through honest and intelligent effort. I deem it wise to try and please the public by mixing up the contests of all classes of turf performers and give all a chance to see some of their favorite style of racing. Each has its drawing power, and gate receipts are necessary for theeters, race tracks, base ball or other places of amusement.

Hark! Did I hear some one ask how that high stepping, all round park and blue ribbon winner is bred? I will say that "it cuts no image" so long as you get him. They come from such breeds as the best trotting families, Hackneys, French Coachers, Morgans and thoroughbreds, and some by chance. I don't know as any one person is breeding them with any great regularity, but I am a firm believer that one can breed them if he uses his best and handsomest mares that trace to handsome ancestors backed up by the handsomest blood of the Morgans, Almonts, Mambrino Patchens, Edquirer, Bonnie Scotland, Glencoe, Planet, Australian and Williamson's Belmont, and breeds them to the handsomest, soundest, short backed, good, high gaited trotting bred stallions that represent the 2:12 or better trotter. By doing this I believe greater uniformity will result, and if any animal fails to have a great turn of speed he will be a salable animal at any rate. As to my preference for a stallion to produce the greatest effects, they are from a few branches of the Wilkes tribe. I will acknowledge I am devoted to the above family. There are others, however. Four of the handsomest animals I ever saw, and were admired by the best judges, were sired by Azmoor, 2:20½, son of Electioneer, Bell Boy, 2:19½, dead son of Electioneer, Cyrus R 2:17½, by Nutwood, and Almont 33. The union of such a horse as Zombro 2:11 and Much Better 2:15½, should please even a "kicker and knocker." There are in this state to-day some great young stallions and mares—greater than they are now thought to be. Yours, Samuel Gamble.

P. S.—I wish to call the attention of your readers and the public to a report that is going the rounds of the different journals. First, the late W. S. Hobart did not pay $12,000 for Nancy Lee, dam of Nancy Hanks, 2:04, and that at the time of purchase Nancy Hanks' record was only 2:24¾, and that I had no hand in the purchase of either Prospect Maid, 2:23¾, or Glenview Belle, 2:20½.

I have just received my "diploma" as a professional starter of trotters and pacers, and am open for engagements in any part of the globe where the laws and rules are strictly enforced. I retain the right to bar one association. S. G.

CLOSE OF BREEDERS MEETING.

Nothing of a particularly startling nature occurred during the last two days of the Breeders meeting at Oakland. Several horses took new records, though that cannot be considered extraordinary, as scarcely a day passed during the entire three weeks of trotting and pacing but one or more new ones skipped airily into the list.

On Friday Beachwood, Polo, Dr. Fresse and Lynall were the race winners. Illustrious, by Happy Medium, and Campaigner, by Geo. Washington, were both given records below 2:30 in the two in three race arranged for that purpose.

There was a larger turnout than usual on the eighteenth and last day of the meeting. The interest centered in the free-for-all trot, as instead of a dash it was best 2 in 3, and many thought Toggles could not win, though he was backed some at even money and then at 7 to 10, after winning the first heat in 2:12½. Zombro was made the favorite and was quite well played at 4 to 5. He seemed to be sore, however, and did not show his best speed, and Toggles won both heats trotting gamely throughout the race. Clark, his driver, did not go away with him in the lead, as was his custom with the horse in 1896, but let the others fight for the honor of getting first to the half mile pole. By this plan he had speed to spare the last part of the journey and won rather handily though the finishes were close. Zombro and Ethel Downs divided the second and third moneys between them, appearing 2-3 and 3-2 in the summaries. At the finish of the race Ethel Downs was led to her stall and fell just as she entered the box after having her harness removed. Dr. Stimson was called in and pronounced her ailment a very severe attack of spinal meningitis. She lay perfectly unconscious all that night and most of the next day, when she revived some, but died Monday night. Her loss is a severe one to her owner, who had been offered $3,000 for the handsome daughter of Boodle.

The story of the other races is told in the summaries which follow.

A Great Pacing Race.

At Detroit on the opening day of the grand circuit season the 2:04 pace was unfinished, Frank Bogash, Rubenstein and Bumps each having two heats to his credit. Bumps won the first and second heats in 2:07¼ and 2:07; Rubenstein the third and seventh heats in 2:06¾ and 2:12½; Frank Bogash took fifth and sixth heats in 2:07¼ and 2:10; Chehalis won fourth heat in 2:06¼ and was distanced in fifth. The race went over till the following day. During the night a heavy rain soaked the freshly harrowed track and it was very heevy and slow. Bogash won the eighth heat in 2:21¾.

The owner of Klamath thinks he can beat any trotter now living, and suggests that the owners of three or four of the best put up $1,000 a piece, and trot for the pot, over a track which will add the most money.

Keating said after the race that he was perfectly satisfied with the result of the race, for his mare Diona had stapped the most creditable race of har life. He also added that in his judgmant Nico was the greatest trottar that has appeared on the turf horizon for many a day, and his opinion is shared by many others who witnessed his splendid performances.

Three horses, Roan Wilkes, Searchlight and Planet scored down for tha word in tha 2:05 pace in the order named for the pole. Searchlight, with his splendid record, was made favorite at 25 to 7 over the field Keating, who has been ill for the past three weeks, didn't feel equal to the task of driving both Dione and Searchlight, and he engaged Ben Walker to pilot the great four-year-old pacar.

The opening round was a rasper. Wilkes and Searchlight stepped, lapped to the three-quarters, the time by quarters being 31¾, 1:02½, 1:33¾. Down tha stretch Walkar plied tha whip and vigorously reefed Searchlight, but with head high, defiance in his eye and unfaltering stride, Roan Wilkes stalled off his every challenge, and insida the short distance, Walker, seeing that it was a hopeless endeavor, stopped punishing his horse, and Wilkes cama home an easy winner by two lengths in 2:04¾, a new record for him by a half second, and lowering the track record which he set last year by the same fraction.

Walker rushed Searchlight away fast the second haat, hugging Roan Wilkes's flank into the turn, where Searchlight wobbled and broke, dropping back six or eight lengths. From the quarter to the three-quarters Baggs sagaciously nursad his horsa, covering the distanca in 1:05. At the head of the stretch Searchlight got to Wilkes' wheel and then ensued a battle royal. To Walker's urgent calls on Searchlight with voica whip and ribbon, he gallantly answered and drew up on Wilkes, and insida the short distance it looked as though he would win, but Baggs wasn't idle. Though with less apparent effort, he was urging Wilkes, and by a well-timed rally he landed the roan a neck in front at the wire in 2:07¼.

As the last half of the heat was only in 1:04 and the last quarter in 31½ seconds, not a few shrewd observers were firmly convinced that Searchlight had found a soft spot in Roan Wilkes and that he had as good as taken his measure. But they were sadly deceived. The horse that had been unbeatable for the past two years was unheatable to-day in his class.

In a heat that fairly thrilled the spectators with enthusiasm he beat his fast, doughty and game opponent every foot of the third mile, and won with less apparent effort than in the previous heat in 2:05. Head and head thay paced to the quarter in 0:31½, nosa to nose they flew up to tha half in 1:01¾ and it was a neck-tie party to the three-quarters in 1:33½ Hare Baggs, for the first time in tha mile asked Wilkes for more speed and he got it. Wilkes drew away a length and Walker in desperation went to Searchlight with the whip, but it was in vain. Wilkes was clearly the better horse. Walker reefed and batted Searchlight, but there is a limit to flesh and blood, and he had to be content to see the elusive Wilkes stepping away from him foot by foot, and whan Baggs landed Wilkes at the wire in 2:05, amidst thunderous applause from tha grand stand, he had two lengths of leeway from the California crack.

Mr. C. Louis Crellin, owner of Searchlight, came on from Pleasanton, Cal., on purposa to see his great colt perform to-day, and it was the first time he had seen him race this year. The outcome was a disappointment to him, for he firmly believed up to the start of the third heat that his colt would pull off the race, but when the tickers stopped at 1:33¾ at the three-quarter post, and Roan Wilkes showed a clean pair of heels to Searchlight, he turned to Keating and said, "It's all over, Tom; Search is beaten by a better horse." Mr. Crellin took his defaat manfully, and neither he nor Keating had any apologies to make for Searchlight. Mr. Crellin said after the race, "I came thousands of miles across the Continent to see this race, and expected, of course, to see my colt win. I got a drive for my pains and money and he was beaten on his merits. If I have regrets at the outcome of the race I feel well repaid by the splendid contests in both races that I have bean priviled to witness this afternoon."

Miscellaneous Breeding.

Not until those who breed horses in this country quit running pellmell after certain families or breeds, and give greater consideration to the selection of breeding animals will we get rid of a vast supply of horsa stock that is good for nothing in particular. Seven to fifteen years ago every breeder in the country—both large and small—either wanted to breed trotters or draft horses, and countless hundreds thought of only one of two things. If looking for a draft horse they would ask, "Is he imported?" and if for a trotter, "is he standard or registered?" Neither the individual fitness of the mare to be bred, or the sire to be patronized received any consideration. It was a standard horse or a draft horse—whichever one chanced to be fancied—that was wanted, and if the mare happened to be of the other breed no serious consideration was given to that fact in many cases—apparently it being taken for granted that a draft stallion would sire a draft horse, and a "standard" horse a trotter. Naturally such breeding brought draft horses and light harness horses into more or lees disrepute with many breeders and farmers, and for a time they dropped horsa breeding entirely. Now that a coachy class of horses sell well in our market a new vision has arisen in front of farmers and many others who breed horses, and a veritable stampede to so-called coach sires, especially if "imported," seems probable. Tha imported coach sire, like the imported draft sire, is all right it all right individually, when mated with the right class of mares, but with all classes of mares bred to imported coach sires, the saddest disappointment yet met with by horse breeders awaits them. It is worse than folly to suppose that a promiscuous lot of mares will all produce salabla horses when crossed with French or German coach siras. As in every other promiscuously made cross a high class product will ha the exception rather than the rule, and hundreds of those who anticipate raising salable coach horses from such a cross will do just as they have heretofore —raise a lot of nondescripts that will class nowhere, save as "chunks" and "plugs." Properly selected trotting bred mares bred to high class coach sires, either American or imported, will produce salabla horses, but miscellaneous breeding to coach sires—especially the imported breeds—will surely prove a calamitous experiment.—Western Horsemen.

SANTA ROSA ENTRY LIST.

Purses Declared Filled Will be Paid in Full.

As will be seen by the list which follows the Santa Rosa meating will be a success as far as the racing is concerned. A splendid lot of horses have been named and they are so classified that winners will he hard to pick and close contests will ha certain. Owing to the fact that the horse owners have been so liberal with their entries the Association has decided to declare all the following races filled and have also announced that the purses in every instance will be paid in full. This will insure good feeling among all those participating in the meeting, and it cannot help but be a great success.

The people of Santa Rosa are doing everthing toward helping the meeting along, and if it comes up to expectation a meeting is certain to ha held there every year hereafter. In fact there is already some talk of an association to be formed to purchase the splendid track property, which is undoubtedly the finest in the State outside the large cities.

Wednesday next will ha Petaluma Day at the meeting, and an excursion will be run to Santa Rosa from that placa.

On one day of the meeting to be announced hereafter the San Francisco and North Pacific Railroad will run an excursion from Ukiah to Santa Rosa, fixing the rate for the round trip at a very low figure. Many attractions are to be offered outside the races, balloon ascensions being one of the principal festures.

It will really be a gala week for Santa Rosa and Sonoma county.

Following is the program of the six days racing and the entries for each event.

The bay trotter Moorzouk, 2:20¼, by Sidney, out of Sultan Queen, by Sultan, bred by Chas. Green of this city, has taken many prizes at Eastern horse shows. He is now owned by J. H. Osterhont of Troy, New York, and is much faster than his record.

Golden Gate Park Driving Association.

If any person in San Francisco cherishes a doubt that interest in harness horse affairs is reviving in this city, he could have had that doubt entirely removed from his mind last Wednesday evening by attending a meeting of the Directors of the Golden Gate Park Driving Association at 1200 Market street. It was simply a directors' meeting and consequently no notices had been sent to members to attend, but when the Board assembled they found at least twenty interested members present, and by the time a call to order was made there were over fifty enthusiastic gentlemen there, all of whom were members of the Association.

The coming meeting to be given at Ingleside on September 9th and 10th was talked over, and there is no doubt but the entry list will be the largest in the history of the organization. The entry of over forty horses for the two days' racing is already assured and the chances are that the only difficulty the speed committee will have will be in providing sufficient races to accommodate them all.

Nearly a dozen new members were received into the Association at its last meeting, among them being Mr. A. B. Spreckels, who was elected an honorary member and a vote of thanks tendered him for the great interest he has manifested in good roads, and the excellent manner in which the speed track at the Park has been kept since he was appointed one of the Park Commissioners.

Keating's Methode.

During a race Keating's great pacers, Searchlight, Anaconda and Klatawah, are taken care of in a very peculiar manner. As soon as the driver dismounts from the sulky the grooms unhitch the horse, right on the track, strip him of his harness, put a light halter on his head and lead him naked, without a blanket on him, back up the track to the outer drawgate, past the grand stand and the long rows of people along the fence. This is nothing more nor less than a common sense method of treating a hot, panting, excited horse. Just think of what a relief it must be to a horse to get rid of a tight, hot, stiff, irritating harness and how much better he must feel with the breeze fanning his heated skin rather than have the air excluded by a heavy blanket, while he is walking back to his stable. It always irritates me to see a swipe rush up and throw a blanket over a hot horse, just as if it were a matter of life and death, every time the driver stops him on the stretch to sponge out or to get a hoof or check adjusted. A horse that has scored four or five times needs a blanket on him on a hot day when he stops for an instant about as much as Uncle Sam's soldiers would need to ha wrapped in a bed quilt after he had chased a bunch of Spaniards up one of those long Cuban hills. I'm thinking the best way to get that soldier boy ready for another charge in twenty minutes would be to strip him of his knapsack, gun and ammunition harness and let him lie around in the shade without any quilt on him. The notion that a horse is going to catch cold or cool out too fast on the average summer day in this latitude, unless he is covered up with a blanket all the time, is poppycock. The California trainers, as a rule, seem to understand this better than the Eastern trainers. Keating does not cover his horses up much more than Salisbury used to, and a great deal of the time about all that gentleman used to put on a horse between heats was a rub rag over his loins.—Yarrum in Horse Review.

"Talking of laying up heats," said an old follower of the circuit, at Santa Rosa, tha other day, "I remember a few years ago a friend of mine had a horse that was entered all down the line and was fast enough to win in three straight every time he came out. He started out that way and after the first race he couldn't get a bet on his horse unless he gave ten to one. When he got to Petaluma on his way through the circuit, he came to the conclusion that he would lay up a heat or so and see if he couldn't at least get even money against his horse. He drew the outside position in a field of eight, and going around the first turn allowed his horse to go to a break and then laid behind far enough to be out of the heat, but inside the distance. Pools did not change much and he laid up another. Then the betting chopped and the horse that had won tha two heats was made favorite. My friend got his money down and started out for the next heat in earnest, but going round the far turn a dog ran across the track right under his horse's feet, there was a wild break on the part of the equine and a yelp on the part of the dog, and before he knew it he was passed by several of tha horses and lost the heat. It was fortunately won by a horse that had not been in front before, and my friend succeeded in winning the next three heats and tha race. During the remainder of the season he went back to the old plan of winning in three straight, because he said he would drop dead with heart failure if he had any more close calls like the one at Petaluma. But, say, that was the best race on the circuit. There was more money bet and more excitement, and it caused greater satisfaction to the public than any race of the entire season."

Mr. Middlemay, the fast trotter owned by Edwin Gaylord, was sold at Cleveland, Ohio, to Charles Tanner, the consideration being $5,000 cash. The colt is a bay fifteen hands high, four years old. He is by Marsh Murdock, ha by Ashland Wilkes. His dam was Brown Bess, she by Republic, out of Black Bess. He was foaled on the farm of Charles Owens, near Byers, who sold him to John P. O'Leary for $80. O'Leary gave him his training and started him last yaar in tha three-year-old trot to fill the race. O'Leary sold him to Frank L. Smith for $800. The latter sold him to Gaylord for $1,500 and Gaylord has now sold him for $5,000.

Tommy Murphy, tha well known horse shoer who shoes tha trotters and pacers on tha California circuit every year, met with an accident at Santa Rosa last week that came near proving very serious. He was engaged in sharpening teeth for the track harrow, when his helper struck tha tooth with his sledge in such a manner as to cause tha iron to fly in Murphy's face, cutting a gash over his eye and penetrating clear to the bone. It was a close call and Tommy considers he was lucky in escaping with his eyesight.

DRIVING AND BALANCING.

Some Excellent Suggestions by One Who Has Had Practical Experience.

The reins and bit should be used only to guide and manage the horse, and not to draw the load by. It certainly is much easier for every horse to draw the sulky and man on it by the tugs, than by the bit that rests upon the sensitive nerves of the mouth; and again, few horses that pull hard enough to draw the load, stop there: they pull not only the load, but more or less of the drivers strength; a hard puller pulls the load, and often one, two or three hundred pounds besides. This certainly is a great handicap; how much, cannot be accurately known, but probably some three or five seconds. The colt should, if possible, be broken to go on a very loose rein, and in breaking him in, the driver will do well to always bear this in mind, for it will not be an easy matter to teach him to forget the pulling habit, if once acquired. By pulling the mouth becomes lacerated, and the greater the pain the harder will the colt pull, until he becomes such a chronic puller as to make him of little value. By all means drive the colt and horse, too, with a loose rein, if it can possibly be done. To be able to do this brings us to another question, "How to tell when a colt is balanced?"

The colt that goes on a loose rein must be perfectly balanced; he can't do it unless he is, and this is the easiest way in the world to tell whether or not he is balanced: if he be not balanced and driven on a loose rein, he will either go mean-gaited and make breaks repeatedly, or the driver will be obliged to carry him along, and keep him in his stride by taking a good strong hold of him, and making the colt pull upon the bit. This will soon make him form the habit of pulling—a habit he will not soon forget. If the colt be good-headed and wants to stay on a trot, but cannot do it on a loose rein, he certainly is not balanced, or he is hitting himself somewhere. From the start, protect the colt by putting on all the boots made, from the knee and hock down. Don't wait to find out what boots he will need, but put them all on, and after awhile you can tell what can be safely discarded, but to start with he needs them all; you are then reasonably sure that he cannot hit himself, and this fact will assist you in deciding whether or not he is balanced. A colt may be well protected with boots, may be shod exactly right, but still not go steady when started up. He is not a natural trotter, and will not, usually, make a fast colt, but, if he be well protected with boots and tries to go on a trot, but cannot do it on a comparatively loose rein, it is a certain thing that he is not balanced, and it is almost a sure thing that he is not carrying sufficient weight.

What weight is required to perfectly balance the colt can only be found by experimenting; keep adding more in the shoe or in a light toe-weight until he goes smooth and easy on on a light rein, until he feels like a trotter, then stop. After a while you may be able to reduce the weight, in fact it is almost a certain thing that you can; but don't carry it beyond the point where the colt goes nicely balanced. He can carry a twelve-ounce shoe balanced better and faster than six-ounce shoe, and he a little out of balance. This brings us to another question: "How to correct such faults as toeing-in, forging, carrying one or both hind feet inside, etc." Unless the colt hits his knees, the fault of toeing-in is to a great degree an imaginary fault. If he toes-in it is because his conformation is such that he can't help it, and no man can remedy it. The shape of the foot may be changed and thus prevent him from hitting his knees, and they may not. In cases of this kind it will be well to try lowering the inside heels and taking off considerable of the foot from the inside heel to the point of the toe, and raising the outside heels and leveling point of foot from these heels to the point of the toe. Few horses forge when speeding, but those that do are very hard cases to deal with. The same treatment will hardly ever effect two horses alike, and that being the case there is but one thing to do. That is to keep changing the shoes until you find what comes nearest filling the bill, and this usually will not be very satisfactory. We saw one driver give three horses, that forged very badly, fair records, but far from where they would have trotted had it been possible to have remedied the fault. He shod them in almost every possible way, but it seemed to be impossible to entirely overcome, not the habit—for their conformation was such as to cause them to go in this way—but a very serious fault. Carrying one or both hind feet in is almost if not always brought about by not protecting the colt thoroughly with boots. He hits himself, it causes pain, he changes off trying to avoid it, and the result is he soon forms the habit of putting one hind foot between the two forward ones. To remedy this, shoot him well, and if the habit has been formed use a pole to make him go straight. After a time he will find that he cannot hurt himself, and he will go straight without the pole.

Star Pointer the Great.

Star Pointer is the only harness horse that ever beat two minutes and he will probably for a long time be the only horse that has beaten it three times. He made an effort at Joliet last Thursday to lower his record. A fast track favored him, but a breeze on the stretch was a handicap and made the time, 1:59½, a truly marvelous performance. Prompted by a runner, McClary warmed the great horse, and after stepping the eighth in fifteen seconds, came back and scored. Fifteen seconds were registered as the eighth pole was reached. The quarter was passed in 30½ seconds. The pair raced like a team and reached the half in 1:00½. Still the great horse kept his tremendous burst of speed. At the three-quarters the watches clicked 1:29½, and the great bay came under the wire in 1:59½, the most remarkable time ever made by any horse, conditions considered.

Klatawah's Pedigree.

With all due respect to "Raymond" of the Horse World' he is going out of his way to find something in Klatawah's breeding that will enable him to get a rap at those who believe in the thoroughbred blood close up. Raymond takes up Nisgare's breeding, which "is said to be", and harps on that. No matter what Nisgare was, Katie G.'s second dam was Fanny Wickham and she was a thoroughbred mare whose pedigree is clearly established. Raymond's remark that the doubt as to Nisgara's breeding "eliminates from Klatawah's pedigree on the maternal side those crosses to Trustee, Sir Archy, etc," shows that he has not looked very carefully at the pedigree of the Oakwood Park Stock Farm's great pacer. And just to set him right and let him know just what he wants to talk about, we will tabulate for him the pedigree of Fannie Melone, dam of Katie G., and granddam of Klateweb. It is as follows:

FANNY MELONE..... { Niagara, s. t. b..... { Mambrino Chief 11 / Untraced } / Fanny Wickham... { Imp. Herald / Dau. of Imp. Trustee }

Now, even though it should be proven that Niagara was got by an Andalusian jack, out of a Shetland mare, the crosses to "Trustee, Sir Archy, etc.," which seem to appear only as nightmares to Raymond, will have to remain in the pedigree of the champion three-year-old-pacer.

Clevelands' Good Example.

Performances by the trotters and pacers of the first division must be brilliant, indeed, if the history made at the Cleveland Grand Circuit meeting recently is approached, to say nothing of eclipsed. From the beginning of the first race to the final heat on the closing day the non sensational mile was an exceedingly scarce article. The report of our special representative deals with the details of the sensational work which added so many brilliant pages to the history of the achievements of the American light harness horse, hence we do not deem it necessary to refer to them here. There was, moreover, something to the meeting aside from the startling performances. The management was perfect and the attendance broke even the Cleveland record, a statement the full force of which can only be realized by those who know what the home of the famous Glenville course can do by way of showing how genuine is the love of its people for harness racing. Years of painstaking care on the part of Colonel William Edwards and his associates have brought their just reward.

The Cleveland public believes in them, and its confidence has never been betrayed. During the past year a goodly sum of money has been expended upon track improvements, until now the racing plant is so complete that neither horsemen nor patrons can find the slightest thing against which to lodge an objection. It is often said when the tremendous success of the Cleveland Driving Park Company is referred to: "Oh, well, Cleveland is not like other cities." Perhaps it is not, but it would be better to say that it has been made unlike other cities. Building with wisdom, the management[] there long ago set about to make its annual meeting the best attraction the city has. With that one object in view the goal was sighted, proper heerings were taken and in due time Cleveland became a synonym for the best in harness-racing. There should be more Clevelands—in fact many other cities are moving in a manner which indicated that they will soon be in the same class. When they succeed there will be no more doubt about harness racing than there is about base ball in the National League cities. And the Cleveland managers will be among the first to shout and be glad. They have succeeded in interesting the public, the only sure road to success. There the horsemen do not have to "pay the freight" or have no meeting, for the public is ready, willing and anxious to contribute the necessary dollars. The greatest lesson, therefore, of the Cleveland Grand Circuit meeting for 1898 was taught by the presence, every day, of the cheering thousands who paid admission at the gate and who were given value received, a situation made possible by the absolutely fair treatment that has been given horsemen, year after year, by the local management. May Cleveland give many more meetings equally as successful; and the best we can wish any other city is that it may eventually do as well.—The Horse Review.

Long Branch Horse Show.

The Horse Show held at Long Branch two weeks ago proved a great success. The class of exhibits this year is ahead of anything yet seen at Long Branch.

That the show is not deficient in the matter of rich appointment—a feature which to experienced horsemen always speaks of the quality of the exhibits, was demonstrated by the quality shown in competition for S. G. Curtis' special prize. Cabriolets were in the majority of vehicles shown, Charles F. Bates was easily first from every point of view, there being nothing richer than his turnout, and as for his horseflesh, of course nothing in the show could touch his remarkable pair of steppers, Brown Donna and the long-time prize horse Coxey. It is really astonishing how the latter animal keeps in front year after year. His style sets the sticks a going the moment he appears, and when his driver sends him around for the final burst, the crowd fairly rouses at him and as the judges cannot do other than award him the blue rosette. Mr Carmen's Walsingham and Stranger, hitched to a neatly appointed vehicle, were placed second.

Hunters and jumpers kept things lively on the green within the oval and the well-known natural hunter, Red Oak, owned by Messrs. Grant and Elliott, negotiated the sticks in commendable fashion, and so was first. Jimmy Blute put Mr. Gould's Shamrock over for second place and Elliott piloted the old-time prize winner, Kensington across the country for the yellow rosette. Here is a horse that has won more prizes and jumped more timber than any animal now living, but he has to be warmed up nowadays and we shall hear again from him later, no doubt. Young Master Holloway, one of the cleverest boys in the hunting world, had a capital mount on Greylock, among the others shown being Irish Boy, Dickey Bird, Chappie and Chester.

The most coveted prize in the show, that for park teams turned out, was won by C. F. Bates once again, and so it begins to look as if the city dealers had better facilities for appointing their equipages than those of the amateur class who use on the avenue the horses and drags they expended so much money upon.

Teaching High Action

There is no doubt that a horse with a naturally high action may be made to go higher by proper treatment, says the Maine Farmer. For instance, when first taken up, he should never be driven to the point of great fatigue, and he should always be kept feeling well and in prime condition. Then he will delight to bound along, pulling up his knees and hocks and proudly showing himself off to spectators. No amount of fixing will put action into a horse not properly formed, and it must never be forgotten that there is as much difference in high action as there is between the proverbial chalk and cheese. The horse that doubles his knees up quickly and slams his feet down again hard, will not sell in the same class with the horse whose forefoot is picked up and put down as though following the circumference of a wheel, the pastern springing quickly when the foot touches, but strikes, the ground, and is picked gracefully up again to perform its round, circling motion once more. The horse with the latter way of going will outwear two or three of the others, and though any kind of high action will sell to advantage, the more graceful sort described is the kind that should be sought. It goes with the conformation of shoulder, head, neck, loin, quarter and hock that is most desired, and is in all ways infinitely the most preferable.

MAY B., the mare by Altoona that is in Hellman's string at Santa Rosa, worked a mile over that track one day last week in 2:13½. She should be pretty near a free-for-all prospect before the season is over.

THE bay gelding King Cadenza, by Steinway out of Empress 2:29½, by Flaxtail, is now the property of Chas. F. Kapp, of this city, who will use him as a road horse. King Cadenza is a handsome horse and a most excellent driver.

MR. FRED VETTER, of this city, has a six-year-old bay horse that has paced a mile over the Alameda track in 2:12 and will undoubtedly go much faster before the year is out. He is called Alco and was bred at the Vineland Stock Farm in Napa county. Alco is by Alconeer 15,120, out of a mare by Whippleton, second dam by Bulger, sire of the dam of Plunket, 2:13¼. Alconeer is by Alcone 730, out of Medonna, the dam of Alcona, Jr., 2:19, and Del Rey, 2:24¾. Few horses are bred like Alco.

GEO. VAN GORDEN, the well-known horseman, has returned from the Klondike country, where he went in search of nuggets last year. He has done very well, is interested in several claims and will return this winter and have them worked. He says Monroe Salisbury is in Dawson, and has disposed of all the horses he took to that country except two, and at fair prices. He is also interested in several mining ventures. Milo Knox of Haywards is at Dawson engaged in teaming, and doing well.

MR. GEO. GUERNE, of Santa Rosa, who bred and raised Directum Kelly and his dam, Rosa Ludwig, does not regret that he sold the colt, as he says he would never have trotted as fast, probably, had he owned him, but he is sorry he sold the mare. A few dams like Rose Ludwig are worth having on any stock farm, and are worth keeping. The horse breeder who has not the time nor inclination to train his colts should sell them, if possible, to persons who will. One good colt with a record will bring added value to its dam and all her produce.

THERE are several pretty good road horses owned up in the little town of Cordelia, Solano county, but no race track there. An argument having arisen as to the relative speed of three of these roadsters. The owners drove their animals over to Vallejo last Sunday, and after securing that well known resident of the navy yard town, Mr. Frank Denio to act as judge, starter, clerk of the scales and clerk of the course, went to the track and settled their difficulties. J. B. Nightingale's Oaknut 2:24¼, a thirteen-year old son of Dawn was the winner in straight heats in 2:49 and 2:42. C. A. Turner's Administer was second and Chris Dunker's Lady Alto was third. The race was for $25 a corner, the winner to entertain the presiding judge after the race.

According to the Fullerton Tribune Dr. A. W. Worm, who is said to be well posted on the walnut industry, states that an average of 7,000 tons of walnuts are sold annually in the United States, and that California last year produced 3,700 tons—about half of the walnuts handled in this country. After having traveled through the principal walnut sections of Southern California and obtaining estimates from reliable sources, he believes the output this season will reach 4,500 tons, an increase of 750 tons over last year. Dr. Worm says the growers of California will have no trouble in realizing from 7 to 10 cents for the entire output if they will only stand together and manage the associations wisely.

A writer in a Honolulu journal says that small farmers emigrating to the Hawaiian islands will do well if they have a little stock of money. It costs from $30 to $60 per acre to clear the land, but thereafter the expense of cultivation is mostly planting and harvesting, which go on the year round. At present the local demand for vegetables is greater than the supply. Labor (Japanese contract) is $15 per month. A house will cost about $500. A farmer can support his family by raising vegetables while his coffee trees are growing.

Some very large fleeces of wool are taken from sheep up in Montana. According to report Mr. Thomas McGurl, of Huntley, Montana, has shorn from a four-year-old Oxford Merino wether a fleece that weighs twenty-one pounds, and Mr. C. O. Gruell, of Yellowstone county, has a fleece that weighs twenty-three pounds.

"BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN."

BY CHARLES MARVIN.

This great practical horse book is a handsome, three hundred page octavo, bound in cloth, elegantly printed superbly illustrated, and explains in every detail the remarkable success of CHARLES MARVIN and the whole plans and methods pursued at Palo Alto as to breaking, training, shoeing, gaiting, driving, keeping racing and breeding trotters.

Read what J. C. Silby, the owner of St. Bel, says of this book: "In this work Marvin has let out all the mysteries of the craft, and it is so simple and plain that any breeder, owner, trainer or rubber who has any relish for his onsiness can take a colt as a yearling and develope to the highest and fullest extent that colt's capacity as a trotter. The work impressed me so strongly that I have ordered twenty copies, and shall place one in the hands of every rubber on our farm.,

SUMMONS.

In the Superior Court of the City and County of San Francisco, State of California. No. 64,430.

Action brought in the Superior Court of San Francisco, State of California, and the Complaint filed in said City and County of San Francisco, in the office of the Clerk of said Superior Court.

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above-named plaintiff in the Superior Court, City and County of San Francisco, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons, if served within this County; or, if served elsewhere, within thirty days. The said action is brought to obtain a judgment and decree of this Court dissolving the bonds of matrimony now existing between plaintiff and defendant, upon the ground of defendant's desertion of plaintiff, said desertion having continued for more than two years last past and having been without the consent or connivance of plaintiff; also, for general relief, as will more fully appear in the complaint on file, to which special reference is hereby made. All of which will more fully appear in the complaint on file herein to which you are hereby referred. And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint, as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief therein demanded.

Given under my hand and seal of said Superior Court at the City and County of San Francisco, State of California, this 3d day of June in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-eight.

SANTA ROSA MEETING.

Excellent Prospects for Good Racing and a Large Attendance.

The most encouraging reports are being received every day in regard to the meeting to be given at Santa Rosa August 20th to 27th. A committee of citizens, composed of Thomas Bonner, Frank P. Bane and Geo. W. Lewis, have been at work this week among the merchants and others with the best results, and on all sides words of encouragement and substantial aid was given to the proposition. There are already some sixty or seventy horses being worked at the track there, and at Salinas, San Jose, Alameda, Sacramento, Pleasanton and other points are many horses in training that will be shipped to Santa Rosa within the next two weeks.

It has been decided that the entries for this meeting shall close August 15th, the same date entries close for the State Fair, and as there are no other meetings intervening, records made at Santa Rosa will be no bar to the Sacramento events.

All the purses offered at Santa Rosa will be of the uniform value of $300, and the races will be mile heats, best two in three. The following is the proposed program, and the management requests the horsemen interested to make any suggestion in regard to changes in these classifications, that the very best program possible may he evolved. Send in these snggestions immediately to F. W. Kelley, 22½ Geary street, and they will be carefully considered and acted upon before the regular program is announced and published in the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN next week.

2:27 Class, Trotting.
2:12 Class, Pacing.
Free-for-all, Trotting.
2:16 Class, Trotting.

The Santa Rosa meeting will be given under the auspices of the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders Association, and the people of that city may expect a large attendance of the members of that association. Improvements will be made at the track, and the meeting will be conducted on strict up-to-date principles throughout. In short, the meeting will be as high-class as any ever given in California.

It is proposed to give some specal races during the week for local horses. These events always attract a great deal of interest, and as contests between local horses tend to encourage the American sport of road driving, they should be a part of every program given by associations.

If it shall he deemed expedient, one running race will be a feature of the program each day. There are not at the present time very many thoroughbreds in training in California, but in all probability they will be numerous enough to give some good races during the meeting. The runners are popular in Santa Rosa as well as elsewhere, and though this will he principally a race meeting for harness horses, the bangtails will be given a chance if there are enough of them to make a fair showing.

Entry blanks will be ready next week and will be mailed to all the horsemen throughout the State. The program of races, together with the conditions and all other information, will be published in the advertising columns of this paper next Saturday, August 6th.

WASHINGTON PARK MEETING.

The Historic Course So Improved That World's Records Were Broken.

Washington Park summer race meeting of 1898 is now a part of turf history, and it will, like those which preceded it, be recorded as eminently successful. With two exceptions, once when a rainstorm dampened the track too much, it was slow, but on other days it was perfect, and at all times very fast From a speed standpoint the twenty-five days' racing was the most remarkable in the history of the club, and of racing. Two world's records were lowered—the mile and a half record two full seconds, and the mile and a quarter record on a circular track, a half second. The six-furlong, mile, and mile and twenty-yard world's records were equaled. Track records were lowered at four and one-half furlongs, five and one-half furlongs, six furlongs, seven and one-half furlongs, one mile, one and one-eighth, one and three-sixteenths, and one and one-quarter miles, and several other records equaled. The much assailed five and one-half furlong figure, 1:00¾, was equaled by four two-year-olds, Onomastus, W. Overton, Spirituelle and Tulla Fonso. The accredited one mile and twenty yards' record, 1:40, was proven not to be an impossible performance. Maid Marian was supposed to have established this figure in July, 1893, and few turf men are willing to believe that it would ever he disturbed; in fact, the claim is made, and men in a position to know, claim that Maid Marian was, through mistake, timed from wire to wire just a mile in this race, Macy, however, did cover the full distance in 1:40, and the track officials point to the performance as a proof that the Maid Marian race was correctly timed. One thing is certain, Macy's race was a truly wonderful one, perhaps the best of the meeting.

The races in which phenomenal time was made, and which will be longest remembered, are those of Mary Black, six furlongs, in 1:12¼ (the world's record), against a stiff breeze blowing up the stretch; Macy's mile and twenty yards; David Tenny's mile and a quarter in 2:04½, when he lowered the mark of 2:05, set by his sire's ancient enemy, Salvator, and the greater Morello; the race of Algol on the last day, when he, too, ran the distance in 2:04½, and that of Goodrich, in which he ran a mile and a half in 2:30¼, two seconds faster than any horse had ever covered the distance.

The condition of the track is the only reasonable explanation for the fast time. Certainly the horses which participated in the racing this year were not better than Morello, Maid Marian, Emperor of Norfolk, Racine, Yo Tambien and other great ones of past years which did not run as fast as Macy, Mary Black, Algol and Goodrich.

The opinion of horsemen seems to be that the vegetation which sprung up during the summer of 1895 and 1896, which was turned under when the track was put in shape again, is responsible. This gave the course a certain spring which increased the speed of the horses.

A QUEER COMPLICATION.

How Ellen Madleon Defeated Dr. Spellman in a Race He Had Won.

At St. Josepb, Missouri, on July 5th, the California-bred filly, Ellen Madison, started in a race for three-year-old trotters. The other starters were Dr. Spellman, by Prodigal, Iatan, by Norcatur, and Pilot Lambert, by Pilot Medium. The purse was $500. Ellen Madison was driven by Mr. Ward, a Nebraska trainer who spent last winter in Los Angeles, where he broke the filly and leased her from her owner, M. A. Murphy, a prominent citizen and stock owner of Colton. In the race in question, Dr. Spellman won the first two heats in 2:20¼ and 2:19¾, Iatan being second in each heat and Ellen Madison third. In the next heat, however, the other colts were tiring a little, while the little Madison filly was just getting down to work. She went out and won the next three heats off the reel in 2:19¾, 2:22¾ and 2:20¼, though every heat was a contest with Iatan, who was a bang-up second each time. Ellen Madison's steadiness and gameness won her the race. The money was paid in accordance with the summary and the meeting came to a successful close.

When the owners of Dr. Spellman received the news of the race at their home in Montana, however, they immediately telegraphed to Mr. Palmer Clark who managed the St. Jo meeting and demanded first money for their horse, calling Mr. Clark's attention to the published conditions of the race which said that it should be two best heats in three. As Dr Spellman had won the first two heats they were entitled to and demanded the money. Upon referring to the proper documents Mr. Clark found that Dr. Spellman's owners were right, but could not understand how the conditions had been overlooked by all concerned, as even Dr. Spellman's driver had entered no protest against trotting the superfluous heats after having won first money according to the conditions.

Mr. Ward was thereupon served with a notice to return first money to the association, which of course he refused to do having trotted five hard heats for it, three of which he had fairly won Thereupon the St. Joseph folks have appealed to the National Trotting Association asking that Ward and the mare be suspended until the money is returned It is an interesting case and one that has never been considered before by the board. The sympathies of Californians who have heard the particulars are with Ward and his game little mare and think the fault lies with the association, and the manager of Spellman.

Ellen Madison is a bay filly, and one of the sweetest trotters out this year. She seems to know nothing else. She is by James Madison, son of Anteeo, and is out of Sarah Benton, by Albion, son of Gen. Benton. Her second dam is Bessie, by Inca; third dam Lawshe mare by California Ten Broeck; fourth dam a mare by Crockett She got her first lessons in harness last February and took kindly to the gait at the very first. Mr. Ward writes that he believes he can beat the most of the three-year-olds he has met this year with the exception of John A. McKerron, and he looks for Ellen Madison to get a mark of 2:12 or thereabouts this season. She is well entered throughout the Western circuit. Mr. Murphy, who bred her, says he had a half-brother to her by the same horse that could trot faster than she, but he was sold to a Los Angeles county party and was injured in the shoulder by an accident while running at pasture. Sarah Benton is still Mr. Murphy's property, and he has confidence she will be in the great broodmare list if her produce are trained, as all of them show speed.

KLATAWAH'S GREAT RACE.

Graphic Description of the Event in Which He Broke the Record Three Times.

The following well written account of the race in which the Oakwood Park Stock Farm colt Klatawah paced to the remarkable record of 2:06½ at Peoria is taken from the Horse Review of July 19th:

The last day of one of the best meetings ever held anywhere was one of the sort that pleased the management and everybody else. The weather was perfect, and Track Manager Haynes had the track as smooth as a marble floor. The grand stand was again filled to the roof, and a glance over the audience showed more than the usual percentage of ladies. In harmony with everything else, the 2:16 pace turned out to be the greatest race of the week, and by far the most sensational race of the year, and California carried off the honors. The winner of the race, the three-year-old colt Klatawah, by Steinway, lowered the world's three-year-old pacing record in every heat, and, what wes even more remarkable than his speed, was his deportment throughout the race and the way in which he won his heats. Klatawah is a member of Tom Keating's stable, but as Keating was not feeling well, and the weather was extremely hot, he asked Andy McDowell to drive the race for him. Andy, as everybody knows and the records show, can drive a game horse as fast as, or faster than, any man that rides in a sulky, and of all the good races he ever drove it is doubtful if eny was better than this Klatawah race. Those who knew the colt best, including Keating, considered him capable of going three heats between 2:09 and 2:10, and his performance was therefore, all the more sorprising. Keating knew he was a game horse because he had tried him highly by driving him five heats about as fast as he could go consequently his instructions to Andy were to go just as fast as any one else wanted to go and keep in front if possible. Scott Hudson, with Jerry Tarleton's mate, Annie Lee, drew the pole, and succeeded in keeping her head and neck in front of the bunch eboot all the way to the wire, and the finish between her and the colt, who came through the stretch under the whip, on the outside, was so close that both factions claimed the heat before the judges handed out their decision.

Klatawa wes never headed in the second heat, and it was comparatively easy on him. Annie Lea was the prompter until jost before reaching the wire Redinda came strong and beat her for place. Lottie Smart went out after a place in this heat, and going up the back side she passed about six horses in an eighth, but all at once she went to a break, and as she did not catch she finished behind the flag. Most of the boys that took a look at Klatawah, as he was being cooled out after this hest, were of the opinion that he was very much distressed. Redinda was comparatively fresh, and, upon dismounting West remarked that he thought his mare had the race at her mercy. McDowell was so strongly of the same opinion that he actually walked over to the betting shed and put $40 on Redina to win, and the talent all seemed to think likewise, for when the books started Redina out at 4 to 2 before the last heat, thera was such a plunge on her that her price went down to even money and then to 3 to 5 in about two minutes. In the auctions before the last heat Redina brought $10 and the field $10, with both ends selling well. Keating and McDowell held a council of war and decided to keep Klatawah in front, with the hope that he laid over the mare in gameness and that she would tire first. At the first quarter in 31 seconds the colt was a length in front and Andy was using his whip a little. West noticed this and decided to keep on carrying him. They passed the half in 1:02½, and at the head of the stretch Redinda was et Klatawah's saddle and Audy had both lines in one hand and was using the whip in the other, wrapping it around the colts neck and shoulders at every other stride. Not once did this wonderful colt falter, or waver, or wabble or offer to do anything else but pace, and with his ears back on his neck he beat the mare to the goal by a length in 2:06½. Klatawah should be willing to share half of the credit of his good race with McDowell, as no one but a master of the art could have kept the colt on his tip toes, without driving him over himself, throughout the entire mile.

Klatawah is a handsome bay colt, about 15¾ hands in height, and is owned by John A. Boyd, of Oakland, Cal. It is hardly necessary to say that he does not wear hopples, and that the only rigging he wears is a pair of light quarter boots. He is a trotting gaited pacer, and on his front feet he wears an eight-ounce shoe and a two-ounce weight. The Review has printed a great deal about Redinda and her race horse and road qualities, but the half has never been told. She wears no boots at all, does not pull an ounce, does not break and carries herself like a show mare. Take her all around, she is a little nicer than any other pacing mare on earth. The performance of Scott Hudson's mare, Annie Lee, stamps her as a high class article, in her present form, that will surely get her share of the money. Klatawah is the third pacer that Keating has trained to beat the world's three-year-old record in three consecutive years, and is the third world-beating three-year-old credited to his sire, Steinway. The others were Free Coinage, 2:11¾, and Agitato, 2:00½. The boys who sat on the upper turn fence say that when Andy reached Hudson's sulky wheel in the first heat, he looked over at Scott and asked, "Are you riding easy, Scott?" and Hudson replied: "Couldn't feel any easier if I were sitting in a rocking chair." Scott evidently continued to feel the same way until he was within fifty feet of the wire, but for the next few instants he acted very much as if he were sitting on a hot cook stove instead of a rocking chair. The complete summary of the race is as follows:

July 15—2:16 class, pacing; purse $1,500.

Dexter Princes in Training.

Col. Jack Dinne and Mr. Harry Smith of Oakland returned last Saturday from a trip to Mr. A. B. Spreckels Aptos Farm where they had been for the purpose of conveying a large number of brood mares belonging to Mr. Spreckels, from the Palo Alto Stock Farm. The mares had been sent up to the Stanford ranch to breed to Mr. Spreckels' stallion Dexter Prince, now under lease by the Palo Alto people. The finest looking suckling in the bunch is a colt by Cupid, son of Sydney, from Susie Wilkes, a black mare by Aptos Wilkes, second dam Ermine by Abbotsford. The bay colt which Hulda (2:08¼) has at foot is by Cupid. The youngstar looks very like his dam, is a rangy fellow, and knows nothing but trot. The way he elevates his head and tail and trots off around the paddock leads all observers to pick him out as a coming fast one, which he certainly has a right to be by inheritance.

The mares and their foals were all delivered at the Aptos ranch in safety, and will luxuriate in the excellent feed with which the pastures are covered. Every thing looks in apple pie order on the Spreckals farm, and the fat, sleek mares and horses running over its broad acres are in striking contrast to the poor, thin stock one sees in many parts of California this year. There are on the Aptos farm 200 acres of green corn about two feet in height, on which the brood mares are running at this time of the year. It is found to be an excellent milk producing food for the mares and they fairly revel in it. There is also plenty of clover and natural grasses galora on the hillsides.

Mr. Thos. O'Brien has quite a string of young ones in training whose first appearance will probably be on the Sacramento track during the State Fair.

A two-year-old bay filly by Dexter Prince out of Gracie S. dam of Dione, 2:11¼, is very handsome and a natural born trotter if there ever was one. There is also a three-year-old brown filly by Dexter Prince from Corinna by Director, second dam by Hambletonian 10, that is an excellent prospect. She is one of the best gaited ones in the bunch and is game and level headed.

One of the extra good-lookers is a black pacing colt (3), by Dexter Prince out of Emma S., a full sister to Gracie S., though a chestnut colt by the same sire out of Lilly S., full sister to Emma S. and Gracia S., is one of the best looking young pacers in the country.

McKinney has a representative in a black mare by him out of Miss Valensia by Sidney. This mara is not only a grand looker, but she can go fast enough to make anyone who sees her at work immediately inquire ell the particulars about her breeding, age, etc. This mare is the same age as Dione, and is said to be faster than the daughter of Eros was with the same amount of handling. She is called Countess.

Cupid has another representative in Psyche (4), a chestnut filly, and another in Venus out of Gracie S., Dione's dam.

John Kinney has a barn full of yearlings by Dexter Prince which he is breaking and says there are several grand prospects among the lot.

The Aptos Farm will certainly be heard from in the future when the youngsters now there are ready to race.

The Axtell horse, Woodtell, that recently took a record of 2:24¼, jumped out of a car while being shipped, broke all four of his legs, which necessitated his destruction. He had been a mile in 2:16 over a half-mile track.

CAME BY CHANCE.

To circumstances it would appear, rather than to science, are we indebted for many of our leading turf performers.

The Charles Kent mare, becoming too sore end lame for further use to drive, was bred to Abdallah. Notwithstanding that Jonas Seely was an expert horseman, he did not see so much of a "Hero of Chester" in the colt, but that he was willing to part with him and his dam to William Rysdyk for $125. The colt developed into Hambletonian, the great transmitter of speed and founder of the extensive family that bears his name.

Katy Darling dislocated the coffin joint of her near foreleg while being driven one night to a sleigh by a dissipated driver; as she could not travel farther she was left in a barn by the roadside. Given to Lewis J. Sutton of Warwick, N. Y, he took her home, cared for her, and in time bred her to Hambletonian, the resultant foal being Alexander's Abdallah, sire of the famous Almont and the distinguished Belmont, who in turn sired the great Nutwood. In addition to many other honors, the son of the crippled Katy Darling sired Goldsmith Maid, the leading campaigner and money winner to date.

Dolly Spanker became a runaway; hence she was bred and gave to the world George Wilkes.

Green Mountain Maid kicked things all to pieces when the attempt was made to break her, and, being considered good for nothing else, she was bred, and became the dam of Electioneer.

Young Rolfe, when a yearling, could have been bought for a song, but he lived to sire Nelson (2:09), the fastest stallion ever bred in New England, and one of the grandest horses that ever wore harness.

Andrew Jackson, whose son, Henry Clay, established the Clay family, was born of an old mare that was worked in a brick yard, and the little fellow, having tumbled into a clay pit, presented such a worthless appearance that his owner ordered him to be killed. The owner's wife put in such an earnest protest in behalf of the colt that his life was spared.

Vermont Black Hawk, sire of Ethan Allen, and he of Daniel Lambert, narrowly escaped death while young by reason of his frail and unpromising appearance.

When the little $35 Magna Charta mare, Clara, was bred to Pilot Medium, who predicted in her foal, Jack, one of the leading campaigners of this decade? Or when that other Clara, by Seely's American Star, sold once for $15, was mated with Hambletonian, what enthusiastic breeding scientist foresaw in the brown colt the mighty Dexter, or in her next foal, a Dictator, destined to be sold at 20 years old for $25,000, and to prove so popular a sire as to earn thereafter $50,000 and become the grandsire of Directum (2:05¼) the world's champion trotting stallion?

In a measure, the breeding of Miss Russell, dam of Maud S. (2:08 3-4), was more chance than result of thought. At one of the earlier annual Woodburn sales, Sally Russell, a poor, blind, thoroughbred daughter of Boston, was led into the ring to be sold. The auctioneer, Capt. Phil C. Kid, pleaded for a bid of $5, and not receiving it, the mare was returned to the stable, and afterward bred to Pilot, Jr., and her daughter, Miss Russell, is not only the dam of Maud S., but her descendants with records of 2:30 or better number nearly 1,000.

The late James Knox was a thorough horseman, yet how little he thought, when he traded Mauette, the yearling filly by Nutwood, for a pure bred Ayrshire cow, that he was parting with a mare that, bred to Electioneer, would produce the most brilliant colt trotter of this century.

The late Governor Stanford is often quoted as one who bred successfully from a carefully prepared formula. Which was his greatest brood mare? Beautiful Bells, whom he took in payment for a debt Mated with Electioneer, she produced Bell Boy, who sold at auction in Kentucky for $50,000. Three of her other foals have held world's records; one, Adbell, as a yearling, trotted in 2:23, which record, with that of Arion's two-year-old record of 2:10¾, will probably remain unbeaten for a very long time. It was rumored that Governor Stanford received a standing offer of $10,000 for every foal from Beautiful Bells by Electioneer when weaned.

Angelina, by Chester Chief, is one of the most famous brood mares of this country. She is the dam of Ouline (4) 2:04; Ontonian (5), 2:07½; Analine (3), 2:19¼, and Harry W., 2:29½, yet her present owner bought her for use as a saddle mare, paying $65 for her.

Handicapping Trotters.

The European system of handicapping trotters was tried at Hartford this year, but was not a howling success inasmuch as the races resulting were not close contests and therefore not very exciting. However, there may be virtue in the plan when it is properly worked up, and the horses learn to get away from the standing start which of course is necessary. For the benefit of those who are interested in handicap trotting we reprint a handicap table, taking 3:00 as the "scratch" (wire), showing how far horses of faster records would be required to start back of the wire:

Record	Feet traveled in 3 minutes.	Feet per second.	Handicap position in feet back of wire
3:00	5280	29 1-3	scratch
2:20	6775	37¾	495
2:10	7200	40 2-3	640

Whence the name Directum Kelly? asks a reader of the Breeder and Sportsman. When James Butler of New York paid $400 to Monroe Salisbury for the colt as a yearling, he named him after his trainer, John Kelly, who drove Directum to his record, and has been distinguished from several other Kellys in the horse training business by being called Directum Kelly.

ELECTIONEER'S BLOOD.

Trotting and Pacing Champions of 1898 Carry It in Their Veins.

The prepotency of the blood of Electioneer, which has asserted itself continuously for the past decade, is again very much in evidence. Not a week has passed since the season of 1898 opened, but attention has been attracted to the posthumous greatness of the deceased son of Hambletonian 10 and Green Mountain Maid. The horse which the late Senator Stanford selected above all others to occupy the place of premier of Palo Alto Stock Farm, proved while living the wisdom of his owner's choice, and now, eight years after the stallion's death, his soul is marching on in the victories of those whose veins contain his blood. In the youthful trotting brigade, the champion yearling Adbell, 2:23, is a son, the champion two-year-old, Arion, 2:10¾, is a son, and the champion three-year-old, Fantasy, 2:08¼, is a granddaughter. The champion gelding, Azota, 2:04¾, is a grandson. All these records were obtained prior to this season, and still hold good.

It is the season of 1898, however, which we are most interested in and which, more than preceding years, shows the greatness of Electioneer's powers as a progenitor of speed.

The fastest mile trotted this year is the 2:08¼ by The Abbot, a son of Chimes, son of Electioneer and Beautiful Bells.

The fastest mile made by a two-year-old trotter this year is 2:25 made by The Marchant, son of The Conqueror 2:12½, son of Egotist, son of Electioneer.

The fastest three-year-old colt trotter up to this time is Iatan 2:18¾, by Norcatur, son of Norval, son of Electioneer.

The fastest four-year-old trotter is Directum Kelly 2:11¼, son of Rosa Ludwig, daughter of Anteeo, son of Electioneer.

The second fastest mile trotted by a stallion this year is the 2:11 by Tommy Britton, son of Liberty Bell, son of Bell Boy, son of Electioneer.

The fastest new stallion in the list this year is Mi'an Chimes 2:13¾, by Chimes, son of Electioneer.

Among the pacers that have got new records in 1893, Electioneer blood is also very prominent.

Klatawa, 2:06½, the champion of all the champion three-year-olds, is a son of Katie G, daughter of Electioneer.

Inferno, 2:15, the champion three-year-old pacing gelding for 1898, is a son of Diablo, 2:09¼, son of Chas. Derby, 2:20, son of Katie G., daughter of Electioneer.

Quickly, 2:14¼, is the fastest of the four-year-old geldings, and is by Hummar, a son of Electioneer.

The fastest new stallion in the list this year is Donnough, 2:14¾, son of Electioneer.

Among the horses whose records have been reduced since the season opened or have trotted or paced into the list are the following, among others, carrying Electioneer blood: Clay S., 2:14; Dione, 2:11½; Dr. Frasse (3), 2:18½; Egozan, 2:15; L 96, 2:17½; Mountaineer, 2:14½; Much Better, 2:15½; Norvin G., 2:13½.

Alice Farley and Alma Mater.

The wonderful performance of the three-year-old racing filly Alice Farley, at Fort Erie on the 11th inst., would seem to indicate that the speed limit had not been reached by the thoroughbred. The time of the mile, it is true, was but 1:40¼, but the winner was left at the post and the field 100 yards away when she got on her stride. She was timed the mile separately in 1:38 by several different watches, which is a half second faster than the time of the best mile race record on an oval track, says the American Horse Breeder. The time of the first quarter was 25 seconds, which indicates that the mare possesses remarkable endurance. She is the property of a Mrs. L. D. Gray. She comes from race-winning stock on both sides.

Her sire is Spendthrift, and he was the phenomenal two-year-old of 1878. He started five times that season and won all his races. He won the rich Lorillard Stake, 1 3-8 miles, as a three-year-old, and his victory was announced as the grandest achievement ever accomplished by a three-year-old in America. He carried 123 pounds, and was almost left at the post on the start. Just before the start he received a vicious kick from one of the contestants, and when he left the wire the leader was 50 yards in front of him, yet Spendthrift won, and the time was 2:25¾.

Spendthrift was got by Australian, sire of the second dam of the great broodmare, Alma Mater. The dam of Spendthrift was Aerolite, by Lexington, second dam by imp. Glencoe, and third dam by Medoc, son of American Eclipse. Aerolite, the dam of Spendthrift, was full sister of Idlewilde, one of the very best long distance race mares of her day. When five years old, she ran four miles in 7:26½. She produced Wildidle, which ran four miles in 7:25½.

The dam of Alice Farley is Marjory, by Longfellow, a successful race horse sired by imp. Leamington. The dam of Longfellow was Nantura, by Brawner's Eclipse, son of American Eclipse. The dam of Brawner's Eclipse was by Sir Henry, son of Sir Archy. The second dam of Nantura was by Bertrand, son of Sir Archy.

The second dam of Alice Farley was by Endorser, and Endorser was by the noted four-mile race record-breaker, Wagner, out of Fanny G., by imp. Margrave. This Fanny G. was the second dam of the two noted trotting broodmares, Alma Mater and Dame Winnie. By comparing tabulations of the pedigrees of the great broodmare, Alma Mater, and the noted race-winning, thoroughbred filly, Alice Farley, it will be seen that there is a wonderful similarity in their blood lines.

It is interesting to note the speed-perpetuating ability of noted sires as shown by the success of their sons, grandsons and great grandsons in begetting offsprings with ability to take records in standard time. Many once popular stallions that were themselves remarkably successful as sires seemed to lack the ability to perpetuate speed through their sons, yet some of them have acquired great distinction as broodmare sires. Prominent among these are Mambrino Patchen, Pilot Jr. and Wilson's Blue Bull. Scarcely a single son of these noted horses has been able to surpass or even equal their own sires, so far as getting animals with standard records are concerned. In this respect Mambrino King, whose dam was out of a nearly thoroughbred daughter of Birmingham, by Stockholder, by Sir Archy, surpasses all other sons of Mambrino Patchen, and has proven more successful that his own sire.

The most successful son of Pilot Jr. as a speed perpetuator was Tattler (2:26), and his dam was Telltale, a thoroughbred daughter of Telamon, by Medoc. The only son of Blue Bull that is credited with as many as ten performers in standard time is Jim Wilson, formerly known as Hackney's Blue Bull. The horse was foaled in 1873. His dam is given by several authorities as by Grey Hawk Morgan, and one of them adds that Grey Hawk Morgan was by Vermont Black Hawk. It is probable that his dam is by the son of Morgan Tally Ho, registered in Joseph Battell's Morgan Register as Gray Hawk or the Harlow Horse. This Grey Hawk was taken to Indiana in 1854 or 1855. The second dam of Jim Wilson, Bet, was by Bedford, supposed to be a descendant of thoroughbred Bedford.

At the close of last season Jim Wilson was credited with ten trotters and eight pacers that had made records in standard time. Although he is now 25 years old, this most successful son of Wilson's Blue Bull, as a sire of speed, is credited with only four sons that have sired performers with standard records, and the total number of performers by these four sons is only seven. Probably no other horse under as unfavorable conditions as he labored ever sired a greater number of 2:30 performers than Wilson's Blue Boll, yet it is evident that he lacked the ability to perpetoate speed and the Blue Boll family will probably soon become extinct. As a producing broodmare sire, however, so far as numbers of performers from daughters are concerned, he has not yet had a superior. His future fame, however, will undoubtedly come through his daughters. This may be due in a measure to the fact that his sons have not been favored with the highest class of patronage. They cannot have been more unfortunate in this respect, however, than was their sire, especially during the first few years that he was used for stock purposes.

The number of Blue Bull's sons that had sired standard speed at the close of last season, according to the Year Book, is 48, and the total number of standard performers credited to these 48 is 110, an average of about 2½ to each. Jim Wilson, his most successful son, is credited with 18. The son of Blue Bull which ranks next to Jim Wilson as a sire of speed is Blue Bull, Jr, foaled in 1870 The dam of Blue Bull, Jr, was Mollie Patterson, and she was also the dam of Elsie Good, 2:22½. Mollie Patterson was quite well bred. Her sire was Alexander's Abdallah, and her dam was by Bald Stockings, also known as Lail's Tom Hal. Blue Bull, Jr, is the sire of three trotters and three pacers with records in standard time. None of his sons is credited with a standard performer, and the produce of but one of his daughters have as yet made records in standard time. Only two of Blue Boll's other sons have produced as many as five each that have taken records in standard time.—American Horse Breeder.

Rather Singular.

The fastest trotting mile this far has been made by a rather obscure horse in California. Toggles, brown gelding, by Strathway, trotted the other day a mile dash for a purse at Oakland Park, in 2:10¼. It is rather singular that with all the discussion about the merits of the horses that are filling the public eye, like Tommy Britton, Hans McGregor and Lurline McGregor, this comparatively unknown animal should come out and beat them all.—Turf, Field and Farm.

There is nothing singular about that. California has several comparatively unknown horses that can trot or pace faster than many of the horses that are "filling the public eye" in the East. Klatawah was comparatively unknown a few weeks ago, but he is the brightest luminary in the chandelier just now. And way out here on the Coast there are others. If you Eastern folks want speed, conformation and pedigree in horses, come out here with your pocket books and we'll make a fair exchange with you.

Those Handicaps.

The Boston correspondent of the American Stock Farm says of the handicap races given at Charter Oak Park recently: "As an experiment the two handicap races more than fulfilled all expectations. After the first race a dozen drivers were anxious to enter in the second, but the terms were so arranged that their horses were ineligible. As an opportunity to make a sound but outclassed trotter or pacer a money earner, there is nothing quite their equal. A race each day on the handicap plan, with entries to close at five o'clock the night before the race, would prove a popular addition to any program. Handicaps in the trotting race proved to be particularly successful, but the luck with the pacers was not so great. With a little more familiarity with this kind of racing, the handicapping would improve, larger fields of horses would be entered and the speculation as to the winner would be as keen as with a three in five heat race. Nine out of ten drivers pronounced it a big success. Handicap races will improve the earning capacity of both trotters and pacers, and will prove to be popular with the public. Give the "selling platers" a chance.

Peoria's Great Meeting.

The Peoria meeting goes into history as the very greatest meeting to date of its holding of the year, and when the season shall have closed the Peoria meeting will still loom up as one among the very great ones of the entire year. In this connection it is also proper to state that the Peoria meeting was not great by chance. The Association there is one of the very strongest, financially, in the whole country, and a perfect racing plant was completed before horsemen were asked to race, says the Western Horseman; and we have yet to hear of the first horseman leaving Peoria feeling that he had not been treated right. Under these conditions it is no wonder that the better element among horsemen and the best horses in the country find their way to Peoria. For an early meeting the one held there last week was remarkable in many respects. The attendance, after the first day, was most gratifying, the immense grand stand being completely filled each day with the most cultured people of Peoria and surrounding country. The class of horses, in the main, was most extraordinary, as was also the number of fast heats, 2:10 being beaten several times each day of the meeting, proving conclusively that the track is a good one. On the first day both Raymond M. and Lena N. beat 2:10 in the 2:12 pace, and the remarkable time of 2:15½, 2:13¾ and 2:14 was made in three heats of the 2:50 trot by the bay gelding, Queerest. On the second day the chestnut mare, The Swift, by Grandeur, took a mark of 2:09¼ in the 2:50 pace; Bumps went a mile in 2:05, and a half in one minute in the free-for-all pace, while the black three-year-old colt, Airship, took a record of 2:14¾ in his initial heat. On the third day the great California pacer, Searchlight, covered two miles in 2:07½ and 2:07, respectively in the 2:09 pace, while the light harness king, Star Pointer, stepped an official mile in 2:02¼, by far the fastest mile ever made in harness so early in the season. But the greatest performance of all took place on Friday, the last day, when the sensational California three-year-old, Klatawah, cleaned up the 2:16 pace, with sixteen starters, in the astonishing time of 2:07¾, 2:09 and 2:06¼, thus paling into insignificance all previous world's records for three-year old pacers. With all of these fast records made early in the season, the complaint is occasionally made that the Peoria track is a trifle wavy, and hence a little slow. Granting this claim, the soil and construction of the Peoria track are such that with these little imperfections remedied, where could a finer or faster track be found?

Meeting in Del Norte.

The Del Norte Agricultural Association will hold its fifth annual fair this year at Crescent City. Three days, October 5th, 6th and 7th are devoted to racing, and the following purses have been provided:

Running. Free for all saddle horses in district; half mile, single dash; purse $20.

Trotting. Free for all four year-olds and under in district; one mile, best two in three; purse $50.

Running. Free for all horses in district; half-mile single dash; purse $40.

Running. Free for all; half-mile, best two in three; purse $50.

Trotting. Free for all horses in district; one mile, best two in three; purse $50.

Trotting. Free for all stallions in the district; one mile, best two in three; purse $30.

Running. Free for all; mile dash; purse $50.

Trotting. Free for all; one mile, best two in three; purse $50.

Novelty running. Free for all horses in district; purse $60—$15 to be paid for each quarter won.

While the entries to these events will be confined almost entirely to local horses, and the purses are not large enough to attract horses from a distance, still the sport is entered into with vim, and the Del Norte Fair is one of the most enjoyable events that take place in the far northern part of this State.

Proposed New Standard.

Dissatisfied with the new rules adopted by the American Trotting Register Association, as well as the old ones, the American Horse Breeder proposes a new register and standard of registry, one that will be radically different from those now in use. After devoting considerable space to the desirability of a standard based upon performances, the Horse Breeder says:

"In order to get the opinion of practical breeders upon this subject, we will submit for their consideration the following set of rules for an advanced standard, which is intended as a foundation for the establishment of a breed to be known as the thoroughbred trotter:

Rule 1—Any stallion that has a trotting race record of 2:25 or better, or is a sire of a trotter with a race record of 2:25 or better.

Rule 2—Any mare or gelding with a trotting race record of 2:25 or better.

Rule 3—Any mare that is the dam of a trotter with a race record of 2:25 or better.

Rule 4—The produce of any stallion standard under Rule 1, when that product is out of a mare by a stallion under Rule 1.

Rule 5—All trotters which made race records of 2:30 or better prior to the year 1892 shall be eligible to registry on an equality with those which have since made race records of 2:25. All records count which are accepted by either the National or American Trotting Association.

THE best race thus far trotted by Dolly Marshutz, the chestnut mare by Chas. Derby out of Lassie Jean, dam of Who Is It, was at Elkhardt, Indiana, July 20th. She was second to B. C. in 2:21, 2:17¾ and 2:18¾. On the same day Lena N., won a seven heat race, taking the last three heats. She paced the last half of the fifth heat in 1:03. The time of the first heat was 2:11½ won by Ding, a daughter of Fergus McGregor, and of the last heat 2:12¼.

FRESNO HORSES.

Ninety Head Purchased at Low Prices for Shipment.

D. Seligman, a horse-buyer from New York, is in Fresno on a business trip. He has been in California for the last five weeks buying good driving animals for shipment to Germany. This week he will complete the purchase of ninety horses, which will make up the first lot ever sent direct from this State to the land of the Kaiser, says the Fresno Republican. The success of the first shipment will mean much for California horsemen, as it will bring a score of New York buyers here to purchase our fast driving animals. Mr. Seligman shipped the first lot of driving horses ever sent from New York to Germany six years ago, and he has had much experience in that market. He believes that California horses will take the eye of the Germans and predicts that his "pioneering" trip into this State will result in bringing many New York buyers here in the near future.

"There are more good horses in California than any other State in the Union," said Mr Seligman when asked about his experience during the last five weeks.

"The horses are well bred, have good action, excellent feet and color," he continued; "also they appear to be exceptionally sound and free from blemishes."

The horses for shipment are drivers that can go e three-minute gait or under. From $50 to $100 is paid for these animals and they will bring several times that amount in Germany. The horses will be shipped by express in three cars and this will place them in New York with only a few days travel.

Mr. Seligman is surprised at the lack of attention that well-bred horses receive in this State. He said that fortunes in horseflesh are being allowed to run uncared for in the pastures of Tulare, Kings and Fresno counties. With e little attention, he said the animals could be put in shape and sold at good figures. Most of the horses that he has purchased are from Tulare and Kings counties.

Amateur and Non-Professional.

Our attention has been called to the difference existing between the terms contained in the foregoing caption, as applied to those who drive horses on the race track. It is contended that a man may drive his horses in races with professionals from season's end to season's end, year after year, drive his friend's horses without remuneration for his services, obey the mandate of the judges when ordered to take the place of some professional driver suspected of not being too anxious to win; in fact, perform all the duties of a public or private trainer or driver, and yet be a non-professional. It has farther been contended that such a one, not being a professional, must be entitled to compete in races from which professionals are barred. In other words, the rather strained reasoning is utilized, that if a man is a non-professional he cannot be a professional; and if he is not e professional he must be an amateur; hence the man who does his own training and campaigning is eligible to all races from which professional drivers are barred by the conditions, so long as he had never made a practice of accepting money from other owners or his friends for his services.

This reasoning, we think, is not good. In the first place, as has been stated in these columns, the object of making and enforcing rules is that justice may be done and a spirit of fairness observed, and there is nothing fair or just about permitting a thorough master of the driver's craft to compete with men who know comparatively little about the art of making the most of a horse's speed. Nor are we without other similar cases, though in dissimilar lines of sport. We have professional, non professional and amateur athletes. Let us suppose that at one of the great colleges a student distinguishes himself in all branches of athletics. He is an amateur then, pure and simple, gaining nothing but glory, and possibly health and strength, from the exhibitions of his prowess. Suppose, though, that he is, immediately on the completion of his college course, engaged by the management of some certain school, in a distant part of the country, as "physical director," at a salary of so many hundreds or so many thousands of dollars, for the period named. He runs, jumps, plays football and baseball with the boys, teaches them the art of the game as he understands it, and receives a salary therefor, not, let it be remarked, as a reward for winning anything, but merely in payment for his time and services, so many hours per day or week or year, as the case may be. In other words, he receives money for his athletic ability; he is not a professional; he is, strictly speaking, a non-professional; but does anyone suppose that he would be, for a single moment, permitted to compete with simon-pure amateurs? Not a bit of it, not for a second. He may not be a professional; but he as certainly is not an amateur; and so it is with the man who trains and campaigns his own trotters and pacers through various circuits. He may not be a professional, but he is not an amateur. Call him non-professional, if there is anything to be gained by drawing any such fine distinction; but what is there to be gained by any such procedure? Why not take the broad ground that men who are up to all the tricks of the craft—if any such there be—and fully able to hold their own with professionals by virtue of long association and competition with the latter, are not amateurs, within the proper meaning of the term, and let it go at that.—The Horseman.

Winners at Butte

Up to and including last Saturday 251 different horses have started at the Butte meeting. Including Saturday 112 races have been run and 71 different horses have won brackets. Rey Hooker, Miss Rowena, Lady Hurst and Lucky Star have each won four; Polish, Distinction, All Smoke, Dutch and Hiero each three; Lou Watkins, Valencienne, Missioner, Scottish Chieftain, Dolore, Mallakwa, Master Mariner, Barracan, Grand Sachem, Omab Wood, Peta H., Outler Joe, Highland Ball, Sallie Goodwin, Carness, I Don't Know, Montanus, Serrano and Viking two each. Forty-three other horses have won one race.

A New Totalisator.

The Queensland Sportsman of June 15th contains the following account of a new Antipodean invention, or rather an improvement on the ones now in use in Australia and New Zealand. The Sportsman says:

The committee of the Queensland T. C. drove down, four-in hand, last week to inspect Mr. Hodson's new totalisator, which is set up in a temporary building at the back of his house, near Eagle Farm racecourse. The machine was subjected to as severe a test as possible under the circumstances, and came out of the ordeal satisfactorily, although with the exception of Mr. Hodson himself, the men at the "windows" were amateurs, quite new at the business. Of course, no test short of a public trial on a crowded course can be considered final and conclusive, but Mr. Hodson seems to have provided for almost every contingency. It is difficult to convey, except in professional or technical terms, which "would not be understanded of the people," any idea of the working of the ingenious mechanism, which Mr. Hodson has invented and applied here. Seeing is believing, because it is understanding, and half an hour with Mr. Hodson in the sanctum behind the machine is worth a column and a half of description, and after the suggested half hour the veriest Thomas a Didymus would have to admit the wonderful practical ingenuity, little short of genius, displayed by the patentee. The objects aimed at by Mr. Hodson are distribution of the pressure of the crowd over an extended area, by lengthening the machine, increasing the number of windows for taking money, issuing tickets and paying dividends (the length of the machine under notice being thirty feet, with no less than six windows for issuing tickets), rapidity of issue and accuracy, ensured by a system of interlocking gear, which either works correctly or does not work at all, and the automatic registration of the grand total.

The machine is built for a field up to twenty-four horses, being worked by a separate "handle," and the horses are arranged in six vertical rows, or columns, of four—four to each window. To each window, and from it, there is a lane or six lanes to each machine, in place of the one, which serves all other machines. Of course the advantage of this may not be so great in practice as it is on paper, because the betting on the machine is usually confined to a few horses, whose numbers may be in the same column, and who may often have to be reached by the same lane. The difficulty, which appeared almost insuperable in the way of an automatic registration of the total when perhaps half a dozen men were working simultaneously on a horse each, has been overcome by a very clever and yet very simple contrivance. Converging to the centre of the machine, from each end, at an angle of some 30 degrees, there are copper tubes, filled with brass marbles or balls. The turn of each operators handle (six perhaps working simultaneously) releases one ball from the end of the tube. One after the other, more rapidly than you can count them, these balls fall into a sloping trough, down which they roll by their own weight to another tube, so fixed than only one ball can pass in at a time. The passage of this ball through the tube completes, at a certain point, the circuit of an electric current, for the fractional part of the second it takes to touch in passing the free ends of the wire; and by completing the circuit, sets to work the cogs, and wheel and gear necessary to register each successive unit, ten, hundred and thousand. I understand the machine will be given a trial on one of our metropolitan racecourses at an early date. The patentee has had invitations from India and more than one of the other colonies, to go over with this machine, but he has not finally decided as to his future plans.

Nico's Great Speed.

That the fastest horse in a race, even when every effort is put forth to win, at times gets the flag instead of first money is well known by track habitues. A bad break, an accident, poor position has landed many a one behind the distance flag the first heat that had it not been for the unfortunate circumstance would have gone ahead and won the race. At the Providence meeting Henry Titer had such an experience with the four-year-old Arion colt Nico. This colt is known to possess a wonderful flight of speed and ability to carry it through a race of split heats.

At the Breeders meeting at Readville last September, Nico was one of four three-year-olds that started in the stallion produce stake, value $1,575. Nico won the second heat in 2:16¾, third in 2:19¼, fourth and the race in 2:25¼. At Providence Nico started in the 2:17 class, and through unfortunate breaks was distanced the first heat. He has been a much touted colt by reason of extreme speed shown on different occasions, and with more work, in company, and age it is more than probable the speed of the son of Arion and Maggie Sulten will be utilized, and that, too, when the clip is below the teens.

Now, in casting one's thoughts over the stud horses here, says a New Zealand turf writer, one very noticeable fact presents itself—almost the whole of our most famous stallions come in direct male descent from Whalebone or his brother, Whisker. Whalebone claims the very large proportion. Through Touchstone, and his descendants, Musket and Newminster, he makes one considerable inroad and another through Stockwell and his descendants. Taking the list of winning sires in last year's New Zealand Turf Register, we find that 56 sires trace direct from Eclipse, 29 from Herod, 2 from Matchem. Of Eclipse's 56 no fewer than 40 are from Whalebone, 9 from Whisker, 4 from Tramp and 3 from King Fergus. Taking the Whalebone line we have Touchstone responsible for 23, 18 being sons or grandsons of Musket, 3 being descendants of Newminster and 2 of Rifleman, an imported son of Touchstone.

Up to Thursday over $900 had been subscribed by the people of Santa Rosa toward the fund for the meeting to be given there during the latter part of August. It is expected that at least $1,000 will have been subscribed by the time the soliciting committee concludes its labors.

Dolly Madison, 2:24½, a good winner this season has been sold for export to Europe. It is reported that the price was arranged on the basis of a trial mile in 2:13½.

Races at Lemoore.

The races held on the local track on Friday and Saturday, July 8th and 9th, under the auspices of the Lemoore Track Association, proved a grand success. There was a large attendance at the track on both days and the racing events were of more than usual interest. W. D. Madden, R. Irwin and Chas. Keller acted as judges for the first day's races, and R. Scally, T. Harrow and W. D. Madden for the second day's race. We give below a list of the races and the winners:

FIRST DAY.

The first race on the program was a mile and repeat running race, in which were entered Johnny Jump Up, owned by P. Corrance; Tips, owned by B. Stocks; Skirmish, owned by B. F. Hobart; Violet, owned by F. Burris. The first and third heats and the race were won by Violet. Time, 0:37¾. Tips took second money.

In the second race, one mile, trot for pace, the following horses were entered: Ida D, owned by C. B. Rourke; Alto, owned by G. E. Shore. Alto took two straight heats and first money. Best time, 2:37.

Then came the mule trotting race, which proved very interesting and caused a great deal of merriment. The following were the entries: Jack, owned by B. Stacey; Beck owned by F. A. Clarke; Lady Clark, owned by H. Leitzke; Fox, owned by G. McCartney; Black, owned by W. Lowrey. The race was won by Jack; time, 4:45. Beck took second money.

The fourth race was a novelty race, one mile and a quarter, with the following entries: Durango, owned by B. F. Hobart; Defender, owned by C. S. Cunningham; Bummel, owned by John Hays; Chris Evans, owned by E. Burris. Evans won the first quarter and half, Defender the third quarter, and Durango the mile and mile and a quarter.

SECOND DAY.

Running, half mile and repeat—Horses entered: Birdie, owned by G. Kirkman; Chris Evans, owned by E Burris. The first heat was won by Chris Evans and the second end third by Birdie. Time, 0:49½ and 0:50.

The second race, one mile trot or pace, was won by Little Billy in two straight heats. Time, 2:43½ and 2:48. The horses entered were Little Billy and Ida D.

The second race, a seven-eighths mile dash, in which were entered Durango and Defender, was won by the latter. Time, 1:35.

Then came the most exciting race of the two days' events—the ten mile race. Three strings of five horses each were entered by John Hays, E. Burris and F. H. Clark. The latter's horses were withdrawn, however, after covering three miles of the distance. The race was a close one from start to finish, and the crowd cheered wildly as the riders of the various strings dismounted at the judges' stand at the end of each mile and mounted a fresh horse. The race was won by John Hays' string. Time, 24 25. The last race was alone worth the price of admission to the grounds for the two days.—Lemoore Leader.

The 2:04 pace at Detroit was about the plainest case of cheat that one could conceive. That it was fixed for Bumps to win was shown when he went out and won the two first heats in slow time for the class, with the two western pacers, Anaconda and Chehalis, helping him. In the third heat, however, Matt Laird turned Rubinstein loose and he won in 2:06¾. In the fourth heat Frazer, in order to give Bumps a chance to lay up, decided to win with Chehalis, which he did in the easiest kind of a manner in the fastest heat of the race. The fifth beat Chehalis' hobbles broke and he fell outside the breastworks and was sent to the barn. The sixth beat, though slow, was a hard one, but Frank Bogash proved the most game and won by half a length from Rubinstein. The seventh heat saw three tired pacers struggle along, Rubinstein won by a narrow margin, after which the race was postponed on account of darkness, and the next day Frank Bogash won.—Horse World.

The three quarter track on Mr. Robert Bonner's farm at Tarrytown is slow on account of the loose dirt on it, having been resoiled, but the horses are moving well over it. On Tuesday, Maud C., black mare by Binderton, out of Nita, by Atlantic, trotted a mile on it in 2:10; Elfrida, bay mare by Candidate, son of Electioneer, out of Gladness, by Nutwood, a mile in 2:11¾; Don L, brown gelding by Colonel Tom, out of Valotta, by Frank Noble, a mile in 2:13¼, and Sunol, the flying daughter of Electioneer and Waxana, a fraction of a mile at the rate of 2:08. The record of Maud C. is 2:10¼ and of Elfrida, 2:13½. If an undeviating law did not keep the horses of Mr. Bonner from public races, he could name three powerful candidates for the 2:10 class. The chances are that Maud C. will trot a mile this season in 2:06.—Turf, Field and Farm.

Frank Frazier may learn by the time he has raced his horse clear out of condition that "there are other." Chehalis is entitled to start in the 2:08 class and he should not have been pitted against the best horse on the circuit so early in the season. If he can win in his class on the Eastern circuit it is all one should expect of him, and should he prove to be the "phenom" he is cracked up to be, there is plenty of time to start him against horses with four or five seconds the best of him. We believe Chehalis is one of the fastest horses on the turf to-day, but he is considerably handicapped and unless he receives the best of care and is judiciously handled in his races he cannot win in his class, which is clearly indicated in his last start.—Rural Spirit.

When Directum Kelly, 2:11¼, the victor in the great M. & M. Stake at Detroit, was driven to the judges' stand after the finish of the race he received an ovation, and an elegant floral blanket, representing the American flag, was slung over his back. The blanket was presented by the ladies of Detroit. It is estimated that $100,000 was bet in the auction pools on this race alone. The winners divided the money as follows: Directum Kelley, $4,500; Belle J., $2,000; Major Chew took $1,500 for third. Two thousand dollars of the prize was withheld for the consolation race. Lurline McGregor, thought to be a winner, was distanced in the first heat through one of her rein loops breaking in Ketchem's hand.

Sulky Notes.

THERE are already over 300 new comers to the 2:30 trotting and 2:25 pacing lists.

THE wagon that The Abbott pulled in 2:14, 2:12½, weighs 76 pounds without the shafts.

A $5,000 PURSE for a trotting race to saddle will be one of the features at Hartford's grand circuit meeting.

TROTTING under the handicapping system has at least the popular element of doing away with tedious scoring.

ORRIN HICKOK is a pretty good judge, and he thinks Tommy Britton will be the fastest stallion of the year.

THE owners of John Nolan, 2:13¾, and George W. McKinney, 2:14½, were unable to buy nominations in the M. & M. stake.

ZOMBRO, 2:11, is at Santa Rosa and is looking as fine as a fiddle. He will probably start on the first day of the meeting there.

FIVE American importers are now in France seeking Percheron and French coach stallions for shipment to the United States.

MIKE BOWERMAN recently drove the gelding, by Wilton, out of the dam of McKinney 2:11¼ a mile in 2:20½, and repeated in 2:18¾.

NORVAL 2:14¾ had a hook of fifty outside mares this season, which indicates that he received a hearty welcome from Ohio breeders.

COMPETENT man seeks a position as trainer or driver. Can break and train for track or road. Not afraid of work. Best of references. Address "H.," this office. *

EDENIA, 2:18½, by Endymion, the handsome chestnut mare that Andy McDowell formerly owned and raced on the California circuit, has a filly foal by Baron Wilkes.

LURLINE MCGREGOR, 2:11¾, is entered in $50,000 worth of stakes and stands a good chance of winning a slice of the amount that will be large enough to be very profitable.

THE only Airship that ever showed ability to fly is a three-year-old by that name owned by Dr. J. W. Nesl of the Western Horseman. The colt took a record of 2:14½ at Peoria.

CHINA SILK will not be raced this season, Marcus Daly preferring to breed her to Ponce de Leon. She is perfectly sound and will probably be raced again after raising a colt.

WHEN Andy McDowell drove Directly in 2:07¼ as a three-year-old he thought the mark would stand forever, but he had the honor of driving the colt, Klatawah, 2:06½, that beat it.

ELLA T., 2:08½, the gray daughter of Altamont, was second in each heat won by Raymond M. at Elkhart, Indiana, July 21st. The fastest heat was the first, which was paced in 2:08.

SIXTEEN hundred dollars a day is hung up for trotters and pacers at the California State Fair meeting. This is worth going after and entries for the different events should be numerous.

A CLOSE observer says that the phenomenal three-year-old, John A. McKerron, is getting several races a week in his work. He was sent a mile in 2:15 at Peoria, last quarter in 31 seconds.

ANGLIANA, the mare that George Ketchum gave a record of 2:12½ in a winning race at Detroit recently, was sired by Anteeo, 2:16½, out of Anglia, a sister to Patchen Wilkes, by George Wilkes.

THE stallion Donnough, that has taken a record of 2:12¾ and was only a neck behind The Swift in 2:09½, is a son of Norval, he by Electioneer. Donnough is booked for a record of 2:10 this year.

No matter how highly bred trotting bred colts may be they will never enter the 2:30 list unless worked. They will of course show lots of natural speed but will never trot in 2:30 unless educated.

IF you think Joe Patchen is passe this year your opinion needs revision. The black horse stepped a quarter for Peter V. Johnson at Sollet the other day in 28½ seconds, timed by a number of different watches.

THE old broodmare Lark, by Abdallah Mambrino, dam by Alex Norman, is still living at Sunland Farm, near Paris, Ky., owned by Miller Ward. She is twenty-three years old and has five of her produce in the 2:30 list.

THERE is said to be a movement on foot among some of the harness horse owners of this city to secure land for a half mile track near the city, fit it up for training and racing purposes and give Sunday matinees. The great financial success of the Sunday dog racing has led to the opinion that Sunday horse racing would attract large crowds and consequently be a small bonanza to the parties controlling the track.

LE GRANDE, Oregon, will hold a county fair during the week beginning October 10th. Purses averaging $150 are offered for runners, trotters and pacers. The largest purse is $250, which is hung up for free-for-all trotters.

IT is wonderful how the Electioneer blood crops up in the champions. An Eastern paper published a list of the best race records of the year up to July 22d, and more than half of holders of these records had Electioneer blood in their veins.

MR. BAKER of Newman, Cal., has a four-year-old colt by Yosemite (son of Egbert and Lesh, by Woodford's Mambrino) that is the handsomest piece of horseflesh in that part of the country. It is a pacer and can show a 2:12 gait, though scarcely broken.

PASONTE, 2:13, by Palo Alto, got fourth money in the 2:13 trot at Detroit, two heats of which were won in 2 12¾. Pasonte was a bang-up third in the last heat, which was as fast as the first. A few more races and this mare should lower her mark.

BETWEEN the heats of the 2:20 trot and 2:09 pace at the recent Hartford meeting, Mrs. J. W. Flynn, wife of the owner of Captain Jack, drove the stallion Albatross an exhibition quarter to a pneumatic road wagon in 30½ seconds, the performance being heartily received.

THE cause of Chehalis being distanced in the 2:04 pace on the opening day of the Detroit meeting was the parting of his hopples. The fourth heat, which he won was the fastest of the race and it is probable he was just getting ready to go out and win when the accident happened.

THERE is not a trotting mare or gelding in training in the United States to day that is considered likely to equal the records of either Alix or Azote this year. Some very fast ones there are, no doubt, but the 2:04 mark will in all probability not be shaded by any of them during 1898.

A NUMBER of Dan McCarty's horses were sold under execution at Fresno last Tuesday. There were twelve trotting-bred yearlings, four thoroughbreds by imp. Tradewind, two Dexter Prince mares in foal and one Secretary filly. The nineteen animals brought $550, not quite $30 each.

JAMES SULLIVAN is at Santa Rosa with his string. Mamia Griffin, 2:12, is looking and trotting as well or even better than she did at Oakland. Col. Henshaw thinks Monaco, sire of Betonica, would be an ideal stallion to breed his handsome mare to. The produce should certainly be a fast one.

TROTTING is a very popular sport in Kentucky. At the Lexington meeting last fall $72,000 was hung up for harness events during the meeting and the association made money after paying its purses. Over $500,000 passed through the pool boxes during the meeting, and the attendance averaged 10,000 daily.

THE Eastern turf papers are much worried because Chehalis is being taken over the Eastern railroads in a box car. Out here in the wild and wooly West where Chehalis was bred and raised, a box car is considered a pretty good means of transportation, if provided with plenty of straw and a little fixing up.

THERE is good money to be made by exhibiting carriage horses and teams at the State Fair. The premiums are liberal and the opportunity to sell first-class. A good horse will look better, however, if he is attired in an up-to-date high grade harness. John A. McKerron makes the very best and makes any style to order.

THE latest feat performed by a trotting bred horse is done by Manassa Boy, 2:26½. He is a member of a New York theatrical company and leaps from a property bridge into a tank of water, thereby rescuing from a terrible fate a young lady who is on his back. Manassa Boy makes the jump all right and gets the most enthusiastic applause on his effort.

CRESCEUS, 2:11½, is showing lots of speed this year. In the third heat of the 2:12 trot at Cleveland Wednesday, he was driven the last half in 1:04 and the last quarter in 31 seconds. Tommy Britton won the race, however. The fastest mile was 2:09¾. Pasonte got fourth money and beat Carrie Crane in the race. Cresceus is a son of Robert McGregor.

CHAS. KAPP, the well-known road driver and member of the Golden Gate Park Driving Association, has bred his fast mare, Marguerite, by Don Pedro, to the great Altamont. The result should be a whirlwind pacer. Marguerite, before going lame, has repeatedly shown quarters better than 30 seconds, and Worth Ober once drove her an eighth in 14 seconds.

SAMUEL GAMBLE wrote to his friend George Saunders as soon as he read that the well-known trainer had won with the gelding Percy, by Ponca de Leon, and given him a record of 2:13 at Detroit, to get him out of that class as soon as possible. Mr. Gamble says he is not particularly superstitious, but he has noticed that horses which get in the 2:13 class usually stay there a long time.

STAR POINTER is increasing his speed at every start against the watch and may be able to reach his mark of 1:59¼ again this year. At Detroit, July 22d, he made an exhibition mile in 2:01½, the time by quarters being 0:30½, 1:01½, 1:32, 2:01½, thus pacing the last half in just a minute and a quarter. Bumps paced the last half of a mile in a race at Peoria in an even minute.

FOR the fourth time in as many successive years, the principal purse for three-year-olds in Italy, the avant was won by Trainer Rossi, who trains for Senator Breda. In 1895 he won it with Caspio, by Atlantic, in 2:40: in 1896 with Demone, by Endymion, in 2:36¾; in 1897 with Edgardo, by Atlantic, in 2:37; and this year with Curzio, by Andante, son of Almont in 2:32¾, his dam being Grisella, by Hambleton, grandam Balestra, a daughter of Elwood Medium, all pure American trotting lines, but Curzio is of course an Italian-bred colt. Both Hambleton and Elwood Medium were imported by Senator Breda.

"HEAR the tinkling of the bells"—harness bells. Rubber tires, besides their other virtues, make less noise, and we now must have harness bells to let the unwary pedestrian know that the rubber-tired vehicle, drawn by a horse wearing rubber-padded shoes, is approaching. This is about the way the world wags. Stop the noise and then make a noise to let the people know that the noise has been stopped.—Livery Stable.

N. J. SWEENEY, of Spokane, has purchased from Dr. Powell Reeves his two-year-old McKinney colt out of Altamont Rose, for the sum of $500. Jasper Ayers of Cornelius has sold his fine two-year-old Kinmont to A. T. Vandevanter of King county, Wash. Kinmont is by McKinney, 2:11½; first dam Beulah, by Altamont; second dam Tecora, the dam of Chehalis, 2:05½, Del Norte, 2:08, etc., by C. M. Clay Jr. Consideration $600.

DUBUQUE, Iowa, intends to hold one of greatest meetings of the year. In addition to the fourteen stakes for trotters and pacers already closed for the meeting which opens August 22d this year, the Nutwood Driving Club, under whose auspices the meeting is given, has added six additional stakes as follows: 2:30 trot, 2:20 trot, 2:35 pace, $1,500 each; Free-for-all trot and free-for-all pace, $2,500 each, making a total of twenty stakes with purses aggregating $31,000.

EUREKA, Humboldt county, is working up a district fair to be held this fall. While that county is difficult to reach from the outside, a two days' ocean trip by steamer being necessary, or a long trip over the mountains by wagon road, there are a large number of first-class horses in the district, sufficient to give a good race meeting. Humboldt county is one of the most favored localities in the State as far as good crops are concerned, a dry year being unknown in that section.

IT will not hurt the race tracks in California which are not in use this year to be allowed to go to grass and weeds. When they are turned under next year, they will give a spring to the soil that will make the tracks fast if properly worked. At Washington, Park, Chicago, where so many fast miles have been made by the runners this year, the greater portion of the track has been covered with weeds for the past four years until this spring when they were plowed under and the track well worked.

THE Patron colt Passe Rose, is considered by his trainer and driver Frank Caton to be the fastest trotter he ever saw, either in this country or Europe. He won at Moscow recently in 2:17½, 2:18 and 2:19½, beating Muta Wilkes, Monette and Baron easily. The race was trotted on a track that had been flooded by a thunder storm just before the start. Caton thinks Passa Rosa could have trotted on any American track in 2:07 that day. Caton's winnings during one week at Moscow with Boyets and Passe Rosa were $11,000.

NO news had been heard from Klamath, 2:07½, for some time, but word was received at this office recently that the son of Mocrokus won a free-for-all trot at Aurora, Illinois, July 22d, defeating Dandy Jim, 2:09¾, and several others in straight heats. The time was 2:14½, which is the Aurora track record. Klamath is said to be all right and bearing his fourteen years lightly. Mr. Judd, his owner, thinks Klamath has as much speed as ever, but could probably not expect to carry it for more than a single mile.

PERHAPS the hard and fast races which the three-year-old Klatawah has been asked to negotiate during the past few weeks has sored him up a bit. At Cleveland, Ohio, last Tuesday he won his race, but lost the third heat through being unsteady, and delayed the fourth heat by his refusal to keep his feet when scoring. He finally settled down, however, and from fourteenth position paced around his field and took the pole before reaching the quarter pole. He is a wonderful colt, but two many hard races will make the best horse in the world uncertain.

MR. T. J. WEEKS, of Santa Cruz, in this State, who bred and raised the mare, Ethel Downs, still owns her dam, Nutwood Weeks. This mare is a fine, large animal, weighing 1,200 pounds. She was sired by Nutwood 600, her dam being by Williamson's Belmont, the Mambrino Patchen of the Pacific Coast. Mr. Weeks has a full brother to Ethel Downs that is now 15 months old and weighs 800 pounds. He also has two half-brothers and two half-sisters to Ethel. Nutwood Weeks is the dam of two in the list, and is registered in the Year Book as a great broodmare.

TWO MORE championships came to California horses this week. Lena N. broke all records for pacing mares when she stepped the first heat of the 2:10 pace at Cleveland, Ohio last Monday in 2:05½, and Searchlight, owned by C. L. Crellin of Plessanton, in the same race reduced the race record for four-year-old pacers to 2:04¾. Online's four-year-old record is 2:04, but it was made against time on a specially prepared track and is not to be compared with Searchlight's mile, which was made in a race with several contestants and in a heat where he did not have the pole.

A GENTLEMAN who has studied the Eastern horse market intelligently and with an eye to the best way to supply its demands, said in this office one day this week, that he was certain the very best results could be reached by selecting a lot of highly formed and trappy gaited mares, of good color and disposition, carrying as much of the blood of Mambrino Patchen as it is possible to get, and mating them with McKinney or his son Zombro. This he was certain would produce a crop of foals that when grown and properly educated would bring top prices in the New York market.

SAMUEL GAMBLE, who was Superintendent of Oakwood Park Stock Farm twelve years ago, says that H. R. Covey, 2:25, full brother to Klatawah, 2:06½, was one of the fastest trotters he ever saw. Like the other sons and daughters of Steinway and Katie G., Covey was rather mixed gaited, and with shoes on would strike himself when at speed. Shod with tips, however, he would trot all right and show a two-minute clip. The colt contracted a severe cold, however, through the carelessness of a groom and came near dying. He never showed as great speed afterwards, but took a mark of 2:25.

YEARLING SALES IN ENGLAND.

"North Yorkshireman," the well informed English turf correspondent of the Spirit of the Times, furnishes the following gossipy account of the leading sales at Newmarket recently:

"The first July meeting at Newmarket, England, is generally as interesting to turfmen the world over, by reason of its yearling sales as for its racing. This year the week proved no exception to the rule, and some nicely bred youngsters brought remunerative figures.

"Mr. J. W. Larnach, owner of the Derby winner, Jeddah, paid the highest price of the week, 3,200 guineas, for the bay or brown colt Simonswood, full brother to Simonside, by St. Simon out of Daisy Chain. Simonside, who is two years old, won the Forty-first Biennial for Lord Carnarvon at the recent Ascot meeting, and was himself a high-priced yearling, having cost 2,000 guineas at the first July sale a year ago. Daisy Chain is by Springfield out of Chatelaine, by Cambuscan.

"The second highest-priced yearling of the week was by St. Simon, this being the filly Winifreda, purchased by Mr. Brassey for 3,000 guineas. Winifreda was bred by Mr. Daniel Cooper, and her dam, Melody, is by Tynedale (son of Warlock), out of Glee, she by Adventurer out of Sweet Sound, by Rataplan. Mr. Cooper's lot also included Flametta, a bay filly by Isinglass, out of Glare, which was bought by Captain Machelle for 1,550 guineas. This filly is from a great racing family, for her dam is a half-sister to the winners, Float and Serpentine, while the grandam was Footlight, the grandam of Ladas and Chelandry, respectively, winners of the Derby and One Thousand Guineas, Glare's half-sister, Float, was also represented in Mr. Cooper's lot, her colt by Orme bringing 1,300 guineas to the bid of Mr. W. M. Clark, who won this year's Lincolnshire Handicap with Prince Barcaldine.

"The young Ormes are winning at a lively rate this year, and so it was not surprising that another of his colts should have brought a nice price, this being the son of Miss Decima, which was in Captain Fife's lot, and was taken by Mr. A. Sadler at 1,550 guineas. Miss Decima is by Springfield out of Saga, she by Petrarch out of Napoli, out of Macaroni. Like Float and Glare, Miss Decima is out of the Pawn branch of family 1, which produced this year's Derby winner, Jeddah.

"Probably the most fashionably bred youngster of the week, however, was the colt by St. Simon—Dart, in Colonel Brocklehurst's lot. This colt was bought by Mr. W. H. Walker for 1,550 guineas. His full sister brought the smashing sum of 5,000 guineas just a year ago, and as she failed to develop into a great stake winner, the present yearling may prove to have been something of a bargain. His dam, Dart, is by Thunderbolt (son of Stockwell), out of Taugenichts, by Toxopholite, and Taugenichts is a full sister to Quiver, dam of those two tremendous St. Simon fillies Memoir and La Fleche. Mr. Marcus Daly owns a nice mare right out of this family, namely, The Task, by Barcaldine—Satchel, she by Gallopin (St. Simon's sire) out of Quiver.

"Grand old Galopin was represented by some attractive yearlings. His colt out of Cassimere, in Mr. J. B. Wood's lot, was bought by Mr. W. Jarvis for 1,250 guineas, while his filly out of Mary Seaton, bred in the Blankney Stud, went to Mr. W. H. Walker for 1,200 guineas. Cassimere is by Camballn out of Cachmere, by Thormanby. Mary Seaton is by Isonomy out of Mary Stewart, by Scottish Chief, a great family. Mary Stuart herself won the Oaks and St. Leger in 1873, and her dam Morgan-la Faye, produced Lady Morgan, whose daughter Marganette has earned imperishable renown as the dame of Galtee More.

"A filly by Retreat, out of Kilcock's dam, Bonnie Morn, was bought by Captain Homfray for 1,100 guineas, while one of the grandest colts of the week, by Blue Green—Zoetrope, was secured by Mr. R. Marsh for 1,200 guineas. Blue Green is himself out of Angelica, sister to St. Simon, and the resemblance of this colt to St. Simon in his yearling days was widely commented on. The above-mentioned comprise all the yearlings which brought over 1,000 guineas, except the Irish-bred filly, Waterstown, by Gallinule (son of Isonomy) out of Rose d'Amour, which went to Mr. Reid Walker for 1,050 guineas.

"Some very nice brood mares changed hands during the week. Rhoda, a full sister to Melton, and in foal to Isinglass, was bought by Mr. W. Brodrick Cloete for 1,400 guineas. Mr. J. E. Platt, seller of Rhoda, turned around and bought two grand mares, however, in Primrose and Flower Girl. Primrose is by Uncas (son of Stockwell) out of Mosque, and, with her colt foal by Ayrshire, cost 1,720 guineas. For Flower Girl and her colt foal by Pepper and Salt, Mr. Platt gave 2,800 guineas. Flower Girl's three-year-old colt, Captain Martin, by Martagon, is one of this year's cracks, and doubtless Mr. Platt bought the mare to breed to his stallion, Kendal, both Kendal and Martagon being sons of Bend Or.

"Two valuable stallions which changed hands during the week were Satiety, by Isonomy, bought by Captain Machell for 2,000 guineas, and Joggler, by Lord Lyon, which went to Lord Marcus Beresford for 1,500 guineas Joggler has already sired Jest, Fosco (late Imposition), Barneyhill, Rosemerryn and many other good winners, and looks a bargain at that price, while Satiety's son, Piety, is one of the best stayers in England.

"While there were many sales at very satisfactory figures, we have above enumerated all the animals which brought 1,000 guineas or over. We are glad to see prices keep up to a good level in England, and we trust that all the plucky buyers of the high-priced lots will have good luck with their purchases, while we have no doubt that many of the other lots will repay their investors with good interest."

Coney Island Jockey Club.

New York, July 25.—The fall meeting of the Coney Island Jockey Club promises to furnish excellent racing. The Secretary has just announced the number of entries in each of the stakes that closed on July 15th. There are 682 entries in eighteen stakes.

The principal races are the Twin City Handicap and the Autumn Cup. One is to be run on Monday, September 5th, and the other on Saturday, September 10th. Ornament and Hamburg are entered in both these stakes. If half start in each race, there will be two magnificent battles. The entries in the two races follow:

Twin City Handicap, one and one quarter miles—The Friar, Tillo, Ben Holliday, Handball, The Roman, Royal Stag, White Frost, Sir Walter, Sir Vassar, Judge Denny, Pink Coat, Hamburg, Simon W., Bannockburn, Mirthful, Semper Ego, Sly Fox, Ben Doran, Whistling Coon, Doela, The Huguenot, Ornament, Ogden, Handspring, Linstock, On Deck, Senator Bland, George Boyd, Plaudet, Candlebrick, Dr. Catlett.

The Autumn Cup, two miles—Linstock, Semper Ego, Sly Fox, Ornament, Challenger, Scotch Plaid, Sir Vassar, Havoc, Pink Coat, Dutch Skater, On Deck, Ben Holladay, George Boyd, The Friar, Whistling Coon, Judge Denny, Tragedian, Rappahannock, The Roman, Hamburg, Senator Bland, Goodrich, Mirthful, Plaudit, Tillo, The Huguenot.

In both these races Ornament will meet Tillo, and in one Ogden. The game little Sir Walter hobs up again in the Twin City Handicap, while the great Westerner, Plaudit, may start in each race.

As high a class will be found in the other stakes. A complete list of those closing on July 15th, with the number of entries follow:

Great Eastern Handicap, for two-year-olds, 99; Flat Bush, for two-year-olds, 59; Autumn Maiden, for two-year-olds, 58; Sapphire, for two-year-olds, 51; Belle S., for fillies, two-year-olds, 47; Partridge, for two-year-olds, 35; Golden Rod, for two-year-olds, 33; Flight, for two-year-olds and upward, 33; September, for three-year-olds, 24; Flying Handicap, for three-year-olds, 26; Dolphin for three-year olds, 25; Reapers, for three-year-olds, 20; Twin City Handicap, for three-year-olds and upward, 31; Autumn Cup, for three-year-olds and upward, 26; Turf Handicap, for three-year-olds and upward, 13; Russell Handicap, for three-year-olds and upward, 11; Autumn Handicap, for three-year-olds and upward, comprising the Fall Handicap at six furlongs, the Ocean, at one mile, and the Omnium, at one mile and an eighth, 46.

Much of the scandal caused at most of the Western tracks, says a New York turf writer, comes from the 'wise' element, who carried away by the modern craze for percentage handicapping, figure races constantly at a wide variance with actual performance, and where prognostications prove wrong give voice to long and loud imprecations against 'dead ones' and their undertakers. This is true, not so much of the general public as of the "regulars" and the betting men who should know better than to voice their suspicions, even though they entertain them, and who, if they really think the game is crooked as they pretend, like modern Dogberrys, "write themselves asses" for being mixed up in anything so debased, either as participant or spectator.

At the end of the week ending July 2d, Ayrshire, by Hampton, dam Atlanta, still headed the list of winning sires in England, with a total of $52,970 placed to his credit by eight of his get in thirteen races. St. Simon is now second, Desmond having won the July Stakes worth $6,750. The get of St. Simon are picking up, and this matchless sire is sure to be well up at the end of the season. Janissary, sire of Jeddah, the Derby winner, is third on the list, Gallopin fourth and Common fifth.

METAIRE, who wes owned by M. D. Miller of Chicago, died at Butte last week. He wes by George Kinney—Ella B., and was a good performer.

TRAINER JOHN S. CAMPBELL thinks Mallekwa a better colt then Ogden. Mallakwa will probably stert in the Futurity if he does not go wrong.

HARRY KUHL has resigned his position as clerk of the scales at Washington Park, tha hetter to discharge his duties as secretary of the Chicago Racing Association.

THE wholesele scratching of horses at some of tha East rn tracks letely has led to a demend for the Western rule which permits owners to scratch horses only to a certain number.

J. W. Brooks, official handicapper and associate judge of the California Jockey Club has returned to this city after an absence of a month in Chicago, Cincinnati end other points in the Mississippi Valley.

FIVE California horses finished first at Botte July 21st, and on the same day 5,062 mutuel tickets were sold on the results, a total of $25,310. Neerly twenty thousand dollars pessed through the auction box.

TRAINER "JIMMY" COFFEY, who "preped" Satsuma for the Burns $10,000 Handicap at Oskland, has severed his connection with Dr. Rowell. He has purchased a couple of good horses and will rece hereefter on his own account.

THE colt Inhrad, in Bob Smith's string, won at Bntte last yeer at the long odds of 26 to 1 and did the same thing over this year. The exact amount peid hy the mutuals on the colt in 1897 wes $134.35. This yesr it was one dollar more.

IMP. PLENTY, owned by Mrs. S. B. Wolfskill. died at Los Angeles last week from tha effects of an accident. He wes a hey stellion, foeled in 1886, by The Merquis or Suwarrow, and wes imported to California from Australia by R. E. deB Lopez.

ALGOL won the Whesler Hendicep at Washington Park Saturday, heating Goodrich and Pink Cost. Schorr's horse equalled the world's record hy going the mile and a qnerter in 2:04½. He wes ridden by Tommy Burns and was 12 to 1 in the hetting.

IN October Gen. Jackson, of famous Belle Meads, will sell thirty-five yearlings, forty wsanlings and seventy-three fine hroodmares, among these being a sister of Hamburg's dem, Tulla Blackhurn, and Fairy, the dem of e colt sold in New York this spring for $2,000.

GEO. L. WARING, T. H. Dudley and other enterprising citizens of Santa Monica have erranged to give two days' racing at that well-known watering place on tha 9th and 10th of September. The program will consist mostly of pony reces, though there will be two or three events for thoroughbreds.

JOCKEY E. GOUIN, who has heen riding for "Dunc" Cameron at Chicago, arrived in Butte last week end brought the pleasing intelligence that May W. is not dead, es reported. He left Chicago on Wednesday, and the mere wes then improving repidly. Mr. Cameron has turned all his horses out at Milwenkes.

THE Daily Racing Farm calls attention to the practice that has long existed on tha running turf of taking down the neme of the jockeys as soon as ths horses go to tha post. There is no douht hut the puhlic would he much better pleased were the nemes to remain up until the horses are given the word.

President Thos. H. Williams of ths California Jockey Club will go East shortly for a brief business trip in connection with affairs of ths club. The outlook for a splendid season of recing in California naxt winter are vary hright. It is likely that the class of horses raced over our local tracks next season will he better then ever.

A CORKING good race wes run hy H. L. Frank's Inverness colt Mallakwa when he won the Northwestern Steke for two-year-olds at Butte, July 18th. He ren the five and a half furlongs in 1:07¾ in a fighting finish which hegun at the head of the stratch. Mallakwa ehows cless to a certeinty. His dam is Missoula, hy Sir Modred.

ONE of the largest string of yearlings is that of the Fleischmenns. They are being hendled at the farm in New Jersey. There are twenty-seven of them, and en extra fine lot thay are, so that Tom Welch is likely to take a prominent part in two-year-old events next season. Many of thesa youngsters were honght hy Sloen and entirely on his own judgment. He asked Mr. Julius Fleischman's permission to select some yearlings for the stable. Sloan rather prides himeelf on his udgment of yeerlings, end Mr. Welch says that those he selected stand a lot of picking to piecee and are a credit to his judgment.

E. C. HOPPER, Secretery of the Latonia track, errived at Butte, Montana, July 17th end the following dey assumed his position as presiding judge at the meeting. The Inter-Monntein stetes thet since his errival he has been a very hosy man in the line of smoothing the rough edges and endeevoring to so mske the racing that everyhody's rights will bs respected and considered.

CHARLES T. PATTESSON hes bought of Applegate and McMeekin the hay or brown suckling colt hy Hanover, dam Workmate, hy Bolwa k, for $4,000—$3,500 cash end $500 when ha wins his first race or when Patterson sells him. Ha is entered in tha Matron Steka et Morris Park, and hefore he is e yearling he will he entered in nearly ell of the big two and thies-year old events in the East.

WHEN the Anaconda meeting closes September 11th, there will ha at least 100 horses shipped from thera to Sacramento to take pert in the meeting to ba given by the California Jockey Club efter the close of the State Fair. Many of the Californie horses will leave Montana September 1st in time to reech Sacramento for the opening days of the fair. It is probahle that more room will he required for horses at the feir grounds this yeer then ever before.

MARY BLACK won the three-quarters of a mile at Washington Park, Chicago on July 15th in 1:12½, which ties the record for the distance on a circular track. The fractional time was: Quarter, 0:23½; half, 0:46¾; five furlongs, 0:59¼. Mary Black is a three-year-old filly, hy imp. Islington, out of Songstress, hy Lnke Bleckhurn. Islington, her sire, has gone hack to England, but the few of his get in this country go to prove that his return to England was unfortunate for America.

"THERE is no track that will so surely and so unexpectedly brsak a horse down as our deep and cuppy ones, end even when thera is no actnel hreakdown, thera is meny a case of lameness from a spresd or hrnised heel, end many an unsoundness starts from a horse's landing on the hard hottom that the 'cupping' hoof of some predecessor had left hare. It may be broadly stated that a hard track per se never yet hroke any horse down that was sound, and where hoof halence and consequent proper ection of tha joints was normel.'

IT begins to look as though the California Stete Fair will be much more largely attended this yeer than enyhody axpected a faw months ago. The mere fact that so few meetings ere being held in the Stata has set everyhody to inquiring ahout the Sacramento meeting, and as the whole Montana contingent will be heck in time for the opening, the old treck will be crowded to a certainty. Some of the hest racing ever seen in tha capitol city is certain to he given this year, while the stock exhibits will be fully up to standard.

SOME of the turf writers ere naming Toluca, S. C. Hildreth's filly by Nomad, as the very best two-yeer-old filly thns shown in the West. When she won the Hyde Park stekes at Chicago last Thursday, she got off two lengths in the leed and won hy a neck according to the form chart, tiring and stopping at every stride. She cerried 110 pounds. W. Overton, with 121 pounds up, was at lesst five lengths behind Toluca at the stert end finished third, e length and a half behind the leeder. According to this showing, Toluca does not look to he qnite as high-class es she is touted. She has won a lot of money for Hildredth, however, and is worthy of being called a stake animal.

WHILE a number of hresders were congregated in New York recently thess was considerahla talk of drawing up a memoriel to tha Jockey Club requesting that some action he teken looking to en increese in tha number of events offered for fillies by the verious racing associations. Fillies are now a drng in ths marke', and it has been suggested each association should give two or thres purse races each week especially for them. No definite plan was suggestad, hut an understanding hetwsen such men as Major B. G. Thomes, J. B. Haggin, Milton Young, Gen. W. H. Jackson, Lucius O. Appleby and others, it is stated, wes arrived at.

THE London sporting and turf writers are indulging in frequsnt paragraphs regarding Richerd Croker's racing experience and future intentions, end most of them comment on his recent purchase of the two-year-old filly, Little Saint, the winner of a £200 selling recs, at the enormous price of £1,600. This filly has since heen shipped to Americs. The Ster recalls the Crocker-Dwyer system of entering first-class horses in selling plates and hacking them heavily, hnt says the system has not paid in England. The Deily Mail learns thet Mr. Crokar intends to give up recing in England, which has cost him $500,000, as the handicappers heve not given him a chance to win.

THE starting at Chicago is said to be capital. Thare is no delay. The horses lina up and get ths flag generelly in line, alweys in a close bunch. The sterting machine is hong high, level with a hoys hands as he sits up, end tha single strend herrier is so frail that a touch will almost hreak it, and therein lies the whole secret. The hoys are not allowed to plunge at it, throogh it or under it. Discipline is preserved and no favorites are played. The barrier is regarded es simply a visible line, which is hefore every hoy's eyes, and no attampt is mede to have it impregnable to assault. It makes no sound on removal, and simply disappears with the result that no horses feer it, however "green" they may he.

'LONG SHOT" CONLEY, the Ethiopian jockey, is telling the Chicago people the same etories he used to fill the San Francisco turf reportere up on. He claims there is e combination among all the othar jockeys to throw him over tha fence, and thet he only accepts mounts at the peril of his life. The truth is, Conley is pretty much of e whiner and his stories are gottan up to attract sympathy end as excuses for poor rides. When Willie Martin wes esked about the alleged "combine" egainst Conley, ha seid: "Why, thet's all rot. I know that that hlack hoy has tha idea that wa want to crowd him over the fence every time ha gets into the bunch. Well, not I; and I douht very much if there is sufficient hesrtlessness or hrute nature in any one riding at Washington Park to maim or cripple the hoy. If I wanted Conley I'd catch him outside tha course and jolt him a few, letting it go at that. Bnt thet other proposition suggeste thet we ara a lot of Spaniards. If I were e writer of life insurence policies I'd eccept Conley's risk end he glad to get ti."

TRAINER HUGGINS hes announced his intention of giving up his position with tha Lorillerd Bsresford stable and returning to Americe in the Antumn. Mr. Hoggins has not had quite tha success this season that he echieved last yeer with Mr. Lorillard's horses. That, howsver, is said, has nothing to do with his determination to sever his relations with tha stable. It is likely that he will retain charge of the horses until ebout tha end of the season. His health has not baen of the hest, and thet is probahly one reason why he desires to be relieved of so great a responsihility.

Nominations to the English Derhy of 1900 closed on Tuesday, July 19th. Mr. W. S. Voshurgh, representative in this country of the Jockey Club of Great Britain, announces the following nominations of yearling colts hy American owners for Epsom's classic event: John E. Madden seven nominations; John Daly four; Sydney Paget, three; Marcus Daly, three; A. J. Cassatt, two; James "Tod" Sloan, twc; James R. Keene, two; Foxhall Keene, two; H. T. Oxnard, one; William Lakeland, one. and Alfred Lakelsnd, one. American nominations to the Epsom Oaks 1900, that closed the same day, were: Mercus Daly, two Foxhell Keene, two; James R. Keene, one; Sydney Paget one, end John Daly, one.

THE judges at Washington Park yesterday meta utpunishment for an infraction of turf laws to two o vus of racing stock. Sem Wagner of Umhrella fama was rul off for sixty days from all privileges of the turf hecause of the alleged peculiar running of his horse, Croesus, in the second race on July 2d, when tha horss ren a dilatory third to Morte Fonss end Nathanson. Owner Coffey and his horse Bernardillo, were ruled off for thirty days for an infraction of the rule requiring horses that had previously started with blinkers to continue tha use of this racing apparel. The findings show thst the judges in tha stand at Weshington Park have been more than deliherate in arriving at conclusions. A number of other cases are under advisement, some of them including higher class subjects.

THE accident hy which Tommy Butler, the popular jockey had his leg broken in two places, occurred on Tuesday, July 19th, at Butte. Butler had the mount on Ash Leaf in the Northwestern Handicap. All of tha youngsters acted hadly, especially Ash Leaf and Guelala. Finally, in tha indiscriminata humping, Tsghairm ran into the Daly filly so hard that Butler's leg was broken in two plsces helow the knes. He hore the pein with tha greatest fortituda and insisted on being taken to his quarters at E. Lannigan's stahle instead of to a hospital. Maneger Lynch offered to send him to a hospital, hnt he preferred to remain at his room, so that he will heve his friends constantly ehout him. Butler is one of the most popular hoys at the track and his misfortune is greatly regretted. It will he two months at the best before he can ride egain.

AN euction sele of race horses, the property of Mercus Daly, was held at the Butte track one day lest week. Wm. Fitch officiated as euctioneer. The following were sold: Afghan, to Miles Finlen, $1,250; Inversry II. to Frank Van Ness, $450; Shellac, to J. J. Moren, $150; White Fern. to W. A. Stoteshury, $125; Csrmenita, to F. T. Meley, $85; Tallsc, to J. Klsffki & Co., $100; Inola, to H. K. Bennett, $55; Juva, to D. G. Tully, $90; Lime Water, to Frank Van Ness, $700; Silver Dreem, to F. D. Randall, $150; Monda, to J. A. Tallman, $75; St. Aloysins, to Miles Finlsn, $750; Ivy Bloom, to E. T. Smith, $155; Pallucas, to F R. Fllie, $425; Bellists, to H L. Frank, $900; Ben Ledi, to G. W. Wentworth, $35; Wilkie, to L. Sulliven, $75; Sem McKeever. to F. G. Ferguson, $500; Impudent, to J. S. Dougherty, $50.

GEO. H. WHEELER, president of the Washington Park Club, Chicago, and James Howard, secretery of the same organizstion, have been indicted hy the Grand Jury of thst city for "maintaining, aiding end abetting a common gambling house." The pensity, upon conviction, is a fine of not less than $100 for the first offense. The action of the Grand Jury is the final outcoma of the activitv of the Civic Federation Committee on gamoling. It ceme as the logicsl sequence of the indictment last week of twenty-three hookmekers who were operating at Washington recs track and the presentation of evidence gathered hy detectives working under the direction of the Civic Federation. Wheeler was for years president of the Chicago Rsilway Company. He is a prominent club men and one of Chicago's influential capitalists. Howard has hesn secretery of ths Washington Park Club for several years and in that capacity has formed a lergs acquaintance. The Club embreces in its membership a large number of the most prominent men of Chicago, and has a history notable for its connection with recing. No other officials of tha Club were indicted hecanss tha avidence presented by tha Grand Jury did not show that any other hesides President Wheeler and Secretary Howard had any knowledge of pool-selling at the treck during the race meeting, which closed last Saturday. It was shown to the jury that Wheeler wes conspicuous in tha betting ring on Derby Dey, and that Secretary Howard had dealings with men who were considered to be representatives of bookmakers.

"ALL who are interested in horse-hreeding," says an English paper, "will have noted with satisfaction that the stewards of the Jockey Club have, et the soggestion of Lord March, undertaken to present proposals to the Clnb for reducing the number of short-distance races, which, as is universally acknowledged, ara leading to the degeneracy of tha thoroughhred in this country. Their proposals will not he laid hefore the Club until the autumn, but it is much to be hoped that they will ha found to include a rule restricting the running of two-year-olds, es well es ona making a mile tha minimum distance for horses three years old and upward. Thesa are the most importent points which the Club has to to consider, though it has bean well suggested thet if the minimum weight in handicaps were to he reised from six to seven stone, there would he fewer instances of horses' tempers being ruined hy frequent false starts." It would ha a long step in advence if the recing authorities of this country would arranga some plan hy which the short distance reces could he reduced in number in America. The number of short-hred and short distence skates that are now filling up the racing programs at our leeding American tracks are an actual injory to the sport of recing. They are simply "fillars" for a game that relies upon gambling for its support. No man with hrains and a love of man's hest friend ever considered it an honor to have hred a querter horse, and it is a commentery on the great industry that on some trecks more money is hung up for sprinters than for stake horses. The Americen people should try to change this.

THE BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN will remove its publication office to-day from 313 Bush street to 22½ Geary street. The new office is much more convenient, being right in the business centre of the city, and has all the modern conveniences of elevators, electric lights, etc. The new business office is fitted up with especial regard for the wants of the paper's patrons, and is furnished with full and complete sets of the American Trotting Register, Wallace's Year Book, Bruce's American Stud Book, Goodwin's Turf Guide, American Kennel Club Stud Book and all the books of record and statistics on horse and kennel matters. Our patrons are invited to call at the office when in quest of any information on these subjects. Remember the new number is 22½ Geary street, near junction of Market and Kearney streets. Take elevator.

A NEW FEATURE.—These are war times and it is fitting that the people of this State should receive an object lesson in the design and construction of the navy, which has within the past few months brought such fame to us as a naval nation. Through the efforts of President A. B. Spreckels of the State Agricultural Society, the Union Iron Works has consented to place on exhibition at the State Fair this year complete and exact models of all the cruisers, battle ships and other fighting vessels turned out by this great ship-building plant. Among these models will of course be one of the Oregon, the plumed Henry of Navarre of all the battle ships, and up to date the greatest fighting vessel in the world. This exhibit alone will attract hundreds of people to the Pavilion at Sacramento during the Fair, and will not only be interesting, but decidedly instructive. In this connection it might be well to state that ex-President C. M. Chase has suggested that as the California Jockey Club will occupy the Sacramento track for two weeks after the fair closes, it would be well if arrangements could be made whereby the Pavilion could be kept open during that time and all the exhibits remain intact. There will be no Mechanics' Fair in San Francisco this year, and merchants, foundrymen, manufacturers, inventors of new and useful machines, and all who have for years reached the people and advertised their products and goods through that medium-ship will gladly embrace the opportunity to make an exhibit at Sacramento. If the extra two weeks at the Sacramento Pavilion can be made self-sustaining it should certainly be given.

THE RIDER AND DRIVER, a New York journal of "Civilization and the Horse" as expressed in its heading, copies an article from this paper in which the efforts of Mr. John Parrott, of the Baywood Stud, San Mateo, Cal., to breed a type of carriage and park horse suitable for the New York market are commended, and adds: 'We are glad to see that our contemporaries are awaking at last to the real conditon of the market. When we, several years ago, told them just such truths, they howled with rage and declared that we were Anglomaniacs and biased in favor of the hackney. Crow is not a palatable dish, but it is better, perhaps, than no dish at all." How much "howling with rage" this paper has done under former managements we shall not take the trouble to ascertain, but that the demand for "proper" carriage horses is one that the California horse breeder should be instructed to recognize and persuaded to cater to, we are ready to admit. Retreating not one whit from the position that the American trotter, of proper breeding and conformation is the best all round road horse in the world, and "pointing with pride" (as the political platform builders do) to the record of prizes won by horses of trotting breeding in the leading shows of the world, we are not so narrow visaged that we cannot see good qualities in others, and are willing to call attention to those qualities wherever found. There is but one rule to follow in breeding for the market, and that is to breed mares nearest the model you desire to stallions that will be most likely to produce that type. If you wish a long distance thoroughbred, mate a stallion and mare of that description. If a fast trotter or pacer, unite the best and fastest you own or can command. If a heavy draft animal is wanted, breed the best of that kind to the best, and if gay and airy park animals are your desire, never expect to get them by breeding ordinary looking mares to a stallion whose principal qualifications can only be discovered with the aid of a pedigree card and a microscope. The BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN wishes to see advancement made in every line of live stock breeding and hopes that its readers and the public will understand that a journal can call attention to the good qualities of one breed without detracting in the least from those of another. Perfection in breeding has not yet been reached. Improvements can be made in the very best we now have. This is an age of improvement and it is along these lines that this journal proposes to take its way. The news and the opinions we publish will be printed with the object of keeping our readers posted as to the wants and demands of purchasers, and the best means by which those demands can be met by breeders. Our New York contemporary may occasionally find us differing from some of its ideas, but we shall always try to give reasons for the faith that is in us. We want to see the California horse breeders produce animals that will meet with a ready and profitable sale in the leading markets of the world, and we do not care whether they breed race, draft, carriage or saddle horses, or use thoroughbred, trotting, hackney or French coach stallions so long as they accomplish the desired result. The best is the motto for every breeder, and when he produces it his profits are sure.

BRENTWOOD FARM, Contra Costa county, is the subject of a series of handsome photographs recently received at the office of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN. The pictures are truly works of art and show better than pen can describe the magnificent pastures in which the horses, slick and fat, are grazing on the most succulent of clover and grasses. The large and comfortable looking barns, excellent water privileges, grand shade trees and neat buildings are all made subjects of special illustration. One of the striking pictures of the collection is the Burns & Waterhouse filly, Recreation, by Morello, standing in clover hock deep and looking lusty enough to pull a plow or carry a 200-pound rider on a cross-country ride. On this great farm there is but little evidence of a dry year in California, for there is feed in abundance for all the stock that is sent there for pasturage. This farm is the property of H. Dutard, the well-known merchant of this city.

TWELVE THOUSAND PEOPLE attended the opening of the Cleveland harness meeting on Thursday. At 3 o'clock a storm came up and as a consequence but two of the races on the program were finished. Of these, the 2:23 trot was won by Directum Kelly in straight heats, best time 2:11¼. The 2:08 pace went to Searchlight, Chehalis second and Sally Toler third. Best time 2:05½.

AN OPPORTUNITY to make money is open to the young stock-breeders of California in the education and preparation of horses for the market. It is a well-known fact that fewer people are engaged in this business in California than in any other, and that the chances for profit are greater. Not an auction sale occurs in this city but a number of highly-formed, but green and gawky horses are sold for a song. Had they been properly shaped up and educated the auction ring need never have been sought by the owners. Educating a horse does not mean simply hitching him up single and double and driving him on the road a few times until he is reasonably gentle. It means teaching him to hold his head in the proper manner, to lift his feet in a graceful and airy style, to stand as a gentleman's carriage horse should and to obey the touch of the hand to the line promptly. Education is everything with a carriage or coach horse or one that is used for park purposes in any way. It is not every man who is capable or fitted to educate horses, but to those who are, it is a pleasant and fascinating business. The BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN would advise the young men on the breeding farms of California to make a study of this business of educating horses. Ascertain what the demands of the horse market are and act accordingly. Learn how to "shape" horses to suit purchasers, what colors, weights and sizes are most desirable, and don't spoil a good carriage horse by trying to make a fast trotter of him, or think that speed will sell a long-necked, flat-ribbed fellow to some one who wishes a stylish park horse. Good form, good looks and good manners are necessary. If your horse has these qualifications a good price can be asked for him, but if he is lacking in any of them, don't delude yourself with the idea that he will pass muster anyway. The examinations are very strict in the high-priced classes.

HAMBURG has been given a splendid preparation for the Brighton Cup to be run to day at Brighton Beach. The distance is two and a half miles, the longest race run east of the Rocky Mountains this year. Hamburg's owner is anxious to demonstrate that the great horse is more than a sprinter, and in the opinion of those best posted, he will have no trouble in proving that Hamburg is equally as good a horse at long distances as at short ones. Wm. Lakeland has Hamburg in the very pink of condition for the great event. The veteran trainer insists that he never handled a better horse and has no fears whatever but he will go the route to-day.

HOW would our California drivers like to trot their horses under the following rule, which is one of those laid down for the government of harness races in New Zealand: "All horses except the actual winner, when winning by over the distance, must be trotted right out in every race; any horse not so trotted right out shall be fined or disqualified. In no case shall a rider or driver trust to the chance of a protest to gain the race."

AT AN AUCTION SALE of thoroughbred horses belonging to Col. W. H. Cornwell, of Honolulu, held in that faraway city, July 13th, Venus, a mare by Verano, bred at Santa Anita, Cal., sold for $280. Racefield, by Racine, brought $150; Flamerf, a two-year-old by Flambeau, sold for $110. The demand for racing stock in the Islands is not very heavy, as the racing season is very limited and the purses offered necessarily small.

A Word to the Wise.

Once upon a time there was a merchant who said, "Huh! What do I want to advertise for? I can't advertise and I shan't advertise. Who, me? Why, I've got more business now than I can attend to. By gee! it keeps me awake nights! Go away, young man, you are a mere insect, I can't see you. What, me advertise? Me? Well, I guess not! I don't have to. I am the whole thing! I am the people!" So the man swelled up very large and puffed like a steamboat, and the poor advertising insect crept out of his office and went over to see a plain, approachable sort of a man across the way, who did not have all the business he could attend to and thought he would advertise.

And it came to pass that in a year or so that the plain, approachable man's business came creeping up and creeping up, because the people had seen his advertisement and knew he was alive. While they concluded by the same token that the large, pompous man across the way must be dead or at least dying, or they would hear something from him. So the large pompous man's business dropped off, and he laid the fact to the monetary system and the tariff, while the quiet approachable man's business grew and grew, and he laid it to judicious advertising.—Shoe and Leather Gazette.

July 30-31.—San Francisco Fly-Casting Club. Eleventh series of Saturday and Sunday contests. Stow Lake, Golden Gate Park.

San Francisco Fly Casting Club.

The eleventh series of fly-casting contests will be held to-day and to-morrow at Stow Lake. One more contest to be held August 6th and 7th will close the season.

The Club's executive committee last Tuesday evening selected a design and style for the medals to be awarded to the winners of this seasons casting.

The next meeting of the Club will be held Tuesday, August 9th.

The Rodeo Lake Closed.

We regret to chronicle the determination of the owners of the reservoir lake at Rodeo to close this fishing water to anglers in general. This course has been taken owing to recent acts of vandalism and reprehensible conduct in other respects indulged in by parties visiting the lake a week or so ago. Permits will now be necessary for anglers who desire to try the lake for black bass.

Stockton Anglers Catch Black Bass.

Alex. Chalmers, F. P. Adams and B. C. Carroll of Stockton and Dr. Arthur Wallace of San Francisco went up to the Salt Spring Valley reservoir last Saturday evening, arriving at midnight. The reservoir is thirty-four miles from Stockton. It is a splendid drive up there by way of Milton.

Three years ago the reservoir was stocked with 6000 black bass between two and three inches long. The fish were taken from the Russian river by the State Fish Commission. Now the reservoir is filled with bass, and the fishing is all that a sportsman could wish. The party succeeded in in taking eighty-three from the water, the total lot weighing 104 pounds. The largest weighed 2½ pounds. Most of them were taken with flies, the best killer being the Lake Queen fly, though by trolling a large number were also caught. They were all packed in ice and brought to Stockton, where they were distributed among the friends of the party.

There are two boats on the pond, anybody can fish there who desires to. The party found that at a place called Stanaways they could get food, and altogether they had a very pleasant outing, returning last night.—Stockton Mail.

A Monster Jewfish.

The press agent for Catalina Island keeps the southern press well supplied with fishing and hunting lore; the Los Angeles Herald of the 22d has the following:

The world's heavyweight fishing record for rod and reel was broken here yesterday. Mr. Rider and Dr. Macomber, of Pasadena, were out for jewfish and when they returned it was with the largest fish ever taken on rod and reel at any place in the world. (?) They were down the coast about four miles and trolling along when Rider's reel gave a wicked sing and the line commenced to fly out at an astonishing rate. So fast did it go that the handle on the reel could only be distinguished as a revolving wheel. The line ran out about 300 feet before the combined pressure of the brake and of the multiplying friction clutch seemed to have any effect. In another fifty yards they stopped the fish. It was evident that he had been hooked before, for as soon as he stopped he started directly for the boat. Only the quickest kind of reel work kept him from getting slack line, and as soon as he came close to the boat away he went again. For fifty-five minutes this game went on. The fellow fought for his life nobly, but it was no use, and at last he was dead on the top of the water. Up to the last five minutes the rushes had been as long and savage as the first one, but when he did go it was all at once, seeming to realize that the case was hopeless. As soon as the last rush was over and it was seen that he was their game without a chance of escape, the gentlemen commenced to wonder at his size. Their wonder increased when he was put on the scales on the wharf and the weights were found to balance 324 pounds. Besides the record fish, Mr. Rider caught one other weighing 170 pounds, no small fish itself, but a very dwarf when compared with the big one. Dr. Macomber was also successful in landing two big black bass, one weighing 40 and one 50 pounds, respectively. The length of the record jewfish was six feet two inches and the girth was four feet nine inches.

Sojourners at Catalina Island these days, when tired of catching large and small fish in the waters adjacent; or, satiated with chasing the fleet and bewhiskered progeny of Guillelmo Capra hircus o'er the ridges, find a divertisement and sport in fishing for lobsters.

The Capezoni Club will have an outing on the Marin shore near Point Bonita to-morrow. The club numbers some excellent chefs as well as expart surf fishermen among its members.

Fishing is poorer in the river at present near Petaluma, than it has been for many years and although the local anglers make a try every day, no catches are made.

A fine lot of black bass fry were recently placed in Putah creek near Dixon by the Fish Commissioners.

Edg. Forster assessed the Sonoma district for twenty doves last Sunday.

Clint Mason and J. Willis begged two fine deer above Point Reyes last Sunday.

Lee R. Larzalere made a bag of three dozen doves near Menlo Park on Sunday last.

There will be no more tournaments held by the Los Angeles Gun Club this season.

Ban Baum's bag, gathered at Fairvilla on Sunday, numbered a dozen and a half of doves.

Dave Walton used his trusty Smith gun in bringing down four dozen doves near Ignacio last Sunday.

Three dozen doves bagged in the vicinity of Pleasanton was the result of Ed Bosqui's shoot on Sunday.

Jim Maynard and Dr. Ayers were with Ellis Johnson hooting doves on Bonidin island last Sunday.

Petaluma hunters have been very successful in bringing down deer and bagging doves since the season opened.

Geo. E. Stewart and W. L. Prather, Jr., were in camp on the Shaftar ranch in Marin county last Saturday and Sunday; two fine bucks fell to the aim of their repeaters. Stewart's effective shot was a remarkably clever one at very long range.

L. Breer, of the Los Angeles Gun Club, won third individual prize at the recent athletic meeting of the Turners held in San Jose.

J. Sheckelton and G. Griffiths were successful, in a hunt at Novato on Sunday, to the extent of a buck, 35 doves and one dozen cotton tails.

Thos. Redding, Joe Malliard, Joe Redding, Ed Gallagher, Ed Rix, Will and Frank Rodgers were successful in killing bucks recently in the vicinity of Nicasio.

An elk's head suspended on the wall in Spear's auction rooms on Sutter street is worth going a long distance to see. The specimen is a remarkably large and fine one.

Dennis Donoghue, the attorney, had two fine, fat bucks hanging in his camp at Bald Mountain on July 20th. His prospects for more venison were first class so he wrote John Butler.

A party of Dixon sportsmen, among whom were A. T. Foster, Chas. Clausen, J. F. Cowden, W. H. Garnett and J. H. McCune, had a pleasant dove shooting excursion in the foothills one day last week. The combined bag counted up 325 birds.

The prizes of the chase falling to the aim of some of the hunters on the Country Club's grounds last Sunday were awarded to W. S. Kittle, who bagged two deer, Fred Tallant one buck, and B. Tuttle, who bagged a big buck that weighed dressed, 151 pounds.

C. M. Fisher and Harry Wiese were camped for a week on the northwestern slope of Mount Hamilton, they were unlucky in their efforts to bag venison; deer were not very numerous in that region, it being next to impossible to get them in the thick brush unless aided by good dogs. The boys shot plenty of doves and also gathered in a wild cat and coyote. During the time they were in camp five deer were killed in that hunting ground, all with the aid of dogs. The Carroll boys and Merriman, of Mission San Jose, got three of them and Fisher, of Haywards, with his well-known deer hounds got the other two.

Marysville Sportsmen.

The fifth annual dove stew of the Yuba and Sutter Gun Club will be held to-morrow and from all accounts will be an enjoyable and successful affair. This event has been recognized and looked forward to with pleasant anticipation by sportsmen as the function of the season for several years past. The attendance of shooters and their friends promises to be large. Quite a contingent of shot-gun enthusiasts will represent this city at the traps and around the festive board. The committee in charge will be composed of Messrs. F. H. Greely, H. Martin, A. P. Lipp, Jno. Lumbard and J. H. Durst. Under their efficient direction an excellent program for live bird and blue rock shooting has been arranged.

The contest for the Appeal Diamond Medel, at twelve live birds, entrance $5.00, will be a feature of the day. This medal was won by Otto Feudner last year; it must be won three times to entitle final ownership. The entrance money will go to Feudner to-morrow, he being the present owner of the trophy, the winner of which in the coming race will receive the entrance money next year.

The Native Son's medal for the Sacramento valley, now held by F. H. Greeley, will also be contested in a match at twelve live birds, $5.00 entrance. The final ownership and money disposition conditions being the same as for the Appeal medal.

The Marysville Gun Club medal, at twenty blue-rocks, entrence $2.50, and now held by Otto Feudner, will be contested for. Winning this medal twice entitles the holder to retain possession of it—the entrance money being disposed of in the same manner as in the foregoing contests.

As for the dove stew, the fact that 2,000 birds were disposed of at the last meeting argues that the feasting finale of the gathering will long be remembered by those present as an appropriate and toothsome wind-up of an entertaining and congenial sportsmen's outing.

Live Pigeon Shoot at Napa.

The live-bird tournament given by the Napa Gun Club last Sunday and Monday passed off successfully. Among the visiting shooters present were Clarence Haight, Clarence Nauman and R. B. Woodward of this city. J. Keys, H. Peters and J. Wilson of Suisun; Harry Bassford of Vacaville and Andrew Jackson of Napa Soda Springs. A summary of the scores in the Sunday matches is as follows:

First event, six birds, entrance $2.50—Haight 6, Naumen 3, Reams 6, Mansfield 5, Woodward 5, Jackson 5, Wilson 4, Keys 4. Peters 5, Pickett 6.

Second event, ten birds, entrance $5, $10 added—Haight 7, Mansfield 8, Pickett 9, Reams 9, Woodward 9, Wilson 8, Mayfield 9, Peters 8, Naumen 10.

Third event, ten birds, entrance $5, $10 added—Pickett 9, Woodward 9, Neumen 10, Haight 9, Jackson 10, Brown 10, Wilson 8, Holden 8.

Fourth event, ten birds, entrence $3 $5 added—Woodward 9, Wilson 9, Keyes 9, Mansfield 9, Prior 9, Holden 9, Peters 9.

Nauman made clean scores in the second and third events. Haight placed a voluntary handicap on himself by shooting from the thirty-two yard mark.

First event, ten live birds, entrance $2.50—Woodward 10, Reams 10, Peters 10.

Second event, ten birds, entrance $3—Woodward 9, Brown 9, Prior 9, Peters 9.

Third event, ten birds, entrance $5—Reams 8, Prior 9, Mansfield 10, Brown 9.

Fourth event, six birds, entrance $2.50—Jackson 6, Fine 6, Brown 6.

Scores of the Martinez Shooters.

The season's shoot of the Martinez Gun Club has been closed and the following averages have been made by the members of the club:

	Shot at	Broke		Shot at	Broke
F. A. Hodapp	270	219	Dr. Breneman	150	95
J. J. Anderson	270	203	J. Whitemyer	125	80

Olympic Gun Club.

The regular monthly blue-rock shoot of the Olympics was held at Ingleside last Sunday. There was a fair attendanee of the members. O.to Feudner and A J. Webb were the star performers during the day; in the medal shoot each had a handicap allowance of twenty-seven targets which were smashed without a miss. Feudner, in shooting out a back score, had the same number of birds, but missed one of them making the clever record during the day of fiftv-three out of fifty-four targets shot at. "Edwards" kept company with the two cracks in exceeding the limit of breaks. He scored twenty-six birds out of thirty shot at.

	Shot at.	Broke.		Shot at.	Broke.
O. Feudner	27	27	"Slade"	35	21
Webb	27	27	Sweeney	33	21
"Edwards"	30	26	Justins	30	21
Unver	28	25	Owens	33	20
F. Feudner	30	23	Dreyluss	38	20
Hynes	33	23	E. A. Schultz	33	19
W. J. Golcher	30	23	Neustadter	31	18
H. C. Golcher	30	23	Matteson	31	17
F. J. Schultz	31	22	F. J. Schultz	31	17

Back scores were shot up hy some of the members, the average of breaks made hy the shooters showing better than the averages in the regular clnh shoot. Among those who exceeded the limit of twenty-five were W. J. Golcher, F. Feudner with twenty seven each, O. Feudner, W. J. Hynes and H. Justines with twenty-six each.

	Shot at	Broke		Shot at	Broke
W. J. Golcher	30	27	Sweeney	35	25

Lincoln Gun Club.

The final blue-rock shoot for the season of 1898 will be held by the Lincolns at Alameda Point on Sunday, Angust 21st. The event of the day will take place at 10 o'clock A. M, being the last race of the series which will determine the division to individnal shooters of the sum of $150. This amount will be distributed among five classes of averages, viz., $40, $35, $30, $25 and $20. Another feature of the day of interest to trap-shooters will be a grand open-to-all handicap prize merchandiss shoot at twenty targets, entrance $1.00. The prizes offered in this race are many and sppropriate. Other events, time permitting, are contemplated, among them a six-man-team shoot for cash prizes.

A clnb committee of arrangements are actively engaged in preparing for the annnal picnic and live-hird shoot which will be held on September 18th.

To-morrow the Lincoln's will hold their regular clnb shoot which was postponed from the 17th inst. At ten o'clock A. M. the clnb race will take place; at twelve o'clock the attraction will he an open to all prize shoot at 20 targets, entrance 75 cents, this will hs followed by a "couple shoot" entrance 50 cents (side pool on first round, 50 cents). This event will be shot to a final for either a fine trophy or a suitahle cash prize.

Alert Gun Club.

The attendance of shooters at Birds Point last Sunday was not up to the average, a number of the members devoting themselves to the sport of deer and dove shooting. The scores made in two pool events at ten targets and the club trophy race at twenty hirds were as followe:

The next regular shoot of the clnb will take place Sunday, August 7th.

South End Gun Clnb.

Last Sunday was rather an off day before the traps at Colma. J. Bickerstaff, J. and M. McDonald, J. Peterson and a few of the nther regulars indulged in practice shooting. The slim attendance was attributed to tbe attractions of field shooting, a number of the members being away after deer or doves.

Deer hunting has been prohibited on some of the best ranges across the mountains in the vicinity of Watsonville. Local deer hunters miss Elmer Rea's pack of hounds this season.

Goat Hunting on Catalina Island

Twenty-nine goat heads in one day! And yet there are some who have maintained that there is no hunting on the Island. F. H. Bixby, Herb Landers and A. W. Goodfellow were the lucky hunters to whom the honor falls of having made the biggest hag on record at Catalina to date. They started from the yacht La Paloma at 3:45 A. M. Tuesday, July 19th. The goats were found in two hours on the tops of the ridges around "Black Jack," and there were twelve hig hands of them. At the first approach they seemed to he rather dszed, hut as soon as the first one was brought down the band tookthe alarm and had important business elsewhere Not stopping to pick up the goats that had been killed, the hunters pressed on after those that were getting away. Seeing that they were pursned, the goats took to the top of the ridge and in that way gave the party just the opportunity that they wanted. The guns hegan to crack again. Following as fast as the horses could go the chase was continued until the goats made good their escape over some of the cliffs that are so easy to them but almost inaccessihle to man or horse. Among the heads were several fine pairs of horns, and these the party will have mounted as soavenirs of the chase.

The largest head that has fallen for five years was brought in Wednesday night hy a party of which Prof. Dozier of the State Normal school; R. M. Dozier, Charles Edwards and C. Harris were the membere. The party was out only three hours and as soon as the hig goat was killed returned. The goats were found just the other side of the ridge, and the second goat shot was the prond possessor of a pair of horns measuring thirty and one-half inches across the tips. He was a magnificent black, with white markings and had a set of whiskers that would drive the Hon. Mr. Peffer wild with envy. Prof. Dozier is a splendid shot, and brings down hirds witb a rifle as easily as most people could bring them down with a shotgun.

Union Coursing Park.

Two stakes on the card last Saturday drew a fairly good attendance of coureing enthusiasts. The puppy stake was first on the list and, hy the way, was the largest ever ran on the Coast; owing to its many entries it was rather late in the day when the open stake was commenced. Some surprises were sprung on the wise people in the puppy stake, notahly so when Golden Russet sent Brandy and Soda to cover after a lively course. Other throw downs were chronicled when Minerva was defeated by Brutue, who, to the surprise of leashmen present, led from the slips, scored first turn and held a good lead until Minerva made the kill. The hitch, to do her justice, did not look to he in the best of condition when she was led to the slips. The next upset came when the heretofore speedy Lalla Rookh was beaten by Mac'e Melody. The bitch certainly ran out of form, allowing Bartels Broe' dog to put several lengths between her and pure in the run-up. E. V. Sullivan's Sunhuret ran a short but fast race, picking up hie game on a straight run and leaving Yosemite wondering whether the hare had suddenly taken winge.

In the open stake the first surprise to the knowing ones took place when Arno defeated Sweet Music, a popular favorite, after an undecided course and a well-contested race. Ohadiah beat Borders Valentine in a long course hy a small margin; the winner was about done, however, when the contest ended. Chartist heat Mystery in a very close race, although the betting was 8 to 1 in Chartist's favor. Hadiwist, the dog that was played hy several sports to win the stake, did not run as well as the experts of form expected. In, fact he was closely pressed hy Chili Pepper in a course in which the hare resorted to trickery in the hope of escsping its pursuers. The race was short and exciting, owing to the many turns and wrenches that were made.

On Sunday the puppy stske was captured in the final by Mac's Melody; it was believed hy many that Golden Russet would hove won the stake had he not been withdrawn in the fifth round. Sunhursl, his kennel mate, was the runner-up.

In the open stake Haigh's Hadiwist fell to the prowess of Flying Buck in the first conrse—the Buck afterwards being downed by Kerrigan's Lady Blanche in what proved to he tne most sensational course of the day. Odds of 5 to 1 were offered on the Buck. The short-enders were in high glee as Lady Blanche scored every point hut one. The hare was a hot one, he heat the dogs around the field and finally made his escape. Another surprice to the talent was the victory of Jesse More over Green Valley Maid.

In the final considerable dissatisfaction was manifested by a nnmber of people toward the slipper, Jim Wren. Vanity Fair and Lady Blanche were in the slips; when they were released Lady Blanche seemed to lead hy a number of lengths before Vanity Fair started, the hare being a poor one, the favorite hardly got under way before the course was over.

According to Wren's explanation, the trouble was caused by an inopportune accident, liable to occur at any time. It was one that wonld excite hut little comment if it occurred in any except the final rounds of the stake When the hare was the customary distance ahead of the dogs Wren started with them, hoth being sighted on their game. Wren had barely left the hench npon which he sits when he stnmbled, losing his halance and uointentionally nnleasbing the dogs. At this moment Lady Blanche was in the proper position for starting and as quick as a flash had settled down to her stride. Not so with Vanity Fair, the favorite. Her front legs were inclined backward, and when the pressnre of the slips was taken from her neck she stnmbled. Before she could get going her opponent had opened np a commanding lead.

Curtis & Sons, owners of Vanity Fair, had more than their share of misfortnne during the day. Mand S., which was played in the long odds book to win the stake, was thiown ont in the fourth round. She was drawn against Lady Blanche, the nltimate winner, and was expected to score. The first hare np was a poor one, and Judge Bull signaled to hold the dogs. This was done and they were taken back for another trial. In their excitement to get away the dogs jumped abont and Mand S. backed out of the slips. She went after the hare and after a long course killed. She was returned to the slips at once and was badly beaten.

On Saturday the results were:

Fifth Round—Lady Blanche heat Flying Buck; Vanity Fair ran a bye.

Final—Lady Blanche beat Vanity Fair.

Ingleside Coursing Park.

The rnn down of the first rnnnd of the stake at Ingleside last Saturday gave a deal of fine sport. The haiee were an nnusually good lot, bnt the dogs ran in good form, only six short enders scoring in thirty-six conrsee.

On Sunday Mialmo proved to be the champion of the seventy-two dogs entered in the stake. The favorites won as a rule throughout the day. Some of the exceptions were when Tom Bell heat Rosalie, Masterpiece won from Van Needa, the Fleet Terrona was beaten by Mohawk, Foolawn another good dog, lowered her colors to Gladiator. Hot Stuff was cold stuff only when he sprinted against Mialmo. Myrtle and Old Glory who have run many a good course over the sward also tended to dampen the ardor of their backers. Old Glory was put out by Crosspatch, the runner up, and Myrtle was beaten by Hot Stuff who was on the short end.

On Saturday the winners of the first round were—C F Brown's Rosalie beat James Byrnes' Clipper; D Flynn's Tom Bell beat Lahusen & Duncan's Precita Girl; R W Wyman's Rush o' the Hill beat I L Sears' Beauty; T J Cronin's Reliable beat R W Blake's Phillippine; S E Portal's Lightning beat D Leonard's Annie; J Shea's Rathbone beat James McCormeck's White Wings; Kay & Trant's Masterpiece beat J Farley's Tullamore; Kay & Trant's Crosspatch beat Dillon & Reilly's Granuale; P J Rush's Van Needa beat Dillon & Reilly's Queen B; Larkey & Rock's Peaceful Glen beat Penelope Kennels' Las Palmas; Deckelman & Panario's Old Glory beat Pembroke Kennels' Wildflower; D Hooper's Bendalong beat J Rooney's Lassie Hayes; D Shannon's Swinnerton beat Key & Trent's Sylvia; Napoleon Kennels' Firebell beat D Hooper's L S Conley; J Sheehan's Lass o' Gowrie beet J I O'Brien's Statesman; J Baddeley's Hobson beat D Ford's Bonita; J Quane's Merietta beat D Chilla's St Nicholas; I L Sears' Hot Stuff beat J McCormack's White Lily; D Kaher's Belle of Moscow beet Pembroke Kennels' The Turk; J Quane's Thad Stevens beat Newman & Ramsden's Red Cloud; Larkey & Rock's Myrtle beat Napoleon Kennels' Decorator; D Shannon's Systematic beat J Murphy's Dempsey Lass; P Brophy's Benicia Boy beet Napoleon Kennels' Pacific Queen; J O'Dowd's Clifton Lass beat H M N Spring's Master Jack; James Byrnes' Mohawk beat F Black's Occidental, J McCormack's Rapid beat H Weber's Montana; Gibson & Moora's Monitor beat Lahusen & Duncan's Miss Lois; Pembroke Kennels' Terrona beat Lowe & Thompson's Victor; J Dean's Gladiator beat Kay & Trent's Trilby; D Hooper's Koolawn beat H McNeil's Sportsman; Deckelman & Panerio's Glen Chloe beat T Cooney's Mystic; J Dean's Mialmo beat T A Gaffney's Sir John Arnott; Lowe & Thompson's Prince Hal beat J Murnane's Flashlight; Kay & Trant's Chit Chat beet F Dwyer's Schley; Lowe & Thompson's Sir Willful beat F G Fentiman's Whitehall; G Smart's Silkwood beat W T Sullivan's Trink.

The results on Sunday were: Second round—Tom Bell beat Rosalie; Rush o'Hill beat Reliable; Rathbona beat Lightning; Masterpiece beat Van Neede; Crosspatch beat Peaceful Glen; Old Glory beat Bendalong; Swinnerton ran a bye; Lass o' Gowria beat Hobson; Hot Stuff beat Mariette; Thad Stevens beat Belle of Moscow; Myrtle beat Systematic; Benecia Boy beat Clifton Lass; Mohawk beat Rapid; Terrona beat Monitor; Gladiator beat Koolawn; Mialmo beat Glen Chloe; Prince Hal beat Chit Chat; Silkwood beat Sir Willful.

Third Round—Tom Bell beat Rush o' Hill; Rathbone beat Masterpiece; Crosspatch beat Old Glory; Swinnerton beat Lass o' Gowrie; Hot Stuff beat Thad Stevens; Myrtle beat Benecia Boy; Mohawk beat Terrona; Gladiator beat Prince Hal; Mialmo beat Silkwood.

Final—Mialmo beat Crosspatch and won the stake.

Los Angeles Coursing.

There appears to be no decrease in the popularity of coursing in the southern city. On the contrary, every succeeding Sunday seems to bring out a still larger crowd. At Agricultural Park last Sunday there was a forty dog stake, it being necessary to increase the number in order to accommodate the entries. The old favorites were out in force and there were several new dogs in the field.

In the first round Sunset beat El Monte Girl; Don Orsini beat Little Dick; Stella beat Benerino; Baker Boy beat Turk; Doncaster beat Santa Ana Boy; Fleetfoot beat The Ghost; Napoleon I. beet Clover Leaf; Crow Dog beat Lucky Jack; Juanita beat Lady Agnes; Little Brown Jug beat Buck Massie; Fleetwood beat Sir Jasper; Reliance beat Bonnie Belle; Oriental beat Fair Rosalin; Uncle Tom beat Catalina; Lady Wallace beat The Ghost a bye; Orpheum Lass beat Beau Brummel; Kitty Scott beat B B and E; Snooze beat Matinee; A B C beat Grazer; Home Rule beat Cleopatra.

In the second round Don Orsini beat Sunset; Stella beat Baker Boy; Doncaster beat Fleetfoot; Crow Dog beat Napoleon I; Juanita beat Little Brown Jug after a tie; Reliance beat Fleetwood; Oriental beat Uncle Tom; Orpheum Lass beat Lady Wallace; Kitty Scott beat Snooze; A B C beat Home Rule.

In the third round Stella beat Don Orsini; Doncaster beat Crow Dog; Reliance beat Juanita; Orpheum Lass beat Oriental after a tie; Kitty Scott beat A B C.

Scalped His Dog.

A most peculiar accident, noted by the Los Angeles Herald, occurred to the setter dog of Hugh May, Sunday, July 17th. The strangest part of the occurrence is the fact that the canine is still alive. He was literally scalped, and though deprived of the covering on his skull, continued to retrieve for his master. Mr. May was shooting in the vicinity of Fullerton, and thought he was approaching some birds. The dog stood in his way, and Mr. May struck the animal on the head with the gun to drive him behind. The jar discharged both barrels, and the double charge barely touched the scalp of the dog, tearing the flesh completely off the skull, leaving the bone entirely bare. The dog dropped to the ground. His owner thought he had been killed, but to his surprise the animal soon got up and continued to work in the field after birds as long as May would permit it. The dog has shown no ill effects from the scalping and continues to steadily improve since the accident. It is now thought that the animal will recover.

Meeting of Kennel Club Delegates.

A meeting of the delegates from the various kennel organizations and specialty clubs of the Pacific Coast was held at the Occidental Hotel on Wednesday evening, July 27, 1898, pursuant to an invitation issued by the San Francisco Kennel Club as follows:

"We enclose you a copy of a resolution passed at our meeting on June 29, 1898, which is self-explanatory, and beg you will bring the matter before your club at the earliest possible date so that the classes may be discussed, your delegates appointed and given instructions as to your wishes and suggestions, so that at the meeting on July 27, 1898, a classification may be arranged which shall meet with the approval of all true fanciers."

"Preamble and Resolution—Whereas the classification now in force by the American Kennel Club is not satisfactory to the members of this Club and whereas we understand that it is unsatisfactory to a majority of the fanciers on this Coast as well as elsewhere and whereas said subject of classification will come up for discussion at the September meeting of the American Kennel Club and whereas we desire to have the delegates from all the Clubs on this Coast united and working in harmony at said meeting. Therefore be it

Resolved, That it is the sense of this Club that a general meeting of delegates be called for Wednesday, July 27, 1898, at 8 o'clock sharp, at the Occidental Hotel, San Francisco, and that all show clubs on this Coast be invited to send two delegates and all specialty clubs one delegate to said meeting to discuss the classes as above set forth, so that a classification may be presented to the American Kennel Club, satisfactory to all and for which all will work unitedly, to the end that the country clubs may have more support and champion wins made of more value, and the general interest in dogs and dog shows increased.

Suggested Classes—I. The Puppy Class shall be for all dogs over six months and under twelve months of age. No entry can be made or accepted of one under six months of age, or whose date of birth is unknown.

II. The Novice Class shall be for all dogs never having won first prize at any recognized show, wins in the puppy class excepted. The giving of this class shall be optional with the club holding the show.

III. The Open Class shall be for all dogs of any age over six months, except champions.

IV. The Premier Class shall be for all dogs having won three first prizes in the open class at any recognized show and four first-prize wins in this class shall constitute a champion and entitle the dog to the prefix of champion. Wins made in the winners' class shall count as wins in the premier class.

V. Champion Class shall be for all dogs having won four first prizes in premier class at any recognized show."

The clubs represented by delegates present were: San Francisco Kennel Club, Dr. F. W. D'Evelyn, J. G. Barker; California Collie Club, H. H. Carlton; California Fox Terrier Club, N. H. Hickman; Pointer Club, M. C. Allen; Pacific Mastiff Club, P. J. Norman; Stockton Kennel Club, J. E. Doak, F. C. Gifford; Seattle Kennel Club, G. M. Cook, H. T. Payne; Tacoma Kennel Club, J. E. Doak, H. T. Payne.

Dr. D'Evelyn presided as Chairman, and J. P. Norman acted as Secretary. The standing of Mr. Payne in the meeting was objected to by Mr. Allen on the grounds of Payne's disqualification by the American Kennel Club. This objection, however, was withdrawn upon the showing that the call for a meeting had been issued to the kennel clubs in general of the coast, and was not confined entirely to clubs affiliated with the A. K. C.

Discussion of and action upon the suggested changes noted above was dropped by reason of the statements made by Mr. Barker that he was in possession of information, although coming unofficially, to the effect that the proposed new rules and changes would not receive favorable consideration by the A. K. C.

Mr. Norman suggested a change in the rule on winners' class, as follows: "That the A. K. C. be requested to amend the winners' class so that five wins be required to entitle a dog to championship honors, and that no win should count for a championship unless gained in competition; also, that the A. K. C. be further requested to amend the ruling so that a win in the winners' class shall not count as a class win."

Mr. Doak offered an amendment, which was carried, the purport of which was that the A. K. C. will be asked to return to the classification in force previous to January 1898. Those voting in favor of this were Messrs. D'Evelyn, Cook and Doak and Payne, with two votes each, against the amendment were the votes of Messrs. Allen, Norman, Hickman, Barker and Carlton.

What attention this petition will receive at the hands of the A. K. C. can readily be guessed as the standing with the A. K. C. of the clubs represented by a majority of the deciding vote is not of a character entitling them to official recognition.

During the discussions, which were lively at times, the camel of secession obtruded its cadaverous head within the tent flap but was immediately swatted with the strong club of intolerance and knocked out in the first round.

The St. Bernard Club of California was not represented in the meeting, the Secretary, Mr. Cutten, having responded to the invitation as follows: "At a regular meeting of the St. Bernard Club of California held Monday, July 11, 1898, your communication in regard to appointment of a delegate to the meeting of club delegates for the purpose of revision of classification rules, etc., was received, and after discussion by the members present it was decided that the St. Bernard Club of California would not participate in the movement for a revision of classification as suggested by the S. F. K. C., and I am requested to communicate to your club the action taken by the St. Bernard Club."

Bench Show Echoes.

Communications from Secretary Vredenburgh of the American Kennel Club have been received in this city stating the action of the executive board of the A. K. C. taken July 14, 1898, relative to the following charges brought to their notice:

J. H. Sammi vs. S. F. Kennel Club. Misconduct in connection with dog shows:

WHEREAS, The Secretary of the San Francisco Kennel Club having officially stated that Sammi's bull terrier "Scaldy Mike" was judged in the heavy weight class, and that the judge declined to make any change in his prior decision in said class, it is Ordered: That the case be and hereby is dismissed.

J. H. Sammi vs J. G. Barker. Misconduct in connection with dog shows:

Ordered: That the charge be and hereby is dismissed as having been make against a person who did not represent the club in any official capacity, and moreover being in itself frivolous.

A. K. C. vs. San Francisco Kennel Club. Greyhound entries at the late show:

In the case of E V, Sullivan's entries of the greyhounds "Mira Monte" and "Jester," the matter was ordered laid over pending further information from the club.

International Field Trial Club's Derby Entries.

The following entries have been made for the International Field Trial Club's Derby, which will be run at Mitchell's Bay, Ont., next November:

SETTERS—T. C. Stegman's Tickler (Duke—Puss).

J. R. McGregor's (agent) Rod's Clip (Rodfield—Latonia.)

W. B. Wells' Selkirk Romano (Selkirk Dan—Selkirk Tessa).

W. B. Wells' Selkirk Freda (Selkirk Dan—Selkirk Tessa).

W. B. Wells' Selkirk Stella (Selkirk Dan—Selkirk Tessa).

W. B. Wells' Selkirk Breta (Selkirk Dan—Selkirk Tessa).

W. B. Wells' Selkirk Max (Selkirk Dan—Selkirk Tessa).

H. Marshall Greydon's Bird of Freedom (Dash Antonio—Gaiety Girl).

H. Marshall Graydon's Golden Gate (Dash Antonio—Gaiety Girl).

H. Marshall Graydon's Merry Hampton (Dash Antonio—Gaiety Girl).

J. W. Humpidge's London Boy (Roy of London—Fanny).

J. W. G. Winnett's Doctor Jim (Roy of London—Bessie).

J. W. G. Winnett's Jubilee Vic (Roy of London—Fanny).

POINTER—J. R. McGreggor's (agent) Bean Ideal (Bedouin—Lady Rip Rap).

Dr. Totten's Norwood (Bedouin—Lady Rip Rap).

D. G. Davey's Bessie (Brighton Joe—Girl of Kent).

DOINGS IN DOGDOM.

The programs at both coursing parks to-day and to-morrow promise to give the coursing men some good sport.

The reason a dog will, in selecting a spot to lie down, turn around time and again, is because one good turn deserves another.

John Davidson, J. Lorne Campbell, James Mortimer and J. S. Williams will judge at Toronto at the coming bench show of the Canadian Kennel Club.

Geo. Burfeind's promising young greyhound Royal Prize (Jack Dougles—Emerald) will be rested a few weeks. This dog, having been doing very clever work, Burfeind proposes to have him in the best of condition before putting him on the coursing sward again.

Several valuable dogs have been poisoned in San Jose recently. The contemptible work was evidently prompted by spite. The parties who put out the poison are known and will be prosecuted. T. J. O'Neal and J. Guigan have lost their pets and County Recorder Owen's fine water spaniel was also a victim.

DR. W. R. CLUNESS, Jr., had the hard luck to lose the entire litter of four puppies recently whelped by the well known yellow cocker bitch Railetta to Ch. Viscount. The distribution of color shown by the quartette was unique and had the pups lived would have made a striking kennel of cockers—one dog and one bitch were black, taking after the sire, and the other dog and bitch were yellow.

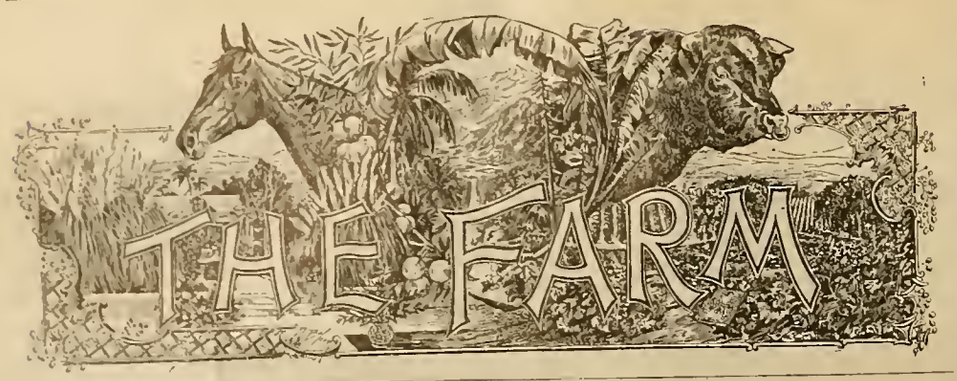
WHELPS.

W. J. Shields' greyhound bitch Cliffette (Lord Clifton—Rockette) whelped ten puppies (2 dead) to J. H. Watson's imp. Royal Crest (Greentick—Royal Rate).



Contest for Dairy Cows.

One of the most interesting features of the State Fair is the contest for dairy prizes held each year. Quite a sum of money can be earned by the cow producing the greatest quantity of milk of the requisite richness in butter fat. The first prizes are $60 for a five-year-old cow, $50 for a four year-old, $40 for a three-year-old and $30 for a two-year-old. There are also second prizes, ranging from $30 to $15 in the same classes. The Holstein Friesan Association of America will duplicate one half the premimus that may be won by any registered cow of that breed. Following are the rules of the contest:

The contest to be conducted under the supervision of competent judges and experts, and to be of seven days' duretion, commencing Thursday, September 8th, at 6 A. M. Every cow competing shall have been milked perfectly dry on the previous day at 6 P. M.

Any two-year-old cow failing to produce an average of 0 80 pounds of butter fat per day, and any three-year-old cow failing to produce an averege of 1:03 pounds butter fat per day, and any four-year-old cow failing to produce an averege of 1.26 pounds of butter fat per day. and any five-year-old cow failing to produce an averege of 1.49 pounds butter fat per day, shall be dropped after the second day's trial and excluded from the contest, unless such failure on the part of the cow shall have been caused by some accident or undue excitement, in which case, if it be the judgment of the inspector that the cow possesses the capacity to produce the quantity of butter fat required in the class to which she belongs, he may allow her two more days in which to qualify.

In the two, three, or four-year-old class, when one cow exceeds another in age, for each day's difference in age shall be required to produce in excess of the younger cows competing in the class, 0 072 of an ounce of butter fat. No increased production of butter fat will be required for difference in ages of cows when five years old and over.

When cows are milked only twice a day, the hours of milking shall be at 6 A. M. and 6 P. M; when milked three times, the hours shall be 6 A. M. and 2 and 9 P. M.

The contest shall be for butter fat as determined by the Babcock tester, or other equally accurate testing machine. Eighty per cent of pure butter fat shall be taken as a basis for determining the yield of marketable butter.

Samples of each milking for testing shall be taken as soon as milked, and from the whole amount of such milking, after being thoroughly stirred end mixed.

For a composite test the samples of milk shall be taken as for a separate test, and the quantity taken shall be gredoated in proportion to the weight of each milking, and be placed in a vessel sufficiently large to contain the samples of milk for the seven days' test. The vessels shall be labeled and bear the name of the cow, and be kept closed (except while adding fresh supply of milk), in a cool place.

No cows will be permitted to compete in this class unless thoroughbreds and registered in the books of their respective breeds.

The owner of any animal will be permitted to feed the same according to his own ideas, but the retions, as to kind and quantity, must be given and made part of the inspector's report.

Owners shall, when required by the inspector, have their cows weighed at the commencement and again at the close of the test, and shall furnish him with dates when the competing cows last calved.

What Irrigation Will Do For Grain.

Attention has frequently been called to the fact that in addition to the various products that can be raised by having water upon the lands, that water can be used profitably for the irrigation of lands for cereals. This year we have had a demonstration of the fact on the west side of the San Joaquin river under the Miller & Lux canal. John B. Crow put in forty acres of barley. The land was flooded once before, being plowed last fall, and the land was again flooded late this spring. The crop has now been harvested, and the yield has been something that will undoubtedly surprise almost every one. The total yield was 1,365 sacks, weighing 113 pounds each. The yield will thus be seen to be 68 bushels to the acre. The barley is plump, of fine color and the very best quality.

James T. Crow also has 250 acres of wheat land below the canal, which is now being harvested and as yielding sixteen sacks to the acre. The wheat is heavy and of good quality.

The above lessons should be taken to heart by all farmers. The west side of the San Joaquin river in this county this year proved a total failure in the production of cereals above the canal. So it will be seen that the water caused the yield to be phenomenally large where they would have been total failures without water.

Even when the rainfall of the winter is sufficient for a good crop the flooding of the land once before seeding will add to the yield more than sufficient to pay for the cost of the water. The above results show what can be done in dry years.

Elsewhere on the West Side, in this country, only 100 acres of grain was considered good enough to cut above the canal and that only yielded four sacks to the acre. But little grain was sown as the dry year made itself apperent early in the season and the farmers did not get moisture enough to plow the land properly.—Stanislaus News.

A Drouth Ration.

Please give me ration from the following: Alfalfa hay, $14 per ton; wheat and oat hay, $18 per ton; rolled barley, $28 per ton; bran, $24 per ton; feed meal (corn meel) $26 per ton; oil cake meal, $2.25 per hundred pounds; barley and wheat strew, $6. Cows weigh 750 to 900 pounds. H. K.

The reply to this was as follows:

This is one of the most difficult problems ever submitted to us for solution. Not that a satisfactory formula for a ration can not be made from the feedstuffs named, but do the best one can, the cost will be excessive, amounting to nearly or quite 22 cents per day for each cow. Californie, especially in the central and southern portions, is suffering from the severest drouth known for many years, and, in consequence, hay and grain are held at famine prices. It is much to be regretted, that our friends have not profited by the advice so frequently given in these columns, and the exemple of those who have followed this advice, and provided themselves with silos, for carrying over, from a year of plenty, a full supply of elfalfa silage for use in this extremity. In the following formule, which we submit, not without many misgivings, we have given alfalfa hay the benefit of the California analyses, which assign it very considereble higher feeding values than found in the general tables, and our readers outside of California, and climates similar, should not be misled. Our suggestions take this form:

FORMULA.	DIGESTIBLE NUTRIENTS.
	Organic Matter.	Protein	Carbo-hydrates	Fat
15 lbs. Alfalfa hay	12.33	1.59	5.98	.18
5 lbs. barley straw	4 01	.05	2.07	.03
4 lbs. ground corn	3.50	.26	2.53	.20
2 lbs. bran	1.65	.25	.88	.06

Notwithstanding the excessive cost, we have put in a pound of oil meel, on the theory that it will aid in the better digestion of the other feeds, as well as add to the nutrients in the particulars where otherwise there would be a deficiency. And it is eminently proper to repeat here, the injunction so frequently given heretofore, that the cows in a herd should be fed individually and with regard to each one's ability to respond. If a cow cannot, or will not, pay for full feed, give her less, and if she will pay for more, let her have it. Feed speringly; that is, see to it that each cow eats everything up clean that is placed before her. Give particular attention also to salt and water. And, above all, do not lose faith in the good cow.

It is the exception to hear of or see a poor hay crop in Pajaro valley this year and good crops are common. There have been claims, in other years, of choice spots of land turning off nine and ten tons of hay per acre, but, while the average this season is probably as high as it ever was, we have not heard of any ten-ton-to-the-acre fields. Over in Springfield district and down the Beech road the top notch record of the year will be found. L. V. Willits had seven tons per acre from his hay field. Henry Stoffers has a wonderful showing on the slough part of the Stoesser farm, and seven tons may be excelled. Thos. Mitchell has a hay field which ought to be photographed as a dry year exhibit of Pajaro valley. Eight tons is the estimate placed on its yield. On Mrs. Moreland's farm in Springfield district James Thorne has a crop which experts claim will run over eight tons per acre and take the banner. With hay worth from $12 to $15 per ton those yields show that choice Pajaro valley land is worth all that is asked for it—when any of it is offered for sale.—Pajaronian.

The largest butter producer in the world is Obedieh Sands, of Illinois, who twelve years ago began with a single creamery, but made such a success with that that he has increased his holdings until he now owns eighty creameries, and he controls the products of as many more. He sold last year 10,000,000 pounds of creamery butter, worth two and a half millions dollers. This requires the milk of 120,000 cows. Twenty carloads of salt are required to salt this butter, and it takes the milk from 6,000 farms.

Drouth in Australie has carried off enormous numbers of sheep; the loss is estimated at 60,000,000. That this must materially affect the mutton market of the world cannot be doubted. Britain must look to this country and to Argentine for her supplies, and the latter country is not much better off than Australie just at present. A survey of the situation as to the world's mutton stocks indicates a highly promising future for sheep-feeders in this country. Moreover, it should be remembered that wool is on the rise. The immense stocks accumulated in this country by the wool trust anticipatory to the enforcement of the new tariff have, of course, clogged the market and the activity is not so great as it would otherwise be, but with the demand from mills that have government contracts and the general healthy tone to nearly all branches of trade, it seems but a matter of a short time before these huge stocks will pass into consumption, and with them once out of the way the wool market promises a gratifying degree of buoyancy.

Grey African geese are by many raisers considered the most profitable of all geese to keep. They grow the heaviest in the shortest space of time and are ready for market in ten weeks, weighing at that age between eight and ten pounds. They are very much like the Pekin duck in this respect and as compared with other geese give the most satisfactory returns for the least labor and time spent in growing them. They are, according to standard weights, as heavy as the Toulouse and Embden, but specimens are not uncommon that exceed these weights by several pounds. They are first class layers and average about 40 eggs in a season. This is considered a low estimate for their egg production. For table purposes they are esteemed very highly, their flesh being fine and nicely flavored. The standard weight of the adult gander is 20 pounds; adult goose, 18 pounds; young gander, 16 pounds and young goose, 14 pounds.

Secretary Wilson is asking the authority of Congress to utilize the facilities of his department for post-graduate courses for students from agricultural colleges. The universities of the United States have made no provision for the practical work of specializing such graduates. There are sixteen scientific divisions in the agricultural department, provided with the finest apparatus money can buy, the best illustrating material obtainable and the finest agricultural library. Secretary Wilson proposes to ask Congress for permission to invite graduates of agriculturel colleges who have made scientific study a part of their education to come to Washington for the post-graduate work.—Rural Press.

Commission merchants who keep close tab on affairs are positive that good cattle will be good money—better money than they are now. There is an undoubted scarcity of the top class and prices seem certain to advance considerably. Of course, the trouble is that few farmers or feeders have the right kind; the disastrous experience with scrub lots has lessened the demand for that sort of feeders and buyers do not know where to find the other kind. The situation simply emphasizes the necessity of producing a better class of stock cattle.—Breeders' Gazette.

Mrs. L. Clepp, of Hatch, New Mexico, has had great success in feeding hogs with alfalfa and middlings. She gives them two and a half pounds of middlings daily and all the alfalfa and water they can eat and drink. The alfalfa is fed either green or as hay. By this method she succeeds in raising hogs which weigh from 200 to 300 pounds live weight within the year, and she has a ready wholesale market for everything at five cents a pound live weight. She tried bran with the alfalfa, but it did not do so well as the middlings.

Practical poultrymen, those who expect to make a profit from the sale of eggs and fowls should patronize the poultry shows. At the Sacramento State Fair there is an opportunity to make an exhit of fowls which every poultryman should take advantage of. It will be profitable to everyone who exhibits there whether he secures first prize or not. The poultry exhibit should be one of the most interesting and valuable departments of the fair.

Yearling ewes are selling on the Billings market for from $3 15 to $3 25, and two-year-old wethers for from $2 90 to $3. During last week Fresser & Son purchased 1,500 ewes from John Reed for Ralph Beray and a like number from the same for John Davidson, of Rosebud, paying $3.15. They also bought 2,000 wethers from Capt Thomas, of Lake basin, for $2 90.—Helena, Montana, Independent.

The most conservative figures on the season's surplus wheat crop in the Columbia river basin and the Willemette valley are 1,050,000 tons. These are based on last year's actual surplus, the known increased acreage this year over last and the first-rate condition of crops now under harvest. It is estimated that at least 25,000,000 bushels of wheat will seek export through Portland this year.

The agricultural exhibit of Montana at Omaha, excels that of any other State in the Union, notwithstanding the fund for collection and installation was small.

The Board of Directors of North, Central and South American Exposition, New Orleans, say:—We forward to you this day a fine Diploma of Merit, for your excellent display of Wellington's Improved Egg Food, as one of the most prominent features of the Fair during the past six months.

QUINN'S OINTMENT

stands at the head of all veterinary remedies. Such troubles as Spavins, Curbs, Windpuffs, Splints, Bunches have no terrors for a horse if the master keeps and applies Quinn's Ointment. All well-known horsemen speak of it in the highest terms:

Miller & Sibley, of Franklin, Pa., owners of St. Bel, brother of late Bell Boy, write, "We have used Quinn's Ointment with great success and believe it fulfills all claimed for it. We cheerfully recommend it to our friends." For Curbs, Splints, Spavins or Bunches, it has no equal.

Bob Campbell Tells His Experience.

"How did I first come to go with the runners?" returned Bob Campbell, the trainer, to the question. "Well, I guess my experience is that of a good many colored boys. You see, when I was a little fellow I lived on the place of Mr. Grinsteed—yes the same man that used to run the long distance horses, one of which named after him, was taken by Mr. Brewster (now dead and done), Secretary of Washington Park, out to California, and, mind you, that same horse Grinstead, did a powerful lot toward making "Lucky" Baldwin's turf history—and Mr. Grinstead gave me a chance to ride until I got too' heavy. Pshaw! You think I got to weigh 120 pounds or so! don't be foolish man! I was too heavy at 108, for in those days you know what a three year-old carry in stakes? No? Well a colt carry 86 pounds, that's what he did, and a four-year-old horse, he only carry 104 pounds. So I was too heavy to ride and master thinks maybe I can exercise the horses.

"But, law me! — didn't suit at all, and finally one day, says he to me: 'Bob, you are too light to ride; too heavy to swipe; too lazy to work around the house and too mean to wait on Missus. There's nothing left for you but to go and hoe corn.'

"But as the years passed I got mixed up around and have had my share of good and bad luck, and I'll tell you that when a man makes money on the turf there's a heap o' luck attached to it. Then I went on one time and every day when I put my money down on my own horse I picked it up. Yes, I did, and I thought I was a smart fellow and was outmanaging everybody. Why, I got to be $20,000 strong in a couple of years, and they couldn't hold me at all, and finally I got half again as much more, and I was a hot one—in my own estimation.

"Finally, they got the brake on me, and the train never again moved on.

"Something shoved me back. I would have been willing to stay still, but in the race-horse business it's go ahead or go back. It took me several years to peddle in my money, but they finally got it all. I had better horses than when I was winning, but somebody always had a better horse than me, just as when Mr. Pulsifer had Tenny, the best horse seen maybe ever in this country up to then, and that year he struck Salvator, who could just put it on the swayback a few inches in one and one-quarter miles in record time.

"Nobody is to blame and I haven't any fault to find, but it always makes me laugh to see a trainer swell up over a little good luck because I know what his finish will be if, like so many of us, he thinks his luck will last and so never puts any of that hard cash by for the umbrella weather. Isaac Murphy was a sensible colored man and saved enough money so that now his widow is comfortable, and there's 'Brown Dick'! he's the boy that's got the money He saved every dollar, he did, all his life, and he's got good racehorses and is saving his money right now every day. But the most of us colored folks never did know the value of money nohow and we ain't the best managers in the world. Look at Jim Sellers, running The Plutocrat in long distance races, when his horse could win a whole lot of three-quarter dashes. But then we ain't any different from the white trainers, most of whom remind me of Wallace's ram, that quit the goats to go with the cows, and you know what he got—nothing."—Chicago Racing Form.

Mr. Corrigan Makes a Statement.

Edward Corrigan having been accused by the press of Chicago of trying to participate a track war by announcing an early opening of the Hawthorne track, has published the following reply:

I find in almost every issue of the Chicago papers some reference to a race track war that I am accused of precipitating and, in justice to myself, I wish to make the following statement:

I have no desire or intention of bringing on a war of any sort whatever. My home is in Chicago, where I have lived ten years, and where I expect to reside for the rest of my natural life. I am a part owner in a valuable race track property here—the Hawthorne track—on which we pay taxes to the amount of $4,000 annually. This track has for several seasons been idle, and no attempt to run it has been made by us, though other tracks in this immediate vicinity have been allowed to run unmolested by the authorities.

Early in the spring we announced our intention of giving a race meeting at Hawthorne immediately following the one now drawing to a close at Washington Park, and this intention on our part was given the widest publicity.

On my return from California we again mentioned our intention and this was announced prior to the announcement of a second meeting at Harlem.

Harlem has already raced twenty-six days, Washington Park twenty-five, and now because we wish to give a race meeting on dates already claimed by us early in the year I am accused of instigating a race track war. Mr. Condon claims that he offered to divide dates, and perhaps he did, that is, he wished to take all of the inside of the cocoanut and give me the husks. I naturally declined to deal with him.

That is the situation in a nutshell so far as I am concerned and I leave the general public to decide as to who is right in the matter.

In regard to the statement attributed to me in a morning paper, to the effect that I had secured the promise of five votes in the Cicero Town Board, I wish to deny the same in tote, as I have never met with but one of the members, and that was on the street and by accident, when he assured me, of his own accord, that he was in hopes to see racing resumed at Hawthorne, as it would give employment to a large number of persons who needed it. E. Corrigan.

Hamburg and Ornament.

Mr. Norton, the owner of Ornament, seems to be in earnest in his desire to get a race with Hamburg. Both Norton and James Rowe profess to believe that Hamburg will quit when any good horse tackles him over a distance of ground. That is the reason why they went to have a go at the great son of Hanover. They believe that under equitable conditions as to weight, they can take Hamburg by the head and race him to a standstill, just as Bowling Brook did in the Belmont. They affirm that the Realization was no true test because nothing in the race had speed enough to go up to Hamburg.

It is safe betting that Messrs. Norton and Rowe may be accommodated, for Mr. Daly's sporting proclivities are well known. He is not the man to accept a defy from anybody, and if Hamburg comes out of the Brighton Cup all right and sound there is every reason to believe that Mr. Daly will be quite as willing to try conclusions with Ornament as he formerly was to test the metal of Lamplighter with Tammany at Guttenburg.

Such a race would be the sporting feature of the year, and if it is run anywhere at all, in justice and fairness it ought to be run at Brighton. Messrs. Norton & Rowe, to the contrary notwithstanding, defeat would not depreciate Hamburg, because few who saw his race in the Realization can doubt his ability to stay any distance with the best race horse in this country. His victory, on the other hand, would emphasize his present reputation and add to his value when he is retired to the stud.

These are all facts that are likely to be weighed by Mr. Daly. Therefore, it is quite within the probabilities that after the Brighton Cup Ornament can have every opportunity to measure strides with Hamburg.

Mr. Norton, however, has so high an opinion of Ornament that he is desperately anxious to get on a race with some first rate horse. He says he will run against Ogden if Mr. Daly prefers to name the latter instead of Ornament.

HOOF-BEATS.

Miss Rowena ran five furlongs in 1:00¾ at Butte, Tuesday. This makes her fifth consecutive win at that meeting.

The Autumn meeting at Oakley has been abandoned for the present year and the Fall stakes declared off. The management claim that the Latonia people violated an agreement as to dates, and this, in a measure, brought about a decision not to race.

Speaking of a proposed introduction of the totalisator into America, the New Zealand Referee says: "The conductors of racing in America evidently have their troubles, and it is just as well to let them know that they will not vanish, as they fondly imagine, when they have their totalisator. That it would effect a deal for the best interests of racing if introduced generally into America under proper regulation and supervision, as it has done in other countries where it flourishes, goes without saying. If there are dishonest owners and riders races can still be "fixed" up, and a good heel made through the machine. Whether America is to have pure racing rests with those who are responsible for the conduct of meetings. If they are prepared to put down fraud at all hazards, the presence of the totalisator will assist certainly, but officers of the clubs must know their duties, and be prepared to carry them out."

One of the most remarkable features of the English turf is the fact that it is possible for a four-year-old to win upwards of $150 000 in three stake races. Indeed, in 1900 this amount will be increased to $200,000 in four races. The present fixtures are the Princess of Wales' Stakes, at the Newmarket First July meeting; the Eclipse Stakes, at the Sandown Park Second Summer meeting, and the Jockey Club Stakes, at the Newmarket First October meeting. Each of these events is guaranteed at £10,000, very nearly all of which sum goes to the winner. As a matter of fact, when Isinglass won all three races as a four-year-old, in 1894, the entry in the Newmarket races was so large as to earn the horse a surplus on both occasions, the Princess of Wales being worth £10,911 and the Jockey Club £11,302. As has been said, a fourth race has been announced for 1900, when the Sandown Park authorities will also give the Century Stakes, of £10,000, for four-year olds and five-year-olds. At present all the other three races are for three-year-olds and four-year-olds, but in 1901 the Princess of Wales will be for four-year-olds and upwards.

A good filly owned by a good sportsman won the first of this season's £10,000 stakes in England. Quite in the first division as a two-year-old, Goletta was rather a disappointing performer last season, earning a reputation for being consistent only in her inconsistencies. Still, she on more than one occasion exhibited great brilliancy up to a mile. One of her ventures was in the race she has now won, the Princess of Wales Stakes, finishing third to Velasquez. Her victories included the Coronation Stakes at Ascot and the St. George's Stakes at Liverpool. She was third in the One Thousand Guineas and nowhere in the Oaks and St. Leger. Goletta, too, was was unexpectedly beaten in the Zetland Plate by Montaray, whose only success it was for the year. It may be argued, from the fact of one of those that found favor for the Derby having had to strike her colors to Goletta, that the mixed form of last season's two-year-olds will be exemplified in like manner this season in the three-year-old division; and the probability is there is no bright particular star among the lot. The American-owned colt that gained third place to Goletta was second in the Cambridgeshire, and he rests his fame on his running in that race. The earlier winners of the Princess of Wales Stakes were Isinglass, La Var and St. Frusquin.

BY CHARLES MARVIN.

This great practical horse book is a handsome, three hundred page octavo, bound in cloth, elegantly printed superbly illustrated, and explains in every detail the remarkable success of CHARLES MARVIN and the whole plans and methods pursued at Palo Alto as to breaking, training, shoeing, gaiting, driving, keeping racing and breeding trotters.

Read what J. C. Silby, the owner of St. Bel, says of this book: "In this work Marvin has let out all the mysteries of the craft, and it is so simple and plain that any breeder, owner, trainer or rubber who has any relish for his business can take a colt as a yearling and develope to the highest and fullest extent that colt's capacity as a trotter. The work impressed me so strongly that I have ordered twenty copies, and shall place one in the hands of every rubber on our farm.

SUMMONS.

In the Superior Court of the City and County of San Francisco, State of California. No. 84,430

Action brought in the Superior Court, City and County of San Francisco, State of California, and the Complaint filed in said City and County of San Francisco, in the office of the Clerk of said Superior Court.

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above-named plaintiff in the Superior Court, City and County of San Francisco, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons, if served within this County; or, if served elsewhere, within thirty days. The said action is brought to obtain a judgment and decree of this Court dissolving the bonds of matrimony now existing between plaintiff and defendant, upon the ground of defendant's desertion of plaintiff, said desertion having continued for more than two years last past and having been without the consent or connivance of plaintiff; also, for general relief, as will more fully appear in the complaint on file, to which special reference is hereby made. All of which will more fully appear in the complaint on file herein to which you are hereby referred. And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint, as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief therein demanded.

Given under my hand and seal of said Superior Court at the City and County of San Francisco, State of California, this 3d day of June in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-eight.

HARNESS HORSES IN HAWAII.

Irish Lassie Now Holds the Record and is Champion of the Islands.

On the last steamer from Honolulu, that well known California horse breeder and all round good fellow, Mr. H. J. Agnew, of Hillsdale, Santa Clara county, was a passenger. He was returning from a sojourn of a few weeks at his old island home, during which he had combined business with pleasure. On his trip down he took nearly twenty head of horses which he disposed of in Honolulu at prices that were a little lower than he expected, but which brought him a fair return.

Mr. Agnew reports that on the Fourth of July at the Honolulu track there came off the greatest harness race in the history of the Islands, in which the record was lowered and three of California's crack pacers defeated. The race was won by Irish Lassie, a mare raised by Mr. Agnew, he having purchased her dam while she was carrying the foal that was destined to win the championship of this country's most recently acquired territory. The race was a free for all affair, in which W. Wood 2:07, Our Boy 2:12½, Loupe 2:09¼ and Irish Lassie were the starters. Loupe, Mr. Agnew states was dead lame.

The first heat of the race, which was mile heats best three in five, was paced in 2:17 and was a dead heat between Irish Lassie and Our Boy, with W. Wood close behind them.

The third heat was won by Irish Lassie in 2:16, the fastest heat ever trotted in Hawaii, and a marvelously fast one, considering the track, which is very slow, being sandy and deep on a good part of its surface, and nothing to be compared to our California tracks.

In the fourth heat Our Boy was as game as ever, and it was hammer and tongs between the two every step of the way around the oval, and for the second time during the race the Judges were unable to separate them. There was a great deal of money put up on the horses by their respective friends at this point, but the Hibernian damsel had the most supporters and her well known gameness was considered certain to carry her through to victory. Nor did she disappoint them for she won the next heat handily and the sixth and last in a jog, the time for the two heats being 2:22 and 2:24.

Irish Lassie was bred by the late B. C. Holly. Her dam is Aurelia, by Albert W., one of the twin fillies that H. Scott of Santa Clara raised from his mare Pacific Maid by Elmo, the dam of Pacific Maid being May S., by David Hill, next dam Lady May by General Taylor, the old twenty miler. Mr. Holly bred Aurelia to St. Patrick 2:14½, and sold the mare to Mr. Agnew before she foaled, and Irish Lassie was born on his farm at Hillsdale. When a yearling she was as fast a paddock trotter as ever sped across a field with nose and tail in the air, and she afterwards took to pacing, but at no time during her life in California did she ever display such speed as she now shows. She was sold by Mr. Agnew to the McCandless Brothers of Hawaii, who have won many races and a good lot of money with her since she landed in Kanaka land. In her race on the Fourth of July she did not make a mistake in any of the six heats paced, but was as steady as a clock. Irish Lassie is easily the champion of the Islands, though some of California's old time champions are now owned there.

Mr. Agnew, during his recent trip, sold a three-year-old son of the dead stallion Dawn to McCandless Bros. This stallion is a very handsome fellow and is out of Maude, 2:20 (dam of To Order, 2:12¾, and Boswell Jr. 2:19), by Bertrand Blackhawk. He has a nice way of going and should be a very fast horse.

Mr. Agnew reports the horse market as quite dull in the Islands. During late years a large number of cheap horses purchased here for small sums have been sent there, and as the uses to which horses can be put are limited, no great demand exists there at present, although the market is bound to improve with the onward march of civilization, which will surely result from annexation.

DEATH OF B. C. HOLLY.

The Veteran Turfman Passes Away Suddenly at Butte, Montana.

BUTTE, Aug. 3.—B. C. Holly, the famous Western turfmen, died very suddenly at 12 o'clock to-night from heart failure, superinduced by asthma. He was at the track during the day, and seemed to be in his usual health up to about two hours before he died.

The above dispatch, which appeared in the morning papers of Thursday last, was a shock to every person who had ever formed the acquaintance of "By" Holly. For years this veteran turfman has bred, raised and raced horses in California and Montana, and probably no man identified in any manner with either harness horses or runners was more widely known or more universally regarded. Ten years ago Mr. Holly was interested in the trotters, and trained and drove his great stallion Woodnut, 2:16½, to his record, and then sold him for $20,000. When the Solano Agricultural Society which had built a track and erected buildings three miles north of Vallejo, was unable to continue the enterprise, Mr. Holly purchased the property, christened it Flosden and established thereon a breeding farm, where both harness horses and thoroughbreds were bred. On this farm many horses that afterward secured low records and won many thousands of dollars, first saw the light. When the harness horse boom which was at its height in 1890, began to decline, Mr. Holly paid more attention to the thoroughbreds, and ever since the inauguration of winter racing in San Francisco in 1891-92, the horses owned by Mr. Holly have figured in the programs on California tracks.

His home at Flosden, where a widow and daughter now mourn the death of a devoted husband and father, was always open to his friends, and among his neighbors will be found the greatest grief at his taking off. They knew him as a man who asked only what was right, and who made concessions whenever good fellowship could be honorably maintained thereby.

By Holly was a much more than ordinary individual. His personality was such that his superiority over the average man was manifest. The writer remembers well an occasion when Mr. Holly was elected to preside over a race meeting of the Vallejo Agricultural Society. In that calm and quiet manner which was one of his characteristics, he handled the usually unruly drivers and jockeys as though they were his sworn subjects, got the races all off in good time and rendered decisions that were unquestioned because they were precisely just. He did all this and scarcely spoke a word that could be heard further than across the track.

For years Mr. Holly had been a sufferer from asthma, and to this disease is attributed the primary cause of his sudden death. He may have had his faults—all men have—but he has paid the debt of nature, and could we all go to the grave with the knowledge that we have accomplished as much for the good and happiness of other as did this veteran horsemen, the world would be better for our having lived.

A DOUBLE DISQUALIFICATION.

Col Clark Renders a Decision That Causes a Deal of Comment.

At Harlem track Chicago last Saturday in the third race, a half mile dash for two-year-olds, there was considerable bumping in the stretch. Cathedral finished first, Frank Bell second and Espionage third. Cheval D'Or, Andes, Elsie G. and Maggie V. finished in that order. Many of those who witnessed the race thought Frank Bell bore out and bumped Espionage, but Judge Carter put the blame on Cathedral and Espionage and disqualified both. As the race was between the first three all the way, the disqualifying of two of the leaders naturally created a sensation. In the last race of the day there was another bumping match between Tartarian and Primate, but the race was allowed to stand as the horses finished. In an account of the days proceedings the Chicago Daily Racing Form says :

"Col. Clark, as he left the stand, was asked for his version of the affairs of the day and answered: 'Cathedral and Espionage so pinned in Frank Bell at the finish that his jockey (H. Shields) was almost lifted out of the saddle. In the last race the boy, McNickle, who rode Eleanor Holmes said that he bumped Tartarian and if there was any foul the fault was his. What's that? (in answer to a question from an outsider: Were not the two races parallel cases?) No, indeed." Then Nick Hall, for whom McNickle rides said: "If the boy told you he fouled Tartarian I shall whip him soundly." "No, you won't," then remarked Col. Clark. "I can, off the race track," continued Hall. "No," kept up the presiding judge, "you must'n't whip him for what occurred on the racetrack." Just then up came a man and served some kind of legal paper on Col. M. Lewis Clark and the turf dignitary said: "I know all about it and will be in court when wanted." Then he showed by his fingers just what he meant in explaining the position of the horses in the two races causing comment and confirmed what everyone saw as to the likelihood of bumping, because of the boys trying to get the path near the outside rail.

John Condon, in speaking about the matter afterward, said: "Judge Clark may justly be said to split hairs. He knows possibly too much of the rules and in administering them is apt to provoke persons ignorant of the fine points. From what I have heard of these races today I should judge that the heavy going was very tiring to the horses and when the finish was neared they were all ready to lie down, and got to bumping one another. In such cases, as it is almost impossible to locate the blame, I think it would be best to place the horses as they finish." Horsemen generally could truthfully say "we saw no foul in the case of Cathedral, but surely Tartarian shoved Primate over towards the fence."

In both the disputed races the favorite got first money. One old timer said, "I cannot think of a decision made by Col. Clark where, after passing home first, the favorite was disqualified. He seems to think that because a horse is an odds-on favorite that he must necessarily be the best horse in the race, and I have always told my friends to bet on odds-on favorites where Col. Clark is the judge, because his ideas bring the percentage up to a figure where a man can afford to bet on them. The horse may win; if not, the horse that beats him may be disqualified. And again, should the favorite lose, one has a chance to get his money back through the declaring off of bets."

"What is the use of knowing anything about horses," sang a disgusted sport. "Here is shoved up into the money Cheval d'Or and Andes, horses beaten by Espionage and Cathedral further than one could throw a stone. It looks as if the rules were wrong, when for the fouling a horse close to the wire the superior horse is put behind all others. One might as well bet his money on buttons drawn from a bag as on the races run the last week at Harlem."

SKY POINTER'S DEATH.

Los Angeles, July 30, 1898.

Editor Breeder and Sportsman.—The death of such a stallion as Sky Pointer, No. P. 324, an own brother to Star Pointer, the only horse with a record below two minutes at either the diagonal or "side wheel" gaits, is no ordinary misfortune. It falls not alone on the enterprising lady to whom this end of the State is indebted for his importation from Middle Tennessee, the cradle of the pacing horse, but on the breeding public as well. A day or two ago a very belittling paragraph appeared about him in a local paper, and the scribe went out of his way to attack a dead horse that had excited nothing but admiration on the part of every man who has seen him and was a half-way good judge of a horse. His greatest praise actually came from rival owners.

As to his death, the horse had apparently caught cold on the overland journey hither from Oakland, four days previously. The day ride through the San Joaquin Valley had been most intensely hot and the night ride through the Tehachipe range was very cool. It may be that the foundation of pneumonia was laid right then and there, but did not develop for several days later. Martenhurst was, as we all know, a sound and healthy horse when he left the Rancho del Paso and yet developed lung fever on his arrival at Los Angeles, dying a few hours later. This seems like a parellel case!

Of one thing there is a certainty. The horse was not overdriven on the day of his fatal illness, for he went only about six miles in a slow jog and came back almost in a walk. Gan. Nick Covarrubias told me he saw the horse when he came in, looking as cool and as quiet as when he went out. In half an hour later he was thrashing about his stall in agony and striking the wall with his forefeet, a thing nobody ever saw him do before, for he was the very personification of good temper. It was impossible to imagine a horse freer from vice.

The story first got out that Sky Pointer had died from a twisted bowel, but this was incorrect. He was first attacked with violent colic, after which pneumonia set in, which is fully attested by the post-mortem examination. His lungs and liver were found to be diseased, but he was probably a horse of such immense stamina and resolution that he showed none of the usual premonitory symptoms. To the very last he maintained his strong determination not to yield and almost died while standing up.

Mr. Cleveland, who has had charge of him ever since he left Tennessee, accompanied him hence to the Oakland track where Walter Maben trained and drove him. He showed a fine way of going, but he got lame and Walter suggested firing him for it, but Mrs. Hastings could not bear the idea of so cruel an operation, so she ordered the horse sent home, Mr. Maben having expressed his belief that he would next year show a great way of going. Everybody knows that Star Pointer had been fired in three of his legs before he got the mark that has never yet been equaled, so Mrs. Hastings probably thought she would rest the horse up till next year and then give him a good chance to distinguish himself.

He was a horse with an enormous body set upon short and strong legs, therefore he hit the ground very hard when extended at his best way of going. In his conformation he always reminded me of the great Australian horse, Malua, who won the Melbourne Cup of 1884. There was the same large, but bony and well shaped head, set upon a strong, but rather short neck. His shoulders sloped back like a thoroughbred's and were very heavy, while his back and loins were simply massive.

No horse ever had finer driving power, for he measured nearly twenty-seven inches across the hips and his stifles were enormous. Add to this a level head and a temper so good that a child could drive him, and it is hard to imagine what else a man could ask for in a horse. I put a tape-line all over him in April and found that not one horse in twenty could measure with him. Lecomte, by Boston out of Reel, outmeasured every horse of his day for his height; and while Sky Pointer was a larger horse, he was built upon the same blocky and useful lines.

His value consisted chiefly in three undeniable facts, to wit.: First, that he was of a rare line of excellent blood and therefore valuable as an outcross for our Southern California mares, which are so intensely inbred to Sultan and Hambletonian 10; second, that he was a horse of great substance and thoroughly free from the hereditary ailments that are conspicuous in the Hambletonians; and third, that he was a very level-headed horse and entirely free from those infirmities of temper which were the only fault that I could ever discern in the Sultans.

Mr. Cleveland, who had never left his side since he became Mrs. Hastings' property, seems to be almost prostrated with grief and "refuses to be comforted." He certainly ought not to feel bad over the horse's death, but why, I cannot understand. I never knew a more attentive groom than this quiet old Yankee horseman. The poor old man has not had a really good night's sleep since his pet died; and while I can see no good reason for it, I cannot blame him for it, as he looks into that empty stall.

Sky Pointer was bred by the Pointer estate at Spring Hill, Maury County, Tennessee, about eleven miles from the beautiful little city of Columbia. He was purchased nearly three years ago by Mrs. S. J. Hastings and after making a brief season, was sent back to be trained by E. F. Geers who had spent the previous winter in Los Angeles with C. J. Hamlin's horses. He got twelve foals in his first season and one died. One of these is a brown filly, owned by Mrs. Hastings herself and a real picture to look at. Another is a stud colt and, in my belief, the only male foal he has left behind him, owned by some friend of Walter Maben's until yesterday when Mrs. Hastings bought him. He is a light brown, or a dark bay, some would call him, of good size for his age and very stylish in harness, although just broken. His dam is by Gossiper 2:14¾ and his grandson by the thoroughbred horse Hock Hocking, who was, with the exception of Star Ruby and Goldfinch, the handsomest stallion ever brought to California.

This year Sky Pointer served eighteen mares and it is believed they are all safely in foal to him. Two of these are out of Etta Wilkes. 2:19½, she being the dam of Smith's handsome brown stallion, Baron Kenna. He served five mares belonging to his owner, two belonging to Mr. William Howard and two to Mr. Charles Durfee, the owner of McKinney. Nine other owners bred one mare each. My own idea is that we have said good-by to a great horse, one that united all the prerequisites of good size, great bone, smooth gait and an excellent temper. I shall miss his intelligent muzzle and the kindly glance of his handsome brown eye, that beamed with almost human sagacity; and am truly glad that he did not belong to me, as I should not know where to replace him. The family to which he belonged was a strong thread, but a slender one and its value as an outcross is not to be underrated at this late day, when frail horses seem to be the rule and stout ones the exception.

Thos. B. Merry.

A Correction.

In last week's Breeder and Sportsman the statement was made in an article headed "Came By Chance," that Senator Stanford took Beautiful Bells in payment of a debt. Superintendent F. W. Covey, of Palo Alto Stock Farm, writes as follows in correction of this statement:

Dear Sirs—In your article of July 30th, "Came By Chance" the statement regarding Beautiful Bells is not true history. Governor Stanford had seen Beautiful Bells trot in races and had noticed her erratic temperament. At Sacramento in 1878, on seeing Bells at the track he remarked to the then Superintendent of Palo Alto, H. R. Covey, that he believed Electioneer was the horse that would correct in the produce the defect of the mare. Bells had come into the possession of Mr. Warren Loosa, and in a conversation with Mr. Covey he concluded to breed Bells to Electioneer. In 1880 she foaled the great baby trottar, Hinda Rose. Acting for Mr. Warren Loosa I sold Beautiful Bells with Hinda Rose by her side to Governor Stanford for a good round figure; a hill sor keep of mare and service of stallion constituting part of purchase price. F. W. Covey.

The program for the Hartford Grand Circuit meeting includes two handicap harness races on the European plan, a contest for trotters of the 2:12 class at one mile and a half and repeat, a trotting race to road wagon, a double team race and a saddle race. The Association will hang up a purse of $5,000 for the saddle race, provided the best trotters in training can be secured as starters.

When Milan Chimes dropped dead at Hartford he made the third performer that has fallen dead for the Hemlins. Several years ago Midnight Chimes, 2:16¼, fell dead in a race at Mystic Park, Boston, and Nightingale, 2:08, dropped dead while jogging at Louisville, Ky., in 1896.

THE BEST BRANCHES.

San Francisco, July 26, 1898.

Breeder and Sportsman:—In conversation some three months ago with a party of gentlemen on the subject of breeding horses one of them remarked that the laws of heredity were, or are very imperfectly understood by breeders in general. Another said that he cared not what any animal's breeding was, so that the animal was all right himself. Some little time after I showed him a handsome young mare that I had bought, of high breeding, sound, good gaited, with the blood of Hambletonian and Mambrino Patchen and American Star "doubled and tripled up." He remarked "I have for a year been hunting for just such a mare, but could not find one."

It was then my turn to talk and try to explain to him the reason.

"You say that you pay no attention to a good pedigree but if the animal is all right in looks, you buy. Most animals when in good flesh, look well. You buy them but when you put them to a test find them wanting in speed, gait and power to breed on. I verily believe that greater results can be obtained by the continual breeding, confined as closely as possible to the branches of families that combine speed, formation, energy and soundness. These I am of the opinion, are the most important studies for the new breeder of this day. What we want in the speedy animal is a level head, form, energy and the instinct to breed on. It is a noteworthy fact that in the inbreeding of the blood of Hambletonian 10, Mambrino Patchen, American Star and Williamson's Belmont we can see our greatest, speediest harness animals of our day.

The gentleman's reply to me was that he could not fully indorse my sentiments, but as he did not claim to be well advised in pedigrees he was of the opinion that the young and improved families would be more preferable to him than the above. My answer was that it was my motto to use these also, but I would at the same time aim to keep within reach, through the very best sons and daughters of the above families.

It is undeniable that Hambletonian is the "best branch" of the great speedy harness animals that possess most of the essential qualifications, such as good brain, muscle development, shoulder and stifle action and instinct for speed. The Mambrino Patchen is the "best branch," as a rule, for good looks, soundness and gameness and the power to transmit those essential qualifications. The American Star and Williamson's Belmont are the "best branches" for finish and the "do or die" quality of determination. This blood has most happily united with Hambletonian, Clay, Morgan, Edwin Forrest, Bonnie Scotland, Glencoe, Planet, Australian, Mergrave, Bellfounder, Pilot and so many others.

During the fall of 1878 I had the honor of spending four days with the late Aldan Goldsmith. He considered the Clays one of the "best branches" on account of their perfect trotting gait.

Hambletonian has sired forty trotters, and has no record to his credit; also sired 144 producing sons and 83 producing daughters. His sons have sired 1,433 performers and we find his blood, doubled and trebled, in the speediest performers, such as John R. Gentry, 2:00½, Robert J., 2:01½, Alix, 2:03¾, Nancy Hanks, 2:04, Azota, 2:04¾, Klatawah (three-year-old), 2:06½, Lurline McGregor, 2:11¾, Searchlight, 2:03¾, Direct, 2:05½, Dione, 2:09¼, and others of note. In this he is not equalled by any other sire, and for that reason, and that alone, I advocate keeping as close to that dead hero as possible.

Mambrino Patchen, sire of twenty-five trotters and no pacers, is, unquestionably, the king of the great mother-producing branch, and his sons and daughters have the instinct to breed on. He has sired 136 that are mothers of producers. There are 908 of his descendants with records from 2:01½ to 2:20. His blood can be traced close up in Jo Patchen, 2:01½, Alix, 2:03¾, Onlioe, 2:04, Bumps, 2:04¾, Rubinstein, 2:05, and eight others with records of 2:07 and better, and seventy with records of 2:10 and better, and 368 with records of 2:15 and better. How could any person advocate otherwise than to keep up as close as possible to the top notchers and world's champion families? As I said to the gentleman, never lose sight of the importance in producing the great handsome, all-around harness animals, that good mothers produce good offspring and bad mothers seldom, if ever. When the gentleman asked me what I called the best trotting-bred family, my reply was, those that belong to the families whose representatives are the oftanest first at the finish and sell for the highest prices in any good market, and those with splendid individuality, soundness, speed, gait, courage and good dispositions. To start right is half the battle and means time and money saved. Let any new breeder start his enterprise on good mothers, the best his money can buy. If his resources are restricted he had better by far concentrate them and buy but few.

Just how to most certainly produce a handsome, speedy animal is the problem every person hopes to solve. If many of them knew how as well as they know how not to, the list of failures would be quickly shortened. The worth of a good animal does not rest on the fact that he is what he is, but rather upon the difficulty involved in producing another like him (value and rarity are matched). It is fair to measure the results of a persons efforts by the distance he puts between himself and failure. Again while we are discussing this we must not forget a great sire, but I will say failures are very much more frequently traceable to bad mothers than to the quality in a stallion. A person is very apt to select a good stallion and at the same time neglect to secure the proper dams. To produce and reproduce desirable qualities, the mother must be as carefully selected as the sire. And the breeder must carefully note the signs of the times, and know what the elements are that prevail over others.

LENA N., 2:05 1-4.

Lena N., 2:05¼, or more properly Lene N., the fast pecing mare by Sidney, is down in the Yeer Book as untreced on the dam's side. Some of the Eastern papers heve been publishing the statement lately that her dam is a mare called Helen Benton, by Gen. Benton, but at that point they were lost egain. Knowing that Mr. C. F. Northup of Peteluma, who formerly owned the mare, could give the readers of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN informetion that would lead to the clearing up of the pedigree, we wrote to him and have his answer before us.

At a sele of the horses helonging to the lete Josieh H. White, Esq., of Lakeville Stock Ferm, Sonoma county, held by Killip & Co. in this city November 30, 1892, the dam of Lena N. wes sold, together with several of her produce. This mare wes cetalogued as Miss Helen, by Gen. Benton, 1755, first dam Nettia George, by Norfolk, second dam by Ashland, third dem by Volscian, fourth dam by Bulwer, fifth dam by Illinois Medoc. The note was added thet Miss Helen was es fine a looking danghter of Benton es was ever offered at a sale, a sure producer, and thet every one of her get showed speed of a high order.

Miss Helen's first foal was a colt by Guy Wilkes and wes sold to Monroe Salisbury, who sold him East for $1,200. The second colt was a seal-brown called Contention and was by Director. The third foal wes a filly by Sidney nemed Deena; the fourth wes also a filly by Sidney (Lene N.) and the fifth and sixth were fillies by Sidney, the last mentioned heing at her dam's side at this sale. Mr. Wilfred Page purchased Deena end tha filly one year younger. Deana wes foeled Januery 2, 1889, and the other June 30, 1890. Mr. Northup purchased the letter when she wes six years old, end hed her broke, es up to that time she had never hed a harness on. Within five months from the dey she wes first hitched up she was timed a full mile out in 2:15, and was considered good enough to take to tha races. She sterted tha first time in the 2:27 cless at Sacramento, won in three straight heats and took a mark of 2:13 the first heat, the others being peced in 2:16¾ and 2:20. Mr. Northup nemed the mare Lenna N. for his deughter, but the programs and the record hooks have always dropped one letter from the name and it is recorded as Lena N. She holds the world's record for pacing mares, end Andy McDowell, who trains her, says he hes driven her a quarter in 27 seconds. She was purchased hy Andy McDowell and Herry Wise of this city last year.

Deena, tha full sister of Lena N. and one year older, was bred to Mr. Page's horse Eclectic, full brothar to Arion, and the colt which resulted is now on Mr. Page's farm, "Rencho Cotate." Deana was sold to Ray Egen of Petalnma. He has been drrving her to a cert soma and with hut little training trotted a mile recently in 2:44. Sha shows a desire to peca, however, and Mr. Egan thinks she would be very fast at the lateral gait. It is to be hoped that Messrs. McDowell & Wise will have Lena N. registered as all the proof of her breeding is easily ohtainable. She will very likely reduce her present record a second or two before the season of 1898 closes.

California Horees at Cleveland.

At Clevelend, Obio, on Friday of last week, there wes eome great recing. The wegon record for trotters was smeshed twice until it stood et 2:09¼ opposite the name of Grace Hestings, 2:08, e ten-year-old mare hy Bayonne Prince, out of Emma K., by Burger 2571. The first snccessful attempt to lower the old record during the day was mede hy Kentucky Union, 2:07½, by Aherdeen, who trotted the mile in 2:10¾.

In the 2:10 trot, The Ahhott, son of Cbimes, won in three straight heets, the fastest that have been trotted this yeer. They were mede in 2:08½, 2:09¼ and 2:09¼.

In the other races Celifornia horses went to the front.

The 2:14 trot was won hy Mr. A. C. Spreckels' game end hendsome little mare Dione, who reduced her record in the third heet to 2:09¼. In this race Dione hed no greet trouble, elthough there were eleven competitors in the race, end three different horses were sent after her consecutively and compelled her to go three very fast heats. She was equel to every emergency, however, and trotted into tha 2:10 list in the last heat with an ease that led tha on-lookers to believe that 2:05 is not heyond her reach. Her three heets in this race were in 2:10¾, 2:12¾ and 2:09¼. She wes driven by Mr. McHenry, one of the best drivers in America, owing to the fect that her trainer and driver, Thos. Keating, is quite ill.

Another of Keating's good ones, Aneconda, was piloted hy McHenry in the 2:05 pace for $2,000 end won after five heats of hot work. The son of Knight met those fast pacers, Frank Bogash, 2:04¼, Bumps, 2:04¼, Aneniss, 2:06¾, Pearl Onward, 2:06½, and two or three others, and although they went a different one after him each heet, he outlasted end outfooted them all. Aneconda won tha first heat in 2:04¾, e new record for the California geldiog. The second he won in 2:05½, end then that geme pecer, Frenk Bogash, took two heats in 2:05¼ and 2:09½. It was nearly dark when the 6fth heat was called end all were tired, hnt Anaconde outlasted the others and won the heat end race in 2:09½, a very remerkable mile considering that he had heen the contesting horse in tha previous four heats.

Taken altogether it was a greet day for horses of Californie hreeding.

OWING to the fect thet the track at Portland, Oregon, is not being kept in condition to train on tha horsemen have ahout all left for outside trecks, most of them going to Independence where the fell circuit hegins.

Not the Right Kind.

The ownar of e stellion which hes been on the merket for some little time, says he does not believe there are any such prices going in the horse merket as era reported from week to week in The Horseman, end calls to witness the fact that he has had this stallion for sele for some months end hes so far feiled to find a purchaser for him. A little investigation develops the fact that there is e greet deal of pedigree and very little horse effered.

The stallion is well bred, to ba sura, but undersized, ewe-necked, homely, without style, end he cen neither step fast nor high. He is cat-hammed and too fine-boned, end eltogether he is not worth—to work—more than a fifty-doller note, which is all he wonld bring if added to the list of the geldirgs and sold on the open merket.

No one with any sense is going to buy such a horse for reproductive purposes, and es he is used for nothing but the lightest and most menial work, he will not bring anything more than the price that is going for horses that perform such service in the shafts. The pecnliar part of it is that this horse was hegotten hy a game and fast stallion out of a well-bred mare, though neither of the two were particulerly good individuals, and two heasts less well snited to one enother could hardly have been picked out among the entire number of standard bred horses in the land

The owner paid $50 for the service fee of the horse thet begot the stallion he is now trying to sell, and possibly that eids him in hlinding himself to the utter worthlessness of the enimal no one else seems to went. We do not say that there is either a strong demend or good prices going for sucb horses. To what nse can they he put?

Breeders hava learned far too severe a lesson to be fooled egein into patronizing pedigreed scrnbs et great cost. It is the breeder of snch trash that alone is to hlame because the buyers will not pay for it. We know of an instence where one breeder wes offered $2000 for a stallion as he stood, or $2500 if be would heve tha operation of cestration performed end deliver the horse sound and right in New York city. This offer simply ment that the purcheser was willing to pay $500 for the insurance of the horsa to withstand the operation and snccessfully recover from it.

This stellion is altogether a different type to the one referred to. He weighs 1250 pounds, instead of less than 900; ha stands 16 hands et the shoulder instead of scant 15; he is as round es an apple, a very full one, insteed of e hollow, slah-sided one; he has a heantifully arched, long, hlood-like neck, insteed of e neck thet falls in, in front of the withers, and is neither strong nor good to look on; he has plenty of bone, of the sort thet will outwear his hody, insteed of spindle shanks; and he hes phenomenelly high action, hoth knea and hock, instead of no ection at all et either end.—Chicago Horseman.

A Fair at Eureka.

The initial move towerd having a fair in Eureka, Humboldt county this fall was made last week. A meeting of the directors of the Eureka Mechanical and Agricultural Association was held and it was decided to go ahead with the project at once. Those who ettended were Alexender Connick, T. B. Cutler, C. L. Pardee, W. H. Ottmer and L. L. Ayers.

The question wes sobmitted whether or not to hold a fair end only one opinion was expressed. All were strongly in favor of the project.

The metter of time was telked over, and it wes decided that tha latter part of September, probably immediately efter tha Ferndale Feir, would he the hest sesson. This would place it in the week beginning September 26th. Five days will probebly he tbe period carried, making Tuesdey the first day.

A new Boerd of Directors wes elected as follows: W. H. Ottmer, T. B. Cutler, Willard Wells, C. L. Pardee, W. S. Clark, J. T. Quill, E. E. Skinner, Alexender Connick and L. L. Ayers.

Joe Patchen's Owner Talks.

"There is nothing in the telked-of metcb rece between Patchen, Gentry and Agan et Buffalo," laughed C. W. Marks, owner of Joe Petchen, when asked ehont it yesterday. "At least I know nothing of it, harring the fact that it'a a newspeper story, usually suggested to some track man egement as a scheme for attrecting crowds. It edvertises e a race meet even if the speedy ones don't appear.

"Here's e line from Johnson," ha continued, "written Wednesday, seying whet my horse did in five heats thet day. The heats were paced in 2:35, 2:22, 2:07¼, 2:06¾ and 2:18. He made a half in 0:58¾, and stapped a quarter in 0:28½, and on top of this was en eighth in 0:12¾. The best querter in the heat previous to this one was 0:35 flat. We will be disappointed if we don't beet 2 minutes, bnt we are not going to he disappointed. My horse will receive the best cara this seeson that money can give him. Ha has two men to handruh him, and I've ordered Peter Johnson to secure a couple more. So there will be a men to messege each leg end keep the mnscles pliable.

"I have not decided where we will begin the seeson, but it will be in Augnst. Petchen goes into no five-heat reces. When Joe goes into e race with Pointer, it will ha a two in threa affair. The public wents high speed end will get it. I won't cnt my horse wide open for eny steka ever effered."

AT the recent sala in England of Hackneys from the stud of Sir Walter Gilhey, the top price, $3,125, was made hy the tan-year-old Deuegelt mere, Lady Keyinham. The next hest price was $2,940 for tha Danegelt two-year-old filly Comedy. Fifteen lots bronght $500 or upwerds. The yearling filly Bright Crompton, hy Hedon Squire sold for $1,100. Tha six-year-old Chloris, by Cadet, made $1,250. The everage wes $475 on fifty-six heed.

OREGON FLYERS.

Many Horses in Training at the Talmage Race Traok, Near Independence.

At the little town of Talmsge, Oregon, is e half mile treck that is kept in good condition for working horses and at the present time quite a number of horsemen well known in California are treining their horses there.

Mr. Everett Staats, of Airlie, hes four fina colts, three of them trotters, the other a pecer, none of them with records, but ell sbowing speed.

Chas. Burrows has Del Norte 2:08, and from his get Altinorte, Dr. Wright, George D. end Delbert. This is a very fine string of horses and all ere working well.

William Fry has Meck end Graceful George, hoth pacers.

L. B. Lindsay, from Spokane, Wasb., an old timer on the track, has Lady Careful, with e mark of 2:31½; also Cention, a trotter, and Our Dewey, 4-year-old green trotter end Grece Greenwood, a 3-yeer-old green trotter.

I. C. Moshier, who has charge of the track, is working Coeur d'Alene 2:29½, end McBrier, a green trotter hy McKinner that is showing lots of speed. Mr. Moshier'e favorite is Egypt, e 2-yeer-old that has been trotting some very fast quarters. He expects him to be a greet horse next year, and is going easy with him. Mr. Mosiar has severel others, among them Coral 2:38 and Klondike, a fest five-year old.

Lew Childs has hnt two in his string, bnt both ere good ones. One is Stanwix 2:21½, the other Greyling, a full brotber to Caryle Carne.

J. Erwin, of Pendleton, Ore., has Bonrer N. B., with a record of 2:17, trotter. This horse has won a number of good races; he also has the 3-year-old pacar, Edison, which won the race for three year olds in Portland this yeer.

J. E. Kirklend has Ben Bolt, a beautiful pacer owned by Thos. Tongne, which is showing remarkahle speed. Merk Henna is elso another colt, 3-year-old, owned hy Mr. Tongua this enimal heving a record of 2:25. He elso has Altawood with a record of 2:21½ and Smoke, a green trotter, and Crescent, 3-yeer-old, owned by E. J. Young; she is hy Del Norte.

Mr. F. M. Moshier is expected up from California in a few days with e fast stable of trotters and pacers end it is expected tbet tbare will be a large number of horses on the treck hy tha time for the fall meet.

"The Pace That Kille."

It is an old yet trne seying that "'Tis the pace that kills." This heing the case, how long can trotters and pacers he expected to stend the tarrible strain of fast and repeated heats incident to the present system of thrae in five? Seven and even nine-heat reces ere not nncommon, and with every heet some one or more horses driven to their fullest capecity, is it not more then can he expected of flesh and blood? The result is hound to he that the contenders will fell by the wayside. Good horses will be pleced hors de combat, and new ones will he found in front each week. Under the present system it is nnreasonahle to expect even the very hest horses to stand the strain, end the consequence will snrely he thet hy autumn the hest ones will heve to be beeten by inferior ones—by horses that have heen saved until those that are in reelity fastar and of better class heve been knocked out.

When a horse appears at the heginning of tbe legitimate racing season, and hy his brillient performances attracts the attention of the racing world, he is expected to go down the Grand Circuit, and each week becoming hetter than the time hefore, nntil hy autumn he is expected to be et his best. Is it not next to impossible under the present system, and in view of the fact thet speed has grown to such an extreme, for a horse, no matter how good, to last that long? If a horse were to start each weak, heginning at Detroit and ending at Lexington, ha might he obligad to take pert in forty heats, nearly ell of which would he apt to ba nearly op to his limit. Ona rece might he enough to ruin him. A thoroughhred is generally considered to have done enough efter having raced ten times in one season, although of course some run many more races than that. Yet trotters frequently teke nart in eight heets or practically eight races, in one day, and ere expected to do this every week for e whole season. Now thet tha speed has becoma so terrific a change of plan will he ebsolutely necessary, or by autnmn the performers of July or August will he stale or worsa, or if started cannot be expected to do themselves justice. The two in tbree or the dash system is honnd to come, and should have been tha practica long ago. Had tbey hean, mora of our hest horses would he in training now instead of having been ruined hy overwork. The long drawn out reces will have tha effect of injuring the procreative powers of the stellions end mares, of wasting tbeir vitality, and the generetions to come will be less usefnl than if their antecedants had not been ruined hy excessive recing et a high rete of speed.—American Stock Ferm.

DESPITE the persistent rumor to the effect that the bleck stallion is to maka another exhibition campaign in the East, owner C. W. Marks reports that tbus far no engagements hava heen made for Joe Patchen, although ha is in correspondence with parties looking towards such engagements for this year. Mr. Marks prefers to enter in a few free-for-all classes a trifle later if it is possible. Tha horse is rounding into condition quite satisfactorily, but has not been sent a full mila faster than 2:14. This was two waeks ago, and the lest quarter was in 30 seconds. Mr. Marks relates that some days ago Joe was sent a querter in 28¾ seconds, lest eighth in 12¾.

NEWS FROM MANILA.

Our Soldier Boy Writes an Intereeting Letter of the Trip to the Phillipines.

Our readers will probably remember that "Jack" Martineau, an attache of this paper, and a member of the First Regiment, California Volunteers, was on the City of Pekin, the first transport to leave this city with troops to relieve Dewey at Manila. The following letter, giving an account of the trip from Honolulu to Manila Bay, was received from him Wednesday last.

ANCHORAGE ON BOARD "CITY OF PEKING"
CAVITE, MANILA BAY, JUNE 30, 1898

Dear Friends of the Breeder and Sportsman, Greetings:—

Well, here we are on an even keel, in the very spot where Dewey won his memorable victory, and where the wrecks and hulls of his antagonists are plainly in view. Of course you know of all the movements of Dewey's fleet, so I will not waste time over that. It is also needless to speak of the size of Manila or pretend to describe its climate for the simple reason that, as yet, I know nothing of either. Suffice it to say that at the present moment, (6:38 P. M.) the rebels are closing in on and firing the suburbs of Manila and 3,000 Spaniards are prisoners in the barracks of Cavite. Quarters have been prepared for us and we understand that we are to land inside of forty-eight hours. As to that, however, I will be unable to confirm it, as the mail carrying this leaves via Hongkong to-morrow at 4 P. M.

Bot think of it! Forty thousand rebels ere reported as beseiging Manila. I can hardly believe it. Have we got to whip both the Spaniards and them? Ho! ho! and with 2,500 men? Well, we whipped their race in the war of 1848 with eqoally as great odds, and I think we can do it again.

The boys are in excellent health and good spirits. Yes, indeed; for the flush of pleasure that came over us all as we beheld the gallant American fleet and its noble commander, has instilled in os a new spirit, new courage and new life. The Olympia is but a ship's length from us now. As we cheered ourselves hoarse for him, and his tars cheered back, gallant Dewey removed his cap and waved it again and again, at which cheers broke forth anew.

So, here we are, with the long sea voyage over and a life of excitement aboot to open before us. Well, we are very glad of it—the sea voyage has been very tiresome, but not uneventful. So, here goes. I'll plunge into my memoranda of the trip from Hawaii, though the task is wholly unlovely in these latitudes, especially when the perspiretion is running off one's nose in a little stream.

June 4th we left Honolulu at 9 A. M., under convoy of the Charleston. Several tugs came out to bid us farewell, with bands and girls and loads of beautiful flowers. We had orders to proceed to sea at a speed of eight knots. Twenty-four hours out from Honolulu the Charleston opened her sealed orders, which were to proceed to Guam, one of the Ladrone Islands. Our voyage until we reached that island was without any importence except for the occasional target practice of our escort.

June 19—Chaplain McKinnon went on board the Charleston to hold mass for the sailors. The report is that the Charleston is to enter the harbor of San Luis D'Apra and engage the forts.

June 20—Within five miles of land. Charleston close in shore. She now signals (7:15 A. M.) for os to "lay to" till further orders She is now going ahead with full steam. Now she is at the entrance to the harbor and proceeding slowly, reconnoitering. When she is close in shore, her color and that of the land and sea are almost as one, and we are unable to distinguish her. While straining our eyes, trying to find her outlines, a long cloud of smoke curled out in serpentine form from her bow, a tongue of flame shot out and she was enveloped in smoke. Six volleys were fired, aggregating thirteen shots. No shots were fired in retorn from the forts, and precisely at 8:52 A. M. the Charleston concluded she had been wasting her ammunition and ceased firing. A boat was sent ashore and the surrender of the forts and the island demanded of the Governor. Much to the sorprise of the commander of the landing party, he learned that the worthy Governor did not know that war had been declared, and that the forts had not mounted a gun since 1572. Laughable, eh?

How we laughed, and my! how we roared when we learned that the noble Don refused to surrender, and gave us eight hours to get out of the harbor!

Commander Glass smiled and replied: "Well, we'll see, to-morrow." So at 10 A. M. the morning of the 21st, 350 marines and soldiers in fourteen boats were taken in tow by the Charleston's launch for a landing. They were two miles from shore when the worthy Governor hastened out to meet them and sorrendered the town and all else he had jurisdiction over. So the boys who were the envy of those who stayed behind came back with sour faces. The soldiers were all Oregonians and regulars. There were fifty Spanish soldiers on the Island. The Governor and soldiers were taken on board the Charleston as prisioners of war. At 2:30 P. M. Old Glory was hoisted over Fort St. Cruz (established 1801) and a salute of 21 guns fired from the Charleston. Immediately after this we landed, and forty tons of coal were transferred from the City of Peking to the Charleston. It was twenty four hours before the last bag had been transferred. At 2:40 P M. June 22d we weighed anchor and stood out to sea, laying our course for Manila

June 28th—Sighted land, Luzon Island. Land, land, dear old land, and the end of our journey. Hello! What's this? All the boys are rushing to the rail! A ship is in sight—at least her smoke.

The Charleston clears for action and is rushing ahead at full speed. The stranger appears to be coming as rapidly toward us. We are all thoroughly excited. Now we can see the hull of the ship and her masts, but cannot distinguish whether they are military or merchant. It is quite clear now that the vessel is a croiser, as we can see her fighting tops, and as she crosses the bow of the Charleston Old Glory floats from her stern. Our cheers break forth simultaneously with the salute. The cruiser is the Baltimore which has been on the lookout for us for the past eleven days.

June 29th—A heavy sea is now running and our ship rolling in the cross seas. She is making a speed of but nine knots an hour although her engines are working at full speed Early this morning we were in the storm centre and great seas broke over her, and she seemed on the point of springing a leak. Tin cups, etc, came down from their place with a crash, and the loose boxes in the commissary department fell with a smash that set many a heart quaking, especially that of a Lieutenant who seized a life preserver and rushed on deck, where he was caught by an officer of the guard and roughly "called down." He tried to pass it off as a joke, but it didn't work.

What kind of food do we get? For the past two weeks we have had two cannon balls (biscuit) and a cup of coffee for breakfast, boiled beef and hard tack for dinner, beans, coffee, onions and hard tack for supper. The trouble is that we have not had enough on account of the poor cooking facilities on board the vessel. After each meal we look forward esgerly to the next. But it will be different when we land.

And now I believe I am back to where I started this letter. We are at anchor and I am writing this as tattoo sounds, while you are all asleep or ought to be. There are six thousand Spaniards supposed to be penned up in Manila and 40,000 of a rebel horde besieging them. We are to disembark July 2d and to attack them on the 4th. The rebel General, Aguinaldo, came oot to confer with Dewey and General Anderson this morning. It is now 2 P M. and the McCulloch leaves with the mail at 3 I have been on detail all morning handling ammunition and am quite tired. Weather is beautiful and cool. Hundreds of native canoes are alongside with tropical fruits. It is quite laughable to hear some of our boys try to talk to them in Spanish. They will know more of Spaniards and the language when they leave here.

So, good-bye. Perhaps by the next mail I may have some curios to send. I have now only a few shells and a small piece of the fort at Guam.

Sincerely,
A. JACKSON MARTINEAU.

The Los Angelee Meeting,

The old reliable Sixth Agricultural District of Los Angeles will give its usual first-class meeting this year. A meeting of the directors of thet Association was held last Wednesday, to arrange a program and it was decided to hold the meeting from October 5th to October 15th inclusive, the same dates as were recommended and claimed some weeks ago.

The trotting races will be 2:10, 2:12, 2:15, 2:17 and 2:30 events. The pacing races will be 2:12, 2:16, 2:20 and 2:30 classes. For all events purses from $800 to $1,000 will be hung up. In eddition to these there will be two free for-alls offered, one each for pacers and trotters, the purses for these events to be $1,500 each, which is certainly grand circuit liberality and shows what can be done in the land of oranges and winter boarders.

Besides the harness events ten running stakes will be given, one of which is to be run each day of the meeting. The amount of these stakes and conditions will be announced later.

This meeting will be followed by twelve days of racing under the management of the Californie Jockey Club, at which many of the very best and highest class horses in the country will compete. Los Angeles will be a paradise for horsemen during October.

Good Horese Only in Demand.

To materially increase the numbers of really good horses in the country will require a long time, so it is certain thas prices are up to stay for a considerable period, says Spirit of the West. It is said that those who at once enter the breeding field have most excellent prospects of success, for if they raise only high-class stock they will find a ready sale for it for years to come. It is said the Chicago market never was better for years than this year. Heavy draft horses have sold as high as $300, and a few for better prices. Coachers and drivers, when selected, have brought more money this year than for several years past and demand was much stronger than supply. Nearly 20,000 horses have left this country since January, making a higher average per month for export trade than ever before. Improvement in the horse market is not the result of any passing or transitory circumstances. It is here to stay and we can depend upon it. Those breeders who decline to turn out any but the best and highest-class horses can take much encouragement from the indications of the market at present, for the call is for the good horses only, and it is in that class alone that the rise of prices and demand have taken place. Trotters, drivers and heavy draft horses are the ones that are in demand, and it is for them the market prices have gone up so high. There is no doubt whatever that we have already entered on a new and prosperous era for the horse interests of the country. The call from abroad for our horses is getting heavier al the time, and the scarcity in the home supply, taken together with the demand from across the water, insures a magnificent market for years to come. Prices will very likely go even a little higher than they are now, for it takes some time to grow horses, and while there is any shortage prices will, of course, advance. In order to maintain the hold we now have on export trade it will be necessary for breeders to exercise best of judgment, selecting stock horses. Best of horses cannot be produced from inferior stock. Inferior mares and inferior stallions should not under any consideration be countenanced for stock purposes. With care in selection of stock horses and care after foal comes our export trade can be nearly doubled.

This Year's Records.

As each week goes by it becomes more apparent that this season will surely pass into history as the greatest the harness turf has known. Already The Abbot has been a third heat within three-quarters of a second as fast as any trotter went last year. Star Pointer has been a mile in 2:01½, which is far the fastest ever made before the first of August. The four-year-old pacing record has been tied by Searchlight. Klatawah has given the record for three-year old pacers such a smashing that the old 2:09¼ looks rather an ordinary performance.

Following is a table of the best performances of the year up to date. As it is impossible to get official data, errors are almost sure to be found in work of this kind.

TROTTERS.

Fastest mile—The Abbot, b g, by Chimes—Nettie King, 2:20¼, by Mambrino King	2:08¾
Aged stallion—Tommy Britton, by Liberty Bell—Keepsake, by Pancoast	2:11

A Brother to Prince Wilkes, 2:14 3-4.

Although forgotten now, it was not many years ago when Prince Wilkes, 2:14¾, was the star actor of the trotting stage. He was a race horse of the first order, and so excellent was his reputation as such that he was sold for $30,000 to go to South America. His sire was Red Wilkes, dam Rose Chief, by Brown Chief. A few years since, when W. H. Moore, Cloverdell Stock Farm, began to buy the greatest speed-producing mares money could buy, he purchased Rose Chief. At the late closing out sale of Cloverdell, the old mare, now 26 years of age, poor, and an object of pity, was led into the ring. It was affirmed that she had been bred to Red Wilkes, but no one paid any attention to the announcement.

Moved by sympathy and a desire to give the dam of Prince Wilkes a good home and better care, Henry Frorer of Philadelphia purchased the mere for $20 and sent her to his farm in company with Nancy Lee, the aged dam of the famous Nancy Hanks, 2:04 Soon after the sale Nancy Lee died, but to the surprise of all, there now romps by the side of Rose Chief a strong and frisky brother to Prince Wilkes, the brilliant performer of two continents.

A Freak of Nature.

Dr. L. C. Kennon, the veterinarian, last week performed an operation on a mare belonging to Wm. Bourke, which he states is something entirely new in horse surgery, says the Petaluma Courier. For some time it has been noticed that the mare went lame behind, after being driven awhile. On Tuesday Dr. Kennon found a foreign substance in the fleshy part of the animal's left hip and in a jiffy had removed a flat bone six inches long and three and one-fourth inches wide and a perfect shoulder bone. The Doctor thinks it is the animal's shoulder bone, but how it traversed the entire length of the animal's body is a mystery. The shoulder appears to be perfect and does not cause the horse any trouble. The bone is on exhibition at Kamp's stable.

THE management of the Grand Rapids, Mich., Driving Club is entertaining the idea of setting apart one afternoon of the meeting at that point for the exhibition of the double and single rigs and saddle horses owned in the city. A suitable place will be put in condition on the clean cut lawn in front of the grand stand, a superintendent will be in charge to place them in position, and the parade will be called and the owners of the equipages announced from the judges' stand in the manner and after the style of like exhibitions in other cities.

"Gave Good Satisfaction."

LORENA, Tex., Sept. 10, 1897.

Enclosed please find money order for $1.50. Send me one bottle of Caustic Balsam. The bottle I bought some time ago gave good satisfaction. Please be prompt, as I need it at once. J. W. WHITSITT.

WATERLOO, N. Y.

Sulky Notes.

B. B. M., 2:16¼, lately changed owners for $1,215.

VICTORIA, B. C, will give a four-days' meeting this fall.

THE M. & M. horses scored fourteen times for their first heat.

AN offer of $3,500 has been refused for Royal Baron, 2:21¼.

SANTA ROSA program is published to-day. Entries close August 15th.

DIRECTUM KELLY 2:11¼, if he keeps his form, will be a very heavy winner.

PERCY 2:13, is evidently going to materializa into all that was hoped for him.

SUSIE S., 2:18, holder of the Oregon record for trotting mares, has been bred to McKinney, 2:11¼.

ANACONDA has paced a quarter in 28¾ seconds. He is booked for the two minute mark before another year.

MOST of the harness races at La Grand, Washington, have been changed from three to five to two in three races.

ANGLINA, bay mare by Anteeo, dam Anglia by Geo. Wilkes trotted to a record of 2:12¼ at Detroit July 18th.

RAYMOND M. has cut his record to 2:08¼. He is one of the bread-winning variety that only turn up "once in a coon's age."

ED. F. GEERS has expressed the opinion that Directum Kelly is one of the best things that has come out in recent years.

W. W. ESTILL of Elmwood Farm has placed his stallion Red Chuta, by Guy Wilkes, in the hands of Will Evans to train.

W. R. JANVIER, of Ticonderoga Stock Farm, has sold $5,000 worth of broodmares in foal to Potential, to go to Austria.

WHEN Minnetta paced to her record of 2:10¼ at Detroit two weeks ago she came the last half in 1:02 and the last quarter in 0:29¾.

THE horse and mule receipts at the Chicago stock yards' week ending July 16, were 1,369 head; total since January 1st, 78,344 head.

SEARCHLIGHT, 2:04¾, is certainly a candidate for a two-minute record. No other four-year-old has ever approached him as a race horse.

AN Eastern peper publishes a list of ten of the fastest trotters of the season, nine of which are slower than 2:11, and omits Toggles, 2:10¼.

GUS MACEY, who is training a stable of runners this year, announces that he is sick of the game and will be back in the harness fold in '99.

LIEUT. COL. G. C. SMITH, chief commissary, has paid out at St. Louis, since the war commenced, $1,250,000 for mules and $97,500 for horses.

A TWO-YEAR-OLD pacing filly by Allerio, out of Nelly Grey, by Ensign, and owned by James Gray, Ottumwa, Ia., has paced a half in 1:05.

PATTON, 2:19¼, John R. Gentry's first standard performer, can pace right close to 2 10, as he has been a good third in a heat that was won in 2:09¼.

THE Harlem Speedway is evidantly in high favor with New Yorkers. Over one thousand rigs are a common Sunday sight on this thoroughfare.

COMPETENT man seeks a position as trainer and driver. Can break and train for track or road. Not afraid of work. Best of references. Address "H," this office. *

THE well known Eastern driver, McHenry, drove Searchlight in his race at Cleveland, where he won and made a world's race record for four-year-olds of 2:04¾.

F. K. MERRITT has resigned his position as Superintendent of the Palo Alto Stock Farm, and was succeeded August 1st by P. Hopkins, Jr., formerly of Napa county.

ATHANASIA, dam of Countess Eve, 2:09¼, has foaled a bay colt, by Cecilian, 2:19¼, and been bred to J. C. Simpson, 2:18¼, brother to Anteao, 2:16½, and Antavolo, 2:19¼.

CARYLE CARNE won the free-for-all trot at Elkhart, Ind., Saturday in straight heats. In the second mile he cut his record to 2:11½. Kentucky Union won second money.

THERE will be at least 150 horses at Santa Rose track when the meating opens, and the majority of them will be entered in the races which begin August 20th.

FASTEST mile Gentry has made this year is 2:07¾; last quarter in 30 seconds. The mile was made in a workout at Hartford, Conn., during a week of races there recently.

SUNOL, who was for a time the trotting champion, is working well for Mr. Bonner, and has stepped some very fast quarters and halves over his track at Tarrytown recantly.

MR. C. L. CRELLIN, of Pleasanton, owner of Searchlight 2:04¾, has gone East on a short visit. The great pacer may change hands during Mr. Crellin's absence from California.

THE address of J. W. Gardner, formerly of Los Angeles is desired. The gentleman's signature is necessary for the registration of a horse bred by him. Please send to this office.

TOMMY BRITTON only beat Pasonte an eyelash in 2:10¾ at Cleveland, which shows that Palo Alto's daughter is very speedy this year. She will be a better mare later in the season.

C. J. HAMLIN now looks for a two minute trotter to come from Village Farm. It is a two to one proposition that when it does come its ancestry will trace to one or more Californians.

DIRECTLY started in the 2:08 pace won by Miss Logan at Davenport, Iowa, last Saturday. He was second the first heat in 2:07½, but fell back to fifth the next heat and was distanced in the third.

JOHN A. MCKEARON failed to get inside the money in the 2:24 trot at Davenport, Iowa, July 28th. The race was won by Warnheck King in straight heats, all three being trotted in the same notch, 2:19¼.

DR. LEEK is not doing very well in his races At Davenport, Iowa, he made a very poor showing in the 2:16 trot. Several of the California horses on the Western circuit are said to be entirely out of condition.

STATE FAIR entries close August 15th. Don't let this data slip your memory. Entry blanks at this office, and program and conditions can be found in our advertising columns. This will be a great meeting.

HUMMER has done a splendid business in the stud in Kentucky this year, and has been mated with some of the best mares in the State. A few years hence there should be a great lot of young Hummers on the turf.

AMBROSE YOUNG, aged seventy-two years, died at the home of his son, W. J. Young, in Lexington, Ky., July 21. He was for many years a leading trotting horse breeder and bred among others the great Mambrino King.

HARRISBURG, Pa., is to have a modern race track. A company with $50,000 capital is being organized, and Seth Griffin, of Readvilla, Mass, the noted builder of tracks, has been at Harrisburg to give estimates and plans.

SECRETARY GOCHER says that license number thirteen was the only one that was specially requested by drivers. At least a dozen wanted the unlucky number, probably on the ground that it would be unlucky for the other horses.

BY the performance of Split Silk, 2:09¾, at Detroit, her dam, Nannia Etticoat, by Bellwood, son of Belmont, joins the select list of double 2:10 producers. She is also the dam of Red Silk, 2:10, and grandam of India Silk, 2:10¾.

DOLLY MARSHUTZ is having bad luck in meeting such hot company in her races East. The last time she started was at Cleveland, where she was a good fourth in three heats trotted in 2:13 or better. She was timed separately one heat in 2:14¼.

DERBY PRINCESS made her first start in Europe in a race against Col Kuser, Que Allen and others on June 26th. She was beaten, but is expected to be one of the crack trotters on the otherside as soon as she becomes accustomed to the European tracks.

DIRECTUM KELLY, 2:11¼, and Beatrice, 2:13¼, the fastest of the produce of Direct, 2:05½, to get a low mark this year, have an Electioneer-Columbina cross. The first named is out of a mare by Anteeo, and the second from a mare by a son of that horse.

BELLE J., that won two heats in the M. and M. stake at Detroit, and was beaten in the race for first money by Directum Kelly, could trot a half mile track last year right close to 2:14. She is a very fine looking mare and would make an excellent road horse.

SEARCHLIGHT'S record this year is four straight races as follows: At Peoria, 2:07¼, 2:07, 2:12½; at Detroit, 2:07¾, 2:07¼ 2:06¾; at Cleveland, July 25th, 2:04¾, 2:09½, 2:09; at Cleveland, July 28th, 2:05¾, 2:05½, 2:06¾. It looks as though there is nothing in the 2:04 class that can touch him.

A WRITER in the American Stock Farm expresses the wish that Geers, on retiring from the sulky, would open a school for training and driving, and that no beginner could obtain a license unless a graduate of this school. We suggest the addition of our California trainer, Thos. Keating, to the faculty.

MR. A. T. HATCH, owner of Guide, 2:16¼, has returned from the Klondike rather disappointed. He says that it is an excellent place for a young man with plenty of patience and endurance to go to, but he was too old to spend any more time there. He believes that many more gold claims will be discovered there during the next few years.

AN electrical contrivance by which the distance flag is dropped by pressing a button in the judges' stand, was tried at Detroit and worked perfectly. It should be used on every track, as it relieves the distance judge of all duties except the one of noting those horses outside the flag when it is dropped.

WALLA WALLA has definitely settled upon the dates of October 3d to 8th for its fall meeting. This was done in order to have the races during the Washington Fruit Fair, though much they regret the clashing of dates with Boise. The speed program is under consideration and will be out in a short time.

HAVING come to his speed more rapidly than any one had anticipated, it looks reasonable to suppose that Star Pointer will be able to improve his own record for a mile. He is then to tackle the mark of 2:06 to high wheel sulky that has stood since Direct placed it there in 1891. After this the two mile record.

YENDIS, a stallion by Sidney out of Miss Gift, by Gen. Benton, is now owned by Dr. Hare, of North Yakima, Washington. This horse once sold for $17,000, a Chicago millionaire having paid that price for him to Dan McCarty, who bred him. Yendis will be started in the races there this fall. He could show a 2:20 gait as a two-year-old, but has never been trained since.

DIRECTUM KELLY, 2:11¼, is about as fine a looker as any one seeking a typical horse would wish to see. His head is handsome and like a thoroughbred, while his barrel is round and muscular and his limbs fine and sinewy, just about the right length and well set under him. He has finish and quality, style, action and conformation.

AS EVIDENCE of what a little care and attention will do, Guy Wilkes, 2:15¼, weighed out 730 pounds March 1, 1897. When purchased by the Two Minute Stock Farm, Cleveland, Ohio, orders were given to have his teeth attended to by a competent veterinary. He now weighs 1,150 pounds and is as full of life and energy as any horse of his age.

STAMBOULETTE started in the 2:16 trot at Cleveland July 25th. The race was won by Mattie Patterson in 2:10¼, 2:09¼ and 2:09¼ in straight heats. Stamboulette finished outside the money. He was favorite in the pools prior to the first heat. After the race Mattie Patterson was sold to H. M. Hanna, a brother of Senator Mark Hanna, for $7,000. Geo. Saunders will handle the mare hereafter.

AFTER Grace Hastings had gone her mile to wagon in 2:09¼ at Cleveland July 29th, Mr. Hamlin offered to bet $1,000 to $250 that he could hitch his horse The Abbott, to the same wagon and do a mile on the same track in 2:08. In the third heat of the race won by The Abbot that day, when he trotted in 2:08½, 2:09¼ and 2:09¼, he simply jogged under the wire. He was ten lengths in front of the second horse and was pulled up until he was jogging like a farm horse. If any gelding in America beats Azote's time this year it will be the other grandson of Electioneer.

EVERY horseman in California will regret to learn that Thos. Keating has been very ill at Cleveland, Ohio. He has been unable to drive his horses for some weeks, but McDowell, McHenry and other first-class reinsmen have steped in and piloted the different members of his great small string to victory. There is no greater artist in the sulky than Mr. Keating, and we hope he will arrange his affairs so that he can take a year off and recover his health. Such educators as Keating are scarce in any country and should be spared for many years that they may impart to others a portion of the superior knowledge they possess.

MATTIE PATERSON 2:09¼, purchased for H. M. Hanna on Monday after her great victory in the 2:16 trot, passed into the stable of George W. Saunders on Wednesday. She has so many rich engagements that she will be campaigned throughout the season and late in the fall will be seen in matinees. She has about $30,000 worth of engagements to fill in the fall. Mattie Patterson was sired by Vilandar, son of Black's Hambletonian, who was got by Rysdyk's Hambletonian, and her dam is by Blue Bock, son of Blue Bull. The deal for the mare was made through Charles Tanner, while Mr. Saunders was driving Percy in his race.—American Sportsman.

IT was reported at Detroit late on Saturday that two of the prominent performers of the week had changed owners. N. W. Hubinger priced Belle J. after she had won the first heat in the M. & M. last Wednesday, and Ed Schermerhorn, Galena, Kansas, who owns the mare, told Hubinger that he could have the mare, race and all, for $5,000. Mr. Hubinger respectfully declined, and after the second heat, which the mare also won, the price was raised. When defeat fell all over the mare's prospects, the deal was apparently a long way from being concluded; but it is now reported that the Connecticut turfman has purchased the mare for $3,000. While her pedigree and history are very obscure, her sire Ben Johnson, took a record of 2:27½ two years ago, and her great-grandsire, Mammont, was a full brother to Piedmont. Her dam's pedigree is hopelessly lost, if she ever had such an article.—Chicago Horseman.

MISS LOGAN is no quitter. At Davenport, Iowa, she won a four heat race last Saturday and paced three heats all in exactly the same mark, 2:08¼, after the gray mare Phenol had taken the first heat in 2:07½. The weather was fine, but it is written that the track was slow. Such being the case Miss Logan must be a good deal faster than even her Californian admirers have given her credit for. When her pedigree was published in these columns a few weeks ago, the comment was made that as she was by a son of Alex Button, and out of a mare by Firetail, a horse that had a reputation as a fast sprinter, she should be very fast, but would probably not be partial to races where the heats would be paced much below 2:10. But we will have to change that opinion after this race. Three successive heats in 2:08¼ are not made by soft hearted animals, and none but a game horse could win the race that Dr. Boocher's mare won at Davenport last Saturday.

THE FUTURITY.

Many Youngsters Likely to Start for the Rich Stake, but Few of Them High Class.

The eleventh renewal of the Futurity, which is set to be run for on the opening day of the Sheepshead Bay Fall meeting, Aug. 23d, looks at present to be an exceptionally open race, says Kelston, and of the 108 left in it is highly probable that in the neighborhood of thirty will face the starter, as with Jean Berand out many owners will come to the conclusion that their representatives are as much entitled to a chance as the two selling platers which finished first and second in the rich stakes last season.

The record of the race is as follows: In 1888 Proctor Knott won, beating a field of fifteen, including Salvator and other high class ones. In 1889 Chaos defeated a field of twenty-two. This is the largest number that ever started for the event.

In 1892 Morello won in very handy fashion, which showed what a grand colt he was, as on the day of the race he was a long way from being really at himself. There were seventeen starters in Morello's year.

In 1893 Domino won, defeating a field of nineteen, including the stout-hearted Dobbin, the pair afterward running a dead heat in a match over the Futurity course.

In 1895 the all blue was again victorious, the high-class Requital defeating a field of nineteen, and for the third time in five years Hyland's handiwork prevailed. These were certainly great days for the all blue, and it is doubtful if ever any stable in the country had such a strong following, which is the greatest compliment that can be bestowed on either owner or trainer.

In 1896 Ogden's win was perhaps the most noteworthy in the history of the race, as it was rather late in the season before he was dreamed of as a Futurity candidate. Indeed, the astute John Campbell, who was training him away out in Montana, did not know that Ogden was eligible until about six weeks before the race, but as soon as he did know he was so sanguine that he had a good colt that he shipped him at once to Saratoga, where he was freshened up and got his final preparation.

This was a well managed coup, and Campbell is deserving of a lot of credit for his handling of the colt, which went to the post in the pink of condition. The result last year was most unfortunate, with such a commoner as L'Alouette having his name placed on the roll of honor.

Jockey Billy Madden Killed.

A dispatch from Butte, Montana, dated July 31st, says that Jockey Billy Madden, well known here in San Francisco, died that day from the effects of injuries received when thrown from Lord Chesterfield in a hurdle race on the previous day. There were seven starters in the race, and when the first hurdle was reached Sinner, ridden by Delconte, cut across the track in front of Lord Chesterfield and there was a collision between The Sinner, Dr. Marsden and Chesterfield. The last named fell and rolled on Madden, and it is thought some one of the horses that passed afterwards struck him as his skull was fractured. Madden got up without assistance and was taken to the jockey's room, where he dressed himself, and was then removed to his own room in the city, but later to the hospital. He did not appear to have been much hurt, and he himself talked as though he considered the injury unimportant; but as soon as the hospital doctors had made an examination they gave it as their opinion that the injury would result fatally. Madden was ruled off here a few years ago in connection with a race in which he rode the horse Arctic. He was reinstated recently and had ridden but a few times before the accident occurred.

Briar Sweet's Pedigree.

The Santiago Handicap, run at Brighton Beach on Thursday, July 21st, was won by Briar Sweet, a California-bred filly, who ran the distance, a mile and an eighth, in 1:53, thus lowering the track record for the distance half a second. In commencing on the winner, W. A. Rowe writes as follows:

Brier Sweet is a daughter of imp. Sir Modred and Sweetbrier, a combination which had heretofore produced the winners Dr. Hasbrouck and Dr. Helmuth. The former will be remembered as very speedy up to a mile, and had not his party blundered in preparing him for the Suburban of 1893 it is hard to tell how long "the Doctor" would have kept on domineting the spring events. Sir Modred is by Treducer, he by The Libel, son of Pantaloon and Pasquinade, this latter mare being full sister to Touchstone. Sir Modred's dam was by Cambuscan, son of Newminster, he by Touchstone, while Sir Modred's grandam was by Voltigeur, he by Voltaire, son of Blacklock. Sweet Briar is by Virgil, he by Vandal and Vandel was by Glencoe, out of a mare by Tranby, son of Blacklock. Sweetbrier's dam was Impudence, a daughter of Lexington and Megnette.

Sir Modred also did very well with another mare of this immediate family, for Plaything, another granddaughter of Magnetta, produced Tournament. Magnetta's dam was the celebrated Minerva Anderson, by imp. Luzborough. Our sale catalogues make this a very short pedigree, and I have not been surprised to very recently hear some uninformed persons give vent to their resultant indifference for pedigrees which run back to Volume I of the English Stud Book.

As a matter of fact, however, the family of Tournament, Duke of Magenta, Dr. Hasbrouck, Sweethriar, etc., is almost certainly family 6, tracing to Old Bald Peg. The introduction of Volume VI of the American Stud Book states Mr. Bruce's belief, after much careful tracing, that Minerva Anderson was out of the Sir Charles mare which was brought from Virginia by Messrs. Cheatham & Kendall along with imp Luzborough. This Sir Charles mare traces through Xantippe to imp. Silver, concerning which there seems every reason to confidently trust her descent from old Bald Peg. This is the line from which came imp. Diomed, the winner of the first English Derby, and its early history was one of great prominence. Indeed it produced no less than nine Derby-winners, in the first fifty-five years of that event's history.

A Walkover for Hamburg.

The Brighton Cup was virtually a walkover for Hamburg last Saturday, and he secured the $5,400 prize with scarcely an effort, while his stable companion took second money $1,250. There were but three starters, Hamburg, Ogden and the hack number Howard Mann.

There was no doubt as to which of the Daly pair was to make the pace, for Hamburg began to go to the front at the fall of the flag and as they passed the stand for the first time he was ten lengths to the good. In the backstretch he widened the gap half as much again, while Howard Mann was a length in front of Ogden, the latter under a pull.

Passing the stand for the second time Hamburg was but a little short of a sixteenth of a mile in front of the others, who where then on even terms and beginning to race, Hamburg made the gap a good sixteenth, while Howard Mann was through. Ogden being a couple of lengths in front of him.

At the end Hemburg was half a dozen lengths better than a sixteenth of a mile in front of his stable-mate, Ogden. It was not a race, simply an exhibition gallop by the best race horse of them all.

Here is an idea that some enterprising fruit seller might work with success at Sacramento this year on those warm days which are usually prevalent during the State Fair: On the fruit stand at the Harlem race track, Chicago, there is a large tin pan filled with water and ice in which floats tomatoes, which are sold for five cents each. Men with parched throats eagerly accept the chance of "cooling out" by eating these frozen tomatoes, and the vender's reserve stock of the "love apples" is far greater in quantity than that of any other kind of fruit.

Saddle Notes.

Highland Ball won his fourth consecutive race at Butte July 28th.

Dutch the "cart horse" has won twelve races out of sixteen starts at Butte.

H. H. Hunn will leave shortly for Venezuela with his horses. He expects to sell them all there.

Every race on the program at St. Louis last Friday was a selling affair and there were six of them.

Evelyn Byrd, twice a winner at St. Louis within a week, is by Rowland (bred at Palo Alto) from Evalyn.

Jim Bozeman could not win on British soil though he was selected for a winner in most every start at Victoria.

Governor Smith and Chief Justice Pemberton, of Montana, are enthusiastic patrons of the Butte races.

Wm. O'B. is the most consistent "place" horse at the Butte races. He has started eight times and run second seven times.

The three-year-old colt Momentum, by Sir Modred—Tyranny, the property of Mr. B. F. Clyde, recently died at Saratoga.

Gold Bug won every race in which he started over in British Columbia from five-eighths of a mile to one and one-quarter miles.

Lady Hurst won her fifth race at Butte Thursday of last week and was bid up $300 over her selling price, but was retained by the owner.

There is no chance of a race between Hamburg and Ornament at Saratoga, as it has been definitely decided not to send Hamburg to Saratoga at all.

The Goldfinch-Carrissima filly sold at the recent Rancho del Paso sale in New York, was purchased for Mr. T. Simpson-Jay, of England, and has been shipped across the ocean.

Passaic, a two-year-old by imp. Sir Modred—Irian, sold at auction a couple of weeks ago at Brighton Beach track for $275, won the first time he started in the colors of his new owner.

Howitzer, a recent winner at St. Louis, is a full brother of George Palmar (formerly of A. B. Spreckels' stable) to The Sculptor and to a two-year-old that won around Chicago this season.

The stable of A. H. & D. H. Morris will not be at Saratoga, as expected. All their horses, including The Friar, have been turned out at the farm in Maryland.—Morning Telegraph.

The largest field of the Butte meeting was started in a four furlong race for maidens, July 26th. There were eleven non winners to sport silk and the race was won by San Augustine.

Mr. Keene's third invasion of the English turf has thus far proved anything but successful. In fact, none of the American stables have been meeting with much more than ordinary success.

It is stated that the managers of the Epsom, England, meeting contemplate making the Derby of 1900, the entries for which closed on Tuesday, the 19th, worth £10,000 net to the winner.

Secretary Chilton, of the Saratoga Association, is reported to have arranged a match between Hamburg and Ornament, to be run over the Saratoga track, August 10th, but the terms of the match have not as yet been published.

The running meeting which was scheduled to take place at Omaha, Neb., from August 18th to September 7th, has been declared off, as the management did not consider the patronage of the Exposition sufficient to warrant the undertaking.

The turf writers in the East are unanimously of the opinion that Traverser needs a let up. Some mornings he can not run five-eighths better than 1:06. He is a remarkable horse. With all the drumming he has had he runs the best he knows how and never sulks.

Morocco, the full brother to Morello, which P. Lorillard bought as a yearling, died recently from inflammation of the bowels at Cheney, Pa., the property of R. W. Neilson. Much was expected of this horse in the stud, therefore his loss is quite heavy to his owner.

The ban of the Turf Congress placed upon E. T. McConnell in 1896 was removed last week by a decision of Messrs. Rees and Price, the Oakley judges, who held that McConnell had suffered enough for his connection with a bad race by the mare Linnette in that year.

After the races at Harlem, July 27th, Col. M. Lewis Clark said: "Vandusen is suspended indefinitely and the entire outfit connected with Dave Waldo is ordered off the grounds. Taher is also ordered to pack up his traps and leave for his ride on Cherry Leaf.

While boarding the train for Harlem last Friday Starter Dwyer was arrested on a complaint charging him with being implicated in racing at Washington Park. Dwyer got bail and got to the track in time to start the second race. Arthur McKnight his assistant, started the first race.

Steeplechase and hurdle racing has experienced a veritable boom in the East this season. There are more horses in training for cross country sport, there are more good steeplechase jockeys and there has been less of suspicion attached to the events decided than ever before.

Another horse to fool the wise ones who said he was nothing but a quarter horse is Algol, son of Top Gallant and Equality. His win of the Wheeler Handicap in 2:04¼ lowered the record for the event, and he was going easy, with Pink Coat and Goodrich making a hard fight for place behind him.

Geo Rose was among the bookmakers arrested at Harlem track, Chicago, recently for the purpose of making a test case in the courts. The racing has not been interfered with in any way, but the bookmakers are to be all placed under arrest until the courts can decide as to whether or not betting is to be permitted.

It is rumored that John Hyland will handle the Whitney—Paget stable next season with Hogan, who now trains, to look after the jumpers exclusively. Of course, Hyland will continue to train Mr. Belmont's horses for the remainder of the season, and it may be that the engagement will be renewed.—New York Journal.

In Matt Storm's training stable at Ingleside, is a yearling full brother to Morinel, that the genial horseman thinks is a little the best piece of young horseflesh he has looked upon for some time. The youngster is owned by J. O. Reis, and is entered in the Great Futurity. He promises to be a large colt, larger than either Morinel or Morellito.

Richard Croker arrived in New York last week from England. In regard to withdrawing his horses from the English turf, Mr. Croker said: "The yarn that I have decided to abandon horse racing in England has no foundation in fact. At one time I did think I would ship my stock back to the United States, but I changed my mind."

James R Keene's St. Cloud was a starter in the Goodwood cup of 800 sovereigns at two miles and a half, run for at the Goodwin meeting, July 28th. He finished third. The race was won by Lord Penrhyn's 3-year-old colt King's Messenger, by King Monmouth out of Swift Sore. Mr. Leopold de Rothschild's 3 year-old filly Pie Powdar was second. Five horses ran.

Handreel, a very promising filly by Hanover—Golden Reel, the property of E. Kennedy, broke her leg while exercising at Sheepshead Bay last week and had to be destroyed. There was a bad place on the back stretch that she got caught in, with the above dire results. The loss to Mr. Kennedy is quite heavy, as she was just keyed up to a race, and she promised very well.

It is reported in Los Angeles that Edward Ryan, former lessee of the track there and owner of the stallion, Nomad, has refused an Eastern offer of $1,200 for the horse, based presumably upon the performances of his daughter, Toluca, bred by Chas. Kerr, of Bakersfield. Mr. Ryan says it will take $2,500 to buy Nomad and unless he is offered that sum he will keep the horse himself.

It is said Tod Sloan has been offered a retainer of $25,000 for next season for the first call on his services by Mr. Simons, a South African millionaire, now going in largely for racing. Lord William Beresford denies he tendered for Sloan's services, as under the arrangements made by him on dissolving partnership with Pierre Lorillard, his horses will ha ridden by jockeys attached to March's stable, where he will train next season.

The crack Australian three-year-old, Aurum, which Mr. Jersey (Mrs. Langtry) recently purchased from W. R. Wilson, has reached Newmarket, England, where the son of Trenton will be trained by Fred Webb. The colt arrived in the Damascus, which also conveyed two other Australian colts, Coronation and Borgia, both the property of Mr. W. Webb. Coronation is said to have been the best two-year-old that had raced in Queensland.

A large tract of land has been purchased two miles south of Hot Springs, Ark., by a company of wealthy St. Louis and Chicago turfmen, and they will begin at an early date the construction of a first-class mile race track, with elaborate winter stabling facilities and accommodations. A novel feature will be a hot water bathing pool for the horses. It is the purpose of the management to have the track completed in time for a winter meeting.

Every few weeks a story crops up about Jockey Tod Sloan copying some inferior jockey's seat on a horse. First it is Chevalier's peculiar way of riding that Sloan "caught on" to before he could win frequently, then it was Chevalier's manner of sitting up on the withers. The truth is, Sloan, like every other good jockey, has a way of his own and gets into the position on the horse where he feels he can do the best work. No great artist ever "copied" anybody.

Jockey Ed. Ellis, who has been on the ground for a year, has been reinstated through the efforts of Edward Corrigan for whom he will ride. Ellis was never accused of any crooked work, but began his career on the eastern outlaw tracks, and rode at Harlem last year where his work was highly commended. How the ban against him was removed is not stated, but the Turf Congress once decided they could not reinstate him unless the Jockey Club should first do so.

The entries for the Twin City Handicap for three-year-olds and upwards, to be run over the Coney Island Jockey Club's course a Monday, Sept. 5th, are: The Friar, Tillo, Ben Holladay, Handball, The Roman, Royal Stag, Whitefrost, Sir Walter, Sir Vassar, Judge Denny, Pink Coat, Hamburg, Simon W., Banquockburn, Mirthful, Semper Ego, Sly Fox, Bandoran, Whistling Con, Bnela, The Huguenot, Ornament, Ogden, Handspring, Linstock, On Deck, Senator Bland, George Boyd, Plandit, Candleblack, Dr. Catlett. The Autumn Cup, two miles, to be run Saturday, Sept. 10, has the following: Linstock, Semper Ego, Sly Fox, Ornament, Challenger, Scotch Plaid, Sir Nassar, Havoc, Pink Coat, Dutch Skater, On Deck, Ben Holladay, George Boyd, The Friar, Whistling Con, Judge Denny, Tragedian, Rappahannock, The Roman, Hamburg, Senator Bland, Goodrich, Mirthful, Plaudit, Tillo, The Huguenot.

The success of the Bromley stable this year is very gratifying to the firm and should be to all true lovers of the turf. Last year nearly everything in their large stable went wrong or had had luck of some kind. Although they had high class horses they did not seem to be able to win any kind of a race. This season almost every member of their big string that has started has won or captured some part of the money. Great credit is due Trainer Julius Baner for his careful handling of the stable.

The Cicero Town Board, at a special meeting July 24th, decided that there shall be no more racing at Hawthorne Park. Instructions were given to the Chief of Police at Cicero to see that no racing is conducted at the track, and the application for a license, which the Hawthorne Racing Association submitted to the Board, was rejected and returned to Edward Corrigan. This effectually puts an end to Corrigan's hopes of a race meeting, unless he takes the matter to the Courts and is successful there.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

"Amongst the Barrels"—This is the catchy name of the new resort which B. F. Armstrong and James Hood have fitted up at 863 Market street, in a novel and eminently convenient way. Absolute purity of all liquors sold is the guarantee and the comfort and satisfaction of visitors the constant care of the proprietors. Mr. Armstrong is the Pacific Coast agent of Wright & Taylor, Distillers, of Louisville, Ky., and is said to be one of the best judges of whisky in the country. Visit them out of curiosity and you will do so afterward from desire. *

Probably the best bunch of yearlings, breeding and individuality considered, gathered in Kentucky this year, were shipped from Castleton Farm, on Thursday last, to New York. They will be broken and placed in training by their owners and breeders, Messrs. James R. & Foxhall Keene. They comprise all but one of the first crop of Domino. Domino only had six foals from his first year in the stud. Five of these were shipped Thursday. The sixth will go on later, but was not ready to go with this shipment on account of a slight injury received in his paddock.—Thor. Record.

At St. Louis one day last week, Judge Murphy set Jockey Kelly down for thirty days for a weak ride on Wiggin. There was an almost unanimous opinion among the people present, bookmakers and all, that the ruling was unjust and a number of the bookies threatened to withdraw. Cæsar Young went to Murphy and emphatically stated that unless Kelly's suspension was withdrawn he would start for Saratoga that day. Judge Murphy hastily reconsidered and Kelly rode the winner in the next race, finishing amid great applause. The powers of the bookies are great and they know how to apply them.

Jockey Jo Piggot was loudly cheered when he won the stake at Butte last week with Miss Rowena, and came back under the wire to get the silken bag containing the money. The bag is made of white and purple satin, on one side of which is a Cuban shield, hand painted, and the other side is decorated with the United States and Cuban flags. It is a very pretty piece of art work and will be sent to Miss Rowena Burns, of San Francisco, after whom the winner of the stakes was named. W. D. Randall bought Miss Rowena at the Burns & Waterhouse sale last winter. He got her at a bargain. In Montana they haven't got a sprinter capable of catching her, and consequently she has won herself out several times.

Some dreadful demon of ill fate seems to pursue Jockey "Sam" Doggett when he rides an odds on favorite. This is no mere fancy. It is a fact. It has been noted so closely that for two or three years past half a dozen or more of the big plungers always stay off when Doggett is up on a hot favorite. Doggett is a good jockey, they say, but it's no use, he cannot possibly win on a short favorite. It seems to be no fault of Doggett's, and that makes the mystery all the deeper and all the more impenetrable. Why is it this jockey always comes to grief on 1 to 2 shots? It has been so long since Doggett guided a favorite to victory that the circumstances of such event, if it ever did happen, have been forgotten.—S. N. Weems in N. Y. Telegraph.

Chris Smith, so well remembered as the owner of Yo Tambien and Maid Marian, has of late been in hard luck. Asked if he should ever again get into the racehorse business, he said: "I think not. A man may be fortunate as was I in picking up good horses and still not be able with them to make any money. Did you ever hear of my having a horse pulled? No! And I pride myself on the fact that bookmakers never asked: "Is Chris out for money?" Well, because I always ran to win is the reason I got broke. What chance has a man got? He cannot train and ride his horses as does John McCafferty, the only owner on earth that knows exactly what he is getting, and I tell you than every horse owner has again and again been thrown down by some third of a jockey. Not that one can blame the young boys for pulling a horse for they know no better, and a hundred dollar bill or one of five times that size, looks to them as big as a mountain. Now it isn't always a bookmaker that corrupts a jockey or a trainer. Some man may have a sure thing on a big stake race if he can get the contender out of the way. So he goes to the owner of such horse and proposes that he 'scratch" for a certain amount. The other is a square sportsman and replies: "I will not do that kind of business; you just go on and win if you can.' Then either his trainer or jockey is approached and may be corrupted. I got it once for the Queen Isabella stakes at Washington Park World's Fair year and I never could tell who did the work. I only know that Ray pulled Maid Marian for a stake worth $18,000 to the winner. My filly could have run that day in 1:40 and a (she covered one mile and twenty yards two days latter on in 1:40, and that is the world's record, but she got third place in 1:42¾, the distance being a mile). Helen Nichols won the race and Darevela was second. John McCafferty owned and rode the winner and I was told long afterward that he borrowed $2,000 to bet on his filly and told the party that loaned the money that it was a sure thing. Now, I don't say that he had anything to do with the job, for McCafferty would always bet his money high and everybody knew at the time what he thought of Helen Nichols—that she was the greatest of 3-year-old fillies—but certainly somebody "had" Mr. Ray. Maid Marian, opening at 4 to 5 advanced to 8 to 5, while Helen Nichols opened at 8 to 5 and started at 7 to 10.—Chicago Racing Form.

THE BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN is now located in its new quarters at 22½ Geary street. Its patrons and friends are invited to call and inspect the new offices, which is fitted up with everything that is interesting to horse-breeders and owners, and lovers of all legitimate sports. We have all the record books pertaining to running and light harness horses, also stud books, etc., pertaining to kennel affairs. Our subscribers are especially invited to send to the office or come in person when they wish to trace the pedigree of a horse or a dog, and are welcome to consult the many valuable books of record kept on file. Our country readers are invited to make the "BREEDER'S" office their headquarters when in the city. They will always find the latest turf and sporting papers on file for their perusal. Our new location is most central, being but a few steps from the junction of Market, Kearney and Geary streets, and an elevator removes that bugaboo of climbing long flights of stairs. Come and see us and you will be welcome.

SANTA ROSA is the word in every horseman's mouth now and before the week is out the queen city of Central California will be alive with horsemen and fast horses. The citizens of that beautiful and prosperous city have subscribed generously to the race meeting to be held under the auspices of the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders Association, the horse owners throughout the State are enthusiastic over the prospects of a meeting there, an excellent program of races has been prepared, and the entries which close August 15th, will be not only too numerous, but high-class. With the Santa Rosa track in good order (a condition which is certain of fulfillment) there is every prospect that several California records will be broken. Nearly all the horses that were entered at the recent meeting at Oakland will be ready to compete, and besides there will be many others from different parts of the State. As will be seen by reference to our advertising columns, there are races provided for nearly every class of horses now in training in California. There are none of the gruelling three in five races on the program, but all events are two best heats in three. It is proposed to get the very best talent in the judges' stand that can be secured, and there will be an honest and an earnest effort on the part of the management to make the meeting high-class in every respect, that it may not only reflect credit on California horses and horsemen, but upon the people of this State who take interest in arranging and attending harness meetings. No better outing could be suggested for a business man than a week's sojourn in the City of Roses while the meeting is being held there. Santa Rosa is famed for its prosperous and substantial growth, the beauty of its location and its residences and for the true hospitality of its citizens. They have signified in a very substantial manner that they desire the meeting held there and it is the duty of every horse owner who possibly can to not only attend the meeting but to make as many entries as possible in the races, thus testifying to his appreciation of the efforts of Santa Rosa people in making this meeting possible. Let us make the 20th of August one of the old-time gatherings of California horse owners and breeders, every one determined to do all in his power to make the racing that ensues high-class sport that will excite the admiration and favorable comment of all who witness it.

MORRIS PARK STAKES.—The Westchester Racing Association, of which H. G. Crickmore is Clerk of the Course, with offices at 173 Fifth Avenue, New York, will begin its autumn meeting Saturday, October 1st, running every Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday thereafter until October 22d. A large number of very liberal stakes have been provided for this meeting, a full list of which appears in our advertising columns to-day. In addition to those to be run, stakes are also advertised for the spring and autumn meetings of 1899, 1900 and 1901. For this year in the two-year old division are the Nursery, $5,000, the Eclipse course; the Champagne, $1,500 added, seven furlongs; the White Plains Handicap, $4,000, the Eclipse course; the Hurricane, $1,000 added, five furlongs; the Rancho del Paso, $1,000 added, the Eclipse course; the Silver Brook, $1,000 added, five and a half furlongs, and the Castleton (fillies), $1,000 added, five furlongs. For three-year-olds are the Jerome Handicap, $1,500 added, mile and a quarter; the Hunter Handicap, (fillies), $1,200 added, mile and a furlong; the Belle Meade, $1,000 added, seven furlongs; the Fairview, $1,000 added, mile and a sixteenth; the McGrathiana (fillies), $1,000 added, the Withers mile, and the Ramapo Handicap, $1,000 added, the Withers mile. For three-year-olds and upwards are the Municipal Handicap, $3,500, mile and three-quarters, and the Morris Park Handicap, $2,000 added, two miles and a quarter. For two-year-olds and upwards the Manhattan Handicap, $1,500 added, the Eclipse course. The sum of $4,000 is given in the Autumn Highweight Serial Handicaps as follows: The Bronx, $1,000, six furlongs; the Westchester, $1,200, six and a half furlongs, and the Fordham, $1,800, seven furlongs. For hurdle races and steeplechases a number of very liberal added money stakes are provided. At the Spring meeting, 1899, are the Juvenile, for foals of 1897, five furlongs, $2,000 added; the Fashion, for two year-old fillies, four and a half furlongs, $1,500 added; the Eclipse, for foals of 1897, five and a half furlongs, $4,000 added. At the 1899 Autumn meeting, the Nursery Handicap for two-year-olds, over the Eclipse course, $2,500 added. The principal events for 1900 and 1901, are the 34th and 35th Belmont, to each of which $5,000 is added. This is for three-year-olds and the distance is a mile and three furlongs over the hill. All the conditions of these stakes are fully set forth in our advertising columns. The entries close August 16th, which is one week from Tuesday next. Entry blanks can be had at this office.

COLUMBUS, OHIO, was visited by a very heavy rainstorm for two or three days during the early part of the week, so that the grand circuit races could not be held. Racing was resumed Thursday, however, over a muddy and heavy track. Directum Kelly won the 2:24 trot, after losing the second race through a break. His best time was 2:13¼ which was considered as good as 2:10 on a good track. Split Silk won the pace, 2:13¼ being the fastest heat in the race. In looking over the summary of this day's racing, we could not help coming to the conclusion that our friend Sam Gamble comes pretty near being a prophet. Some months ago he told us, as our readers will remember, to watch out for the pacing horse Indiana 2:11¼, by King of Bellair, as when the betting was just right he would be very likely to win in his class. He based this on a race or two he saw the horse in last year, while in the East. Indiana started last Thursday at Columbus, Ohio, in the 2:11 class in which were eleven others. Charlie B. was such a big favorite that he brought $250 to $100 for all the others. In the mutuals Indiana tickets were not worth much but were all slyly gobbled up by those "in the know." Indiana won in straight heats and cut his record to 2:10¼, although the track was muddy and very slow.

STATE FAIR ENTRIES will close August 15th for trotting and pacing events and also for the running stakes advertised in this paper. No better opportunity for earning money will be offered the harness horsemen of California this year than the State Fair program affords. The dash races provided are not so severe on a horse as is the old system, and as the purses offered are $300, as much money can be won during the meeting, as a horse can be started so much oftener. The dashes worked well at Oakland and should be still more successful at Sacramento. The horse owners owe it to the State Fair Association as well as to themselves to make just as many entries as possible for this meeting. The attendance promises to be very large this year, as it will be the only fair held in the State.

DR. STIMSON, the well known veterinary surgeon of Oakland, has found it necessary to open an office in this city at 510 Van Ness Avenue, where his office hours will be from 11 A. M. to 2 P. M. each day. Dr. Stimson's residence will remain at Oakland, however, the city office being necessary to meet the many demands on this side the bay. The Doctor has for the past twelve years made a special study of the ailments of race horses both runners and trotters caused by the many conditions which surround horses at no other place but a race track. He has been successful in his treatment of these cases and has built up a large practice. His telephone numbers and office hours both here and in Oakland appear in his card in this paper.

LOS ANGELES has come to the front with a ten-days' program for the races to be held there in October. The purses for harness horses will be from $800 to $1,500, and there will be ten stakes for runners. We shall receive the official program in time for publication next week. Horsemen can rest assured that the conditions will be liberal, as the Sixth Agricultural District is one of the most progressive in the State and the Los Angelenos among the best patrons of race meeting. Look out for the official announcement and get ready to make the southern trip.

The Get of James Madison

When the fact is taken into consideration that but six of the get of James Madison have been trained, and five of these have obtained fast records, it will be admitted by the most captious critic that he is not only a successful, but a wonderful sire.

One of his daughters, owned in the East, was recently sold for export to Europe on the condition that she showed better than 2:15. As the sale was made a few minutes after the trial, the conclusion naturally follows that she did what was asked of her. James Madison is owned by Mr. R. de B. Lopez of Merriwa Stock Farm (late Valensin), and there are now at that place two of Madison's get that are as promising as any ever foaled. They are both two-year-old fillies, were broken when yearlings, but never worked for speed.

These fillies showed fast, however, and as they are of good size and handsome with excellent conformation, there is no reason why they should not be as speedy as any of their sisters and brothers. Ellen Madison, by James Madison is the fastest three year-old filly out this year, and a game race horse at that.

MR. JOHN MONTSERRAT, of Maui, Hawaiian Islands, is in this city, having come up on the last steamer from the Islands on a short business and pleasure trip. He says that the live stock on the Islands is being greatly improved by the introduction of pure-bred animals. Some very fine Aberdeen Angus, Devon and Holstein cattle are now on the plantations and breeding farms there. Some of the choicest from Mr. Frank Burke's celebrated Holstein herd were sent down from here last year. Among the thoroughbreds is The Mallard, a son of Fellowcharm, that ran here a few years ago. Mr. Montserrat says he has developed into one of the grandest lookers he ever saw, and that he weighs over 1,200 pounds. He has sired some very fine looking colts since going to the Islands, although the mares he has been mated with are mostly of ordinary Island stock. The pacing mare, Irish Lassie, 2:16, owned by McCandless Bros., of Honolulu, he considers able to defeat most horses of the 2:12 class in California.

Two car loads of trotters and pacers now at the Sacramento track will leave for Santa Rosa next week to take part in the races there.

ARION'S son Nico won a fast and game race at Dover, Mass., last week putting in the three heats in 2:12¼, 2:14¼ and 2:12¾.

ENTRIES close August 15th for the Santa Rosa and State Fair races.

Coming Events.

August 6-7.—San Francisco Fly-Casting Club. Twelfth series of Saturday and Sunday contests. Stow Lake, Golden Gate Park.

Fly-Casters at Stow Lake.

The members of the San Francisco Fly-Casting present at the regular contest last Saturday had the satisfaction of again observing the smashing of the record in the long distance event. Champion W. D. Mansfield who has on several previous occasions whipped his line beyond the record mark let out a few more kinks this time and placed the red fly at the 1:30½ foot mark, this in spite of the fact that the wind and weather, which was if anything very unfavorable; on a re-entry cast he put out his line 122 feet. Harry Golcher was a close second, with two scores of 118 and 115 ft. each. Mansfield was high man in the distance and accuracy event with 93 per cent. Dr. Lowry came second with 92 4 12 per cent. Dr. Lowry had the other scores in the accuracy and delicacy contest Mansfield being second on the list.

On Sunday a strong wind and cold fog made the work of the casters somewhat difficult. Mansfield and Golcher were again one two in the long distance event.

The scores in detail are as follows:

Chicago Fly Casters.

The regular medal competitions of the Chicago Fly-Casting Club were held in Garfield Park on Saturday, July 23d. The scores recorded in nearly all of the events show excellent work on the part of the contestants and also that the conditions must have been favorable for the sport.

In the long distance event, each of the five competitors sent out the line over 100 feet. In the accuracy and delicacy event, five of the six contestants scored higher than 92 per cent. In the bait casting event there were ten entries, Secretary-Treasurer Murrell making the remarkable score of 97 2 5 per cent., while three of the other contestants scored higher than 95 per cent. The bait-casting event scores was a remarkable showing of proficiency in this style of casting. The scores in detail were as follows:

Names.	Long Distance Feet.	Distance & Accuracy Per Cent.	Accuracy & Delicacy Per Cent.	Bait Casting Per Cent.
J. D. Belasco	——	——	——	85
I. H. Bellows	114	88 1-3	94	86
L. I. Blackman	——	75 1-3	——	85 2-5
B. W. Goodsell	109	94 2-3	94 2-3	95 1-5

G. A. Murrell	——	68	88 1-2	97 2-5

The holders of medals were: for long distance, I. H. Bellows; distance and accuracy, B. W. Goodsell; accuracy and delicacy, B. W. Goodsall; bait casting, Geo. A. Murrall.

A. S. Brownell, C. P. Waterhouse, S. Morton and Geo. McLoud returned Sunday from Waterhouse's place on the McCloud river above Bigelow's after enjoying a most interesting and pleasant fishing trip for a week or ten days. The fishing was first-class all the time; on Saturday last, in two hours and a half's fishing forty pounds of fish were landed, one of them a four-pounder.

It is credibly reported that a number of small striped bass were recently taken on small red flies at the mouth of Buteno creek where it empties into Pescadero lagoon. In a depth of three or four feet and when the wind is blowing, causing riffles on the water, the striped bass will take a gnady fly, so it is claimed by anglers who have caught them at this place.

Johnny Butler whipped the Pescadero creek and lagoon last Saturday; he says that there is plenty of fish there, but they are all fingerlings.

The silver spoons used and made by Charlie Breitenstein are a most successful lure for black bass fishing.

Laid to Rest.

Among a wide circle of friends and business associates, the announcement of the passing away on Sunday last, of "Dick" Ballinger (as he was familiarly known), was received with a sincere regret and keen sorrow as the mournful token of the call was passed from friend to friend and throughout the business circles that had been his field of daily attention for many years past.

The deceased was universally loved and respected for the many sterling qualities he was endowed with; a high sense of honor and integrity created an admiration and respect that was enhanced in the extreme when under the influence of social fellowship in the town, or the many opportunities offered to show the make-up of the genial sportsman afield or by the stream. An inexhaustable fund of humor and a ready appreciation of a joke were happy characteristics that endeared him to those who knew him best.

He was a well known member of the Olympic Club for twenty years past and for about the same period had been not only a prominent member of the Capazoni Club, but tended by his presence and many witty resources to make the outings of the club days of pleasure as well as of recreation. He was one of the organizers of the latter club, being associated at the time with Phil B. Bekeart, Thos. J. Craig, Geo. McCord, Ed. Burrell and Jas. G. Hulse. Among those who became members later, we note Dr E. N. Short, Jack Leighton, Chas. Bosworth, Wm. S. Short, Mel Vaughan, Wm. Arnold, Wm. McCord, Thos. Judd, Wm. Roeder and other well-known sportsman and fishermen.

He was a native of San Francisco, 42 years of age, a surviving brother of the well-known journalist, Frank Ballinger, at one time city editor of the Call. At the time of his decease he had occupied the responsible position of Manager of The Grangers' Business Association for many years and was well known and esteemed among his business confreres of the Produce Exchange.

The services held at St. Joseph's church on Tuesday were attended by many friends who gathered to pay a last tribute of respect to a friend gone beyond. His casket was born to Calvary cemetary by six of his fellow-members of the Capa-Capazoin Club—Thos. Craig, Mel. Vaughan, W. H. Arnold, William McCord, W. H. Short and Phil B Bekeart.

The floral offerings were numerous. The Olympic Club sent a beautiful basket of pink roses. A large floral chair was the offering of William Roeder and John Calay. The remembrance of the Capazoni Club was evidenced by several baskets of cut flowers. Other friends sent lesser offerings, and during the services the casket lay enshrined in a perfect bower of floral beauty.

We have not heard of many catches of striped bass in the bay of late, the fish are there, however, and excite the desire and efforts of the angler just as much as ever. New York and Brooklyn anglers are having good sport with the summer run of this succulant and game fish. Eastern anglers use sand worms for bait, preferably large ones ten inches in length. The method of baiting a hook is as follows: When you put your worm on the hook do not hang him there by the middle so that he can curl up on himself, most game fish take their food head first and that is the way a striped bass will take a sand worm; therefore put your hook in the under part of the worm's head (or jaw). When you place the baited hook in the water the whole length of the worm will swim out naturally from the point of the hook. When the fish sees the wiggling bait he is after it with a rush and a gulp.

The United States Fish Commission is preparing to make a systematic study of the habits of salmon in the California waters. Mr. Claude Rutter will be in charge of the work. Among other things, it is proposed to tag grown salmon with three-quarter inch plates, either of copper or aluminium, which will be fastened to the gills or fins. The public is requested to return to the water all tagged fish caught. In order to determine the rate of growth of salmon, several hundred specimens of young fish will be turned loose after having their adipose fins cut off. This fin is located in the fish's back in front of the tail fin and is of a fatty consistency. The excision will leave a scar, which will be a means of identification and noting should any of these abbraviated fish be caught in the future on their return to their native stream.

Al Wilson and Manuel Cross have taken about 1,000 yearling black bass fry, from two to five inches long, from the lake at Temescal. These young bass have been transplanted at Fresno, Los Banos, Soledad and Grayson. Some fry, taken from the Banecia reservoir (which is now being refilled from an extra supply pipe) have been taken to Castroville for transplanting.

But very few fry were taken at Niles as the water was too muddy and full of grass.

It is hardly probable that Lake Chabot will receive a supply of bass fry for the present as the carp problem in that body of water has not been fully solved.

"Doc" Watts and W. F. McFarland angled for black bass at Rodeo last Saturday. Doc caught nineteen nice fish on a new spinner he used. Most of the bass were taken in the middle of the day.

In the spring of 1889 a lot of small-mouthed black bass fry ranging from 2 to 4 inches in length were placed in the waters of Sunol lake, Mich. In the summer of 1894 several specimens were taken with hook and line, it was found that the largest weighed 4 lbs., thus showing that the fish had gained nearly a pound in weight each year.

Jim Turner and mine host Vance caught fifteen half pound steelheads in two hours' fishing last Saturday. On Sunday three parties caught nearly one hundred half-pound fish. The fishing is first-class at present at Grizzly Bluff; the above named anglers have been stopping at Weymouth's.

On Friday a week ago, a boat party composed of H. A. Wegener, Lew Hoff and J. A. Wilson, had good luck hay fishing along the Marin county shore near California City. They made a large catch of rock fish and "blue cod," one of the former weighing four pounds.

J. B. Rosconi started for Russian river on Tuesday, he proposes to enjoy two weeks of black bass fishing.

GUN.

The work of re-modeling the new quarters for the Olympic Gun Club is now in rapid progress. The proposed new home of this popular organization promises to create an increased interest not only in sporting affairs, but also to become an important down town addition to the best features that make club life popular.

Three bucks fell to the guns on the Tamalpais Gun Club grounds last Sunday. The hunting party was composed of the following well-known sportsmen: H. F. Wagner, Fred Drinkhouse, Frank Cummings, W. C. Brown, Frank Lacosta and M. Osborne. Wagner is credited with bringing down a spike buck after it had run the gauntlet of the guns posted in a gulch from which it turned and was brought to bay by the dogs on a high bluff overlooking the ocean. Wagner worked around for a shot, but before he got in position the deer, which was then on three legs, was over the bluff and at the bottom where it received the coup de grace The hunters were liberally drenched with spray from the breakers before they got the venison up from the beach. Drinkhouse and Osborne got one of the others, a fork horn buck; the third, also a fork horn, was claimed by Osborne. Whilst the dogs were running the trail one of them was in turn hunted from the brush by a couple of coyotes, who gave the hound a short but lively chase—a fusilade from the hunters was effective in stopping the coyotes who got away, however, with whole pelts.

Many shootars urge that target shooting as practised at most clubs is too mechanical to be of much value to a beginner, so far as teaching him how to shoot game birds and game animals is concerned.

There is no doubt that there is some truth in this complaint, for at very few clubs is there any attempt made to throw targets under any other rule than the every-day known-trap-unknown-angle style of shooting. The shooter knows where his target is coming from, he merely does not know which way it will fly when sprung from the trap. This style of shooting unquestionably teaches a man to be quick with his gun, trains his hand and eye to work together, and to a certain extent accustoms him to pulling the trigger at the proper moment. It does not however, give him much practice at sharp quartering targets, such as most closely resembles crossing birds out of a covey of quail, or a ruffed grouse coming out of a swamp and flying past the hunter with the speed of a shell out of a 13-inch gun.

The "one man up in the center," expert-rule style of shooting, gives really the best game practice of any of the various kinds of shooting practicable with inanimate targets. At this style of shooting the man at the score has to keep his eye peeled, as he does not know from which trap his target is coming; he gets good, sharp angles from the corner traps, and gets on to "the lead" necessary to break those targets successfully, thus instinctively grasping the fact that to score targets or to gather game the shootar must hold well ahead of his target or bird. One day of such practice is worth a month of theoretical training.

The sporting notes of a late issue of the Commercial Advertiser has the following: The question of "two-eyed" shooting is one that is always a fruitful topic of conversation among shooters of all grades. Some people, excellent shots, too, do close one eye, but the vast majority of the best shots never close an eye, and never look along a gun barrel when shooting at a moving object. When a bird, like a duck, coming into decoys is seen for a long time before it gets within range, it is quite possible that the gunner may sometimes close one eye and take careful aim. But give him a ruffed grouse, rising with a roar in comparatively thick brush, or a plump little quail jumping up under his feet and twisting away over the tops of the scrub oaks, does he then shut one eye? Not much—he needs both eyes, and needs them both badly, if he wants to land his game.

This question of "leading" a crossing bird is one that presents an example of quick mental arithmetic that is solved instinctively and on the instant by the practised shooter. It is no uncommon thing to hear a by-stander remark at a pigeon match, "That man's an old duck shot, I'll bet a dollar." The remark is probably called forth by a good second barrel kill of a fast quartering bird, just such a bird as required quick judgement as to where to hold correctly on it. Duck shooters gain greater proficiency in that style of shooting than any other class of hunters, by reason of the constant practice they have on fast-flying crossing birds. It is really rather hard to miss a bird by holding too far ahead of it, the "string" of the load of shot helping to put a killing pattern in a certain spot through which the bird aimed has to fly, keeping up the pattern in that spot while a duck going at full speed may cover nine feet in its flight. That is to say, a man may aim nine feet ahead of a duck coming down wind at sixty miles an hour, forty yards up in the air, and yet he only just in time with the first part of his load of shot, the last pellets of shot in his load reaching the place aimed at after the bird has gone beyond the danger zone. In a certain shooting school in London an object lesson on the "string" of a load of shot is given by actual tests on a swiftly moving whitewashed target, several feet in length. After firing a shot at this moving target, the experimenter will find that his shot is strung along for several feet; thus there is impressed upon his mind the necessity of leading crossing birds.

NOTICE TO SECRETARIES.

If secretaries of gun clubs will send us the full scores of their regular monthly shoots we will be pleased to publish them; but we must receive the copy on Wednesday to insure its insertion that week.

Lincoln Gun Club.

The postponed regular shoot of the Lincoln Gun Club held at Alameda lest Sunday was notahle more by reason of the high averages made by the shooters present than for e large attendance of trap-shooters. The weather heing windy and foggy and decidedly adverse to good shooting conditions makes the ecores all the more creditable. Peter McRae's ehooting was the feature of the day, his average heing 92 per cent. Edg. Forster's average will also figure at the same percentage. W. J. Golcher showed fine form, and in company with Nauman, McRae and Forster stood in the class of the only straight scores made during the day. Kerrison's work was in good form also.

The first event of the day, the club shoot at twenty-five hlue-rocks, hrought out sixteen contestants, McRae, Kerrison, Edg. and Eug. Forster tied for first place; in the shoot-off McRae was the final winner. In this event a number of hack scores were shot up. The scores in detail were as follows:

To-morrow.

In these wening days of the trap-shooting season the ettractions offered to keep shooters from sports of the forest end field to-morrow are the live-pigeon shoot of the California Wing Club at Ingleside, the blue rock events of the Alert Gun Club at Birds Point and the shoot of the Golden Gate Gun Club to be held at the Pacific Tournament grounds Alameda. The principal event of the day at the Golden Gate grounds will be the second match of the series between six-man-teams from the Golden Gate and South End Clubs. A program hes also been arrenged consisting of a ten-bird warm-up; club race at twenty targets, $1 entrance with added money; amateur match, ten birds, entrence 50 cents, added money, amateurs will he allowed to use the second barrel. A race at ten birds, entrance 50 cents, added money, will conclude the dey's trep-shooting.

The Marysville Dove Stew.

Last Sunday will be a day in the annals of the sporting history of the Secremento Velley long to he remembered by those present as the most succe sful dove stew that has yet been given under the auspices of the Marysville Gun Club. Chef Sevoy had charge of the culinary arrengements, which meant the preperation of a banquet for over 1,000 people. It is estimeted that more then 2,000 doves were used in preparing the principal dish of the feast; all Merysville eided in the gathering of doves for the five gigantic kettles which simmered o'er the live coals. Many other end toothsome dishes were on the bill of fare. There wes also a deluging variety of liquids to wash down the table dainties. Good fellowship waited on appetite and congeniality ruled the day. The essemblsge was notable for the presence of sportsmen from all parts of the Stete. On Saturday the videttes of the shot gun brigade commenced to arrive on the noon train and succeeding trains hrought them in squads and compenies rallying round the flag of hospitality proudly waving over the noble oaks of Shelton's Grove.

The attention of trap-shooters was centered in the shooting grounds just outside of the sheltered confines of the grove, where traps for live pigeons and hlue-rocks were fitted up for the day's shooting tourney.

Live bird shooting commenced the day's sport at the traps. The conntry shooters held the the honors in the principal events. In the preliminary warm-up at six pigeons eigbt men made the following scores:

C. A. Haight	6	E. Barth	6
O. Feudner	6	F. Lipp	5
A. J. Webh	6	H. Justine	5
F. H. Greeley	6	W. F. Murdock	1w

The initial event on the regular programme was at six live hirds, entrance $2.50. The purse of $25 was divided hy five shooters who made clean scores—Feudner, Haigbt Barham, Barth and Murdock. The scores in detail were:

O. Feudner	121121—6	J. H. Greeley	0w
C. A. Haight	121111—6	O. A. Johnson	10w
Barham	211221—6	E. Barth	111111—6
A. J. Webh	110w	H. Justin	0w

In the eight-bird event, $3.00 entrance, which followed, Wehh of San Francisco, Durst of Wheatland, and Barth of Marysville, were the only men who had straight scores; they divided the pool meney, amounting to $39.00: The third round spoiled Haight's score when he lost a right quartering hird which dropped dead outside of the houndary line. Fendner missed his eighth bird, an incomer. The scores were:

O. Feudner	11122202— 7	W. F. Murdock	12211102— 7
A. J. Webh	21121222— 8	G. Johnson	01w
Barham	11121120— 7	H. Niemeyer	0w
F. H. Greeley	11111120— 7	C. A. Haight	11021121— 7
R. Norman	10101w	J. H. Durst	12221211— 8
H. Justins	10w	E. Barth	11211211— 8
F. L. Lipp	110w

The Marysville Appeal medal race, the principal event of the day, came next. Eleven men entered at $5 each to shoot at twelve hirds. Otto Feudner, the winner of the medal at the previous contest last year, and Barham of Chico, tied on a string of twelve kills each. In the shoot-off, miss and out, Feudner's second bird was lost and Barham then shot and scored which mede him the holder of the medal until the next contest. Feudner took down $35, two-thirds of the entrence money (heing the previous winner of the medal) and also the amount of $11.80 cash which went to second high gun. Wehh, Haight and Barth took third money $6.25 each. The scores were es follows:

O. Feudner	122222211212—12	J. Sanders	2111010w
J. H. Greeley	11111210w	J. L. Howard	111120101011— 9
C. A. Haight	111121101111—11

The event of local interest was the contest for the Native's Sons' diamond medal, open only to shooters resident of the Sacramento Valley. Of the nine contestants entered none were successful in making straight scores at the twelve live hirds fired at. F. H. Greeley, of Marysville, the winner of the medal last year, repeated his victory in this race. Three men, Greeley, Barhem, the winner of the Appeal medal, and Dr. Howard, of Chico, tied on eleven kills each. In the shoot-off, miss and out, Dr. Howard dropped out on his first hird, Barham lost his sixth and Greeley won the medal with a streight score of six. The complete scores were:

F. H. Greeley	221221012111—11	J. H. Durst	0110w
Dr. Howard	112110111112—11	R. A. Norman	101221222010—10
J. Saunders	011110w	F. Lipp	222121120220—10
N. Niemeyer	211110011111—10

Next on the schedule was a match at twelve birds, $5-00 entrance. Feudner took first money, $15, on a clean score; Wehh and Howard divided secend money, $10, with eleven birds each. Greeley killed nine, and Haight withdrew after killing six straight, which he followed np with two misses.

Late in the afternoon the blue-rock events took place; bnt two races were shot, as the trap shooters hy this time were more in favor of the appetiring qualities of dove stew, etc, than the attractions afforded hy smashing clay pigeons. Feudner was the high gun in these events. In the match for the Marysville Gun Club medal, he repeated his victory of last year, winning the medal in the only score of twenty straight. Lipp and Webb came second with eighteen eacb and Greeley and Justins, the other contestants, scored fourteen and fifteen respectively.

In a ten target match, Feudner kept up his destructive gait by breeking ten straight and taking first money. The other scores were: Lipp 9, Webb 8, Niemeyer 5, Durst 8. Feudner miseed but one blne-rock out of fifty shot at during the dey.

An Unluoky But Nervy Hunter.

Charles Precht was the victim of a painfol accident at Glen Ellen last Snndey. He and Jebez Swen were dove hunting together; whilst Precht was loceting a pair of doves, he slipped and fell about twelve feet into a gully. This started the birds in flight from the trees and as Precht endeavored to hring his gun np for a shot he fonnd his left forearm just above the wrist wes disabled. Notwithstanding his injury, the arm being broken, he succeeded in shooting at and bringing down one of the doves in its flight, hy resting the gun on his left elbow when he shot.

Hunters' Outfits.

The Cenedian Department of Customs hae issued an order to all its collectors notifying them that the club visitors' shooting and fishing outfits will in future be admitted free of duty and without any deposit as was customery in the pest. The club visited will give instead a guarantee to the Department, and all members of such clubs living outside Canada will be admitted with their guns and tackle at Canadian ports on presenting their cerd of membership.

Stockton hunters are having good sport with the doves. Rob Groves end Earl Lenten recently bagged 150 of the birds near French Camp.

J. N. Castle, F. N. Castle, W. D. Castle and their families left this city on Saturday for Eureka, from which point they will go to the central portion of Humboldt county, near Berry's. The party will stay in camp for about a month, the region they will visit is prolific in good hunting and fishing and is a royal spot for an outing.

Jack Fanning is in the New England district just at present. At the recent shoot of the Bellows Falls Gun Club, Bellows Falls, Vt, a new club lately organized, in shooting at 100 targets; 75 unknown angles and 25 expert rules, Jack scored 95 out of the 100, a very nice score to make and which shows that Fanning is still keeping np his form.

It seems that the Interstate Association has finally decided upon Elkwood Park as the scene for holding the Great American Handicap of 1899. There is no question as to the desirability of the Elkwood Park grounds; there are none like them in the country, and there does not seem to be much chance of their being equalled for some years to come.

Deer hunting on the Country Club grounds last Sunday was unproductive of venison or sport for Fred Tallant, Dr. Vow Winkle, Dr. De Marville, W. S. Kittle and Wm. Berg. The weather was too hot and foggy. Though an attempt to put the dogs out was made and several hucks were jumped the weather conditions precluded any chance of success in getting the quarry.

A Woodland party composed of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Hubbard and family, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Hubbard, C. P. Alexander and T. J. Hutchinson are enjoying a camping trip in the Blue Lakes and Elk Mountain districts. The party will travel from point to point in teams. The gentlemen of the party are all crack rifle shots and good hunters and anglers the camp cuisine therefore will be plentifully supplied with fish and game.

A party of ten or twelve San Mateo and Redwood sportsmen under the guidance of Billy Plump, rode up to Ikencotters, near the Summit, last Saturday, intending to have a deer hunt in the adjacent hills and gulches at daybreak Sunday morning. One of the hunters found out there was to be a dance at Le Honda on Saturday night, so forthwith he galloped over the La Honda trail when he reached that point, stating that he would show up next morning at four o'clock; he didn't however, until late Sunday afternoon. The hunters were out from early morn till dewy eve, but ne'er a buck saw they. The dancing hunter was the only man of the expedition who got a deer.

"Bill Nye" (Dietz), "Hello". (Eaton), Ben Harris, Frank Hofling and S. Spencer are back from the wilds of Mendocino county. They pre-empted the best camping ground on or around Sanhedrin mountain. Nye and the Indian did the most hunting, bagging thirteen fine bucks on the trip. Hofling's avoirdupois was a handicap in that rough country. The party nearly perished of thirst at one time, but fortunately discovered a mountain spring, the waters of which were rare in the excellence of their cool, sparkling thirst-quenching qualities. This lucky find enabled them to supplement the meats of the forest and stream with temporary drinking accommodations until they reached the regions of civilization again.

Union Coursing Park.

Those visiting Union Park last Saturday witnessed some excellent coursing in the first round of the open stake. This being the breeding season the hares did not run quite as strongly as usual. The dogs entered by Pasha Kennels were withdrawn from running owing to a death in the family of Mr. J. H. Rossetter. Koolawn, Obadiah, The Gossoon and L. S. Conley were the dogs on the short end that won during the afternoon. The course between Koolawn and Flying Buck was not very exciting. The bitch led from the slip, scored first turn and finished handily. Quiver and White Lily had a lively argument. The Lily led from the slips, but in a long run up to the game Quiver closed the gap and took charge after the first turn, scoring rapidly on her opponent. Many people thought that Quiver had put to his credit the greater number of points, but Judge Ball should know best and he decided in favor of the favorite, White Lily.

On Sunday E. V. Sullivan's crack hound False Flatterer walked through the open stake in gallant style. Rosette had been picked by the talent as the final winner, but the daughter of Emin Pasha was beaten by the Buck in the fourth round. Al Austin's Glenstone won the hearts of the leashman by his work. He showed wonderfully improved form over his past performances, being the runner up for the stake. The final round between False Flatterer and Glenstone was not run off, the owner of the latter dog preferring to take second money, as his dog had done so much severe work and was not in condition to make another run without demeaning his future prospects. The short enders had a happy afternoon on the winning courses of Rusty Gold, Sweet Lips, Sir Wilful, Glenstone, Laurelwood and Chili Peper.

In the Open Stake, first round, Saturday, the winning dogs were: M Tiernan's For Persecution ran a bye, H R Baldwin's Jester beat Lahnsen & Duncan's Precita Girl; Lowe & Thompson's Prince Hal beat I L Sear'a Beauty; O H Hosg's Obadieh beat George Farrell's Ta-re-ra; E V Sullivan's Winged Foot beat J H Smith's Bendigo; Curtis & Son's Vanity Fair beat Derby Kennels' Mone; John Kerrigen's Lady Blenche beat J McCormack's White Wings; G Shermen's Wait a Little beat O Fengohr's Tocaloma; Curtis & Son's Cavalier beat Pembroke Kennels' The Turk; E V Sullivan's False Flatterer beat John Kerrigan's St Gertrude; E V Sullivan's Skyhall beat R E de B Lopez' Minneapolis; C L Willett's Jersey Lily beat C Strehl's Jimmy Cork; D J Healy's Rusty Gold beat R W Mastic's Top Notch; George Whitney's Theron beat John Kerrigan's Lalie Rookb; Curtis & Son's Rosette beat T J McInerney's Johnnie B; S Hansen's L S Conley beat Curtis & Son's Miller's Maid; J J Werren's Sweet Lips ran a bye; A Johnson's Mountain Beauty ran a bye; R E de B Lopez' Arrow beat H E Fleming's Santa Rosa; Thomas McEldowney's The Gossoon beat I L Sear's Hot Stuff; A Johnson's Lissak beat Derby Kennel's Little Dorrit; Lowe & Thompson's Sir Willful beat C F Ingersoll's Glenwood; E V Sullivan's Royal Buck beat Pembroke Kennels' Wildflower; Al Austin's Glenstone beat T J McInerny's Sunolite; T J Cronin's Thornhill ran a bye; George H Thomas' Lady Belle ran a bye; J H Perigo's Wayfarer beat Al Austin's Dangles; J McCormack's Rapid ran a bye; Thomas McEldowney's Blackstone beat H Teaner's Monotony; T J McInerny's Rosie R beat E and R Scott's Mystery; J McCormack's White Lily beat R E de B Lopez' Quiver; E V Sullivan's Pretender beat Pierce & Sullivan's Santa Bella; D Hooper's Koo Lawn beat E V Sullivan's Flying Buck; S E Portal's Laurelwood beat E V Sullivan's Blecklock; John Perigo's Chili Pepper beat A & B Kennels' Governor Markhem; A Johnson's Tod Sloan beat Curtis & Son's Highland Ball.

The coursing on Sunday shows the following results:

Open Stake. Second Round—H R Baldwin's Jester beat H. Tiernan's For Persecution; Lowe and Thompson's Prince Hal beat O H Hosg Jr.'s Obadiah; Curtis & Son's Vanity Fair beat E V Sullivan's Winged Foot; John Kerrigan' Lady Blanche beat J Sherman's Wait a Little; E V Sullivan's False Flatterer ran a bye, Cavalier being ill; E V Sullivan's Skybell beat C H Willett's Jersey Lilly; D J Healey's Rusty Gold beat Georgs Whitney's Theron; Curtis & Son's Rosette beat S Hansen's L S Conley; J J Warren's Sweet Lips beat A Johnson's Mountain Beauty; Thomas McEldowney's The Gossoon beat R E deB Lopez's Arrow; Loke & Thompson's Sir Willfol beet A Johnson's Lissak; Al L Anstin's Glenstone beet E V Sulliven's Royel Buck; T J Croniu's Thornhill beat George H Thomas' Lady Belle; J H Perigo's Wayferer beat J. McCormeck's Rapid; Thomas McEldowney's Blackstone beat T J McInerney's Rosie R; E V Sullivan's Pretender beat J McCormack's White Lily; S E Portel's Laurelwood beet D Hoopsr's Koolawn; John Perigo's Chile Pepper beat A Johnson's Tod Sloen.

Third round—Prince Hal beat Jester; Vanity Fair beat Lady Blanche; False Flatterer beat Rusty Gold; Rosette beat Skyhall; Sweet Lips beat The Gossoon; Glenstone beat Sir Willful; Thornhill beat Weyferer; Pretender beat Blackstone; Laurelwood beat Chili Pepper.

Sixth round—False Flatterer beet Thornhill.

Ingleside Coursing Park.

The first round of the Sapling end Open Stake gave plenty of excellent sport and held the attention of the spectators until the last brace of dogs left the slips Saturday afternoon. For an open stake, where so many crack dogs were contending an unusually large number of short-enders scored. The most notable instance was that in which Las Palmes, at 5 to 1, beat Grennale, the favorite. J. Dean's Connemera was the favorite for the stake, with the same owners Moondyne second choice. The day was cold and blustery, and the fog which rolled in late in the afternoon obscured the view of the last two courses.

As was anticipated by the knowing ones, Connemere was the champion at the outcome of Sunday's coursing. Sixty-four dogs were passed by him on his running for the stake. Moondyne, his kennel mate, was howled over by Sir John Arnott in the third round; selling at odds of 10 to 1, he went out on one of the chances of coursing termed a fluke. Lowe & Thompson's Victor, the runner up was not thought to be good enough for a place in the stake. Jim Byrne's Mohawk divided third money with Gafney's Sir John.

The results of the coursing on Saturday was as follows:

Sapling Stake; First Round—J Murnane's Wolfe Tone beat J Dean's Scout; B Bann's Belmout Boy beat W J Jones' Rustan, W J Jones Prince Jerome ran a bye (Nellie G not appearing); T Sullivan's Maid of Hill beat Gibbons & Hartery's Briar Sweet; E V Sullivan's Conqueror beet Dillon & Reilly's Black Hawk; W J Jones' Lady Marian ran a bye (Chief of Hill not appearing); Dillon & Reilly's Volunteer beat F Herring's St Elmo.

All-aged Stake—George E Ehman's Fireman beat T J Cronin's Reliable; James Byrnes' Mohawk beet Pembroke Kennels' Sylvanus; F C Kenny's Mark K beat Kay & Trant's Innisfallen; P O'Donnell's Counterfeit beat Alfred Haigh's Hattel; Penelope Kennels' Las Palmas beet Dillon & Reilly's Granneile; Larkey & Rock's Peaceful Glen beat Napoleon Kennels' Firshall; Pembroke Kennels' Magic beat J Murphy's Dempsey Lass: Kay & Trent's Masterpiece beet C F Brown's Rosalie; M C Delano's Trinket beat F Dwyer's Schley; Pembroke Kennels' Terrona beat W H O'Neil's Promise Me; Deckelman & Panerio's Glen Chloe beat H M N Spring's Bill Nye; Lowe & Thompson's High Born Lady beet T McHugh's Matchless; Dillon & Reilly's Queen B beat J Quane's Fairy D; Deckelman & Penario's Glen Roy beat Gibson & Moore's Monitor; P Brophy's Benicia Boy beat R W Wyman's Rush o' Hill; J Dean's Counemara beet Al Haight's Hadiwist; T A Gaffney's Sir John Arnott beat E Campbell's Lee Boy; D Flynn's Tom Bell beet W T Sulliven's Trink; J Murnane's Fleshlight beet E V Solliven's Jesse Moore; J Egan's Billy Gladstone beet M Nealon's Van Knapp; Deckelman & Panario's Old Glory beet F Jones' Moonlight; G Smart's Silkwood beet R W Blads's Philippine; D Ford's Bonite beet W Dalton's Decency; J Deen's Moondyne beat M C Delano's Daisy Hill; D Shannon's Swinnerton beat J Farley's Tullamore; Larkey & Rock's Myrtle beat J Sheehan's Lass o' Gowrie; Lowe & Thompson's Victor beat H M N Spring's Pat Molloy; H McNeil's Sportsmen beat J Cox's Clifton Lass; D Shannon's Systematic beet D Chille's St Nicholas; G Thomas' Sir Walter beat J Cox's Mission Tip; F Black's Occidental beet S Sexsmith's Marjorie; Handy & Smith's Ide beat H M N Spring's Master Jack.

Finel—Volunteer beet Conqueror.

All-aged Stake: Second Round—Mohewk beat Firemen; Counterfeit beat Mary K; Peaceful Glen beat Las Palmas; Magic beat Masterpisce; Terrona beat Trinket; High-Born Lady beat Glen Chloe; Glen Boy beat Queen B; Connemera beat Benicia Boy; Sir John Arnott beat Tom Bell; Billy Gladstone beat Fleshlight; Old Glory beat Silkwood; Moondyne beet Bonite; Swinnerton beat Myrtle; Victor beat Sportsman; Systematic beat Sir Walter; Occidental beat Ida.

Second Round—Mohewk beat Counterfeit; Peaceful Glen beat Magic; Terrona beat High Born Lady; Connemere beet Glen Roy; Sir J Arnott beat Billy Gladstone: Moondyne beat Old Glory; Victor beat Swinnerton; Occidental beat Systematic.

Third Round—Mohewk beet Peaceful Glen; Connemara beat Terrone; Sir J Arnott beet Moondyne; Victor beet Occidental.

Final—Connemere beat Victor.

A Great Coursing Match.

Among the leashmen the matter of pre-eminent interest tomorrow will be the match between E. V. Sullivan's False Fletterer and J. Deen's Connemera. The match will be for $250 a side, the courses will be the best two out of three, the winning dog to take the pot. John Farrelly is the stake holder, and the courses will be run off at the Ingleside Coursing Park. These two dogs, barring Rosseter's For Freedom, are undoubtedly the fastest dogs on the coast. The Ingleside Park will add $250 to the stake, the first course will be run after the first run down of the open or champion stake to-morrow; the second course will be contested after lunch and the third course, if necessary, will be decided immediately after the second round of the meeting to-morrow.

DOINGS IN DOGDOM.

M. C. Delano, of Rocklin, the well-known trotting horse owner and turfman, has recently evinced a strong interest in the pleasures and sport of coursing. He proposes to have a string of greyhounds that will make a record on the sward

Ten of the puppies of a litter whelped by C. A. Smert's rough coated St. Bernard bitch Scheherezade (Reglov—Empress Frances) last April have been raised and all sold but two. These puppies were all strong-boned and finely marked, one of them a dog puppy Pride of the West, now weighs eighty pounds and is most beautifully marked he will be kept and raised by Mr. Smert. Mr. Elder and Miss M. Perrine of Oakland recently purchased the last two dog pups for sale from the litter.

In referring to the field trial dogs and field trial work in England, a writer in Rod and Gun has the following concerning the German field trial dog: Of course, if the present fashion in sport continues, we shall eventually come to a type of field dog much akin to what the Germans call a Gebrauchshund. This term may be translated as General Utility Dog, but not of the stamp of those wastrels which come under our sense of the applied name. These dogs of which I have seen many specimens at work on various quarry, may be Germen pointers, or of the breed which answers to our setter, or of a type not unlike our earlier Airedales, or may be cross-bred sporting dogs. Their training is arduous, and a good specimen requires to fulfill many and varied qualifications, including full retrieving powers. To describe their general powers, I think that if we apply to them the designation of a first-class hunting dog as understood by Americans, we get at a concise idea of their powers. At the field trials held for those all-round dogs the tests are most comprehensive and severe, so much so that in really tip-top specimens you find the merits of pointer, setter, retriever, terrier and spaniel combined. Truly an extensive mixture, but one that a perfect Gebrauchshund is required to combine in its own person. One of these dogs worked over a rough game and water-fowl country in these islands would be an eye-opener for some of our field trial trainers.

Butter With Wind.

A Toronto chemist has invented a process for making butter, so simple that a child can use it, and so effective, it is said, that all processes must give way before it. The old-fashioned way of shaking and pounding the milk to make butter is entirely done away with—a process which churns small fat globules in the milk and allows the fatty matter to escape, thus allowing a good percentage of the butter-making properties to go to waste.

By the new scheme the fatty globules are preserved in their entirety, and when the butter-making process is finished these globules are like so many grains of corn meal, dry and clean to the touch. The following is this unique idea:

The milk to be operated upon is placed in a tub or other receptacle, and a pipe is put into it over the side to the bottom of the vessel. Then a common bellows is applied to the other end of the pipe, through which the wind is forced for half an hour. That is all there is to it. For twenty eight minutes there is no apparent change, but in the next two minutes, presto! there is your butter globules to be treated the same as in the regular old-fashioned way of butter-making.

The process has been patented in the United States and Canada and all the European countries, and the inventor has been offered fabulous amounts for his patents. There is no way of preventing any individual using this process, however, for making butter for his own home consumption.

It is claimed that twenty-five per cent. more butter is obtained from a given quantity of milk by this process than in the old way. Not only this, but the curds remaining are of such a quality that they make cheese equal to the famous brands of England.

Besides this, with the admixture of certain chemicals, there can be made from the residue a most excellent substitute for lard, which is superior in quality and richness and lacking entirely any bad smell or taste which so many of these substitutes have.

A little ice on the pipe in summer, or a warm water bag applied in winter will keep the air at the required temperature.

The Unprofitable Cow.

A dairyman can expect no profit from a cow until she has paid for her keep. Whether that item be large or small, the cow exacts it week by week, and refuses to return any profit till it is paid. If she is so constituted, that she requires all the food she can eat to maintain her, then the returns are minus. It is claimed, that it takes at least 200 pounds of butter to pay for a cow's feed, and labor consequent on the production of the milk and butter. If we could draw a hard and fast line at 200 pounds of butter, and discard all animals that do not come up to that mark, we should be making a greater stride towards a more profitable condition of dairying than could be done in any other manner. There is no doubt, that a few of these unprofitable animals are being weeded out each year, but there are an equal, if not a larger, number of them born. Certainly, there are a few promising oases in the wilderness of unprofitable cows, but the outlook is, that for many years, the 150 lb cow will continue to flourish.

It is much easier to keep on with the unprofitable animal than it is to find out where the loss is. The dairymen does not miss the dollar which has never been in his pocket, and, consequently, the idea of using the hard-earned dollar he has, to find out how he lost the two dollars he ought to have, does not appeal forcibly to the average dairyman. He is much more liable to lay the blame for his poor success on a distant scapegoat. The poor price of butter in the city, or the price of poor butter near home, are convenient hooks on which to hang failures due to his own ignorance and neglect.—Hoard's Dairyman.

Well to Know.

When a horse has returned to the stable after a long ride, he should by no means be unsaddled within from half an hour to an hour after dismounting, or it may tend to the production of saddle-galls, which may be very difficult to cure. These gall have their origin in uneven pressure of the saddle due to faulty construction, from shifting of the saddle when the girths slacken, and not unfrequently from bad riding. The reason why the non-removal of the saddle for some time after dismounting acts as a protective against sore backs is well explained by Moller. Where an injury has taken place, the vessels are compressed and almost bloodless. If pressure be now suddenly removed, blood is vigorously forced into the paralyzed vessels, and may thus rupture the walls. On the other hand if the saddle is allowed to remain some time in position, circulation is gradually restored without injury. The fact that the swelling appears after the removal of the saddle supports this explanation.

Onions.

There is no more wholesome vegetable grown than the odorous and much-despised onion. No one who eats freely of onions will ever be troubled with sleeplessness nor serious blood troubles. They clear the blood of those poisons which produce rheumatism and muddy complexions, and those nations that eat of onions with the greatest freedom are the ones most free from ills of this kind.

Onions when grown from seed should be planted within a few days in order to have time to mature a full crop, but where sets are used they may be put out at any time while the sets are in the market.

The rows should be fifteen inches apart and the onions three inches in the rows. The land cannot be made too rich nor too fine before planting. Put in fine manure and ashes if you have them, work the soil over and over until it is as fine as dust, and sow the seed or put in the sets.

The cultivation should never be deep, the soil should not be disturbed below one inch from the surface at any time during the season. The onion throws out its root near the surface, and as they are not very long, the soil should be rich and the cultivation shallow. Never ridge the soil up to the rows. The ideal onion bed is one where the bulbs grow above the ground for more than half their size.

It is a common remark that onions agree with but few people. Any one who eats them regularly will soon find any trouble of this kind gone as well as other and more serious ones very often.

Those who do not eat them because of the odor they leave on the breath are more nice than wise.

Farm Notes.

Sheep and cows should not be pastured in the same field at the same time. The sheep soon make the grass distasteful to the cattle.

Keep the vessels in which the fowls are watered scrupulously clean during July and August. Bad water is as bad for fowls as it is for human beings.

Keep the heifer calves that come from good mothers. Teach them to be handled without fright and in time they will make gentle and tractable cows, which adds to their value.

At the Michigan experiment station Plymouth Rock hens laid more eggs than any other breed tried. This is an exceptional experience, as Leghorns usually come out ahead as egg producers.

Whitewash your creameries, milk premises and stables from top to bottom. Creamery men should not forget that whitewash and lime are the best and cheapest disinfectants and absorbers of foul odors known.

Are you permitting your fowls to run at large in the orchard? There is nothing to condemn in such a practice, but everything to encourage it. The fowls in an orchard do an infinite amount of good in the destruction of worms, beetles, bugs and other pests.

Don't feed your pigs on sour slop. The old notion that the pigs like it better than they would if it were fresh mixed is an exploded one. Don't keep a slop barrel at all. They are a malodorous nuisance, the breeding place of infection and the hotbed of disease in summer.

An ideal mutton sheep that might be easily and cheaply produced by western farmers or rangemen would be the product of three or four crosses of full blood Shropshire, Lincoln or Oxford rams on merino ewes. This would in time produce a sheep with a brown or grey face and legs and with a good, level carcass of prime, juicy mutton, without too much fat. They would be good mothers of early lambs and yield a fine fleece of middle grade wool. In fact, the cross of Down blood will improve the quality of the mutton on any breed of sheep, the Southdowns probably being the best for the long wools and the Shropshire or Oxford the best for the Merinos.

During the present shipping season some of the big outfits in the west have been cleaned up, among which are Gerat & Company, Promontory cattle company and the Grayson cattle, all large herds in Nevada that have been sold to dealers, besides which Church & Painter have bought a good many thousand cattle in Nevada, being straight herds, as have also Keogh Brothers from the same section. The big herd known as the Ireland cattle in Utah has all been sold, and there are innumerable other little bunches that have changed hands and passed through Denver. Captain De Ricqles says: "We are safe in saying that ninety percent of the cattle that have been so shipped are not beef but simply feeders, and are being transferred from the far west to points east of here. This transfer means that the natural loss in the herds will be brought down to virtually nothing, for every animal will be carefully cared for and looked after instead of being allowed to run at will on the range. It also means that these cattle when moved to the new territory to which they are destined will be matured for market at least a year earlier than if allowed to stay in the west, and it is safe to say that they will average 100 pounds heavier when sent to market from their new location than if kept on the range."

The fetlock joint of horses seems to be liable to puffiness at its upper sides, both inside and outside, near the tendons. This puffiness received the name of wind-gall from the ancient farriers because they believed that the swelling contained wind. It is now well known that they are caused by an excessive secretion of synovia, or joint oil, in the membranes which form in the joints and sheath of the tendons and that they are the result of overwork or strains. In young horses they are the result of putting the colts to work before the structures are strong enough to stand it. Bandages make of flannel or wash leather, applied so that the pressure is uniform are recommended, also bandages saturated with a lotion made of three quarters of an ounce of zinc sulphate, one ounce of lead acetate in a quart of water. Rest and brisk rubbing of the hand will often cause the puffing to disappear.

The detail of the contract secured by Swift and Company for supplying all the beef needed by the United States army in Cuba, price said to be paid by the Government is $9 47 per 100 pounds. The beef is to be put on board Government steamers at Tampa, and must be delivered in Cuba in such condition as to keep seventy-two hours after delivery. The Government's part of the contract ends when it has furnished the steamers at Tampa. Swift must, under the contract, put refrigerating plants on board the steamers, and these plants must be operated by their own workmen. The beef is to be delivered to the Government in Cuba at any point designated by the Government. In order to properly deliver the beef the concern will find it necessary to establish a cold storage plant in Cuba. The only agreement in regard to the delivery is that there shall not be less than 300,000 pounds delivered at any one time.

Experiments have been made in France with the object of controlling sex in the offspring. In these experiments a flock of ewes, of different ages served by yearling rams produced thirty-five male and seventy-six female lambs, while ewes of the same ages, from two to four years old, served by rams over four years old, produced fifty-five males and thirty-one females. A writer in this country says he bred his own flock of twenty ewes to an old ram. They produced fifteen male and five female lambs. The rule seems to be that for the most female births we must breed to young rams, for the most male births, to old ones. It is presumed that in these experiments the condition of all the animals are uniform. Otherwise the age of the male might not be the only influence in determining the sex of the offspring.

We desire to urge upon growers the importance of sending wool to market in good condition. Fleeces should be tied with soft twine, with the fleshy side out, taking care to keep out tags, etc. Under no circumstances should sisal or binding twine be used for tying fleeces or sewing bags as the small particles of this vegetable fiber adhere to the wool, damaging the goods and causing manufacturers trouble and loss. Manufacturers frequently refuse to buy wool tied with binding twine. The marking of sheep with pitch or paint or any insoluble matter should be avoided. It frequently injures the sale of the wool as it cannot be scoured out and has to be clipped off, which is attended with much labor and loss to the manufacturer.

The largest stockyards in the world are in Chicago. The combined plants represent an investment of over $10,000,000, The yards contain 20 miles of street, 20 miles of water troughs, 50 miles of feeding troughs and 75 miles of water and drainage troughs. The yards are capable of receiving and accommodating daily 20,000 cattle, 20,000 sheep and 120,000 hogs.

In some sections of Montana, the sheep shearers demanded eight cents per clip and got it. Six cents has been the ruling price for the past two years.

Remember that every fair trial will positively give the same or similar results to those of the thousands who have, and are now using Wellington's Improved Egg Food with their fowls. If you have sickness in your flock, or your hens do not lay, this Egg Food will positively cure the sickness and start your hens laying within fifteen days, and pay you ten times its cost.

The Mutuel System.

Over at Butte, Montana, last week over 5,000 mutuel tickets were sold each day of the races at $5 each, showing that a total of $25,000 passed through the pool box. Butte papers do not give the amount of the auction pools sold, but it is perfectly safe to say that the same amount was wagered in the auction boxes, which would make a total of $50,000 handled each day. The betting privileges at Butte are controlled by the association giving the races, and five per cent. is the amount charged for handling the wagers made by the public. It will be seen that on a basis of a $50,000 play the sum received by the Association as its commission is $2,500, or equal to the amount that would be received from twenty-five bookmakers at $100 per day each. If such a system works so successfully in Montana, why would it not do equally as well here? Certainly twenty-five bookies could never be induced to cut in at Butte or Anaconda—probably a dozen would be the extreme limit, and the receipt from the mutuels alone would equal the sum total paid by that number of the layers of odds. Laying aside all other arguments in favor of the mutuel and auction system of betting, it is certainly a better plan for an Association than any other inasmuch as it is more profitable.

THE four-year-old The Chemist is apparently the best sprinter now running at St. Louis, and is evidently smart enough to win over the Chicago tracks if judiciously placed. Of his career at the Fair Grounds the Republic says: "The Chemist has started thirteen times at the Fair Grounds this year and placed nine purses to the credit of his owner. Of these seven were won in so many consecutive starts. He ran second once to Ed Farrell and was unplaced once. The first time he went to the post he fell down and failed to finish. The Chemist was a fair sort of a two-year-old. Last year he was a confirmed cripple and failed to stand training. Brewer Schorr owns a full brother of The Chemist called The Druggist, who is a three-year-old maiden. Laostratus, the speedy but faint-hearted two-year-old now racing at the Fair Grounds, is also a full brother of The Chemist."

Proposed Change in English Rules.

As a result of the recent agitation in the English Jockey Club and sporting press of the country in favor of longer distance racing, at a meeting of the English Jockey Club, to be held at Newmarket in the first October week, the Stewards will propose that rules 45, 46 and 47 of the Rules of Racing be altered to read as follows:

"45. At every meeting advertised in the Racing Calendar one-half of the total amount guaranteed for prizes shall be apportioned to races of a mile or over, for three-year-olds or upwards only, and of this half not less than a moiety shall be for races of a mile and a half or upwards.

"46. There shall be no race of less distance than five furlongs.

"47. The program of each day shall be subject to the following regulations:

"(i). There shall be at least one race of one mile and a half or upwards, and at least one race of a mile or upwards. Neither of these races shall be open to two-year-olds, and one of them shall be neither a handicap nor a race with selling conditions.

"(ii.) There shall not be more than two races, to which three-year-olds or upwards are admitted of less than seven furlongs, and of these two races only one may be less than six furlongs.

"(iii.) Of the races confined to two year-olds, there shall not be more than two races a day before September 1st, nor more than three a day at any time.

"(iv.) Matches and private sweepstakes may be sanctioned by the Stewards, independent of the above regulations.

AFTER the M. & M. stake had been decided, Charley Thompson, the well known driver, said: "It was a question of pedigree when the contest narrowed down to Belle J. and Directum Kelly. The Kansas mare is short bred on her sire's side and she's out of an unknown dam. I don't like to ride behind that kind of breeding when there's a hard fight and lots of money up. The colt is bred like a race horse. No thoroughbred was ever gamer than the line that comes down from Dictator, the brother to old Dexter, through Director and Direct. Anteeo, the sire of Kelly's dam, was about the gamest of the Electioneers, and back of that is the thoroughbred blood of Limerick Boy. Now what kind of a chance would a bush-bred trotter like Belle J. have to live it out with that fellow in a hard-fought race? I hear that Nick Hubinger bet $5,000 against the favorite on account of her short pedigree and stood pat after the mare had won two heats.

CONGRESSMAN J. W. BAILEY of Texas has two mares in training at Lexington, Ky.: Fair Maiden, by Guy Wilkes, dam by Baron Wilkes, second dam Steinette, by Steinway, out of Old Ned, and Helen Fife, by Expedition, dam Naiad by Belmont. The first named is in the Curtis stable, and the latter in the hands of Beachy Brothers. Mr. Bailey was in Lexington last week and saw them work. Fair Maiden went a mile in 2:24¾, and Helen Fife a quarter in 33½ seconds. They have been miles respectively in 2:25 and 2:25¾. Both of them are bred to Mr. Bailey's stallion, Electric Bell, by Electioneer.

THAT good inbred Wilkes stallion, Red Cloud 10,456, is now owned by J. H. Erwin of Jamestown, N. Y. He is by Red Wilkes, dam Jessie Wilkes, by George Wilkes. Another good one owned in Jamestown is Direct-Line. He is only eight years old, but has some very fine youngsters coming on that give promise of making a name for their sire. Direct-Line is by Director, 2:17, dam Lida W., 2:18½ (dam of Nutwood Wilkes, 2:16½), by Nutwood, and is owned by Farman & Hine.

Keeps Hoofs Soft
Heals Horses' Feet

10,000 ENDORSERS!

"I have thoroughly tested CONTINENTAL OINTMENT, and I have found it the best article for its purpose I have ever used. It keeps the hoof soft and healthy and growing, and for cracked heels, scratches and the like, it is simply perfect."
WM. B. FASIG,
(Then Secretary N. O. Fair Association).

"I had a fine pacer and his feet were sore and full of fever and corns; he was not fit to drive on the roads, and to-day I can drive him as far and as hard as anybody's horse, and it will not make him sore nor lame. He was cured with CONTINENTAL OINTMENT. Our druggist keeps it through my recommendation."
R. H. LYTLE, Palatine, Ill.

Whatsoever a Man Soweth

That shall he also reap.

OF THE MILLIONS who daily read this simple statement, how many can gainsay its awful import?

HOW MANY can reason that it is not so?

WHY do you hesitate now that it is within the reach of all who have reaped the results of folly to overcome its dire effects and stand again physically as one who has never sinned against the laws of God and Man.

WE HAVE GATHERED TOGETHER

the most eminent and practical physicians of which the generation can boast.

THE OUTCOME of their study and research has been the evolution of what we term

OUR NEW SYSTEM TREATMENT

By means of which we are able to cure quickly and permanently any and all forms of Syphilis Gleet, Strictore, Varicocele, Hydrocele, Orchitis, in fact, any blood, private or special disease of either sex and at any stage. We have the only method extant by which the seat of disease is reached directly by means of absorption.

Our Vigoral Absorbent Pad is the only appliance known to the profession which can accomplish this without inconvenience to the sufferer.

Our methods are our own.
Our treatment is our guarded secret.
Our appliances are our own inventions.
Our laboratory is the most complete in the country.

BY CHARLES MARVIN.

This great practical horse book is a handsome, three hundred page octavo, bound in cloth, elegantly printed superbly illustrated, and explains to every detail the remarkable success of CHARLES MARVIN and the whole plans and methods pursued at Palo Alto as to breaking, training, shoeing, gaiting, driving, keeping racing and breeding trotters.

Read what J. C. Silby, the owner of St. Bel, says of this book: "In this work Marvin has let out all the mysteries of the craft, and it is so simple and plain that any breeder, owner, trainer or rubber who has any relish for his business can take a colt as a yearling and develope to the highest and fullest extent that colt's capacity as a trotter. The work impressed me so strongly that I have ordered twenty copies, and shall place one in the hands of every rubber on our farm.

HO, FOR SANTA ROSA.

Up at Santa Rosa everyone is on the tiptoe of expectancy for the great trotting and pacing meeting which is to open there next Saturday, August 20th. At the race-track preparations are being rnshed to get ready for the opening day, the stalls have all heen put in good repair, and at least a hundred of them are already occupied hy the hest trotters and pacers in the State. The grand stand is undergoing repairs and will be in splendid shape to accommodate the large crowds that are sure to fill it during the week's meeting, which is certain to he one of the best ever given in California. Santa Rosa is one of the most beautiful as well as one of the most prosperous towns in the State. It has a population of over 6,000 people, and is situated in the midst of a grand country. The majority of the residents of the town own their own homes, which they have beautified with many handsome lawns and lovely flowers that grow in that locality in rare profnsion and luxuriance. A more pleasant week could not he spent hy city folk than one at Santa Rosa during the meeting which hegins on the 20th inst.

The program of the races to he given is an excellent one, the purses liheral and races are provided for all classes. The list of entries should be very large, as there are enongh horses now in training in California to fill every class advertised.

Among the fast trotters that will he seen at the meeting are Zomhro, 2:11, son of McKinney and one of the greatest horses in America; Toggles, 2:10¼, the great gelding hy Strathway that trotted the first mile below 2:11 that was trotted in the United States this year; Mamie Griffin, 2:12, daughter of Blackbird, who is recognized as one of the handsomest marcs in America, as well as one of the gamest and fastest, and liable to trot to a record helow 2:10 at any time; Monterey, 2:13¼, a grand looking son of the great Sidney and a horse that no other in California has a license to heat in heat races; Gallette, 2:12¼, the fast daughter of Judd Wilkes and a much faster mare than her record when in proper shape; Clay S., 2:14, the hig grandson of Electioneer, whose mark will be lowered at Santa Rosa if he starts and is ready for a race. There a e three or four other horses that will he at Santa Rosa next week whose ahility to cope with these free-for-allers is not questioned hy those who have seen them at work. Among the pacers are at least ten that can pace miles better than 2:15, and it is almost certain that the Santa Rosa track record will be broken the first day of the meeting. It is the duty of every horse owner to make as many entries to this meeting as possihle, that it may he a success. The Santa Rosa people are going to turn out in large numbers if good racing is provided for their enjoyment. They have contrihuted a large sum toward the meeting. Let the horsemen he as generous with their entries and the success of the meeting will he assured.

"DAGGY" SMITH.

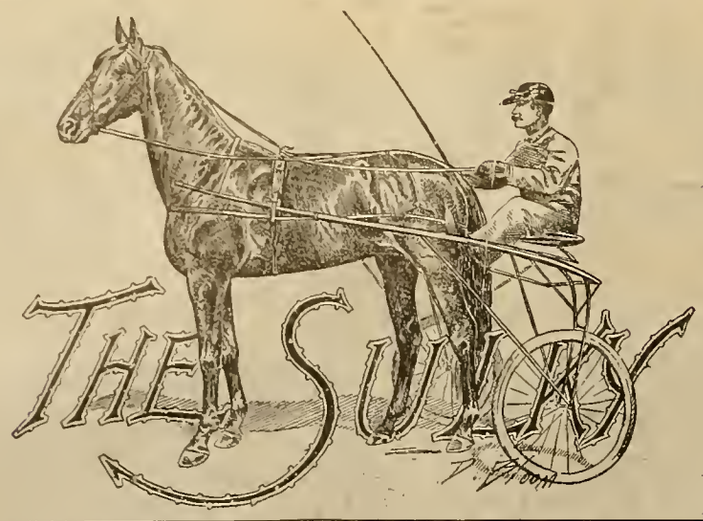
Judge Clancy of the prohate Conrt of Bntte, Montana, made an order last Monday appointing Edward F. Smith, better known as "Daggy" Smith, special administrator of the estate of the late Byron C. Holly, the horseman who died suddenly in Butte last week. The order was made in response to a petition presented hy Mr. Smith, which stated that he was a resident of San Francisco and that Byron C. Holly died in Butte on or abont Angnst 4th; that before he died his home was in Vallejo, Cal.; that Holly left an estate consisting of $840 in cash, some private papers and eleven head of race horses worth about $3,340, the value of each being as follows: Horton, $1,000; Charlotte M. $500; Midas, $200; Torsion, $150; Zarida $100; La Fontera, $100; Devil's Dream, $250; Fred Gardner, $100; Fortuna, $100; La Mascotta, $100, and Lorena H., $100.

The document further stated that the heirs at law were Mrs. Byron Holly, wife of deceased; Lena Holly, a daughter 29 years old; that no will had been found among the effects of the deceased in Montana, but it was likely one was in existence in California.

In his petition Mr. Smith further said that several of the dead man's horses were entered in races at Anaconda and that it was the desire of Mrs. Holly that he take charge of the animals, race them and turn all the property over to her at the close of the meeting; that until such time as letters testamentary or of administration were granted in California there was no one in the State of Montana or elsewhere to take charge of the money, property and effects of the decedent and that at the request of the wife of Mr. Holly he made the application for special letters of administration to enahle him to handle and care for and protect the property.

MONDAY next, August 20th, is the day for the closing of entries for Santa Rosa and the State Fair. Don't forget the date.



MIGHTY STAR POINTER.

Repeate Hie Wonderful Performance of Laet Year and Paces in 1:59 1-4.

When some of the Eastern turf papers announced a few weeks ago that Star Pointer was going faster than ever this year, there were many horsemen shook their heads and said that his wonderful mile in 1:59¼ last year was surely his limit and that he would probably never again have track and weather and his own condition just right at the same time, so that he could equal or lower his record. At Columbus, Ohio, last Saturday, with the track not in the best of shape, the great son of Brown Hal and Sweepstakes equaled his mark made at Readville, Mass., August 28th last year. Fully five thousand people were present, as the announcement was made that Star Pointer would attempt to lower the record of 2:01¼ made by Joe Patchen last year. The track was not as fast as it ordinarily is under favorable conditions and teams were working it between heats all day.

It was hardly expected that Pointer would lower even the track record, and when it was announced he had equaled his record of 1:59¼, the crowd went wild with enthusiasm.

It was after 4 o'clock when Pointer was brought out for the test. The breeze which had blown up the stretch at a merry clip for several hours had died down and the pennant on the judges stand clung to the staff. The first time Pointer was brought down to the wire he did not have his stride and went almost to the half before he turned back. It was about 4 20 when Geers brought him down the second time. The stallion was as steady as a machine and Geers nodded for the word. George Spear drove the pace-maker, a runner hitched to a sulky, and the start was a beautiful one.

The crowd was on its feet before Pointer was under the wire and there was silence until the stallion reached the quarter, when it was announced that the time was 0:29½. This brought forth a shout of exultation, for it was seen Pointer was giving a remarkable performance. There was another shout when Pointer reached the half in 0:58½ and still another when he reached the three-quarter pole in 1:28¾ for it was then certain that the mile would be under two minutes. As Pointer came into the stretch his feet plowed up the dust as the bow of a tug plowed up smooth water. There was a smile on McCleary's face and when the runner moved up at the finish Pointer pushed his nose ahead and kept it there until he passed under the wire. A mighty cheer went up from the crowd, for the next instant the time 1:59¼, was announced.

Star Pointer is not only the fastest pacer in the world, but he is also the slowest according to Yarrum of the Horse Review, who says:

"If you will watch Star Pointer closely the next time you see him warming up for a dash against the watch, you will discover that he is the slowest pacer in the world. McClary generally gives him about four warming-up heats before a fast mile, and the first mile he jogs around the wrong way of the track after he comes out of the stable is so slow that if his feet were not visible one would think that his gait was a very leisurely walk. It's a square pace, though, and it is certainly the slowest jog I ever looked at. Mr. Murphy called my attention to this fact one day when the horse was just finishing his first mile, and I timed him the last quarter, which I suppose he really went quite a little faster than any one of the other three, in 1:55½, and if McClary would try I think he could surely drive him a quarter in about 2:15 without pulling him to walk.

"Uncle Bob" Coleman, who used to be one of the leading trotting horsemen in Pennsylvania, says that the trotter and pacer of to-day has not much advantage over his ancestors of forty years ago in point of natural speed, and recites the fact in support of his claim that old Corbeau, sire of Billy Boise and others, formerly owned by him, paced a quarter in 1866 to a high-wheeled sulky in 30 seconds. It was in the free-for-all at Charleston, Ind., and his uncle, Robert M. Lewis, was up behind Corbeau. The judges, seeing the superior speed of Corbeau, called Mr. Lewis to the stand and asked him to drive Corbeau the last quarter of the heat as fast as he could pace. Mr. Lewis refused to do this unless the judges waived the distance, which they did, and Corbeau finished the last quarter, timed by many watches, in 30 seconds.

There is another little black son of Direct that will be in the list before long. He is called Devers and is owned in Ontario, Canada. He was close up to the winner in a heat in 2:21¼. Devers is said to be a perfect image of his sire and acts like a race horse.

LETTER FROM T. E. KEATING.

He Believes Klatawah Will Lower All Records Next Year.

The following is an extract from a letter written by Tommy Keating, trainer and driver of Klatawah, 2:06¼, to the breeder and owner of the horse, Mr. John F. Boyd of Oakwood Park Stock Farm, anent a proposition to purchase the great three-year-old.

"Klatawah is young and strong and sound as a new made dollar, and is probably the greatest horse living to day. There is no telling where he will stop if nothing happens, and I believe, as a four-year-old he will beat all records, not barrings Star Pointer's 1:59¼. I think if you kept him over until next year, and kept him before the public, he might be of greater value to your farm than to sell him this fall. He is simply the grandest looking horse now any one ever saw, as well as the best actor in a race. He has every qualification of a world beater—can reel off quarters in 30 seconds with the most consummate ease. Now, should you sell him he might fall into hands that would not suit him and be lost sight of. I believe he would bring even more money next Spring. Searchlight will bring more money this year than last, and so I think it would be with Klatawah. Everybody will want him when the racing commences next spring. However, Mr. Boyd, anything that best suits you will suit me, and I will do all I can for Klatawah whether you sell or not. Do not think that I want you to keep him for my benefit. I am only suggesting what I would do if he were mine. I am really sorry that you and Mrs. Boyd could not see the great colt race. I will not start him again for a few weeks as I do not wish to over do it with him, but will keep him for his stake engagements. I hope everything goes smoothly so I can show the people that you have bred the greatest harness horse the world ever saw, and that there should be more of the same kind on the farm.

My horses are all doing nicely. Searchlight is a wonderful horse, so is Anaconda, and Mr. Spreckels little mare Dione is winning everything and has a record in third heat of 2:09¼. I won first money at Cleveland in every race I started in, five in all. The congratulations were many. My health has not been quite so good, and I got Mr. McHenry to help me drive, as my doctors requested me to keep a little quiet during the hot weather. I hope you will have some more like Klatawah for me next season. Exercise your own judgment in regard to him and it will be perfectly satisfactory to me. I will say he is in the finest possible shape today and is doing the Oakwood Park Stock Farm proud. With very best wishes to yourself and Mrs. Boyd, I am

Yours truly, T. E. Keating.

Old Orchard, Maine, Aug. 2, 1898.

Great Scott, who won the first championship for harness horses, at the Long Branch Horse Show, in 1895, has returned to the United States after a victorious trip to England, where he won a ribbon every time shown. He comes back to his original owner, George B. Hulme, who, after making a present of the horse to his sister, was requested by her to show him again in America. Accordingly, Great Scott will be one of the entries in the championship class at Long Branch this summer. Great Scott was in the group championship, won by Mr. Hulme, at Crystal Palace, last year, and enjoys the distinction of being the only horse that has won championship honors on both sides of the Atlantic. At Madison Square Garden, in 1896, he was second in his class to Coxey. Great Scott is reported to be in better condition than ever. His five stable companions were sold in England.

Dr. Leo Ticehubst, a veterinarian of Bay Shore, New York, has on his farm about twenty head of horses, all purchased at the big sales in New York during the last few years when horses were selling for nothing. He paid from $20 to $75 each for them and they are all under five years. He has worked five of them so far. One of them, a son of Norval, has now a mark of 2:25; another a mark of 2:17½; a third one of 2:2[illegible]; and a fourth of 2:47 and a fifth with ten days' work trotted a mile in 2:23 July 22d—the first mile of his life to sulky and at speed. Dr. Ticehuret says he did not begin with the best and is sure he can pick out five better ones from the lot and still have some speed left in the bunch. It looks as though there should be a liberal margin of profit in such work as this.

Nannie Etticoat is the dam of Split Silk, 2:09½, Red Silk, 2.10, Brown Silk, 2:19½, and the second dam of India Silk, 2:10¼, and China Silk, 2:16½.

HORSE SHOW AT LOS ANGELES.

Swell Function in Preparation for the Coming Winter—San Franciscane Will Participate.

A novel and attractive entertainment will be held in Los Angeles during the coming winter. The Horse Show association of Southern California is rapidly completing its plans for the first annual exhibition. It is proposed to make this exhibition a swell function and to run it upon the same general lines as the famous horse show of New York. Already many of the society people have signed the subscription list of boxes, which entitles the holders to from four to six seats in each box for the entire season of four days and two or more performances each day.

There will be exhibited all classes of horses—trotters, runners, driving horses, ponies, trick horses, hackneys, cobs and draught. Besides these special features will be introduced, such as a floral day, polo playing, rough riding, the fire drill coach driving, hurdle riding, etc. Cups and money prizes to the extent of several thousand dollars will be offered by the association for the best horses in each class, as well as for the best equipages and performances of driving and riding.

Horses will be entered for competition from all the adjacent cities and towns, as well as from Santa Barbara, San Jose and Francisco. From the latter city many fine coaches and other equipages have already been promised, it being the intention to discontinue the horse show for this season at least, in San Francisco. This will give an opportunity to the society people and horse owners of San Francisco to have a change of scene and climate by coming to Los Angeles to make exhibits, as well as to display their skill at riding and driving.

M. S. Severance, the president of the association, and M. E. Wooster are the originators of the idea of holding the meeting in Los Angeles, and thus far they have met with much success and voluntary co-operation from the leading citizens.

Fiesta Park will probably be selected as the most desirable site for the exhibition. Plans are now being drawn for the boxes and seating arrangements. In the center of the park will be the arena, of eliptical shape and about 200 feet in length by 80 feet in width, where equine sports may be indulged in. Surrounding this is to be a promenade which separates the boxes and the arena. Back of this will be the seats, over which will be awnings and decorations.—Los Angeles Herald.

Forty Per Cent. Higher.

That horses are advancing in price in all parts of the United States is clearly proved by reports of sales. The Chicago Horseman, published in the center of the American horse market, publishes the following editorially in its last week's issue:

That the long-promised shortage of supply in the general horse market is even now being felt is proved beyond peradventure by the advance in prices that has been scored. Last week our East Buffalo correspondent wrote that so few horses were coming to that market that many buyers for the domestic and export trade were unable to fill orders, and that horses which but a short time ago were plentiful and easily procured at from sixty-five to ninety-five dollars now command from $115 to $140 dollars, without nearly enough to supply the demand. For the better grades prices have risen even more in proportion, and the supply comes even farther from being sufficient to satisfy the wants of purchasers. This, taken in conjunction with reports from other points, will convince anyone of the very healthy tone the general market is assuming. Of course, it is the eternal object of the dealers to keep prices down, to the end that they may buy on the old basis from the producer and sell on the new to the consumer, and they have many powerful allies; but strenuous and well-directed though their efforts are, they cannot succeed much longer in depressing values below a legitimate value.

Last Wednesday a gentlemen who is thoroughly in touch with all that goes on in the Chicago horse market was in The Horseman's editorial rooms and stated that never in his experience had that market been as devoid of desirable offerings as at this moment. "They simply are not coming in," he said, "because they are not in the country to come. I have an order at this moment for a good pair, without limit as to price, and I cannot find the horses in Chicago to fill the bill. Several other gentlemen have asked me to find them single horses and pairs at prices ranging from fifteen hundred dollars and downward, and I cannot find the horses." He then proceeded to enquire if we knew of any first class horses for carriage, coach or road purposes, and we were compelled to reply that we did not. Farther, an extensive advertiser in and liberal patron of The Horseman recently asked that we furnish him with information that might lead him to purchase several large, stylish, standard-bred trotting stallions that would be likely to beget coachers of salable type. Our commissioner then at Peoria was instructed to make inquiries among the horsemen congregated there as to where such horses might be found. His reply was that he met no less than nine men looking for just such animals, their object being not to sell them for reproductive purposes, but to add them to the list of geldings and sell them for carriage use in the larger cities. One large firm of dealers had three representatives at the Peoria meeting and not one of them bought a horse. If this is not comfort of tidings and joy to the breeder who has some young things coming on, we should be pleased to learn what is.

The cartoon of Capt. Keating and his crew knocking out everything at Cleveland, published in last weeks Chicago Horse Review is very clever. Keating is pictured sitting in a hammock on the pilot house of a vessel directing McHenry and McDowell who are firing cannon labeled Searchlight, Klatawah, Anaconda and Dione. These guns have horse heads for muzzles and the fire from their mouths is knocking the Eastern drivers and horses all to pieces. Sandy, the Jew, stands on deck with a swab and a bucket, ready to do the swiping, while Cooney stands on the pilot house viewing the slaughter with a pair of sea glasses. The drawing is by the well known horse artist Dickey.

THE BAYWOOD STUD.

It is a pleasant ride by rail to San Mateo, leaving the city at 9 A. M. and reaching in less than a hour the beautiful little city which lies in the midst of one of California's choicest garden spots, sheltered by a mountain range from the rough winds of the ocean, while relieved from summer heat by the waters of the bay and the gentle breezes that come from its surface. Here where umbrageous oaks grow in profusion, where soil is rich and climate perfect, many of the wealthiest California families have built their homes. Alighting from the train, a five minutes ride behind a handsome and well mannered high stepper brings one to "The Bungalow," the property of Mr. John Parrott, where that enterprising Californian has established "The Baywood Stud," devoted exclusively to the breeding and training of high-class harness and saddle horses.

In 1893 Mr. Parrott purchased imported Green's Rufus, a grand looking, first prize winning Hackney stallion, and a few full blood hackney mares. To these as a foundation, he has added about twenty-five head of trotting bred mares of his own selection, not caring so much for blood lines as for conformation, and that indispensable quality in a high class carriage animal—a disposition to raise the knees and hocks, and show all the style possible. Mr. Parrott has fixed in his mind an ideal horse which he desires to breed and though it will be a year before the first results of his efforts are ready for the New York sales ring, there are many animals now on his place that give proof that he is coming nearer to his desired idea than the majority of breeders.

To raise good horses, judicious mating is not only necessary, but judicious feeding as well, and surely the sucklings, weanlings, yearlings and two-year-olds now at Baywood Stud, show evidences of both. The two-year-olds, of which there are upwards of twenty and which, in the late fall of 1899, will represent the first consignment to eastern markets of Mr. Parrott's breeding, are still running in the pastures, as grand looking and handsome a band of youngsters as can be seen in California. They have size, good heavy bone and at the same time quality. Every animal is not a perfect ideal; no breeder has yet or ever will be able to breed perfection, but the proportion of good ones is large because all the poor colts are discarded, and mares that do not produce desirable foals are gotten rid of.

In addition to the natural grasses that these youngstars pick up in the pastures, they are fed ground soft feed twice a day, and certainly they have responded to this treatment. Good feeding does a great deal toward making good necks, and there is nothing that causes the despised ewe necks on any breed of horses more than starvation. The thick neck and arched crest of the Percheron will disappear in a generation where food is not sufficient to satisfy the needs of the body.

Kind treatment gives an animal confidence in man, and as gentle manners and good behavior can never result where horses are abused, one of the rules of Baywood Stud is that kindness and firmness are absolutely necessary at all times. There is no "broncho busting" here. A stroll through the paddocks and over the hills of the pastures with the master will prove this. The broodmares and foals show no fear, but allow one to pass among them, rub their noses and pat their sleek and fat sides. The two-year-olds follow one about, and can hardly be driven away, such is their confidence that no harm will come from close acquaintance.

While the pastures and paddocks present picturesque scenes on every hand, it is at the stables where the greatest interest in this well appointed enterprise is aroused.

Imported Green's Rufus is led out for inspection. It is no wonder he carried off the blue ribbon, as he is a splendid type of his breed. A good and very intelligent head, wall, set on an arched and massive neck, short and broad back, good heavy bone, short legs, and over all these good points quality predominates. He has elegant style and great action. In color he is a handsome chestnut, stands 15.2, weighs something over 1,200 pounds and has an individuality about him that impresses one with the idea that he is a very high-class horse.

After looking through the box stalls where a few good-looking sons and daughters of Rufus are shown and give proof of his power to reproduce his various good qualities, a carriage pair were brought out, the harness put on them and a drive taken through the beautiful winding and shaded roads which hereabouts abound.

Mounted upon the front seat of the trap one has a good opportunity to observe this handsome pair of mares, which are the first that Baywood Stud has mated, shaped and trained for the market. They are both deep rich bays, almost perfectly matched, and great beauties. Their rounded forms, intelligent, handsome heads, and clear limbs would attract the eye of any lover or admirer of beauty in a horse, but their manners will excite the admiration of all who see them on the road. They are out for show and know it and with arched necks and elegant action, they are an ideal pair of high steppers. Both know their business and attend strictly to it, looking neither to the right nor the left, no tossing of the head or swerving at the sight of anything. Their months are perfect, and the response to the slightest touch of the rein instant.

Under a grand old oak they are pulled up, and stand almost motionless while we alight with their owner to get a look at them as they are driven up and down the road. This only adds to an admiration already formed for what in any country would be called a very high class carriage pair, and we are soon behind them again and return to the stables, where a large gray and a bay are brought out and shown tandem. These are also of Baywood Stud training entirely. The grey will require more education in the manner of holding his head, but he is a handsome intelligent horse and will learn. He steps with that action which is a requisite for all good park horses, and is a noble looking fellow all around. The leader, a bay that is from a Palo Alto mare is, we are informed, taking his third lesson at this way of going. Such being the case, here is the making of a first prize winner. His size and conformation are excellent, he is young and sound, and of good disposition, and one can hardly believe he has not been trained at the business for years. Here is the test for a gentleman's harness horse—put him in the lead of a tandem, where he is on his own responsibility, with no shafts or tongue to keep him in place, and no companion to follow, and if he goes straight about his business, minds his manners, obeys the rein, and at the same time does not forget that he must step high, arch his neck and act the dandy then he is all right. All these this young horse did. Once or twice only when short turns were made did he get a little out of place, but as soon as he knew what was required of him he was ready and anxious to do it. He traveled along as straight as an arrow; and when asked to stop stood like a statue. It was an exhibition of marvelous equine intelligence.

The young horses at Baywood Stud are not taken up until they are two years old, when they are docked and given their first lessons. They are all mounted under the saddle. There is none of that cruelty which many suppose is inflicted by curb bits. Instead, a very heavy bit is used which hangs low in the mouth and on the bar of which is a burr. This teaches the animal to arch his neck and then when the rider starts him ahead, at the same time placing a little restraint on the bit, the knees come up and the high step results. When perfectly trained to saddle and taught to stand and to be afraid of nothing that a gentleman's carriage or saddle horse meets on city streets or country roads, they are put in harness. Kindness and firmness are used at all times, no whipping or shouting, no rushing them about or frightening them into submission, and the result is gentle, well mannered animals, fit for ladies and children to ride behind with that pleasure and enjoyment that is only to be had where there is confidence in the good behavior of the horses.

Mr. Parrott will have about twenty-five head to send East during the latter part of 1899, and if those we saw at Baywood Stud are a fair sample of what he can furnish for that market, we are certain his breeding venture will be a great success. Mr. Parrott is engaged in the breeding and education of high class carriage and saddle horses more for the pleasure it affords him than for the profit to be made out of it, and the Breeder and Sportsman will take great interest in watching the progress made by him in his efforts to produce, with some degree of uniformity, the type and style of horse that is demanded in the great centres of population for use in park and street by those who can afford the best that money can buy. He has certainly made a good beginning, and with the means at his command and the intelligent study and effort which he will be able to devote to it, success is almost certain to result.

Golden Gate Driving Park Association.

This popular and energetic organization is rapidly growing in membership. There is not a meeting held but two or three applications are handed in to be voted on, and horse owners and road drivers all over the city are taking great interest in the organization as well as in the speed contests arranged by it. The next meet to be given by this organization will be at Ingleside race track on Friday and Saturday September 9th and 10th. The opening day is a legal holiday, being the anniversary of the admission of California into the Union. Business in town is always suspended on that day, which enables thousands who enjoy the sport of harness racing to spend a pleasant afternoon watching the hot contests that always ensue when the Golden Gate drivers are contesting for a purse. The program at this meeting will consist of dashes, heat races and double team contests. It is earnestly hoped by the officers of the association that every member will assist in making this meeting a success by entering his horses and soliciting other members to do the same. At the next meeting of the association all the conditions of the races and the sizes of the purses to be offered will be made known, and it is confidently expected that a very large entry list will be the result.

This meeting at Ingleside will be the first under the auspices of the association where admission to the track will be charged, and this will be done for the purpose of providing funds for the treasury that the interests of all members may be advanced and that the speed tracks and roads may be kept in good shape for driving. Any desired information in regard to the association can be obtained by addressing F. W. Thompson, Secretary, 1200 Market street, San Francisco.

Dione, 2:09 1-4.

The above is a very truthful likeness of Mr. A. B. Spreckels' handsome little mare now in T. E. Keating's stable in the East. She has earned a record of 2:09¼ in a third heat, and has won right along since leaving Denver, where she was not in first class shape. At Rigby Park, Maine, last Saturday, she was beaten by Nico, son of Arion, 2:07¾, but got second money in the race, and was only a short head het hind him when he finished in 2:09½, the fastest time made by a four-year-old this year, and in fact was a very close second in every heat in the race. It was a great race and a grandson and grand-daughter of Electioneer, one owned in the extreme east, the other in the extreme west of this great country finished first and second.

Incidents of a Great Meeting.

At the Cleveland Grand Circuit meeting this year 61 heats were contested in 15 classes carried off, 33 heats trotted and 28 heats paced. The trotters averaged 2:12 26-100 per head, and the pacers 2:09 1-3. Two heats were paced in 2:04¾, one each by Searchlight and Anaconda; Lena N.. Frank Bogash and Searchlight went one heat each in 2:05½; Anaconda was credited with a heat in 2:05½, and Searchlight another in 2:05¾. Searchlight started twice during the meeting, winning both times. The times for both races were: 2:04¾, 2:09½, 2:09, 2:05¾, 2:05½ and 2:06¾, an average of 2:06 63-100. Anaconda's three heats averaged in 2:06½; Frank Bogash won two heats in 2:05½, 2:09½, an average of 2:07 3 8. Seventeen heats were paced in 2:10 or better, and the slowest time made was 2:15.

Lena N. made a new record for pacing mares in 2:05½; Searchlight lowered the mark of four-year-olds to 2:04¾; The Abbot cut the world's record for five-year-old gelding trotters to 2:08½, and Grace Hastings made a new world's wagon record of 2:09½. The money-winners of $500 and over were:

Trotters—Mattie Patterson,$1,200; Tommy Britton,$1,250; Directum Kelly, $1,250; Dione, $1,000; Red Boy,$1,000; The Abbott, $1,000; Anglina, $1,000; Gayton, $1,000; Askay,$625; Cresceus, $625; True Chimes, $652; Belle J., $500; Louise Mac, $500; Hesperus, $500; Eagle Flanagan, $500; Wilhur, $500.

Pacers—Searchlight, $2,250; Lady of the Manor, $1,200; Split Silk, $1,250; Anaconda, $1,000; Klatawah,$1,000; Anne Lae, $1,000; Chahalis, $625; Donnogh, $625; Lottia Smart, $625; Frank Bogash, $500; Evangeline, $500; Lena N., $500; Pentland $500.

The winners of heats who did not win races were: —Trotters—Belle J. 2:11, Percy 2:13½, Louisa Mac 2:14½, 2:14¼, Minnie D. 2:15½, Crescens 2:09¾, Hesperus 2:11¾, 2:13¼. Pacers—Lena N. 2:05¼, Lottia Smart 2:09¾, 2:11, Pentland 2:11½, Evangelina 2:11½ and Frank Bogash 2:05¼, 2:08½.

A Uniform Law Needed.

One of the most important works for the National Horse Breeders' Association will be the working out through the united efforts of the leading horsemen from all the States, some plan or State law that will secure to the stallion breeder his fee for breeding, and at the same time give equal protection to the owner of the mares, reliable pedigree and veterinary inspection to guarantee the stallion sound and free from hereditary unsoundness. Every State Legislature in the Union has been for a quarter of a century trying to get such a law enacted, without success. We should have a uniform law in all the States, and if the horsemen of this Association will devise such a law that is practical, the National and State Horse Breeders' Association can secure the adoption in all the States. If there is any State law that experience proves to be successful, or some good features in several State laws, then adopt the best that experienced horsemen can devise and the State Legislature will be glad to have the problem solved, so it will not come up again at each meeting of the Legislature. The Michigan State law has some good features and is plain, its provisions being equally applicable to the owner of stallions and breeders. The law gives the owner of stallions a first lien on mares bred to his horse as security for service fees, and also stops the owners of stallions from collecting a fee if there has been any misrepresentation of pedigree of the sire.

Sulky Notes.

Our Tommy.

Do you read the daily papers?
Have you seen what lively capers
Are cut by Californians on all the Eastern tracks?
Have you noticed the repeating
Of the name of Tommy Keating,
And how the horses he has trained have beaten all the cracks?

Have you figured up the winning
Tommy's made since the beginning
Of the season out at Denver? and the total of his haul?
If you have you know he's in it
Every blooming racing minute
And has surely earned the title: Champion trainer of them all.

In this State where fruit and flowers
Bud and bloom in winter hours,
We think Keating is a dandy, a daisy and a peach;
That his trotters and his pacers
Are the boss of all the racers,
And the brightest lot of pebbles that are shining on the beach.

STATE FAIR entries close Monday.

FANNY DILLARD 2:15¼, a pacing mare, was sold recently for $2,000.

JOE WHEELER, 2:7½, is at Santa Rosa and may start there during the meeting.

OUTSIDE watches caught Klatawah in 2:05¾ when he paced to his record of 2:06¼.

NORVING, a son of Norval, paced to a record of 2:11¼ at Portland, Maine, August 2d.

LITTLE THORNE ought to get a mark of 2:10 or better before the season closes. He may start at Santa Rosa.

THERE are about eighty head of horses at Santa Rosa track, and at least as many more will be shipped there this week.

BILL FRAZIER finished second in the first heat in the 2:13 pace at Davenport, Iowa, in 2:11¾ in a field of fifteen starters.

GEORGE SANDERS has four good trotters to campaign in Elloree, 2:09¼, Mattie Patterson, 2:09¼, Pasonte, 2:13, and Percy, 2:13.

THE North Pacific Circuit arranged this year among the tracks of Oregon and Washington is the best ever gotten up in that country.

THE Stamboul family is showing up pretty well this year with Stamhoulette, 2:12½, Querist 2:13½ and D. L. C. 2:13½ as sample members.

BILL OF EXPENSE is the very appropriate name of a horse that doesn't seem to trot very fast, but is raced on some of the Eastern tracks.

THE SWIFT 2:09½, is a four year-old and is a chestnut mare by Grandeur, he by Grand Sentinel, he by Sentinel and he by Hambletonian 10.

DUSTY MILLER, 2:20, one of the matrons at Maplehurst Farm, is now a great broodmare, being the dam of Moth Miller, 2:12¾, and Milliner, 2:28.

WINDSWEEP was killed last week by lightning. She was a daughter of Hamlin's Almont and had produced Passing Belle, 2:08¼, and Excellence, 2:19½.

JASPER AYERS put in a mile right close to 2:05 not long since at Readville, but he was running away at the time and went six miles before being stopped.

WHEN Keating went to Rigby he took Searchlight, Klatawa and Dions with him, while he sent Anaconda and William Harold to Columbus with McHenry.

JOHN W. MARTIN, well known to the horsemen of California as the owner of Clay Duke 2:29, and Del Ray 2:24¾, is a candidate for Recorder of Tulare county.

MARCUS DALY now has nearly one hundred trotting-bred mares on his Bitter Root Ranch in Montana. Mr. Daly is not fond of pacers, but is partial to trotters.

COMPETENT man seeks a position as trainer and driver can break and train for track or road. Not afraid of work. Best of references. Address "H," this office. *

MAMBRINO KING, Baron Wilkes and Altamont are the only stallions that have six of their produce in the 2:10 list. Altamont was the first to acquire that honor.

CHIMES now has 29 trotters and 16 pacers in the 2:30 list, five of which made their appearance this year. Three trotters and two pacers have records better than 2:10.

ACCORDING to a number of exporters, next season's demand will largely exceed the supply of good horses. Exports this year have grown beyond all expectations.

WHEN Grace Hastings broke the world's wagon record at Cleveland, July 29th, and trotted in 2:09½, she came the last half of the mile in 1:03¼ and the last quarter in 0:31¼.

A BROWN coach gelding 16 hands high with fine style and action, was sold by auction at the Stock Yards, Chicago, last Friday for $300. He was bought for export to Belgium.

THERE was a quarter mile dash at the Independence, Oregon track, for a purse of $20 the other day between Stanwix 2:21¼, and Del Norte 2:08. Del Norte won in 30¼ seconds.

IT is asserted that Dolly Madison, by James Madison, the mare recently sold for export to Europe at a long price showed a mile in 2:13½ by the watch before the deal was closed.

THE judges at Poughkeepsie one day last week fined T. H. Camp, owner of Emma E, $200 for pulling his mare in a race in which she won two heats, a record of 2:14½ and second money.

IN order to prevent Dsrhee, 2:19¼, an Eastern horse, from crossfiring, one end of a rubber strap is snapped into a ring on his left hind shoe, the other end hooked to a sliding bar on the shaft.

DEL NORTE, 2:08 is being educated to be a guideless pacer at the Independence track, and it is said he is taking kindly to his work and may soon blossom out as a "guideless wonder from Oregon."

THE death is announced of the high stepping, prize-winning Hackney stallion Bonquo, son of the Columbian champion, Jubilee Chief. He was owned by Hon. Robert Beith of Ontario.

BINGEN won two heats of a seven heat race at Dover, N. H. week before last, but was unsteady and lost the race. He had the speed of the field, however. He seems to be unable to reach his old mark of 2:12½.

RHODA FERRAND, 2:11¼, will be shipped to England at the close of the racing season this fall, as the handsome pacing mare has been purchased by George Ketcham for his friend, Walter Winans, of London.

RESORT the big son of Hawthorne, has as much or more speed than ever. There is a chance of his reducing his record of 2:15½ when he starts at Santa Rosa. A half in 1:02 has been paced by him more than once.

THE three-year-old black filly Mo. S, by Wildbrino, from Brown Birdie, by Hooker, recently owned in Toronto, Canada, has been sold in England for $2,100. She is a trotting-bred high stepper, and a great show mare.

AT the Maine State fair a race is announced for horses owned by French residents only, and the interest taken in this event is little short of marvelous, many fast horses having been purchased especially for the occasion.

EAGLE FLANNAGAN is good goods. He beat The Abbot at Columbus in 2:09¼, 2:10½ and 2:12¼, though the son of Chimes took two heats out of the race in 2:08¼ and 2:08½. The Abbot has the speed, but is unsteady at times.

SUEL HARRIS, the well-known horseman of Marysville recently sold the four-year-old trotter Valdemar, 2:32, to C. W. Hamilton of Oakland, who will drive him on the road. Valdemar is much faster than his record which was made when he was a three-year-old.

GEO. WATSON, the largest horse dealer in London, is in this country looking for high steppers and will buy all that he can find at a reasonable figure. There is such a demand for fancy carriage horses in Europe that the dealers there are at a loss to know how to supply it.

MR. A. G. GURNETT, President of the San Francisco Stock Exchange is at his Sulphur Spring Farm, where he will spend several weeks. He found the colts and other stock all looking well, and is particularly well pleased with the first crop of foals by St. Nicholas.

THE bay stallion William Harold by Sidney has been sent East and started on the last day of the Cleveland meeting. He was driven by McHenry and got fourth money in the race, his positions in the summary being 5-3-5-3. The heats were paced in 2:12¼, 2:11½, 2:11¾ and 2:12¾.

IT is probable that Joe Patchen, 2:01¼, and John R. Gentry 2:00½, will be matched for a two in three race to come off over the Washington Park track at Chicago. Both horses are in excellent condition and their owners say could be ready to start in the race within two weeks.

SAN PEDRO, the black son of Del Sur that Monroe Salisbury campaigned in the East, giving him a record of 2:10¾ pacing and 2:14½ trotting, is still doing service as a road horse in New York State. He is thirteen years old and can hold his own with most of the horses in his class.

ANDY MCDOWELL has made about as many world's records as any trainer. His championships still standing are, fastest trotter, Alix, 2:03¾; fastest gelding, Azote, 2:04¾; fastest pacing mare, Lena N., 2:05¼; fastest three-year-old pacer, Klatawah, 2:06¼; fastest two-year-old pacer, Directly, 2:07¾.

TIMOTHY C. ANGLIN, the Lexington (Ky.) milkman who raised Anglina, now ranks among the most successful breeders of trotting horses. Starting with one broodmare, Betty Brown, he has raised from her and her descendants such high-class trotters as Angelina, 2:12, Anglina, 2:12½, Constantine, 2:12½, Grattan, 2:13, Nelly A., 2:13, St. Vincent, 2:13½, and Thorn, 2:14.

CHEHALIS has redeemed himself, and on Saturday last, at Columbus, won the $2,000 2:05 pace "easily," the dispatches say, in straight heats. He lowered his record to 2:04¼ in the second heat, the other two heats being paced in 2:07½ and 2:05¾. He had Bumps, Frank Bogash, Annaias and Pearl Onward behind him. The hoppled whirlwind with the "injun" name is all right.

THE two-year-old division of the Horse Review Stake for trotting foals of 1896 contested for the money at Fort Wayne, Indiana, last Wednesday. The race was won by Cyrstalline, a bay filly by Onward, dam Crystal, by Crittenden. Second money went to Ima Electric, a bay filly by Electric, son of Electioneer, and third money to Gracie Onward, daughter of Onward. Cyrstalline won the second and third heats in 2:18¼ and 2:23. The first heat went to Rita E., daughter of Ashland Wilkes, who won it in 2:23¼, but was unfortunately distanced the third heat and shut out of any portion of the money.

MR. JAMES BUTLER, of New York, has purchased a nomination in the Transylvania for his great 4-year-old colt, Directum Kelly, 2:11¼. The purchase was made during the meeting at Detroit. Although the list of probable starters in this great event has not yet been given out, enough is known of them that the Transylvania will have one of the greatest fields in its history.

A NEW YORK breeder had a handsome filly that was fast. He put her in training and she soon showed her ability to trot quarters in 32 seconds. A buyer for the German market came along, and asked to see her move. She was hitched to a hike and trotted a quarter in 31½ seconds. He offered $2,500 for her and it was accepted. The filly is by Gillig, out of a mare by Alcantara.

GEO. FORD left Santa Ana last week for the East with his horse Neernut, 2:12¼, who is entered in races in Indiana, Kentucky, Iowa and Minnesota. Neernut is not only a fast and game race horse, but promises to be a great sire of speed. A two-year-old filly by him recently worked a mile in 2:22 at Santa Ana. Neernut is by Albert W., dam Clytie, by Nutwood, second dam by Hambletonian 725.

NICO, 2:09½, is a four-year-old bay stallion, bred by Malcolm Forbes. He is by Arion, 2:07¾, and his dam is Maggie Sultan, 2:30, by Sultan, 2 24. As a three-year-old Nico earned a record of 2:16¾ and showed such a lot of speed that he was touted as the coming champion. He is one of the improving kind and when he starts for the Transylvania money it will take a good one to head him.

ARRANGEMENTS are about completed for a fall meeting to be held at the Irvington track, Portland, Oregon. September 16th to 24th are the dates claimed. J. O. Mack will act as Secretary and will devote his entire time to getting things in readiness and making the meeting a success. It is the intention of the management to put the track in shape immediately so that horses can be worked on it.

N. W. HUBINGER of New Haven has authorized James Butler to pay over the $5,000 he held as stake money in the match with James A. Murphy of Chicago. The latter named his trotter Emily against the New England tailman's selection, Margaret, last winter, and the race was to have come off at Glens Falls, N. Y. Margaret has not come to her speed yet, and Mr. Hubinger has decided to turn her out for the season.

AT Fort Wayne, Indiana, Tuesday last, Matin Bell won the second and third heats of the Horse Review Two-year-old Stake in 2:16½ and 2:18¼. The first heat was won by Dr. Flower's Hill in 2:21¾. Matin Bell's performance is the fastest made by a two-year-old pacer this year. This filly is by Bow Bells, son of Electioneer and Beautiful Bells, and out of Rosy Morn (dam of Boreal, 2:15¾, and The Curfew, 2:27½) by Alcantara. All three of Rosy Morn's performers are by Bow Bells.

THE mare Belle J. that won two heats of the M. and M. stake and then was beaten by Directum Kelly, won the last race at Columbus last Saturday and beat a good field, taking the fifth, sixth and seventh heats. As her dam is of unknown breeding, she has been dubbed a quitter by all the Eastern turf papers nearly, but this race shows she has pretty good metal in her. Belle J. is five years old, and by Ben Johnson, son of Strong. The last named was got by Monmont, brother to Piedmont.

DON LOWELL, 2:14½, the son of Don Marvin that Suel Harris, of Marysville, sold to Monroe Salisbury, is used on the road in New York and can trot as fast as he ever could, but when it comes to a hot brush at any distance over a half mile, he slacks up a good deal toward the end of it. Another California product that is seen often on the new speedway in New York is Killarney Maid, the fast pacing mare by the Woodland pacing horse, Killarney, 2:20. Salisbury also took her East to race, but she was always outside the money and he sold her.

AMONG the horses purchased at the Corbitt sale at San Mateo a few weeks ago, was a two-year-old brother to Fred Kohl 2:12¼. He was purchased by Mr. Coffio of this city, who placed him in the hands of Trainer Cuicello at Santa Rosa. The thirty-fifth day after the colt had his first harness on Cuicello drove him a quarter in 35 seconds, and then asked Ed Lafferty to drive him an eighth. He covered the distance in 17 seconds. This was making speed fast enough, so the young trotter was turned out to pasture and is expected to be one of the real good things next year.

DOLLY MARSHUTZ, the handsome chestnut four-year-old mare, bred by Mr. A. G. Gurnett, and by Chas. Derby, out of Lassie Jean, dam of Who Is It, won at Youngstown, Ohio, last Saturday, and secured a record of 2:21¼. Dolly Marshutz is the property of Harry Wise, of this city. The first two heats of the race she won were taken by Lennie O., in 2:25½ and 2:22½. Dolly won the next three in 2:24½, 2:21¼ and 2:22¼. This is the first race won by this mare. She has not been in as good shape since she left California as she was early in the season when she worked a mile over the Pleasanton track in 2:15.

THE sum of $250 has been deposited with the Chicago Chronicle as forfeit in an offer to back a two-year-old pacer, not named, against any pacer of like age in the world, best two heats in three, over any track to be mutually agreed upon. The match will be made for $1,000 or from that up to $10,000 a side. The colt is an Illinois-bred one and has never faced a starter, but outside of that no information will be given until the match is made. There is great curiosity among the Chicago horsemen as to the identity of this colt. It is dollars to apples that he is some suddenly discovered phenomenon that will explode before the year is out.

J. M. NELSON is working those two good colts, Hijo del Diablo, 2:11½, and I Direct, 2:18½, at the Alameda track, but will soon leave with them for Santa Rosa, where they will start during the meeting which opens next Saturday. Hijo del Diablo was treated for a couple of very bad corns the other day, and as soon as the soreness is out of his feet he will be faster than ever. A few days previous to having the corns cut out he was driven a quarter in 29¾ seconds and an eighth in 13 3-5 seconds on the Alameda track. It was a lameness he showed after this that led to the discovery that he was afflicted with corns. This son of Diablo is a very handsome, powerfully built colt and has as much speed as any horse in California.

Mating Trottsrs and Pacsrs.

Trotwood, editor of the pacing department of the Horse Review, makes the following very interesting remarks on the breeding question in response to a letter recently received by him:

I have received a letter from a horseman in another Stete, who hes a trotting mere of exceedingly speedy inheritence, end he wishes my advice in regard to breeding her. He is hesiteting between a richly-bred pecing stallion and an equelly well-bred trotter. My advice to him would be to breed his trotting mare to the trotter, and my reasons for it are these: There are so many pacers coming now from trotting, as well as pacing families, that, if it coutinues a few years more, the pure gaited fast trotter with no pacing inheritance is going to be worth a great deal more, speed for speed, than the pacer. He is worth more now; but, if the thing coutinues, he will continue to out sell the pacer in proportions as the one becomes commoner and the other scarcer I believe now that if a trotting sire could be found, of faultless breeding and a sire of extreme trotting speed, whose trotting inheritance was so great that he would never throw a pacer—if such could be found, I say—he would sell for more money than any other trotting sire in the land.

Despite the small difference in their gaits, there are many people who always will prefer a trotter to a pacer. There are also others who will always prefer a pecer to a trotter. In either event, either of them will prefer to breed to a horse who will be sure to sire jost what they are breeding for. So far, the pacer is the only horse who seems to ha prepotent enough to reprodnce, with auy certainty, his own gait. No one would breed to a pacing bred pacer expecting a trotter. If he did, he would never get it. Even if a trotting-bred mare, he will get a fast pacer or not much of anything else.

My second reason is that, deepite all talk and statistics and arguments, despite even all facts to the contrary—and I confess that on this question they sometimes put my reasoning to doubt—nevertheless, in my innermost conception of things, I believe that, at last, it will be the continual breeding of gait to gait, through so many generations that it becomes a fixture, that both the fastest trotter and the fastest pacer will be produced. In Star Pointer the pacer has already proved his side of the problem. Why will it not also hold true with the trotter?

Fortunately for the sport, under the liberal condition of things now, from a racing standpoint, it does not matter much which gait is teken, so it be a fast one. Moreover, the fast pacer now seems to have the call over his consin in the popular eye. But fashion changes, and the time may again come when a pacer on a track may rank little better than a dog and not quite so good as a horse, to change a little an old saw. In that event the pure-bred trotter will have the call. Any way, it is a good rule to breed like to like, let the future bring what it may.

A Revival at Baker City, Oregon

E. J. Myers has leesed the track and grounds at Baker City and will commence a complete improvement of the premises. He will put on the grounds a steam engine and boiler, among other improvements, for the purpose of hoisting water for track irrigation and other porposes. The grand stand and all other buildings will be repaired and the fences put in good condition.

It is Mr. Myers' purpose to have a fall race meeting directly after the close of the La Grande fair and in a short time he will be able to announce an attractive speed program.

Mr. Myere ie the possessor of a number of pacing and trotting horses and on his return from Ellensburg, will not only bring his horses, but will be accompanied by the stables of several other persons and the fair grounds here will be made their headquarters.

Mr. Myers boilt the speed track in Lessen county, California, and for upwards of thirty years has been identified with racks and been a patron of the turf.

The Champion Horse Shoer.

Frank O'Rourke, of this city, is now the champion horse hoer of the world On Sunday last at Central Park he defeared Henry Gurlach. The winner's time was 14 minutes and 27 seconds for making a full set of shoes, fitting and nailing them to the horse's feet. In the contest he had assistants, a striker, a shoer and an assistant. Gurlach's time was 18 minutes. Mr. O'Rourke certainly is a wonderfully ast horse shoe maker, and is entitled to the championship. He is ready to meet all who dispute his title.

COACHING.

Sunday last was coaching day at Burlingame—the first of the season and a very creditable show was made. The start was made at San Mateo on the arrival of the train from San Francisco, and was led by Mr. Frank J. Carolan, who was accompanied by Major Rathbone and Robert G. Hooker. In Joseph D. Grants' drag was Mrs. Henry T. Scott, Mrs. Julius Kruttschnitt and Mr. and Mrs. James Robinson. Geo. A. Pope and Samuel G. Buckbee accompenied by Mrs. Pope and Mrs. Buckbee rode in a handsome new break.

Georga Almer Newhall drove a very swell rig. Miss Linda Cadwalader occupied the box with him, and his other guests were Miss Mary Scott, Miss Mery Crocker, Miss Mabel Champion, Henry T. Scott, George Cadwelader and Bert Cadwalader. Near Mr. Newhall was his mother, Mrs. H. M. Newhall, in a wagonette, accompanied by Mr. Cadwalader.

Mountford S. Wilson, in the club coach with the professional driver, was accompanied by Mrs. Wilson, Mr. and Joseph F. Crockett, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Casserly, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. K. Nuttall, Miss Caro Crockett and Miss Edith McBean.

Walter Hobart drove his four priza winners and with him were Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Spreckels, Lieutenant R. P. Lopez, U. S. N., and John Lawson.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Ford were in a stylish wagonette, and a tandem of John Parrott's two magnificent animals, were also in line.

All of these formed the parada, and it was a pretty sight. They drove through the avenues to San Mateo, and from there to the Burlingame Club.

After luncheon several parties went for drives in the coaches and drags.

Among those who were at the Club were:

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Ford, Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Schwerin, Mr. and Mrs. Paxon Howard, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Spreckels, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Pope, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel G. Buckbee, Mr. and Mrs. Henry T. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Mountford S. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Crockett, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Kruttschnitt, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar B. Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Brewer, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Casserly, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. K. Nuttall. Mrs. Frederick W. Sharon, Mrs. Cadwalader, Miss Linda Cadwalader, Miss Mary Crocker, Miss Mary Scott, Miss Mabel Champion, Miss Caro Crockett, Miss Edith McBean, Miss Kate Clement, Miss Laura Bates, Major J. L. Rathbone, George Almer Newhall. George Cadwalader, Bert Cadwelader, Harry Simpkins, Francis J. Carolan, Robert Hooker, Lansing O. Kellogg, Lieutenant R. F. Lopez, U. S. N., John Lawson, Hugh Tevis, Richerd D. Girvin, A. B. Williamson, Walter Scott Hobart and Mr. Hinshaw.

The annual meeting of the club for the election of four directors to serve three years will take place on Sonday, August 28th To-day there will be the grand charity fete at Monte Robles for the benefit of St Matthews' parish, which will be followed by a dance at the club house in the evening. On Sunday there will be a base ball game between nines from the Burlingame Club and the University Alumni, commencing at 3 o'clock.

Many of the handsome rigs shown at Burlingame will be taken to Los Angeles his fall and will be entered in the horse show to be given there. Interest in coaching is growing in California and with the improvements in roads which are certain to come in a few years, this recreation will be indulged in by a very large proportion of those who can afford the expense necessary to maintain these fine equipages. The majority of the horses which are now used here in coaching are California bred and trained, and some very choice animals are among them.

UNDER the direction of Superintendent F. W. Covey twenty-eight head of young trottere are being prepered at the Palo Alto Stock Farm for shipment to the great Horse Show sale at Madison Square Gardan, New York, begining November 2d and continuing two weeks. None of these horses were taken up from the pasturee prior to May 27th this year and of the whole twenty-eight head there is not one but can show quarters in better than 40 seconds. Trainers Houser and Caldwell have them in hand and both are certain that it is the best lot of young horses ever trained in any one year at Palo Alto.

A CONSIGNMENT of forty head of Percheron and Belgian draft horses weighing from 1,800 to 2,200 lbs., sold in Chicago for export to Germany a few days ago at an average of $225.

This Year's State Fair.

A few weeks ago, in noting the energetic action of the State Board of Agriculture in preparetion for this yeer's State Fair, we advised our readers of the advisability of giving extra attention to this display this year, and we hope they will do so. There are at least two main lines upon which the value of an unusually varied and complete exhibit of State products this yeer can be strongly urged. First, we are going through the worst year, as far as rainfall goes, which the State has experienced since the American occupation. It is immensely desirable that we should show, both for our own encouragement and for the information of the world, what California can do at the close of the century in such a year. A quarter of a century ago each a year would have temporarily flattened nearly everything; now we are going through the yeer with an amount of confidence and activity and success which is a surprise even to our own people. Such inherent strength in our industries is of incalculable importance and cannot help but attract the attention of investors and home seekers. Now let these facts be emphasized by a great display of California products this year. There is plenty of the best to be had; let each one make selections and exhibit them. This applies to every kind of product and such exhibitions can be made exceptionally instructive if attention is given to showing the results secured by the thousands of farm irrigation plants which have been put in this year. Aside from this, we would especially urge attention to the live stock exhibit. Every breeder who can show good animals of any kind should be at the Fair this yesr. There is going to be a sharp demand for re-stocking our pastures this fall and winter, and people to our own knowledge are already looking about for available stock and for improved sires of all breeds, so that the new inhabitants of our fields may be of higher grade than those driven away by the drouth. The State Agricultural Society is especially organized to promote improvement of this kind, and breeders should rally to the support of the Society in this year's display. In this way they can consult their own business interests and advance the general welfare.

Another main reason why we hope this year's State Fair will be an industrial exhibition of the broadest scope and variety is because California is now in the public eye as she has never been before. Thousands are moving through toward the different Pacific regions—north, south and west—where American interests are now advancing so rapidly. All these people should go forth with some idea of California's producing ability in all industrial lines. This distant activity is destined to produce a most marked effect upon our export trade, and such effect can be promoted by enterprising display of our products and manufactures this fall.

We hope this year's announcement of the State Board of Agriculture will, as we have said, command unusual attention and that all will begin at once the plans and preparations for displays which will be fitly expressive of our resources and the enterprise of our people.—Rural Press.

Trotters and Runnsrs at Boise, Idaho.

The race track at the Fair grounds presents a lively appearance every morning from 6 to 9 o'clock. There are about twenty-five horses in training. Most are green horses and colts, but some are doing excellent work.

L. L. Ormsby's bay team of pacers, Capoline and Tosolina, are rounding into form and showing a 2:20 gait. They will probably be started in the team race this fall.

J. D. Springer, who has charge of them, also has the handsome bay mare, Lady, by Alfred G., 2:19¼, by Anteeo, 2:16¾, by Electioneer. Lady trotted a quarter lately in 35 seconds, a 2:20 gait.

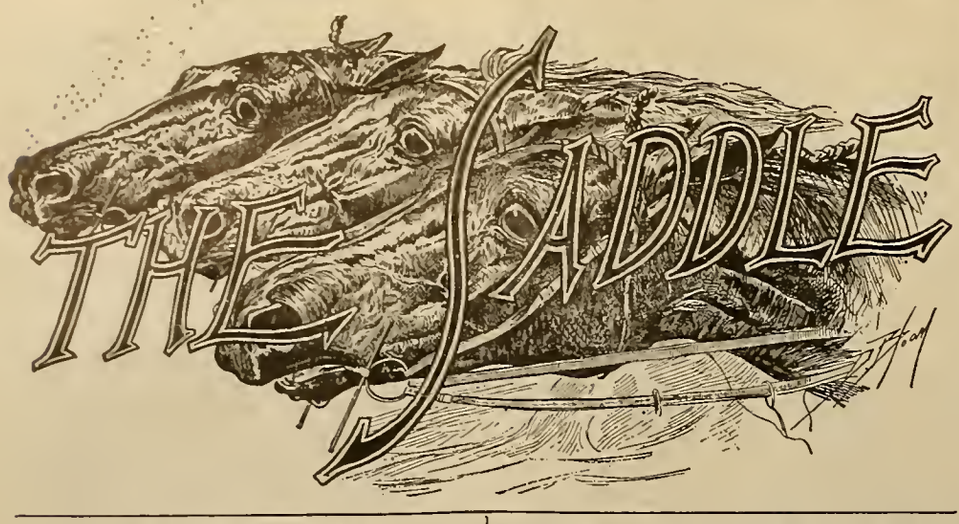
McClelland & Stuart have four horses in training. They have Dr. Collister's Ludovico, Dr. Lippincott's mare Maud and Golden Scepter, a fine black horse owned by A. B. Moss, of Payette.

Robert Gilmore has General McFarland's Bessie Wilkes. This handsome filly is just rounding into her three-year-old form, and looks every inch a race mare. She is showing quarters in 0:38 and trotted a mile this week in 2:34.

Mr. Gilmore also has Joe Kinney's bay mare, which is showing a 2:40 clip.

Charles Fortune has seven bang tails in training. Senator Dubois worked three-fourths in 1:22, and Banquet five-eighths in 1:06, good performences considering the condition of the track.

They also have the beauty of the track, Pearl, the handsome three-year-old filly owned by Thomas Smith of Marsh. This animal was undoubtedly the prettiest thing on the track last year, and is making a fine showing in speed this summer. She worked an eighth this week in 13 seconds, going the last half in 5½.



The Situation at Chicago.

Thera is e hezy tinge atteching to the racing sitnetion in Chicago. The sport may continna during tha remeinder of the season, end again it may not. Before tha close at Wesh. ington Park neerly ell the hookmakers there were indicted, end since the close some of the officiels of tha cluh ceme nnder hsn. An organization known as the Civic Fedaration has made itself very eggressive in herrassing end making wer on the recing clnbs, end tha wer stlll goes on, writes "Broadchnrch" in the Spirit of the Times. Some of the Harlem bookmakers were identified with the club.

The indications, however, will not emount to mnch epparently, and in tha ebsence of actual raids, or some eggressive action of thet kind, the racing geme is likely to go on. Both Herlem and Hawthorne are outside the city limits, while Washington Park is not. It is tha Stete euthorities, or the Civic Federation representing the State, that pey their respects to the Herlem people, while the Mayor end the Chief of Police have nothing to sey or do in the premises. I asked Manager John Condon on Setnrdey if there was eny denger of official interference thet would end in the closing of the track, and he responded:

"There is no denger whatever. The public end the business people went recing et Chicego, end it brings e lot of money to the city, end the gemhling, es it ie celled, is simply incidentel to racing everywhere. The regnler Stete officiels do not want to interfere with the sport, since it is heelthfnl end wholesome, hot outside perties with en exe to grind ere making ell the mischief. I don't think they will succeed in stopping racing et Harlem."

While Hewthorne hes not yet secnred e townehip license, it is on the progremme thet recing is to begin there soon. Mayha a license can he eecured, hut if not, the meeting is to commence enyhow. They hed recing there for e couple of seasons, I em told, withont e license, end there wes no interference. If the locel racing continues for e few weeks longer the chsnces aae there will ha no interruption during the remainder of the seeson.

Strangely enoogh, they hed recing et Herlem last yeer, and great racing, too, extending through four months, end thera was no hother or interference. Why should some of the officials be so ective this yeer, since the recing is conducted nnder the eame laws thet tolerated the sport lest seasc n?

Technically, the existing lew contrevenes hetting on rece tracks as it does in hucket shops and commerciel exchenges. But gambling goes on in these places all the seme, end why should not the race treck also heve the benefit of en elastic construction of the law?

What is needed, and hadly needed, is e new recing lew, auch a one as you have in New York, end if the warring factions in Chicago only join hands in securing soch e lew the fn!ure of racing hereahouts will he on a firm hesis.

Marcue Daly's Good Colte.

The all-ahsorbing topic in turf circles since Seturdey afternoon has been the victory of Hamhurg in the Brighton Cup. Although the issue was a foregone conclusion genuine horsemen took more interest in the race than if they hed thousands involved. They flattered themselves that Hamhurg's fast stahle companion, Ogden, would nse his great speed to hring the Hanover colt along for a mile or so, hut Ogden was apparently ont for second monay and he was rated along nnder a stiff pull with the sole object of teking cere of Howard Mann. The race as it was run proved a rather unsatisfactory test, although it was apperent that Hamhurg was running well within himself all the way.

What the winner could have done if urged must remain an open question, hut the majority of those who watched the performance critically, seem to egree that if the track had been fast Hamhorg would have wiped out the records from the fall of the flag. Ha was full of running from start to finish and effectivaly put an end to any doubts as to his ability to "go a ronte." Perhaps a more significant feature of tha race was the showing of Ogden, who had previously been regarded as a sprinter, pura and simple. His performance was prohahly as mnch appreciated by Marcos Daly as Hamhurg's, inasmuch as the son of Kilwarlin proved that he could stay a distance. His sira conld stay, as he demonstrated when he won the St. Leger, but his stock showed marked disinclination to rnn heyond a mile. Now Ogden has demonstrated to him that no distance is too far for him if the pece snits. In these two colts Marcns Dely hes ehout the best pair of their age in the country, end it is generelly hoped that the long string of had lnck which followed the "Copper King" is now effactively hroken.

Whether Hemhurg is to go to Englend or not may ha decided this week. The owners end trainers of tha four-year-old champion, Ornement, profess to he very enxions for e reca with the noted three-yeer-old. They declined issue on Seturday on the gronnds thet the scale of weights fevored the younger horsa too mnch. Other owners offer the same explenetion fnr their lack of snpport of tha Brighton Cnp, which is estehlished for the development of stamine in the thoroughhred. All seem to overlook the fact that, while the weights mey give e nominal edventage to three-year-olds, the distence is distinctly in fevor of more metnre horses. It is ahont time thet thia dehetehle point was settled, as the Brighton Beach Associetion eims et estahlishing reces np to fnnr miles if horsemen can he induced to run their candidetes. There is no longer room for donht thet patrons of the game like to see gennine tests of stamine, es was evinced on Setnrdey whan they followed every movement of Hemhurg from tha paddock to the finish, elthongh not ona in e thousand hed a het down —New York Sun.

Goodrich'e Great Performance.

The record-hreeking performence of the three-yeer-old colt Goodrich, et Chicego, must heve heen e snrprise to those who reelly halieved thet the speed limit of the thoronghhred hed alreedy heen reeched. Goodrich, thongh hnt three yeers old, lowered the world's record for 1½ miles from 2:32¼ to 2:30¼, two full seconds. This wes in e rece end on a circnler treck. It is true thet the conditions were ell fevorehle for fest time. They elweys ere end elweys will he when records ere hroken. This nnequelled performence is of greet interest to ell horsemen, whether their fevorites ere trotters, pecars or rnnners. It proves most conclusively thet the modern thoroughhred hes greeter powers of endnrence end greeter speed then the old-time recers. In the fece of such e performence hy e member of e hreed which has been estehlished for centnries end improved hy cereful selection, is it not aheurd to ergue thet the limit of trotting speed hes heen reeched? The pedigree of this world's record hreeker contains the nemes of severel of the most successfnl of the old-time, fonr-mile recers, notehly thet of Boston, through his most distinguished son, Lexington, which lowered the world's four-mile running record to 7:19¾, end Ten Broeck, which hes held severel of the world's records for different distences.

Goodrich is hy Petron end Petron is hy Pet Melloy. The letter wes hy Lexington, out of e danghter of the noted fonr-mile winner, Americen Eclipse; next dem Trifle, hy Sir Cherles, e son of the renowned Sir Archy. It is asserted upon good euthority that when Sir Archy quitted the turf he conld heat any horse in the world in a rece of four-mile heets.

Edith Grey, the dem of Goodrich, is even hetter hred then Petron. She is hy Ten Broeck out of Alice Grey, hy Enquirer, second dem hy Wer Dence.

Ten Broeck, sire of Edith Gray, wes hy imported Phaeton. His dem, Fenny Holton, wes hy Lexington. His second dem wes hy Brewner's Eclipse, a son of Americen Eclipse; and his third dem wes hy Bertrend, son of Sir Archy. The dam of Brewner's Eclipse was hy Henry, son of Sir Archy, end his next dem hy Duroc, son of imported Diomed.

Enquirer, sire of Alice Grey, the second dem of Goodrich, wes hy Leemington. His dem wes Lida, hy Lexington. His second dem, Lize, was hy American Eclipse, and his third dam was hy Singenee, a son of Sir Archy. The third dem of Goodrich wes by Wer Dence, end Wer Dence wes hy Lexington, out of e deughter of imported Glencoe. The pedigree of Goodrich is remarkehly strong in the hest of the performing end producing lines which heve come down from old imported Diomed.—American Horse Breeder.

The Meeting at Glenbrook.

A meeting was held et Nevade City last week end a jockey cluh orgenized. Col. Steerns of Gress Valley presided end Williem Griffin of Nevede City wes secretary. It wes agreed that the cluh should comprise at leest twenty members, and that the membership should he limited to thirty. In order to insure the financial pert of the metter, it wes deemed advisable that $2,000 should he subscribed and certified checks for thet amount deposited in the Citizans Bank.

The following were eppointad e Speed Committee—George Fletcher, James Roach, Dr. A. H. Tickell, W. H. Mertin acd Henry Daniels.

William Griffin was elected Secratary of the Club.

It is the intention to hold the races on the week preceding the State Feir—heginning August 30th.

King Alfonso Dead

At the dispersal sale of the Woodhurn Stnd last fell King Alfonso wes not offered for sele, as he wes very old end practically impotent, it wes decided to let him spend the remainder of his days in peace end comfort et the ferm he hed halped to make femons. Last winter he was presented to Dr. Neet, proprietor of the Kindargarten Stud, who felt e santimental interest in the old fallow, and who took him to his farm to end his long and successfnl career.

King Alfonso was e hay horse, 16 hends high, foaled in 1872. He was hred hy Mr. Warren Viley, et Stonewell Stnd, and was hy imp. Phaeton, out of Capitola, hy Vandel. He was e high class rece horsa, end et the close of his turf cereer ha was honght hy Mr. R. A. Alexender end retired to Woodnrn.

Among the great rece horses sired hy King Alfonso ere Fonso, Foxhell, King Lee, Joe Cotton, Graneda, Bessie June, Qoito, Katia Creel, Vera, Bayedere, Don Foleno, Issie end e host of others of scarcely less note.

Saddle Notes.

State Fair entries close Monday.

Lady Hurst has won seven races in Montana.

Jockey Jim Bozeman, suspended two years ago, has been reinstated.

Grady did not do well at Butte and was decidedly off during the whole meeting.

They made some money at the Highland Park, Detroit, meeting and will continue the sport.

Boots' string, which is now at Saratoga has not been a very formidable one at any of the Eastern tracks.

The fields have been small at the Saratoga meeting, but some high-class horses have been racing there.

After all the talk to the contrary Hawthorne was opened and a very good meeting is being held there.

The Pepper Stakes, five and a half furlongs, was won at Saratoga Tuesday by Matanzas, ridden by Tod Sloan.

At Saratoga last Tuesday Sloan and Clawson rode all the winners, the little Californian getting three out of five.

Geo. Hawkins, one of the founders of Harlem, is now running a club house in Seattle and is said to be making money.

Old Satsuma ran a good race and beat a good field at Hawthorne last Tuesday. The distance was seven furlongs. Thorpe had the mount.

The race meeting at Glenbrook Park, the week prior to the State Fair offers a good opportunity for horse owners. Some good purses will be offered.

A correspondent at Saratoga writes that Willie Martin is the star jockey at the meeting; his cool head and fine hands bringing him a mount in nearly every race.

By mutual consent Jockey Tod Sloan has been released from his contract with the Messrs. Fleischmann. He will, however, ride the Fleischman entry in the Futurity.

Dave Waldo was sold at Harlem last Friday at auction to Dr. J. F. Meffert of Kansas City for $3,100. It was the general impression, however, that the horse was bid in.

J. Macdonald of this State is the crack jockey at St. Louis, and puts a long shot under the wire first every once in a while, though there are many who play his mounts.

The big quarter horse Dutch took up 145 pounds and won easily at Butte at three and a half furlongs. It doesn't hurt those big sprinters to carry weight, but distance tells on them.

It is now definitely settled that Hamburg and Ornament will not meet in a match race. There was an opportunity for them to meet in the Brighton Cup, but the latter was scratched.

Jockey McCafferty, who rode Lexington Pirate August 1st, has been suspended for two weeks by the Saratoga stewards, and Lexington Pirate will not be permitted to start again this season.

Dwyer's once great Handspring is rounding to nicely at Churchill Downs. It is said that he has grown new hoofs and was recently breezed six furlongs in 1:22, without showing any signs of distress.

The old paths over which quarter races were run in former days presented one great advantage. Each horse had to keep in his own path, and there was none of the fouling and bumping indulged in on the big tracks now.

The greater altitudes of Montana are apparently to the liking of Highland Ball, as he has won five out of eight starts at the Butte meeting. A great improvement over the form shown by him last winter in California.

The Brooklyn Jockey Club has opened a lot of good stakes, entries for which close next Monday. The meeting opens at Gravesend, September 13th. Six of the stakes given are to be run in 1899, and three in 1900.

La Penitente defeated Kingdon and captured the Electric handicap at Brighton Beach Tuesday. She must be a pretty good filly, and is by imp. Watercress out of Rosalind, by imp. Rillet. She was bred at Rancho del Paso.

Tarolinta, a bay filly in the Lorillard-Beresford stable, won the Asley Stake at the Lewes meeting in England last week. This event is of ten sovereigns each, with 500 sovereigns added, for two-year-olds, distance five furlongs.

Henry Forsland, the champion "caller" for the form book, and San Francisco correspondent of the New York Spirit of the Times during the winter months, is now compiling charts for the New York Morning Telegraph.

Rapido is doing about as well over the mountains as he used to do here. Ed Kauffman, his former owner, after many calls and explanations in the judges' stand at San Francisco, besides making heavy losings on him, finally gave the horse away in disgust.

Edward Kearney, President of the Saratoga Racing Association, says that the story circulated that the Saratoga track was to be sold is incorrect, and there are no negotiations in progress for a change in the management of the track.

Hamburg has run his last race in public. He will be shipped to Marcus Daly's Bitter Root Farm in Montana and be pieced at the head of the stod there. His retirement was not forced as he is as sound as a dollar and in the very pink of condition.

Blue Devil, a California-bred horse by imp. St. Andrew from Blue Dress, by Luke Blackburn, won at a mile and a sixteenth at Brighton Beach, August 5th, ridden by O'Leary. The weight carried was 111 pounds and the distance was run in 1:49.

Entries for the State Fair stakes will close Monday next, the 15th. There are eight of these stakes each with a generous amount of added money. September 1st, the remainder of the program will be announced. There will be six days of racing at this meeting and six days of harness events.

While the horses were at the post in the last race at Butte July 28th, the horse Dr. Marsden jumped over the inner rail and landed where Starter Ferguson stood a second before. Mr. Ferguson made a perfect start for his pedestal when the old doctor made his pyrotechnic leap. No damage.

Had Ornament started for the Brighton Cup he would have been obliged to carry 130 to Hamburg's 112. In the race Hamburg carried 112, Ogden 130 and Howard Mann 133. There is a demand for stakes where horses will carry weight for age without the penalties incurred for winning previous events.

At the St. Louis race meeting, now on, J. C. Cahn headed the list of winning owners up to August 1st with $9,760. Other owners whose horses put over $5 000 to their credit were: Woodford & Buckner, $7,000; C. C. Moffit, $6,670; Barney Schreiber, $6,235; A. Cahn, $5,598; G. C. Bennett, $5,497, and W. L. Simmons, $5,815.

"Skeets" Martin got off the following at Chicago the other day: "For a jockey to win around here he's got to be an orator, and I think I'll stop riding awhile and go to school." After the last race he concluded that he had a natural gift for oratory, and that he'd try and get along without further training

The citizens of Nevada City have arranged to give a race meeting at the Glenbrook track the week prior to the State Fair. Some twenty odd gentlemen have subscribed $100 each toward a guarantee fund for the expenses of the meeting, though the Secretary, Mr. Wm. Griffin, is certain the venture will be a profitable one for the club.

Some surprise has been expressed because the name of Jean Beraud does not appear in the list of horses eligible to the Futurity. But at the time nominations were made his dam Carrie C. was not believed to be in foal, and the greatest colt of 1898, like Hamburg, the greatest colt of 1897, was not named for the richest prize of the American turf.

J. M. Capps of Stockton, Cal., owner of Rapido, winner of the mile and twenty yards event at Butte on Friday of last week, was ruled off the Montana circuit because of the pronounced reversal of form in the racer. His horse ran a poor race a few days previous. Friday he beat a very fast class. Ruiz, the jockey of Rapido in the race was suspended indefinitely.

The summer meeting of the Harlem Jockey Club is proving a distinct success in every way. The attendance reaches 10,000 on Saturdays and averages about 6,000 per day. The sport is of high class and with Judge Clark as presiding officer there will be confidence on the part of the public that all crooked work will be severely dealt with whenever uncovered.

If you haven't been "Among the Barrels" at 863 Market street, drop in there some day. This is certainly the most unique and handsomely fitted up place in the city, and its novelty is something that will surprise you. None but the very best liquors are kept on tap, and as you measure your own wants, you can't help but satisfy yourself. But step in and try it.

Last Monday morning Constable Quinn, of Los Angeles, went to Baldwin's ranch, in the San Gabriel Valley, and seized four well-known race horses, San Bernardo, San Antonio, Rey del Rio and La Garedo. They were seized on an attachment, the suit being brought by E. C. Short against E. J. Baldwin for $285 55, alleged to be due Short for weges as an employe of Baldwin on the ranch.

The two-year-old colt Little Saint, recently purchased in England out of a selling race by Richard Croker for $8,000, arrived in New York on a Wilson line steamer, on Sunday, July 31st, and he was sent to Saratoga, where he will be handled by Henry Herris, trainer for J. E. McDonald. Mr. Croker brought over on the same steamer two Dobbin's yearlings, which were sent to Sheepshead Bay.

Briar Hill has finally succeeded in winning a race. Last Saturday at Butte he defeated a poor lot of selling platers in slow time at six furlongs. This colt as a two-year-old ran a mile in 1:42, with his weight up, defeating a fair field of older horses, including Cogmoosia and others. On the strength of this performance he had been repeatedly touted as a good thing, but has heretofore failed to score winning brackets.

Digos was sold at auction at Chicago a few weeks ago for $250, and it was generally supposed that he was beyond usefullness as a bread winner. On Saturday last, however, he came out in a field of thirteen, and at 30 to 1 in the betting, ran six furlongs in 1:13½, winning handily by two lengths. Few horses have been subjected to as much continuous racing as Diggs, and it is a wonder he has not broken down ere this.

William Swan, riding W. H. Clark's filly Placid, and Charles Mealey, mounted on J. T. Stewart & Co.'s colt McAllister, came in collision while working on the Saratoga Racing Association's track Saturday, July 30th. Swan's hip and leg were badly fractured Mealey's leg was broken in several places. They were taken to the hospital. The filly Placid had to be shot. The colt McAllister's shoulder was thrown out of joint.

Danny Maher rode five winners at Brighton Beach Friday of last week, but gave an uncalled for exhibition of temper when he lost the sixth. In that race Maher had the mount on the favorite Dehride, and although he rode his hardest to win the race and thereby make a record never before equalled by a jockey on the American turf, Dehride was unable to fulfill his part of the contract and finished third. For his failure Maher battered him over the head with his whip after passing the post, and he was fortunate to escape with the light reprimand the Stewards gave him for his brutality.

J. D. Smith's His Lordship, by Rayon d'Or—Sallie McClelland, is considered by competent judges a very formidable Futurity candidate. He recently worked five furlongs at Saratoga in 1:02½, and is thought to be far from being wound up yet. He is training nicely. He is probably the best-looking son of his sire, and he has size, substance and the making of a first-class race horse. His Lordship is the colt for which Mr. Whitney bid $8,000 last fall at Lexington, but who was bought by Mrs. McClelland and her brother, J. D. Smith, for $9,000. As he promises to be a good, if not a grand race horse, it is to be hoped that some prominent turfman will buy him, but it is generally understood that he will not be for sale until after the Futurity.

The readiness of English owners to buy good American blood stock is instanced by a curious mistake which occurred the other day. Three yearling fillies were bought through the International Horse Agency and Exchange, Limited, at the Easton Company's sales, and the cable intimating the prices at which they had been knocked down gave only the figures, and said nothing about dollars. In the hurry of other business the London agent took it to mean guineas and so informed the buyers, who all cheerfully paid in the amount, four fifths of which he had to return to them. For example, a gentleman who has paid $250 for his Iroquois filly, gets 200 guineas back, the filly having only cost 250 dollars. If American yearlings of good class were to be offered in England under proper auspices they would assuredly sell well.

Miss Marion is a speed marvel. That she is fast no one who saw her race Saturday can well question, says the Globe-Democrat. She beat The Chemist and Belle of Memphis as easily as Hamborg could beat a yellow dog, and did it in remarkable time. The track was in a frightful condition. It was deep in mud yesterday morning before the rain began, and the surplus water turned it into a swamp. Despite this, Miss Marion ran the six furlongs in 1,15¾, covering the first half in 0:48¾. To be sure, she had but a feather on her back —81 pounds—but the speed she showed would have been remarkable had she been running wild. Her performance makes her defeat at Harlem early in the season a puzzle, and it is possible she does not favor weight. She has won here with stake weight up, but has had nothing of consequence behind her.

The California Jockey Club will on or about the first of October move into handsome and modern offices now being fitted up for its occupancy on the first floor of the building on Kearny street, corner of Morton. All the interior partitions have been torn out of the building which is a three-story brick structure, and it will be entirely remodeled and refitted throughout in a most elegant manner. The ground floor is to be occupied by M. A. Gunst & Co., the well-known tobacconists. No finer offices will be occupied by any racing organization in the country than the new rooms now being fitted up for this popular club. It is right in the business center of the city, convenient to all the prominent car lines, and within a stone's throw of the three big newspaper buildings which ornament the junction of Market, Kearney, Geary and Third streets.

A race like the Brighton Cup, designed to really improve the thoroughbred horse and to benefit the turf, should not be allowed to lapse because of its conditions, and if the Jockey Club does not awaken from its lethargy and revise the scale, then the Brighton people ought to revise the conditions of the race. This they could easily do. They could make the event at special fixed weights for three-year-olds, for four-year-olds and five-year-olds and upwards. Suppose the conditions read that three-year-olds should carry 109 pounds, four-year-olds 122, and five-year-olds and upward 125. That would bring the classes together on something like an equitable basis, and it would put the Brighton Cup in a way to equal the Melbourne Cup of Australia, at two miles, which is probably the greatest race that is decided in any country.—Thoroughbred Record.

That Maher, though a clever and most promising light-weight jockey, is not as yet in the same class with Sloan, was shown in the race for three-year-old fillies at six furlongs, in which event Maher, apparently ambitious to try conclusions with Sloan, took a restraining hold upon his mount, the favorite Tahouret, allowing Sloan to range alongside with Kenmore Queen, says an Eastern correspondent. When the time came to draw away and win, Maher found it impossible, Sloan sticking to him closely, the result being a dead heat between Tahouret and Kenmore Queen in 1:14¼. T. A. Magee, owner of Tahouret, declined to divide the purse, and the dead heat was run off, Tahouret ruling favorite at 10 to 7 on as against Kenmore Queen at 13 to 10. The latter, however, won the run-off handily in the same time, the first dash having taken the edge off Tahouret's speed.

H. L. Franks' great colt Mallakwa, that has been considered a good Futurity prospect, is laid up with three broken ribs, the result of a kick at the post from another horse during the last week at Butte. The impressive style in which he won the Northwestern Handicap on July 19th stamped him as being a remarkable youngster and in view of that fact the bad beating he received from The Light and Rey Hooker in the two-year-old race last week excited a great deal of surprise. His poor showing could not be understood until he was examined by a veterinary, who found that three of his ribs were broken. It was the intention to take Mallakwa East and run him in the Futurity in the confident expectation that he would repeat Ogden's performance, but this is now out of the question. Mr. Frank is deserving of much better fortune than he has received so far with Mallakwa but at the same time a colt that will run five furlongs in fast time with three broken ribs possesses the blood that tells HARNESS RACING is not dead by any means. The season of trotting and pacing now in progress in the Eastern and Middle States eclipses anything that has been seen there in years. Not only are horses breaking records every week, but the contests are close, and the large crowds in attendance are aroused to the pitch of enthusiasm every day. The attendance at some of the meetings has been so large that the seating capacity of the immense grand stands have been insufficient on many days to accommodate those who desired to witness the races. In Cleveland, Ohio, the daily attendance was 10,000 and at Detroit, Columbus, Hartford, Rigby, Fort Wayne and other points, heavy gate receipts have been the rule. All this goes to prove that the American people have retained all their interest in the American trotter and pacer, and that the excitement aroused by the war has not been able to keep them away from the tracks when good horses contest for good purses. It is a well-known fact that the tide of business and finance has its inception in the East and that its effect is not felt perceptibly here in California until about a year later. When business went to pieces in the East in 1893, the full effect of it did not strike the Pacific Coast until 1894, and now that the trotting revival is under full headway again over on the other side of the mountains, it is only reasonable to predict that the wave will reach the Pacific Slope next year. California horses have done so well on Eastern circuits this year, that there will be many customers here this year looking for more of the same kind. Every owner who has a likely horse should train him, and those who have any that are ready now should enter them at Santa Rosa and Sacramento. The better they are, and the faster records they get, the greater will be their value. Tommy Keating gave Searchlight a record of 2:09¼ last year, and Mr. Crellin has been offered $25,000 for the horse, although he now has a record of 2:04¾. Does any one suppose Klatawah would be worth as much as he is had he been held out for a good thing later on? There is nothing in being "cunning" with a good horse. The time of good prices for trotters and pacers has arrived in the East and it is showing itself in California. The way to get these good prices is to show that you have something valuable. This cannot be done unless the horses are trained and entered in races, and then sent for the money all the time, without reference to fast marks. The meeting at Santa Rosa and the State Fair at Sacramento offer opportunities to prove to the public whether your horse is worth what you ask for him. The entries for these meetings close on Monday next. Don't let these opportunities slip through your fingers.

GRACE HASTING'S mile to wagon in 2:09½ at Cleveland last week disposes of the controversy among horsemen concerning the championship record, which has been heretofore variously credited to Elloree and The Abbot; and the performance incidentally adds to the evidence that a great many trotters can pull a modern pneumatic wagon almost as fast as they can a sulky, writes Gurney Gue in the New York Sun. Grace Hasting's best record to sulky is 2:08. Elloree, who lowered the wagon record to 2:10 in a race, has a mark of 2:09¼, and Newcastle, who finished a close second to Elloree in 2:10, trotted about as fast to wagon in this heat as he has ever trotted to solky in public. New York horsemen have seen Cobwebs, 2:12, David B., 2:09¼, and several other fast horses, trot about as fast to wagon as they could to sulky on the same track and on the same dey. A. J. Welch and other close observers estimate that two seconds is a liberal allowance for the difference in speed between the hitch to sulky and to wagon. Before the pneomatic tiers came into use Allerton held the champion record to wagon, 2:15. On the same day and track that he trotted to this record he pulled a sulky in 2:09½. Hopeful, the greatest of the old-time trotters to wagon, gained a record of 2:16½ to this hitch, however, while his best record to sulky was 2:14¾. A great many turfmen would like to see just what a horse such as The Abbot could do in front of a high-wheel wagon.

STATE FAIR ENTRIES will close on Monday next. Reces are arranged for all classes of trotters and pacers, and the purses are $300 and $400 for dashes and two-in-three-heat races. There are a number of stakes for runners, to which there is a liberal amount of added money. A full program for other running races will be announced later. Do not allow Monday to go by without making your entries. It will be a great meeting.

WESTCHESTER ENTRIES close on Tuesday next, August 16th. The stakes and all conditions are published in foll in our advertising columns. Entry blanks can he obtained at this office, 22½ Geary street. There are many rich stakes offered and as a well-entered colt is much more valuable than one without engagements, every horse owner and breeder should realize the advantages offered by this rich lot of stakes.

THE POLO CLUB at Santa Monica, Cal., will give three days of racing on September 9th, 10th and 11th. Ten races at distances from one quarter to a mile are provided for, and great sport is expected, as much interest is already manifested by the local horsemen in the events. G. L. Waring is Secretary of the Club and will furnish all particulars as to size of purses, conditions, etc.

PROVING BY PRACTICE what he bas advanced in theory is what the editor of the Western Horseman is doing this year. His colt, Airship, has paced to a record of 2:13¼ as a three-year-old in a winning race. Dr. Neal, the fraternity rises to a man and salutes you. There are no pestiferous buzzing insects on you or your colt.

SANTA ROSA will be a good place to go with a trotter or pacer. There is a good program and good porses. The climate is excellent, the track safe and fast, and the stalls in good condition and comfortable. Entries close Monday next. Name as many horses as yon can end get as much of the money as possible.

THE many friends of that well-known horse breeder and owner, G. W. Trahern, of Stockton, will regret to hear of the death of his daughter, Mrs. A. F. Naher, which took place in this city last week as the result of an operation for appendicitis.

Following the New York Horse Show.

A glance at tha pertial synopsis of good things in advertisement elsawhere, consigned to Wm. B. Fasig's annual horsa show sale, which, as osual, follows the New York horse show, and is held in tha great Madison Square Garden, is convincing proof that there will ha stirring times in the horsa markat this fall end winter. Tha horse show sale is yearly tha pulsa of the state of prices and it will he watched this yaar with onosual interest. Alresdy mail is coming in from Eorope showing a large added interest in tha American trotter, Mr. Fasig having received commonications from France, Holland, Germany, Rossie, Aostria end England. "The Garden," whila tha most expensiva plsce for holding sales in America, the rental being clossa to $1,000 par day, is really the most profitahle for the consignor of trotting horses becanse of its superiority for the purpose end it was a happy idea when first it was otilized for sale purposes. A letter eddressed to "Madison Squara Garden on the Earth" wonld easily find its destination. Fasig's horsa sales are fixed national events, hnt it is safe to say that nothing he has ever attempted before begins to compare with the approsching horse show sale.

CLASSIFY THEM LIKE RUNNERS.—The size nnd speed of the pacing hrigade have reached a pitch where it hecomes necessary to adopt some means of classification other than by record only. Take, for instance, the 2:07 class. At the Dubuque meeting in August, if all the horses nemed in the race for that class should start, twenty-six pacers would face the starter. Obviously, only four of these can win money, and what is to become of the other twenty-two? At the next plece of meeting they will meet their conquerors again, others possibly faster, and still more equal in point of speed and hottom as well as those that are not as good. The ranks of this class are constantly being swelled by new recruits, and it will no longer do to say that "if you cannot win in one circuit, go to another," for in that order the situation is quite as bad. The case, however, is far from hopeless, and the solution lies simply in copying from the methods in vogne on the running tracks. What would the resnlt he, for instance, if purses of two thousand dollars should be offered for thoronghbreds that have won races at a mile in time varying from 1:41¼ to 1:42? Or races of six furlongs in time varying from 1:14¼ to 1:15? Call them the 1:42 and 1:15 classes, if yon will. Would any course on earth be able to accommodate the entries that would be made? Or wonld the owners of all the horses eligible to such races be able to continne in the business? No; and this comparison details exactly the situation in the pacing division that the manegers of harness meetings are called on at this time to cope with. Impossible though it wonld be for the managers of running meetings to satisfy their patrons by giving races for classes arhitrarily fixed by records, they get elong very well, as it is, by meking the time altogether secondary and the winning of money the hasis of the opportunity to race. They maintain a certain number of races open to all—which is eminently right and proper, for the best should have the best chance—and they give the rest a chance to earn their oats by opening races for horses that have been beaten a certain nnmber of times; for horses that have not won a race since a certain date; for horses that have never won a race; for horses that have not won so much money in such and such a length of time—in fact, the conditions governing entries to races, to which only beaten horses are eligihle, are as many as the manager chooses to make them. As soon as any member of the nnfortnnate brigade wins one of these races, he leaves the awkward squad and the others have a chance, that of the poorer ones improving as the better ones win and are passed ont. It is not necessary to enumerate all the various conditi ns that may he formulated to ameliorate the winning abilities of the mediocre lot; it will suffice to say that when the conditions affecting only beaten horses are joined to those that deel with horses having won one or two races, the value of the system becomes apparent. Along this line menagers of harness meetings must make provision for the pacers in the faster classes. No man who has any doubt as to his horse's ability to win is goiug to saddle himself with the certainty of having to pay a heavy entrence fee, and usually he prefers to let his horse lie idle a week rather than go to the expense of shipping to a meeting that is out of line. But, if there were a race in which that beaten horse could he entered, without the possibility of meeting any one of the cracks that have heen winning steadily since the beginning of the season, there is nothing of the sort he would rather do than enter his horse. Take the case of Klatawah and Searchlight. They are both eligihle to classes in which they seem to he able to win handily, for he former was able to come from last position at the start in a field of fourteen last week and win in time that must not be called slow for the class engaged. Few men will he willing to enter their horses in races in which there is a certainty that either or hoth of those cracks must he met; hut if the conditions should bar both of them and the others of equal calibre, then entries would be plentiful. This is something that manegers of harness meetings owe their patrons, and the one thet first takes advantage of the opportunity that is ready to hand is the one that will gain most by it. The time is ripe for this action to be taken. Lst the cracks do battle with foemen worthy of their steel; give the other fellowe a chance.—The Horseman.

It is a well-known fact thet fisb, like insects, are attracted to any hright light. The Asian notes in a late issue: a netnralist has letely taken edvantage of this circumstance in fishing for specimens in a pond. With a portahle battery and a small incandescent electric lamp attached to a net he was able to secura a large number of fish, larvæ, tadpoles, and so on at one operation. The net, measuring ahout a yard ecross, was slowly lowered into the water, and when it reached the hottom of the pond the little lamp ehove it wes connected with the battery. All the liviog creatures within reach of the apparatus rnshed towards the light and were immedietely secured in tbe net.

The three Italiens—Frenk Breccalini, Giovenni Bognia and Francisco Bertoni—arrested by Fish Commissioner Cherles A. Vogelsang, August 3d, for dynamiting fish in Rossian river, were held hy Justica Critchfield, of Ukiah, to appeer before the Superior Court of Mendocino county with hail fixed at $500 each. The offense was committed at a point neer Echo stetion. These men ere members of an organized hand who have defied the lews releting to fish for a number of years and whose operatione extended over a section of the river hetween Geyserville and Ukiek.

Frank McGraw, the well known horsemen and sportsman, is heck from the Pelican Bay region. He and his femily have had a month's camping, fishing and shooting in that splendid outing country. He shot five hucks dnring the trip and had fishing galore, one catcb of five fish weighing nearly twenty ponnds. He caught a trout in the lake on a spoon that weighed thirteen and one-half ponnds The trout in Pelican Bay take the spoon with avidity any time the wster is rongh.

A good remedy for mosqnito stings is tbe followiug: Dissolva in a cupful of water as much alum as the [water will contaiu; that is, make the strongest solution possible of alum and water; add one-third proportion of aromatic vinegar and one-fourth of glycerine; shake thoronghly. This mixture can be carried in the pocket in a flat phial conveniently for application when needed.

Salmon and sea bess have been caught in goodly numbers recently off Santa Cruz. A week ego Capitola fishing grounds afforded great sport, whilst Monterey had not shown many results for about threa weeks. The sardines are in Monterey hay now in immense shoals and tbe fishing promises to give anglers plenty of sport.

Leland Fonlke, Allen Powers and Geo. Powers, the latter, sons of D. Powers of this city, have retnrned from a ten days' onting on the McCloud, near Sissons. They caught plenty of fish, mostly from one-quarter to a pound in weight. A royal coachman seems to hava heen the killing dy.

Hon. J. W. Keegan and Harry Hall of Santa Rosa recently had a pleasant surf fishing trip on tha sbores of Dillon's beach, Tomales and Bodega hays. They caught a great many fish, principally rock cod, some of them ten and twelve pounds in weight.

A Jap convicted at Fresno, on the 4th inst., of dynamiting fish in Kings river, was sentenced to serve 150 days in the county jsil hy Judge Webb of tha Supeior Court.

C. P. Pomeroy and Prescott Ely have just returned from a fishing trip to Monterey. A three day's catch of salmon and sea hass weighed over 1,000 pounds.

Gilmores has been selected as a favorable place for a ten days fishing trip by F. B. Finley and G. B. Grimwood.

Surf casting is effording the Eastern englers e greet deal of sport on the Jersey coast at present.

J. J. Cbess left town for Willetts, lest Saturday. He will he gone for three weeks.

Sportsmen, end their neme is legion, who know genial James Merkland, will sympathize sincerely witb him in his recent deep hereevement.

Frank Vernon was a gnest of tne Tamalpais Gun Club last week. He was one of the unlncky hunters who did not have a chence to get a buck on Sundey.

The choice of a high-grade, hammerless Parker or Lefever gun, in first-class condition, is offered in our columns to-day in exchenge for a typewriter. Particulars fornished on epplication at tbie office.

Ten hunters were out on the Tamalpais Club gronnds last Sunday. The weather was too fogey for a chanca to hag mucb venison, however William Wolfe wes fortunate in having a shot at a spike buck, which he bowled over.

"June Bug" extracted a baker's dozen of doves from the wilds of Kanwood, Sonoma county, last Sundsy. Those that he left behind have e wholesome regard for his quaint and forcible figures of speech which he applied to frigbtened fugitives of the dove freternity.

The following Smartsville sportsmen attended the recent Merysville dove etew: John Sanders, P. Byrne, Thos. Sanders, D. C. McGanney, J. H. McQuaid, W. A. O'Brien, Dr. Geo. S. Holbrook and John Toiend. A dove stew and sportsmen's reunion was beld at the McGenney ranch last Sunday.

Dave C. Martin, J. P. Stevens, W. F. and C. F. McGregor and Wm. Shattuck have retnrned from Humboldt county this week; they pitched tbeir camp at the mouth of Bug creek. The party are loud in their praises of Humboldt's grand hunting and fishing. They killed hut four deer on the trip and claim they could have hagged a score if they had been out for records, as deer were very plentiful.

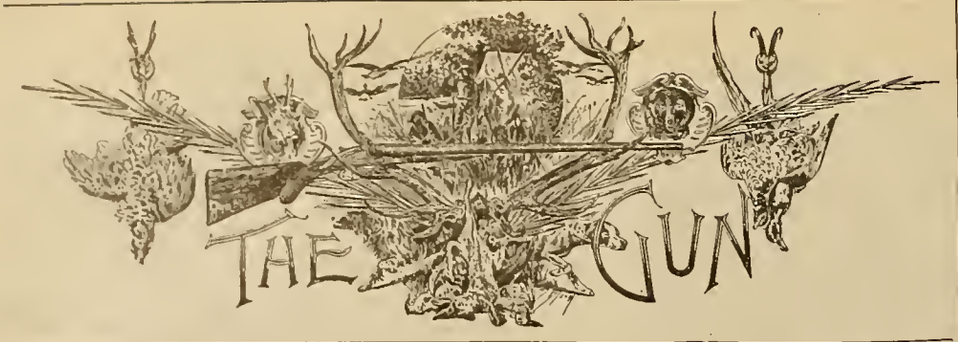
Tbe region above King City, Monterey connty, seems to produce an unfailimg crop of California lions, the latest lion story from thdt section is as follows: On the night of August 2d, Mr. Pleasant Thompson lay in wait at a spring near the head of Thompson Gulch, watching for some California lions to come to the epring to drink. About one o'clock on the morning of the 3d, four lions pnt in an appearance. Mr. Thompson turned loose bis repeater and killed them all. This wae a pretty good joh for a man of Mr. Thompson's age, which is 68 years.

The term "added money" is many times a misnomer as used in trep shooting events. When tbe shooters are taxed a higher price for targets in order that the "added money" may be forthcoming, it is money then which is simply guaranteed. Money so raised comes mostly from the weaker shooters, tha ones who are in third or fourth places in the money, or wbo do not win at all. It is a tax on them in the interest of the good shots, and a tax from whicb the former receive no benefit whatever. Besides the sweepstake monies it is an additional amount set apart for the good sbots.—Forest and Stream.

The deer hunters are in tbe mejority and get plenty of venison, hnt the sportsmen who kill a bear are heard from now and then. Among the latter we nota Deputy Assessor Fred Schirmer, of Fresno, who killed a 400-ponnd bear in Butte recently. Don McLaren of this city, who hagged a large black hear on the Blasingame ranch near Fresno. Graham 'Motheral and Newt Yonng of Visalia, killed a bear whilst returning from a hunting trip in the vicinity of Mt. Whitney. The Girard-Palmanteer party of Oakland, bave a credit of several bear and panthers, besides a 1,000-ponnd elk and fifty deer during their stay on the headwaters of Elk river in the Rogue River mountains, Oregon.

Trap-Shooting To-morrow.

The event of interest to local trap-shooters to-morrow on this side of the bay will be the regular live-bird shoot of the Olympic Gun Club at Ingleside. Those who prefer tbe attractions afforded by blne-rock shooting will find sport in tbe program offered at the shoot of the Empire Gon Clob at Alameda Point. Tbe South End Gun Club will smash blue-rocks at Colma.



NOTICE TO SECRETARIES.

If secretaries of gun clubs will send us the full scores of their regular monthly shoots we will be pleased to publish them; but we must receive the copy on Wednesday to insure its insertion that week.

The Game Law.

The open season for shooting quail, doves, deer and wild duck as fixed by the State law is as follows: Doves, 15th July to 15th February. Mountain quail and grouse, 1st September to 15th February. Valley quail, wild duck and rail, 1st October to 1st March. Male deer, 15th July to 15th October.

The clerks of all the Boards of Supervisors have advised us that no changes have been made this year, but the ordinances passed last year hold good if they do not conflict with the State law. Golden Gate--South End Gun Clubs.

The principal event at the regular shoot of the Golden Gate Gun Club, held at Alameda Junction (Pacific Tournament grounds), last Sunday, was the second six-man-team race between the Golden Gate and South End Gun Club teams, which match was won by the latter Club. Out of a possible score of 120 targets the Golden Gates made a total of 57 and the South End shooters broke 70. Captain Itgen, of the South End team, beat Captain Lewis, of the Golden Gates, in an individual match at ten birds by a score of 7 to 3. The heavy wind prevailing during the day played havoc with the shooters' chances for making good scores. The attendance of trap-shooters and visitors was very good. Winning the second match entitles the South Ends to the trophy, a banner presented by Tom Lawis. The scores in the team race in detail are as follows:

GOLDEN GATE TEAM.

Summerfield	10	Bonner	3
"Maybe"	10	"Pickaninny"	2

In the amateur race at ten blue rocks, 50 cents entrance, the shooters had the privilege of using the second barrel. In this event Feudner won first money and Evans, Pickett, M. McDonald and Belloff divided second money. J. McDonald took third money in a freeze out pool. The scores were:

Feudner	8	Kerrison	6
Evans	7	J. Schroder	6
Pickett	7	Bickerstaff	5
M. McDonald	7	Drieschman	4
Belloff	7	Getz	3
Olsen	7	Pope	3
J. McDonald	6	Lewis	2
Fischer	6	E. Peterson	2
Michelssen	6	Itgen	1

Pape	0	Belloff	4
Getz	2	M. McDonald	4
Brown	6	Fischer	8
Bickerstaff	3	Pisani	4
J. McDonald	5	Pickett	6
Lewis	0	Michelssen	4
Peel	4	Schroeder	8
Feudner	5	Kerrison	5

In the second round the scores were:

M. McDonald	5	Brown	7
Belloff	4	Fischer	6
J. McDonald	4	Feudner	7
Pickett	6	Schroeder	8

The final rounds were:

McDonald	5	Pickett	7
Brown	9	Schroeder	8

The pool money was divided between Brown and Pickett.

In two individual ten bird shoots between Dick Itgen and Joe Bickarstaff the former was the winner in each race.

Pigeons at Ingleside.

The members of the California Wing Club shot live birds at Ingleside last Sunday. A fair attendance of shooters made scores generally above the average. A slight wind blowing added an impetus to the flight of the birds which were, as a rule, a good lot of strong fliers.

In the regular club match at twelve birds, nine men faced the traps, three of them scoring straight kills throughout the race; they were the veteran "Slade," who used the fine Smith gun he won at the last nine-rock State tournament, Clarence Nauman and Otto Feudner. Owens and Fay were in the eleven hole. Haight was unlucky on his first and eighth birds and scored but ten. Three back scores were shot up by Owens, Haight and Nauman, who killed eleven each. The scores in detail of the medal race were:

"Slade"	111122111122—12	C. A. Haight	011111101111—10
C. Nauman	121122221112—12	A. Roos	220200212212— 9
L. D. Owens	121121012211—11	L. D. Owens†	211111111012—11
Jackson	012220121111—10	Nauman†	112121211101—11

In a six-bird pool race, $2 50 entrance, four straight scores divided the money; "Slade" Jackson, Nauman and Feudner. The scores were:

"Slade"	111212— 6	C. A. Haight	122*21— 5
Jackson	211112— 6	"Johns"	012121— 5
C. Nauman	111122 — 6	Ed Fay	220220— 4
O. Feudner	222222— 5	Leon	120120— 4

In practice shooting Feudner made two straight scores of six birds; Roos made six straight, and Nauman made eleven out of twelve. Otto Feudner seems to have a secure place for the medal, having lost but three birds out of seventy-two in six contests at twelve birds each.

Alert Gun Club.

A fair attendance of trap-shooters at Birds Point, last Sunday, participated in the schedule of events on the grounds of the Alert Gun Club. In the first twenty-five blue-rock race a summary of the scores made is as follows: "Mayba" 24; Summerfield 23; Al Palmer 22; Thiebout 19; Frank H. 19; Kavanaugh 19; Rafael 19; Fingler 17; Schultz 15. In a second match at twenty-five targets, the scores were: Palmer 23; "Maybe" 23; Summerfield 22; Raffael 21; "Mike" 21 Schultz 19; Fingler 19; Kavanaugh 17; Thiebout 17; Frank H. 16. These scores, as given above, seem to avarage a great deal better than were made by several of the same shooters in the afternoon at the South End Gun Club meet just across the marsh. What was the cause, Palmer; the wind or the pencil?

KENNEL.

Some Royally Bred St. Bernards.

A litter of six dogs and two bitches whelped three months ago by Miss California Bernardo (California Bernardo 26,803—Lady Delight 26,163), to Grand Chancellor 26,343 (Mascot Bernard 17,643—Merchant Princess 9,038), offers lovers of this breed an opportunity for the purchase of some royally bred St. Bernards. Grand Chancellor is a full brother of the fine old brood bitch Tomah; Mascot Bernard, the sire of Chancellor, is full brother to the great champion of record and bench show winner, Imp Sir Bedivere, 19,451, whose owner at one time refused £1,500 for him.

The litter mentioned above are all finely marked and strong boned and bid fair to become magnificent specimens of the breed. The sale announcement appears in our advertising columns.

INGLESIDE COURSING PARK.

Connemara Again Defeats False Flatterer in Good Style.

The chief attraction at Inglesida last Sunday was the matched race between J. Dean's Connemara (Lord Clifton—Daisy II) and E. V. Sullivan's imported False Flattarer (Fitz Fifa—Fascinating Fan). Again the fleet-footed Connemara proved his superiority over the English dog; since his previous defeat, False Flatterer has been getting into excellent form, it being a difficult question to pick the best dog of the two. It remained for this contest to determine how close they actually were. Connemara was a favorite in the betting.

After the first round of the champion stake had been run down, the two cracks were taken out upon the sward. By this time fully 6,000 people had packed into the grand stand, which was filled in every part, some even climbing on the roof to get a clear view of the course. Emmet V. Sullivan and Andy Dean, the representative of his brother, were given prominent positions on a stand in the field, and they were allowed to pick out the hares. They were easily satisfied with those offered.

As soon as the chosen hare was put on the field Slipper Jim Grace started with the dogs and sent them off as evenly as clockwork. Both hounds broke from the slips together, but before 100 yards was reached Connemara drew to the front and a wild cheer arose from the grand stand. Connemara strengthened his lead as he neared the hare and made the turn two lengths ahead of False Flattarer. He took first, second and third turns, almost picking up the hare, and then placed False Flatterer after a turn on the hill. Then the backers of the English dog had their time to yell.

After an exchange, Connemara made a turn and went a little wild in trying to kill. False Flatterar was four lengths in the lead when they straightened out and the yells from the grand stand were deafening. After the English dog made a turn Connemara shot by him and made two wranches placing False Flattarar, but shoving his nose in front and killing. Connemara had never worked so well in his life before. Score, 12 to 4.

As both dogs showed up so well there was hardly any change in the betting. In the second course there was a great run to the hare. Somewhat favored, False Flatterar got the turn, though lapped by Connemara, who had led a part of the way across the field. False Flatterar was given one point for speed, one for the first turn and one for the second, when Connemara made a fine dive and killed, defeating himself. Score, 3 to 2. The betting was now almost even, though the majority of it was at 10 to 8 in favor of Connemara.

In the third heat Connemara showed that he had the foot of his opponent, and when slipped to a demon hare led False Flatterar by a length and a half at the turn. The grand stand seemed to be in a ferment. Men and women were jumping about excitedly, yelling themselves hoarse. Connemara took the first, second and third turns, again almost picking up the hare, but he placed False Flatterer, making that dog two points. After a couple of exchanges near the fence, Connemara made two more turns and placed Sullivan's dog, who made a turn. In a straight run for the escape Connemara took the lead until the hare got away. Score, 8 to 4.

Aside from the big race the coursing all day long was of good quality. In the champion stake Rosie R. won the final, with Hadiwist runner-up. The puppy stake fell to Billy Gladstone; Mac's Melody was runner-up.

A summary of the two days' coursing program is herewith given:

On Saturday the results of two rounds of the puppy stakes were:

E V Sullivan's Maid of Erin beat T McHugh's Matchless; T Cooney's Mystic beat P McCabe's Juliet; E V Sullivan's Golden Russet beat T Hall's Miss Skyrocket; J Quane's Thad Stevens beat P Reilly's Speculation; J Shea's Young America beat G Reddy's Berenice; B Dougherty's Heather Dell beat J Rooney's Lassia Hayes; J I O'Brien's Admiral Dewey beat E V Sullivan's Blacklock; J I O'Brien's Statesman beat W Perry's Campania; J Eagan's Mayflower beat W Sweaney's La Juive; Lynch & Maher's Liberty beat M C Delano's Trinket, Bartels Brothers' Mac's Melody beat Connell Brothers' Molly O; T Cooney's Kerry Gow beat Deckelman & Panario's Prince Geo ge; T Cox's Flying Cloud beat J Kiernan's Yosemite; Larkey & Rock's Liberty Ball beat T F Logan's Miss Grizzle; J Shea's Rathbone beat

J Murnan's Wolf Tone; Larkey & Rock's Minerva beat Dillon & Reilly's Revolver; J Egan's Billy Gladstone beat Lowa & Thompson's Phœbe; Kay & Trant's Innisfallen beat A Merrill's Depand On Me; E V Sullivan's Sunburst beat G Borfeind's Royal Prize; P Reilly's Master Mat beat Dillon & Railly's Dauntless.

On Sunday the results in detail were as follows:

Match Race: First heat—Connamara beat False Flatterer, 12 to 4. Second heat—False Flatterer beat Connemara, 3 to 2. Third heat—James Dean's Connemara (Lord Clifton—Daisy II) beat Emmet V Sullivan's False Flatterer (Fitz Fife—Fascinating Fan), 8 to 4

Final—Rosie R beat Hadiwist (10 to 8).

Puppy Stake; Third Round—Young America beat Maid of Erin; Golden Russet beat Statesman; Mac's Melody beat Mayflower; Rathbone beat Liberty Bell; Billy Gladstone baat Master Mat.

Fourth Round—Young America beat Golden Russett; Mac's Melody beat Rathbone; Billy Gladstone beat Sunhurst in a bye.

Union Coursing Park.

The coursing last Saturday in the first round of the maiden stake was witnessed by a fair crowd of visitors, the sport being up to the usual standard of excellence. The form players, however, had several jolts during the afternoon which had corresponding effects on their pocketbooks. Right Bower, by reason of his old trick of lurching, gave Palmer Hill a course at odds of 1 to 5. Arapahoe, another favorite, was downed by Santa Bella. Our Boy and Lightning were evidently not up to their usual form. The Gossoon ran well, but went out in the first round to Sportsman. Bendalong was in good form and was tipped to win in the final, which he did next day, the good dog Blackstone being the runner-up. On Sunday the champion stake, with twelve of the fleetest hounds on the coast entered, was the feature of absorbing interest during the day. Metallic won the stake with Curtis & Son's Cavalier runner-up. Rosette, a favorite, was beaten in the first round by Firm Friend. The attendance on Sunday was large, notwithstanding the strong counter attraction at Ingleside Park.

On Sunday the results were as follows:

Third Round—Tod Sloan beat Sportsman; Blackstone ran a bye; Rest Assured beat Wait a Little; Moonlight beat Bonita; Magic beat Mission Tip; The Turk ran a bye; Miller's Maid beat Rapid; St Gertruda beat Glenwood; Bendalong beat Alameda.

Fifth Round—Blackstone beat Moonlight; Bendalong beat Magic; St Gertrude ran a bye.

Final—Bendalong beat Blackstone.

Final—Metallic beat Cavalier.

Pacific Advisory Board.

At a meeting of the executive board of the American Kennel Club held July 14, 1898, in the case of C. B. Knocker vs. Pacific Advisory Board, the following action was taken: "Whereas, The Pacific Advisory Board having failed to hold a meeting since August 1897, and having failed to give any official reason for such neglect of duty, in response to the charges preferred against it, receipt of said charges having been duly acknowledged by it, it is therefore Ordered, That the members of said Pacific Advisory Board be, and hereby are, removed from office from this data. Be it further ordered, That the President of the A. K. C. hereby is requested to appoint a special committee to act as a board until the election of officers is had in compliance with Article XIII, Section 4, Constitution."

A synopsis of the evidence which led to the foregoing decision is as follows:

"This case requires little explanation, as the facts are well known. The Advisory Board of the Pacific Coast has not been able to get a quorum since August, 1897. No business in connection with Coast cases could be accomplished as long as the Board was in existence and cases had to be referred to it. Members on the Coast had requested the doing away with the Board, and in keeping with that desire, Capt. Knocker, the San Francisco Kennel Club delegate, brought the subject up at the last club meeting, and was asked to bring charges in order that the matter might be acted on. The Pacific Advisory Board made an effort to hold a meeting to frame a reply to the charges of 'wilful neglect of duty,' but again failed, and only personal letters were received in response. Several of the members have been very faithful in responding to the calls for the meetings, and as the object of the charges was not to punish anyone, but merely to allow of the Board being removed in a legal manner, the case presented no difficult problem. A committee will take charge of the cases arising on the Pacific Coast until further action is taken."

Manitoba Derby.

The following supplementary list of entries for the Derby were received by mail subsequent to receipt of the list published in the Breeder and Sportsman of July 23, 1898. This makes a total entry of forty dogs—nineteen pointers and twenty-one setters.

SETTERS—D. E. Rose (agent), black, brown and white settar bitch Lena (Tony Boy—Nellia C.), whelped May, 1897.

D. M. Rosa (agent), black, white and tan setter dog Dewey (Tony Boy—Nellia C), whelped May, 1897.

D. E. Rosa (agent), black, white and tan settar dog Sampson (Tony Boy—Nellia C.), whelped May, 1897.

D. E. Ross (agent), lemon and white settar dog Waddell (Count Gladstone—Lillian Russell), whelped February, 1897.

R. H. O'Hara's liver and white ticked pointar dog Pedro (Virden Shot—Jessia), whelped July 23, 1897.

DOINGS IN DOGDOM.

Any one desiring a fine cocker spaniel puppy can obtain particulars by addressing this office.

Old Hall Admiral's first litter on the Pacific Coast, was ten dogs and four bitches out of Mrs. O. J. Alhee's Roslyn Daisy.

Another good one gone—McCarl and Cattaneo's St. Bernard Demetrius has passed over to the majority. He was by Champion Kingston Regent—Champion Cleopatra, and was six years old.

The Verona Kennels have entered R. Buckle's collia bitch Lady Morgan and R. Carswell's collie bitch Madge in the Produce Stakes of 1898. They were both bred to Old Hall Admiral; the puppies will be shown in New York in 1899.

A bench show will be held in Dallas, Texas, this fall, in connection with the State Fair, October 4th to 8th. The show will be under the auspices of the Texas Kennel Club. Geo. W. Clayton, of Chicago, will be Superintendent. The money inducements for intending exhibitors will amount to $2,000. The premium list will be issued shortly.

A little work, recently published by Eugene Glass, entitled "The Cocker Spaniel," has been favorably commented on by the Eastern press. The text treats of the breeds of Spaniels, the training of Cockers, for field work, tricks, etc.; their management and care, diseases and treatment and care of mothers and puppies. This little work is written in an interesting manner and easy of understanding; the veteran breeder may not learn so very much that is new to him, but will find his hobby so engrossingly treated that he will read it through at a sitting, and as for the novice he will find lots to interest him.

The most remarkable run up in the history of coursing in this city occurred last Sunday morning at Union Park. Two swift hounds, led by a swifter hare, ran until they both dropped from exhaustion, and one died on the field. The dogs were Curtis & Son's Lady Campbell and Pembroke Kennels' Sylvanus. Lady Campbell scored eighteen points to Sylvanus' three, but she was stone dead when the followers got to her. Sylvanus was carried off the field in a blanket. He recovered afterwards but may never be good for anything again. The hare escaped. This is the first incident of the kind on record where the coursing was within an enclosure.

It is claimed that the most opportune time for a dog to have distemper is when the dog is between six and twelve months old. In connection with an attack of distemper, if the dog also has had skin disease, although this involves greater trouble to the handler, he stands a better chance of recovery. The argument is: It seems that nature has by this means, contrived a way of cleansing the system—the blood—of its impurities, and thus preventing complications in another direction—paralysis for example. Skin disease, therefore, may be regarded as a good sign in distemper, and so long as it is kept clear and not allowed to play too much havoc with the skin and hair, it has a tendency to aid the safe recovery of the dog. Exceptions will apply, of course; it is not to be always inferred that if a dog has skin disease he will recover from the distemper.

Fred Johnson has recently become the owner of the lemon and white pointer dog Don, whom the late Judge Garber owned and thought so much of. Don, who is now about two years old, has, ever since he was a puppy been kept at the Country Club. Last Sunday he was brought down from Point Reyes station to the city and taken out to Johnson's house, via the Clay street hill cars. The dog was turned loose that evening in the yard; the next morning Don was non est, nor did diligent hunt and inquiry develop any trace of the lost dog. Finally word came in a roundabout way that a pointer answering Don's description had been seen in Oakland. Johnson and a friend went over the bay and investigated. The dog was the strayed Don, but he looked as if he had weathered a hard winter and lost all his friends. His appearance corroborated the story told by his captor that he was found lost in Oakland. Don had no doubt made his escape with the intention of going back to his quarters at the Country Club, but took the wrong boat and landed in Oakland. Don evidently has the right stuff in him. He is now installed in comfortable quarters at Johnson's house near the Presidio.

G. A. Mudgett's rough coat St. Bernard bitch Princess Raebel (Champion Le Prince—Judith's Rachel) whelped on August 1, 1898, seven puppies to H. White's Eboracum (Scottish Prince—Lady Gleam).

Cowden, Ill.

Dr. H. Glover, Dear Sir:—I am in receipt of and have carefully read your excellent treatise on "Diseases of the Dog," and feel that I cannot commend it too highly. Had I known what it taught me earlier in life, it would have saved me many dollars and dogs.

Principlee of Poultry Breeding.

Unless we call occasional hits success no success can he had in breeding any pure-bred stock for fancy or arbitrary points that are not based upon and governed by the great and unchanging laws of breeding. The principles may he herd to find, hard to understaud, end yet for all that they are truth and the greatest factors in successful breeding just the same. It is true with all kinds of living creatures, though more observable in those of higher development. It is of the utmost importance that these principles, the main ones, at least, he understood and practiced. As creatures of quick development and great procreative power, rightly bred, from a single pair a race of fine specimens can soon he had while, improperly, just as soon conld be hed a flock possessing no points of merit.

Life and health, good vigorous development of all the natural organs, perfect size and symmetry, and good laying qualities are the first importence. To obtain these qualities we use three things properly—selection, care and food. We can attain all the above desirable points and never mate those of the same breed together. Perhaps we could come nearer perfection in so doing than keeping within the confines of breeds of varieties. Breadth and length of body no difference where found, will intensify that point and soon make it a characteristic of the flock. So with any and ell other points of makeup or eny good quality whatever.

But selection has limits. We cannot breed down the length of legs and intensify the foraging disposition at one and the same time. As locomotion becomes difficult or a burden, the habit of disposition to search far and near for food will he lost in a corresponding degree. So in e few other points. We must nse judgment in selection—be governed by what we are striving for.

In selecting breeders, when we want health and size we will use blood that is as far from our blood as possible, for the reason that nothing will give progeny as much vigor and life, after proper selection as to size and shape, as mingling of new blood. If, on the contrary, we are working for some fancy point, some point which we wish to make a characteristic of the flock, such as color or markings, style or anything else, then we will mete and breed more in line. The longer and closer the line of breeding the more surely can he foretold the result of a certain mating. It is almost impossible to make much progress in breeding for artificial points until the breeding characteristics and strong and weak points have been found and are under the breeder'e control. This, by the way of digression, will account for much of poor success attending the efforts of the beginner, who not knowing anything at all of the breeding qualities of hie newly purchased stock and very little in general knowledge of mating especially difficult breeds, rushes along fondly dreaming that every youngster will he a prize winner and marked like those on the artist'e canvas.

And breeding in this line does not imply the taking of a male that has been sired hy a particular male, merely, if we mean to be successful and breed according to the principles that govern scientific breeding. All careful breeders have noticed that the progeny of a single pair will give youngsters of many shades of color and quite different types. Perhaps one or two will he almost counterparts of their sire. Those are the ones to use. The second season will ehow a larger per cent of the desired type, and each succeeding year will increase the number in increasing ratio. The same will give the same result with the female. Ten years of such breeding fixes the tpye and whatever good qualities may have been fixed upon the strain will stay there. Stock of euch breeding will have breeding power, and a male and female scoring ninety points will be worth more as breeders than half a dozen ninety-five point birds bred and mated by no method in particular and that are the result of e few "hints."

The prices of lemons at present are higher than they have been for several years, says the Pomona Progress. First-class stock now sells in Eastern markets for as low as $4 a box. A few days ago several cars sold for $4.10 and $4.20. The average price could now be safely put at $3.25. The cost of laying them down in the East is about $1.65 a box, leaving from $1.60 to $1.75 net. The prospect for the next few months is good for lemons: Owing to the freeze last winter the supply will be light for some time, as the fruit is now ripening that escaped the heavy frost then. Another reason given for fancy prices is that the lemon importations are unusually light this year. The railroads gave a one-cent a pound rate for sixty days, and during this period the shipments were remarkably heavy. This cleaned up the surplus stock, and when the scarcity began to show there were hardly enough cured lemons to meet the demand. Lemon growers are jubilant over the present condition and future outlook of the market.

Skim milk contains all the elements of full milk excepting the fat, and in feeding it to calves we can in a measure make up for this with cheaper substitutes. Probably the best simple substitute is flaxseed, which should be boiled until reduced to a jelly, and a small quantity given at each feed in the milk. Oil meal is cheaper than flaxseed, more easily obtained and serves practically the same purpose.

Summer Feed for Work Horses.

The foreman of a large firm which is engaged in heavy teaming and keeps an everege of 200 horses employed all the time, writes as follows on his manner of feeding his horses during the summer months:

It is an excellent prectice to give the work horse mixed feed at night, and a mixture of oats and corn for the morning and noonday meals. Our practice is to mix in the grain bin ten bushels of oats with five bushels of shelled corn. Four querts of this mixture is given to each horse, mixed with one quart of bran. It is then slightly moistened just enough to make the bran stick to the grain. A little hay is given in the manger always sprinkling it with water. At night the horses are given mixed feed which consists of sheaf oats, cut up fine, half bushel mixed with helf peck of heavy millfeed, and one quart of corn chop. This is the allowance to each horse or mule. A little salt is sprinkled over the mixture and just moistened with water. A medium sized forkfull of hay is put in the manger of each. With such a daily ration teams, at severe labor can he kept in splendid condition and health. The mixing trough must be kept clean and sweet. Have the horse tronghs cleaned ont daily. Sheaf oats, where well cured, ere sweet, soft and nutritious. The horses ere very fond of it. The oats are cut up as wanted. We like this way of feeding them; there is no waste as every particle is eaten. To have a superior quality of oat hay the oats must he cut when the grain is in milk. Let the straw get a full day's sun, then put the hay up into hand shocks, putting twenty sheeves into a shock. The shocks are covered with canvas caps and are left out in the field until thoroughly cured. We find that an acre of rich mellow land will give us two large loads of this oat hay, or in the neighborhood of two and one-half tons.

Beet Pulp for Feed.

The beet suger establishment et Crockett is reedy to deliver beet pulp to the farmers for stock feed, and Superintendent K. G. Raap furnishes the Mertinez County Paper the following information as to how to store, preserve and prepare food for stock. The storing of beet pulp can be done in the following manner. Dig e trench in the ground where deinage can be obtained in the bottom of the trench, and dig it of sufficient size to hold the amount of pulp to be stored away. The wall of the pit should be eloping enough to prevent caving in, and at the bottom should he placed a plank floor and beneath the floor a flume to carry off the surplus water that the pulp contains. After the pit is filled with pulp, build a roof over the same to carry off the rain. The upper layer of the pulp will mold to the extent of 10 or 12 inches, which excludes the air from the balance of the pulp, and will not be fit for feed. For feeding dairy cattle, it ie best to use a machine to cut up some hay or straw, and mix with the pulp to the emount of 200 or 300 pounds to the ton of pulp. It should be fed from a trough, and if used for milch cows, some bran or other grain should be used to give good results. On most places in this State they do not cut up the hay or straw, but mix it with the pulp, by taking a fork of hay and spreading it in the trough and putting on the same. Several thousand of cattle are fed on the pulp in this State with good result, and cattle like it after being used to the same. The refinery at Crockett delivere the pulp on board of cars or boats for $1 per ton.

Secretary Filcher, of the State Board of Trade hae received a letter from an Eastern firm stating that it is desirous of building a big apple evaporator on this coast, at some place where at least 50,000 boxes a year can be supplied. There are several of the northern counties in this State thet should be able to raise that amount.

A. P. Caldwell, Berkeley, says: I have thoroughly tested Wellington's Improved Egg Food My flocks now are healthy, and the increased number of eggs at seasons when formerly I had none, is simply wonderful. I notice much sickness in the flocks of my neighbors; they do not seem to realize thet a box of this Egg Food is a sure remedy.

The bureau of statistics of the Treasury Department has published some interesting facts on the commerce, productions and population of the Hawaiian Islands. Since the reciprocity treaty of 1876, the United States has hed a large share of the commerce of these Islands. Prior to that year our sales to the Islands seldom reached a million dollars ennually, but since then our trade has steadily grown, reaching $2,000,000 in 1879. $4 000,000 in 1890, and promising to reach nearly $6 000,000 in the present year. In 1876 the imports of the Islands were comparatively small, and only about a third were received from the United States; in 1896 they were over $6,000,000, of which about $4,000,000 were from this country.

Of the exports from the Hawaiian Islands, the United States has also had the lion's share since the reciprocity treaty of 1876. In 1875 we had only about fifty-seven per cent, but now we have about ninety per cent of their exports. Of the $200,000,000 worth of exports from Hawaii since the treaty of 1876 more than $180 000.000 worth have come into the United States, and of the $100,000,000 worth of imports into Hawaii during this time about $70,000,000 were from the United States.

Sugar appears as the chief export from the Islands, though rice has been for years an article of considerable value, and of late, coffee, pineapples and bananas have taken an important place in the exportations. The increase in sugar and coffee has been rapid in the past few years, coffee increasing from 5,300 pounds in 1877 to 225,000 ponnds in 1896, and sugar from 212,000,000 pounds in 1887 to 443,000,000 pounds in 1896.

From these facts it appears that commerce hes been en active annexationist, end the recent act of Congress bnt completes the work that has been going on for e quarter of a century past.

J. C. Smith, of San Joaquin county, has harvested the first crop from his reclaimed land, situated between the San Joaquin river and the lower Sacramento road. There are just 1,100 acres in this reclaimed piece, and from its first crop he has 15,000 sacks of wheat and 2,000 sacks of barley. Mr. Smith will have 1,200 tons of straw, which will net him $5 per ton on the ranch. The tract is perfectly reclaimed and is provided with drainage canals which were of great value this yeer for irrigation. Water was siphoned into the canals and pumps were used at convenient points to flood the land, thus supplying the moisture necessary to produce a large crop. The irrigation system was inexpensively worked, and early in the season many farmers who examined the grain predicted that it would be the best crop in the county, which it is.

C. C. Shomaker gives numerous remedies that may be given in the drinking water, which is the most simple way of treatment that we know. One teaspoonful of liquid carbolic acid given in two quarts of water is an excellent preventive of most diseases among fowls. One tablespoonful of chlorate of potesh in one quart of water for roup; for little chicks that ere weak in the legs, one tablespoonful of sulphate of soda in one quart of water. For worms, give ten drops of aloes or spirits of turpentine to the drinking water. For gapes, add a few drops of spirits of camphor or turpentine to the drinking water. For cold or catarrh, put ten drops of econite in a pint of water. Asafœtide tied up in a rag and placed in the drinking water for the fowls will be found a good remedy for roup, also a preventive of most diseases.

Firebaugh, on the banks of the San Joaquin river, is a lively town about this time of the year. About 150,000 sheep will be sheared there during the latter pert of August and the first of September. These sheep are the property of Miller & Lux, end have been kept on their alfalfa pastures in that locality. The shearing is done mostly by native Californians, or Mexicans as they are usually called. The herders and shearers scatter their earnings without thought of the morrow, end there is a general good time as long as the shearing continues, after which the little town takes a nap until next shearing time.

A number of sheep owners met et Marysville, last Saturdey, to take steps toward organizing "The California Wool Growers Protective Association." The sheep men of the Sacramento valley are accustomed to drive their sheep to the mountains at certain seasons of the year, and complain of being over-taxed. In Siskiyon county they are taxed fifteen cents a head and in Sierra and Plumas counties five cents a head. It is the intention to form an association and have laws introduced at the next session of the Legislature that will regulate the future action of Boards of Supervisors in fixing such tax.

The Anaheim Decidnous Fruit Association sold its dried apricots to a Chicago firm last week for a fraction over nine cents. This means about $25 for the green fruit, clear of all expenses of picking, handling or pecking, and is the best price obtained for some years.

The pack of dried apricots in this State will not exceed 225 car-loads of about fifteen tons each. Last year the output was about 1,500 care. Of the pack this yeer perhaps 175 car-loads were cured south of Tehachapi.

At the Idaho State Fair $100 will be offered as a prize for the best Merino buck, which is to be a semple of a car-load of the same quality.

BY CHARLES MARVIN.

This great practical horse book is a handsome, three hundred page octavo, bound in cloth, elegantly printed superbly illustrated, and explains in every detail the remarkable success of CHARLES MARVIN and the whole plans and methods pursued at Palo Alto as to breaking, training, shoeing, gaiting, driving, keeping racing and breeding trotters.

Read what J. C. Silby, the owner of St. Bel, says of this book: "In this work Marvin has let out all the mysteries of the craft, and it is so simple and plain that any breeder, owner, trainer or rubber who has any relish for his business can take a colt as a yearling and develope to the highest and fullest extent that colt's capacity as a trotter. The work impressed me so strongly that I have ordered twenty copies, and shall place one in the hands of every rubber on our farm."

What California Trottere and Paoere Have Been Doing Recently Over Eaet.

Since the meetings in the eastern states have gotten into full swing, and so many circuits are running at one time, it has been a rather difficult matter to follow the California horses across the mountains and learn just what they have been doing. Of course the big cracks of the circuit are kept tab on by the Associated Press, and their performances are usually telegraphed here, hut the losers and those not making extra fast time are lost sight of in the big whirl of racing which is now under way all through the extreme eastern and middle states and the Mississippi valey.

Among the trotters Directum Kelly is clearly the champion. He is not owned in California hut he was bred here by Mr. Guerne of Santa Rosa, who also hred his dam and sold her and the colt together. At Buffalo last Thursday Directum Kelly won the Queen City Stake of $5000 and cut his record to 2:08¼, which is the race record and the best time made by a four year old trotter this year. This grand colt has responded to all the demands made upon h'm and is nearer to the champion trotting record than any other horse now before the public. He has been most judiciously handled by John Kelly, and has won over $10,000 for his owner James Butler of New York.

Dione's record of 2:09¼ made at Columhus, has not been lowered, hut it will probably he as she is looking and doing well.

Van Bokkelen has been winning part of the purses with Stamhoulette, whose record is now 2:12¼, is improving right along and will close the year very close to the 2:10 list. His best race was prohably at Portland, where he was only a head behind Dione in 2:10¼, and the following heat was a very close third to Nico and Dione in 2:09¾. He got third money in this race. At Old Orchard, August 9th, Stamhoulette was 3-2-4 and and got second money in a race won hy Capt. Jack in 2:12¾, 2:09¼ and 2:10, so it will be seen that he has been trotting pretty fast even though he has not won many first moneys since leaving Detroit.

Dr. Leek, the Sidney gelding owned by the well-known dentist of that name in this city, has covered himself with glory hy winning one of the fastest races trotted in the West this year. It was at Hedrick, Iowa, and after losing the first heat, he went on and annexed the purse in three straight heats in 2:11½, 2:11¼ and 2:12. Hodges is now handling this horse and writes that he helieves he will have him in the 2:10 list before another month.

Jasper Ayers, although not winning as yet, having struck the hottest kind of company, is trotting fast. He was a hang-up second in a first heat and a good third in the other two heats of a race won hy Capt. Jack in 2:09½, 2:10 and 2:11¼. He was only heaten a neck the [illegible]

But if the trotters have been coming up to the mark the pacers have not only done so too, hut have jumped clear over it. Klatawah 2:06¼, of course fills the largest portion of the puhlic eye, hut there are others.

Anaconda won a race at Columhus August 6th that will rank as one of the greatest of the year. His p sitions in the summary were 1-2-3-1-3-1, and a different horse was second every time. It was a case when the combine tried to heat him, but he downed them all. The time for these heats was 2:06¼, 2:06¼, 2:09¾, 2:07, 2:08¾ and 2:08. Sally Toler won the third and fifth heats and William Wallace Scribner the second. Anaconda's record is 2:04¾ which he made in a race at Cleveland.

Chehalis is not exactly a Californian, hut he helongs out this way, where, as one of our Senators has said, "the Pacific sings on a golden lea the sunset song of the nation," and we count him in as one of "de gang." His mark is now 2:04¼, the fastest heat made in a race this season, and they say he did it easy, hopples and all, and his former antagonists, Bumps, Frank Bogash, Ananias and Pearl Onward, were behind him. The race was finished in straight heats and the time was 2:07½, 2:04¼ and 2:05¾. Bumps got second money.

Searchlight has been heaten once—up at Righy Park. Roan Wilkes did the trick and paced faster than Searhlight has been going this year. The defeat was no disgrace to the four-year-old. By the way, Searchlight was bred in Kentucky. We have been slow to acknowledge this fact, hut there is no harm in doing it now. See?

Miss Logan, Dr. Bouchsr's pacing mare, is really entitled to a hig, gold medal, and the Doctor himself ought to have one still larger. He took this mare out a green one, and she was such a pronounced green color when she appeared in her first races, that the California contingent thought of shipping her hack to he exhihited at Irish Fair. But the Doctor knew what he had and now Miss Logan is the fastest animal in the country that started the year without a record. Her last race was at Fort Wayne, August 12th, where she won the 2:11 pace in straight heats and the time was 2:07½, 2:07½ and 2:08¼. How's that for a green horse driven by a green driver? Californians, men and horses, are hot stuff.

Lenna N. (that's the proper way to spell her name) has annexed the world's record for pacing mares to her name and it is 2:05¼, It will he lower before Lenna N. gets home and she will hring it with her.

William Harold, the Sidney stallion, has paced to a mark of 2:13¼, although we have not found any record of his winning a race as yet. He has met the hest pacers in the 2:12 class, and got part of the purse nearly every time he has started. His mark was made in the second heat of a seven-heat race, and he was the contending horse in all the heats but one.

RACE MEETING AT GLENBROOK PARK

Nevada County Jockey Club to Give Five Daye of Mixed Events.

It was thought a few months ago that Oakland, Sacramento and Los Angeles would he the only places where harness racing would he held this year in California, but announcements are heing made right along and those who have horses in training are finding more opportunities to earn money than they expected. Santa Rosa's meeting which hegins to-day promises to he a splendid success. The next on the circuit will he Glenbrook Park, situated midway hetween those two thriving towns Nevada City and Grass Valley in Nevada county. The program, which appears in our advertising colnmns, provides for two harness races and two running events each day. The harness races are all mile heats, three in five, entries to which close Monday next, August 22d. The running races are dashes from five eighths to a mile and an eighth and will he over night affairs. Five per cent entrance is charged the harness horses, while the in runs entrance is free.

The Nevada County Jockey Club is a new organization composed of the leading citizens of the two towns mentioned. They met, organized and deposited $2,000 in the local hank within twenty-four hours after the organization was effected. Col J. Steams is president of the Club and Mr. Wm. Griffin Secretary. The meeting will be conducted on thorough up to date principles, horsemen are assured square sport, and all purses will he paid in full. Take a trip into the hest mining county in the State and enjoy a weeks good racing.

The Oldest Driver.

Charles Taylor, of White River Junction, Vermont, is the oldest trainer and driver of harness horses in the world. Last week at Concord, New Hampshire, he drove the stallion, Robert B., 2:12¼, in the 2:12 pace and got fourth money. It took four heats to decide the race, and each time the veteran driver landed his horse in fourth position, the time ranging from 2:18 to 2:14. During the second heat another horse in the race broke and reared in such a way that his sulky wheels became locked with those of Robert B. It looked as if a serious accident was inevitable, but both drivers kept cool, the horses behaved well and no one was injured. The thousands of spectators present cheered Mr. Taylor to the echo, and throughout the contest it was evident that he was the popular favorite.

He is beyond question the oldest man who ever drove fast horses in races, and in every respect he is a wonderful example of longevity in human life and of physical preservation. He takes all the care of his horse, act- [illegible] wner. He is in

SAM GAMBLE'S LETTER.

A Few Ideas and Notes of California Tracks and Trainers

San Francisco, Aug. 14, 1898.

Ed. Breeder and Sportsman:—In all probability there never was a time when so great an interest was taken in fast trotting tracks as there is to day, and the interest is not confined to any one section of the country. It is often asked, what constitutes a fast and safe track. I will answer: "By their records ya shall know them."

While with a party of gentlemen a few evenings ago a conversation arose as to what kind of soil and ground were needed for a fast track and as usual there was a difference of opinion and the discussion became loud and rapid. I was asked my opinion and after expressing it found but one of the company that agreed with me. I do not approve of the springy track where the ground waves and shakes as the horse passes over. I prefer a solid and smooth surface, with some elastic life in the soil. I have built three tracks and been upon all the fast tracks of note in the United States, and have conversed with all the leading track builders and care takers. I am of the opinion that a fast and safe track must first have the proper ground and soil, and smooth surface, with some elastic life so as to break the concussion, and at the same time not break away under the hoof.

In this State in the summer season the ground is very dry and hard, and for that reason I am of the opinion that our tracks should be built upon marshy or sandy ground that does not wave or shake, and with as deep a coating of red clay as it will stand, at the same time keeping as close to the natural surface as possible to retain the elastic life of the ground required to break the concussion. It is the opinion of some that a deep, soft track is safer to work upon than the hard, smooth track. Of the two I will take the latter. The safest track I can now recall was the last three seasons of the Fleetwood track in New York. And but for its shape and grades was the fastest track in America. A track must be kept firm with a light cushion, especially for young colts. Deep tracks that break away, and ground that springs up and down, will discourage any animal and make him bad-gaited, and develop muscle and tendon soreness. Very hard and dry tracks, with no elasticity in the ground, will be killing to the feet. It is my opinion that the only real fast and safe tracks that I have seen in this western part of the country, were the old Bay District Track, about 1882, and the noted kite track at Stockton in 1891. That track at that time, I honestly believe, would offset the nine sulkies or present tracks in this country. I do not wish to take any of the laurels from the fast world's records made there. They were all honestly made and the horses went a full mile.

Had I not been stopped in the enterprise of building a track and training ground at San Mateo the season of 1893, I am of the opinion that we would have to-day one of the fastest and safest tracks in any country, and it would be of great benefit to all lovers of the light harness horse industry, and I am certain that some of the members of the Burlingame Society would to-day be driving speedy trotters over that course, and perhaps a driving club be in existence, after the type of the noted Driving Club of Cleveland, Ohio, which is composed of America's leading business gentlemen. But my opponents in that enterprise imagined that such a track would have been somewhat [illegible] developer of speed, George Bowermen, of Lexington, Kentucky, he told me that if he were so situated that he could, he would emigrate to this State. That he had watched the development of certain animals and that though the blood was the same, they could not show any such improvement as had been accomplished in California, and that he was satisfied that California had some advantages over all other localities. W. B. Fasig, another authority, has expressed a similar opinion. Wake up, you enterprising Californians, that have the capital and the land, and encourage and freshen this enterprise by producing for the world the speediest and handsomest harness animals I am convinced that the largest per centage will come from this State, the kindergarten for the development of early and extreme speed. California is now looked to by the best judges in the East for new and fresh blood to mingle with the best they have there. Breeding is like the mercantile business—it needs renewing and improving every few years.

Any person can tell a great animal or a great man's merits after they have distinguished themselves I predicted five years ago that Thos. E. Keating, if he lived, would some day demonstrate to the world that he had few equals as a developer and light handed driver and painstaking trainer, all of which is necessary to accompany an animal that trots or paces close to two minutes. In conversation last March in New York over the merits of the leading drivers and trainers, I then acted as sponsor for Mr. Keating. Other members of the party could not see in him what I predicted. My reply was that I did not claim he outclasses half a dozen of the best, but that they must be industrious all the time, or barring accidents, this would be a Keating year. I now predict again that California has two men of lesser renown, who with a little good schooling, will some day distinguish themselves. I cannot say just how much plain horse sense they possess as they are strangers to me. I have only formed my opinion by seeing them drive a few times and have admired their light touch. Nothing can stop them from success but a lack of opportunity, which is very essential for any person to be successful. I refer to C. E. Clark, the driver of Toggles 2:10¼, and Geo. E. Berry, stable superintendent for Mr. A. B. Spreckels. And, by the way, Mr. Spreckels is the first person in the State to breed and race two trotters with race records better than 2:10, Rancho del Paso the first farm to breed two pacers with race records better than 2:05, Oakwood Park Stock Farm the first to breed two three year old pacers with race records better than 2:10, and Thos. Keating the only trainer and driver that ever brought to the post three three-year-old pacers with race records better than 2:10.

Yours,

Samuel Gamble.

P. S.—I am in favor of a United States law as suggested by the National Horse Breeders Association.

No one would have thought one year ago when Fannie Putnem was pacing on the one-half mile tracks in British Columbia, that she would at this time be winning in fast time on the big rings in the East. Since her first start at Denver she has made quite a record for herself, as she was placed second there in her first race in 2:19½. Four days later she was third in 2:16½. Two days after this she started in the 2:30 class against odds of 8 to 1 and won in 2:16¼. Her next start was at Omaha, one day off from the race she won the first and fourth heats in 2:14¼. At Elkhart, Indiana, she was second in 2:10¾. She is in the hands of that master [illegible] Andy [illegible] has her entered [illegible]ton, Ky., [illegible]er the three-quarters, which [illegible] turned into the str[illegible] [illegible]ng set down

GREAT DAY AT RIGBY.

Roan Wilkes Defeated Searchlight and Arion's Son Took Dione's Measure.

The event of the meeting at Rigby Park, Portland, Maine, was the race between Searchlight and Roan Wilkes, in which the latter won in three straight heats. On the records of the two horses there was nothing to make the race look like an easy thing for the four-year old champion, yet nearly every man present considered it only a question as to how fast Baggs' horse could make the California pacer step. About the only exceptions to this were Keeting and Mr. Crellin. Of course, they expected to win, but looked for their horse to get the hardest race of his life.

Roan Wilkes' three heats in 2:04¾, 2:07¼ and 2:05 are a trifle faster than Searchlight has ever gone. For a four-year-old to get beaten in that time is no disgrace, and when it is considered that the colt was shipped into a new country for this race, after having been three races in eight days, the beaten horse's ability to force the winner out so fast, the performance stamps him a horse of iron.

The race makes Roan Wilkes look like one of the very best pacers out this year. This horse, from the time Joe Mooney took him into New England and raced him, has been a hard horse to beat. Since going into William Baggs' hands he has beaten about everything he has been pitted against, and on more than one occasion previous to Saturday has he agreeably surprised his friends.

Baggs is not a well man, and it takes a lot of courage to stick to the sulky as he has done. Where he will land with Roan Wilkes by the close of the season can't be told, but the outlook is very promising for something even greater than the Rigby race.

The weather conditions were favorable, but it was the general opinion of horsemen that the track was not so fast as it was earlier in the week.

The program led off with the 2:14 trotting stake, which closed on the Transylvanian plan, and thirteen horses responded to the call of the bell. The order in which they came down for the word shows what an array of talent was in the field.

Nicola drew the pole, with Nico in second place, Much Ado third, Town Lady fourth, Prince Lavalard fifth, Tom Boy sixth, Jupe seventh, Stemhoulat eighth, Jolly Bird ninth, Paddy D. tenth, General eleventh, Dexter K. twelfth and Dione thirteenth.

Dione, fresh from her Cleveland, O., victory, where she stepped three heats in 2:10¾, 2:12¾ and 2:09¼, was made a big favorite, selling at times for nearly even money against the field. In some pools she brought $140 in pools of $295, and she was stoutly played up to the very last. Nico was second choice. It was the heaviest speculating race of the meeting, over $10,000 going into the box.

After a little preliminary skirmishing on the score, they got the word. Titer immediately gave Nico his head, and he stepped into the lead. Keeting, who was trailing with Dione, saw an opening and shot Dione through it. Striking the turn Nico was out in front, with Dione at his nigh wheel and Tomboy lying at his off wheel. In this fashion they passed the quarter in 32 seconds, and went over to the half in 1.04¼. Going into the upper turn Tom Boy broke and dropped back. Nico led Dione by an open length past the three quarters in 1:47. Swinging into the stretch Titer took his colt out wide, Dione came into the pole and got to the wheel, but at the tap from the whip Nico stepped away from Keatings mare as though she was hitched, and from the distance in Titer was still looking over his shoulder, finishing two lengths in front of Dione in 2:09½. General came fast through the stretch and finished third.

Between the long and tedious scoring, the casting of shoes and the collapse of sulkies, the horses were delayed on the stretch for more than an hour in the second heat. Titer, in his efforts to bring the field down on even terms, had to race Nico so stiffly that the colt was nearly paralyzed when they got the word. He jumped from his stride twenty yards from the wire and fell back to the rear of the field before he settled, and Titer very prudently let him step an easy heat. Dione went to the front at once, and was never headed in the mile. Tom Boy raced at her wheel over to the upper turn, where she again broke and fell back. Stamboulette came out of the bunch at the head of the stretch, and made a challenge for the heat, but couldn't reach. Keating was sitting still as Dione passed the wire a length in front of the son of Stamboul in 2:10½. The official time by quarters was the same as in the previous heat, viz., 0:32, 1:04½, 1:37. Nico finished in tenth place.

Going away the third heat Titer let Nico have his head and he stepped around the field, skimmed like a bird across the track, and striking the turn was at the wheel of Dione, that was off in front, at the pole. They stepped to the quarter, lapped in 32 seconds, but going down the back side Titer asked Nico for a little more speed and he let out a link, passing Dione, and taking the place, led to the half by a close length in 1:03, making the second quarter in 31 seconds. Titer then eased up and let [illegible]

Keating said after the race that he was perfectly satisfied with the result of the race, for his mare Diona had stepped the most creditable race of her life. He also added that in his judgment Nico was the greatest trotter that has appeared on the turf horizon for many a day, and his opinion is shared by many others who witnessed his splendid performances.

Three horses, Roan Wilkes, Searchlight and Planat scored down for the word in the 2:05 pace in the order named for the pole. Searchlight, with his splendid record, was made favorite at 25 to 7 over the field Keating, who has been ill for the past three weeks, didn't feel equal to the task of driving both Diona and Searchlight, and he engaged Ben Walker to pilot the great four-year-old pacer.

The opening round was a rasper. Wilkes and Searchlight stepped, lapped to the three-quarters, the time by quarters being 31¾, 1:02½, 1:33¾. Down the stretch Walker plied the whip and vigorously reefed Searchlight, but with head high, defiance in his eye and unfaltering stride, Roan Wilkes stalled off his every challenge, and inside the short distance, Walker, seeing that it was a hopeless endeavor, stopped punishing his horse, and Wilkes came home an easy winner by two lengths in 2:04¾, a new record for him by a half second, and lowering the track record which he set last year by the same fraction.

Walker rushed Searchlight away fast the second heat, hugging Roan Wilkes's flank into the turn, where Searchlight wobbled and broke, dropping back six or eight lengths. From the quarter to the three-quarters Baggs sagaciously nursed his horse, covering the distance in 1:05. At the head of the stretch Searchlight got to Wilkes' wheel and then ensued a battle royal. To Walker's urgent calls on Searchlight with voice whip and ribbon, he gallantly answered and drew up on Wilkes, and inside the short distance it looked as though he would win, but Baggs wasn't idle. Though with less apparent effort, he was urging Wilkes, and by a well-timed rally he landed the roan a neck in front at the wire in 2:07¼.

As the last half of the heat was only in 1:04 and the last quarter in 31½ seconds, not a few shrewd observers were firmly convinced that Searchlight had found a soft spot in Roan Wilkes and that he had as good as taken his measure. But they were sadly deceived. The horse that had been unbeatable for the past two years was unbeatable to-day in his class.

In a heat that fairly thrilled the spectators with enthusiasm he beat his fast, doughty and game opponent a very foot of the third mile, and won with less apparent effort than in the previous heat in 2:05. Head and head they paced to the quarter in 0:31½, nose to nose they flew up to the half in 1:01¾ and it was a neck-tie party to the three-quarters in 1:33½ Here Baggs, for the first time in the mile asked Wilkes for more speed and he got it. Wilkes drew away a length and Walker in desperation went to Searchlight with the whip, but it was in vain. Wilkes was clearly the better horse. Walker reefed and batted Searchlight, but there is a limit to flesh and blood, and he had to be content to see the elusive Wilkes stepping away from him foot by foot, and when Baggs landed Wilkes at the wire in 2:05, amidst thunderous applause from the grand stand, he had two lengths of leeway from the California crack.

Mr. C. Louis Crellin, owner of Searchlight, came on from Pleasanton, Cal., on purpose to see his great colt perform today, and it was the first time he had seen him race this year. The outcome was a disappointment to him, for he firmly believed up to the start of the third heat that his colt would pull off the race, but when the tickers stopped at 1:33¾ at the three-quarter post, and Roan Wilkes showed a clean pair of heals to Searchlight, he turned to Keating and said, "It's all over, Tom; Saarch is beaten by a better horse." Mr. Crellin took his defeat manfully, and neither he nor Keating had any apologies to make for Searchlight. Mr. Crellin said after the race, "I came thousands of miles across the Continent to see this race, and expected, of course, to see my colt win. I got a drive for my pains and money and he was beaten on his merits. If I have regrets at the outcome of the race I feel well repaid by the splendid contests in both races that I have been privileged to witness this afternoon."

Miscellaneous Breeding

Not until those who breed horses in this country quit running pellmell after certain families or breeds, and give greater consideration to the selection of breeding animals will we get rid of a vast supply of horse stock that is good for nothing in particular. Seven to fifteen years ago every breeder in the country—both large and small—either wanted to breed trotters or draft horses, and countless hundreds thought of only one of two things. If looking for a draft horse they would ask, "Is he imported?" and if for a trotter, "is he standard or registered?" Neither the individual fitness of the mare to be bred, or the sire to be patronized received any consideration. It was a standard horse or a draft horse—whichever one chanced to be fancied—that was wanted, and if the mare happened to be of the other breed no serious consideration was given to that fact in many cases—apparently it being taken for granted that a draft stallion would sire a draft horse, and a "standard" horse a trottar. Naturally such breeding brought draft horses and light harness horses into more or less disrepute with many breeders and farmers, and for a time they dropped horse breeding entirely. Now that a coachy class of horses sell well in our market a new vision has arisen in front of farmers and many others who breed horses, and a veritable stampede to so-called coach sires, especially if "imported," seems probable. The imported coach sire, like the imported draft sire, is all right it all right individually, when mated with the right class of mares, but with all classes of mares bred to imported coach sires, the saddest disappointment yet met with by horse breeders awaits them. It is worse than folly to suppose that a promiscuous lot of mares will all produce salable horses when crossed with French or German coach sires. As in every other promiscuously made cross a high class product will be the exception rather than the rule, and hundreds of those who anticipate raising salable coach horses from such a cross will do just as they have heretofore—raise a lot of nondescripts that will class nowhere, save as "chunks" and "plugs." Properly selected trotting bred mares bred to high class coach sires, either American or imported, will produce salable horses, but miscellaneous breeding to coach sires—especially the imported breeds—will surely prove a calamitous experiment.—Western Horsemen.

SANTA ROSA ENTRY LIST.

As will be seen by the list which follows the Santa Rosa meeting will be a success as far as the racing is concerned. A splendid lot of horses have been named and they are so classified that winners will be hard to pick and close contests will be certain. Owing to the fact that the horse owners have been so liberal with their entries the Association has decided to declare all the following races filled and have also announced that the purses in every instance will be paid in full. This will insure good feeling among all those participating in the meeting, and it cannot help but be a great success.

The people of Santa Rosa are doing everything toward helping the meeting along, and if it comes up to expectation a meeting is certain to be held there every year hereafter. In fact there is already some talk of an association to be formed to purchase the splendid track property, which is undoubtedly the finest in the State outside the large cities.

Wednesday next will be Petaluma Day at the meeting, and an excursion will be run to Santa Rosa from that place.

On one day of the meeting to be announced hereafter the San Francisco and North Pacific Railroad will run an excursion from Ukiah to Santa Rosa, fixing the rate for the round trip at a very low figure. Many attractions are to be offered outside the races, balloon ascensions being one of the principal features.

It will really be a gala week for Santa Rosa and Sonoma county.

Following is the program of the six days racing and the entries for each event

THE bay trottar Moorzouk, 2:20¼, by Sidney, out of Sultan Queen, by Sultan, bred by Chas. Green of this city, has taken many prizes at Eastern horse shows. He is now owned by J. H. Ostarhout of Troy, New York, and is much faster than his record.

Golden Gate Park Driving Association.

If any person in San Francisco cherishes a doubt that interest in harness horse affairs is reviving in this city, he could have had that doubt entirely removed from his mind last Wednesday evening by attending a meeting of the Directors of the Golden Gate Park Driving Association at 1200 Market street. It was simply a directors' meeting and consequently no notices had been sent to members to attend, but when the Board assembled they found at least twenty interested members present, and by the time a call to order was made there were over fifty enthusiastic gentlemen there, all of whom were members of the Association.

The coming meeting to be given at Ingleside on September 9th and 10th was talked over, and there is no doubt but the entry list will be the largest in the history of the organization. The entry of over forty horses for the two days' racing is already assured and the chances are that the only difficulty the speed committee will have will be in providing sufficient races to accommodate them all.

Nearly a dozen new members were received into the Association at its last meeting, among them being Mr. A. B. Spreckels, who was elected an honorary member and a vote of thanks tendered him for the great interest he has manifested in good roads, and the excellent manner in which the speed track at the Park has been kept since he was appointed one of the Park Commissioners.

Keating's Methods.

During a race Keating's great pacers, Searchlight, Anaconda and Klatawah, are taken care of in a very peculiar manner. As soon as the driver dismounts from the sulky the grooms unhitch the horse, right on the track, strip him of his harness, put a light halter on his head and lead him naked, without a blanket on him, back up the track to the outer drawgate, past the grand stand and the long rows of people along the fence. This is nothing more nor less than a common sense method of treating a hot, panting, excited horse. Just think of what a relief it must be to a horse to get rid of a tight, hot, stiff, irritating harness and how much better he must feel with the breeze fanning his heated skin rather than have the air excluded by a heavy blanket, while he is walking back to his stable. It always irritates me to see a swipe rush up and throw a blanket over a hot horse, just as if it were a matter of life and death, every time the driver stops him on the stretch to sponge out or to get a hoof or check adjusted. A horse that has scored four or five times needs a blanket on him on a hot day when he stops for an instant about as much as Uncle Sam's soldiers would need to be wrapped in a bed quilt after he had chased a bunch of Spaniards up one of those long Cuban hills. I'm thinking the best way to get that soldier boy ready for another charge in twenty minutes would be to strip him of his knapsack, gun and ammunition harness and let him lie around in the shade without any quilt on him. The notion that a horse is going to catch cold or cool out too fast on the average summer day in this latitude, unless he is covered up with a blanket all the time, is poppycock. The California trainers, as a rule, seem to understand this better than the Eastern trainers. Keating does not cover his horses up much more than Salisbury used to, and a great deal of the time about all that gentleman used to put on a horse between heats was a rub rag over his loins.—Yarrum in Horse Review.

"TALKING of laying up heats," said an old follower of the circuit, at Santa Rosa, the other day, "I remember a few years ago a friend of mine had a horse that was entered all down the line and was fast enough to win in three straight every time he came out. He started out that way and after the first race he couldn't get a bet on his horse unless he gave ten to one. When he got to Petaluma on his way through the circuit, he came to the conclusion that he would lay up a heat or so and see if he couldn't at least get even money against his horse. He drew the ontside position in a field of eight, and going around the first turn allowed his horse to go to a break and then laid behind far enough to be out of the heat, but inside the distance. Pools did not change much and he laid up another. Then the betting chopped and the horse that had won the two heats was made favorite. My friend got his money down and started out for the next heat in earnest, but going round the far turn a dog ran across the track right under his horse's feet, there was a wild break on the part of the equine and a yalp on the part of the dog, and before he knew it he was passed by several of the horses and lost the heat. It was fortunately won by a horse that had not been in front before, and my friend succeeded in winning the next three heats and the race. During the remainder of the season he went back to the old plan of winning in three straight, because he said he would drop dead with heart failure if he had any more close calls like the one at Petaluma. But, say, that was the best race on the circuit. There was more money bet and more excitement, and it caused greater satisfaction to the public than any race of the entire season."

MR. MIDDLEMAY, the fast trotter owned by Edwin Gaylord, was sold at Cleveland, Ohio, to Charles Tanner, the consideration being $5,000 cash. The colt is a bay fifteen hands high, four years old. He is by Marsh Murdock, he by Ashlaod Wilkes. His dam was Brown Bess, she by Republic, out of Black Bess. He was foaled on the farm of Charles Owens, near Byers, who sold him to John P. O'Leary for $80. O'Leary gave him his training and started him last year in the three-year-old trot to fill the race. O'Leary sold him to Frank L. Smith for $800. The latter sold him to Gaylord for $1,500 and Gaylord has now sold him for $5,000.

TOMMY MURPHY, the well known horse shoer who shoes the trotters and pacers on the California circuit every year, met with an accident at Santa Rosa last week that came near proving very serious. He was engaged in sharpening teeth for the track harrow, when his helper struck the tooth with his sledge in such a manner as to cause the iron to fly in Murphy's face, cutting a gash over his eye and penetrating clear to the bone. It was a close call and Tommy considers he was lucky in escaping with his eyesight.

DRIVING AND BALANCING.

Some Excellent Suggestions by One Who Has Had Practical Experience.

The reins and bit should be used only to guide and manage the horse, and not to draw the load by. It certainly is much easier for every horse to draw the sulky and man on it by the tugs, than by the bit that rests upon the sensitive nerves of the mouth; and again, few horses that pull hard enough to draw the load, stop there: they pull not only the load, but more or less of the drivers strength; a hard puller pulls the load, and often one, two or three hundred pounds besides. This certainly is a great handicap; how much, cannot be accurately known, but probably some three or five seconds. The colt should, if possible, be broken to go on a very loose rein, and in breaking him in, the driver will do well to always bear this in mind, for it will not be an easy matter to teach him to forget the pulling habit, if once acquired. By pulling the mouth becomes lacerated, and the greater the pain the harder will the colt pull, until he becomes such a chronic puller as to make him of little value. By all means drive the colt and horse, too, with a loose rein, if it can possibly be done. To be able to do this brings us to another question, "How to tell when a colt is balanced?"

The colt that goes on a loose rein must be perfectly balanced; he can't do it unless he is, and this is the easiest way in the world to tell whether or not he is balanced: if he be not balanced and driven on a loose rein, he will either go mean-gaited and make breaks repeatedly, or the driver will be obliged to carry him along, and keep him in his stride by taking a good strong hold of him, and making the colt pull upon the bit. This will soon make him form the habit of pulling—a habit he will not soon forget. If the colt be good-headed and wants to stay on a trot, but cannot do it on a loose rein, he certainly is not balanced, or he is hitting himself somewhere. From the start, protect the colt by putting on all the boots made, from the knee and hock down. Don't wait to find out what boots he will need, but put them all on, and after awhile you can tell what can be safely discarded, but to start with he needs them all; you are then reasonably sure that he cannot hit himself, and this fact will assist you in deciding whether or not he is balanced. A colt may be well protected with boots, may be shod exactly right, but still not go steady when started up. He is not a natural trotter, and will not, usually, make a fast colt, but, if he be well protected with boots and tries to go on a trot, but cannot do it on a comparatively loose rein, it is a certain thing that he is not balanced, and it is almost a sure thing that he is not carrying sufficient weight.

What weight is required to perfectly balance the colt can only be found by experimenting; keep adding more in the shoe or in a light toe-weight until he goes smooth and easy on on a light rein, until he feels like a trotter, then stop. After a while you may be able to reduce the weight, in fact it is almost a certain thing that you can; but don't carry it beyond the point where the colt goes nicely balanced. He can carry a twelve-ounce shoe balanced better and faster than six-ounce shoe, and be a little out of balance. This brings us to another question: "How to correct such faults as toeing-in, forging, carrying one or both hind feet inside, etc." Unless the colt hits his knees, the fault of toeing-in is to a great degree an imaginary fault. If he toes in it is because his conformation is such that he can't help it, and no man can remedy it. The shape of the foot may be changed and thus prevent him from hitting his knees, and they may not. In cases of this kind it will be well to try lowering the inside heels and taking off considerable of the foot from the inside heel to the point of the toe, and raising the outside heels and leveling point of foot from these heels to the point of the toe. Few horses forge when speeding, but those that do are very hard cases to deal with. The same treatment will hardly ever effect two horses alike, and that being the case there is but one thing to do. That is to keep changing the shoes until you find what comes nearest filling the bill, and this usually will not be very satisfactory. We saw one driver give three horses, that forged very badly, fair records, but far from where they would have trotted had it been possible to have remedied the fault. He shod them in almost every possible way, but it seemed to be impossible to entirely overcome, not the habit—for their conformation was such as to cause them to go in this way—but a very serious fault. Carrying one or both hind feet in is almost if not always brought about by not protecting the colt thoroughly with boots. He hits himself, it causes pain, he changes off trying to avoid it, and the result is he soon forms the habit of putting one hind foot between the two forward ones. To remedy this, boot him well, and if the habit has been formed use a pole to make him go straight. After a time he will find that he cannot hurt himself, and he will go straight without the pole.

Star Pointer the Great.

Star Pointer is the only harness horse that ever beat two minutes and he will probably for a long time be the only horse that has beaten it three times. He made an effort at Joliet last Thursday to lower his record. A fast track favored him, but a breeze on the stretch was a handicap and made the time, 1:59½, a truly marvelous performance. Prompted by a runner, McClary warmed the great horse, and after stepping the eighth in fifteen seconds, came back and scored. Fifteen seconds were registered as the eighth pole was reached. The quarter was passed in 30¼ seconds. The pair raced like a team and reached the half in 1:00¼. Still the great horse kept his tremendous burst of speed. At the three-quarters the watches clicked 1:29¾, and the great bay came under the wire in 1:59½, the most remarkable time ever made by any horse, conditions considered.

Klatawah's Pedigree.

With all due respect to "Raymond" of the Horse World' he is going out of his way to find something in Klatawah's breeding that will enable him to get a rap at those who believe in the thoroughbred blood close up. Raymond takes up Niagara's breeding, which "is said to be", and harps on that. No matter what Niagara was, Katie G.'s second dam was Fanny Wickham and she was a thoroughbred mare whose pedigree is clearly established. Raymond's remark that the doubt as to Niagara's breeding "eliminates from Klatawah's pedigree on the maternal side those crosses to Trustee, Sir Archy, etc," shows that he has not looked very carefully at the pedigree of the Oakwood Park Stock Farm's great pacer. And just to set him right and let him know just what he wants to talk about, we will tabulate for him the pedigree of Fannie Malone, dam of Katie G., and granddam of Kletawah. It is as follows:

FANNY MELONE..... { Niagara, s. t. h..... { Mambrino Chief 11 / Untraced } / Fanny Wickham... { Imp. Herald / Dau. of Imp. Trustee }

Now, even though it should be proven that Niagara was got by an Andalusian jack, out of a Shetland mare, the crosses to "Trustee, Sir Archy, etc.," which seem to appear only as nightmares to Raymond, will have to remain in the pedigree of the champion three-year-old-pacer.

Clevelands' Good Example.

Performances by the trotters and pacers of the first division must be brilliant, indeed, if the history made at the Cleveland Grand Circuit meeting recently is approached, to say nothing of eclipsed. From the beginning of the first race to the final heat on the closing day the non sensational mile was an exceedingly scarce article. The report of our special representative deals with the details of the sensational work which added so many brilliant pages to the history of the achievements of the American light harness horse, hence we do not deem it necessary to refer to them here. There was, moreover, something to the meeting aside from the startling performances. The management was perfect and the attendance broke even the Cleveland record, a statement the full force of which can only be realized by those who know what the home of the famous Glenville course can do by way of showing how genuine is the love of its people for harness racing. Years of painstaking care on the part of Colonel William Edwards and his associates have brought their just reward.

The Cleveland public believes in them, and its confidence has never been betrayed. During the past year a goodly sum of money has been expended upon track improvements, until now the racing plant is so complete that neither horsemen nor patrons can find the slightest thing against which to lodge an objection. It is often said when the tremendous success of the Cleveland Driving Park Company is referred to: "Oh, well, Cleveland is not like other cities." Perhaps it is not, but it would be better to say that it has been made unlike other cities. Building with wisdom, the management there long ago set about to make its annual meeting the best attraction the city has. With that one object in view the goal was sighted, proper bearings were taken and in due time Cleveland became a synonym for the best in harness-racing. There should be more Clevelands—in fact many other cities are moving in a manner which indicated that they will soon be in the same class. When they succeed there will be no more doubt about harness racing than there is about base ball in the National League cities. And the Cleveland managers will be among the first to shout and be glad. They have succeeded in interesting the public, the only sure road to success. There the horsemen do not have to "pay the freight" or have no meeting, for the public is ready, willing and anxious to contribute the necessary dollars. The greatest lesson, therefore, of the Cleveland Grand Circuit meeting for 1898 was taught by the presence, every day, of the cheering thousands who paid admission at the gate and who were given value received, a situation made possible by the absolutely fair treatment that has been given horsemen, year after year, by the local management. May Cleveland give many more meetings equally as successful; and the best we can wish any other city is that it may eventually do as well.—The Horse Review.

Long Branch Horse Show.

The Horse Show held at Long Branch two weeks ago proved a great success. The class of exhibits this year is ahead of anything yet seen at Long Branch.

That the show is not deficient in the matter of rich appointment—a feature which to experienced horsemen always speaks of the quality of the exhibits, was demonstrated by the quality shown in competition for S. G. Curtis' special prize. Cabriolets were in the majority of vehicles shown, Charles F. Bates was easily first from every point of view, there being nothing richer than his turnout, and as for his horseflesh, of course nothing in the show could touch his remarkable pair of steppers, Brown Donna and tha long-time prize horse Coxey. It is really astonishing how the latter animal keeps in front year after year. His style sets the sticks a-going the moment he appears, and when his driver sends him around for the final burst, the crowd fairly rouses at him and so the judges cannot do other than award him the blue rosette. Mr Carman's Walsingham and Stranger, hitched to a neatly appointed vehicle, were placed second.

Hunters and jumpers kept things lively on the green within the oval and the well-known natural hunter, Red Oak, owned by Messrs. Grant and Elliott, negotiated the sticks in commendable fashion, and so was first. Jimmy Bluta put Mr. Gould's Shamrock over for second place and Elliott piloted the old-time prize winner, Kensington across the country for the yellow rosette. Here is a horse that has won more prizes and jumped more timber than any animal now living, but he has to be warmed up nowadays and we shall hear again from him later, no doubt. Young Master Holloway, one of the cleverest boys in the hunting world, had a capital mount on Greylock, among the others shown being Irish Boy, Dickey Bird, Chappie and Chester.

The most coveted prize in the show, that for park teams turned out, was won by C. F. Bates once again, and so it begins to look as if the city dealers had better facilities for appointing their equipages than those of the amateur class who use on the avenue tha horses and drags they expended so much money upon.

Teaching High Action.

There is no doubt that a horse with a naturally high action may be made to go higher by proper treatment, says the Maine Farmer. For instance, when first taken up, he should never be driven to the point of great fatigue, and he should always be kept feeling well and in prime condition. Then he will delight to bound along, pulling up his knees and hocks and proudly showing himself off to spectators. No amount of fixing will put action into a horse not properly formed, and it must never be forgotten that there is as much difference in high action as there is between the proverbial chalk and cheese. The horse that doubles his knees up quickly and slams his feet down again hard, will not sell in the same class with the horse whose forefoot is picked up and put down as though following the circumference of a wheel, the pastern springing quickly when the foot touches, not strikes, the ground, and is picked gracefully up again to perform its round, circling motion once more. The horse with the latter way of going will outwear two or three of the others, and though any kind of high action will sell to advantage, the more graceful sort described is the kind that should be sought. It goes with the conformation of shoulder, head, neck, loin, quarter and hock that is most desired, and is in all ways infinitely the most preferable.

MAY B., the mare by Altoona that is in Hellman's string at Santa Rosa, worked a mile over that track one day last week in 2:13½. She should be pretty near a free-for-all prospect before the season is over.

THE bay gelding King Cedenza, by Steinway out of Empress 2:29½, by Flaxtail, is now the property of Chas. F. Kepp, of this city, who will use him as a road horse. King Cadenza is a handsome horse and a most excellent driver.

MR. FRED VETTER, of this city, has a six-year-old bay horse that has paced a mile over the Alameda track in 2:12 and will undoubtedly go much faster before the year is out. He is called Alco and was bred at the Vineland Stock Farm in Napa county. Alco is by Alconeer 15,120, out of a mare by Whippleton, second dam by Bulger, sire of the dam of Plunket, 2:13¼. Alconeer is by Alcona 730, out of Medonne, the dam of Alcona, Jr., 2:19, and Del Rey, 2:24¾. Few horses are bred like Alco.

GEO. VAN GORDEN, the well-known horseman, has returned from the Klondike country, where he went in search of nuggets last year. He has done very well, is interested in several claims and will return this winter and have them worked. He says Monroe Salisbury is in Dawson, and has disposed of all the horses he took to that country except two, and at fair prices. He is also interested in several mining ventures. Milo Knox of Haywards is at Dawson engaged in teaming, and doing well.

MR. GEO. GUERNE, of Santa Rosa, who bred and raised Directum Kelly and his dam, Rosa Ludwig, does not regret that he sold the colt, as he says he would never have trotted as fast, probably, had he owned him, but he is sorry he sold the mare. A few dame like Rosa Ludwig are worth having on any stock farm, and are worth keeping. The horse breeder who has not the time nor inclination to train his colts should sell them, if possible, to persons who will. One good colt with a record will bring added value to its dam and all her produce.

THERE are several pretty good road horses owned up in the little town of Cordelia, Solano county, but no race track there. An argument having arisen as to the relative speed of three of these roadsters. The owners drove their animals over to Vallejo last Sunday, and after securing that well known resident of the navy yard town, Mr. Frank Denio to act as judge, starter, clerk of the scales and clerk of the course, went to the track and settled their difficulties. J. B. Nightingale's Oaknut 2:24¼, a thirteen-year old son of Dawn was the winner in straight heats in 2:49 and 2:42. C. A. Turner's Administer was second and Chris Donker's Lady Alta was third. The race was for $25 a corner, the winner to entertain the presiding judge after the race.

10,000 ENDORSERS!

"I have thoroughly tested CONTINENTAL OINTMENT, and I have found it the best article for its purpose I have ever used. It keeps the hoof soft and healthy and growing, and for cracked heels, scratches and the like, it is simply perfect."
WM. B. FASIG,
(Then Secretary N. O. Fair Association).

"I had a fine pacer and his feet were sore and full of fever and corns; he was not fit to drive on the roads, and to-day I can drive him as far and as hard as anybody's horse, and it will not make him sore nor lame. He was cured with CONTINENTAL OINTMENT. Our druggist keeps it through my recommendation."
R. H. LYTLE, Palatine, Ill.

Any Druggist or Harness Dealer can easily get CONTINENTAL OINTMENT for you, or we will send a can on receipt of price.

Sulky Notes.

GAYTON, 2:10¼, stands at the head of the trotters to the credit of Allerton, 2:09¼.

JOE THAYER has driven a two-year-old sister to Sea Mateo, 2:13¼, a mile in 2:23.

JAMES DUSTIN has purchased a mare by Col. Osgood that report says is a very fast one.

FOUR hundred horses have taken records in 2:30 and better, for the first time this year.

NOT over one horse in ten thousand can stand two races per week of the three in five kind.

DIRECTUM KELLY, 4, 2:11¼, has, so far, won four straight races this year and $6,250 in purses.

THE Rigby Park Meeting was a poor one for the talent. Of the thirteen favorites but two landed.

ADRELL, 2:23, the champion yearling, was recently driven an eighth in 16¼ seconds to road cart on the Glens Falls track.

JAMES BUTLER has a sister of Directum Kelly, 2:11¼, entered in the two-year-old trot at Glen Falls. She is named Phyllis Kelly.

RANCHO DEL PASO is the only stock farm that ever bred two pacers that have beaten 2:05—Flying Jib, 2:04, and Anaconda, 2:04¾.

DIRECTLY made his first start of the year at Davenport, Ia., in the 2:08 pace, which was won by Miss Logan. Directly was shut out in third heat.

KEATING has turned the mare Antrime 2:15½, by Antrim out. She was thought to be able to reduce her record this year, but has not been right.

THEY are all in a row, and you walk up and help yourself. If you know just the quantity you want you can get it "Among the Barrels" at 863 Market street.

CARRIE C., 2:21¼, is being worked at the speed track in Golden Gate Park and is showing lots of speed. She should be a pretty good mare in her class if raced.

IT is reported that during the Cleveland meeting the Hamlins tried to buy Emily, 2:11, from James A. Murphy, an offer of $5,000 being made. The offer was refused.

HENRY SCHMULBAUGH, of Wheeling, W. Va., is trying to buy Searchlight. Should he do so, the great pacer would probably find a home in his native State, Kentucky.

MAJOR P. P. JOHNSON, President of the K. T. H. B. A., has decided not to make the race for Governor of Kentucky, and will devote his entire time to his horse interests.

CHARLES MARVIN, has driven Belsire, brother to Chimes, Bow Bells, Bell Boy, etc., a mile below 2:30, and he is likely to give that horse a fast record before the season ends.

IF you have anything real good that you want to sell, better consign it to the Horse Show Sale of W. B. Fasig's to be held in New York November 21st to December 2d.

CHINA SILK will not be campaigned this year, her owner, Marcus Daly, preferring to breed her to Ponce de Leon. She is perfectly sound, and probably will be returned to the track next year.

IN the great race at Rigby between Roan Wilkes and Searchlight, the last quarters of the three heats were paced in 0:31, 0:31¼ and 0:31½, respectively, and in the last heat the first half was paced in 1:01¾.

A YEARLING named Sodata, by Red Chute, son of Guy Wilkes, dam by Bow Bells, and with Lord Russell, Belmont and Pilot Jr., back, is said to be the best one of the age that has shown in Kentucky.

AMBROSE YOUNG, a horse breeder, died in Lexington, Ky., July 21st, aged seventy-two years. He is said to have bred Mambrino King, although the Trotting Register credits Dr. L. Herr as being the breeder of the horse.

MIKE COSTELLO left on the Doric this week for Honolulu, where he will train and drive a string of trotters and pacers belonging to Mr. Cunningham, a well-known owner of harness horses in the new acquisition to this country's possessions.

THEY tell of a mule being exhibited in England which stands 19¾ hands high and weighs 1,830 pounds. It is remarked that this is said to be the tallest mule ever bred in the United States. He must have had his legs pulled by some one.

HORSEMEN at Santa Rosa say the hay furnished them there is the best they have had since starting on the circuit. The very choicest of oat hay is furnished them at $13 50 per ton and it is of such superior quality that the horses eat it up clean.

THE judges on the Eastern tracks are using the 'derrick" with good results and the racing is improving, as well as the attendance. Nothing will cause the gate receipts to increase more than a feeling among the people that the races are honestly conducted.

AFTER the bay gelding Mirable, by Kentucky Prince, had won the 2:13 trot at Poughkeepsie last Wednesday, taking the second heat in 2:16¼, he was purchased by Barney Demarest for $1,000. He was bred at Stony Ford and was sold at auction last fall for $100.

ED. LAFFERTY, who has had charge of the Santa Rosa track, has it in fine condition for the races which begin today. It is a fast track when just right, and records are very likely to be broken on it during the meeting.

DARK NIGHT, sire of the sensational four-year-old pacer Searchlight, 2:04¾, is owned in Dusseldorf, Germany. He is a son of Alcyone, by George Wilkes, dam Noonday, by St. Elmo. Noonday was out of the great brood mare Midnight, whose sire was Pilot, Jr.

MUCH comment is being made of the frequency with which the blood of Strathmora crops out in the pedigree of fast performers. Many believe that Strathmora would have ranked as high as any horse that ever lived had he ever been boomed like George Wilkes, Electioneer, Almont, etc.

GEO. W. BERRY is training for A. B. Spreckels a very handsome gelding by Sable Wilkes out of a mare by Dan Voorhees. He is five years old and must weigh about 1300 pounds or more. Though such a big fellow he is a handsome horse and can now show quarters in 33 seconds.

ED LAFFERTY, who is trainer for the Santa Rosa Stock Farm, owned by Pierce Bros., has a good string of trotters at the Santa Rosa track—one of the best he has handled for some time he says. Ed has had charge of the track there and has it in first-class shape for the races which begin today.

THE horses which Will Caton has been training at Cleveland were started for Russia last week. The shipment included Edgar, 2:16, by Chitwood; Captain Walbridge, 2:18¾, by Arsaces; Miss Phillsrton, 2:21½, by Allerton; Modesty, 2:22½, and a stallion by Patron out of the dam of Myrtle R., 2:15½.

MANY of the Montana horses that started out so well early in the season are dropping back into the "also started" division. John Nolan, Queerest and several others are getting stale from too much racing or too much work. Some of the Californians now in the Eastern circuit are afflicted in a similar manner.

DR. LEEK'S record is now 2:11½. He was started in a field of ten at Hedrick, Iowa, on Wednesday, August 10th, and won the second, third and fourth heats in 2:11½, 2:11½ and 2:12. He was driven by P. W. Hodges. The son of Sidney is getting into form and will surely be in the 2:10 list before he returns home to California.

DIRECTINA, 2:16¾, by Direct out of the dam of Directum, was sold lately through the agency of Ben Walker to James Butler of the East View Farm. Walker last season started Directina in three races as a three-year-old, and won two seconds and one third. He says she was the gamest thing he ever pulled a rein over, and that is saying a good deal.

MR. YANDEL, the well known foundryman of Santa Rosa has a very handsome road mare by Secretary. Her dam's breeding is not known to a certainty, but it is thought she is by Electioneer, or one of his sons. This mare is one of the gentlest animals ever driven on the road, and has shown a mile on the track with no training except road work, in 2:25.

JAMES BUTLER, of New York, has purchased a nomination in the Transylvanian Stake for his four-year-old colt, Directum Kelly, 2:11¼. The purchase was made during the meeting at Detroit. Although the list of probable starters in this great event has not yet been given out, enough is known of them that the Transylvania will have one of the greatest fields in its history.

IF Monterey, 2:13¼, starts at Santa Rosa to-day and is in good shape, look out for the track record, as it will be broken by the horse that beats him. At Alameda last week Mr. Williams drove Monterey three heats over the marsh track and the fastest was 2:08¾. It has been predicted in these columns that Monterey would beat 2:10 this year. He will do it, barring accidents.

THE handsomest horse that is driven in Golden Gate Park is Chris Peterson 2:13¼, owned by Mr. H. Dutard. No more perfect driver was ever hooked to a buggy. Large and grand-looking, high headed, dark bay, with the blackest and handsomest mane and tail, and as gentle as a kitten. He is the ideal road horse, and it is a rare pleasure to sit behind him on a ride through the park roads.

AMONG the enterprising business men of Santa Rosa who have taken great interest in the meeting which begins there to-day and to whose effort is in a great measure due the splendid prospects for a grand meeting, are Messrs. Belden & Hahn, the leading harness dealers of that city. They carry a very large stock of goods and pay particular attention to outfitting harness horses for the track. There is no more enterprising firm in Santa Rosa than these gentlemen.

MR. MACMAHON, of this city, who owns the old gelding Tom Ryder 2:13½, took the handsome son of Alex Button out to the speed track last Thursday morning to see how much speed the old campaigner has left. Mr. Macmahon uses him as a road horse here in the city, but has never raced him. He asked Geo. Berry to drive the old fellow the half. George consented and sent him the distance in 1:02½. Pretty fast gait for a pacer that has been off the track for two or three years and is not in training.

IT is reported that the parties who started Frank H., 2:23, under the name of Atlantic Wilkes in 1896 and Miss Keene, 2:21¼, under the name of Ollie D., of Bedford, Pa., a few weeks ago, have purchased Fredonia, 2:15¼, by Black Cloud, and started him under the name of Smith Hontas at McKees Rocks last week. Fredonia is a dark chestnut gelding, about 16 hands high, two white ankles behind, star and strip on nose and spavin on right hind leg, which has been fired. He goes very rough-gaited, hopping behind.

THERE is a strong talk among horsemen of Lexington Kentucky, of establishing trotting tracks in Havana and San Juan if Cuba and Porto Rico become United States territory. The opinion is that those places would be ideal spots for winter training. California is so far ahead of the Antilles as a place for winter training that Eastern horsemen will not be led away by any scheme to go to those islands. It is not probable that future champions will be trained in the land where laziness predominates and energy is a scarce article.

SILAS SKINNER, 2:17, one of two gamest horses ever seen on a race track, is now doing stud duty in Santa Rosa, where he is owned by Grace Bros. He is big and fat, and a grand looking horse. When Wm. McGraw teamed this son of Alcone Jr. and Fontana over the California circuit he was a hard horse to beat. He took his record in 1891, but soon after broke down in the front legs from the almost constant drilling he had received since his two-year-old form. Messrs. Grace Bros. have some fine looking colts and fillies by him that can trot fast, though few of them have ever been worked.

CHAS. KAPP of this city and J. N. Nelson of Alameda have purchased from D. Fortin the good colt I Direct, 2:18½, by Direct, 2:05½, out of Francesca, by Almont 33, dam of Guycesca, 2:23, second dam Frances Breckenridge, by Sentinel 280, third dam by Bayard 53, fourth dam Luna, by Swigert's Lexington, fifth dam the great thoroughbred race and broodmare Eagless, by imp. Glencoe, and so on to the 23d dam, the celebrated Layton Barb mare. I Direct is a grand looking horse and is not only a fast three-year-old and a winner, but, bred as he is, should make a great sire. The price paid for I Direct is not given out, but we understand it is well up in four figures.

EAGLE FLANNIGAN, the new champion of the first class in the Grand Circuit, is a six-year old bay gelding by Eagle Bird, 2:21, he by Jay Bird, son of George Wilkes, out of Tansey, a daughter of George Wilkes. Eagle Flannigan's dam, Lady Flannigan, was a fast mare by Wood's Hambletonian that was formerly owned and driven on the road in Brooklyn by John R. Flennigen, who sold her to Judge H. M. Whitehead of New York. It is claimed that she trotted a mile in 2:22½, about 20 years ago. E. C. Camp, a prominent lawyer of Tennessee, bred Eagle Flannigan and still owns him. He came out green in 1896 gaining a four-year-old record of 2:20½, which he lowered last year to 2:12½. R. Scott Hudson, of Lexington, trained him and drove him to his record of 2:09¼ at Columbus.

MR. FRANCIS WARE, manager of the New York Horse Exchange, recently said: "The prospects for increased values for high-class speed horses and good business and general purpose horses are exceedingly bright. During the next five years prices will increase from 50 to 60 per cent. The foreign demand for American horses has largely to do with this. The exports this year have been 87,000 head, and next year it will go, I am sure, to 115,000, and likely to 120,000 head. Europeans have just now learned to know the value of the American horse. He is in every respect superior to the animal of Europe. Harness racing, I take it, is gaining a greater hold on the American sporting public, and there is a steady increase in the value of trotters and pacers.

OUT at the speedway in Golden Gate Park last Thursday morning, Mr. Wm. Bradbury, of this city, drove a four-year-old mare, hitched to a heavy cart, a quarter in 0:33. She wore no boots and has not been in training, except such driving as Mr. Bradbury gives her in the Park once or twice a week, so the performance was of more than ordinary significance. She finished so strong that it was plain she would rather have gone another quarter than to have been pulled up. This mare is as handsome a turned animal as one sees in a month's travel. She stands 15.1, is a beautiful bay with black points, with feet and limbs like a thoroughbred, short back, round barrel and a very fine and intelligent head. She is by Nutwood Wilkes, 2:16½ out of a full sister to Little Albert, 2:10. If we ever saw a natural trotter she is one, and ought to be by her breeding.

THE good colt Nico, that took the measure of Dione at Portland last week, trotting two heats below 2:10, now ranks as the fastest four-year-old ever bred in New England. He is looked upon by many horsemen as being one of the very few trotters now in sight that may possibly develop into a record breaker. Nico trotted only one race in his three-year old form. In that contest he moved a quarter in 30½ seconds, and a half in 1:03½, finishing the mile in a jog in 2:16¾. In his second race this season he trotted three miles below 2:15, cutting his record down to 2:12¼. His second race against Dione, Stamboulet, and other cracks at Portland was the fourth race of his career. The youngster enjoys the distinction of being the only trotter of any age that has beaten 2:10 at his fourth start in company. Nico was bred by J. Malcom Forbes, of Boston, who now owns him. He is one of the second crop of the get of Arion, 2:07¾, and is out of Maggie Sultan, 2:30, by Sultan, 2:24, grandam Maggie Prescott, by Jim Monroe, the sire of Monroe Chief, 2:18¼.

AT a sale of Palo Alto bred horses at the California State Fair in 1893, James Dustin purchased the mare, Aggie G., by Ansel, out of Gypsy, by Paul's Abdallah. The mare had been stinted to Whips, but was not believed to be in foal, and Mr. Dustin sold her to Dr. Finlaw, proprietor of the Rosedale Stock Farm at Santa Rosa, Cal. The Doctor came to the conclusion that Aggie was carrying a foal, and his conclusions were correct, as the next spring she dropped a fine-looking colt, which was named St. Whips. He is now four years old, and though a little leggy, is a very fine-looking colt. Dr. Finlaw will use him on mares sired by his horse, Daly, 2:15, son of Geo. Benton and Dolly, by Electioneer, and thinks the produce ought to be fast trotters. Daly's get are quite numerous in the vicinity of Santa Rosa, and are universally big, fine-looking animals. There is a five-eighths track on the Rosedale Farm on which the young colts are worked and on which many of them have shown lots of speed this year. Rosedale is beautifully situated about a mile from Santa Rosa and just at the edge of the foothills. Nearly a hundred head of horses, broodmares and colts are now on the farm.

OWEN DALE AND MEDOC.

Medoc was not only the best son of American Eclipse, but the most successful stallion in America from 1836 to 1840. He got Red Bill, Blecknose, Musidora, Cub, Mirabeau, Cripple, Lavotta and many noted winners. He made his first season at seven years of age and died just after his third season, being killed by a falling tree. Mr. W. S. Buford (Scott Will, as he was called) gave Mr. Charles J. Foster and myself a very enterteining account of him in 1865, as we rode out from New York to see Jerome Park, which had just been laid off at that time.

Medoc's dam was by imp. Expedition and that was why I always believed Owen Dale would prove to be the greatest stallion on this Coast, on account of his near relationship to Medoc, as Belmont, Owen Dale's sire, was inbred to Expedition and Owen's dam was by Eclipse. In fact, Owen Dale never made but four seasons, during which time he covered just nine thoroughbred mares. Eight of these produced foals, four of which were crippled in training, while the other four showed "stake form" beyond description. These were Susie B. Moore, out of Susie Hawkins, by Jack Hawkins; Transit, out of Molly Rogers, by Conflagration; Blue Dale, out of a mare owned by the late Air Hopper, of this county, and Breckinridge, out of a quarter mare owned by Andrew Work, for which no pedigree could be given. It is a pitiable comment that so valuable a horse as Owen Dale should have died of neglect, for, in addition to those named above, he got no less than nine horses returned as winners, whose dams could not be traced at all. These were Kyrat, owned by John Tyree, of Stockton; Red Willows, bred by a Mr. Trace, near Woodland; Robert Dale Owen, bred by Judge Hutton, of Cache Creek, Yolo county; Lizzie Dale, bred on Cache Creek; a chestnut horse owned by Isaac Sparks, at Jacinto, whose name I have forgotten; Gray Dale, bred by S. B. Everson; Santa Clara, bred by the same, and a very handsome chestnut gelding bred by Judge Henry C. Melone, that won a race at Stockton in 1865. Of these nine, Santa Clara won three races; Kyrat, Red Willows and Robert Dale Owen each two, and the other five each one, so that it cannot be said that Owen Dale left a maiden colt or filly behind him. The same was true of imp. Martenhurst—not a maiden out of thirteen starters, but he got a great deal better mares than were ever mated with Owen Dale, who is now thirty-two years dead.

Medoc was not only a sire of sires but a great brood mare sire as well. We all know that a daughter of imp. Trauby produced the great stallion Vandal but for whom the male line of Glencoe would now be extinct; and that she produced Lexity the greatest of all native brood mares. But how many men know that she also produced the first horse (Alaric) to run two miles inside of 3:40 and that the sire of that horse was Mirabeau, a son of Medoc. You hear a great deal said about Alice Carneal, the dam of Lexington, and what a race nag she was. Why, when Argentile (second dam of Hubbard and Kate Pease) won the great $5,000 post stake at Lexington in 1841, Savolta, a daughter of Medoc, was less than a length behind her, and Alice Carneal was not only third but actually beaten over sixty yards. There is hardly one man in a hundred now alive that ever heard of a horse called Charley Nailer, who was by Medoc out of Jenny Slaverkins, by Tiger, she being the third dam of Parole, the only American horse that ever won the Great Metropolitan and City and Suburban Handicap. Well, Mr. Wooding, Mr. O'Hanlon, Milton Morrison and Col. Lewis Sanders (Mr. J. B. Haggin's father-in-law) all told me that had not Charley Nailer broken down in training for the big $20,000 post stake at Louisville, he would have beaten both Wagner and Grey Eagle to a moral certainty.

Blacknose was about the best horse Medoc ever got, a dark chestnut with a big black patch on his nigh jowl. He was out of Lucas, the second dam of Vandal, the sixth dam of Salvator, Luka Blackburn and Volturno, and the seventh dam of St. Augustine, a noted stake-winner for Mr. Lorillard. When Blacknose was four years old he and Red Bill met in a race at three-mile heats, and Wagner, also a noted winner, was in the race, although it was said he had been poisoned in his race with Gamma at Nashville in the year previous. Well, Red Bill and Wagner had a hot fight in the first heat and Red Bill beat him. Then Blacknose won the second heat and Red Bill was laid up, only to make a dead heat with Blacknose in the third, who won the fourth heat, distancing Wagner in which the fourth starter (whose name I have forgotten) was shot out also.

Red Bill got at least six horses that were brought to the Pacific Coast. One of these was Maria Collier, dam of Dashaway, Richmond and Beauregard, and fourth dam of Rey del Bandidos. She was called Lady Dorris after her arrival here, but Reason Jourdan identified her to my satisfaction or she never would have gotten into Bruce's Stud Book. Another Red Bill mare was brought here by Albert G. Toomes, of Tehama, who bred four or five winners from her. Another of Red Bill's get was owned by a man named Perkins, living near Suisun. Wesley Marsh (known here as Pompey Smash) rode her in Missouri and identified her at once. John B. Ward who married Miss Estudillo of San Leandro, bought a Medoc mare of a man named Firshush, and the title papers looked all right. Another of Red Bill's get was old Simon, a chestnut gelding that beat Rifleman in a three-mile dash at the Oregon State Fair of 1859. He was brought out by a Mr. Younger.

Of our early winning race horses on this Coast, Medoc got the dams of no less than seven, to wit: Wake-up-Jake, by Yorkshire; Nebraska Bill, by Glencoe; Billy Fifer, by imp. Consol; Fanny Harper, by Grey Eagle; Pop Eye, by St. Louis, son of Altorf; and Hog Driver, a bay gelding bred by Jas. Berry of Woodford county, Ky., and brought here at the same time with Emma Taylor and Fanny Harper. After the Australian mare Black Swan beat Sarco near this place in 1852, at six miles, Billy Bordett (who must now be past 80 if he is alive), brought Hog Driver down here and beat Sarco at five miles about as easily as the antipodean mare had done. And last but not least, Alegar or Jenny Walker as she was called here, was by Boston, out of a Medoc mare and was brought here by Andrew Stevenson's brother Bush Stevenson, who died in Texas about two years ago. From 1855 to 1861, these five horses, Wake up Jake, Billy Fifer, Nebraska Bill, Pop Eye and Jenny Walker, won four out of every seven races run on the Pacific Coast.

I was led up to writing this letter by the fact that the other day, I ran Woodford & Buckden's colt, Pink Coat, out to 6f's and found that he had no less than four crosses of Medoc, all on his dam's side. Most people, looking over his breeding would say that his dam was well bred but not fashionably. I only wish I owned one as well bred, for Medoc was quite as good a sire as Boston to my liking. The only fault I have to find with Pink Coat's dam is that she does not belong to Your truly, HIDALGO.

Meeting at Great Falls.

W. H. Clark, John T. Athey and M. Phillip, three prominent citizens of Great Falls, Montana, recently went to Anaconda to have an interview with Colonel E. A. Tipton regarding the races to be held in Great Falls during the month of September. They say that they received a most cordial reception and that Colonel Tipton not only assured them of his entire support, but promised that he would go down in person and supervise the meeting, taking any position that might be assigned him by the committee and contributing his services free of charge. The committee believes that it will be the best meeting ever held in the State north of Butte, former Helena meetings not to be compared to it. Marcus Daly will send a car-load of horses and the California stables will likewise contribute to the success of the meeting.

Colonel Tipton further told the committee that should the meeting prove to be the success which now seems assured, they could feel certain that Great Falls would be on the regular Montana circuit for the season of 1899 and would probably stay there so long as her citizens appreciated the advantages of such meetings.

Everything is being done to complete the arrangements. Nothing as yet has been done to secure some harness races in addition to the running, but that was in the original plans of the committee, and steps to arrange for these will soon be taken. If the entries are what has been expected, this addition may tend to increase the length of the meeting by two or three days and to interest a class of horsemen who might not otherwise care so much about the races.

It is now definitely decided that Hamburg will not run in another race in this country. Marcus Daly has issued definite instructions that the colt be shipped to Europe early in the autumn. He may not be raced there, but will probably make his first season in the stud there.

THE BUTTE MEETING.

Results of the Thirty-One Days Racing Which Closed August 6th.

The meeting of the Butte Horsemen's Association which closed Saturday, was most fortunate in having exceptionally good weather, only one day that could be called rainy, being recorded and the dust storms, which in previous meetings were most frequent, seemed to appreciate their unpopularity and the few that put in an appearence spent their fury in sections away from the race track.

During the thirty-one days $62,900 was paid out in purses and stakes, of which amount probably close to one-third came back in the way of entrance fees.

The betting was good and increased proportionately as the meeting progressed, the last day showing a total of over $63,000. It is estimated that over $1,000,000 passed through the auction and mutual boxes, making a daily average of over $32,000.

During the meeting about three hundred different horses started in the one hundred and eighty-six events, and one hundred and seven of these horses were winners for one or more races.

Eighty-six jockies had mounts during the meeting and of this number thirty-six received winning fees. The following named boys rode ten or more winners: Morgan, 21; Piggott, 17, Shaw, 15; Duffy 14; Powell, 11; and Beauchemp, Wilson and Hennessy ten each.

Twenty different stables won over $1,000 in purses. Marcus Daly, $5,005; W. D. Randall, $4,480; H. L. Frank, $4,410; H. Byrnes & Co., $3,245; B. C. Holly, $3,005; E. F. Smith, $2,570; Sunset Stable, $2,285; F. I. Wood, $2,135; Farrar & Tuberville, $1,935; T. G. Ferguson, $1,720; Pueblo Stable, $1,700; J. R. Thomas, $1,465; J. C. Twohy, $1,405; J. W. Mott, $1,260; H. F. Edwards & Co., $1,245; E. F. Frederickson, $1,130; W. L. Stanfield, $1,085; Mrs. Carrie Reed, $1,075; T. E. Latte, $1,050, and Stricklan & Howell, $1,055.

The following horses won two or more races: Lady Hurst and Miss Rowena six each; Dutch and Highland Ball five each; Dolore, Lucky Star and Rey Hooker four each; All Smoke, Distinction, Etta H., Grand Sachem, Hiero, Mike Rice, Missioner, 'Ostler Joe, Polish and Viking three each; Amass, Black Cap, Bill Howard, Barracan, Coda, Carness, Charlotte M., Dorah Wood, I Don't Know, J. O. C., Kootenai, Lou Watkins, Loch Ness, Montanus, Master Mariner, Mallakwa, Mekallah, New Moon, Osculation, Omah Wood, Oconona, Pierotto, Quick Silver, Rossmore, Rapido, Scottish Chieftain, Serrano, Sallie Goodwin, Velencienne, Ventoro and Watomba two each.

Other winners were Ash Leaf, Alicia, Afghan, Bitter Root, Briar Hill, Ben Bolt, Baby Ruth, Battese, Byron McClelland Chappie, Duke of York II., Dutch II., Devil's Dream, Elcper, Flora Hawk, Horton, Hebra, Inbred, Lady Ashley, Loe Prietos, Lo Lo, La Mascota, Limewater; La Fontera, Lorena II, Lady Flight, Mamie Glen, Moscow Boy, May Beach, Maud Ferguson, Montallade, McPryor, Negligence, Oak Leaf, Owyhee, Paddy, P. F., Pat Morrissey, Pat Tucker, Queen Nubia, Rohair, Rattler, Red S., Rubicon, Reel, Saintly, San Augustine, Saucy Eyes, Taghairm, The Light, Torsida, Torpedo, Tempean, Twinkle Twink, Tammany, Toribio, Veloz, Wenona and Wm. O'B. one race each.

Against the Recall Flag.

The following originated Friday at Hawthorne:

"To any and all racing associations:—We, the undersigned owners, trainers and jockeys, would kindly ask that you give a fair and impartial trial to starting without the use of the recall flag. We ask this favor for the following reasons: First, that the starts can be made much quicker and quite as good or better. Second, the long delays with the recall flag and the numerous breakaways are frequently harder on the horses than the races are, thus ruining the temper of many horses."

Saddle Notes.

Mutuals paid $144 85 on Omah Wood at Anaconda on Friday of last week.

Twinkler, son of Brutus, won at a mile and a furlong at Saratoga last Monday in 1:54¾.

Jockey Sheppard has been suspended for pulling Lizzie Cavalier at Hawthorne last week.

The great Futurity which will be run at Sheepshead Bay next Tuesday, will be a hard race to pick.

Harry Kuhl is secretary, associate judge, assistant clerk of the scales and handicapper at Hawthorne.

Maud Ferguson won the Montana Hotel Stakes at Anaconda, August 13th, four and a half furlongs in 0:56.

The attendance at the Chicago tracks is not over 2500 each day and the play does not equal that of the San Francisco tracks.

They tried pneumatic shoes on Grady at Anaconda, but there was not enough compressed air in them to land him a winner.

Etta H , who is winning some good races over in Montana, is by Flambeau, out of Miss Mitford, and was bred by Ward Adams, of Yolo county.

Alice Farley is in great form just now and has won her four last starts, all in fast time. She is a daughter of Spendthrift and Margary, by imp. Macaroon.

Jack McGovern, who has had charge of the paddock at Butte, will train the late By Holly's horses until they are shipped back to California after the Anaconda meeting.

Janissary, in addition to being the sire of the Derby-winner Jeddah, is also represented by Amurath, one of the best two-year-olds seen out so far this season in England.

The New York Sun is authority for the statement that Tod Sloan is to receive $25,000 for riding for Sydney Paget, presumably for the remainder of this season and all of the season of 1899.

Pat Regan, the assistant starter, was kicked in the chest by Alma the last week at Butte, but his manly chest withstood the blow, and there was fear for a moment that Alma's leg was broken.

From all over the country are coming complaints of the touts who infest the race tracks. They are a nuisance on any track and are doing more to bring racing into disgrace than any one cause.

The estate of By Holly, the well-known turfman who recently died in Idaho, is valued at only $5,000. The widow, Mrs. Jennie Holly, has applied to the Superior Court of Solano county for letters of administration.

Mr. J. N. Camden, Jr., has purchased from R. Early 200 acres of land adjoining the Hartland Stud. The stud now embraces about 2,000 acres of the best land in the Blue Grass region in Kentucky, and is one of the best in Kentucky.

Frank Bell recently tied the Harlem track record for a two-year-old (47½ seconds), held by Billy Mason, who ran it last season at Harlem. Frank Bell's performance is the better of the two, he carrying 108 pounds and Billy Mason 103.

W. A Pinkerton has sold Candlelight to Sidney Paget for $6,000. He paid $5,000 for Candlelight and Floronso at Washington Park and has made $9,000 on the two. This sale gives him a profit of $10,000 in the deal and he still has Floronso.

Subinam, son of Joe Hooker and Ada C., by Revenue, died at the home of his owner, Thos. W. Moore, of Santa Barbara, August 7th. Surinam was himself a stake winner and was the sire of Armitage, Flashlight, Palmacita, Little Bob and other good ones.

The meeting at Saratoga this year has not brought about results which will cause the stockholders to bubble over with enthusiasm, for in spite of the association's earnest efforts to bring out the best of the horses quartered at Horse Haven, the fields remain light and the attendance is not very large.

Matanzas, winner of the Pepper Stakes at Saratoga, Tuesday, had been sold by T. P. Hayes on the preceding Saturday to Louis V. Bell for $5,000. Sam Hildreth sold for W. A. Pinkerton the good three-year-old Candlelight to former Corporation Counsel of New York W. H. Clark for $6,000.

Dr. Robert Bryan, the well-known veterinary surgeon, finished this week the job of spaying forty fillies at McGrathiana. Col. Young is going pretty deep on science this year, Dr. Bryan having also artifically impregnated about sixty mares at McGrathiana during the recent season.—Thoroughbred Record.

Diggs has won twice since he was sold for $250. It is said that he never ran a good race where he entered the stretch in advance of his field. He comes best from behind and will not stand the whip.

There was a fellow once who had a black cat and he won many wagers betting that she was cherry colored. For some cherries are black. This sort of figuring comes in play when one is trying to place the horses.

James O. Gray, of Boston, owner of the fast mare, Alica Farley, is seriously thinking of shipping her across the pond to compete in some of the English classics at a mile and a quarter and over. Mr. Gray thinks he stands as much chance of winning as does Marcus Daly with Hamburg, who will be sent abroad next year.

The following Futurity eligibles have shown fair form in the East: Glenheim, Miller, Autumn, Dr. Eichberg, Captain Sigshee, Muggins, Lothian, Half Time, Sir Hubert, Hapsburg, Ahom, Filon d'Or, Ornamental, Sundream, Dr. Parker, Sanford, Duke of Middleburg, Prestidigitatrice, Caoutchouc, Guillemat, Rusler and Tendresse.

Rebel Jack's victory at St. Louis was such a surprising occurrence to Judge Murphy that he promptly suspended the owner of the horse. Judge Murphy has an unfriendly eye for those "surprising reversals of form" that now and then come along to take away the breath of patrons of racing who think they know a thing or two about the game.

Dan O'Leary, formerly trainer for John Brenock, has now only one horse, Sutton, for which he paid $850. Last year, under O'Leary's management, Mr. Brenock's stable was very successful. He now hopes that if Sutton improves as greatly as have the other horses sold by B. J. Johnston, to some time have a good racing stable of his own.

Stanton & Tucker will sell their entire string of eight head of horses at Hawthorne September 20th. There are Isabay, Paul Kauvar and Eleanor Holmes in the lot. "Bob" Tucker has been long and favorably known to the turf, and his retirement will be regretted. It was when in Tucker's employ that "Pike" Barnes first came into prominence as a jockey.

Schorr & Son led the winning owners at Washington Park with over $15,000 to their credit, most of which was won by Algol, W. Overton and Charlie Christy. Dick Clawson led the winning jockeys with thirty-nine victories to his credit, Tommie Burns was second with twenty two. Pink Coat, the American Derby-winner, won over $10,000 for his owners, Woodford & Buckner.

Ornament is on edge for a big race and Mr. "Billy" Norton, his owner, made the announcement at Manhattan Beach a short time ago to another horseman who was chaffing him that he would pay $500 to any one who could succeed in getting on a match between Ornament and Hamburg, and that in the event of such a race coming off, he would back Ornament for from $10,000 to $50,000.

Felix Eisler, who for nearly a quarter of a century was steward at the American Jockey Club, died Thursday, Aug. 4th, at the Suburban Riding and Driving Club, New York, after a short illness. His ability as a caterer gained for him a national reputation and nothing but praise was heard of him, though thousands of persons visited Jerome Park and partook of the hospitality of the club.

At the Belle Meade sale in October 220 head of stock will be sold at auction, consisting of 36 yearlings, 70 broodmares, 40 yearlings; the two stallions, imp. Dandie Dimont and Tremont; saddle horses, ponies and Jersey cattle. After this sale General Jackson will still have left on the farm about 100 broodmares and five stallions. Among the mares catalogued are Tulla Blackburn and Fairy.

John Madden bought Hamburg as a yearling for $875. As a two-year-old Hamburg made a record performance for the two year-olds of the world by carrying 135 pounds and beating the best colts of his year. In his two-year-old career Hamburg won many thousands of dollars for his owners. Early last winter Madden sold Hamburg to Marcus Daly for $41,000, the biggest price ever paid in this country for a horse in training.

It is announced that a private syndicate is about to be formed between certain horse owners in America and a few English owners and backers for the purpose of combining in the execution of big coups on leading events on both sides of the Atlantic. Charles A. Mills has crossed to arrange matters, and Jack E Donald will probably collaborate with him. Richard Croker and Pierre Lorillard are already counted in the scheme.

Colonel William L. Cassidy has sold his interest in the thoroughbreds racing in the name of John Huffman & Co. to Mr. Huffman, who ran down from Chicago to close the deal. The best race horse involved in the deal is Whatever-Lou, winner of the Inaugural and Club Members' Handicap at the Fair Grounds this season. He went wrong in the Great Western Handicap at Chicago, but is said to be doing well now and is expected to start again shortly.—St. Louis Republic.

Jean Beraud is not eligible for the Futurity, nor is Kingdon, perhaps the second best. Therefore another L'Alouette may as well win it and he never heard of afterward except when sold for $300 or $400. The West will shed no tears. W. Overton is about the best of our lot—a sweet lot—with the Pepper youngsters, Tom McDowell's trio, Helibas, Onomastus, The Barrrister, Great Land, Formero, and this one and that one beating each other until all chance for a sectional champion is lost. There is no Proctor Knott, no Morallo, no Huron, no Ornament, no Ben Brush, no anything in the West this year for turf-lovers to pin their faith to as their champion.

It has been hinted that the Harlem people are aiding Brennock in his crusade against Corrigan, but Manager Condon denies this emphatically, for in a talk on Saturday, he said: "I have nothing whatever to do with the Hawthorne family feud; it is not my fight at all, and my own interests at Harlem prompt me to hope they will settle their squabbles, so that racing may be continued at Chicago during the season."

Riley Grannan is spending the summer at Saratoga Springs, but does not attempt to enter the gates of the Saratoga Racing Association. Grannan is under the ban of the Eastern Jockey Club, and therefore barred from following his vocation. Outside of the track there is a pool room. There Grannan contents himself making bets on foreign races and every now and then sending a commissioner into the local ring.

Since Mr. C. W. Whitney, in behalf of his son-in-law, Sydney Paget, joined the list of turfmen who lend distinction to the sport of racing, he has bought horses of demonstrated speed and quality with a high degree of liberality and sagacity, and already has a very strong stable. His latest purchase is the exceedingly good filly, Martha II, which he secured from H. T. Griffin for the reported price of $4,000. Barring accident, she is sure to prove a profitable investment and a worthy stable mate for Plaudit.

At Brighton Beach August 9th, Sims rode August Belmont's gelding Firearm in a five furlong race, but could do no better than second to Howland. The result was anything but satisfactory to Mr. Belmont's trainer, John J. Hyland, who did not hesitate to say that he did not believe Sims rode Firearm to win, and intimated that he deliberately threw the race away. Sims was told that he need never again expect to ride Mr. Belmont's horses again, and was informed that the reason would be fully explained to Mr. Belmont either by letter or cable. The plain talk by Mr. Hyland made a lively sensation among racegoers, who could not but recall that P. J. Dwyer gave up his contract with Sims as his jockey under similar provocation.

Ellis has not been reinstated by the Jockey Club, but he will ride on certain turf congress tracks, as the three members of the license committee—Secretary Hopper, Joseph Murphy, former presiding judge at Ingleside, and Judge Rees, presiding at Hawthorne—have all said they would vote to grant him a license. The case is peculiar because jockey William Narvaez, who is in the same position as Ellis, made application at the same time and was refused a license. In speaking of the case lately Judge Rees said: "As long as any of these so-called outlaw riders have not been guilty of fraud, I will vote to grant them licenses. If they are honest I won't keep them from making a living. I have advised Narvaez to write to Secretary Hopper and if he has a good record I will vote to give him a license."

A meeting of the Stewards of the Jockey Club was held on August 10th. James R. Keene, James Galway, F. R. Hitchcock, Andrew Miller and F. K. Sturgis were present. The decision of the Stewards of the Brighton Beach Racing Association meeting, in the matter of the running of the horse Burlesque, was confirmed, and the entries of G. B. Patterson and the horse Burlesque were ordered refused on all courses racing under the jurisdiction of The Jockey Club. The trainer's license granted to G. B. Patterson was revoked as was also the license of Jockey J. Colay Thompson. The entries of William Cheriton and the horse "Our Johnny" were ordered refused and the license of James Sannett, trainer, was revoked. On the report of the Stewards of the Saratoga Association, J. J. McCafferty's license as jockey was revoked. Andrew Miller was appointed Steward of the Coney Island Jockey Club autumn meeting, and W. S. Vosburgh was appointed to represent The Jockey Club at the Queens County Jockey Club summer meeting. A trainer's license was granted to Charles F. Hill.

It does not seem likely that racing will ever be resumed at the famous winter track at Guttenburg. On the application of Lawyer Allan L. McDermott, Chancellor McGill, in Jersey City yesterday, appointed James E. Hulshizer, Jr., receiver of the Gutteohurg race track, Mr. McDermott represented John N. Crusius, treasurer of the North Hudson Driving Park Association, which owns the track. In his petition Mr. Crucins states that the Mutual Life Insurance Company of this city holds a mortgage of $41,000 on the property on which there is $1,200 interest due. The First National Bank of Hoboken holds a second mortgage for $6,000 and a bill for $2,000 against the property. The adoption of the constitutional amendment prohibiting betting on horse races and all kinds of gambling put the Guttenburg track out of business. Up to the past winter there were still hopes that racing might be resumed at the course which the Messrs. Walbaum, Carr, Crusius and McLaughlin made famous by continued winter racing. The grounds, which certainly have been admirably equipped, will no doubt be utilized for pleasure purposes, excursions, picnic parties, etc.

Wm McGuigan is still in the racing swim, although he threatened to drop out a few weeks ago, when he sold his best bread-winners. His latest move looks to the organization of a new Turf Protective Association, since the old one with which he was prominently identified has become a thing of the past. In a circular just issued, addressed "To Owners, Breeders, Trainers and Jockeys," Mr. McGuigan has this to say in the concluding lines: "We should be fully organized before the next meeting of the American Turf Congress so as to ask their co-operation in our efforts. We are certainly entitled to considerable consideration from that body, as fully nine tenths of their many thousands revenue come from the twenty-five-dollar licenses of trainers, and ten-dollar licenses of jockeys, to say nothing of the many unjust fines collected. We should surely have representation in some way as to the disposal of this taxation upon us, besides asking for rules to protect us against the despotism and unjust rulings of judges and other officials. We are unquestionably entitled to a say-so in the selection of judges, starters, etc. There are many other reasons why we should join together in one and the same object of self-preservation, all which will come up for our consideration in due time."

MONTANA AND COLORADO MEETINGS.

Anaconda, Montana	Aug. 10th to Sept. 11th
Dillon, Montana	Sept. 21st to 24th

EARLY ANNOUNCEMENT of dates and programs, good purses and liberal conditions will attract big entry lists, and with all these secured good attendance will follow at trotting meetings that are well managed and honestly conducted. The asoociations in California have had some very dear experience during the past two years, but if they have been wise enough to carefully study the conditions as they have and do exist, and will profit by the many lessons taught them, the result should be beneficial to all concerned. There should be a united effort made this fall to elect only such men to office as are in favor of fostering and upbuilding the live stock industry of the State, and when the Legislature meets next winter a further and still more earnest effort must be made to secure legislation that will not only be acceptable to horsemen and stock growers, but will meet with the endorsement of the people and the approval of the law-making powers. When this is accomplished the foundation for good times in the harness horse business will have been laid, but the superstructure will not then arise of its own inate power. There must be work—intelligent, energetic work done. The suicidal policy pursued by most organizations in the past of making no show of life until a few weeks before the date of a proposed meeting must be put aside. Dates must be claimed and a circuit arranged as early as January. Programs must be announced not later than March. Purses must be as liberal as possible. With these arrangements made, there will be horses placed in training in nearly every county in California, and the fair grounds and training tracks will soon assume their old-time appearance. Value will be given horses far above what it is now, and a demand will be created that the supply will not satisfy. The great success of harness meetings in the East this year and the good fortune met with by nearly all the Californian trainers who have been racing their harness horses there, will make the hegira toward the East still greater next year. At least a dozen trainers on the California circuit have expressed their intention of going East next year with their horses. It is a long trip and an expensive one, and only those with something extra good can afford to go, and if fairly good purses are offered by the associations next year the inducement to train and race here will be sufficient to keep the majority af them at home. Every District Association in California should now be up and doing in an endeavor to secure the right men for legislators, and in an effort to formulate some plan by which a first-class circuit can be arranged next year. People will not attend fair meetings where the directors are asleep—in fact the public takes no interest in anything which is allowed to run itself. A little life, a little ginger is necessary. Are the district secretaries and the district directors awake to the importance of getting a move on? If not, resignations are in order.

CALIFORNIA'S BANNER MEETING will be held at Los Augeles this year. While all other associations have been suffering with a chilliness of the pedal extremities, Los Angeles has come forward with purses that range from $800 to $1,500 each for trotters and pacers, and stakes with from $300 to $500 added money for the runners. Los Angeles is progressive and deserves to be rewarded. The horsemen of California who have been complaining of small purses and lack of meetings should respond to the liberality of the Sixth District and fill every purse and stake offered. In our advertising columns to-day will be found a full and complete list of these events. The free-for-all trotters will have the tempting amount of $1,500 hung up for them to trot for and the free-for-all pacers are treated just as liberally. The 2:10 and 2:12 trotters and the 2:12 pacers are offered $1000 each, while the 2:15, 2:17 and 2:30 pacers will compete for $800 purses. Mr. Lewis Thorne, the energetic and indefatigable Secretary of the Association, will be in San Francisco during the coming week, and will make it a point to see and converse with as many horsemen as possible and present the inducements offered by his association for them to attend the meeting, October 4th is set for the opening day of the meeting, and the day for closing entries is September 17th, which is Saturday, the last day of the State Fair. All harness races will be three in five and the purses will be divided into four moneys. Five per cent. entrance and five per cent. additional from money-winners. Entry blanks will be furnished on application to Mr. Thorne, or they may be had at this office. The track at Los Angeles is a fast one, the climate is snperb and the people of the Southern city are lovers of good racing. Without doubt this will be the best meeting held this year in California and will prove that a live association when aided by the people of a live city and managed by officers who are energetic and know their business can give a successful harness meeting even in a dry year and a dull season.

AN ABSURD STORY is out in the East, started by some of those evil and jealous-minded persons who are never happy unless they are "knocking." The story is to the effect that Klatawah, 2:06¼, son of Steinway and Katie G., is four years old instead of three, as is claimed by his owner. To any Californian, or any person who has taken the trouble to look over the Oakwood Park Stock Farm's catalogues, which are issued every year, this tale is so ridiculous that it seems time wasted to make a denial of it, but as we see some of the Eastern papers are peddling it about, the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN takes this occasion to set them right. Klatawah was foaled 1895, and was started in the two-year-old races in California last year, and though a good, fast colt, was not then considered a phenomenon. There has been no occasion to misrepresent his age, and the Oakwood Stock Farm's proprietor, John F. Boyd, is not a person who would permit anything of the kind.

A GREAT DRAWBACK to racing in the East is the heavy rains that come up during the summer without a moment's warning, spoiling the track and causing postponements. Such things seldom occur in California during our summer racing season—but, come to think of it, we don't have those summer racing seasons any more, except to a very limited extent. But we will resume them next year. We're going to have a new deal.

ATTRACTIONS outside the races are becoming very popular on many of the Eastern tracks. Archie Levy's Amusement Association, of this city, whose office is at 8 Eddy street, is prepared to furnish many different attractions for fairs, race tracks, parks, picnics, etc., and managers or societies who wish anything of this kind should communicate with him

SAMUEL GAMBLE, the well known horseman, has been engaged to start the horses at the Santa Rosa meeting. Mr. Gamble knows the game from end to end, and we hope he will make a success of his first venture with the flag. It is no difficult matter to line up a lot of drivers and induce them to obey the rules and be satisfied with an even break.

KETCHUM, 2:16½, was injured at Santa Ana recently and will probably be turned out for the balance of the year.

Anaconda Meeting Begins

Splendid weather and an immense crowd favored the opening of the race meeting at Anaconda. There were eleven carloads of people from Butte, and the races were held back half an hour to give the crowd time to get to the track. The Anaconda race track is entirely re-made and it will be strange if new records are not established on it. The infield is luxuriant in growing oats, where horsemen are permitted to help themselves with scythes. Everything looks cheerful and clean and altogether the place makes an ideal campus for the noble sport of horse racing. The feature of the opening day was the Daly Handicap, a $2,000 stake, one and an eighth mile. Results:

Three furlongs, handicap—Tittler won, Red S. second, Clare N. third. Time, 0:36½.

Six and a half furlongs, selling—New Moon won, Negligence second, Mike Rice third. Time, 1:25.

Five furlongs—Ventoro won, Larve second, Rey Hooker third. Time, 1:05.

One mile and an eighth, Daly Stakes, $2,000—Torsida won, Los Prietos second, Black Cap third. Time, 1:58½.

One mile and a furlong, four hurdles—J. O. C. won, Lord Chesterfield second, Viking third. Time 2:09¾.

August 21.—San Francisco Fly-Casting Club. (Final cast-off for place in class). Stow Lake, Golden Gate Park.

The Fly-Casters.

The final cast-off for place in class will be held to-morrow at 11:30 A.M. at Stow Lake. The contestants will be: in long distance, for first class, H. Smyth and F. H. Reed and H. C. Golcher and F. H. Reed for first class in delicacy and accuracy. W. D. Mansfield, Dr. E. N. Lowry and H. F. Muller have been selected to act as the judges. The medals for the season will be presented to the winners at the club dinner next Saturday evening. F. H. Reed, H. F. Muller and M. C. Allen, constitute a committee of arrangements who have prepared an interesting programme for the evening's entertainment; the dinner will undoubtedly have a large attendance and the affair promises to be a fitting and cheerful finale to the season of 1893. The scores and averages in detail for the last five contests of the season are as follows:

Black Bass in Illinois.

A communication from N. H. Cohen, President of the Illinois Fish Commission, published in the American Field, will give an intelligent idea of the abundance of black bass in the waters of that State:

At no time in the history of the Fish Commission were black bass so abundant as at present. This year will prove that the carp are not so destructive to the game fishes as the majority of people have been led to believe. On the contrary they have supplied food for the enormous number of black bass that the present year will produce. The Commission has been at work netting bass for thirty days, and has averaged over 2,500 bass a day, more could have been taken if the capacity of the boat permitted. Every pond, lake and bayou tributary to the Illinois river is filled with this year's bass; and, if all could be taken at the proper time, the United States could be supplied. The Commission has, so far, distributed 50,000 fishes, not fry. These bass are from two to six inches in length, able to take care of themselves, and some are ready to take the hook. If nothing prevents and the ponds do not evaporate too soon, it is expected that 500,000 bass will be taken for transplanting this year. 10,000 bass from the hatchery at Meredosia Park are to be planted in the Kankekee river near Custar Park and in waters tributary to the Wabash railroad.

Stocking Nearby Streams.

The Fish Commissioners have recently placed 25,000 cutthroat and rainbow trout fry in the stream at Liberty's. On Friday, last week, 50,000 trout fry were distributed in the Paper Mill below Lagunitas and from that point as far up the Legonitas and tributarities as was practicable. It was found in many streams of Marin county that the low water was already carrying about as many small trout as could find the conditions favorable for existence.

The Commissioners, aided by the Game Warden of San Mateo county, placed this week in the waters of San Gregorio creek and tributaries 50,000 trout fry.

Examination at various points has shown that it will be futile to make any attempt to stock the streams of Sonoma county this year as the water is too low.

The streams affording proper facilities in Sonoma county have already been looked after by the San Francisco and North Pacific Railroad officials who have supplied the principal streams with fry from their hatchery at Ukiah.

Another of the Squaw creek gang of fish dynamiters was apprehended this week by Constable Wilson of Cloverdale, and held over to appear before the Superior Court at Ukiah. The Italian quartette are beginning to realize that the authorities are in earnest in their efforts to stop illegal fish destruction. These fellows are nearly sure of remaining in jail until trial as they are apparently unable to procure mail. The Fish Commissioners are to be commended for their alacrity in taking action in these cases and it is to be hoped that conviction will follow the trial. The county officials are on the lookout for the rest of the gang who are known and will probably be arrested.

The Southern California lobster, or Bermuda lobster, as it is sometimes called, is now shipped as far East as the Mississippi, and is held in great favor there, competing on even terms with the Eastern lobster, and is by many considered the better of the two. The lobster is protected when carrying its eggs, by a close season from May 15th to July 15th, and must be nine and one half inches in length of body to be of legal size.

J. H. Aram, of Boulder, has received from the Sissons hatchery 75,000 young trout, which were distributed in the headwaters of Beer, Deer, King's, San Lorenzo, Boulder and Jameson creeks.

Anglers met with very poor luck at the Point on Sunday.

J. S. Turner returned on Monday last from a two months' outing in Humboldt county. He stopped with J. M. Vance, who is located on Van Dozen creek, a tributary of Eel river and within seven or eight miles of Grizzly Bluff. Turner is enthusiastic over the angling he enjoyed on the trip. On Thursday a week ago, he and Geo. P. Vance caught forty-two beautiful steelhead weighing from one-half to a pound each, the champion catch was a fourteen-pounder; at another time they caught in two hours a great number of small fish and a nine pound land-locked steelhead. The water around Grizzly Bluff is low and clear and affords grand fishing, the pool at that point is about a mile long and a quarter of a mile in width with an average depth of about ten feet, being in fact more like a lake than a river pool. Weymouth, who keeps the hotel at Grizzly Bluff, has a good stock of boats on this water for fishing and trolling—a Wilson spinner is a good killer here. Turner says it is very much like trolling on the Spring Valley lakes, the fish, though, being far livelier and much stronger.

As for the hunting in this part of Humboldt, Turner speaks loudly in its praise. One morning the hunters got two fine bucks in two hours. Doves are not very plentiful, small game, rabbits and squirrel are in abundance, however. The prospect for quail shooting this fall is good, plenty of broods, half grown, having been seen. In the mountains near by grouse are numerous.

Aside from hunting and fishing this district affords many attractions for camping and outing.

The fishing on the Truckee is good at present. Reports from Boca state that fly-fishing is productive of grand results again, the effects of the recent rain having passed off.

Fishing at Pacific Grove has been good lately. The salmon are unusually large, ranging in weight from thirty to seventy pounds.

GUN.

CARTRIDGE AND SHELL.

Coming Events.

Aug. 21—Lincoln Gun Club (blue-rocks) Alameda.

Sept. 18—Lincoln Gun Club. Picnic and live bird shoot.

Doves are still plentiful near Santa Cruz.

Coon hunts by moonlight are becoming popular near Fresno.

The South Ends smashed asphalt targets at Colma on Sunday, this meeting being a postponed regular shoot.

The Elkwood Futurity, the most important live-bird event so far this season, was won at Long Branch, N. J., on August 6th, by Samuel A. Culbertson of the Kentucky Gun Club of Louisville.

The Golden Gate Gun Club elected the following officers for the ensuing year: E. S. Michelsen, president; Jos. Pisani, vice president; J. C. Menssdorffer, secretary; T. L. Lewis, captain and C. M. Wollam, G. C. Cook and Robt. Hunter, trustees.

Dr. E. N. Lowry and Fred Butler were guests at the Verona Kennels last Sunday. In company with J. E. De Ruyter and Trainer Richards, the party made a bag of 51 doves whilst out shooting.

The Alert Gun Club will endeavor to do most of their shooting early in the morning at Birds Point to-morrow, thus enabling the members who desire to do so a chance to compete in the trap shooting at the Lincoln grounds near by.

W. H. Seaver returned this week from Mendocino county. He was located with John Day near Sanhedrin mountain. Deer and doves are plentiful in that region and the indications are good for quail shooting this fall. A three point buck one morning was the result of the deer hunt.

The program for the grand international meeting at pigeon shooting at Ostend during the month of August provides for twenty days' shooting, the total amount of cash prizes being 95,000 francs. The entry fees are 10,15 and 20 francs for each day. The events are all handicap affairs. Gold medals for each day's winners are also provided.

A well known writer on sporting topics has the following to say, in a New York paper, which is not only deservedly complimentary but has the additional element of truth to warrant its re-publication to-day.

"The sportsmen's supply stores along Broadway downtown were visited yesterday by Harry McMurchy of Fulton, N. Y., whose name is as well know in trap-shooting circles as that of the L. C. Smith gun that he shoots. Mr. McMorchy is tall and well-built, and has a pleasant face that is as attractive as his conversation. When standing at the score ready to shoot, his attitude has nothing strained in it, as he handles his gun with an ease and facility that is a lesson to every beginner. Compared with many of those with whom he ranks in point of skill, McMurchy outranks them all in grace and elegance of style in handling his gun. Full of business from head to foot, claiming that if you beat a man he won't like you any the better for doing so, while if he should beat you he would certainly think less of your skill, as well as of the gun you are shooting. For that reason McMurchy contents himself with rolling up scores at targets and at live pigeons that are equal to any made by the more aggressive experts, showing himself to be not only possessed of skill of the highest degree, but also to be a diplomat of the first water."

Deer hunters have been very successful in the Pescadero district, says the Pajaronian. The Sargent-Rea party and others hava killed about a dozen dear in that district since the season opened. Near Aromse several hava been killed. In the Carneros and Aromas districts deer have dona much damage to apricot trees, and orchardists say they hava never been so plentiful. They hava come coastwerd from the dry ranges of the Gabilans.

Frank Vernon (who has recently become a member of tha Tamalpais Gun Club) and Fred Driukhousa wera the successful hunters on the Club grounds last Sunday—between them they bagged a fine fork-horn buck.

J. B. Hauer returned last Saturday from a two-weeks' outing trip in tha Santa Cruz mountains between Gilroy and Watsonvilla. Hauer reports deer very plentiful in the mountains, forest fires and drouth on ona side of the range hava caused tha deer to take refuga in that district.

T. B. Hutchins and family, of Gridley, had an outing trip recently near Mt. Shasta. During their stay they enjoyed a camping tour of several days up near tha snow line. Mr. Hutchins succeeded in killing three deer, while Mrs. Leland, who was a member of tha party, shot aud killed a big black bear.

The Alert Gun Club broka blue rocks on the grounds at Birds Point last Sunday; tha attendance was fair and average scores wera tha rule in several ten and twenty blue-rock avents. The surprise of the day was sprung by Mr. Schuster from Chicago, who although he claimed to ha a novice, was first in several events.

The Drawbridge Sporting Club was organized in Vallejo on Tuesday. The following officers were elected: O. S. Cooper President; Carlisle Roe, Secretary and Treasurer; W. H. Mitchell, Vice President; V. V. Harrier, Sergeant-at-arms; D. F. Beveridge, Decoy Guard; F. B. Haggerty, Private Secretary. Trustees—C. L. Winchell, Frank Gorham and Al Kelshaw.

Deer ara scarce in the vicinity of Woodland; they have heen driven out of the country by dogs and inexperienced hunters. Deer will leave any district whera dogs are used in running them; notwithstanding the claim made by many hunters that dogs are absolutely necessary to get dear on account of the brush, etc., running deer with dogs will spoil any deer-hunting district.

The Willows Gun Club reorganized recently. The following officers were elected: Geo. Mellor, President; Chas. Branham, Secretary; Thos. Ajax, Captain; Chester Branham Treasurer. It is tha purpose of tha club to hold shoots at least once a week, and in the near futura a shooting tournament will be held and gun clubs in tha vicinity of Willows will be invited to participata.

Live-Bird Shoot at Ingleside.

At Ingleside last Sunday members of the Olympic Gun Club shot liva pigeons. The weather was not as favorabla as could have been wished and a portion of the birds were slow. In the club race the straight scores wera made by Feudner, Owens, Roos and Shultz and fiva men in tha eleven hole numbered several of the crack shots who had herd luck on one bird.

Tha handicaps and scores in detail in tha reguler club match at twelve hirds were as follows:

O. Feudner	31—122221222222—12	M. Unger	28—211021110112—10
L. D. Owens	28—121111111112—12	Sweeney	27—021011111112—10
A. Roos	28- 121211112112—12	W. J. Hines	28—020112221121—10
F. T. Schultz	28 - 221211222111—12	Green	26—111200122021— 8
"Slade"	29—111101121121—11	W. J. Golcher	31—011012201212— 9
W. F. Murdock	28—212110111111—11	"Edwards"	28—022222202220— 8
C. A. Haight	30—022212112212—11	H. Kollman	26—2012-1110111— 8
H. C. Golcher	30—221112012112—11	Neustadter	26—201011012201— 6
C. Nauman	20—111120111101—11	Piel	28—010100100111— 6
H. F. Wagner	29—202111111220—10

In shooting up back scores, Feudner, at the thirty-two-yard mark, missed ona bird out of twelve, Nauman and Unger scored nine each, whila Roos could only down six of his string—in practice, however, Roos mada a clean scora of twelve birds. Tha pigeon Feudner missed last Sunday was the 145th bird shot at without scoring a lost bird until then, and also counted one lost out of thirty-five he shot at on Sunday. Feudner seems to have been doing some great shooting lately—out of 388 times he faced tha traps for a shot recently he made hut seven misses—four blue-rocks cut of 165 and threa birds out of 223 pigeons shot at is a pretty good record.

The Olympic's final live-bird shoot for the season will be held on Sunday, September 11th.

Tournament at Redding.

The interest in sport at the traps is unflagging among tha shooters of the northern counties. At a recent meeting of the Mt. The record of winnings at Ingleside since the opening of the year shows a string of greyhounds to be a valuabla holding. Tha Dean stabla has been tha most profitable, Moondyna having won $1,090.50, Connemara $799, Gladiator $660, Mialmo $444 and Brilliantine $250; total, $2,998. Lowa & Thompson's kennel is also well up, with a gross winning of $1,599, of which Patria landed $899, Victor $217.50, High Born Lady $202.50, Princa Hal $190, Prince of Fashion $55, Phœba $25 and Sir Willful $10. During the sama period Kay & Trant have called on tha Ingleside management for $1,298, Deckelman & Panario for $1,239, D. Hooper for $972, Lynch & Maher for $520 50, J. Byrnes for $502 50 and Larkey & Rock for $482.50. Besides the foregoing, too, all the owners named hava won various sums at Union Park, Dean, Larkey & Rock and Hooper having landed stakes therein.

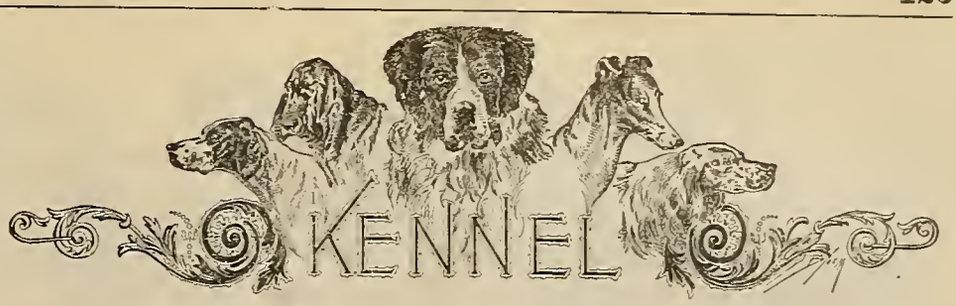
Tha death of the bulldog Oriel Billy has been tha subject of many sympathetic paragraphs (reports tha Stock-Keeper) and some very indifferent verses in tha daily press. Ha was awarded a semi-public funeral in the grounds of Oriel. The prohibition against dogs in the colleges of Oxford and Cambridge is very strict. There hava been exceptions, however. A casa in point was Mr. Vero Shaw's bulldog General, the college dog of Caius from 1869 to 1872, who always occupied a position in the bows of their eight, with the colleges colors round his neck, in the procession of boats after the May races. General was a devout dog. Nothing pleased him bettar than to sneak into chapel and hide beneath the seat of the senior tutor, who never once "saw" the animal, whose head was poking out alongside his feet.

The "event" of the recent Lytham bench show, says English Stock-Keeper, "was the appearance of Ormskirk Emerald in the collie ring in grand form, and looking as well as we have ever seen him. He showed well and the two judges had no hesitation in giving him the special for the best dog in the show."



Ingleside Coureing Park.

The initiel run down of the all-aged staka last Saturday hed forty-four couples of greyhounds in the slips during the efternoon. The greetest surprise of the day was occasioned when Daisy Hill, a practically unknown quantity, lowered the colors of tha greet Mialmo, at odds of 15 to 1. The winnar of the Merced steke last yeer was looked upon as invincible, but the unknown dog set the pace and worked the hare throughout, winning a deserving course. Two consea leter M. C. Delano upset tha talent egain with his Trinket, who beat Lecnora. Lottie M. and Chiquita put up an exciting contest.

The most sensational couree of the day wes between Swinnerton and Phoeba, they running a long no go. On going back to the slips Swinnerton led, but Phoebe got in on tha here at tha lower corner of the field in one of the most twisting and exciting courses ever ruo on the ewerd. The puppy held the veteran down until even the most experienced leashman were puzzled as to who would he the winner. Swinnerton finally won, but by a narrow margin. Phoebe is ati l in the puppy class, but with more experience sha will make a great dog.

The talent had picked False Flatterer and Moondyne to romp through the staka on Sonday, but the former was beaten by Rush o' Hill, who was listed in the long odds hook at 100 to 1. Promisa Me, the runner-up, was also a great surprise and showed wonderfully improved form over recent performences.

The money in the stake was divided as follows: T. McInnerny's Johnny R. $100, W. H. O'Neil's Promise $60, J. Dean's Moondyne $45, F. Black's Occidental, Larkey & Rock's Myrtle and A. Haigbt'a Hadiwist, $5 eech, tha next $25 each, next eleven $20 each end the next twenty-two $10 eech.

Tha English Kennel Clnb haa adopted a new precautionary rezulation with regard to championship awards, which is worth the consideration of kennel authorities. It is as follows: "In the event of only ona open class for mixed sexes being provided, either by the schedule, amalgamation, or othar alteration, one certificate only can, if awarded, be allowed." In other words, in any breed in which there ara not separata open classes for dogs and bitches respectively, only ona championship win will ha recognized.

Union Coureing Park.

The sport at Union Park Saturday afternoon last embraced the first rounds of the sapling and the all-eged stakes. The weather was mild and pleasant, the heres ran well and made many of the courses very interesting, while the short-enders landed frequently. In the sapling stake Sante Inez beat Road Agent at 5 to 2, Rollicking Airs heat Sentiego at 3 to 2 and Lady Garnet beat Santa Rita at 3 to 2. In the ell-aged stake Little Dorritt beet Lightning et 5 to 2, Minerva beat Commodore at 5 to 2, Grasshopper hast Chili Pepper at 3 to 1, Van Knapp beat The Gossoon et 5 to 2. Mystery and Tic Tac were both withdrawn on account of injuries end Glen Rosa got a bye in consequence. Metallic end Cavalier both ran well and were considered to heve e good chance of landing the steke.

Glen Rose, an imported dog, ran a good rece with Highland Ball, but showed signs of fatigue after a herd course. Little Delight gave Minneapolis a hard rnn for his course and nearly won. Hercules sold a 6 to 1 favorite over Capadure, but the race demonstrated that the odds were much too big. In the sepling stake Bit of Fashion was thonght to have a chance to land, which judgment was proven good by Fashion's work on Sunday. The runner up in the sapling stake wes Rollicking Airs with Santa Ana third.

In the all-aged open stake Right Bower made a good showing. The next best performer wes Mr. Whitney's Theron, but in the finel Right Bower heat him. Minneapolis end Metallic also showed up well but eech of them fell in the fifth ronnd, the foamer before Right Bower end the latter before Theron. The money in the stake was divided as follows:

T. McEldowney's Right Bower $130, G. Whitney's Theron $80, J. H. Rosster's Metalic and R E. da B. Lopez's Minneapolis $50 each, the next four $30 each, the next eight $20 erch and the next fifteen $5 each.

Kennel Echoee From the Antipodee.

The Napier Special of this journal (New Zealand Weekly Press) wires: Mr. Howe has sold the balance of his litter of English setter pups, by Rokeby Boy from Champion Mettagong Bang, end so numerous were tha applications thet he had that if ha had been possessed of twice the number of puppies he would have hed no difficnlty in qnitting them. Ha deserves his success in the matter, for he has spared no expense in obtaining tha best blood that could be procured. He purposes building kennels on the hills end intends to go into the breeding business in earnest.

Another visitor of canine renown coming to Australie is Mr. Macdona. This gentleman, lately a member of the House of Commons, was the first fancier to introduca to the British public the St. Bernard, He went to Switzerland and from the monastery of Monnt St. Bernard obtained his first stock.

Collies made tha largest classes at the Essendon Club's recent show, Messrs. Rogen and Andrew following up their Sydney success with severel wins (says "Eclipse") The judge placed Allen Breck over First Shot, an award which could not be endorsed by collie fanciers. Allan Breck is a flat sided dog, wenting in collie expression and character, and loses to Shot in these points, as well as in textnre of coat. Fortunately these dogs are both owned by Messrs. Andrew and Rogen. Shetland Princess again won all before her in the female section, repeating her Sidney performances. Messrs. Andrew and Rogen produced another promising bitch puppy in Shetland Lady, ecoring second to Princess in the open and puppy classes. In dog puppies Mrs. Ashe's Ashleigh Glen won first, Messrs. Rogen and Andrew taking second and third with Shetland Ruff and Ormond. The winner ie one of the best bodied collies I have seen, and is a wonderfully well grown puppy. He wants more character in his head, and does not carry his ears to perfection. As yet he is weak in his pasterns, but he is e promising youngster, and the best one we have seen in Australia owning Ormskirk Amazement as a sire. Shetland Ruff heats the winner on head end ears, but loses to him in body.

The fox terrier bitch Glendon (late Harewood) Torment, bred in Wellington, may ere long go to tha old country, as one of England's leading breeders has made inquiry re her purchase, and it is just possible that her present owner, Mr. Moses, may accept en offer (says a Sydney writer). Tormentor is almost sister in blood to the celebrated English bitch Chemp. Dama Fortune, winner of the fox terrier 50 guinees challenge cup on several occasions, being by Despoiler ex Diversion (imp), by Champ. D'Orsay—Dame Fortune, by Despoiler ex Dame D'Orsay, Dame D'Orsay by Chemp. D'Orsay.

Cocker o' the North.

The interest in cockers does not seem to ebate a perticle. Tha latest arrival was consigned to Mr. W. L. Gerstle of the Alaska Commercial Company, who received this week the fine black cocker spaniel dog Reggie, A. K. C. S. B. 34 383, from the Wandering Kennels, Victoria, B. C. Reggie is a cocker of elegant conformation and intelligent appearance. Ha was whelped February 1893, his sire is Terrius and his dam Gypsy II., she by Master Shina, out of Woodstock Gypsy, by Rallon, out of Jndy; Master Shina, by Obo Jr., ont of Shina; Terrius is by Black Dofferin 20 043, out of Woodland Susie, by Obo II., ont of Woodland Queen. At the bench show in Victoria last October Reggia took first in the open class. His record in the stnd has been a good one.

CINCINNATI, O., Eberbart Pug Kennels.

DR. H. CLAY GLOVER.—I deem it a pleesant duty to testify to the merits of your Distemper Cure, Mange Cura and Vermifoge. I use your Vermifuge for all pug puppies as yonng as six weeks, and get the worms with no bad effects to tha pups. I can cure the worst case of mange in a week with your Mange Cure. It never fails. My stud pug Sir Loris, imported last October, brought distemper to my kennels Seven of my pugs got it bad. I used your Distemper Cnre and pulled them all safely through it, leaving them as sound and bright as a new silver dollar.

Yours truly, AL G. EBERHART.

What Conetitutee Good Beef.

A wonderful change has taken placa in tha taste of the pnblic regarding haef in the last generation, writes J. S. Woodward in Colmon's Rural World. When I was a hoy heavy, fat meat was mostly in demand, and would sell for a mnch higher price than that from younger and smaller animals. An animal could not ha mada too large or too fat to suit tha market. Each year at Christmas tima matnrs animals of the largest size and so loaded with fat as to hardly ba ahle to waddle along, were gaudily dressed out with ribbons and marched throngh the streets with a hand of music, and when placed on the market tha cuts were sold at a large price. Hogs dressing three and four and even up to six and eight hnndred ponnds were a good deal qnicker sold and at a mnch higher prica than those of two hundred ponnds or nnder. Had a man at that time offered beef less than threa years old he would have heen laughed at for offering "baby beef" and fonnd few customers, and those only at low price.

Bnt the situation is different now. We no longer see those monster steers, sheep or swine, with their gay ribbons and no longer hear the mnsic, and if snch meat were offered in the market it would meet with slow sale, and the seller would have to take a second or lower price for it.

There was at that time a good deal of a fad and fashion in the demand for snch heavy meat, and consumers are coming to their senses. They have learned that meat from younger animals, if not so heavy, is much mora tender and juicy, and, of conrse, mora palatahle and digestihle, and now buy for qnslity and are willing to psy for it. Ehey have also come to realize that steer heef is not the only good heef made—that a heifer of the same age, equally as well fattened has meat of really better qnality than the steer, and so heifer heef is heing songht after and is selling at very nearly as high prices as steer beef. A stndy of tha larga markets for the past two years will show a gradnal and growing popularity for "bahy heef." That term is no longer a reproach, hut is becoming a trade mark for excellence, and tha price is gradnally growing higher and higher.

Feeders are also learning mora of their business. They have fonnd that thay can make a pound of meat cheaper and of hetter quality on tha younger animal and that a heifer at less than two years old will feed as well, if not hetter than a steer. Thav have also learned that tha faster they can make the yonng animal grow, reasonahly, the less will he the cost of growth, and consequently tha larger profit in feeding. As a conseqnenca we see the proportion of young animals among the fat ones coming to market constantly on tha increase. What the markets now want and what the feeders ehould strive to give is not those large, fat animals of yore, hut the compact, well matured and well proportioned twenty-month or two-year-olds, so fed as to have the largest proportion of lean meat.

The Uee and Abuee of the Poultice.

Nothing is more soothing and canses more relief to a hruise or contused part than a hot poultice, nothing brings a ripening abscess quicker to a head, nothing cleans a foul or dirty wound quicker and hetter than a wall-applied poultice; hut the continued use of hot poultices to wounds, with the idea that it is going to heal them, is tha greatest mistake on earth; continual hot poultices to a wound soften, weaken and disorganize tha parts to such an extent that vitality is lost. The healing process retarded or completely stopped, so that revivification is impossihle; tha parts are parhoiled, in fact, to put it in plain words, decompose and slough. I have seen wounds in the neighborhood of joints, simple in character, made into great gaping chasms and ending in opan joint, simply from the continued and indiscriminate use of poultices. They are, however, as I have stated, most useful when applied with discretion, and in the hands of those who know when and how to usa them —Waddel.

A practical dairyman says that he cannot afford to keep a cow that does not produca 200 pounds of butter a year. Ha puts it this way: Feed, $30; care, $10; interest, $2.50; total, $42 50. Deducting $10 for skim milk, $32.50 represents tha cost for one year. This will require 203 pounds of butter at sixteen cents a pound hefore profit hegins. How many farmers get an averaga of 200 pounds of butter from their cows and get sixteen cents a pound for tha butter they make?

Very thick cream needs to he churned mora slowly than thin cream, sav one revolution to the second, and the churn ehould not ha quite full. Concussion is what hrings tha butter, and not friction; therefora, use always a churn that pitches tha cream in a mass from end to end or from side to side. That is, a ravolving or swinging pattarn. All inside fixings are delusions and work-makers.

For Contracted Feet.

In a state of natnre a horse's feet are thoroughly soaked with water and thoroughly dried ont almost every day, and I think I have demonstrated hy actnal experience that it is possible to keep a horse's feet in a sound and healthy condition throughont life, even when ha is nsed every day on city pavements, by following natnra's scheme of thoroughly soaking them with water every night, and then allowing them to dry out every day. This can he hest accomplished hy satnrating a woolen or felt swah with water and strapping it right around the hoof, and leaving it thera for five or six hours at a tima. Washing tha feet with a sponge once a day is not enough. Tha feet then hsva too much time to dry out. When a horsa goee lame in a tendon I believe that tha hreakdown can he traced directly to contracted feet in a majority of cases. The feet first contract right around the top of tha wall without faltariog tha shape of tha ground snrface of the foot, and thonsands of horses snffer from such contraction long hefore the owner or trainer ever snspects it. The snrest indicstion of snch contraction is undue prominence of the cartilage around the coronet. In tha natural state this cartilage lies just inside of the top hoof wall, and as soon as this wall begins to contract the cartilage is forced np, and sooner or latar forms a prominent ridga right arond tha coronet that eventually hecomes ossified. When yon hruise one of your finger nails, how often the fever and soreness works up among the cords and muscles of your forearm. It is just so with the horsa. After his feet become contracted the faver sattles along the tendons of his legs, and after a time this faver canses tha sheath of a tendon to become diseased, and then ruptnre and a hreak down genarally follow. Such trouhla can always be prevented hy the treatment I hava outlined, hnt tha time to apply this preventiva is hefora the contraction shows np althongh I hava had on several occasions ramarkahle success in treating cases that wera pretty far advanced. I once hought a mare for $40 that was a crippla hecanse of quartar cracks dne to hadly contracted feet. After softening her feet hy ponlticing and soaking in hot water for two or threa days I notched out the cracks in the nsual mannar, shod her with a har shoa and a pad and put on a wet swab. Thesa swahs were kept on her four or five hours every day while I owned her and sha worked in a livery stahle during that time. She naver once took a lame or sore step afterward, and when I got through with her I sold her for $400. I know of one stahle of road horses in Chicago that hava had thair feet cared for in this way for years, and, althongh thay have seen the hardest sort of usaga, not one of them hae ever heen sore or lame.—Cor. Horse Review.

Large cattle concerns ara leaving Wyoming with their herds to locate in Nebraska. The cause for the removal is found in the wolves which infest the State of Wyoming, eating up tha profits of the business. It is estimated by the cattlemen there that a wolf will do damage to a herd to the amount of $100 a year. These figures haing conservative it will readily ha seen that serious damage can he done hy a few of these predatory beasts. Another potent incentiva for the movement is tha invasion of sheep and what is going on in Wyoming will, in coursa of time, taka place in other States.

It is poor economy to hreed to a grada sira. Soma farmers think that hecausa a mara is low in quality it will not pay to obtain the services of a standard-hred stallion, hut the lower the quality in tha mare the more need thera is that the inheritance in the foal should he from the very hest sire that can ha secured. Don't let the faa of the stallion datarmina your choica. As a rule the differenca in the valua of the colts sired hy standard or pure hred stallions and those from grade sires is many times the difference in the fee.

Some of the country towns in Colorado are arranging market days for the sale of horses, much as was in vogue ten or twelve years ago and the plan is a good one.

The Secretary of tha Interior has received a report from Acting Superintendent Sevellin, stationed in California to protect national parks from trespassing sheep herds. Mr. Sevillin has finished a portion of tha work, and Troop A, Utah Cavalry, has been detailed to patrol the parks. He says that 130,000 sheep have heen ejected, fifty-five hands in all from tha Yo Semita Park and it is thonght that the work has been as successful in tha General Grant and Sequoia Parks. Tha herds had heen so long in the Yo Semita Park that nearly all the grass and other forags had heen destroyed. Soma confusion exists in California in regard to the action, and it is the intention of tha Interior Department that it ha distinctly understood that no animals nnder any casa will ha permitted to graza upon the public reservations, and that all measures necessary will be taken to keep tha parks from them. Only those persons who have patented lands will be permitted to graza cattle, and hefora this is allowed metes and hounds of the patented lands must ha definitely ascertained and marked. This rule has been made necessary by tha fact that a number of persons own or leasa a small tract of land in tha vicinity of the parks and while pretending to graza their sheep and cattla npon them maka no effort whatever to prevent them from trespassing upon the reservations. No action has been taken against the persons ejected, hnt Mr. Sevillin says that ha will he ready to supply witnessas if it is decided to prosecute them.

Shallow cultivation is the thing during a dronth. The soil that is stirred up spreads over the moist soil nnderneath and acts as a cork to stop the soil tnhes which would let the water ont. But the top layer itself hecomes dry from exposura to the air. Hence tha thinnar tha top layar is made, tha better. Besides, with many crops tha deep soil is now full of roots and too deep stirring tears them off and canses the plants to wilt. Use a fine-tooth harrow or cultivator in tha field and a rake in the garden. Tha finer the surfaca tha hetter it will hold down the moisture. But fine soil will skim over easily after every shower and will then need stirring again.

Crops were never hetter in Humholdt county than they are this year, and what is equally of as much importance, nearly every thing the farmer has to sell brings a good price. Butter, condensed milk and othar creamery and dairy products bring good prices in good gold dollars. Cattle and sheep are also bringing good monay. The good condition of the farmers and ranchers in Humholdt extends through Mendocino, Sonoma and Marin. In fact, tha whola northarn part of California is in a prosperous condition.

Every new kind of farm machinery, every new process and every item of scientific discovery abont agricultnre makes farming a more hrainy husiness than hefore, and a man needs to he a little smarter and wiser than ever before in order to keep up with the procession. The time is coming when the man without ability to get hold of naw ways, will he crowded out into undeveloped regions, or will fall into the ranks of thosa who hire out to the men who can handle modern methods in a business way.

To many farmers fail to feed the crops thay grow as they. do their stock, and for this reason are not as successful as they might he. Tha soil will not feed us unless we fead it, and it is a very important matter to know just what is best for the crop we are producing and from what source it may ha had cheapest. Tha man that has a farm that does not need fartilizing in some way is very fortunata indeed.

Corn is not an exhaustiva crop like many others and if land is fertilized properly it may be grown successively and profitably for a number of years without any diminution of yield or noticeable exhaustion of soil, even on our clay lands. It is necessary and important that some catch crop be used in this connection to get hest results in every way.

Separate the younger from the older stock when feeding The natural consequence of promiscuous herding is that the largest and strongest taka their choica and leave the refnsa to he eaten by the weaker, whareas tha hest should he given to the poorest in order to help them to a condition of thrift and growth.

The heaviest fisece produced in Montana this year waighed 26 ponnds, and was shorn from a ewe belonging to Steele & Brown, of Big Coulee. Tha ewa was a cross hatwaen a Merino and Cotswold,and her fleece was of tha very best staple.

BY CHARLES MARVIN.

This great practical horse book is a handsome, three hundred page octavo, bound in cloth, elegantly printed superbly illustrated, and explains in every detail the remarkable success of CHARLES MARVIN and the whole plans and methods pursued at Palo Alto as to breaking, training, shoeing, galting, driving, keeping racing and breeding trotters.

Read what J. C. Silby, the owner of St. Bel, says of this book: "In this work Marvin has let ont all the mysteries of the craft, and it is so simple and plain that any breeder, owner, trainer or rubber who has any relish for his onsiness can take a colt as a yearling and develope to the highest and fullest extent that colt's capacity as a trotter. The work impressed me so strongly that I have ordered twenty copies, and shall place one in the hands of every rubber on our farm.,

SANTA ROSA'S GREAT MEETING.

A world's record and nine heats trotted in better than 2:15 would have made the opening day of the meeting now in progress at Santa Rosa a notable one in any country, and when the people of Sonoma county found that this class of racing was being kept up day after day they began coming through the gates in increasing numbers, and this afternoon, which is the closing, will doubtless see one of the largest crowds present that ever congregated on the Santa Rosa track. Not only has the racing been high-class as regards speed, but there have been many close contests and the racing has been clean throughout.

I Direct, Kapp & Nelson's little son of Direct, 2:05½, brought fame to himself as well as his sire and dam, by stepping out and winning the first race of the meeting in straight heats in the fast time of 2:13 and 2:14. He was admirably driven by J. M. Nelson and could have paced still faster had it been necessary. This was quite a feat for a three-year-old colt in a race with aged horses, and stamps I Direct as one of the best three-year-olds in America this year.

The second race was one of the most remarkable races ever paced on any track. Three heats were paced in exactly the same notch, 2:10½. F. W., the erratic son of Dorsey's Nephew, won the first, but had to give way to Chas. Derby's fast daughter, Much Better, in the next two. Rex Alto, a regular whirlwind when steady, cut up a lot of those tangled didos and was distanced the first heat.

The free-for-all trot gave Monterey an opportunity to lower his record from 2:13¼ to 2:11, and he trotted two heats in that time after Zombro had won the first in 2:13. Mamie Griffin got third money and Thompson was distanced.

A world's record was annexed by the grey gelding Who Is It in the last race of the day. Here was another three-year-old up against aged horses and good ones at that. May B and Our Jack were thought to be the contestants, and miles in 2:15 to be about the limit, but the grey son of Nutwood Wilkes was determined to take a hand in the affair, and when he won the first heat in 2:16¼ many thought that would end the youngster, and he need not be counted on as a contestant after that. But he had his trotting clothes on—in fact, he seems to wear them all the time—and went out in the next heat a winner from wire to wire, trotting every quarter in exactly 33 seconds, and winning the head in 2:12, the world's record for geldings.

This was one of the finest day's sport ever seen on a California track, and Secretary Kelley and the other officials were congratulated on all sides for the splendid success of the opening day.

The interim of two days, Sunday and Monday, on which no racing was held, gave the ardor a chance to cool a little, and there was not as large a crowd present on Tuesday. The racing was very good, though straight heats were the rule in every instance. Who Is It again met a field of aged horses in the 2:23 trot but won as he pleased in 2:14 and 2:18½. This is one of the greatest colt trotters in America, and his owner Mr. A. G. Gurnett has issued a challenge to trot any three-year-old in the world for $5000 a side, the race to take place in California within sixty days. It is believed Who Is It can trot three heats better than 2:12 any time he is asked to do so. His action is almost faultless, and he never seems to be exerting himself, no matter how fast he is moving. His trainer, A. McDonald, is deserving of great credit for the way he has handled this colt.

Thoroughbred blood came to the front again in the 2:25 pace, when Thos. H., a brown son of Dexter Prince, from a mare by old Thad Stevens, won off the reel in 2:17 and 2:15¼. This horse is a very handsome fellow and his mark is much slower than it will be later on. In the second heat he went to the half in 1:05 easily.

The only mistake made at the meeting thus far was in the last race of the day, a race for roadsters owned in Santa Rosa. There were three starters, Pick, a bay gelding by Oaknut, 2:24¼, driven by Al Guerne; Hazel Y., a handsome black daughter of Secretary, driven by her owner, F. J. Yandel, and Illustrious, son of Happy Medium, piloted by his owner, George A. Stone. Pick is a pacer, the others trotters. Pick won the first heat handily in 2:24, when a number of Santa Rosans, who held tickets on Hazel Y, went to the stand and complained that Mr. Yandel was not driving his mare to win. The judges therefore substituted P. J Williams as the driver of Hazel Y in the next heat, but the result was the same—Pick won easily and in a little slower time. Mr. Yandel was certainly doing his best and probably would as soon had a finger cut off as to lose the race.

Wednesday saw a much larger attendance at the track, and the crowd was treated to a sight of the fastest mile paced in California this year, when Rex Alto stepped off the second heat of the 2:15 pace in 2:07¾. In this race Much Better again lowered her record, gttting a mark of 2:10. Prof. Heald's Sidney gelding Chas. David reduced his record to 2:15 in the first race and Nutway lowered his to 2:17¼. Steinway's son, Our Jack, trotted the second heat of the 2:17 trot in 2:13½, and it was a splendid day's racing The crowds are increasing every day and when the first race is called this afternoon there will certainly be a very large number present. Thursday, Friday and Saturday's races will be reported next week. Following are the summaries:

NOTES OF THE MEETING.

The Santa Rosa track is one of the safest and fastest in California. It is situated about a mile from the center of town and is sheltered from the wind by a row of large cypress trees which extend nearly around the track on the outside. The buildings, consisting of a pavilion for horticultural and agricultural displays, grand stand, etc, are all well built and in good repair. The property consists of about 100 acres and is owned by Messrs. Ira and Henry Pierce, proprietors of the Santa Rosa Stock Farm.

Samuel Gamble, the well-known horseman, who selected many of the greatest stallions and brood mares on the now celebrated Oakwood Park Stock Farm when it was founded by the late Mr. Cook and afterward did the same for Mr Hobart when that once great stud was established, has acted as starter during the meeting and has done remarkably well. The starts have been made without tedious scoring (the heats will not average more than three scores), and in most instances the horses have been well lined up and going square. Mr. Gamble has been a success.

Probably the splended success of the meeting is due more to Thos. Bonner of Santa Rosa than to any half dozen others. He has worked indefatigably, and early and late from the time the meetiog was first announced, and by his keeping everlastingly at it has done a great deal to make it the great meeting that it is. Mr Bonner has acted as clerk of the course during the races and has been an excellent officer. Could Santa Rosa organize a district association and place a man like Mr. Bonner in the position of secretary, there would be no fear of results. He would make the meetings successful from the first.

THE HUMBOLDT FAIR.

A Pavilion Exhibit and Four Days of Mixed Racing.

The fair to he given in Humboldt county this year promises to eclipse anything aver held in that section. There will ha four days' racing, consisting of two evants on tha first day, three on the second, two on the third and thras on tha foorth. Besides tha races there will ha special attractions avery day, consisting of the lassoing of wild cattla, the riding of bucking horses, a ring tournament and other pleasing a exciting sports.

The first rece on the opening day should he one of the best contested ever seen in tha county. It is for named horses and thera are such well-known performers as Brica McNeill, General Don, Ruth, Rahy, Gossip, Forest W., Countess W., Lizzia S. and Mand W. Tha otber event is a qnerter dash and repeat.

On the second day the pacer Arthur W. is to go a mile and repeat against cyclers. Then follows a novelty race, the horse first at each qnsrter pole to get part of tha purse. The day's sport will closa with a mixed event, trotters and pecers of tha 2:40 class to he the contestants.

On the third day the 2:30 trotters will have a chanca to distingnish themselves, and the hangtails will go a half mila and repeat.

On the fourth day is tha graat fras-for-all trot and a five-furlong and a six furlong desh for the gallopers. Thera are ten events in all, and as tha purses ara liberal there shonld be no lack of entries.

The soliciting committees for tha Fair have now secnred over $1,500 in pledges. The resnlts of ona day's work swelled the emount to this snm. The city has not yet hean thoronghly covered. Thara is littla douht that something varv close to $1,800 will he rsised.

With this sum to work with, tha features at the pavilion and the track will ha made hetter than at any pravions exposition.

The pavilion is to hs msde one of the principal faatures of the Fair, and anongh applications for space ara already in to insure a very crowded hullding.

An invitation has been extended to Governor Budd to attend tha Fair and ha will prohably m.ke the opening eddress.

No Meeting at Stockton.

The Stockton Driving Club, more prcpsrly speaking, the five yonng men who so snccessfully hsndled tha fair lsst year, held a meeting last Saturday afternoon and discussed ths question of giving a race meet and fair this year, says the Stockton Independent, but thera are too meny things to contend with and they finally decided to allow the matter to go over for a yeer. All of them wera perfectly willing to devote their time and do all in their power to mske tbe affair a success, hnt thay have not received snfficient encnragement from tha citizens to warrant an attempt to carry all of the hurdens incident to a fair.

Tha purchasers of privileges last sasson could not see their way clear to pay a similar amount this year. Tha hotels, restaurants and other hnsiness firms which dariva the most benefit from a fair are reported as not lending tbe assistance they should and the best dates hava heen clsimed by other tracks, so that should the locsl managament wisb to give a meet it will have to taka chances on a week neer the rainy season.

Steinway—Electioneer Croee.

Another of tha youngsters carrying the blood of Steinway and Electioneer in her veins hss paced to a low mark in tha East. At Old Orchard, Maine, August 16th, Sylvanway, a three-year-old filly, won a pacing race in thres straight heats, the tima heing 2:12¼, 2:14¼ and 2:13¾. This filly wes hred at Oakwood Park Stock Farm and consignad to a New York sale last fall, and we think sold for less then a hundred dollers, heing untrained. She was sired by Steinway and is from Lunado, by Electioneer, second dam Lady Zetler, by St. Clair, where her pedigree stops, as St. Clair was a borsa of unknown breeding and the pedigree of Lady Zetler's dam is untraced. Lunado is a small mare 14.2 hands high and was hred at Palo Alto. Tha race in which Sylvanway paced to her record was tha second in which she had ever started and her second winning race as wall.

Nico is a Wonderful Colt.

J. Malcolm Forbes' great colt Nico, who took the measure of Diona at Portland, trotting two heats hslow 2:10, now ranks at the fastest four-yeer-old ever hred in New England. Ha is looked upon hy many horsemsn as heing one of the very few trotters now in sight thet may possibly davalop into a record-hreaker. Nico trotted only one race in his three-year-old form. In that contest he moved a qusrtar in 0:30½, and a half in 1:03½, finishing tha mila in a jog in 2:16¾. In his second race this saason he trotted thres miles halow 2:15, cutting his record down to 2:12¼. His race against Dione, Stamhoulatte and other cracks at Portland wes the fourth race of his career. Tha youngstar enjoys the distinction of hsing the only trottsr of any age that has heatan 2:10 at his fourth start in company. Nico was hred hy the Boston sportsman who now owns him. He is one of tha second crop of tha get of Arion, 2:07¼, and is out of Maggie Sultan, 2:30, hy Sultan, 2:24, the sire of Stsmhoul, 2:07½, grandem Maggia Prescott, hy Jim Monroa, the sire of Monroa Chief, 2:18¼.

An Eastarn driver says the hest thing to use on hopples to pravent chafing is common stove hlacking. The theory is that it is so slick tbat it causes the hopples to slip with scarcely any friction.

The authorities of a county up in Maine have taken a step in tha right direction by exemption from taxation for road purposes, the teams and wagons using wide tires.

A Correct Ruling.

In the $2000 stake race at Fort Wayne for 2:28 trotters on Tuesday, John Nolan wes distanced in the first heat, hut was plsced last hy tha judges and allowed to start in the next heat. He wes interfered with hy Monntaineer on the third turn and caused to make e hreak that left him ontside tha flag. Tha decision of the judges is criticized hy some high in authority, and prohably a msjority of the horsemen present considered tha decision a violation of the rules. Rnla 35 provides: "In cass of interference or collision the party causing tbe ssme, whether willfully or otherwisa, may hs ruled out. * * * If any horse impeded thereby comes in hehind tha distanca flag, the judges sball allow him to start sgain." Tha avidenca in this casa was the report of tha patrol judge, who wss in tha immediate presence of tbe horses when the interference occnrred. McHenry, who drove Monnteineer, was called into tha stand and admitted that his horse swerved toward John Nolan in making a hreak, and tbat Kennay, the drivar of John Nolan, was compslled to pull bis horsa suddenly to ona side to prevant a collision. It may ha said that the judgee shonld hava distanced Monntaineer for a fonl, hnt in case of an nnintentional fonl tha rula says the judges may rnle out the offending horse, hut in case of a horse tbat is distancad in case of interference or collision, tha rule says the judges shall allow him to stsrt sgain. Hence, we conclnda that this decision was not only clearly within tha rnles, hnt it contained tha essenca of the equities.—Amsricen Sportsmen.

Hopples Were Used Long Ago.

When the National Trotting Association dacided to abolish hopples from the race trecks, it was not attacking one of the many invantions which man has recently songht out, for as can he shown hy tha old Eoglish records, hopples were in use during the reign of Henry II., from 1154 to 1189. How these old time horses ware taught to psce is shown by crude pictnres in "The English Horseman," a work published hy Gervase Markham in 1607. The anthor places himself on record as saying that any horse that ambled without instrnction or compulsion hed either weakness in his hody or imperfection in his spirit, so tbat tha gait could not have heen of tha universal character that some hava said to have hean the cass at that pariod of English history. The herness, es it is called, consisted of a leather strsp put aronnd the legs shove tha knea and hock, and hair cords attached to thess o a proper langth to force the legs to mova in unison. When tha horse showed snfficient progress with tha harnass the strsps wera lowered to shova the fatlocks and the snpport to the cords which passed across the horse's hack lengthened to suit the naw conditions. It was axpected that the training with the cords and straps would taka abont three weeks altogather, and when the borsa showed himself parfect with his feet the harnass was removed entiraly and in its place rolls of any snitahla material were placed around tha fatlocks, presumahly to have the horse eupposa tha harness, or its equivalent, was still thera. In anotbar two weeks these were removed, and the education of tha ambler was finished.

Star Pointer's Shoes.

Much of the credit for Star Poin'er's matchless performances is bestowed hy his owner and other horsemen npon David J. McClary, who hae handled tha graat pacer and driven him in all his races since the spring of 1896. None othar of the famous harna s horses of the conntry reqniree such ceraful handling as Star Pointer. He wears such light shoes that he has to he shod after every race, and his feet are so tendar that hsgs have to be placed on the floor for him to etand npon whan his shoes are removad. It takes six hours to make, fit and put on a set of his shoes. Tha shoes for his hind feet ara made of aluminum, and weigh four onncas, whila on his fore feet he wears sevan ounce-shoes. Between tha shoes and tha horsa's feat ara placed strips of soft whita leather one-sixteenth of en inch thick and as elastic as ruhbar.

The present plan of Star Pointer's ownar, James A. Murphy, is to continue tha saries of exhihitions until the pacer hreaks his record of 1:59½, eftar which an attempt will he made to lowar tha high sulky record of 2:06, which has stood sinca Diract placed it there in 1891.

The driving men who maka use of the Ocaan Boulevard in Brooklyn bave formed an organizstion known as tha Rosette Club, from which they are deriving considerable sport. A pair of handsoma silver rosattes are offered for a road rece to cart or wagon, and the winner has tha privilega of having the sama adorn his horsa's hridla for one waak, hnt ha must coma heck tha naxt week and win again in order to retsin them for another wesk. Tha raca is held avary Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock, and the course is from the Clarendon Hotel, at the junction of Twenty-second street and tha Boulavard, to Bishop's roadhouse, ehout a mila and a sixteenth.

Trotting interests ara worsa neglected in New York this season than for many years past. With Fleetwood Park gone and no new track to take its place, the driving man hava no meeting ground except tbe naw Speedway, and the absenca of a suitabla clubhousa there prevents the anjoyment of tha drive to tha extent that wonld he possihla otharwise. Most of the racing horses are away on the various circuits and many of their owners ara with with them, while the pleasura drivers ere scattered among the summar resorts.

Major H. C. McDowell, propriator of Ashland, end one of tha pionear breedars of trotters in America, has consigned to Woodard & Shanklin for their Octobar sale his entira trotting stud, including 73 head of hroodmares, stallions and young horses, tbe gst of tha great Dictator, Georga Wilkes and Mamhrino Patchen. From Ashland hava gone out some of the greatest horses and largest money winnere aver hred in Kantucky.

The Kentucky hrood mare, Dictator's Last, is perhaps the most uniquely hred ona living. She is the last foal of her sira, Dictator, and is out of Medinm's Last, who was the last foel of her sire, Happy Medinm.

The Inter Ocean is enterprising. Don Donnan, the well-known writer on harness horse affairs has charge of the arrangements.

Rate of Speed for a Standard.

We may be in error in regard to the rate of speed upon which it will be best to base a standard with a view of producing a breed of thoroughbred trotters, says the American Horse Breeder, but months of careful study of the question has convinced us that a race record of 2:25 for trotters will prove of greater benefit to all classes of breeders than a faster one. Progressive breeders will not be deterred by such a standard from aiming for a higher rate of speed. Just as large a proportion of 2:10 trotters will be raised with that as a basis as though it were 2:20 or even 2:10. No other son of Electioneer has equalled Chimes as a sire of 2:10, or better, performers, yet his record is only 2:30¾. Mambrino Patchen never got a 2:20 performer, and yet his son, Mambrino King, with no record, is very successful in perpetuating 2:10 speed.

Alcyone, 2:27, and out of a daughter of Mambrino Patchen, with no record, is perpetuating 2:10 speed with as geeat uniformity as any other son of George Wilkes whose stud service was as limited as that of Alcyone. Altamont, 2:26¾ leads all the sons of Almont as a sire of 2:10 performers, and Onward, with a record of only 2:25¼, is at the head of all other sires in this respect. Red Wilkes, with a record of only 2:40, was bred to Mary Mays, a mare which had no record, and whose sire was Mambrino Patchen, which had no record and never got a 2:20 performer; yet the produce of that union, Ralph Wilkes, took a trotting record of 2:06¾, which is the fastest yet made by any trotter in the Wilkes family. Ryskyk's Hambletonian, with no record was bred to Clara, with no record, and the result was the champion trotter Dexter, 2:17¼. Old Ah, with no record, mated with Alexander's Abdallah, 2:42, produced the wonderful campaigner and world's trotting-record breaker Goldsmith Maid 2:14. Nancy Awful had no trotting record. She was mated with Conklin's Abdallah, which had no record, and the produce was Rarus, which reduced the world's trotting record to 2:13¼. Neither the sires nor dams of the world's trotting champions, St Julien 2:11¼, Jay Eye See 2:10, Maud S. 2:08¾, Sunol 2:08¾, Nancy Hanks 2:04, nor Alix 2:03¾, had records so fast as 2:30.

We think that a careful study and clear comprehension of the rules will convince most horsemen that a high rate of speed is of far less importance than the requirement that an animal shall demonstrate that he possesses speed qualities, or the ability to transmit them, in order to enable him to perpetuate standard rank. The object of the rules is to obtain a foundation upon which to build a family of trotters, a family that will transmit trotting speed with uniformity.

As has already been remarked, it is not the fastest trotters which have in the past transmitted the inclination to stick to the trot most forcibly and uniformly, nor have the world's record breakers come from them. This talk of lack of progress by placing the basis at 2:25 rate of trotting speed seems very plausible and pleasing, but past experience, as shown by the records, will have a tendency to dim the brilliancy by which it may seem at first glance to be surrounded.

The most progressive breeders will pay no attention to any standard. Record breekers in the future, as in the past, will continue to be produced by a judicious combination of trotting lines with those which come from the best of the race-winning thoroughbreds. The inclination to stick to the trot can be intensified by breeding trotters to trotters. The ability to show extreme trotting speed of the very highest order will, in our judgment, be increased in the future by just such means as it has been in the past. The rules which we proposed in a recent issue of the Breeder will not discourage experimenting in that direction.

The remark has often been jokingly made, when records were being broken, that the track was greased, and now the Cleveland Driving Club is figuring on the cost of greasing its track at Gleuville. The oil is to be sprinkled on the track and is for the purpose of keeping down the dust. On certain Eastern railroads, the Pennsylvania, notably, oil has been used with more then the success looked for. When the first sprinkling took place it was expected that the road would have to be gone over twice a year, but, according to the reports that come to Cleveland, one coat has been adequate to keep the dust down for a year. Oil is expensive, but it effectually suppresses all the dust. To sprinkle the Cleveland course would require something like $750, according to a rough estimate. It is believed that one sprinkling would last nearly all of one season. Recently a portion near the the grand stand wes sprinkled with oil and the results were satisfactory.

Hon. D. E. Knight, President of the P. C. T. H. B. A., has been in constant attendance on the Santa Rosa meeting. Mr. Knight has some good horses at the track, and is breeding to the best stallions, improving his stock right along, and hopes to live to breed at least one real good one. Such men as Mr. Knight are the backbone of the horse industry in California. He has never wavered in his belief in the American trotter and every one who knows the gentleman will hope that he may own a champion before long.

Lewis Thorne, Secretary of the Sixth Agricultural District at Los Angeles, will start the trotters and pacers at that meeting. Mr. Thorne knows the horses and the drivers, and knows when they are trying and should make an ideal starter. He has a good voice and plenty of backbone, and the Directors of that Association will doubtless be asking themselves after their meeting why they had n't thought of getting Mr. Thorne to start the horses at previous meetings.

Humboldt Maid trotted a good second last week at Joliet to Caracella, who won the 2:14 trot in 2:10½, 2:11¼ and 2:11¼. Mr. Hogoboom, who took a string of eight horses and colts, mostly by his horse Waldstein, over East, has sold all but Humboldt Maid and one other. He received fair prices for them.

Should Santa Rosa give a meeting next year it is certain that every owner who has visited the beautiful town this time will enter his horses and be there himself.

Some Law on Bad Roads.

Massachusetts Supreme Court: When a horse, while being driven with due care upon a highway, which a town is bound to keep in repair, becomes by reason of fright, disease or viciousness, actually uncontrollable, so that his driver cannot stop him, or divert his course, or exercise or regain control over his movements, and in this condition comes upon a defect in the highway, by which an injury is occasioned, the town is not liable unless it appears it would have occurred if the horse had not been so uncontrollable. But a horse is not to be considered uncontrollable, in this sense, if he merely shies or starts, or is momentarily not controlled by his driver. This has been practically confirmed by the Maine Supreme Court.

Connecticut Supreme Court: The failure of a traveler to be continually present with this team up to the time and place of injury, when that failure proceeds from some cause entirely beyond his control, and not from any negligence on his part, ought not to impose upon him the loss from such injury, particularly when the direct cause of the same is the negligence of some other party. The loss should be charged upon the party guilty of the first and only negligence with reference to the matter. Nor will the fact that the horse was uncontrollable some distance before the injury or change in any way effect the liability of the town having charge of the highway.

New York Supreme Court: The municipalities must use proper care and vigilance to keep their streets and highways in a reasonably safe and convenient condition for travel. This is an absolute duty they owe to all travelers and when that duty is not discharged, and in consequence thereof a traveler is injured, without any fault on his part they incur liability. They are not bound to furnish roads upon which it will be safe for horses to run away, but they are bound to furnish reasonably safe roads; and if they do not, and a traveler is injured by culpable defects in the road, it is no defense that his horse was at the time running away or was beyond his control. Ditto Pennsylvania, Vermont, Kansas, Missouri, Maryland, Iowa, and other States.

Arkansas Supreme Court: The rule maintained by the New York and other courts seems reasonable, and sustained by the weight of authorities. The corporation should be liable because it is the duty to use reasonable diligence to so construct and maintain the highway as to avoid accidents from the shying, starting or backing of horses. The accident would not have happened if it had done its duty. The action of the horse was an accidental occurrence, and the action of the horse and the neglect of the corporation were the proximate and efficient causes of the accident, and the injury is, therefore, attributable to the latter, and the corporation should be liable on the ground that it failed to perform its duty to the injured party.

Good Horses Scarce.

Ask any dealer to get you a good looking, sixteen hand horse for your carriage or buggy and he will tell you they are hard to get. A prominent dealer of this city went on a trip through Napa and Sonoma counties last week in search of a half dozen to fill orders, and after three days search found two, and thought he was lucky, He found plenty of horses for sale, but not the right kind.

Much has been said about encouraging and establishing a home market for horses. A market would soon establish itself if it were known that the right kind of horses were for sale in any locality, It is of incalculable advantage to have a market at your door, and such a communication could easily be inaugurated by uniform and co-operative breeding. It is immaterial whether a community raises coach or draft horses, if the animals are of the approved type, buyers will be attracted by their excellence and numbers. The drawback to profitable horse farming is the lack of co-operative effort among breeders. One farmer raises draft horses, another coach horses, and the balance of the breeders in the neighborhood are content to raise scrubs. Such a conglomeration of miscellaneous operations will not attract good buyers to such a locality, and the result is that breeders at great expense are compelled to ship their surplus horses long distances to market. This could easily be obviated by a community raising any particular type in urgent demand in the leading markets. A professional buyer would pay $5 more per head for horses if he could purchase a load in a township, instead of having to canvas two or three counties to fill out a shipment A new era is dawning in the horse industry, and concentrated and cooperative effort will insure better results than individual enterprise. It is more satisfactory to breeders to sell their surplus at home and avoid the time, expense and risk of shipping to market.

It is a singular coincidence that the little "black rascal" Direct, 2:05½ pacing, 2:18¼ trotting, has as many trotters as pacers in the list, and it is still more singular that his first comers to the list were one of each gait, and it has continued the same each year up to now, when he has five trotters and five pacers in the 2:30 list, and, by the way, all but one of these has beaten 2:20, and that one was a record of 2:21. His list include the following: Directly, 2, m, 2:07¾; Directum Kelly, 4, 2:08¼; Ed. B. Young, 4, p, 2:11¼; Miss Margaret, 3, p, 2:11½; Miss Beatrice, 4, 2:13¼; Arthur L, 5, p, 2:15; Rect, 4, 2:16; Directina, 3, 2:16¾; Lou Mitchell, 6, 2:17¼; I Direct, 3, p, 2:13, and Miss Kate, 4, 2:21.

During the meeting at Cleveland, Mr. James Butler, the owner of Directum Kelly, made the statement that he thought that he had a better horse than the four-year-old son of Direct in Gayton, 2:10¼. If Mr. Butler is correct it will be best to look out for the son of Allertoo when he starts; still it is possible that Mr. Butler has changed his mind since the Buffalo race. Directum Kelly has won seven straight races and has not yet met defeat, his winnings footing up $11,250.

Caryle Carne got second place in one heat, and third money in a race where the heats were all trotted in 2:10 or better at Joliet last week.

Sulky Notes.

THE Stete Fair harness events filled well.

ROAN WILKES wes bred end reised by a Methodist preecher of Tennessee, and wes trained hy the pastor's son.

LADY OF THE MANOR, 2:07¾, is one of the homeliest horses the Hemlins have ever reced, bnt she is ehout the best.

A. B. AND C.—Altamont, Beron Wilkes end Chimes—each with six of his produce in the 2:10 list. Direct should he next.

MAGGIE SULTAN, 2:30, dam of Nico, 2:09½, is a rank puller in herness, hut has speed enough to trot low down in the 'teens if she could be controlled.

THERE are eighty pacers in the 2:08 list. In 1892, the yeer the hike came into general use, hut eight of the side wheelers had records of 2:08 or better.

Two of the most successful sires of the seeson are double-gaited, viz: Direct 2:05½ pacing, 2:18½ trotting, and Heir-at-Lew 2:05¾ pecing, end 2:12 trotting.

THE veteren Charles Marvin made his first stert this yeer at a Lexington matinee last week, in which he won the free-for-all with St. Andre, hy St. Bel. Best time 2:17¾.

THE black trotting mere Antrima, 2:15½, hy Antrim, taken East in the Keating stable, got off and was turned out at Cleveland at C. F. Emery's Forest City Farm.

SEARCHLIGHT, 2:04½, has peced foorteen heets in races this season hetter than 2:10. Twelve of them were better than 2:08, nine in 2:07 end better, and six better then 2:06.

SANTA ROSA people have turned out very well to the meeting held there this week, although the fruit season is at its height in thet vicinity end every one seemed busily engaged.

DIRECTLY is rounding to, end will soon reduce his record. Ha was second to Seerchlight in the festest three heats of tha year et Dohuque. The heats wera paced in 2:04½, 2:04¾ and 2:06.

HAZEL KINNEY, daughter of McKinney, 2:11¼, closed tha season of 1897 with a record of 2:15½. She has now come into the 2:15 list hy winning a race in straight heats at Joliet, last Saturday, and taking a merk of 2:12.

DICK HAVEY is driving Zombro, 2:11, for George Beckers, and the son of McKinney seems to he improving in his hands. Hed Zombro been hendled properly this year he would have lowered his mark hefore this.

CHAS. WEILAND hes cancelled all the engagements of James L., 2:09½, and is driving him on the Speedway. And the game, fast son of Dexter Princa makes as good a road horse as cen he seen on tha heautifnl Harlem course.

PASONTE heet Sirock, Silverlake, Peko and Anita S. at the Cleveland matinee last week, trotting her two heats to wagon in 2:16¼, 2:15. The second mile is the fastest yet mede this seeson at any of the Cleveland metinees.

MCKINNEY has another of his get in the 2:15 list. Hazel McKinney trotted to a record of 2:12½ et Joliat last Satnrdey end won first money in a $1000 puree, defeating a field of seven others. She was driven hy P. W. Hodges.

ED LAFFERTY thinks ha will heve as good a string of young horses next year as any trainer in Celifornia. They will ell he from the Sante Rosa Stock Farm of Pierce Bros. Those he is now working on the Sante Rosa treck are a very handsome lot. There is one by Stamboul, from the mere Bon Bon, thet is a grend looker and will be fast.

MR. C. A. WINSHIP who recently purchese a twenty-ecre tract neer Les Angales, hes erected a fine residenca on tha property and fitted it up with elegant etebles for his string of trotters end pacers. He hes boilt a treck on the plece end will have several horses ont next season. He will entar Agiteto, 2:09, in the free for-all pece at the Loe Angeles meeting.

COL. J. E. THAYER, president of the New Englenp Trotting Horsa Breeders' Association, announces thet an exhibition of horses will be held in connection with tha Grend Circuit meeting at Readville, Aug. 29th to Sept. 2d.

SANTA ROSA would he a grend place to hold an annnal fair. A good live association could give one of the hest fairs on the Coast in Sonoma's county seat, and the prodnctions of that splendid county eloue would he worth going miles to see.

A RACE between Miss Logan, Split Silk and Lady of the Manor would come very neer deciding which is the fastest green pacer of the year, says an Eastern exchange, end it is quite certein thet the half-thororghhred mere from California would he the favorite.

IT is said that there is an effort beinc meda to arrange a stallion race hetween Cresceus, Tommy Britton, Askey, Grattan Boy, Diractum Kelly, Stamhoulette end one or two others, to take place in the near future. Thia should he a greet race end a great drewing card for eny track.

IT is reported thet Captain Tutbill, of New York, and S. E. Bailey, of Philadelpbis, have metched their pacers, Den Q. and Prince Alert, for $2,500 a side, for threa races, the first to take pleca at Goshen, the second et Charter Oak Park, end the third et e plece to be ennounced later.

DICK ARLES, the well-known horse treiner of Pleesanton, received a telegrem last Thursday announcing the serious illness of his hrother in Kansas. He started East immedietely and left his horses in charge of J. M. Alviso, who will teke them to Sacremento end drive them in the races there.

PROBABLY the smallest aoimal on the circuit this yeer is the mare Lady Margsrat, hy Star Snltan, in Billy Durfee's string. She is a scant 14 hands high and only weighs 700 pounds, hut she can "pace your aye out," as an admirer of the little mara remarked. A record of 2:12 should not be heyond her limit.

MONTEREY, 2:11, is now the way it must be written. Mr. Williams' grand stallion is looking better than he ever did in his life, and we heliave he could make the circuit of the Santa Rose treck in 2:08 or better on eny favorahle dsy. The Sidneys ara rushing to the front again this year, end are winning long drewn out recce in fast time.

A FULL hrother of Nico (4), 2:09½, end one year younger, celled Capt. Haff, wes sold ebout a year ago for $240. He is a stallion, and his owner, who resides in Meine, hes refused an offar of $1,000 this season. He probahly has not weakened on his price since Nico secored such a fast record and proved himself e game race horse.

JAMES BUTLER of New York, owner of Direct, 2:05½, end Directum Kelly, 2:08¼, recently purchesed from Mrs Anna Green of Dnblin, Cal., tha four-year-old hlack filly Directina, hy Direct ont of Stemwinder, by Directum, 2:05¼. This filly wes cempaigned last yeer hy Monroa Salisbury and took har record at Lexington, Kentocky, October 9th in en eight-heat race, trotting the sixth heet in 2:16¾, her present record.

OWING to the fact thet the announcement of the meeting at Gleenwood Park was mada too late, the mejority of tha purses failed to fill. Harry Lowden went to Senta Rosa Thursday, however, in the interest of tha cluh and will endeavor to secure entries to a number of purses that hava heen reopened. There ought to he a good opportnnity for some of the trotters and pecers to win quite a sum at the Glenwood Park meeting next week.

HEIR-AT-LAW, 2:05¾, is proving the greetest sire at Village farm. Five of his get have entered tha list this season, the last one heing Lillien, who won at Dnnkirk, N. Y., in 2:26¼. We helieva that now every one of this stallion's get which has started in pnhlic cerriea a record. Last yeer his first earned a record and four of them earned marks from 2:08¾ to 2:10½. To-day he hes nina in the list, with six of them in the 2:20 list.—Americen Sportsmen.

PROF. E. P. HEALD'S pecer, Chas David, is another Sidney to enter the 2:15 list. He paced to that record in a winning race at Sente Rose last Wednesday, end seemed to do it rather handily. Chas David is out of Nona Y., 2:25, hy Admiral 488, second dam Black Flore (dam of Sister, 2:19¼, Perihelion, 2:25, and Hnntress, 2:28), hy Black Prince. He is usuelly a very steedy and reliahla horse and with good lnck will get a mark of 2:12 or better this year.

THE Pleasanton Times, which is puhlished in the town where Mr. Crellin resides, and doohtless speeks authoritatively, says: "James A. Murphy offered C. L. Crellin $20,000 for the great pecer, Searchlight, during Mr. Crellin's recent trip East. The offer was refnsed. The owner seys he stends to win neerly as much as that sum with the horsa during the present recing circuit. When the season is over, he says anyone who wents the aoimal can have him for $25,000."

JAMES SULLIVAN, the well-known trainer, hes not been enjoying tha hest of heelth recently and has been compelled on several occesions at Senta Rosa to get Mr. Bunch to drive his horses, es he has not felt equal to the task. There is no more carefnl and peinsteking trainer in California than "Jimmie" Sulliven, and it hoped thet his eilment is only temporary and thet ha will soon regain his heelth. He hes probahly the lergest string of harness horses on the circuit and the work of driving them every dey is no easy task.

MR. L. E. CLAWSON, of this city, is the owner of Phoebe Childers, a handsome hay mere that sterted for the first time at Santa Rosa this waek, hut finishad outside the money in a race won hy the champion Who Is It. She started egain Thursday, winning a heat in 2:16½, the fastest in the reca. This mere was sired hy Sir Roderick, a black son of Dictator and Prospect Meid, hy Georga Wilkes, that was bronght to this State hy the lata W. S. Hobart in 1891. Sir Roderick died when a three-year-old end left not mora than a helf dozen foals, every one of which has shown speed.

SOME time ago this paper republished e statement mede hy an Oregon paper to the effect that the managers of the Oregon State Fair end the horsemen had settled their differences and the latter would enter their horses at the coming meeting at Salem. From letters received at this office dnrirg tha past week and numerous articles in the Portland Rural Spirit, it would seem that the differeoces hetween tha horsemen and the association mentioned are still as unsettled as a cup of Camp Merritt coffee, and that the list of horsemen who will not enter at Salem is not only large but very mnch in evidence.

MR. C. L. CRELLIN, of Pleasanton, owner of Searchlight, has returned from his eastern trip. He says that when he left Tom Keating at Cleveland, Ohio, the latter was greatly improved in health end his complete recovery was only a question of time and plenty of rest. Mr. Keatings untiring attention to the great rsce horses in his cherge, wore him out completely. He will not driva any more this season. During the balance of tha recing circuit driver McHenry, ona of the greetest horsemen of the country, will handla the ribhons over Searchlight and the other greet horses of the string, whila Mr. Keeting will assume general management of the stahle.

THE Walnut Grove Stock Farm owns a great hrood mare in Francesca, dam of I Direct 2:13, Sahle Frances, 2:23¾, and Guycisca, 2:26. Both I Direct and Sahle Frences hava shown ability to get inside the 2:12 mark this year. Francesca is by Almont 33, and her dam was Frances Breckenridge, hy Sentinel, second dam a daughter of Bayerd 53, third dem Luna, by Swigert's Lexington, fourth dam Eagless, hy imp. Glencoe, and so on to the twenty-third dam, tha celebrated Leyton Barh mare, whose hlood is the "tap root," accordiug to the Bnce-Lowe system of hreeding, of mora of the greet thoroughhred meres of Americe then is the hlood of eny other greet mare.

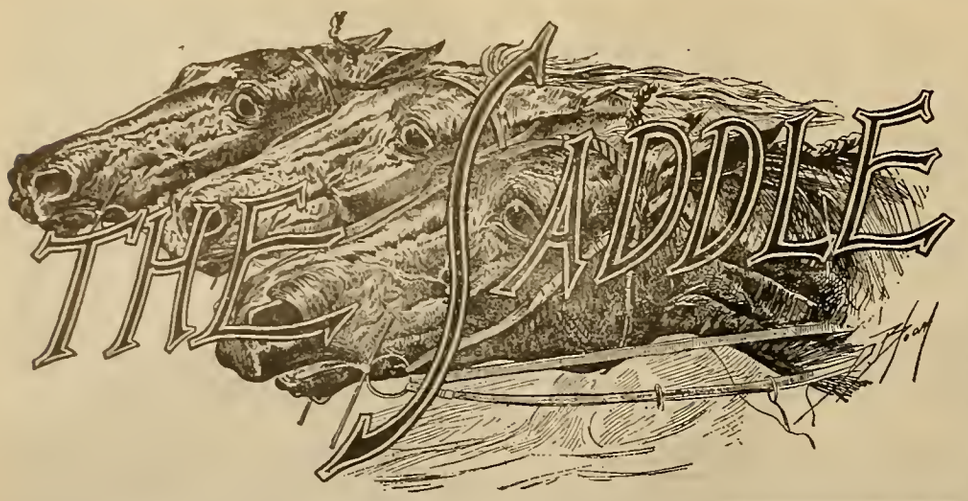
HAD some of the thorough-phohists seen the brown stallion Thos. H. win his race et Santa Rosa last Tuesday they would have wondered where he got his head. He is by Dexter Prince, a horse who is often, though we think unjustly, accused of siring "rattle-headed" horses, and out of a thoroughhred mare hy the old four-mile runner Thad Stevens. Now Thos. H. is ehout es level-headed es any horse ever seen with a harness on. Ha paced his race out, winning in straight heats, getting a mark of 2:15½, and showing none of thet "foolishness" which some claim will always characterizes all those horses whose veins are filled with the hot hlood. From the manner of his going this horse should be a factor in moch faster clesses from now on.

THE blood of old Eagless, that great thoroughhred race and hrood mara hy imp. Glencoe, courses through the veins of three good herness horses thet appeared in the reces at Santa Rose this week. Eagless is the fifth dam of I Direct, the three-year-old pacer that took a mark of 2:13, and elso of Sahle Frances, the trotting mare helonging to Walnut Grove Stock Farm that wes a close second to the chempion three-year-old trotter Who Is It when he finished a heet in 2:14. Sable Frences was separately timed in 2:15 in that heat. Eagless is the third dam of Who Is It, 2:12, champion trotting gelding of tha world, and the fastest three-year-old trotter of 1898. Surely here is thoroughhred blood thet is worth infusing into trotting families.

NUTWAY, the chestnut gelding hy Nutford, should pace to a very low merk this yeer. He was a very close second to Much Better when the latter finished her mile in 2:10½ at Sante Rose last Saturday, and took a mark of 2:17¼ the following Wednesday, elthough not really in condition to start. Walter Mahen says that there is not one of Nutford's get down in Los Angeles county hut is fast, and nearly all of them are ont of tha commonest mares. Mr. Maben helieves that thirty of Nutford's get could be rounded up in Los Angeles county, 75 per cent. of which could heat 2:30 in a month's tima. Nutford was by Ahhotsford, from Annia Nutwood, a daughter of Nutwood 600, second dam a thoroughbred deughter of imp. Hercules. Ha is owned hy H. W. Sylvester, of Santa Ana, Cal,

LAST Saturday Chas. F. Kepp of this city went to Santa Rose to see his three-year-old colt I Direct start in his first race since ha became his property. Tha handsoma son of the "little hlack rescal," Direct, 2:05½, won right off the reel, and when Mr. Kapp reached his place of hosiness in San Francisco that evening after returning from Santa Rose he was astonished but highly pleased to sea on the counter a large floral wreath in tha centre of which were the words "I Direct—2.13" After receiving the congratulations of his many friends on being the owner of soch a good colt, Mr. Kapp wes required to describe the rece as it occurred, which ha did with wondarful accuracy, and then thera was a flow of those "frappe" delights hy which the honds of friendship are cemented, and the genial side of human nature brought oot to its fullest enjoyment.

OSCAR STEINWAY 7925, sire of Bill Nye, 2:14½, and the dam of Nutway, 2:17½, is registered in tha American Trotting Register es hy Steinway, out of Frankie Eaton, daughter of Hamhletonian 725, and it is further stated that he wes hred hy Capt. Ben E. Harris, of this city. While in Santa Rosa tha other day, Capt. Herris confirmed a story we had once heard that Oscer Steinwey was not really hy Steinwey at all, bnt hy General McClellan 144. Tha Captain did send his mare Frenkie Eaton to the Cook Stock Farm soon efter Steinway was brought to this Coast, with tha intention of breeding her ta tha son of Strethmore. It is his recollectlon that sha was not hred to him, hut Samuel Gemhle, who wes et the time Superintendent of the farm, is of the opinion that sha wes. At any rate, the mare came in season egain end was afterward hred to General McClellan 144 Captein Harris then sold the mera to Cherles McCleverty, of Alameda county, and the next spring she dropped a colt, which was nemed Oscar Steinway on the supposition that it wes a son of that horse. It was a chestnut, however, and had every characteristic of tha McClellane, and in tha minds of Captains Harris and Samnel Gamhle there is no doubt but Oscer Steinway is a son of General McClellan. The pacer Nutway, 2:17½. ie a McClellan all over, heving that chestnut color and conformation thet is so pronounced in the descendants of that good, bnt short-pedigreed animal.



MARCUS DALY—'COPPER KING."

Something About a Turfman of Whom but Little is Known.

Marcus Daly, the copper king is one of the few owners of racehorses to whom turf winnings are a minor consideration. He is fond of his horses certainly, but it is the fondness of a true lover of horseflesh. He admires them for blood, speed and endurance, not for their capacity to make money. Mr. Daly has enough of that commodity already. Although his horses are known to every follower of the turf from one end of the country to the other, the face of Mr. Daly is known to but few racing men. It is probable that he does not see more than one race a year, but there is no student of "dope" more thoroughly acquainted with the form and abilities of horses than Mr. Daly.

It is not strange that the copper magnate should look for some relaxation on the turf. He has been practically a slave of business since he first went into mining in the old territorial days of Montana. With him racing is a recreation, not an occupation. Along in the eighties Mr. Daly was interested with Mr. J. B. Haggin in a big stock farm in California, as well as in various mines, but the partnership has since been dissolved.

Mr. Daly's home is in Anaconda, Mont., where his great copper mine is located. He spends a great deal of his spare time, however, on his large stock farm at Hamilton. Aside from his varied interests in mining and on the turf, Mr. Daly is a thoroughbred politician and has been recently mentioned as a candidate for United States Senator, and the Montana people say he can have it if he wants it.

Everybody in the East is familiar with the copper and silver colors of Mr. Daly. Although racing is not a fad with him, he makes money on the turf as successfully as he does in mining copper. He seldom bets on his horses, but when he does his wagers are of a size that would appall a man of ordinary means. He won over $60,000 in bets alone when his great horse Montana won the Suburban Handicap.

Mr. Daly's early life was full of vicissitudes, and he never tires of telling about his trials and tribulations. When he came to this country from Ireland he had no money and no situation. Finally he got a job of digging potatoes on a California ranch and was enabled to save money enough to get to the mines. Here lay his ambition.

For a time he worked as a miner, and at last his knowledge of minerals led him to form a stock company with J. B. Haggin and the late Senator Hearst. They purchased the Anaconda mine, located near Butte City. It was then being worked for gold and silver. After a time a shaft was sunk 120 feet, and the largest copper veins ever found were tapped. To-day Anaconda is the richest copper mine in the world. Within the past ten years Mr. Daly has spent the enormous sum of $40,000,000 in wages and for operating the mines and smelters. No one but Mr. Daly and his partners know how much more in the shape of profit has come out of the mines.

Mr. Daily is quiet, reserved, and at big races conducts himself in much the same manner as Mr. Richard Croker, of Tammany fame. He is so rarely seen at a race track, however, that his real sporting character is known to but few. So long as Mr. Daly furnishes the turf with such a well-appointed stable and such well-trained thoroughbreds the turf public can afford to forgive him for staying in the background.

The Anaconda Meeting.

The racing at Anaconda is proving very successful, and the attendance has been so good that Manager Tipton is highly pleased. The money seems to be pretty evenly divided so far between the talent and those who play the long end. This result is doubtless due to Secretary Lawrence's clever handicapping. It is the judgment of students of racing that he is about as good a handicapper as there is in the country. The many eyelash finishes and close contests are the best proof of his ability as a handicapper.

The Daly horses have not been running up to expectations and on Tuesday nine of them were sent back to the Bitter Root Farm. Among the lot were Black Cap, Ash Leaf, Gualala, Afghan, Scottish Chieftain and Mekallah. It is understood another string, which has been undergoing preparation, will be sent here in place of those turned out, to contest for some of the good things.

Torsida has shown himself the best three-year-old this season on the Montana turf. "Daggie" Smith has a good stable. He has been handling the Holly estate horses also, but has disposed of La Fontera, Zarilda and Charlotte M. Negligence, Tommy Butler's $5,000 colt, has scored two winning brackets since Johnny Campbell turned him back to Butler in disgust.

Mallakwa, notwithstanding the statement that he had three ribs broken in Butte, seems to be doing well. He won a six-furlong race last Saturday and the Deer Lodge stakes on Wednesday. Larva was first for the former race, but it was claimed Jockey Hennessy foiled Mallakwa, for which Larva was set back and Hennessy was set down for the season. It is said Marcus Daly was quite indignant over the action of the judges and has since told Hennessy he could draw his salary just the same. Trainer Campbell is confident that Mallakwa is just a little better colt than Larva, and the next time these two meet the public may see some spirited betting.

The sales of mutuel tickets for the six days ended yesterday aggregated $119,640, an average of $19,940 per day. The auction pools generally run about half of this amount, showing the betting averages $30,000 a day. Of this the Association gets 5 per cent or $1,500 a day.

Five furlongs, selling—Howard won, Gold Bug second, Roadwarmer third. Time, 1:04.

The Kirkham Stud, situated at Kirkham, New South Wales, and founded by the late Hon. James White, will be disposed of at auction September 7th. The great Abercorn, the horse that beat Carbine three times and won over twelve thousand pounds in stakes, and Martini Henry, winner of the V. R. C. Derby and the Melbourne Cup, are among the horses to be sold.

TURF HISTORY.

I send you some desultory thoughts occasioned by a hasty glance over Mr. Bruce Lowe's "figure system," and as they are somewhat at variance with the generally accepted views on the subject, they are submitted for your consideration, to be disposed of as you think proper. I do not mean to ignore the merit of the Darley, the Byerly Turk, or the Godolphin, but to give it as my opinion that there was a greater factor than any of these, that seems to be overlooked; I mean the Leeds Arabian.

Betty Leeds, the inbred daughter of Leeds, and dam of the two Childers, was the fountain head of the Mark Eclipse, Snap, Shark and Saltram family. Bruce, in his book on the horse, after estimating the generally conceded influence of the Darley, Byerly Turk and Godolphin, says: "This theory is not sustained by facts. What are you going to do with that great mare Betty Leeds, that first brought the Darley Arabian into prominence?" I might ask what are you going to do with Young Giantess, that was a prominent factor in establishing the Pocahontas, the Alice Hawthorn and Weatherbit families? What of Queen Mary, Miss Agnes, and last, though scarcely less, imp. Weatherwitch?

Mares may be as preponent as sires. If I am not mistaken in my early reading, Mr. Leeds sent to the deserts of Arabia for the finest horse that could be found, regardless of cost. This horse was Leeds; he was a private stallion of his owner for the greater part of his stud service, and my observation leads me to believe no stallion of his time was his equal. Many years ago I had the leisure and curiosity to investigate the breeding and crosses of many of the most prominent animals of the olden time. Having a list on hand I furnish a few crosses:

Tartar	...	1	...	2	1
Soreheels and sister	...	1	...	2	...
Fox	...	...	...	2	1
Crab	...	1	...	2	..
Whynot	...	2	...	4	2
Cade	...	2	1	4	1
Matchem	...	3	1	4	2
Regulus	...	2	1	4	5
Marsk	1	...	...	2	4
Snap	1	...	...	6	2
Shark	2	3	..	11	9
Conductor	1	1	1	9	5
Eclipse	1	1	1	6	9
Herod	2	1	...	3	2
Goldfinder	3	7	3	17	13
Highflyer	8	5	2	14	9
Buzzard	6	11	4	22	14
Selim	12	25	8	56	34
Saltram	2	5	2	16	18
Diomed	6	7	2	14	10
Waxey	8	10	3	25	17
Penelope	8	23	6	40	19

It must be borne in mind that nearly the entire list under the Darley heading should belong to the Childers, sons of the immortal Betty Leeds, and the immediate produce of snap mares.

Penelope for instance was twice inbred to Snap. That Snap's daughters were conspicuous factors in the production of high-class thoroughbreds is just as apparent as those of Glencoe, Lexington or War Dance.

Like the Darley, the Byerly Turk got his first sendoff from Bay Peg, inbred daughter of Leeds, and produced Basto. Basto got Soreheels and his sister, and here the Leeds leaven permeated the Turk lump. These facts are generally overlooked, but are recognized by Colonel Bruce in his book on the thoroughbred horse.

Don't you see what happened when Sister to Soreheels was mated to Betty Leads' son, Flying Childers, how the Leeds blood intensified itself? To show that my views are not entirely peculiar to myself I make some quotations from that high authority "Stonehenge."

"It is contended by some writers, particularly by Mr. Hankey Smith, that we owe more to the previous breeds for the goodness of the two Childers and their stock than to the Darley Arabian." * * "Herod is usually considered as the representative of the Byerly Turk, but is really more of the Darley Arabian by one-half; Flying Childers being his great grandfather, and I suspect to him is due the merit which Herod most always claim as the most valuable ingredient in the thoroughbred."

"Flying Childers, though not represented in the male line, his blood is conspicuous in connection with his relations with the Snap mares, Snap being his grandson. Herod also enjoyed like advantages."

Where does Birdcatcher get his marvelous prepotency? By Sir Hercules, son of Whalebone, by Waxy, his dam Gniccioli, by Bob Booty, son of Chanticleer, whose dam was by Eclipse; second dam by Snap (intensely inbred).

I claim that Batty Leeds and Young Giantess were potent factors in producing the high-class thoroughbred. Granting all one marit to The Baron, was not the inbred descendant of Young Giantess entitled to quite as much, or more, credit for their successful onion? Where else did the Baron make so happy a hit?

Where does Weatherbit derive his prepotency not from his inbreeding to Young Giantess. Alice Hawthorne the same, and perhaps I might add Cowl and the Hermit.

Galopin is by Vedette, by Voltigeur, by Voltaire, whose dam was by Phantom, grandson of Young Giantess—Galopin, first dam by Flying Dutchman, son of Bay Middleton—Cohweh, by Phantom.

Cohwah, out of Filagree, by Soothsayer, by Sorcerer, son of Young Giantess.

Cowl, by Bay Middleton, out of Crucifix, by Priam (inbred).

It will be seen from above that St. Simon has three crosses of Blacklock, three crosses of Waxey, and four crosses of Young Giantess. St. Serf adds four additional crosses of Waxey and two of Young Giantess strains to his pedigree.

I have no intention of robbing Glencoe of his merit as sire of Pocahontes. In Marpessa he met his affinity, that culminated in that wonderful broodmare. A few more quotations from Stonehenge, and I am through. I understand Mr. Bruce Lowe questions the prepotency of Waxy. Stonehenge says: "Penelope, after producing the extraordinary family in the history of the turf, when coupled with Waxey, proved an ignominious failure when bred to such horses as Rauhens, Election and Walton." Without searching the records, I can call to mind that Waxey sired Waxey Pops, Tippitywichet and his daughters were dams of Filho da Puta and Stemford, without the aid of Penelope.

"All the descendants of Waxey were good on the turf and in the field. Waxey stands at the head of the list, not only as a racehorse himself, but having produced immediately and remotely, more winners of great events than any two horses since his time."

"Old Rusticus."

Saddle Notes.

Jockey Narvaez has been granted a license by the Turf Congress.

J. B. Haggin owns imp. Candlemas, son of Mertimes, the Futurity winner.

Ma. Clay, the colt that ran third in the Futurity, was bred at Rancho del Paso and is by imp. Derebin.

"Skeets" Martin is considering an offer made by J. W. Schorr & Son to ride for their stable next season.

The California Jockey Club will give but one week's racing at Los Angeles, but will open at Oakland, October 29th.

R. E. Curl has purchased of C. P. Fink the bay gelding Newsgather, 4 years old, by Enquirer, dam Bonnie Meade; reported price $1000.

Jockey Al Shaw, who has been riding on the Montana circuit, has gone East, where he expects to ride during the balance of the season. He can now ride at 102 pounds.

A San Francisco horseman won $400 in Joe Harvey's book last Tuesday, by laying $100 against the first mentioned amount on the proposition that neither of the Fleischmann pair would run one, two, in the Futurity.

Horses stabled at Harlem are walked over to Hawthorne. The distance by the shortest route, i. e., across the prairie, is not over four miles. Still, one hour and forty minutes is the time usually consumed in making the journey.

Galen Brown has shipped his stable of horses back to California and should arrive in Sacramento within a day or two. He has Olinthus entered in some of the stakes to be run at the State Fair and thinks he ought to win his share of the money.

A number of the trainers and owners insisted that the starting gate should not be used for starting the youngsters in the Futurity. As they were kept an hour and a half at the post, these same owners and trainers are now probably wishing they had allowed the gate to be used.

A conference between John Brenock and Ed Corrigan and their lawyers was held in Chicago on Monday night, August 15th, and the result was a peaceful solution of the race track troubles, it having been decided to leave all the differences between Corrigan and Brenock to the courts. No more raids will be made on the Hawthorne track.

Surroundings and atmosphere generally are fully up to and in keeping with all goods handled. "Excellence" is the standard all round, and our good friends, Armstrong & Hood, are determined to keep "Among the Barrels" up to it. If novelty, honesty, convenience and excellence are a passport to success this cosey little resort at 863 Market street is bound to attain it.

Probably the best yearlings at Latonia are those belonging to W. Showaltar. The two most promising of the lot are fillies. Horsemen who have watched this pair work say that they are two of the finest youngsters they ever looked at. One of them is a half sister to Panchita II., by Wegner—Glen Balle. The other is by Likely, and her work shows that she does not belie the name of her sire.

Vanderbilt, br h, foaled 1871, by Vandal, dam Melrose, by Childe Harold, out of Miss Peyton, by American Eclipse, the property of W. R. Rogan, died at Rogana, Mr. Rogan's farm in Macon county, Tenn., on August 2. Vanderbilt was 27 years old, and was a good race horse in his day, and was the sire of Madstone and some other fairly good horses, though his stud career was not a brilliant success.

The races at Anacouda are not finished until after 6 o'clock each day, the long twilight in that country making it possible to race until half past eight if necessary, it being light enough at that time to distinguish the horses all around the track. Many men who work in the mines all day make a bee line for the track as soon as their day's work is done and play the last races on the programme.

A letter to the Breeder and Sportsman from Chas. Boots states that he has returned to his home at Elmwood Farm, Milpitas, having been called home from the East by the serious illness of his father. His string of race horses is now at Hawthorne. Before he left the East he sold Twinkler to Mr. S. C. Hildreth. Mr. Boots expects to dispose of all the rest of his string of racers, as he will be obliged, on account of his father's serious illness, to remain at Elmwood and attend to matters there.

"Curly" Brown had to answer to a charge of assault at Detroit, Michigan, the other day. The trouble was the outcome of a story which appeared in a local paper on the harsh manner in which the starter deals with the boys riding under him. Brown accused Freeman of being the instigator of the article, which the latter denied. The lie was passed, and Brown slapped Freeman's face. The jockey then obtained a warrant for assault and Brown was arrested just as he was boarding the boat for Windsor.

Sydney Paget is trying to secure the services of Dick Clawson, the lightweight jockey, for next season. Clawson is under contract to ride for Atkins & Lottridge, who farm his services to Sam Hildreth. Clawson will ride the season out for Hildreth, but he does not wish to go back with Atkins & Lottridge. Clawson will take his case before the Jockey Club and try and have his contract annulled, as he claims the firm has not lived up to its contract. If successful he will sign with Paget for next season. Clawson claims that Atkins & Lottridge have never yet paid him in full for his services, but are always owing him a large amount.

Harlem has shut down on the free list and no complimentary badges will be issued by that Association hereafter, except to owners, trainers, jockeys and grooms. Even the press will have to pay for admittance to the gate, except the regular reporter who writes the account for his paper.

The Latonia Jockey Club announces five additional stakes for the thirty days' racing beginning October 1st. The entries close September 1st, and include: Covington Autumn Stakes, five and one-half furlongs, for two-year-olds; Latonia Autumn Prize Handicap, for three-year olds, mile and one-sixteenth; the Kenton Stakes, for three-year-olds and upward, six furlongs; the Tobacco stakes, selling sweepstakes, for three-year olds and upward; Cincinnati Hotel Handicap, for three-year-olds and upward. The added money is from $750 to $1200.

Maher has become as popular in the East as "Tod" Sloane was earlier in the season. Owners and trainers who have a horse that they think has a chance to win, almost tumble over one another to secure Maher's services, and about two-thirds of the people who go to the track bet on anything that Maher rides, no matter what it may be. So his victories are naturally popular; his defeats a reason for wailing among the speculators. At Saratoga, on Saturday last, Maher's followers were particularly unlucky as he lost five out of six races in which he had mounts.

On Sunday, August 14th, lightning struck and killed six brood mares at the Goodwood Stud, Mo., the property of J. D. Lucas. Following are the mares killed: Inez, ch m, foaled 1889, by Casino, dam Sallie Norvell, by Woodford; Queen Safie, br m, foaled 1894, by Buckmaster, dam Queen Bess, by Hyder Ali; Brenda, ch m, foaled 1878, by imp Bonnie Scotland, dam Belladonna, by Brown Dick; Florence Lucas; Nattie Hamilton, b m, foaled 1882, by imp. Billet, dam Clemmie G., by War Dance, and Hindooette, b m, foaled 1888, by Hindoo, dam Bella of Runnymede, by imp. Billet.

Mr. J. F. Caldwell, one of America's veteran starters took his position at Hawthorne Monday August 15th and will there touch off the machine for the balance of the meeting. It seems Caldwell was engaged for Hawthorne six months ago but the management being asked by horse owners and trainers to give W. F. Bruen a week's trial, employed the young starter, with the permission of Mr. Caldwell. Bruen's work was entirely satisfactory to the Hawthorne officials, and the public concurred in applauding his efforts. Mr. Caldwell's starting since he began has been nearly perfection. Bad actors at the post are barred until they are schooled to break with the others.

The Westchester Racing Association announces a new long distance stake, to be run at the approaching autumn meeting. The event is the Morris Park Special, for three-year-olds and upward, by subscription of $20 each, starters $30 additional, with $5000 added, distance two miles over the Withers course. Three-year-olds to carry 117 lbs., four-year-olds and upward, 130 lbs.; mares and geldings are allowed 3 lbs. The winner of the Brighton Cup (Hamburg) is to carry 3 lbs. extra. The stake closes at midnight Sept. 1, and will be run Oct. 8. Ornament, Ben Holladay, Tillo, On Deck, Havoc, Dutch Skater, Plaudit, The Huguenot and Pink Coat are long-distance horses that this stake will especially appeal to.

At the close of the two weeks' racing at Hawthorne, Daily Racing Form says: "The sport has been healthy, and the innovation of starting without the recall flag has been approved by the public, the horsemen and the bookmakers. It is a certainty that nine persons out of ten consider young Mr. Bruen a better starter than old Mr. Caldwell. The latter cannot be expected to do as well as he did in the years gone by. Nobody has anything but the kindliest feeling toward him, but some compare him to Captain A. C. Anson, whose day in baseball has gone by. Under the correct system of starting valuable time is saved. Saturday at Hawthorne the seven races were run in three hours and forty minutes, and, nevertheless, there was ample time for horseman and turf speculator to transact business."

Two horses were killed and two jockeys seriously injured Monday morning at St. Louis while working out. Sam Van Leer up on Bill Dawdy and Martin Claycroft astride Judge Dehouse were exercising the horses on the track. The boys were riding in opposite directions and were coming down the track next the rail. Both horses were going at top speed. They came together with terrific force, throwing the boys heavily to the ground. The youngsters were not rendered unconscious, and their screams could be heard for a block. A score of stable men and owners rushed up and extricated the boys from beneath the horses. The backs of the horses were broken by the contact, but they were breathing when their owners, Horn and Kavanaugh, rushed up. They saw that the racing days of the horses were over, and ordered both shot. Dawdy won one race in twenty-one starts last year, and Dehouse had one winning in fourteen starts. Van Deer is injured internally and his right thigh fractured. He was sent to the City Hospital. Claycroft has a fractured hip and arm, and is at the Mullenphy Hospitel.

Judge Rose scratched Lizzie Cavalier in a race at Hawthorne the other day and notified W. A. McConnell, in whose name the filly was entered, that no more of his entries would be received until proof positive was produced that Charles Richcreek has nothing to do with the McConnell stable of horses. The action was a necessary consequence of a race run at Latonia some years ago, wherein the mare Linnetta performed so discreditably that the owner, E. T. McConnell, was suspended indefinitely. Charles Richcreek was the trainer of Linnetta and he also was suspended indefinitely. Capt. Rees told W. A. McConnell yesterday that he was satisfied that Richcreek is still connected with the McConnell stable. The owner said, "No, you are mistaken," whereupon the judge emphatically said, "You will have to make affidavit. I am determined to probe this matter to the bottom." E T. McConnell has been reinstated. He first sued the Latonia judges for $10,000, then withdrew the suit. Afterwards he raced under injunction. Again he was turned down by the Turf Congress Board of Appeals, but finally by proving that he was not connected with the Linnette race had the ban removed. Charles Richcreek has never been reinstated. Nothing holds over W. A. McConnell.

MARTIMAS WINS THE FUTURITY.

First Money in the Richest American Stake Goes to a Son of Imp. Candlemas.

New York, August 23.—Fifteen thousand people saw Martimas, at the long odds of 40 to 1, win the great Futurity Stakes at Sheepshead Bay to-day, High Degree coming in second, while the public's choice was nowhere. The day was excessively hot. The delay at the post was the longest on record in this country, even beating Pettingill's Chicago Derby, which was an hour and thirty minutes. The horses, the starter said, were well behaved, and so he proceeded to administer fines and lihitnm and set down for a week four of the jockeys, including Sloan.

At the opening of the betting Autumn was a favorite over the Fleischmann stable's Dr. Eichberg and Sir Hubart, and at the end was really the favorite, although his price was a little higher, but then it was one horse against two. The Madden string—Glenheim, Rhinelander and Scannell—was next in favorism, and down in the ring, where it was like a furnace, the men tumbled over each other in their eagerness to put up their money on their choice.

The parade to the post began at five minutes past four and the twenty-three youngsters cantered up the track.

Then began the delay. Several times the starter descended to the track and gave the boys a talking to, but to no use. It was 5:37 when the twentieth and last break came, exactly one hour and thirty-two minutes after they reached the post, and for so many youngsters it was really a good start. They were practically in line, the only one out of it being Duke of Middleburg, who was to all intents and purposes left at the post.

High Degree was the first away with a little the better of Prestidigitatrice, Rusher, Sir Hubert, His Lordship, Scannel and Martimas, the others being close enough to have a chance. Maher, the quick-witted lightweight, dug his heels into High Degree and set sail for the pole. In a few strides the filly had her nose in front of Rusher. Inch by inch at first, then foot by foot, and the short first furlong had been covered with High Degree a half length in front of Rusher; a couple of lengths in front of Autumn, on whom Taral was struggling hard in the deep going on the outside of the chute. Prestidigitatrice was only a neck behind, with Scannell, Martimas, His Lordship and Sir Hubert following and all the others well up. It was anybody's race then.

The chute was narrowing now and all were seeking a good place in which to round the bend into the main track. Maher wanted the hard going at the rail, but Rusher clung to High Degree like a leech and would not be shaken off. Two furlongs had been covered and High Degree was still a half length in front of Rusher, who was then only a neck in front of the favorite, Autumn, who was a nose in front of Sir Hubert, he in turn a neck in front of the Canadian, Martimas. Prestidigaitrice was falling out of it and Armament was getting prominent.

Now came a hustle, for the turn was at hand. All the boys were working like demons to get to the front. Rusher stopped as if he had been shot and then how Maher did ride! Crouching low on High Degree's neck he drove her with hands and heels and when there was not a quarter of a mile to go he was a length and a half in front; but he did dera to swing over against the rail now, as he was far out on the track.

Lewis, however, had gradually worked to the rail and as they turned into the homestretch he was in the coveted hard ground.

And how Martimes was flying! He was already in second place at the quarter, two lengths in front of Rusher, who was a length in front of Mr. Clay, who was in a bunch with Dr. Eichberg, Sir Hubert and His Lordship. Now the last furlong pole was reached and Little Maher saw Martimas rush by on the firm, hard footing against the rail, while the tired filly under him was stopping in the deep dust and Autumn, Mr. Clay and Dr. Eichberg, with Sloan on the latter, finishing in his best style, were trying to wrest the second place away from him. For an instant Autumn had his nose in front of the filly, and then stopped as if he had been shot and finished away back.

Then Maher worked harder then ever, and although he could not catch the Canadian in front, who won easily by a couple of lengths, he could and did get the second money by a half-length. There was a pretty struggle for third place between Williams on Mr. Clay and Sloan on Dr. Eichberg and the former got it by a head. The remainer of the bunch were so close together at the end of the race that it was impossible to seperate the horses.

The boys who caused the delay at the start were fined $200 apiece and Sloan, Clawson, Penn and Murphy were suspended for a week.

The summary of the race was as follows:

The Futurity—About six furlongs.

Martimas, 118 (40 to 1 and 15 to 1)	Lewis 1
High Degree, 113 (10 to 1 and 4 to 1)	Maher 2
Mr. Clay, 118 (30 to 1 and 10 to 1)	Williams 3

Time—1:12 2-5.

Glenheim, Rhinelander, Scannel, Aboma, Sir Hubert, Dr. Eichberg, Armament, The Kentuckian, Captain Sigsbee, Autumn, Rusher, Prestidigitatrice, Duke of Middleburg, La Peninente, Veracious, Bangor, His Lordship, Sanford, the Lady in Blue and Anagram also ran.

MONTANA AND COLORADO MEETINGS.

Dillon, Montana	Sept. 21st to 24th

THE SUCCESSFUL MEETING, which will close to-day at Santa Rosa after six days of remarkable racing shows what can be done in some of our interior towns by an effort on the part of the citizens. While Santa Rosa is the shire town of a good country and is a very prosperous place of probably six thousand people, there are several other towns in the State similarly situated and capable of holding meetings which should rank with many of the best on the Eastern circuits. Not more than a half dozen gentlemen did all the work that made the Santa Rosa meeting successful. They were aided by a very liberal contribution from the business men of the town, and the good will of the entire community, but the half dozen did the actual work and rustling necessary to bring the meeting about. What made their work successful was the absence of that class which so often exists in other places, and which not only refuse to aid such enterprises, but does all in its power to decry them. The Santa Rosa people seemed to be unanimous in their desire to make the meeting a success. The three banks of the town closed their doors at noon every day during the week and the officers found seats in the grand stand at the track with their families. On Santa Rosa day nearly every business house in town closed its doors and everybody went to the races. To-day another very large crowd is expected, as excursions are to run from both ends of the county, with special trains to convey passengers home after the meeting. Had this been a District Fair, with appropriations sufficient for premiums and the pavilion filled with a display of the many products of that rich and productive section, ten times the number of people would have visited Santa Rosa during the week, and the hotels could hardly have accommodated the crowd. As it was, the meeting was of great benefit to Santa Rosa, put a large sum of money in circulation among all classes and did good all around. With the old-fashioned fair restored a far greater good can be accomplished.

The Santa Rosa meeting teaches this lesson: Success will follow harmony and effort. Many of the towns in California are suffering to-day because there is schism and antagonism among the citizens. More than one splendid agricultural park and buildings are in a decaying condition, not because the people have lost interest, but because too many of those individuals known by the slang term of "knockers" have been on the boards of directors. The probability is very strong that the appropriations for district fairs will be restored this winter, and it only remains for the district boards to be energetic and harmonious to assure such a year of prosperity in 1899 as will make all former fairs look insignificant in comparison with those given next summer. There is not a horticultural, agricultural, breeding or mechanical industry in California but will be benefitted by the resumption of the district fairs. And as Horace Greeley said, the way to resume is to resume. Renew the appropriations, renew the pavilion exhibits, renew the premiums for live stock, renew the "all pull together" idea that once existed and success will follow. Remember that this is the greatest State in the greatest country on earth and that our resources are almost boundless and only await development, which can be greatly aided and brought about by the renewal of the district fairs.

SOMETHING NEW in conditions has been gotten up by Secretary Lewis Thorne, of District Agricultural Association No. 6 of Los Angeles. In the 2:15 and the 2:20 trotting and the 2:12 and 2:19 pacing races at the meeting to be held in that city this year, it is expected there will be quite a large number of entries. To insure close contests, avoid the laying up of heats and make every driver do his best, the Association has adopted the following condition, which applies only to the four races mentioned:

"In case there are more than seven starters, the last two horses past the wire in each heat until the number of starters left shall not be more than seven, shall go to the stable, and be out of the race; in each succeeding heat the last horse past the wire shall go to the stable, and shall not start again in that race. In case of seven or less starters, then only the last horse past the wire shall go to the stable, and not start again in that race: There will be no distance flag in these races."

On first view this plan looks like an excellent one. It is not the distanced horse that is sent to the stable, but the last horse, and there is certain to be a strong effort on the part of every driver not to be last past the wire. Should a large field line up for the start in any race, there will not only be racing for the places, but there will be racing to avoid being last, which will be much more exciting than racing to beat the flag as the contest will last clear to the end of the mile and will certainly attract the attention and arouse the interest of the spectators. The only objection we have heard offered was made by a horseman at Santa Rosa this week who said that in a five-heat race with six starters there would be but two horses left for the last heat, and therefore third and fourth moneys would revert to the Association. We do not believe the Los Angeles Association intended to take the third and fourth moneys away from the purse by any such method, but that the four moneys will be paid in all these purses. "Contests are what we want," said Secretary Thorne Monday when in this office, "and by this plan we think we can get them." It is a new plan at least, and is one more of many that have been devised to prevent the laying up of heats. We hope it will be given a fair trial at least, and we are certain the horsemen can depend that it is not a scheme devised to deprive them of any of their rights.

VANCOUVER AND VICTORIA will give meetings in September, full particulars as to which appear in our advertising columns. The great northwest should be the ideal place for fall racing, and while the population is not as dense as it is in this vicinity the interest taken in all kinds of sport is probably greater. The betting on the running events in those towns is said to be heavier in proportion to the population than any place in America. Horsemen who are not engaged here could visit the northern country with profit.

RICH STAKES have been arranged to the number of twenty-six by the California Jockey Club, to be run at the coming meeting. An outline of what they are is given in another page of this issue, and the full advertisement with conditions, etc., will appear the first week in September. These stakes will close September 26th.

THE OCCIDENTAL HOTEL at Santa Rosa has been the headquarters for the horsemen during the meeting. Messrs. D. G. Bane & Sons certainly know how to look after the comforts of their guests and everything is as neat as a pin in and about this splendid caravansary.

KLATAWAH won another race at Dubuque, Ia., last Thursday, but did not have to beat 2:09½, which is play for him. A three-year-old called Bob Fitzsimmons went to the half in 1:01½, the first heat, but he could not stand the clip and Klatawah beat him to the wire and then won the other two without any trouble in 2:09½ and 2:11. There were seven starters in the race.

Harness Racing.

[Western Horseman.]

That there is a general revival of public interest in harness racing throughout the country is patent to all observers. There are several good reasons for this. In the first place, the harness race horse naturally holds first place in the affections of civilized people, because he is the most useful, most beautiful and most entertaining of the domestic animals. Next comes the fact that harness racing, as now conducted, is the most decorous and genteel of all outdoor sports, and harness race horses of to-day are owned and raced by gentlemen. Trainers and drivers, at least a sweeping majority of them, are couth and cultured gentlemen, and of the the grooms—formerly sneeringly called "swipes"—the same thing is very generally true. Then comes the additional fact—possibly the most attractive feature to the general public, that nearly every harness race nowadays furnishes a genuine contest for superiority. A few years ago harness racing fell somewhat into disfavor with the general public through the workings of winter closing stakes, which often resulted in a practical "walkover" in the very events from which the greatest sport was naturally expected. Then the few phenomenals got all of the money, and that without amusing any one except the owner. Now, nearly all stakes and purses close so near the date of the race, and our horses possess such a uniformity in speed capabilities, that a contest results in nearly every race carded at a trotting meeting, and the general public gets that for which gate fees are paid—entertainment and excitement. Then, too, there is something in harness racing meets for the business public, and this adds support to the sport. A harness racing meeting brings a money-spending transient population to the place at which it is held, and in this way the business public derives a pleasing benefit from harness racing. Patrons of the trotting turf are not "cheap" people in any sense of the word, and neither are they "toughs" and spendthrifts. Speaking of "cheap" people, we may be pardoned for referring to the much-heralded National L. A. W. meet held in this city last week. Indianapolis business men, following their course of unsurpassed liberality, contributed a handsome—almost fabulous—sum of money toward the support of the meet and entertainment of visitors, but not in the history of public entertainments and conventions in Indianapolis has anything fell so flat as did this "stupendous" "wheel meet." It was one of the national conventions held in Indianapolis to which the business public of Indianapolis will never "refer with pride." The wheel is, in fact, no longer a rival of the horse as an element of usefulness, pleasure, pastime or entertainment. The light harness horse is king. "Long live the king."

THE Westchester Racing Association has opened, to be run at its Autumn meeting, at Morris Park, October 8th, the Morris Park Special, $5,000, for three-year-olds and upward two miles, over the Withers course. Three-year-olds will carry 117 pounds; four year-olds and upward, 130 pounds; mares and geldings allowed three pounds; the winner of the Brighton Cup to carry three pounds extra. This is a move in the right direction and it is to be hoped that the race will fill. Entries will close September 1st.

THE fall meeting to be held in Portland promises to be one of the best ever held on the Irvington track. For the past ten days Secretary J. O. Mack has been in correspondence with the horsemen throughout the Northwest, in order that he may ascertain what horses they have in training and their records, etc., so that races may be provided for all.

THE Western Horseman remarks that the old mare, Viola (dam of Sacramento Girl, 2:30 etc.), by Flaxtail, is likewise the granddam of the three Ralph Wilkes performers, Thersites, 2:30¾; Mabratta 2:24¾, and Marcella, 2:29. It is an error about Thersites being by Ralph Wilkes. He is by Alcantere.

ARRANGEMENTS for the two days meeting to be given at Ingleside track by the Gate Park Driving Association are progressing most satisfactorily. It is bound to be one of the most successful ever given by this organization and is certain to draw a large attendance to the track.

JENNIE, by Bull Pup, dam of Hulda 2:08½, and grand dam of Dione 2:09½, is said to be the first mare to produce one in the 2:10 list and also the dam of one.

JOCKEY SLOAN is himself authority for the statement that he may ride for James R. Keene in 1899.

CONCERNING TROUT.

What Is Their Favorite Food and When Do They Feed?

Editor Breeder and Sportsman:—What is the chief and favorite food of the trout? This question has, no doubt, been very often asked, but I do not now remember to have ever read of or heard a satisfactory answer.

True, the generally accepted opinion and belief is that they eat flies, bugs, worms and all manner of other winged insects. To a certain extent, trout also may devour grass and tender roots growing along the bottom and banks of streams and lakes. But still these theories do not satisfactorily answer the question.

I have often fished for trout in streams and lakes where no insects of any sort could be discovered. The sides and bottoms of these fishing places were either solid rock or composed entirely of sand and gravel. My experience in this respect is similar to that of scores of fishermen with whom I have discussed this very subject.

Then, again, comes the question: Have trout any particular time for feeding? There are certain times when trout will not bite under any circumstances. You cannot tempt them to nibble; you cannot allure the timid creatures from their hiding places, no matter what kind of bait you may use.

Sometimes you may fish for days in a stream or lake, the waters of which abound in trout, and yet get very few, if any strikes. Sometimes the trout will bite voraciously during dark and cloudy weather; then, again, they will not look at your hook. Often they will snap up your hook, when the day is clear, and the sun shines brightly; then sometimes they shy away at their own shadows.

Recently I was talking about these peculiarities of the trout with an old and experienced angler.

"I have caught trout," he said, "under all possible circumstances—in a heavy rain storm, in cloudy weather, on bright clear days, and even, would you believe it, after night, when it was pitch dark. They are a strange fish when it comes to eating. I have angled for hours in places where the water fairly teemed with trout. I could see hundreds of them, but I could not induce one to touch the hook. Just by way of experiment, I have tried all sorts of baits without success. What do they feed upon and when do they eat? Well, I am an old fisherman, but I give it up. Of course, we know that they do eat worms, insects, grass and roots, But I have seen hundreds and even thousands of them in places where I know there were but very few bugs or insects. How could they all subsist there and grow fat?

"I must confess that their peculiarities of taste, appetite, and their mode of living are mysterious to me. Often you can haul them out with one kind of bait, when they won't look at any other.

"The last time I was out fishing I had an experience in that line. One day I caught thirty-two fine trout with a brown hackle. I tried every other colored fly without a particle of success. They would not touch them. The next day the fellows would not look at any kind of fly but one with deep orange colored wings and a bluish body. Why? I don't know."

A few weeks ago I was out on a fishing excursion on Blanchard creek, away up amongst the wild mountains of northwestern Idaho. There were four in the party. We had excellent success—caught about 600 fine trout in less than two days. Nothing but brown hackle seemed to tempt these fish. Sometimes for hours they would not touch even that colored fly, nor would they notice worms or grasshoppers.

One of our party caught a whopper—a genuine rainbow trout. On cutting his fishship open judge of our surprise to find two full grown common house mice in his stomach. From appearances the mice had just been swallowed.

Blanchard Creek, from source to mouth, flows through a wild, rugged region. Now, the question might be asked: How came house mice along such a water course, and how did his troutship manage to snap them up?

I have caught trout a number of times with frogs in their maws. But there is nothing remarkable about that.

I have often fished for black bass and perch, but could never allure them with flies. A live minnow is the favorite bait for bass; as for perch, a small piece of fish is good enough for them. They are cannibals and will devour their own kindred.

Grasshoppers and worms and, often, a fish's eye, will capture a hungry trout. But I have seen it tried many times without success.

I should like to hear from some experienced angler on this matter. Perhaps he might be able to throw light on an opaque subject. J. M. Baltimore.

Spokane (Wash.), August 22, 1898.

Salmon fishing in Monterey bay is good. Sea bass also are being caught there in large numbers.

Boca is still the Mecca of the angler. The Truckee is in excellent condition again.

Fly-Casting Ties.

The cast-off of the ties last Sunday at Stow Lake resulted in Horace Smyth winning the first-class medal in long distance casting. The scores were H. Smyth 100 feet, F. H. Reed 98 feet. In the delicacy and accuracy event H. C Golcher scored 82½ per cent and F. H. Reed 78 1 3 per cent, thus giving the first-class medal in this competion to Golcher. The correct list of the medal-winning fly-casters for the season of 1898 are the following gentlemen: Long distance, champion class, W. D. Mansfield; first class, H. Smyth; second class, H. Battu. Distance and accuracy, champion class, Dr. E. N. Lowry; first class, H. F. Muller. Accuracy and delicacy, champion class, Dr. E. N. Lowry; first class, H. C. Golcher.

The three Italian fish dynamiters, Frank Braccalini, G Burgina and Francisco Battoni, were convicted in the Superior Court at Ukiah on August 19th before a jury on one ballot. The case was submitted without argument. Judge Mannon fined them each $250, with the alternative of 150 days in jail. This conviction is due principally to the active interest in the arrest and subsequent proceedings taken by Fish Commissioner Aleck T. Vogelsang and Deputy Chas. A. Vogelsang. The county authorities ably assisted the State officers in these cases. Several of the gang are still at large. The fact that they now have a wholesome fear of the law officers and apparently realize that game laws are enacted for the purpose of being respected has prompted overtures to Constable Wilton of Cloverdale for a settlement of the remaining cases on payment of a $100 fine. (The minimum fine is $250). General satisfaction has been expressed at the disposition of these cases, as it was the first time such a charge had ever been preferred against any one in Mendocino county, although different suspects have been under surveillance. Great interest was taken in the case by local fishermen and members of the Sportsman's Club.

Mr. G. J Peters, of San Jose, offers in our advertising columns to day (see page 144) a fine thoroughbred English setter dog pup.

Hunting on the Country Club and Tamalpais Gun Club grounds last Sunday was prevented by the heavy fogs which closed down on the Marin county hills.

F. M. Haight, of Clabrough, Golcher & Co., left for Glenwood last Saturday, on a ten days' vacation. He expects to divide his time enjoying the sports afforded by fishing and hunting in Monterey county.

The Black Jacks are making elaborate preparation for the coming duck season. The grounds at Antioch are being placed in presentable condition for the visiting quackers this fall. It is probable that a new club house, built of corrugated iron, will shortly be erected; this will prevent some of the new members from falling overboard into the slough on dark nights.

The opening of the game season this fall will find a well-known Eastern sportsman in the ranks of the hunters. Harvey McMurchy, who has often expressed a desire to spend a portion of the fall and winter months on the coast when our shooting season is on, is due to arrive in this city about October 1st. It is needless to say that "Mac" will be given a royal welcome by the coast sportmen.

A league for the protection of game and fish in Fresno county has been formed at Fresno under the auspices of the local gun club and Sportsmen's Association. The special object, is, to remedy the present deplorable conditions under which game is slaughtered wholesale by pothunters and fish in the streams almost exterminated by unscrupulous parties. One of the first aims of the league will be to enforce the law requiring a fish larder to be put in at the Miller & Lux dam near Firebaugh on the San Joaquin. Up to about ten years ago this river swarmed with salmon for thirty miles above the dam, whereas now, not one is to be seen. Two years ago 10,000 black bass were placed in the stream, nearly all of which have been swept over the dam. The association will have branches in Selma, Fowler and Sanger. The association also propose to take immediate action towards securing a stock of pheasants to be placed in favorable localities for propagating.

Travelers on the Mojave desert report that a noticeable feature of that region this year is the disappearance of the snakes, horned toads and lizards that are usually to be seen by the hundreds. No explanation of such a condition has been offered.

The Berkeley Gun Club was recently organized in Berkeley. The officers of the club are: R H. Delsfield, President; W. C. Mason, Vice-President; E. D. Keith, Secretary and Treasurer; J. C. Jensen, Dr. J. A. D. Hutton, W. T. Harding, Dr. H. N. Rowell and Chas. McClain, Board of Directors.

E J. Pfeifer and Will Shreve returned last Monday from a two weeks' outing in Mendocino county. They went by stage thirty-two miles from Ukiah to Hearst, and then "packed in" thirteen miles to Sanhedrin mountain. Four bucks was the result of their efforts to bag venison. The deer in that district are now very shy and hard to get at, having been hunted very much since the season opened.

A chance is offered for big game in Monterey county, recent reports from Salinas state that mountain lions are very numerous in the foothills just south of that city, and with increasing numbers are becoming very troublesome to the ranchers. The beasts, being driven out of the mountains by the excessive drought and consequently scarcity of prey, prowl around the ranch houses and if the slightest opportunity is offered attack any kind of stock. Pleasant Thompson, a prominent rancher of the foothills, while out hunting at night shot and wounded a large lion. It being very dark he waited until daylight before making investigations. In the morning, accompanied by his dog, he tracked the wounded lion to its den, where he found the female and three small cubs, which he quickly dispatched. These last make six killed on the Thompson place this month.

The many friends of that jovial sportsman, John Lemmer, the president of the Black Jacks, will be pleased to learn of his complete recovery from a deafness in both ears, that threatened at times to become a serious impediment to the transaction of business—it is a well-known fact, that of all places, keen hearing is absolutely necessary in a boiler-making shop. Mr. Lemmer has been placed in embarassing positions frequently by reason of his infirmity; upon one occasion, we are told, whilst endeavoring to be placed on a jury panel in Department No. 5 of the Superior Court, actuated by a desire to fulfill his duties as a citizen and tax-payer, Attorney Billy Barnes noticed Lemmer's efforts to hear the proceedings in court more clearly by leaning forward, or involuntarily using his hand as an ear trumpet—the astute attorney drew the line at deafness where he might not have objected to a wooden-head, and made known to the judge the apparent disability of one of the venire. Lemmer, upon being interrogated by the Court, sotto voce, showed by his answers and questions that he was ineligible for jury duty and was excused. Lemmer's chagrin was all the greater when he was politely handed a note by the clerk of the court, stating that he had been excused fifteen minutes previously and need not sit there all day.

President Lemmer owes his recovery to the "chucked ice" treatment prescribed by Prof. Markland, which treatment is in the nature of counter irritation; this method is also good for defective eye sight, a number of the Duck Club members have taken this treatment, the "throws" of which are marvelous in improving sight and vision.

A Day at Point San Pedro.

The Emporium Fishing Club availed themselves of the fine weather last Sunday and had a very successful day surf-casting at Point San Pedro. President Neuman landed a three and one-half pound sea trout. The total catch for the day weighed seventy-two pounds; the fish were sea trout, red-tail and silver perch, rock-fish and capazoni. The members of this fishing club are: President Neuman, C. C. McDonald, H. Guggenheim, R. Aaron, H. Clark, W. G. Naoman, J. G. Leikens, D. Luhlimer, C. L. Hexter.

Last Days of the Trap Season.

The regular trap shoots at blue-rocks to-morrow will be the meet of the Olmpic Gun Club at Ingleside and the shoot of the South End Gun Club at Colma.

For the month of September a number of final events are scheduled for local shooters, among them we note: On Sunday, Sept 4th, the live-bird shoot of the California Wing Club at Ingleside, and the blue-rock shoot of the Golden Gate Gun Club at Alameda; on the second Sunday of the month the Olympic Gun Club pigeon shoot at Ingleside and the Empire Gun Club's blue-rock shoot at Alameda junction will be the attractions. On Sunday, Sept. 18th, the annual picnic and live-bird shoot of the Lincoln Gun Club promises a splendid day's sport and outing for the shotgun enthusiasts. The regular trap season will wind up on the fourth Sunday at Ingleside, the occasion being the final blue-rock shoot of the Olympic Gun Club.

The series of six live-bird shoots this season of the Olympic Gun Club shows the following classification of the shooters for the final medal competion.

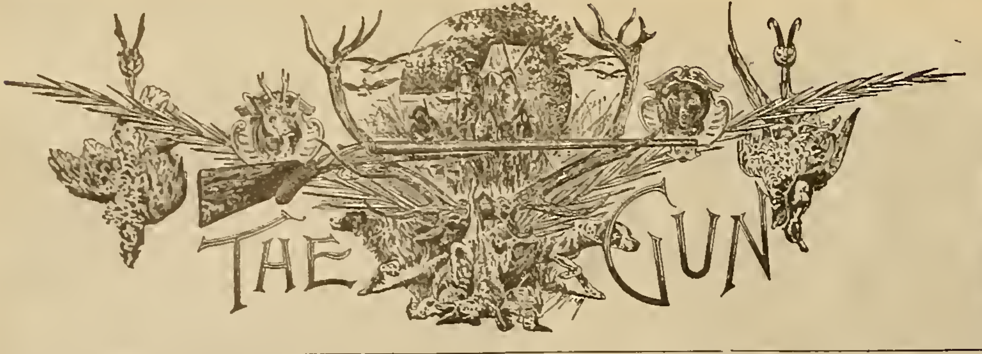
These races were at twelve birds per man; for place in the championship class a score of sixty-two or better was necessary, a score of less than sixty-two and not less than fifty-four placed the shooter in the first class, and a score of less than fifty four gave position in the second class. In the final shoot each contestant will shoot at twenty-five pigeons; the medal in each class will go to the shooter, who, including the score of next month's shoot, will show the highest average for the seven shoots of this season.



Lincoln Gun Club Shoot

The sixth and final blne rock shoot for the season of the Lincoln Gun Club was held last Sunday at Alameda Point. The day was an ideal one for trap-shooting. The large attendance not only of club members, hut representative shooters from other gun clubs and various parts of the interior was noticeable. Among the visitors were C. C. Holden and H. Mensfield of Nape, O. M. Judy of Visalia, Dr. Barker of San Jose, F. A. Hodapp of Martinez, J. Ross of Antioch and others. This gathering of sportsmen was the banner club shoot for the season. Practice end pool shooting were in order before the regular events of the day; a remarkable score being made by a squad of six in a fifteen-bird event; five men, Otto Feudner, A. J. Webb, Joe Ross, E. Klevesahl and D. Daniels, broke a straight string of fifteen, C. Neumen missing one target, which gave the sextette a total of 89 ont of a possible 90. The applause of the spectators mede np in part the reward of the five high guns, who, when they divided the money, eech received less than the amount of their entrance fee.

A preliminary to the last regular clnb shoot for the season was the shooting-up of a number of heck scores, the shooters and scores in detail were as follows:

* Visitors, birds only.

In the regular club shoot at twenty-five targets, twenty-nine shooters wound np the blne-rock season for the Lincolns. In this event C. A. Twenty heing the highest score credited under the handicsp allowance in this shoot, the following shooters tied and were in on a choice for first prizes—Murdock, Ross, "Slade," Karney, Javette, Bruns, "Fox," Campbell, Dehenham, "Edwards and Eug. Forster. The prizes were selected by lot, the principal one, a gun, being won by Billy Murdock. The men who scored nineteen and had second choice of prizes were: Nauman, Daniels, Kerrison, Hodapp, Donnelly, Ostrander and Shackleton. The third high squad who broke and tied on eighteen were: Klevesahl, Wehb, Haight, O. Feudner, Shaw, Andrus, Price, "Mike," Bickerstaff, Wenzel, Barker, Palmer and Johns. Five shooters who tied on seventeen were: Flickinger, F. Feudner, Baum, Bekeart and Franzen. The list of prizes were thirty-six in number, whice were distributed among the thirty-six high guns above named.

A computation of the four best scores of each shooter during the season of monthly shoots (at twenty-five targets each, or a total of 100 blue rocks) shows the winners and totals in the classes as follows: First class—Haight 96, Nauman 96, Wehh 95, Feudner 93, Flickinger 92. Haight and Naumen divided first money, $40 00. Haight's total score was 97, but under the rules, he received a handicap loss of one bird hy reason of having been absent from two consecutive club shoots. Otto Feudner's total was 95 breaks, but his missing three shoots penelized his score two birds.

In the second class the scores were: Klevesehl 89, Franzen 89, Edg. Forster 89, Eug. Forster 88. The three former divided the purse of $35.

In the third class the totals were: W. J. Golcher 87, Bekeart 87, Daniels 87, McRae 87, Kerrison 86, Andrus 85, Bruns 84, Karney 84, Fischer 82. Golcher, Bekeart, Daniels and McRae divided $18 end Kerrison took second money, $12.

The fourth class scores were: Price 78, Wenzel 77, Shaw 76, Jevette 74, Baum 73, Sherock 68. First money, $15, was awerded to Price, and Wenzell received second money, $10.

The fifth class scores were: Shackelton 67, Ostrander 65, Mudd 62, Lacy 49, Williams 32. Shackelton received $12 for first money, and second money, $8, was won hy Ostrander.

Thn high average medal for the season was won by C. A. Nauman, who in the six regular shoots, hroke a total of 141 targets out of 150. The scores msde in the high average competition during the season were:

Nauman	141	Bekeart	124
O. Feudner	140	Kerr son	124
Webb	138	Golcher	122
Haight	137	Eug. Forster	121
Flickinger	133	Karney	122
Edg Forster	130	Bruns	122
Klevesahl	127	Daniels	121
Franzen	127	McRae	120

Kennel Suggestions.

The ametenr owner of dogs is often perplexed in what to do ebout the mother's milk when the litter dies elmost at birth, and e full flow of milk is on. Some kennel men think it is nnwise to drew off the milk, giving as e reeson that this only encourages secretion in the milk glands. Mr. Hugh Dalziel, who wrote many valnable articles on dogs and their ailments, recommends that the milk should be drawn off, even when the bitch, es so many have, has milk at the period when she should have had puppies. A great deal depends on circumstances, the flow of milk and the stete of the bitch's health and condition. There is little trouble among curs or dogs of low degree from lacteal tumors or any of these lacteal ills; it is the highly fed dog which gets into trouble, as a rule. The teats should be closely examined every day, and if there is any sign of lump or fever in the milk ducts, they should be attended to at once. This trouble is more common than is supposed, and arises from a variety of causes. An enlargement of the teats is unsightly, and if they increase in size there is a liability to injury in jumping over fences, galloping, and the flapping about so called.

The immediate cause of these tumors is the damming up of one of the the milk ducts, the teet is 'blind,' as it is called in dairy parlance, that is, the flow of milk through it is obstructed by some malformation; hut far oftener, according to Dalziel, the milk itself is the cause, that is to say, it is not drained off sufficiently, and then the milk hardens, acts es a foreign body, and, still further, as an irritent, hecause of its chemical decomposition; the effect of this is that more or less inflammation of the milk gland is produced, a hard lump forms and increases gradnally, and once hegun the evil develops more and more, and at each returning period after œstrum, when pupping has or should have taken place. It does not appear to be generally known by those who keep dogs that most hitches, especially of those that are well kept and carefully fed and housed, even if they have been secluded from the dog during the period of heat, will secrete milk at the time they would have pups had impregnation been allowed, but such is the case; and it is the duty of the owner to note the time and look out for the evidence of milk being secreted, and have it regularly drawn off hy a strange pup if the hitch will ellow it, and if not, by the hand, or by one of the many exhausters, giving at the same time a light diet, with an extra proportion of hoiled vegetables and a few doses of cooling aperient medicine. Permitting a hitch when in milk to lie on cold bricks or flags, or exposure in other ways to cold and damp, may also cause obstruction of the teat and subsequent tumor; and blows, bruises and wounds may also produce a like result. A not uncommon cause of these lacteal tumors is the hurried drying up of the milk hy artificial means It is sometimes desirable to destroy pups that are the result of a mesalliance, hut it is absolutely cruel to deprive the poor mother of all her progeny. In addition to their cruelty, there is always the risk of the flow of milk damming up one or more of the teats and producing tumor. Even if the poor bitch escapes tumor, milk fever is dangerous, hut fortunately thet is a comparatively rere canine disease.

The measure of prevention against lecteal tumors will, from the foregoing remarks, have suggested themselves to the reader. Nature has ordeined the female dog to bring forth young et least once in twelve months, end, though natnre permits ns to take certain liberties with her laws, if we go beyond certain lengths, disease follows as a punishment; even when we interfere with her preogative, it must not be hy direct contradiction, hnt hy diverting her forces into other channels. When we forbid the bitch to breed, we put an embargo on certain functions, and the energy that supplies and works these functions we divert hy exciting extra secretions of the howels, kidneys, etc., but the safest, because the most natural, prevention of disease, is to let the bitch hreed. Let the brood hitch have a comfortable, warm, dry and secluded place, wherein to nurse. During pregnancy give regular, but not violent exercise.

When it is desired to "dry" the bitch, thet is, to stop the secretion of milk, it is wrong to give alum and other astringents, and to rub brandy, etc., along the mamme. The object is more surely obtained gradually, and that without the risk of untoward results, hy drewing what milk there is off regularly, giving a spare diet, a good purge, followed hy two or three grains of iodide of potassium, twice a day, and rubbing well with the following liniment: Iodide of potassium, 2 drachms; soap liniment and oil of cemphor, of each, 2 n nces.

In all cases, leave her at least with one pup, and daily examine her to see whether the milk is drawn off completely, and if not, do so artificially.

When the tumor has formed, and the hitch is still in milk, draw the milk off twice a day, and, in any case, give a brisk purge, and keep her on a spare and rather dry diet, and to one of 30 lb. to 50 lbs. weight give twice a day three grains of iodide of potassium in about two tablespoonfuls of water, immediately after feeding, and apply twice or thrice a day the following ointment to the lumps or swelling:

Iodide of potassium	–	–	1 drachm
Powdered camphor	–	–	1 drachm
Strong mercurial ointment		–	½ ounce
Spermaceti ointment	–	–	1 ounce

Mix; rub a little in well, with gentle friction.

If these means do not prove sufficient for the dispersion of the swelling, add to the above ointment two scruples of resublimed iodide, dissolved in a little alcohol.

When the swelling has gone on so far unheeded that matter is formed, and becomes soft and ripe, which may be told by the fluctuating of the fluid under pressure of the fingers, there is nothing for it but the lancet, which should be inserted in the soft part, and a cut made downwards, to insure perfect drainage. The parts must be then frequently bathed, and the matter pressed out, washed with solution of Condy's fluid, and dressed with Turner's cerate, while the patient should have a good strong purge.

The symptoms of milk fever, not at all so common as it is feared to be, are apparent weakness, staggering, quick, hard breathing, hot dry nose and tongue, the tongue furred, the milk is suppressed, and the hitch shows extreme thirst. The only way to relieve her is to either apply ice to the head or relieve the bowels by clysters. Keep the bitch quiet, and provide a soft bed, so arranged that the head will be elevated.

Prolapsus of the vagina is rather a common complaint, especially among St. Bernards, and is as unsightly as it is annoying. It is as unsightly as it is annoying. It is a protrusion of the membrane of the vagina that leads to the womb, in the form of a red swelling, occurring during or after the period of heat. In treating, the part should be carefully washed and gently returned to its place, and then for a few days use the following injection: Tanic acid and glycerine, 1 ounce; water to make a pint. Inject with female syringe. Give the bitch gallic acid, 18 grains; alum, 12 grains; mix, and make this into six equal powders, giving one powder twice daily, first dissolving in hot water, but allow this to cool before administering. This dose will suit anything from a pug up; for smaller dogs, a half teaspoonful will be enough.—American Stock-Keeper.

Union Coursing Park.

At Union Park last week sixty dogs started in the first rounds of the open stake on Saturday. On Sunday the concluding rounds were finished and Curtis & Son's good dog Rosetta again won first prize, beating Pasha Kennels' imp. Matallic in the final. The money in the stake was divided as follows: Curtis & Son's Rosetta, $120; Pasha Kennels' Metallic, $80; Curtis & Son's Cavelier and Maud S., $50 each; Al Austin's Glenstone, E. and R Scott's Lord Byron, and T. J. Cronin's Magnet, $35 each; the next seven, $20 each, and the next fifteen, $7.50 each.

CHARLESTON, S. C.

Dear Sir—I have used Glover's Mange Cure for mange, skin diseases, and for destroying fleas, and find it the best remedy I ever got hold of. It's sure pop, and never fails when properly applied. THEO. G. DOUGAN, Horse Dealer.

Ingleside Coursing Park.

The stake for non-winning dogs embraced seventy-two entries at Inglesida last week. In the Saturday coursing the short-enders, who nearly always quit the game loser, had a happy day of it, fully one-half of the run-down being won by short-end dogs. On Sunday quite a crowd was in attendance. The day was elegant for coursing. The money in the non-winners' stake was divided as follows: Lottia M., $100; Liberty Ball, $60; Sonhrette, $37.50, the next two, $27.50, the next four $20 each; the next nine, $12.50 each, and the next eighteen $7 50 each.

The champion stake, with sixteen entries, was run off last. In the third round Connemara beat Rosie R. and Billy Gladstone, after an undecided, beat Moondyne. This left J. Dean's Connemara and J. Eagan's Billy Gladstone in for the final, but owing to the lateness of the hour and some fog gathering on the upper end of the park, the pair did not run off. First and second money, $230, was divided between them. J. Dean's Moondyne and G. J. McInernay's Rosie R. took $55 each; Handy & Smith's Ida, T. J. McInerney's Johnny R., A. Hough's Hadiwist and Handy & Smith's Victor took the balance, $30 each.

S Hansen's L S Conley beat J Cox's Clifton's Lass, 4—2; B Dougherty's Heather Bell beat Deckelman & Panario's Glen Chloe, 8—5; Rossell & Wilson's Victor Queen beat W Sweeney's La Juive, 6—0; H & W Kennels' Burlington beat Henry Spring's Bill Nye, 5—3; Napoleon Kennels' Pacific Queen beat J Dean's Hazel Glen, 6—0; I L Sears' Beauty beat James Byroes' Nelly B, 11—3; J Quane's Captain Morse beat B Dougherty's Palmer Hill, 5—0; Lynch & Maher's Lottia M beat J Cox's Mission Tip, 5—0; Handy & Smith's Persimmons beat Kay & Trant's Masterpiece 4—1; P Reilly's Master Mat beat J I O'Brien's Miss Perkins 6—2; E Campbell's Lea Boy beat G Smart's Chiquita, 5—4; Deckelman & Panario's Royal Oak beat J Farley's Mystic, 5½—4½; Lynch & Maher's Liberty beat T J Cronin's Reliable, 6—5; P Gaffney's Sprig o' the Hill beat Napoleon Kennels' Decorator, 8—6; W Dalton's Decency beat Larkey & Rock's Emerald, 7—1; D Shannon's Systematic beat D Kaher's Belle of Moscow, 7—4; W Perry's Campania beat Lynch & Maher's Fair View, 5—0; T McHugh's Matchless beat J Saxsmith's Marjorie, 14—0; J Quane's Thad Stevens beat M Allen's Miss Alice, 12—9; Derby Kennals' Little Dorrit beat Lowe & Thompson's Phoebe, 8—10, Lynch & Maher's Dakota beat Napoleon Kennals' Firsball, 7—2; Russell & Wilson's Victor Chief beat S E Portal's Our Boy, 14—5; Larkey & Rock's Liba ty Bell beat Penelope Kennels' San Mateo, 5—0; Gibson & Moore's Monitor beat J I O'Brien's Statesman, 5—0; Kay & Trant's Innisfallen beat M Sullivan's Santa Bella, 8—2; J Farley's Tullamora beat J Wiseman's Damsel, 14—0; P O'Donnell's Counterfeit beat Kay & Trant's Chit Chat, 8—2; G Smart's Silkwood beat G Thomas' Sir Walter, 8—0; Darby Kennels' Mona beat Max Herzog's Little Dalight, 5—3; D Shannon's Sonhrette beat William Halpin's Dauntless, 6—3; R Pringle's Gladys Pasha beat Captain Clarkson's Kerry Gow, 3—0; A Vandenberg's Hobson beat P Gaffney's Lorraine, 9—7; Kay & Trant's Sylvia beat Max Herzog's Lanky Bob, 2—0; Alfred Haigh's Hattel beat R W Wyman's Rush o' the Hill, 10—6; J Strand's Newshoy beat San Mateo in a bye, Telephone Girt absent, 5—0; Penalopa Kennals' Las Palmas beat D Chillas' St Nicholes, 6—4.

On Sunday the results were as follows:

Non-winner's Stake: Second Round—L S Conley heat Heather Bell; Victor Queen beat Burlington; Pacific Queen beat Beauty; Lottia M beat Captain Morse; Master Mat beat Persimmons; Royal Oak beat Lea Boy; Liberty Bell beat Sprig o' Hill; Systematic beat Decancy; Matchless beat Campanis; Little Dorritt heat Thad Stevens; Dakota baat Victor Chief; Liberty Ball beat Monitor; Tullamora beat Innisfallen; Silkwood baat Counterfeit; Sonhrette heat Mona; Gladys Pasha beat Hobson; Sylvia beat Hattie; Newshoy beat Las Palmas.

Third Round—Connemara beat Rosia R; Billy Gladstone beat Moondyne.

E. M. Oldham has recently arrived in New York from England.

Pembroka Kennels' Sylvanus who went through the grueling course with Lady Campbell, in which the latter dog died on the field, has entirely recovered and will probably be in the game again in a month's time.

The regular monthly meeting of the Pacific Mastiff Club will be held this evening at 8 P. M. at 405 Powell street. Business of importance will be transacted, and a large attendance of members is therefore expected.

Fred Butler was recently commissioned by Mrs. Phoeba Hearst to execute an oil painting of Verona Kennels' English setter Count Gladstone IV. Connoisseurs and fanciers who have seen the painting pronounce it not only a beautiful work of art, but a marvelously accurate picture of the well known English setter crack.

H. A. Wegener will soon be in receipt of a handsome gold medal which was ordered for him by Superintendent E. M. Oldham in New York. Mr. Wegenar won the special prize of $25 offered at the S. F. K. C. bench show this year by Mr. Oldhem for the exhibitor scoring the highest number of points. Instead of accepting the money he commissioned Mr. Mr. Oldham to procure an appropriate medal for that amount.

The management of Union Park have acted wisely in ruling that in future the withdrawing of a dog from a stake will not be permitted except with the consent of the field and slip stewards. This consent will be withheld unless the dog is physically incapacited from running. Charges have been made in the past that certain dogs had been withdrawn from a stake for the purpose of favoring the other dogs. Under this decision such a proceeding in the future will be impossible.

"The foiling of a recent attempt by outsiders to enter the dog Premier, disguised with dyes, under the name of Judge B., shows that the coursing managers are alert to prevent frauds. Notwithstanding the rivalry between the parks the respective managements agree upon one thing, and that is, that coursing must be kept on the square."

"The owners of greyhounds who use "dope" on the dogs must be brought up with a round turn. The use of the hypodarmic syringe has been outlewed by horse racing associations, and now that so much money is lost and won and so much invested in coorsing the betting public must be protected. The running of certain small kennels recently has become the talk of the town among leashmen—a crying disgrace to the sport, and the use of the 'dops' is blamed for it all. The schema is an old one. Dogs that run poorly and are veritable lurchers are given the hypodermic injection, and turn out for the nonce to be marvelous performers. The owner, who is alone in the secret, makes a killing. The next time the dog runs he is the favorite, but the owner omits the 'hop' and plays the other dog, making another killing. A well-known physician is the real owner of one of the kennels that is most talked about, though the dogs are entered in another's name. It behooves the owners of Union Park to watch the game pretty carefully, as it is notorious around town that some one is projecting a killing for that coursing park next Saturday and Sunday."

"Close attention was paid to suspicious characters by detectives employed by the association for the purpose of unearthing, if possible, any attempt that may have been made by gambling fiends who have been known to "doctor" dogs. Some of those vandals who are marked as destroyers of the sport were conspicuous by their absence".

Rumor has been strong frequently that "something was done" at various times in the past, to doctor the chances in the game at both coursing parks, and to the credit of the respective menagements, be it said, they have always been prompt in the ponishment of the guilty parties when discovered. It has been the general history of all sporting games, where the element of betting was the strong factor in keeping the sport going, that human ingennity to beat the game has kept pace with the efforts of the general public to win on form, judgment and merit and our coursing parks, through whose pool boxes a quarter of a million dollars at least, changes hands each month, has been no exception to the rule.

The California Vegetables in the Garden and Field.

If one gardens for pleasure or profit a text book adapted to the particular environments in which he is situated is a necessity. Well authenticated local successes and failures are the foundation facts from which general rules are obtained. Professor Edward J. Wickson, U. C., has filled a long-felt want in the publication of his book, whose title is the above heading. In connection with other horticultural study, the writer has been over twenty years preparing this book, and the wide range of subjects exhaustively treated and lucidly explained, show the ability and thorough knowledge of the author. The conditions prevailing in California and in semi-tropical countries are such that "Experienced gardeners from other States and countries soon find that their accustomed procedure fails of its wonted results: that the old times and ways of doing things are unsuitable, and that new rules of practice must be learned. Often those who have had no earlier gardening experience seek a rural home in California and burn with a desire to possess the delights of a home garden. They soon find that following the advice to beginners given in books written for other climates, yields little but disappointment."

No matter in which particular section of California one may be engaged in vegetable growing, he will find ample directions, from planting the seed to gathering the crop, and we cheerfully endorse the work as one that will be found to be a necessity on every farm in California.

Rye for Pasture.

Rye may be sown for pasture either in the fall or in the early spring. Its function as a forage plant is to replace or supplement the dry fall pasture grass and to afford succulent forage in the early spring before the grass is ready to be pastured. For this purpose it is best sown in the fall. If sown about September 1st it will afford good pasture in the late fall when most of the other forage plants have succumbed to frost. To obtain the best results with milch cows this pasture should be supplemented with other feed. In the spring it affords more luxuriant forage and may be pastured as soon as the land is fit to turn the cattle on (T. L. Lyon, Bulletin 53, Nebraska Experiment Station). It is eaten with relish by stock up to the time of blossoming. After that time the stalks are too woody to be relished by stock.

If it is desired to use it for pasture later than this, it should be sown in the spring. By sowing rye it is possible to use land for early pasture, plow it up and use for a summer crop, or for summer pasture with another forage crop. Seed at the rate of 1½ to 2 bushels to the acre, either with a press drill or broadcast. After the plants are up, keep the surface of the soil loose with the harrow. Do not pasture in the fall until the plants have become well established. Many dairymen object to rye pasture on the grounds that it gives an unpleasant taste to the milk and butter. It seems possible to remove this objection by taking the cattle off the rye two or three hours before milking and by feeding something in addition to the rye.

Preserving Lemons.

An experiment is being made at Glendora that if successful will settle the question of lemon curing and make the growing of that fruit one of the most profitable industries in Southern California. Heretofore there has been great difficulty in supplying the Eastern markets, because the fruit by the time it reached its destination was apt to become badly decayed. It is thought, however, that the method now being tried will do away with this difficulty.

The lemons are first put into the sweating room, which is kept up to a high temperature by means of steam pipes. A current of air is forced through this room by means of fans. The result is that in three or four days the water in the rind is sweated out and the lemon is colored better than it would be in three months by the usual method. If there is a bruise or defect in the lemon it is apparent at once, and instead of being packed with the good fruit it is rejected by the packer and thrown out. The originator claims that inasmuch as the fruit shipped East has to withstand the high temperature on the desert, it had better stand the test of that degree of heat before leaving the packing house. The trial shipments made so far have been from fruit in the house, and while the results have been satisfactory, the shipments now being made of fresh fruit are expected to prove much more so. The fruit certainly looks fine as they pack it, and it will not be long ere it will be known how much its keeping qualities are improved, as several cars are now on the way east.

J. McKeegan's herd of Shorthorn cattle of about 300 head at Bancroft, Nebraska, was totally lost recently in a singular manner. The cattle were attacked by several swarms of wild bees which occupy trees on the Missouri river bluffs. In their terror and pain the stock jumped over the bluffs into the river and were either dashed to pieces or drowned.

Millions of Eggs in Cold Storage.

The Cold Storage Company at Reading, Pa., have 10,800,000 eggs stored at present, says the Prairie Farmer. They were shipped in from Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania and various western and southwestern points during March, April and May. Next October, November and December they will be "fresh laid" on the market. These 10,800,000 eggs are put in 30,000 crates. Each crate is twelve inches high, twelve inches wide and twenty-four inches long. It contains thirty dozen (360) eggs. The temperature of the chilled chambers is thirty to thirty-one degrees, which is below the freezing point. It is kept that low all the time, so the eggs are really little bodies of ice. Next fall these same eggs will be taken out when the hen goes into winter quarters, and, without notice to her, shipped back to the dealers whence they came, and sold as "fresh laid" eggs. They will be in as fresh a condition as when received for storage in the previous spring. Some eggs have been stored for three years as an experiment. They are in good condition now. It will soon be so that a hen contemplating a strike in the laying line will be out of a job. It is not yet ascertained whether the food value of an egg in cold storage is affected. The albumen may undergo a chemical change. This subject will soon engage the scientist.

Meat of the Goat.

There is a general prejudice against the meat of the goat, but it exists almost entirely among those who have never used it. In those portions of Texas where goat raising is an important industry a well-roasted kid is highly appreciated, and now it is supplied more or less in some of the city meat markets, though in deference to the prevailing sentiment it is sold as mutton. In such cases the buyer may be "beguiled, though not wronged," for a good fat juicy kid would make a tempting meal for even Farmer Poole, who is known to be indifferent to nearly all the good things of life. It would not be found unprofitable to keep small herds of goats on many of the cattle ranches for a supply of fresh meat when only a small quantity might be wanted, and there are some places where this is done. In Mexico, where cheapness of living is so important to the great mass of people, the meat of the goat is the principal fresh meat supply. At one of the prominent summer resorts of California some years ago, the lamb chops and roasts served at the hotel were considered one of the attractions of the place, yet they were cut from the carcasses of young goats, raised on a neighboring ranch.

Plums in the Chicken Yard.

A writer in the Indiana Farmer says: Theories vanish by the side of facts in every avocation. I have at the present writing three Robinson plum trees loaded with ripening fruit and two others with not a plum left. The five trees were set on the same kind of ground seven years ago and have had the same culture. The same results have been derived for the past three years, the three trees bearing a full crop of sound plums and the two a crop of wormy fruit, worthless. The three fruiting trees are in the chicken yard; the others outside. The ground in said yard is not plowed, but early in the spring is swept and kept hard and smooth. Under these trees I scatter bran and screenings, and "biddy" does the work of eating the pestiferous insects. While looking for the little seeds and specks of bran she garnishes her food with the spicy curculio. I know this to be true, for I have the evidence.

A cow belonging to James Glenn, of Kern county recently gave birth to four calves. Two of them died within a few hours but the other two are alive and healthy, and the cow is doing as well as could be expected under the circumstances. Here is another bit of evidence toward proving that California is the greatest stock breeding state in the Union.

Eleven Dairy Rules.

1. Keep the cows clean and wash the udders before milking.
2. Keep the barn clean, with walls and ceilings whitewashed; have it well-lighted, ventilated and free from dust at milking time.
3. Always make a clean toilet before commencing to milk.
4. Keep utensils clean and bright.
5. Remove the milk from the stable as soon as drawn and strain and cool at once.
6. Never expose milk to bad odors.
7. Do not mix fresh warm milk with that which has been cooled.
8. Give the cows only good wholesome food and pure water.
9. Never add anything to milk to prevent its souring. Cleanliness and cold are the only preservatives needed.
10. Milk regularly, quickly, quietly and thoroughly.
11. Always treat the cows kindly and never excite them by loud talking, hard driving and abuse of any kind.

There are about 4,000 example or illustration plots of land in France which are used for agricultural experiments. It costs about $60 a year to operate one of these plots. The land is usually given free of cost either by a private farmer, who is glad enough to have it tilled for him according to the best methods, or by a local agricultural association. Manufacturers of agricultural implements lend the newest machines free, and in this way the illustration plot becomes a sort of trial station for testing the productions of rival manufacturers. The local farmers give the labor free for the cultivation of these plots, and the State, the county council and the agricultural associations contribute towards the cost of the best seeds and manures which the professor or instructor in charge may approve.

Christy & Wise, owners of 150,000 sheep, have been pasturing about 5000 of them in this locality. Having exhausted the available feed in this district they have moved their sheep from here to a section of pasture land near Stockton, where they will keep about 25,000 head. Their foreman, Mr. Espendozo, reports pasture good and feels elated over the prospects of tiding the large band of sheep under his care over till the rains of another winter shall revive the growth of feed upon the lands that have so long been barren. Well may the advantage of this fertile region be appreciated when it is considered that over 100,000 sheep will die from thirst and starvation this year in other parts of the country.—Mayfield Republican.

The mania for holding hay for a raise seems to be general in all parts of the State where there is any. As a consequence the markets are depleted and warehouses filling up. A number of hay baling outfits have been sent from the San Joaquin to Utah, and soon hay will be coming into California by the train load. The farmer who sells his surplus hay now will probably realize greater profit than he would by holding it.

The stockmen of Indian Valley, Monterey county, are demonstrating the truth of the old adage, "Necessity is the mother of invention." Many of the farmers are feeding their stock on moss that grows on oak trees. It is not a very nourishing ration, but when accompanied with a little bran or shorts it keeps the stock alive and in fair condition.

Wyoming range-horse breeders have perfected an organization and will place better bred stallions on their ranges, limit the number of mares bred each year, and will arrange for sales to be conducted at Cheyenne at stated periods, the dates of which will be advertised in the East.

Cattle buyers have been numerous in Humboldt and Mendocino counties recently. They have been paying on an average five and a half cents for steers and five cents for cows.

Nearly a hundred head of horses were drowned in a slough in the San Joaquin valley last week. They got into the quicksands and could not be extricated.

The largest shipment of sheep from Porterville, Cal., was from last week, when six thousand head where sent by rail made that point to Griswold, Iowa.

QUINN'S OINTMENT

stands at the head of all veterinary remedies. Such troubles as Spavins, Curbs, Windpuffs, Splints, Bunches have no terrors for a horse if the master keeps and applies Quinn's Ointment. All well-known horsemen speak of it in the highest terms:

Miller & Sibley, of Franklin, Pa., owners of St. Bel, brother of late Bell Boy, write, "We have used Quinn's Ointment with great success and believe it fulfills all claimed for it. We cheerfully recommend it to our friends." For Curbs, Splints, Spavins or Bunches, it has no equal.

Alfalfa as a Forage Plant.

The food needed by all animals may be divided into two classes. First of all, that which goes to build up the muscles and lean and replace the wear and tear of the tissues. The ingredient which performs these offices is called protein and some times albuminoids or nitrogenous matter. The protein is present in alfalfa in a larger proportion than in most other animal food, and it is this which makes alfalfa magnificent feed for growing animals. This is more particularly the case with the leaves, which are shown by chemical analysis to contain fifty per cent more protein than the stems of the alfalfa.

Hence the advantage of feeding young stock on alfalfa pasture, under which circumstances none of the leaves are lost. It also shows the great necessity of curing alfalfa hay in such a manner as to conserve the leafy portion of the plant. The second class of food consists of the carbohydrates or fat. These are to preserve the heat in the body and to make fat. Alfalfa, whether in its green state or as hay, contains more than four times as much protein as carbonaceous food, thus showing it to be admirably adapted for young stock.

When the animal gets older it is necessary to add some other and more highly carbonsceous food to put on fat. In order to get the best and most profitable results from feeding alfalfa, or any other forage plant that is rich in nitrogenous compounds, some of the coarser forage plants, such as corn fodder, ensilage, wheat or oat straw, millet, sorghum or root crops, must be added to the ration. These are all poor in protein and rich in carbohydrates and fat. It has been found by experiment that a mixture of one ton of alfalfa hay and three tons of green corn fodder, or ensilage, will furnish food for one milch cow of 1,000 pounds weight for 136 days, without notable loss of any of the digestible compounds in the forage.

Prevent Grain From Shelling.

In conversation with Supervisor Asa M. Jackson this week the reporter was advised of a scheme to keep grain from being shelled by the north wind in early summer. It was tried by a farmer in Colusa county and was successful, and should be tried by farmers in Glenn and other counties who suffer for several sacks of wheat to the acre each year by the shelling process. Mr. Jackson presents the scheme in this manner: Take a twenty foot light roller, to it attach four horses to shove the roller, before them after exactly the same style that an old-fashioned header is propelled, enter your grain field and do your rolling just as your grain is beginning to turn yellow and before the stalk has lost all of its greenness; roll your ground from north to south so that every head of grain will lean toward the south and the wind will go over the field without doing any damage. Some of the grain rises a little from the effect of the rolling, but not much. When you do your heading, the grain lifter will get it all. Some people will say, that the horses going over the grain will injure some of the grain. It will be small, if any, compared with what will be shelled out by the wind if the grain is allowed to stand erect If a farmer can make up his mind which way he is going to harvest his grain, he can work this scheme on the low hills as well as the level land. Try it next year.—Willows Review.

The exchanges says that there was something funny looking about the 2:04 pace at Buffalo last Saturday, when Frank Agan took the first and second heats in 2:05½ and 2:07, with Chehalis not seemingly trying. The judges took the horse out of Frazier's hands and tried to get another driver, but Frazier went to the stand and begged to be allowed to drive his horse. He was finally warned and permitted to drive and reeled off the next three heats far in the lead. It would be interesting to see another driver put up behind Chehalis some time just to see how fast the black whirlwind can go.

Ninety-nine out of every hundred cases of lameness in a horse are due to an unbalanced foot, the result of improper paring of the foot or a shoe not adapted to the foot or the work for which the horse is used.

The Trotting Horse,

BY CHARLES MARVIN.

This great practical horse book is a handsome, three hundred page octavo, bound in cloth, elegantly printed superbly illustrated, and explains in every detail the remarkable success of CHARLES MARVIN and the whole plans and methods pursued at Palo Alto as to breaking, training, shoeing, gaiting, driving, keeping racing and breeding trotters.

Read what J. C. Silby, the owner of St. Bel, says of this book: "In this work Marvin has let out all the mysteries of the craft, and it is so simple and plain that any breeder, owner, trainer or rubber who has any relish for his business can take a colt as a yearling and develope to the highest and fullest extent that colt's capacity as a trotter. The work impressed me so strongly that I have ordered twenty copies, and shall place one in the hands of every rubber on our farm."

Mailed postpaid for $3.50. Address

A BRILLIANT CLOSING.

The Santa Rosa Meeting Winds Up In a Bleze of Glory.

When horsemen who were not at Santa Rosa read the accounts of how the trotters and pacers were stepping there last week they could hardly believe but the track was short or the watches in the timer's stand out of order. Such speed was not expected and was therefore a surprise. But those who were present knew that every record made was honest and the time authentic. The Santa Rosa track was carefully measured and like nearly every "regulation" track is three feet over a mile, three feet from the inner rail. That it is one of the fastest and safest tracks in California is beyond question, and it is peculiarly adapted to pacers. The course is a narrow one, but we understand it is to be widened before next year, and when this improvement is made it will not be surpassed by any race course in the country.

The race on Wednesday in which Rex Alto surprised everyone by winning a heat in 2:07¾ was won by the mare Much Better easily enough. In the first heat Peanuts drew the pole, with Rex Alto in second position, Much Better third, Beachwood fourth, Sophia R. fifth and Harvey Mac on the outside. Peanuts broke soon after getting the word, and the others were compelled to go wide around him. This heat was Much Better's easily after the horses had got straightened out, though Beachwood was a good second. The quarter was made in 31 seconds, and the half in 1:02, Much Better winning without extra effort. In the second heat there were but four starters as Peanuts and Sophia R. had caught the flag in the first heat. Much Better went out in the lead again, going to the quarter a little slower, the official time being 0:31½ and to the half in 1:03. The speed then increased a little, and coming down the stretch, Bunch seemed confident that he could win with his mare, and was simply paying attention to Beachwood which he thought was the contending horse. In the stretch Rex Alto came with a rush, however, and before Bunch could pick his mare up and get her at full speed, Rex Alto was at the wire a neck ahead of her in 2:07¾. The third heat was won easily by the mare in 2:14. Just after the second heat the sprinkling wagon came on the track and before the driver could be stopped had sprinkled about 100 feet of the track next to the pole. When the start was made Rex Alto having the inside was compelled to go through this wet going and went to a bad break as he struck it. Much Better's driver took her on the outside and avoided the wet spot. Harvey Mac paced a remarkably good race, being a good third each heat, and being timed separately in 2:10½ and 2:11½ in two of them.

The 2:30 class trot on Thursday was an interesting race, and before it was decided three horses had succeeded in getting records. Phœbe Childers, a mare that will go very fast with sufficient work and experience won the first heat in 2:16¼, a good showing for her second time out. Neeretta, a black filly by Neernut, took the second heat of this race in 2:16¾. She made a splendid showing throughout the race, trotting gamely to the finish in every heat. Mamie Riley was less tired than the two mares that had won heats and took the next two in slower time.

Bean Brummell, another product of the Santa Rosa Stock Farm, and a horse that does not belie his name, being very handsome and stylish, won a special for named pacers very handily in straight heats, Capt. Hackett distinguished himself in this race by getting inside the distance flag in both heats.

The race for Sonoma county roadsters attracted a great deal of interest among the local residents and considerable money changed hands on the result. It was noticeable that all the horses in the race were well bred, being by such horses as Silas Skinner, 2:17, Daly, 2:15, Anteeo, 2:16¼, and Illustrious, 2:29¾. The race was won by a good-looking son of the first named, driven by Mart Rollins.

The program on Friday opened with a race for pacers of the 2:30 class. Three heats were paced, the first and third being won by Mia Louise and the second by Lady Margaret. The winner of the race is a daughter of Steinway and Addie Ash and her mark of 2:15½ is splendid for a mare that has been worked but little and raced less. She is owned by L. E. Clawson, of this city. But for a break made in the second heat, she would have won in one, two order.

In the 2:20 trot there was a dead heat, the only one of the meeting. After Iran Alto had won the first heat Dr. J. and May B. set sail for the next heat and finished together in 2:16. Dr. J. captured the next heat in 2:17½, and Iran Alto the ourth and the race. This was a hotly contested race throughout, and quite a betting race.

Direct was made the favorite in the 2:17 pace, but in the draw for position got the outside, Peanuts having the pole and Rex Alto second position. Just after the start Chas. David went to a bad break, and I Direct was in such a position on the outside that his driver was compelled to stay alongside David, there being no opening for him in front and no way of pulling up and coming in behind. Rex Alto went out in the lead and won in 2:11½. Rex Alto now had the pole and went right to the front in the next heat and was never headed. You Bet, a good son of McKinney, was a good second in each heat. I Direct paced a long mile and finished a good fourth.

The last day brought a large crowd to the track, the racing being of such a high class that it was being talked of all over the county. Bonsaline, daughter of Stamboul and Bon Bon, end owned by the Santa Rosa Stock Farm won the first race easily in three straight heats, the time being 2:17 and 2:16¼. Jo Selby made a great showing for a little more than a half mile in the second heat, but that took the wind out of him and he finished fifth.

The most sensational mile paced in California this year occurred in the 2:12 pace in which Much Better, F. W., Beachwood, Floracita, Harvey Mc, Fitz Lee and Plunkett were the starters. Much Better drew the pole, with Fitz Lee next. F. W. had the fifth position which placed him on the outside of the first tier. They were sent away to a fair start, F. W. probably a length behind, and as he had to keep on the outside position he paced a long mile Much Better went to the quarter in 30¾ seconds, and was at the half in 1:02½, several lengths in front of F. W. Here Mr. Gordon got the son of Dorssys Nephew going steadily and he fairly flew for the last half, being seperately timed the distance in one minute flat. Much Better had a link to let out at the finish, however, and beat F. W. to the wire. When the time 2:07¼, was hung out there arose a cheer for the handsome mare that had paced the fastest mile ever paced by one of her sex in California, and only a quarter of a second slower than Silkwood's and W. Wood's time. In the second heat F. W. acted very badly and nearly a dozen score downs occurred before they got the word. The race was the mare's all the way and she seemed able to go away from the others whenever she pleased. The mile was made in 2:09 and Beachwood was a fair second.

In the last race of the day, and the final of one of the greatest meetings ever held in the State, Silver Ring, P. W. Williams' mare, by Silver Bow, won in one, two order, reducing her record to 2:14½ in the second heat. It was thought by the wise ones that Osito had a cinch on this race, and his trainer as well as others dropped considerable money to the bookmakers on the result. Silver Ring is a mare that is improving all the time and it would not surprise those who have noticed her in her races, if she should get a mark of 2:10 this year. She has a world of speed.

This race closed a meeting that was remarkable in many ways. It was gotten up on short notice, but there were enough entries for four races on the opening day and three on each succeeding day. The events were all best two heats in three, and this plan proved successful and satisfactory to all. Though the Santa Rosa track is not very wide, there was not an accident during the entire meeting, except one or two trifling break downs, and these were not in the races. Had there been an exhibiton of county products and live stock in connection with the races, the attendance would have doubtless been very large. As it was the crowd was not a small one un any day, although the fruit growers, farmers and vineyardists of the Sonoma Valley were at the very busiest time of their harvest, and were unable to obtain sufficient hands to pick and pack their crops.

The people of Santa Rosa made the meeting a success by a very liberal subscription to the race fund, and it seemed as if every citizen of the town was putting forth his best efforts to aid the management in every way. The excursion from Ukiah and way points to Santa Rosa on the closing day brought down over four hundred people from the upper valley, which made the county seat a very lively town on that day.

If the Santa Rosa people should organize an association, and with the aid of a State appropriation give a fair next year, they will be revisited by all the horsemen who were present this year, besides many who will want to spend a week in the City of Roses, which has a State reputation for all that goes to make up a first-class community.

GLENBROOK PARK MEETING.

A Good Meeting Being Held in Nevada County This Year.

The Nevada County Jockey Club has held a first-class meeting at its fine track at Glenbrook Park this week. This park is midway between the two thriving towns of Grass Valley and Nevada City, and is easily reached by a car line from both.

On the first day of the meeting Monterey, P. W. Williams, great Sidney stallion, lowered the Coast race record for trotters by trotting the second heat in 2:09¼, fulfilling the prediction made in the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN that he would beat 2:10 this year. After two running events had been finished, Monterey and Zombro, the only starters in the free-for-all, came on the track, both looking fit to trot the race of their lives. McKinney's son was ailing, however, and after a good start it was seen that he was not trotting his best. Monterey passed him at the first quarter and jogged the mile in 2:14½, Zombro distanced and coming in bleeding at the nose. Mr. Williams then consented to start his horse against his own record of 2:11 and, accompanied by a runner, made the mile in 2:09¾, finishing strong and full of trot. On a track like the one at Santa Rosa it is believed Monterey could trot in 2:06 or better if specially prepared for the trial.

One of the exciting events of the first day was the 2:14 pace in which Beachwood, Floracita, Billy Baker and Chas. David started.

The first heat was won handily by Beachwood in 2:17¼, beating Billy Baker two lengths; Floracita third. In the second heat all did better, Floracita and Billy Baker crowding Beachwood, who went the half in 1:07 and the mile in 2:14, winning by a length. The other heats were called off, owing to the lateness of the hour, Floracita and Billy Baker dividing second money. Beachwood's time was the best ever made by a pacer at Glenbrook.

The first event was a five-eighths of a mile dash for district horses for a purse of $100, $20 to the second horse, $10 to the third. Iron Packet, who sold favorite in the pools, won. Time, 1:05. Ernest was second, and Cyaro third.

The second race race was a three-quarters of a mile dash, purse $125, $30 to the second and $15 to the third. Moringa sold favorite. Nonchalance, who was in the field, won. Time, 1:15½. Moringa was second and Fig Leaf third.

AUGUST 31.—There was a good attendance at Glenbrook Park this afternoon and the events were all hotly contested. Notwithstanding the strong wind that prevailed, good time was made.

Five eighths of a mile dash—P. A. Finnegan won, Christine second, Skirmish third. Iron Packer distanced. Time, 1:04.

Mile running race—Moringa won, Lost Girl second, Joe Terry third. Time, 1:43½.

In the 2:40 trot for district horses, mile heats, best two in three, Inez, who sold favorite, won the first heat in 2:37. Oregon Chief won the second and third, also the race in 2:35 and 2:33.

For the 2:18 class trot May B who was favorite in the pools, won in two straight heats, Mamie Riley second, Myrtle Thorne third. Time 2:17¾, 2:18½.

On Saturday Monterey, who yesterday lowered the Coast trotting record on a regulation track by going a mile in 2:09¼, will make another trial against time.

PATCHEN WILKES FARM and its horses are to be sold at auction this fall. Beuzetta, 2:06¼, is the fastest animal owned at the farm.—Boston Globe.

A GREAT MEETING ASSURED.

Golden Gate Driving Park Association Rapidly Increasing Its Membership.

It came very near being a case of standing room only at 1200 Market street last Tuesday evening when the members of the Golden Gate Park Driving Association assembled to make their entries for their trotting and pacing meeting which is to be held at Inglesida Race Track on Friday and Saturday, September 9th and 10th. Every member making an entry was present with two exceptions, and these gentlemen who were detained on other business sent representatives to make their entries and pay the entrance fees. There must have been at least seventy-five enthusiastic road drivers present, but that energetic member of the club, Chas. F. Kapp, at whose place of business the meeting was held, saw to it that all were seated. The meeting was called to order by Vice President Aigeltinger with a brand new rosewood gavel and block which had been purchased and presented to the association by Mr. Kapp.

The Vice President announced that the meeting was called for the purpose of receiving and closing entries for the trotting and pacing races to be given on Sept. 9th and 10th. As soon as the announcement was made Secretary Thompson had his hands full taking in money, and $300 was paid in as entrance fees in less than ten minutes, the fee being $4.50 on each entry.

Geo. Berry's Al Gregor 2:11, Chris Peterson 2:13¾ and George Wilkes, J. C. Kirkpatrick's Butcher Boy 2:17½, Harvey Mac 2:14½, Azalia 2:22½ and Lullaby; Walter Hobart's Our Dick 2:10½; E. Stewart's Plunkett 2:13¼ and Localeer, E. Cerceats Bishop Hero 2:21½, Chas. F. Kapp's Hijo del Diablo 2:11¼ and King Cadenza, J Callen's Carria C. 2:21½, N. Hottua's Correct, N. Johnson's May Boy, F. Miller's Lee Rose, F. Gormett's Pardee, C. E. Park's Lottie, C. Newman's Maud Newman, J. C. Ohlandt's Klondike and Haviland, R. T. Lanier's Blancha L., J. G. Costello's Mabel Laigh and Thos. Sharkey, J. W. Hamerton's Alfred H., E. Cerceat's Admiral Dewey, E. P. Claybargh's Lazy Charley, S. Curley's Prince C, E. Aigeltinger's Our Joe, L. Richardson's Fanadma 2:19½ and Pearl G., H. W. Miller's Stockton Maid, J. Crowley's Kingcraft, W. J. Dunn's Mamie Wilkes, Worth Ober's Eddie S., H. Hackfeldt's Nettia R, W. C. Hamerton's Fairmount Prince, N Johnson's Dandy Pat, F. W. Thompson's Ivan, J. Callan's Polo, A. Swartz's Reatinons, H. Patrick's Steve S. 2:25½.

The Classification Committee will meet during the week and classify these horses so as to bring about the very best possible program that can be arranged. The races will be closely contested in the majority of instances and two afternoons of rare sport is certain. Ingleside track will be in excellent condition for the races and will probably be fast, so that many records will be reduced. At the last meeting of this club held at Ingleside about ten thousand people were present. It is expected the crowd will be as great this time. The admission fee is 25 cents, ladies free.

James L. as a Road Horse.

A new 2:10 trotter made his debut on the New York Speedway last week Sunday. This was the stout hearted campaigner James L., that Scott Quintin drove to a record of 2:09½ at the Columbus Grand Circuit meeting of 1896. Charles Weiland now owns the great son of Dexter Prince. He is entered in stake races to be trotted at the Glens Falls, Hartford and other Grand Circuit meetings, but his owner lately decided to retire him from the turf and drive him on the road. Weiland was somewhat surprised when he took the shapely, powerfully built bay gelding out for the first time and found that he was fearless of everything, from brass bands to street cars, and that he would jog along the road without pulling a pound or breaking away with every horse that came up from behind him, as so many untired campaigners do. "That is easily understood," said a man who met him on the Speedway and recognized an old acquaintance in James L. "I knew that horse out in California, where he was raised by Senator Langford, of Lodi. He was an all-round family horse before anybody found out that he could trot fast. By Holly's daughter, I think it was, used to drive him there to a woman's phaeton. You'll find him a model road horse, without a vice or fault, unless he's learned bad ways since he came East."—Horseman.

Better Horses.

The man who attends the races on the Grand Circuit can not fail to observe an improvement in the horses that take part in them. Of course there has been a great advance in the manner of speed, as the records show. But there has been a wonderful improvement in other respects also. The trotters are much better gaited than of yore, and many of them require little booting or weighting in order to go right. Improvement in shoeing may be credited with a part of this, but better horses are the main cause. So far as sticking to the trot is concerned, there is no comparison with the old time trotter with his frequent breaks. Among the pacers the improvement in gait has been remarkable. The old wiggler is no more, and the smooth-gaited modern pacer is about as smooth as anything that goes in harness. So far as quality and style of both trotters and pacers go there has been a great advance. The horses of the present day are more "breedy" looking; but too many of them are small, and here is the greatest objection to the American harness horse. There is room for vast improvement in the size of our horses and this must come if they are to remain in favor as road and coach horses. Breeders have demonstrated that both size and quality are possible in connection with speed, and the three form the too rare combination that commands big money in market and on the turf alike.—National Farmer and Stockman.

In Training at Eureka.

Quite a number of horses, both harness and runners, are now at the South Park track, Eureka, Humboldt county, being prepared for the meeting which begins there September 12th. Brice McNeill has a record of 2:19½, made at the Oakland track last July. He is a four-year-old, the property of B. H. McNeill, of Rohnerville. Another good one is P. H. Quinn's Arthur W. He is a pacer and has gone as fast as 2:15.

Ruth, a trotting mare with a record of 2:25, belongs to John Clifford and is being worked by Charles Ricks. She is showing up well, although a trifle unsteady.

Forest W., owned by Alexander Connick, is also in training. Last year, as a three-year-old, he went in 2:32.

General Don is another that is being worked. He trotted his first race on the South Park track on the 3d of July, making his mile in 2:32½. He is a four-year-old belonging to M. McGillvray, of Arcata.

Other trotters being cared for at South Park are Arden and Doc Moor, a son of Grand Moor. The former belongs to Pat Quinn, of Table Bluff, and the latter is owned by M. McGilvray.

Two pacers, a two-year-old colt, belonging to P. Quinn, of Scotia, and a horse named Ben, the property of I. Cullberg, are also being put in shape for the racing days that are coming.

The runners are Roselle, Cinderella, Happy Days, Fi-Fi, Mabel C. and Little Scott. Of these, Roselle, a four-year-old, is probably best known, having made a record of 1:41¼ at Inglesida track, San Francisco, last year.

The Typical Roadster.

In a paper read before the Wisconsin Farmers' Institute, Prof. John A. Craig discussed light harness horses as follows:

The chief characteristics of the roadsters are speed and stamina. The ability to trot fast is a leading characteristic of the roadster, and the ability to maintain a rapid gait is clearly essential in a horse of any kind, in addition to being able to stand steady road work. Such a horse should sell well on the market, and must be well mannered, so as to be safe and pleasurable to drive.

The typical roadster may be said to be about 15½ hands high and about 1000 pounds in weight; the formation is narrow in front, deep chested, wide at the loin, and very muscular in the quarters. Every feature about the horse appears clear-cut, giving a hard finish which indicates durability. The lineaments of the face and the outlines of the neck, and especially the distinctness with which the tendons stand away from the leg, are very characteristic features.

The type lacks the fullness and symmetry that are characteristic in the carriage or coach horse. To do effective and satisfactory road work is the sphere of the roadster, and a type that has been evolved is an illustration of the evolution of a form for a specific purpose. The type of the best campaigners that have marks of 2:10 or better, will show a similarity that indicates the type toward which the trotter is tending, though it should be noted here that the roadster in show form will display quite different outlines after being subjected to the hard training the campaigner receives.

Has Confidence in Chehalis.

Saturday afternoon negotiations were in progress at the track which, had they been carried to a successful termination, would have made something of a sensation in turf circles. It has been known for some time that W. Perry Taylor, who owned Mascot, 2:04, when he was the champion pacer, has been on the lookout for a horse capable of entering the race for championship honors. After seeing the Oregon stallion, Chehalis, 2:04¼, race on Friday, Mr. Taylor concluded that he had found a horse with a chance of doing the trick, and he opened negotiations for his purchase. Frazier, the owner of the black horse, priced him to Mr. Taylor and agreed to show three heats in 2:01 each or no sale. The price was not regarded too high by Mr. Taylor, but as he objects to hopples horses, he concluded not to buy, after becoming satisfied that Chehalis would not race without the hopples. Most horsemen doubt Chehalis' ability to pace three heats in 2:01, but Frazier is supremely confident that he can.—Buffalo Express.

THAT well known horseman Col. Park Henshaw of the Eighth Regiment has been quite ill for the past two or three days and has not been seen outside his tent. It is now said that the commander has passed through an experience that has not only weakened him terribly but nearly cost him his life. Colonel Henshaw is subject to vertigo and has been bled from time to time during the past few years. He complained of dizziness a few days ago and requested Dr. Yost to relieve his condition. Dr. Yost was very loath to do so but finally consented and performed the operation. When enough blood has been removed Surgeon Yost concluded to take no more but Colonel Henshaw insisted on his continuing and much against his more experienced judgment, Dr. Yost did so. Suddenly Colonel Henshaw gave signs of great weakness and fainted. Then followed a few hours of great anxiety for Dr. Yost, who feared for the worst. Colonel Henshaw finally rallied and is now rapidly gaining strength. —Oakland Enquirer.

THE New England Trotting Horse Breeders' Association already has arranged for an exhibition by Star Pointer at the Grand Circuit meeting at Readville, and is offering liberal inducements now for a match race between the pacers Joe Patchen, 2:01½, and John R. Gentry, 2:00½. According to all accounts of their performances in training Gentry would stand no chance against Patchen this year. A race between Star Pointer and Joe Patchen would excite more interest than any other that could be arranged in view of the report vouched for by C. W. Marks, the owner of Patchen, that the latter recently paced an eighth at a 1:42 gait.

MUCH BETTER (4) 2:07 1-4.

Something About a Mare that is Capable of Getting a World's Record.

A very fair portrait of the pacing mare Much Better, 2:07¼, appears in this issue of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN, though from the standpoint of good looks it scarcely does the handsome animal justice. Much Better was bred at Oakwood Park Stock Farm, Danville, Contra Costa county, and is by Chas. Derby, 2:20, from None Better, a grand looking mare by Allandorf. She was foaled in 1894 and purchased as a yearling by Dr. C. G. Bull of Alameda, Cal., who still owns her, but her racing qualities for this year were leased by the Vendome Stock Farm and she is now driven by Mr. C. F. Bunch, the well-known trainer and driver of San Jose. Dr. Bull began driving Much Better before she was two years old through the streets of Alameda, getting her used to things; and she soon became very gentle and a great pet. The summer she was a two-year-old, without any preparation whatever, she started in a half mile race at the Alameda Driving Association races and won handily in 1:22½ and 1:17, and could show a two-minute clip then. She was not worked any more that year, but last summer when a three-year-old, she showed, with two weeks' work, a mile in 2:22½, last quarter in 32 seconds, last eighth in 14¾ seconds. She won a gentleman's race at the Alameda track in 2:34 and 2:31½, and afterwards started at the Breeders meeting in Oakland for horses owned by members of the Alameda Driving Association. She won this race in straight heats in 2:29 and 2:26½. This year Much Better has started six times and won every race except one at the Breeders Oakland meeting when her hopples broke. She had all her work, which was very little, at the Alameda track, driven by Mr. A. H. Cohen, who also drove her in all her races until she was placed in Mr. Bunch's hands last month. She was driven on the road by Dr. Bull and also by the Doctor's wife.

She is a dead game mare and on a good track can undoubtedly lower the world's record for pacing mares, and many think a mark of 2:03 is easily within her reach this year. It is no trouble to drive her, in fact she drives herself and knows the game thoroughly. Though all sorts of combinations have been made to beat her, she has had speed to spare and has defeated the best pacers on the Coast this year. She is never asked to go miles better than 2:10 in her work and finishes the last quarter in 29 seconds very often. Much Better wears no boots whatever except light quarter boots for protection, is shod plain, six ounces in front and four behind. The photograph from which the picture is produced was taken just before her race at Santa Rosa when she took a record of 2:07¼. There have been reports that the mare had been sold but this is not true, as she still belongs to Dr. Bull or rather Mrs. Bull, the Doctor having made his wife a present of the mare when she was a two-year old. Much Better's pedigree is as follows:

MUCH BETTER b m, foaled 1894	Chas. Derby	Steinway	Strathmore
			Abbess
		Katie G.	Electioneer
			Fanny Malone
	None Better	Allandorf	Onward
			Alma Mater
		Daughter of	Green's Basbaw
			Gray Mary (by St. Louis)

Fourth dam by Clay Trustee.
Fifth dam by Tom Watson.
Sixth to twelfth dams thoroughbred.

SYLVANWAY by Steinway, promises to be one of the greatest pacing mares by this great sire. In the second race of her life she secured a mark of 2:12½ at Old Orchard, Me., tha early part of last week. In both races that she started in she was able to win first money.—American Stock Farm.

IT is reliably reported that Mr. L. V. Harkness of Lexington, Ky., is contemplating selling all of his trotting stock in the near future, and that Walnut Hall Farm will be devoted exclusively to the breeding of French coach horses.

WHO IS IT (3), 2:12.

The Champion Three-Year-Old Gelding That Trotted to a World's Record at Santa Rosa.

The portrait of Who Is It, that graces the title page of this paper to-day, is a splendid picture of the fastest three-year-old gelding that ever got a record in an actual race. As the picture shows, he looks like a race horse all over and he certainly is one. He has won every start so far and has not lost a heat. Although a handsome looking colt out of harness, those who have seen him hitched to his hiks and in motion on the track are of the opinion that he shows best that way. His gait is simply perfection and as straight as a die. His races have been won with ease. The writer did not see him in the race where he got his mark, but saw him three days later when he beat a field of aged horses and finished his mile in 2:14, and there was none of that exertion manifest that would be expected under the circumstances. He simply skimmed along like a bird and to all appearances could have trotted the mile in 2:10. This colt has not had a great deal of work, and should he as fast a four-year-old as there will be in America next year. He is as game as a pebble and knows nothing of any gait but trot. The only engagements he has now are at the State Fair, but he may be entered at the Los Angeles meeting. Should occasion require, it is confidently predicted that a mark of 2:08 is within his reach this year. Who Is It was bred and is now owned by Mr. A. G. Gurnett, proprietor of the Sulphur Spring Stock Farm, Walnut Creek, Contra Costa county. Lassie Jean, the dam of Who Is It, is still on the farm. Her four-year-old filly, Dolly Marshutz, by Chas. Derby, is now in the East in Andy McDowell's string and has trotted to a mark of 2:19¼. The pedigree of Who Is It is as follows:

Searchlight's Sire.

Speaking of Searchlight I often see the remark made that a great sire was lost to this country when Dark Night was sold to go in Europe, and this is strictly true. He was a horse that was never favored with many opportunities. He stood here for years, receiving very little attention. He was rather a small horse (like his great sire Alcyone), and had somewhat excessive action. He was at Mr. Fraoce's Highland Farm for a year or two, but Red Wilkes, Allandorf and Samuel Wilkes were at the same place and got the bulk of the patronage. Finally Messrs George W. St. Clair and Brook Curry bought him and made one or more seasons at the Fair grounds with him.

Silent Brook then began to bring him into notice and he was liberally patronized. This colt was remarkably pure-gaited and earned a reputation as an extremely game race horse. He is also a remarkably well-bred horse and horsemen believe now that he can trot in 2:10 or 2:12. I think it is generally concluded that he is about the best-gaited trotter on the Lexington track. Brook Curry is training him now and will probably give him an opportunity to lower his record next fall. Silent Brook is the only representative of his sire that I know of now left in the Kentucky stud. Had Dark Night remained here there would probably have been a dozen, and the Alcyone line would have received a great reinforcement in this State. I regard the exportation of Dark Night as a misfortune to the State, but it will not surprise me if Silent Brook does much to retrieve it.—Iconoclast in Horse Breeder.

Must Pay the Note.

The Stockton Independent of a recent date contains the following account that famous note which James H. Budd, now Governor, signed while he was a Director of the San Joaquin Agricultural Association:

In the suit of James Cross and Charles T. Bridge against the former Directors of the San Joaquin Valley Agricultural Association to recover on a promissory note, Judge Jones yesterday ordered judgment for the plaintiffs as soon as the case was submitted. The judgment is for $7,305 33, being the amount of the note, $6,000, and $1,305.33 interest.

In December, 1893, the defendants Louis Gerlach, M. A. Moore, B. F. Langford, J. A. Shepherd, R. W. Russell and James H. Budd, who, with one exception, were directors of the Agricultural Association, and the late L. U. Shippee as the seventh director, borrowed from James Cross and C. T. Bridge $6,000, which they required to take up a note held against them by the Savings and Loan Society. The indebtedness for which the original note was given was that of the association, but the defendants borrowed from Mr. Cross and Mr. Bridge as individuals and the association was not known in the transaction. The defendants, through the association paid about $900 in interest and when judgment was rendered yesterday the additional sum of $1305.33 was due as interest.

Suit was brought against all the defendants save the estate of L. U. Shippee, which was insolvent, Woods & Levinsky appeared for the plaintiffs, W. B. Nutter for the defendant, Gerlach, Budd & Thompson for B. F. Langford, J. A. Shepherd, R. W. Russell and James H. Budd, and Dudley & Buck represented the defendant, M. A. Moore. The defendants moved to make the association a party defendant, but the court denied the motion. James Cross, R. D. Beardslee and C. A. Tarhox were the plaintiff's witnesses, and the defendants called J. A. Shepherd and C. E. Doan to prove the interest of the association. Judgment was ordered for the plaintiffs and a stay of thirty days was granted.

The defendants did not deny the execution of the note nor contend that value had not been received, but their effort was to lay a foundation for proceeding against the Association to recover the amount which they will be compelled to pay to satisfy the judgment.

HAZEL Y., Black Mare by Secretary.

The above is a good portrait of a very handsome mare owned and driven on the road by Mr. T. J. Yandel, a prominent foundryman and road driver of Santa Rosa. This mare has never been worked for speed, but has shown a mile in 2:25 and was a close second in a road race at the Santa Rosa track last week in 2:24. She is a magnificent road animal, afraid of nothing, and can be driven by a child. In the hands of an expert trainer she should trot way down in the teens, but it is not probable that Mr. Yandel will ever consent to make a race mare out of her as he greatly prizes the enjoyment he gets driving her on the road.

The Near Infusion.

Trotters and pacers whose pedigrees show a "near infusion" seem to be doing fairly well this season. The four-year-old Directum Kelly (race record 2:08¼ over a track not especially fast), is one of that sort, and it begins to look a little as though he may prove capable of lowering the trotting stallion record before the season closes, says American Horse Breeder. The Diomed strain, through Sir Archy, the best son of the noted old first Derby winner, is quite prominent in his pedigree. Direct, 2:05½, sire of Directum Kelly, was by Director, 2:17, by Dictator. The latter was by Rysdyk's Hambletonian, out of Clara, by Seely's American Star. According to the Year Book the dam of Seely's American Star was Sally Slouch, by Henry, more generally known as Sir Henry, and his sire was Sir Archy. Old Dolly, the dam of Director, 2:17, was inbred to Sir Archy through his son, Saxe Weimer. Echo, which got the dam of Direct, was by Rysdyk's Hambletonian, and his dam was by Magnolia, a son of Seely's American Star, giving him another Sir Archy cross through that famous broodmare sire. The second dam of Direct was by Jack Hawkins, a thoroughbred son of Boston by Timoleon, a son of Sir Archy.

Anteeo 2:16½, which got the dam of Directum Kelly, was by Electioneer, and his dam, the great brood mare Columbine, was by A. W. Richmond, out of Columbia, a thoroughbred daughter of imported Bonnie Scotland. The dam of Columbia was the great race mare Fashion, by imported Trustee, and Fashion's dam was Bonnets O' Blue, by Sir Charles, son of Sir Archy. The dam of Bonnets O' Blue was Reality, by Sir Archy.

The second dam of Directum Kelly was by Limerick Boy, a thoroughbred son of Ringgold, by Boston, son of Timoleon by Sir Archy. Ringgold's dam was Flirtilla, Jr. She was by Sir Archy, out of Old Flirtilla, by Sir Archy. Directum Kelly traces to Sir Archy not less than ten times, and has other crosses of old Diomed aside from those which come through this noted grand sire of Boston.

A GOOD THREE-YEAR-OLD.

When the "little black rascal," as Monroe Salisbury used to lovingly term Direct 2:05½, was placed in the stud, the owner predicted that he would be a great sire of race horses. This year has proven Mr. Salisbory's prediction, as Directum Kelly (4) 2:08¼, Ed B. Young (4) 2:11¼, Miss Beatrice (4) 2:13¾ and Lou Mitchell 2:17¾ have all got their records during the year; while out here on the Pacific Coast Rect 2:16½ and I Direct (3) 2:13 have added still further to Direct's fame. The only three-year-old in this list of good ones is the last one named, and he is certainly destined to be one of the fastest. His picture, and a good one it is too, appears on our front page to-day. With proper handling I Direct will pace as fast as his sire, and has already shown wonderful speed. A tabulation of his pedigree, which follows, shows grand breeding.

I DIRECT, blk s, foaled 1895
- Direct, 2:05½
  - Director
    - Dictator
    - Dolly
  - Echora
    - Echo
    - Young Mare
- Francesca
  - Almont 33
    - Abdallah 15
    - Sally Anderson
  - Fr. Breckenridge
    - Sentinel 280
    - By Bayard 53

Fourth dam, Luna, by Swigert's Lexington.
Fifth dam Eagless, by imp. Glencoe.
And on to the 23d dam, the Layton Barb mare.

I Direct is a black stallion and with the blood of such sires as Direct, Director, Dictator, Mambrino Chief and others on one side, and that of Almont 33, Lexington, imp. Glencoe and Grey Eagle on the other, he should be a very valuable horse in the stud. He is owned jointly by Chas. F. Kapp, the well-known business man and horseman of 1200 Market street, this city, and J. M. Nelson, the Alameda trainer and driver, whose face has been familiar on the California circuit for several years. If there is anything in breeding and performances I Direct should be a champion pacer and a champion sire.

Safe and Effectual Fence For Your Stock Ranch.

After years of study and experiment the I. L. Ellwood Manufacturing Company, of De Kalb, Ill., have at last placed on the market a woven wire fence which meets all the requirements of the raiser of fine stock—a fence that is more effective and equally as durable as the cruel and dangerous barbed wire so much used in the past. The Elwood fence is one that in every way meets the requirements of the stock raiser, combining strength, permanence, efficiency, adjustability and beauty; whilst regards the item of cost when the merits of the Ellwood Field Fence are fully considered, its cost is exceedingly low. In no other way can the purchaser secure as much real value for the same amount of money as by using it. You get a handsome, durable and efficient fence for less, or at least no more money than is charged for many styles of fence that never have and cannot prove otherwise than disappointing and unsatisfactory. The Ellwood Field Fence never disappoints and is always satisfactory. Please remember that in this fence you have the smallest amount of material that can possibly be used in any shape or combination to make a first class fence; hence, no reduction can possibly be made in the price without decreasing the actual worth of the fence; in fact, if the strength of the fence and its efficiency are decreased to any amount, the actual worth of the fence is decreased in much larger proportion. Consequently you have the matter of cost at the minimum and the desired fence at the maximum of excellence. If our readers will write to The American Steel and Wire Co., 225-227 Fremont street, city, they will receive full particulars regarding this fence, whose claims are set forth above we cordially indorse.

Sulky Notes.

HAZEL KINNEY, by McKinney, now has a record of 2:12.

STAR POINTER has paced a mile inside of two minutes on four different occasions.

JANIE T., 2:14, last year's champion two-year-old, will be sold in Fasig's November sale.

DUBOIS BROS. of Denver, have sold the pacer W. W. P., 2:05¼, to Frank L. Smith of that city.

LADY OF THE MANOR, 2:07¾, and Miss Logan, 2:07½, will meet in the $5,000 stake at Terre Haute.

ALIX, 2:02¾, is used as the runabout horse at Bryn Mawr Farm. She jogs about town like a model family horse.

THE pacing mare Fanny Putnam, 2:14¼, in Andy McDowell's string, is owned by W. G. Stevenson, Victoria, B. C.

THE erratic notions the Horse Review attributes to Indiana are noticeable only when that horse strikes a hard track. He likes a soft track, but simply will not go steady on a hard one.

DURING the Fort Wayne meeting $2,000 was offered and refused for the two-year-old filly, Ima Electrite, by Electrita.

ALBATROSS, 2:16½, is doing the guideless act down East, and recently paced a half in 1:00¼ and a quarter in 0:29¾ at Rigby.

ONLY two of the twenty-two foals of this season at the Forbes Farm were sired by Arion. The rest were sired by Biugen, 2:09¾.

MIA LOUISE, 2:15¼, and Our Jack, 2:13½, both bred on the Oakwood Stock Farm, were named for Mr. Boyd's little son and daughter.

B. T. BINNEY has been authorized by the owner to match Prince Alert against any horse in New England with a record not better than 2:07.

IT was predicted in these columns that Monterey would beat 2:10 this year. His record is now 2:09¼, made at Glenwood Park, Grass Valley.

A HANDSOME picture of Dione 2:09¼, Mr. A. B. Spreckels trotting mare now racing in the East, adorned the front page of the Chicago Horseman last week.

KLAMATH 2:07½, is reported as having so injured one of his tendons while at Buffalo as to put him out of the racing game for this season at least, and probably permanently.

SYLVANWAY, by Stainway, from Lonado, by Electioneer, reduced her record again last Wednesday and it is now 2:11¼, which is the fastest mile this year by a three-year-old filly.

IT is said to be stated on good authority that the second dam of Captain Jack 2:09½, by Black Wilkes, is by imp. Glencoe, and his third dam by the great four-mile race horse Grey Eagle.

LILLIAN WILKES, by Guy Wilkes, who nine years ago beat Sunol and trotted to a record of 2:17¾ as a three-year-old, finished second in 2:12¾ last week, in her first race since her three-year-old form.

ONLY two of the get of Rex Americus have been started in races. One, Battleton, took a four year-old record of 2:09¾, and the other, American Belle, trotted to a three-year old mark of 2:12¼ and could have beaten 2:10.

THERE are twenty-four entries in the $5000 stake for 2:13 pacers to come off at the Minnesota State Fair September 5th. Among the starters is the Oregon horse Bill Frazier, 2:14, and the California mare Lena N., 2:05½.

EASTERN horsemen looking for a National Horse Show winner for next fall have about closed a deal with C. H. Anthony, of Muncie, Ind., for Annie Trevillian. This four-year-old has been a mile in 2:16 and a half in 1:05¾.

UP to the present time Ed. Geers' stable heads the list of winners on the Grand Circuit, John Kelly is second and Tom Keating a close third. In proportion to the number of starts made by his horses Keating is in the lead a long way.

D. L. C., who has been winning on tracks in Massachusetts, is a bay stallion, standing over 16 hands high. He was sired by Accoli, son of Stamboul; dam Red Wing, by Toronto Patchen, and is owned by S. Harkness, Kingston, Ontario.

A MAN running for Supervisor down in Fresno county, left his team standing on the street for thirteen hours without food or drink, while he was doing politics. It is said that there is not a horseman in Fresno but will vote against him.

SEARCHLIGHT, 2:04½, Anaconda, 2:04½, Lena N., 2:05½, Klatawah, 2:06¼, Much Better, 2:07¼, Miss Logan 2:07½, Rax Alto, 2:07¾, Dione, 2:09¼, and Monterey, 2:09¼, is a pretty good list of 2:10 performers for one State to have before the public at one time.

ALFRED G. 2:19¾, the bay stallion by Anteeo from Rosa B. by Speculation, bred by Goerne & Morphy of Santa Rosa and taken to Kentucky by Alfred Guarne some years ago, is proving a great sire. Ten of his produce have records of 2:25 or better, Annie Lee 2:09¼ being the fastest.

CHEHALIS was beaten by Frank Bogash, Pumps, Planet and several others of that class of pacers on Thursday last at Readville, but on the same day he was matched against Joe Patchen for $2 500, the race to come off at the Rigby Park course, Portland, Maine, during the week beginning September 12th.

CRICKETT, 2:10, the first pacing mare to enter the 2:10 list, is the second in that list to produce a standard performer, she being the dam of William Harold, by Sidney, who took a record of 2:13¾, pacing, at Fort Wayne. Last year Birchnut, by Birchwood and out of Vera Capel, 2:07½, took a pacing record of 2:14½.

LAURELS, the winner of the three-year-old class for trotters at Buffalo on the closing day, is owned by Marcus Daly of Montana, and is a filly by Prodigal, 2:16, out of Laura B., by Sable Wilkes, she out of Lyla A., by Arthurton. From the way she went this race, stepping to a record of 2:15½ the second heat, we should say she is a coming trotter.

SHERIFF GRIFFIN, of Yolo county, is the owner of a colt by Stone's Election, from his old mare Lucy by Black Ralph, that is a natural trotter and fast as anybody's colt. Mr. Griffin's son drove this colt a quarter in 32 seconds the other day and he has had no training but a little road work. Old Lucy used to be the champion road mare of Yolo in her day.

CHIMES, by Electioneer, has eight descendants in the 2:10 list, showing never approached by any other stallion at fourteen years of age. Fantasy, 2:06; The Monk, 2:08¾; The Abbot, 2:08¾; Merry Chimes, 2:08½; Ed Easton, 2:09 3-5, go to his credit, while his daughters have produced Dare Devil, 2:09¾; Lady of the Manor, 2:07¼; and his son, Almy Chimes, is the sire of Silver Chimes, 2:08¼.

JAMES FARIS JR., of Sacramento, will have on exhibition at the State Fair three well-matched road teams and several good single roadsters, which will be for sale. These horses are all standard-bred and are not only good lookers, but they are well broke and fast steppers. Mr. Faris will be pleased to show them at any time during the fair. His address is 601 I street, Sacramento.

KNIGHT, sire of Anaconda 2:06, is inbred to the Wilkes strain and has a trotting record of 2:22½. His sire is Woodford Wilkes, by George Wilkes, and his dam is China Wilkes, by Adrian Wilkes, another son of George Wilkes. Besides Knight 2:22½, China Wilkes has also produced the trotter Jennia Wilkes 2:21½, and the pacers L. L. D. 2:08¾ and Oenone 2:11¼. All these fast ones are sired by Woodford Wilkes. Knight is owned by J. B. Haggin, of Rancho del Paso.

A FEW weeks ago distemper struck the training stables at Palo Alto, and as a result the New York fall sale of colts and fillies in training from this great breeding farm has been declared off. No better looking or speedier lot of youngsters has ever occupied the training stables at Palo Alto, and it is indeed unfortunate that they should receive this set back. Superintendent Covey says that they are doing well, however, and will be ready to show the speed that brings money at the spring sales.

INDIANA, the four-year-old pacer which Knep McCarthy is driving this year, won first honors below 2:10 on Thursday at Joliet, when he stepped the first heat in 2:09¼. Indiana was sired by King of Bellair, out of a mare by Woodford, son of Bonnie Scotland, second dam by St. George. King of Belair is a son of King Rene, out of Alma (dam of Olmado Wilkes, 2:26½), by Almont, second dam by Hooton, son of Despot, so it will be seen that Indiana has a large leaven of running blood. King of Belair is owned by F. C. Fowler, Moodus, Conn.

THE stallion Philosopher, now twelve years of age and owned at Santa Rosa, may yet make a fast record. He is a pacer and is by Pilot Wilkes, son of George Wilkes, and is out of a mare by George Wilkes. Philosopher was worked in his three and four-year-old form, but 2:32 was about the best he could do. Last week the Santa Rosa meeting waked the little fellow up and he paced a mile over that track in 2:18. He was taken to Glenbrook Park and may be started there this week. Philosopher has some good-looking colts in Sonoma county.

IT was stated some time ago that Chehalis would hardly be able to win in the 2:04 class this year, as he was handicapped by a set of hopples. This was said after he had been beaten three or four times in slower time than his record. He afterwards downed all the horses that had been heating him, paced to a mark of 2:04¼, the fastest race record of the year, and his owner now wants to sell the horse for a big price with the proviso that he will show three miles in 2:01 or no sale. Probably it was the reins that handicapped Chehalis instead of the hopples.

THE Vienna Trotting Club has decided to build new stands on its track at the Austrian capital. It is the desire of the Club to enlist the artistic and building skill of the best foreign architects, and to that end an international prize competition has been opened. For the three best designs prizes respectively of $600, $400 and $200 will be given. Here is an excellent chance for our American designers and builders of race track buildings to win distinction abroad and incidentally some money. We are pleased to note this progress of the trotter in Austria.

NICO, 2:09½, is not a real race horse this year. He has wonderful speed, but is uncertain. He finished in the ruck in the great $5,000 stake at Readville last Wednesday. The race was a great one and required seven heats to decide. Grattan Boy won fourth, sixth and seventh heats. Time, 2:11¾, 2:14¾, 2:11¼. Caracalla won first and second heats. Time, 2:10, 2:10½. Belle J. won third and fifth heats. Time, 2:11, 2:13½. Town Lady, Mattia Patterson, Stamboulette, Tom Boy, Jayhawker, Jope, McGregor, Red Warranoke, Nico, Spinalong, Preston and Battleton also started and finished in that order.

AT Buffalo last week a story was circulating that E. H. Harriman has purchased John R. Gentry. A correspondent writes: "John R. Gentry is here, in charge of W. J. Andrews, his old trainer, who drove him to the world's record of 2:00½ in 1896. It is said that E. H. Harriman, for whom Andrews drives, has purchased the ex-champion, but this has not been confirmed. Rensselaer Weston, who looks after Mr. Harriman's turf interests, was at Fort Erie, and, in reply to an inquiry regarding the change of owners, said: 'On Wall street we never tell our private business for publication. It is enough to say that Gentry is in Andrews' stable and wears the finest set of light harness ever made for a horse.

A FAVORITE resort for horsemen is The Richelieu, at the junction of Market, Kearney and Geary, where Chas. Newman, owner of Bessie Rankin, 2:16½, and other good ones, is always ready to entertain them. It has been suggested that Charley call the next good colt he buys "Enchillado," and if he is like those dispensed at The Richelieu he will be "hot stuff" and the best thing on earth for the money.

CAVALRY and artillery horses will be more in demand in the United States from now on, and the demand for export to foreign countries will increase. Germany now has 68,000 cavalry and 84,000 artillery; France, 70 000 cavalry and 83 000 artillery; Russia, 107 000 cavalry and 109,000 artillery; Italy, 26,000 cavalry and 33 000 artillery, and Great Britain, 15,000 cavalry and 16,000 artillery. In our own regular army, on a peace footing, the cavalry numbered 6,000 to 3,800 artillery, but at the last session of Congress two additional regiments of the latter were authorized, which about equalizes the numerical strength of the two branches." Breeders who begin now and breed a type of horse suitable for cavalry and artillery purposes will certainly profit by it.

A GENTLEMAN who shipped some range horses to an Eastern State recently found a rather astonishing state of affairs in regard to the size of the horses demanded. He had selected his largest and best workers, supposing that these would sell most readily in the East. To his surprise these were the last horses to be sold, the season having become too far advanced for them. But the little fellows, the ponies that could be sold at $25 to $35 were all picked up at once, and a good many more could have been marketed had he brought them along. The demand for the little ones came mainly from the boys of the city, who are discarding the bicycle for ponies. This at least was the explanation given by the seller, who had to turn away a number who wanted cheap ponies.

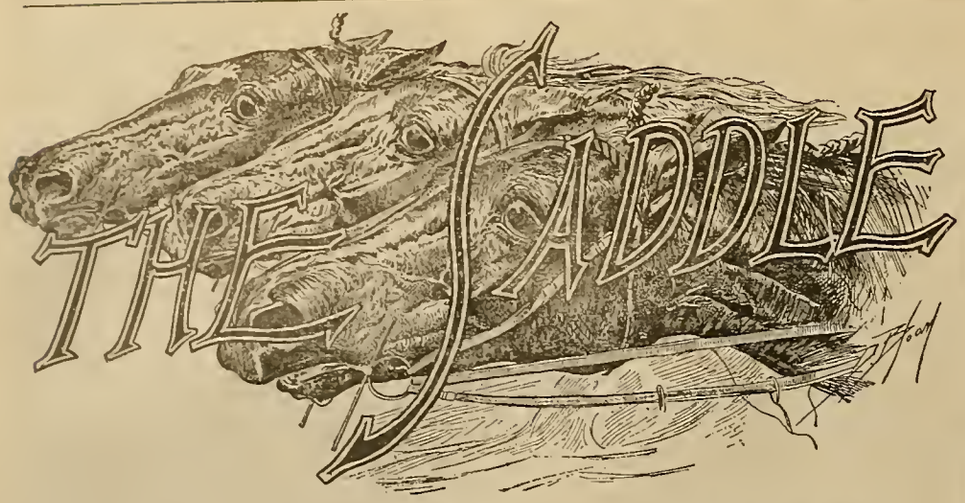
ALL the indications point to a big business in high class trotters during the coming autumn, says the N. Y. Spirit of the Times Although during the hottest days of the late torrid weather the Speedway was not largely patronized, the balance of the time it has been fully appreciated, and on the last two Sundays it has been inconveniently crowded. To old horsemen there is one very pleasing feature in these crowds and that is the large number of new faces. All the old horsemen are there but there is a vast array of recruits who for the first time in Gotham are enjoying the pleasure of speeding on a road specially prepared for the purpose. As soon as the spirit of rivalry gets under headway, which it will after a few lively brushes and defeats, there will be a rush to the market, and it is safe to say that the old roadites will have to look after their laurels.

AN amusing incident occurred at Santa Rosa in the race in which Ed Armstrong's horse Capt. Hackett started on Friday. Capt. Hackett has been getting the flag pretty often this year, and one of the judges who knows Mr. Armstrong intimately, jokingly told him, but with a serious face, that he was tired of seeing that horse pulled and that he must make a better showing. Armstrong said that nothing would please him so much as to see Capt. Hackett win, and added: "He is no good, and if he gets inside the flag I'll eat it." The race was paced and Capt. Hackett beat the flag every heat. The judges called Armstrong to the stand, handed him the flag, and told him they expected him to keep his promise. Mr. Armstrong straightened up and replied: "Judges I am an Irishman, and that flag is red. It would not stay on my stomach. Bring me a green one and I'll keep my word."

IN Japan most of the horses are shod with straw. Even the clumsiest of cart horses wear straw shoes, which, in their cases, are tied around the ankle with straw rope, and are made of the ordinary rice straw, braided so as to form a sole for the foot about half an inch thick. These soles cost about a half-penny a pair. In Iceland horses are shod with sheep's horn. In the valley of the upper Oxus the antlers of the mountain deer are used for the same purpose, the shoes being fastened with horn-pins. In the Soudan the horses are shod with socks made of camels' skin. In Australia horseshoes are made of cowhide. A German, not long ago, invented a horseshoe of paper, prepared by saturating with oil, turpentine and other ingredients. Thin layers of such papers are glued to the hoof till the requisite thickness is attained, and the shoes thus made are durable and impenetrable to moisture.—Horseshoer's Journal.

ON the same track on which he made the record time last year—1:59¼—Star Pointer Thursday again tried for a world's record of a mile in harness, but failed to equal his performance by half a second. The enormous crowd saw a mile in less than two minutes, and it is safe to say that with slightly different conditions the record would have again been broken. An hour before Pointer came out it rained softly for a few minutes, and when, at 5 o'clock, McCleary drove on the track, the drops were still coming down. The track, however, was in good shape, and there was no wind With a running mate Pointer made the quarter in 0:29½, which gave encouragement, and with the half in 0:59 it looked as if he would do something terrific. The terrific pace was kept up to the three-quarter pole, which was reached in 1:28½, and then came the question of endurance. The great horse was urged all through the homestretch, but he did not quite reach the wire in time, the mile being made in 1:59¾.

THE American bred pacer is attracting much attention just now in England, where the pacing gait was unknown until recently. Walter Winans contributes to the August number of the Encyclopedia of Sport a paper on trotting and pacing, with illustrations showing the difference between the two styles of going. Of the pacing gait he says: "Pacing is no modern artificial action, as some would have us believe, but may be traced in the horses of many nations of antiquity that rode without stirrups (examples may be seen in the castle of Egyptian sculptures at Crystal Palace), and is perhaps identical with the ambling so freely alluded to in the literature of the middle ages, while it is noticeable in many of the Cossack horses. Of late years a great number of American pacers have been imported into England, and they may be seen any day in cabs and carts; indeed, the writer has even seen a trotter and a pacer, both high steppers, in a phaeton in the park, the coachman being under the impression that he had to handle a pair of trotters and marveling no doubt at the rolling of his near horse."



P. C. J. C. STAKES.

Rich Plume to Be Raced for at Ingleside During the Coming Meeting.

The stakes to be run at the next meeting of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club at Ingleside the coming fall, winter and spring have been announced. They are twenty-six in number, the same as those announced by the California Jockey Club last week, and two less than run at Ingleside last year. The two dropped from the list are the J. F. Ullman and the Rancho del Paso stakes.

The remaining stakes are practically the same as those of last year, though the Presidio has been transferred from the fall to the spring meeting. The New Year's handicap has been changed to a Christmas handicap. There are eight stakes on the program for this year, with total porses of $9,600. The stakes to be run next year are eighteen in number with a guaranteed valoe of $27,250, or a total of $36,850. The announcement is also made that there will be no purse of less than $400 given at Ingleside. The list of stakes to be given in full next week is as follows:

The Evergreen Stakes—For three-year-olds and upward, $15 entrance, guaranteed value $1,500. One mile and an eighth (heats).

The California Steeplechass—For three-year-olds and upward, guaranteed valne $1,000. Full course.

CALIFORNIA STATE FAIR.

Prospects For One of the Most Successful Fairs Ever Held on the Coast.

The State Fair opens at Sacramento on Monday next, and already the Park and Pavilion are busy places.

Secretary Smith says that every "space" in the Pavilion has been taken, and among the applicants are people from San Francisco and as far south as Los Angeles. One manufacturer in the latter city has been asked to be allowed to secore space for four years in advance. He writes that he recognizes the fact that the best way to display his wares and advertise his business is to make exhibits at the State Fair.

The Superintendent of the creamery department writes that one leading California firm will make the most complete exhibit of new inventions and appliances in that line ever seen at any fair. It will occupy a space 50x50 feet and will include portable refrigerators, such as are now employed in a variety of industries.

There will be no regular county exhibits this year, but individuals and companies will make large displays of horticultural and other agricultural products. Sacramento county will however, which is now being prepared by Mrs. E. Shields of Rontiers.

John Stanton, Superintendent of the art department, writes Secretary Smith from San Francisco that, while the year has been a very quiet one among the artists, he is getting together an excellent collection of pictures and other works of art, and expects to have a very attractive display in that department.

The Directors have engaged Neale's California Exposition Band to play at both Park and Pavilion. No better choice could be made, for the musical talent.

Every night during the fair there will be an entertainment of a light but pleasing nature by specialty artists. Among these will be the O'Malleo children, fancy dancers. At 3 o'clock each afternoon there will be the usual comic show for children.

For the Park the outlook is eqoally bright. There will be herds of exhibition cattle from places outside the State, including Lovelocks and Reno, Nev. The exhibits of swine will be on a larger scale than ever before, and every prominent breeder in the State will be represented.

Upward of five huodred stalls will be occupied by horses at the Park, and nearly as many more by cattle and other classes of livestock.

The fixed racing events have all filled well, and the lovers of that class of sport will be certain to be well entertained. At the conclusion of the fair racing will be resumed and carried on until the end of the month by the California Jockey Club, of which Thomas H. Williams is President.

Two carload of runners from Montana arrived at the track on Tuesday, and on Thursday a whole train load got in from the East.

Bridle Path for Golden Gate Park.

Those who enjoy equestrian exercise will learn with satisfaction that the Commissioners of Golden Gate Park have decided to build a bridle path to the Cliff House for their exclusive use. At a recent conference of members of the board it was decided that in view of the fact that drives, roadways, bicycle paths and footpaths had been provided it was time to do something for that part of the community who are horseback riders.

In accordance with that decision President A. B. Spreckels of the commission and Park Superintendent McLaren surveyed the proposed path last Tuesday afternoon. It will be constructed fourteen feet wide, and beginning not far from the lodge, will pass over the highest points in the great play grounds, with the exception of Strawberry Hill, and end at the Cliff House.

The route selected will cross the main drive three times and at various altitudes will afford magnificent views of this beautiful public domain. Its principal points of interest include the speed track, the main drive, the museum, the proposed site of the new music stand, and concourse, the ocean and Sutro Heights.

One of the great attractions of the bridal path will be the picturesque sections through which it will pass—portions of the park almost entirely unknown to the general public. It will be diversified with open reaches, shady lanes, rustic bridges and as nearly as possible laid out in imitation of the famous driving course in Central Park, New York. It is expected that by reason of the superior beauties of San Francisco's celebrated outing place it can be eventually made even more attractive than that after which it is to be modeled.

Work on the path will be commenced at once and completed as soon as possible.

St. Louis and Saratoga.

Two prominent tracks, one West and one East, have closed their racing accounts for the year of grace 1898, St. Louis and Saratoga. The St. Louis meeting of ninety days has been one of prosperty and good management and fairly good racing. The city across the big bridge has shown its liking for honorably conducted racing and would no doubt afford good support for at least thirty days more, but on the whole it is better that the meeting should close within the limits prescribed by law. St. Louis patrons of the best of open air diversions will be all the keener for the opening of the season of 1899, because of the long months that must elapse before they can see the thoroughbreds in strennous contention over the safe and convenient Fair Grounds track. Next fall the St. Louis officials should divide their ninety days into two meetings with an interval of a month or six weeks, so that the pleasant racing weather of August and September could be included in their turf season. Of course, the same end could be attained by a later opening that has been customary there.

This early closing at St. Louis will bring many horses and turfmen to take part in Chicago's closing months. The fresh element will be welcome. Gath, Timemaker, Ruckvidere, Miss Marion, Forbush, Verify, Belle of Memphis, Watchmaker, Gibralter, Ed Farrell, Wilson, Fireside and Silver Set are all good horses and most of them will be here, along with many lesser lights of horsedom, to swell the attractions of Harlem and Hawthorne.

It is a question whether the Saratoga meeting has been a financial success. Could the famous old course at this country's most captivating summer resort secure open dates for its meeting it is more than probable that racing there would be eminently successful from every point of view; but, under existing conditions it is difficult to make financial ends meet. In the main, the racing there, though as a rule characterized by small fields, has been very good, even to the point of breaking several track records. As usual, Western owners captured their full share of the money offered. It is to be hoped that the Jockey Club can find a way next year to give the historic old track a better chance in the way of more days free from competition.—Daily Racing Form.

Is Ikey Jake a Ringer?

The races at South Park Sonday afternoon, says the Eureka Humboldt Times, drew a good crowd and furnished splendid sport, but there were charges that Ikey Jake, the winner of all the events, was a "ringer." A protest made after the last race contained the charge that he was a fast horse from San Francisco, that he was known there by another name, and that no change of cognomen had been recorded, as required by the Blood Horse Association rules. It is certain Ikey Jake is a fast one, for he easily outfooted his field in every event. And he is a good one, too, for he ran the five-eights after being kept over an hoor at the post, and then the two heats in the three-eighths, and looked fit to do it all over again.

Four horses entered for each event. In the five-eighths dash the starters were Elliott's Ikey Jake, Tierney's Fi Fi and Joe K. and Sinclair's Cinderella. In the pools Ikey Jake sold favorite with Cinderella second. An hour was consumed in starting, but once off Ikey Jake took the lead and was never headed. The time was 1:04½. Fi Fi was second, Cinderella third and Joe K. fourth.

In the three-eighths repeat, the starters were Ikey Jake, Quinn's Sandow III, Mills' Addie A. and Knight's Happy Day. Ikey Jake won consecutive heats in 0:47, with Sandow second and Addie A. third.

Then came the trouble. A protest was entered against Ikey Jake by Knight, who claimed that the horse was racing under an assumed name and had no right to the purses. The matter was taken under consideration with the result that yesterday Thomas Hanley, who gave the races, paid over to Ikey Jake's owner, Elliott, $60, representing first money in both races. Mr. Haney claimed he knew Ikey Jake by no other name, and that anyway, he had barred no horses. The judges, Dr. Backenstose, P. Quinn and L. Hunt thought that the protest should have been made before and not after the races.

[From a correspondent at Eureka, we learn that Ikey Jake is a large, rangy chestnut horse weighing about 1,100 pounds, with white star in his forehead, and about seven years old. He is a bad actor at the post]

10,000 ENDORSERS!

"I have thoroughly tested CONTINENTAL OINTMENT, and I have found it the best article for its purpose I have ever used. It keeps the hoof soft and healthy and growing, and for cracked heels, scratches and the like, it is simply perfect."
WM. B FASIG,
(Then Secretary N. O. Fair Association).

"I had a fine pacer and his feet were sore and full of fever and corns; he was not fit to drive on the roads, and to-day I can drive him as far and as hard as anybody's horse, and it will not make him sore nor lame. He was cured with CONTINENTAL OINTMENT. Our druggist keeps it through my recommendation."
R. H. LYTLE, Palatine, Ill.

Any Druggist or Harness Dealer can easily get CONTINENTAL OINTMENT for you, or we will send a can on receipt of price.

Saddle Notes.

SOME good racing is being done by the horses at Glenbrook Park.

THERE will be three hundred runners at Sacramento by the time the Fair opens.

CASH DAY, the famous old runner, has at last been retired permanently from the turf.

DUTCH, the big Oregon sprinter, which has run so well in Montana, is to be shipped to California and will start here in the short distance races.

BOB MCKIBBON is back from the East and his stentorian voice will be heard announcing the results of the races at the State Fair next week.

TOM BOYLE has a yearling colt by imp. Artillery out of Obsidian's dam, that is already 15½ hands high, shows speed and looks like a race horse.

REPORTS from the East are to the effect that there will be as many horses shipped to California for the winter meetings as have been here any previous year.

AT Anaconda, on the 22d of this month, White Fern won a race for two-year-olds, and the few mutuals held on the colt paid $444 10 to win and $55.45 for place.

ONE hundred and eighteen is the number for which the first acceptance has been made for the Melbourne Cup, and strange to say, exactly a like number remain in the Caulfield Cup.

HELEN WREN, by Wyandotte Chief, a mare that gave great promise in her work, was so badly cut down in a race at St. Louis last week that she will have to be retired to the breeding ranks.

HARRY GILMORE has sold Bosque Bonita Place, Ky., the farm of the late General Abe Buford and former home of the great race horse Enquirer, to George H. Watson, of Frankfort, Ky., for $15,125. The farm contains 121 acres.

W. A. PINKERTON has sold Florondo for $5,000 to G. B. Morris. He recently sold Candleback for $6,000, thus receiving $11,000 for the two horses he purchased from B. J. Johnson for $2,500, in addition to the purses they won.

THE regular starting gate was laid off at the recent Aqueduct meeting and a Western one substituted. The new barrier proved a vast improvement over the old, as it operated noiselessly and does not alarm the fields of horses aligned behind it.—Spirit of the Times.

THE Coney Island Jockey Club have extended the courtesies of the race track for the Autumn meeting to Rear-Admirals Sampson and Schley and the Captains and officers of the naval squadron. The meeting began on August 23d and will end on September 10th

GOODRICH, ch c, 3, by Patron—Edith Gray, winner of the Great Western Handicap at Washington Park, Chicago, one mile and a half in 2:30¼, has broken down in his work and will be retired for the balance of the season, and it is feared his breakdown will be permanent.

CAPTAIN W. F. FORBES, assistant superintendent of the Pinkerton agency, was presented with a diamond ring at Harlem last week. The present was made by bookmakers and race track patrons on account of his conduct during the raid at Hawthorne a few days previous.

A MISTAKEN idea is prevalent as to the relationship between Mr. W. C. Whitney and Mr. Sydney Paget, the latter being spoken of as Mr. Whitney's son-in-law. As a matter of fact Mr. Sydney Paget is a brother of Mr. Hugh Almeric Paget, who is the son-in-law of Mr. Whitney.

CANDELARIA, Burns & Waterhouse's good colt, won the Chicago Stakes, worth $1,185 to the winner, at Harlem last week. The distance was one mile and was run in 1:40¾. Thorpe had the mount and rode at 107 pounds The finish was a driving one and Candelaria only beat Dr. Sheppard by a neck.

AN election of directors for the ensuing year was held at the office of the Latonia Jockey Club on August 22d. The old Board was re-elected. The directors will meet some time after Secretary Hopper's return, to select officials for the Fall meeting. It is hardly likely that there will be any change in the staff of officials.

CAPTAIN PAGET, of the Royal Navy of England, accompanied his brother Sidney Paget, racing partner and son-in-law of ex-Secretary Whitney, to the races at Sheepshead Bay last week, and cleaned up at least $20,000 playing the horses. Captain Paget will visit San Francisco next week to inspect the Union Iron Works.

NEW ORLEANS racing this winter promises to be a better game than ever before, and there will be a lot more money offered. The stake list will be enlarged, according to reports from the Crescent City, and at least $10,000 more will be given. One or two of the stakes will be cut down in value, but the amounts cut will be added to other races. The idea is to give at least three stake races a week.

PRESIDENT A. B. SPRECKELS will preside at all the races at Agricultural Park. Being a breeder himself, and taking the deepest interest in horse racing, he proposed to see that racing is conducted in a manner that will reflect credit upon the State Agricultural Society. During the race meet he will be assisted at different times by members of the Society, and T. H. Williams and M. F. Tarpey have consented to be on hand for the purpose of lending their services toward keeping racing up to a high standard.

"THIS is the place I long have sought and mourned because I found it not," said a gentleman the other day after he had stepped in "Among the Barrels" at 863 Market street, and found that he could help himself to the very best in the market, or be waited on as best suits his taste. *

AFTER the first of the year Trainer James McCormick will sever his connection with the firm of Burns & Waterhouse. The relations between trainer and owners in this case are entirely amicable and Mr. McCormick will quit with the best of feeling for the California firm. He will probably engage with a big Eastern racing stable.

MR. HENDRIE said he bought Martimas for $750 a year ago. The horse was trained in the snow. He carried 118 pounds, three pounds more than the conditions called for. He has shown fast work on dry track but does not like the mud. He had started six times before, finishing first four times, being second once and only once placed.

From Melbourne the death is reported of Trainer, by Mosket—Pongawerewere, who was foaled in 1884. Trainer was a handsome massive horse. A few of his stock have raced, but he has been chiefly used to beget stock for export, and a large number by him have been sent to the East. Trainer was stationed in the western district of Victoria.

A REMARKABLE circumstance about the Open Steeplechase at Flemington was that the field contained three of the biggest horses at present in training in Australia, viz., Wheriside, Riot and Tremolo, each of whom is over seventeen hands high. The action of three big ones is no, as a rule, suitable to heavy going, and Blackthorn beat them all badly.

THE Directors of the State Agricultural Society contemplate getting up a cup race two and a quarter miles, as an additional track attraction during the Fair. President Spreckels will add a gold cup, and the event will be known as the Directors' Stake. It is thought the race will be worth $1,000 to the winner.

ONE of the big stake events in Montana will be the Labor Day Handicap for a purse of $5,000. It is now believed that Marcus Daly will start Ogden, who has displayed such good form in the East this year, Some of the most formidable prospective starters are Scottish Chieftain Senator Bland, 'Ostler Joe, Hand Or and Byron McLelland.

MR. J. S. WALKER, a resident of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN who resides in Honolulu, writes us that Col. Wm. H. Cornwall of that place purchased the mare Venus, daughter of Verona, and took here to the Islands. She has started in four races and won all of them. Venus now holds the Hawaiian record of 1:16 for six furlongs, 0:49 for a half mile, and 1:46 for a mile against Sympathic's Last and others.

AT the first day's racing of the Derby September meeting in England last Tuesday, August Belmont's three-year-old chestnut gelding, Bridegroom II., won the Peaks Stakes, a handicap of £600, by subscription of £3 each, for three-year-olds and upward. The Helpar Maiden Plate was won by the Duke of Westminster's bay colt, Calveley. Lord Harewood's Crenebill ran second and the Lorillard-Beresford Stahla's Bayard II. was third.

STARTING horses with the Australian gate is a success whenever it is conducted in an honest and sensible way. The gate was designed for the purpose of making horses line up and wait for the word. To allow jockeys to go back and come up to the gate on a run is permitting something that the machine was designed to prevent and to use a recall flag simply adds another to the many cunningly devised methods by which good starts are prevented.

FRANK FOWLER, who will manage the coming meeting at Newport, Ky., in a recent interview, spoke as follows: "I am getting things in shape for our races, and if we can't have a good meeting with high class horses, then it is no fault of mine. I will see that only the best horses get stable room. We don't want our track crowded with a lot of broken down selling-platers, and, rather than fill up the stalls with no account skates, I will close up the track to racing and use the place to grow mushrooms."

JOHN MACKAY, Superintendent of Rancho del Paso, has gone East to confer with J. B. Haggin in regard to the proposed sale of thoroughbred yearlings in England. There are over 100 fillies at Rancho del Paso by well-known English, American and Australian stallions, and competent judges agree that much better prices could be obtained by selling in England than in America. It is certainly a daring innovation to seek a market 6,000 miles away, but the venture is almost sure to prove a success, as the blood of Gold Finch, Watercress, Golden Garter and Artillery is well and favorably known to the turfmen of Great Britain. In a few years the cable will doubtless tell of the success of a California-bred youngster in the Oaks or some other classic English race.

DURING the present autumn meeting at Sheepshead Martimas, who won the Futurity, has three stake engagements. They are the Flatbush of $3,000, at seven furlongs, to-day; the Autumn of $3,000, distance the Futurity course, September 5th, and the Great Eastern Handicap, of $5,000, also the Futurity course, closing day, September 10th. The conditions of the Flatbush are a trifle peculiar in one respect. Weights are pitched at 115 pounds, winners of $1,400 after August 15th 120 pounds, and maidens 105 pounds. Jean Beraud is among the Flatbush nominations. If he should be reserved for this stake he would get in at 115 pounds, while Martimas would be obliged to carry 120. With Jean Beraud and Kingdon absentees there would be a plethora of material. Among the youngsters who would meet Martimas are Autumn, Dr. Eichberg, Sir Hubert, Mr. Clay, Ahom, Genheim, Scannel, His Lordship, Duke of Middleburg and The Lady in Blue of the Futurity company. Other clever eligibles are Lomero, Ethelbert, Filon d'Or, Kentucky Colonel and Marblehead. In the Autumn Stakes Martimas and Jean Beraud have each incurred penalties that 6x their imposts at 129 pounds. If Martimas can give Jean Baraud anything approaching a contest at even weights in the Autumn Stakes, turf patrons will concede that Mr. Hendrie owns a genuine crackerjack.

JOCKEY CLEM JENKINS, who has been riding with some success at Chicago, served three years in the United States Navy, and was aboard the Charleston. He visited Bay District track when his vessel was in the city and hearing of the big salaries paid the crack jockeys, concluded to become one himself. He engaged as a stable boy with Corrigan, and after two years in that line, went with Dr. Rowell. Jenkins is a remarkably bright young man and hopes soon to have a chance to make a name for himself in the saddle. He is twenty-three years old and comes from East Boston. He can ride at 100 pounds. He does not have to depend on riding for a living, for he is an expert stenographer and typewriter.

LEXINGTON society plunged on the Lady in Blue to win the Futurity. The Lady in Blue is the property of Mrs. Annie Lyle Bradley Barnes, wife of the well-known turfman, Col. William S. Barnes, and leader in Lexington's Four Hundred. Mrs. Barnes told a friend that her filly was right and the story spread that the mare was a sure thing. Many people went to Cincinnati and Louisville to play in the poolrooms. Others bet by wire, but all got some of their money on and lost. Mrs. Barnes is a niece of Gov. Bradley and had told her friends in Frankfort that the filly had a chance, and the Frankfort people also played her. The filly was given to Mrs. Barnes by her husband, who was about to send it away from the farm when his wife took a fancy to it.

AFTER the crowd had become almost exhausted waiting for the start of the Futurity at the Coney Island race track last week. Lander, the quick-witted leader of the band that furnished the music during the day, livened up matters by playing music that was appropriate to the occasion. He, after the tenth false break, had his musicians strike up "Arrah, go on, he's only fooling." a bit of sarcasm that brought forth both laughter and applause from the crowd. And so during the long wait he led his band to play the popular songs, "Get your money's worth," then, "Oh, dear, what can the matter be?" reaching the climax with "We won't go home till morning." The crowd took all the delay with wonderful good nature, in spite of the heat, simply because there was nothing else for it to do.

A WELL-KNOWN turfman writes from Saratoga as follows, as to Hildreth's stable: "I must confess to a great admiration for the excellent condition of all of Sam Hildreth's horses which are racing here, which include Candleblack, Hurly Burly, Twinkler, etc. I allude to them as Sam Hildreth's merely for convenience, for while he trains them they are the property of "Billy" Pinkerton of Chicago, and are ridden by Clawson, the boy who won the Futurity last year on L'Alouette. There will be a case for the Stewards of the Jockey Club when Clawson goes down to Sheepshead Bay for the fall meeting, arising out of a disputed claim by his former employers, Atkin & Lottridge, the California turfmen. It is said that the boy has been treated very badly by these turfmen and Mr. Clawson, his father, intends to bring the matter before the Jockey Club."

COMMENTING on the breeding of Jeddah the Special Commissioner says: "It is another proof of what nonsense it is for people to say, as they constantly do, that great race mares do not succeed at the stud. Pilgrimage, having produced a Derby and an Oaks winner, has done herself full justice, as Busybody would have done had Meddler been allowed to remain and run here as a three-year-old." But is it such nonsense after all? Jeddah and Meddler may be said to be merely the exceptions that prove the rule. Not only in England, but in the colonies the great race mares, speaking generally, have been stud failures. What really first-class horse in New Zealand can be pointed to as having descended from a dam that made a mark on the turf. Lurline in Australia left Darebin, but no other of her progeny was worth anything. And what about the dams of Galtee More, Persimmon, Ladas, and Isinglass—the more illustrious of Jeddah's immediate predecessors to gain Derby honors. If they ran at all they did no good on the race course.—New Zealand Referee.

THE thoroughbred horse, as is well known, is possessed of highly nervous temperament (says the Live Stock Journal). Occasionally racehorses have their manes plaited a few days before entering the field of competitors, and are so decorated on the day of contest. Mr. John Porter says he is no advocate for performing this operation "because it gives the horse an idea that something unusual is going to happen, and, after the plaiting process has been repeated a few times, some horses become nervous and excited by it." He also says that that grand mare La Fleche was, like all St. Simon's progeny, of a highly nervous and excitable temperament. When taken to Manchester to run for the Lancashire Plate, of £10 000, the noise, the traffic, and the crowd completely upset her. When Mr. Porter went to get the mare ready for the race he found her trembling all over, and sweating so profusely "she looked as if she had been dragged through a horse pond." Yet this condition did not break her high courage, for she ran one of the best races she ever ran in her life, beating Orvieto (4 years, 136 pound) by three lengths, while she, a three-year-old, carried 134 pounds.

MOST of the fresh New York alleged turf reporters are hammering away at Starter Fitzgerald in ferocious style since the race for the Futurity. It is not likely that their ill-natured and unjust howling will affect his position seriously, however. Fitzgerald himself lays the delay on the jockeys exclusively, saying: "It was utterly impossible to get the field away before I did, for the reason that a number of the jockeys, who have been severely disciplined, acted outrageously. The horses were all tractable, and on several breaks at least eighteen of them were aligned like cavalry chargers. The others were so badly handled by their jockeys that it was out of the question to drop the flag until everybody could get away fairly. It would have been an injustice to the public to have left some of the heavily supported choices standing still, so I simply waited until I could get the field away together. When the flag fell, all but the Duke of Middleburg got off to a fair start, but later on I saw Martimas crowding one of the Fleischmann horses. The jockeys were to blame for the trouble, and they have been punished," It seems to have been a case very much like that of the American Derby of 1893, where the horses were at the post longer than they were in the Futurity, and plainly because of the determination of certain of the jockeys to secure the best start for the great $60,000 race.—Daily Racing Form

HARNESS RACING IN CALIFORNIA, while conducted on a very limited scale this year, owing to the fact that the usual district meetings have not been held, has been of a very high class. Had it not been for the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders Association, which stepped into the breach and gave a three weeks' meeting at Oakland early in the season, there would have been so few harness horses in treining in California thet in all probability the State Fair people would have been compelled to make up their program entirely of running races. The Breeders meeting gave the trainers an opportunity, however, which they were glad to take advantage of, and the meeting which followed at Santa Rosa last week furnished proof positive that the harness horse still fills a very prominent and popular place in the eye of California people. Here in the business center of the State, while from October to May the public are furnished with continuous and high-class running races, a large attendance at harness meetings of more than a few days' duration cannot be expected, but through the country districts of California there exists a love for and a desire to see the American trotter and pacer in contests of speed. There are at least twenty-five interior towns in this State where a week's program of trotting and pacing events will not only attract large entry lists each year, but if properly managed can be made to pay handsomely. The breeding, developing and training of harness horses has been one of the greatest interests of the State. If the amount of money paid for California horses that have been exported to other States and foreign countries could be totalized, the amount would reach away up into the millions and surprise even those who know what a valuable industry it has been to this commonwealth. While the financiel depression which struck this country a few years ago affected the horse industry as it did everything else, the greatest blow to the breeding interests was struck when our district agricultural associations were compelled to cease giving their annual fairs on account of the cutting off of the State appropriations for such exhibitions. Without the attraction afforded by displays of blooded horses, cattle, sheep and other live stock, agricultural, horticultural mineral and other products, machinery, the work of the mechanic and the housewife, a simple race meeting was a losing proposition in many places, and the annuel fairs ceased to be. The loss to the assessment roll of the State has been very great as a result, and the necessity of the fairs as a stimulant to the breeding of the best stock, the best fruits and the best grains, is now recognized by every person who has given the subject any thought whatever. With the resumption of the fairs will come the resumption of a first-class circuit where both harness horses and runners will contest for supremacy. A complete circuit next year means everything to those engaged in breeding and training harness horses. It means new life in the business, and thousands of dollers put into circulation where there are not ten now. It behooves, therefore, every voter who has the prosperity of the State and its continued upbuilding at heart to weigh this matter carefully in his mind and to work and to vote for those legislative and executive candidates who are in favor of honest progress in this as well as other industries. Every farmer is a stock breeder, and if the breeding of the choicest and best is not to be encouraged and fostered by the State, then there is no sense in encouraging any agricultural or manufacturing pursuit. But we believe the people of the State of California have seen and appreciate the great damage done the State by the cutting off of the Fair appropriations and that their demand will bring about the restoration of those Fairs. If this is done the year 1899 will mark one of the greatest in the breeding history of the State. The spark of life in the harness-horse portion of this industry has been kept alive by the officers of the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders Association and the untiring efforts of the Breeder and Sportsman, which has labored continuously for the good of the cause. The spark has, during the past few weeks, brightened into a brilliant glow and will shine forth like an electric beacon next year, and the American sport, harness racing, will again be the fevorite with the California people. The Eastern States have already experienced a revival in this line and California's turn is coming. Prosperity among the breeders of good horses is approaching, and the pace is a two-minute clip.

LOS ANGELES is getting ready for its great meeting, which opens October 5th. There is no question but it will be the greatest meeting ever held in the metropolis of Southern California, and no horseman who has a horse fit to race can afford to let September 17th go by without making one or more entries in the races to be given there. The trotting and pacing purses of from $800 to $1,500 each are the only "big money" that hes been offered in California this year. The stakes and purses for the runners are as liberal. The 17th, which is the day of closing, is the last day of the State Fair, so that every owner will know about what speed he will have to get out of his horse to win in his class. Horses that have not won up to that time, owing to the fact that some of the very fast ones have always been pitted against them, will have a chance to win some good purses. Look over the advertisement in the Breeder and Sportsman to-day and paste the date of closing entries in your hat.

THOS. CARTER, the millionaire car builder of Newark, Cal., died in this city last week. He was a brother and partner in business of Martin Carter, the well known horseman and owner of the Nutwood Stock Farm, Irvington, Cal. Before his death Thos. Carter, who was unmarried, deeded his property interests to his brother Martin. Deceased was one of the leading business men and financiers of this city, having been in early days a partner of the late James G. Fair. He was a native of Ireland and aged 59 years.

ATTENTION is called to the advertisement of the standard bred horses for sale by the well known Napa Stock Farm, owned by E. P. Heald of this city. These horses have all been bred for racing purposes, and there are good winners, and first class roadsters among them. Also some high class colts and fillies by such sires as McKinney 2:11¼, and others.

While Jesper Ayres was being worked at Reedville prepering for his races at Rigby and Old Orchard, he wes the hero of the fastest mile made by a trotter this yeer unless it wes on en express train. A. J. Lee wes working him and when coming down to the wire at e pretty fast clip the hit broke and the horse sterted out to run; he went down to the half in fifty-eight seconds end made the mile in 2:05¼. Lee set perfectly still and telked to the horse. He ren six miles before he was willing to give up, but he was not scered the leest bit.

Many California horsemen insist on having the Putnem nail used when their horses are shod, as they cannot efford to take any chances with poor or defective nails.

Anaconda Results.

Good Prices For Racers.

An auction sele of horses in training was held in New York lest Saturday, and was very successful. The telegraph reports the prices of none but those bringing over $1,000, end they are as follows:

High Degree, cb f, 2, by His Highness—Nettie; S. Peget, $5,000.

Rere Perfume, b c, 2, by His Highness or Lndwig—Early Blossom; G. B. Morris, $3,000.

Big Indian, h c, 2, by His Highness—Squaw; A. J. Joiner, $1,125.

Miss Tenny, b f, 3, by Tenny—Fair Vision; H. Unna, $2,500.

Ben Hadad, h c, by Hindoo—Alge; S. C. Hildreth, $2,500.

Aluminum for Cavalry.

Russian military authorities for some time past have mede an effort to employ eluminum in piece of iron, copper and steel for all articles of equipment cerried by infantry, in order to reduce the weight as much as possible. With the same object the Russian minister of war has ordered aluminum horseshoes for the cavalry.

The first trial is now being mede by Finland dregoons, and the horses are shod es follows: A shoe of the new aluminum model is placed on one foot, the three remaining eboes being of the kind now in use. The trial, which hes already lasted six weeks, seeme to he setisfectory, as the aluminum wears out less rapidly and is less affected by mud end moisture than the ordinery shoe. The difference in weight is about 70 grems (2½ ouncas) on each shoe. The cost is not greater at present, and will be less es soon as the system of manufectuning the new shoes shell heve been perfected.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Game Southern Perch.

Of all the perches of the Southern States there is but one that will strike at the minnow like a bass, fight like a bass and discount a bass when on the table. That is the fish which is locally termed "white perch," but which is as different from the white perch of the Northern and Middle States as a pickerel is different from a chub. It is confined to the waters of northern Louisiana and southwestern Arkansas. Given slowness of current, depth and plenty of room, it is prolific. As a table delicacy it ranks well up with the pompano, the sheepshead, the whitefish, the brook trout and the ouinaniche, all of which have their adherents. In one of the forests of pines, "deep-voiced like Homer," walnuts, oaks, hickories and ash that crown the uplands of northern Louisiana, lies Bodcau lake. In reality it is a bayou, being narrow and long, with a slight current. It rises in Arkansas and flows into the Red river a hundred miles from its source.

The Bodcau fisherman uses no float. The lake bottom is variable. There may be ten feet of water and three yards further on twenty-five feet. It is his business to get down to cold water with his minnow and keep him there swimming. One man will hook his minnow through the back just behind the fin. Another will hook it through both lips and still another through the tail. This last is a killing method, because the white perch, for some reason, prefers to take his minnow head on. It interferes, however, in some measure with the locomotion of the little lure, and is not thought to be a handsome way of doing the thing. A minnow will live longer and give better service, and, possibly escape altogether with his small life, if hooked lightly, but securely, through the upper jaw. This does not hamper his breathing, and, if the sinker be light, he will swim with perfect freedom.

The fisherman will feel no nibble upon his line nor any tug. It will begin to cut the water swiftly, and that is his time. There is a white perch at the other end of it, and he is holding the minnow in his mouth. He has struck it from a distance of six feet, going very fast, and has not checked up. The white perch will sometimes carry a bait in this way for ten yards, then spit it out, not liking the taste of it or having felt the prick of the hook. The tackle is light, the living of his mouth is bony, and a sharp jerk from a strong wrist is needed to sink the barb well in. When struck he will wheel immediately and start for his lair, under some log or submerged brush heap. If the line is given rashly the fisherman may bid him good bye. He will so tangle and wrap it in twenty seconds that it must be broken in order to recover a part of it. If checked in his first rush he will put up a fight that differs in no way from that to be expected of a bass of equal weight. The perch will last as long and is apparently as fast, although he prefers to remain in deep water, where he belongs, and will not break the surface until reeled in close to the boat. As he is brought up, swerving and darting from side to side, he seems a bar of living silver flashing in the yellowish water and makes a singularly handsome picture.

Some of the catches made upon Bodcau lake in past times have been remarkable. It has been nothing unusual for one man to land fifty in a two hours' long trial in the early morning. He used a stout cane pole and yanked his fish from the water by main strength. He was the type of fisherman who is out after meat and has no time to play anything he may have hooked. It was an easy matter for four men to catch a boat load of white perch in a day's fishing, if they are inclined to play the hog. Formerly those fish were caught in such numbers that they could not be used, and were left rotting on the banks.

The flesh of the white perch is snowy, of firm texture and deliciously flavored. The Louisiana way of cooking him is the only way. He is cleaned and rolled in corn meal. He is dropped with companions into a five gallon pot two-thirds full of boiling lard. The terrific heat of the lard browns him almost instantly and prevents the flesh taking up grease. He is taken out by the camp cook, who uses a stick six feet long, with sharpened prongs at the end like the letter Y, spread upon bark or mulberry leaves and allowed to cool partly. Corn bread should be eaten with this fish, and for drink a draught of black coffee, without cream or sugar, and drained from a dented tin cup that is of doubtful cleanness but of generous size.—Inter-Ocean.

Fly-Casters' Banquet.

The annual dinner of the San Francisco Fly-Casting Club was held last Saturday evening. About thirty members were present. Fish Commissioner A. T. Vogelsang presided, officiating as toast master, and presented the season's medals to the respective winners. The medal winners were W. D Mansfield, Dr. E N. Lowry. H. C. Golcher, H. Smyth, H. F. Muller and H. Battu. Short speeches were made by the winning club members and others present, vocal selections were rendered by a quartet from the Loring Club.

Col. Kelleher has had plenty of sport recently at Santa Cruz with rod and line. He has caught fifty-nine salmon, so far, this season. He also contemplates another trip to the Truckee this fall, before going East again.

Chicago Fly-Casters.

The regular medal contests of the Chicago Fly Casting Club were held Saturday afternoon, August 20th, at the North Lagoon, Garfield Park, Chicago. The attendance of members was good. In the long-distance event it is noticeable that ever caster but one sent his line over the 100 foot mark. F. N. Peet won the honor of wearing the long-distance medal with a cast of 118 feet and the distance and accuracy medal with a score of 94 2-3 per cent. The full scores were as follows:

Names.	Long Distance Feet.	Distance & Accuracy Per Cent.	Accuracy & Delicacy Per Cent.	Bait Casting Per Cent.
W. H. Babcock	—	82 1-3	90 1 6	—
L. L. Blackman	—	86 2-3	—	71
C. F. Brown	—	89 2-3	87 2-3	—
C. H. Chadwick	—	—	—	88 2-3
B. W. Goodsell	110	88 2-3	85 1-6	83 1-3
H. Greenwood	—	—	—	83 1-3
H. G. Hascal	109	87 2-3	94	87 2-3
E. R. Letterman	—	81 2-3	90 5-6	85 3-3
C. A. Lippincott	—	90	84 2-3	82 1-3
C. G. Ludlow	108	80 1-3	97 5-6	80 2-3
G. A. Murrell	—	88	84 2-3	83 2-3
F. N. Peet	118	84 2-3	86	85
E. A. Renwick	88	81 2-3	88 2-3	90
G. W. Salter	—	75 1-3	—	83 2-3
A. C. Smith	—	85 1-3	85 5-6	81 3-3

The holders of medals were: for long distance, F. N. Peet; distance and accuracy, F. N. Peet; accuracy and delicacy, C. G. Ludlow; bait casting, H. G. Hascal.

The old idea about "the boy with the beanpole" beating the city man with his fancy fly-rod at catching fish is pretty nearly exploded. It is quite true that there are many country lads who can catch fish readily with the most ordinary kind of tackle, simply because they know the stream where the trout lurk and are fishermen and sportsmen by nature. But there is not doubt that those same country boys, given fine tackle and a knowledge of how to use it, would double, treble and even quadruple their own record bags made previously with the historic beanpole. It doesn't follow either that the city man, simply because he has a fine article of a rod, the best of flies and the finest of leaders, is anything of a fisherman. He may be skillful in wielding his rod and may cast his line with all the dexterity and skill in the world, but unless he is a natural-born fisherman, one in whom the fishing instinct was strong from the time he quit swaddling clothes, he'll never amount to much as a catcher of fish. That class of men the country boy with his beanpole can discount.

In connection with the preliminary work contemplated during the recent trip of Fish Commissioner Alec T. Vogelsang, Fish Commissioner Chas. B. Gould following out the same lines is now in Reno with a view of interesting the people in the preservation of fish in the Truckee river. He proposes to have a survey of the river made and photographs taken of all obstructions from the head of the river at Lake Tahoe to its mouth at Pyramid lake. Mr. Gould is informed that the greatest obstruction to fish in the spawning season is at the Pyramid Indian reservation. This he thinks he can get removed through the intervention of the United States Fish Commissioner. The California Fish Commission is prepared to stock the river with all kinds of fish adapted to the stream, and asks only the co-operation of the people of Nevada in keeping the stream open so that fish can pass from one lake to the other.

The Fish Commissioners have forwarded to W. J. Edwards at Oroville 14,000 trout fry of the cut-throat variety. These young trout were taken at the Lake Tahoe stations Mr. Edwards has had them distributed in the various stream-tributary to American valley. About 50,000 were sent from Lake Tahoe hatchery to Plumas for distribution, but some were put in the streams near Beckwith and Claireville, and the remainder, through the instrumentality of A. C. Flourney, were placed in Red Clover creek and the streams in Genesee valley.

On the Eel river, in Humboldt county, fishing has been steadily improving. The reports from there recently have been so encouraging that quite a party of anglers will proceed to Eureka on the steamer next week and from there to good angling locations along the river. The fish are of fine size and strong and gamey.

Wm. F. Andrus, for several years past connected with the E. T. Allen Co., will leave to-day for Portland. "Bill" will occupy a responsible position with the H. T. Hudson Arms Co. His friends, and they are many, among the sportsmen and trap-shooters wish him every success.

Dave Thom was the recipient of several very fine large trout on Wednesday. Billy McRae sent the fish down from Boca. It is needless to say the fish dinner at "Louis'" was thoroughly enjoyed.

The McCloud river from Baird, up stream, is said to be now in excellent condition for the angler.

GUN.

CARTRIDGE AND SHELL.

Coming Events.

Sept. 4—Golden Gate Gun Club (blue-rocks) Alameda.
Sept. 4—Reliance Gun Club. Webster street, Alameda.
Sept 4—California Wing Club (live birds) Ingleside.
Sept. 11—South End Gun Club (blue-rocks) Colma.
Sept. 11—Olympic Gun Club (live birds). Ingleside.
Sept. 11—Empire Gun Club (blue-rocks) Alameda Point.
Sept. 18—Lincoln Gun Club Picnic and live bird shoot.
Sept. 25—Olympic Gun Club (blue-rocks). Inglesids.
Sept. 25—Alert Gun Club (blue-rocks) Birds Point.

The final live-bird shoot for the season of the California Wing Club will take place at Ingleside to morrow.

Blue-rock shooters will have an opportunity to score at the traps on the Golden Gate and Alert Gun Club grounds in Alameda to morrow.

Bodd Triplett, a boy nine years old, a few days ago, with a single shot 22 rifle, killed a buck in the Santa Cruz mountains near Ben Lemond.

It is stated in an English Sporting paper that the opening of the grouse season in Scotland saw at least ten thousand gunners in the shooting field.

A party of Sonoma sportsmen composed of Carl Dresser, Jas. Pierrat, Chas. Wiese and J. Kerridge recently had a very successful deer hunt in the Sonoma mountains near Glen Ellen.

A reference to the "game laws" published in this issue of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN will convey information relative to changes in the law by various county authorities throughout the State.

W. C. Hasong and his two sons recently killed in the Kings river canyon, one of the largest black bears that has been seen in that district. They baited the bear with fresh meat and lay in wait for him two nights before they succeeded in getting their repeaters at work on him.

Reports from the vicinity of Cloverdale, Pieta and Hopland, points on the line of the San Francisco and North Pacific Railway Company show that the opportunities are excellent for good quail hunting on the opening of the season. Quail are said to be very plentiful in that district.

R. M. Newell, who has been connected with the Selby Smelting and Lead Company for the past twelve years, has resigned from the employ of the Selby Company in order to take charge of the Pacific Coast interests of the United States Smokeless Powder Company, the manufacturers of Gold Dust smokeless powder.

J. Downey Harvey has the record so far during this season on the County Club preserves. Last Sunday he killed two fine fat bucks, one of them being the largest deer killed this year at the Country Club; he weighed 140 pounds dressed; the second buck was a good-sized one, too, weighing 134 pounds. The other successful hunters for the day were Messrs. Baker and Van Sicklen, who dropped a buck each.

Charles F. Corriea, a commission and poultry dealer at 406 Davis street, was arrested on Saturday last for having wild ducks in his possession and for sale. He was tried and convicted and on Thursday was sentenced to pay a $100 fine by Judge Conlan, who remarked when passing sentence that he "would make the first fine a light one." The State Board of Fish and Game Commissioners have scored another victory. Heretofore these cases met with but small fines on conviction. The pirate who killed and shipped the game from Los Banos was a reluctant but effective witness on the trial.

J. A. Butters, Charles Buttars and Alex Rosborough have just returned from an outing in Plumas county, where they enjoyed good duck shooting, but found a scarcity of large game and but few fish. Mr. Roshoroogh states that there have been hundreds of campers in the Big Meadows, and that the streams in that vicinity are entirely fished out. They found it impossible to catch anything but fingerlings, and the only large trout they saw were a few that had been caught by Indians some fifteen miles below the Big Meadow proper. Mountain quail were found plentiful on the trip, but no grouse was seen except a few that had been killed in advance of the open season by a party residing near the Meadows.

The exhibitions of consummate skill with a shotgun, lately given by Rolla Heikes, of Dayton, O., now the champion target shot of the world, are something to marvel at. During his practice work prior to his match on August 13th last, with Fred Gilbert, of Spirit Lake, Ia., Mr. Heikes did some really wonderful work. The conditions of the match for the E. C. trophy, which trophy is emblematic of the inanimate target championship of the world, were specially made as severe as possible, and as varied, in order that the test of marksmanship might be a real one. The conditions are: 50 targets, unknown angles; 50 targets, expert rules, one man up, and 25 pairs; 150 targets all told, at three different styles of shooting. In the match itself Mr. Heikes broke 140 out of the 150, a great piece of work, but he surpassed that total on no less than three different occasions while in practice, breaking 143, 144 and 146 respectively. The curious part of the total of 146 is that it was made while shooting a friendly race for practice with Gilbert himself on the Thursday before the race. In that race Heikes broke all his targets at unknown angles, and all his targets at expert rules, making 100 straight. He then ran thirteen straight in the pairs, losing the second target of his seventh pair, making his total run one of 113 straight, and finishing the 150 targets with only four lost out of that number. This score, although it was made in practice, will stand a long time before it is beaten. From the above totals it will readily be seen that Mr. Heikes has thoroughly deserved the honorable title of champion.

Mr. Phil B. Bekeart, the well-known Coast representative of the Hunter Arms Co., leaves San Francisco to-day on an important business trip to the East. He will proceed direct to Fulton, N. Y., and thence to New York, New Haven and Norwich, Conn., Springfield and Boston, Mass., Philadelphia and Chicago. Mr. Bekeart also represents on the Pacific Coast the following well-known firms: Smith & Wesson Co.;

Marlin Firearms Co.; A. J. Reach Co.; Stewart & Starr, N. Y., Atlas Gun Co.; Markham Air Rifle Co.; H. Werblemann, N. Y.; The "E. C." and Schultze Smokeless Powders, etc. Mr. Bekeart contemplates arriving in this city again on his return about October 1st; it is very probable that he will be accompanied by Harvey McMurchy.

At Ingleside.

Olympic Gun Club members gathered at Ingleside last Sunday, the occasion being the regular monthly blue-rock shoot. The weather, barring a somewhat strong breeze, was all that trap-shooters could desire. The scores, as a rule, were very good. In the regular club match the highest possible score was a credit of twenty-five breaks, several of the shooters, with the handicap allowance, passed the full credit line; they were: W. J. Golcher, 26 out of 30; "Slade," 30 out of 35; Owens, 29 out of 33; Murdock, 28 out of 33. Back scores: Haight, 27 straight and Nauman, 26 out of 27. Succeeding the club shoot, a practice squad composed of C. A. Haight, Otto Feudner, Clarence Nauman and "Edwards" (E. L. Schultz) faced the traps and made the most remarkable record of 99 out of a possible 100. Nauman being so unlucky as to miss one bird out of his twenty-five. This performance eclipses the shooting of the Lincoln squad, two weeks ago, who made 89 out of a possible 90. Nauman in the latter shooting being the only one who lost a target. A summary of the handicap allowances and scores in the regular club race is as follows:

	Shot at.	Broke.		Shot at.	Broke.
M. O. Feudner	27	25	H. H. White	31	22
C. Nauman	27	24	F. J. Schultz	33	24

A Youthful Nimrod.

The following hunting exploit is noted in the Santa Barbara Times-Index and is an apt index of the times, showing that the average American, young or old, is equal to any emergency that requires the use of a "shootin'—iron" for settlement: "Lee Thomas, the twelve-year-old son of A. C. Thomas, who lives on First and G streets in this city, shot and killed a full-grown deer at the foot of Strawberry Peak, Tuesday morning, with a 22-caliber rifle. The Thomas boy and two younger boys named Johnson, from Rialto, left their camp at Smithson's ranch, Tuesday morning, for the purpose of hunting yerba santa. They took a 22 caliber rifle along thinking they might see a squirrel. When they were about three-quarters of a mile from camp they saw three deer in the canyon below them.

"Young Thomas raised his gun and fired five shots in quick succession, the deer standing perfectly still. The fifth shot hit one of the deer in the eye, killing it instantly. He had but one more shot in the magazine and let go at one of the others, hitting it in the shoulder. The shot, however, was not strong enough to break the bone and it and the fawn made away.

"The boys made sure their game was dead and then struck out for camp to tell the glad news. F. F. Johnson, Jr., went back with them and brought the venison in.

Notes.

Now that the open season for fall shooting is near at hand the comment of a well known writer in the American Field in regard to the advantages of having one's dog in proper trim and condition for field work on the opening days of the shooting season is forcible and full of good points:

"The amateur sportsman is prone to the old-time custom of awaiting the open season on birds before taking his precious young dog afield, supposing that then and not sooner is the proper time to initiate the youngsters, etc., and that nothing in the meantime need be done. No greater mistake could be made! If one has not accustomed his dog to hunting for, finding and pointing game, the sound of the gun, got the dog's feet hardened for continued use, the superfluous fat and flesh worked off, etc., disappointment must result.

"No dog should be taken afield and be expected to work satisfactorily before having had a reasonable course in yard training—understand simple orders, be obedient and under nice control. Half an hour daily for a few weeks devoted to a puppy at home will work wonders, but it would be a waste of time to engage with the youngster in any frolic, such as rolling a ball for him to chase and fetch in a playful way, learning a few tricks that are in no way applicable in real work afield; or perhaps cowing the puppy by endeavoring to beat an "education" into him while he does not understand what is wanted.

"Proper yard breaking—systematic and calculated in every detail to become applicable in actual work afield—is the most essential part in a dog's training, for upon that is based the ultimate utility of a dog subservient to a gun."

Nothing is more essential to the success and enjoyment of a day's shooting in the swamp or in the field, and more particularly still in thick brush, than good retrieving qualities on the part of the dogs used. Nothing, too, is more disheartening to a shooter than to make a good double shot and lose either one or both birds because his dog won't retrieve. When snipe-shooting on the marshes everybody knows how hard it is to mark down a bird that has dropped at the discharge of the gun, and even when marked down correctly, how hard it is to find the small bird, with its plumage so closely resembling the color of the weeds. But if you have a good dog there is not much necessity for such close marking, as the dog's nose does the work, and his wagging tail and the proud look in his eyes when he brings you the bird tells as plainly as if he spoke to you that he is just as clever at his work as you are at yours.

In England setters and pointers are seldom trained to retrieve. Once they have located the covey for the gunner, their duty is to "drop to shot" or "to wing"—that is to say they "charge" (drop to the ground) as soon as the birds flush or the gun goes off. The keeper, who accompanies the shooter, does the rest, being aided by a dog known as a retriever, a dog specially trained to recover dead or wounded game. Running grouse or partridges—that is, birds that have only been winged—are trailed by the retriever and brought back to the gamekeeper, while the shooter and the setter or pointer stand still, so as not to bother the retriever by mixing up the scents, human, dog and game.

The reason given in England for not allowing dogs to range, find the birds and then act as retrievers is that it renders them so much more liable to "break shot," thereby making them wild and hard to handle. There is, no doubt, much in this to recommend itself to a man who can afford not only the luxury of a gamekeeper, but also the use of both setters and retrievers; still, to the average hunter in this country such accompaniments on a hunting trip are not admissable, and therefore the "bird dog" has to do his own retrieving.

And what an amount of pleasure there is in a hunt "all by your lonesome" so far as humanity goes, with your dog as sole companion. Suppose birds are not to plentiful; it has been an hour since you got a point or caught a glimpse of an old cock grouse rising wild. It may be you have "lined" that old bird, and now your dog has him pinned "in that old dead tree-top." Whirr-r-r-r! An upheaval of dead leaves and away goes the grouse, twisting sharply to the right. Your gun speaks and down he comes. Reloading, you send the dog for the bird. As he does not return immediately, you move forward to see what is the matter. There's your dog fifty yards away in some small brush. Aha! A runner! Now he has it—a dash, and he seizes it gently in his mouth. Here he comes—his tail wagging and his face all smiles. As plainly as possible his eyes say this: "You're not so much! I found it under that tree top; you only clipped its wing; I caught it after all. Where'd you have been without me?" And it's all true, and therein lies half the pleasure of hunting with a good dog.

NOTICE TO SECRETARIES.

If secretaries of gun clubs will send us the full scores of their regular monthly shoots we will be pleased to publish them; but we must receive the copy on Wednesday to insure its insertion that week.

The Game Law.

The open season for shooting quail, doves, deer and wild duck as fixed by the State law is as follows: Doves, 15th July to 15th February. Mountain quail and grouse, 1st September to 15th February. Valley quail, wild duck and rail, 1st October to 1st March. Male deer, 15th July to 15th October.

The clerks of all the Boards of Supervisors have advised us that no changes have been made this year, but the ordinances passed last year hold good if they do not conflict with the State law. The following counties have not passed any ordinances that alter the open season as provided by State law: Amador, Butte, Inyo, Modoc, Mono, Mendocino, Mariposa, Nevada, Napa, Plumas, San Bernardino, San Diego, San Joaquin, Santa Clara, Sacramento, Solano, Sonoma, Santa Cruz, Siskiyou, Tehama, Yolo and Yuba.

FORKED RIVER, N. J.

H. C. GLOVER—Dear Sir: On my return home from the Boston show I found most all my dogs down with distemper. Some were so bad that they were dragging their hind parts. I used your Distemper Cure, bringing them through all right; cured over twenty cases. Have never lost a dog when using your cure. It certainly is a wonderful thing.

Yours truly, THEO. PREDMORE.

Why "Grey" Hound?

Up to about 300 years ago "greybounds" were the shaggy, grey-colored dogs used in the chase of large game. After that the name was transferred, sufficiently absurdly, to the black, white, blue and yellow, but generally spotted or bi-colored and never gray, dog that is now so popular for coursing hares. It is very odd that no one writing about the dog should have insisted upon so obvious an absurdity. On the contrary, a great many writers who have written very wisely about the word "grey," have tried to explain away its simplest meaning by referring to Celtic, Gaelic and Saxon roots; but considering these two animals were called indifferently grey "dogs" or grey "hounds"—in two words—when our language first came to be written, and that in those days "dogs" and "hounds" were absolutely synonymous, it seems to be a great waste of wisdom to try and prove that "graie," "gray" or "grey," when it is joined with dog or hound, meant anything else but grey, as to say that grey fly means a fly of princely extraction or greybeard a champion beard.

Argumentatively, it would not be unreasonable to pretend that greybound really means "badger-dog." At any rate, the sense of language tends to this side (for gray, grey, graie or grei are all names for the gray badger), and it would not be more absurd than the rest.

DOINGS IN DOGDOM.

Al Byler has broken up his cocker kennels. Oakside, Duchess and three puppies were presented by him to H. H. Carlton.

The address of the owner of a thoroughbred Boston terrier dog, at least two years old, is desired by the kennel editor of this journal.

The painting of Count Gladstone II. by Fred Butler will be exhibited at Vickery's, Post street, next week. This work of art is well worthy of a visit.

J. E. Lucas, the well-known trainer and handler, has established new kennels near San Clemente, in Marin county, on the line of the San Francisco and North Pacific Railway.

From present indications the Great Dane bitch puppy, Lady Ermine; owned by Mrs. C. G. Saxe of this city, is destined to make her mark in the circles of Deutsche Dogge on the Coast. Lady Ermine is now six months old, stands 28 inches in height at the shoulders, and weighs 97½ pounds. She is a model of strength, beauty and grace for so young a dog, in fact it is rarely one sees so fine a typical great Dane in a puppy; her markings—she is a harlequin—are symmetrical, white and black colors predominating and giving her a pronouncedly striking appearance. Her disposition is docile and she displays a clever intelligence that is remarkable. She is by Lord Londesborough (whose record as a sire and bench show winner is now well known) and Mabel S. (Hector—Nora).

Some finely bred St. Bernard puppies will be offered for sale through our advertising columns next week. The opportunity is one that lovers of this holy breed will no doubt take quick advantage of.

A decision in the action brought by I. F. Halton, E. V. Sullivan, John Perigo, S. W. Smith, Roy C. Scott, J. Halton, C. C. Griswold, Al Austin and G. Whitney, of the Interstate Coursing Club of California against Dominick Shannon, John Graee, P. J. Reilly, Michael Treanor, James Dean, T. McHugh, James Grace and L. H. Brown, Secretary of State, in which the plaintiff sought to restrain the defendants from usurping and infringing upon its corporate title, was handed down by Judge Seawell last week. The court ordered that the judgment be entered against the defendants and an order issue restraining the issuance by the Secretary of State of a certificate of incorporation under the name, "Interstate Coursing Club of California."

Not long ago the defendants were connected with the plaintiff corporation in various capacities. Difference of opinion regarding certain matters, however, resulted in the defendants withdrawing from the organization and establishing a similar one of their own. In January of the present year articles of incorporation of the Interstate Coursing Club of California were filed, in which the defendants appeared as directors. Suit for an injunction by the directors of the original Interstate Coursing Club of California was filed and a temporary writ was issued. The plaintiff alleged that the defendants had conspired together to deprive the plaintiff of the good will and reputation of the club name, and it was for that purpose that the articles of incorporation were filed. Defendants made answer and the suit was a hotly contested one, and resulted in victory for the plaintiff.

The suit filed by the trustees of the victorious corporation against the same named defendants to establish the title to the property and assets of the Interstate Coursing Club of California was ordered dismissed.

This disposes of the entire litigation, and unless the defendants appeal from the decision the plaintiff will enter into the peaceful pursuit of the sport for which it was organized.

In pleading the cause of the spaniel as a field dog, the sporting correspondent of The Irish Homestead has the following to say: "But somehow it seems the sportsmen are few and far between who give preference to the marriest of all sporting (shooting) dogs, viz., spaniels. Let it be at once understood, though, that I am not referring to the bench show style of spaniel, because he cannot be merry in his work if he would, for the reason that his short, crooked legs and heavy body handicap him to such an extent that only at a very slow pace can he make his way through thick cover at all, and he is generally done up entirely after an hour or two on the hills in August or among the turnips in September. No, the kind of dog to which I refer is the good old-fashioned type of spaniel, he it black, brown, liver and white, or any other color, as the old field spaniel is very apt to vary considerably in this respect, although it has nothing to do with the abilities of the dog as a 'workman' if of the right stamp. For field work there is nothing like a dog weighing from 30 to 40 pounds, according to the bone he possesses, and one that stands well up on tolerably long legs, not one that pants along with his breast touching the ground as is the case with the show bench dog. * * * * On the subject of old-fashioned working spaniels a practical dog-breaker of vast experience says he nearly always finds it an easy matter to train a dog of that class, as they take to their work intuitively as it were, much as a duck takes to the water, and they almost invariably turn out well. The show bench style of dogs, on the other hand, in many cases turn out either gun shy or so nervous from over-breeding or inter breeding that it is often impossible to do anything with them. My informant tells me that in a lifelong experience he has only known of two dogs of the former class turning out badly, although in scores of cases he has had to return the show bench animals to their owners, informing them that it would be useless to continue their education for sporting purposes. Why are there so few spaniels now seen in the shooting field? Because there are so few of them that are thoroughly and properly broken. A thoroughly broken spaniel should possess the following characteristics: It should be under thorough control, steady to heel and shot, free from all disposition to chase, a good, steady worker, neither too fast nor too slow, and it should retrieve both 'fur' and 'feather' from land or water without 'mouthing' it. No dog is properly broken that lacks any of these points, and his education has either been neglected or has been left incomplete."

Hints on Butter Making.

Before churning, bring the cream to the proper temperature, which in summer should be from 52 to 58 degrees, and in winter from 58 to 62 degrees. Strain the cream into the churn through coarse straining or cheese cloth until half full.

Commence churning rather slowly at first, ventilate frequently, increase the speed gradually up to from 40 to 45 revolutions per minute with barrel churn, and slow again towards the finish.

Great attention should be paid to the time for stopping the churning. This should be done when the butter is noticed to be in very fine grains—when it presents the appearance of very fine meal and milk mixed. Some very cold water should then be added to reduce the temperature to 55 degrees. This hardens the grains and prevents them gathering into a lump, and also facilitates the removal of the buttermilk. Churning may again go on until the grains are about as large as a turnip seed. At this stage churning should cease, as further churning will not increase the yield, but will spoil what is already made.

Draw off the buttermilk through a half sieve, and pour on a sufficient amount of pure cold water to float the grains well; give the churn a few sharp turns, after which draw off the water. If the butter is for keeping, repeat this two or three times, otherwise one, or at most two washings, will be quite enough. Too much washing takes away the delicate flavor of the butter.

Take the butter from the churn with the "wood hands," mix the salt lightly with it; then press two or three times, either on the butter worker or on the keeler, with the "wood hands." After this the butter should be laid aside in a cool place until sufficiently hard, and to allow the salt to dissolve. At the end of this time the working may be finished, when the salt should be thoroughly mixed, thus preventing streakiness and all superfluous water removed. The dry salting of butter, as contrasted with using brine, should always be followed.

The granular condition of the butter should be preserved throughout the whole process of working. This can be done by working the butter with a pressing, not a rubbing or drawing, action—rubbing or drawing spoils the texture. Any injury to the grain spoils the flavor, appearance and keeping quality of the butter.

Never use the hands in working butter. The heat of the hands will spoil the flavor and texture, and the insensible perspiration coming from the skin will decompose the butter.

The regulation of the temperature by the use of thermometer is of the greatest importance, and as a theremometer costs but a shilling, no dairy should be without one.

Butter should be packed while firm into neat, white wood packages, free from smell and flavor of any kind, and lined with the best vegetable parchment. A neat and clean package not only appeals at once to the eye, but enhances very much the value of butter. When a firkin is not filled at once, the top layer of the butter already in it should be scraped off before adding a new lot of butter.

If a barrel churn is used, see that the hole for drawing off the buttermilk is at the opposite side from the opening through which the cream is placed in the churn; have also tinned, shallow pans, "wood hands" for making butter and for taking it from churn; a keeler, thermometer, and a supply of clean muslin for straining. In large deiries a butter worker should always be provided.

All milk vessels and muslin should be washed as soon as possible after using by first rinsing with cold water. After this the vessels should be thoroughly dried and put out in the air. The churn before being used should be first scalded with salt, and rinsed with cold water.—Country Gentleman.

People who look for cattle prices to be forced to unprecedented prices, on account of this scarcity that has been advertised for the last two years, might get a valuable pointer out of the following from Wallace's Farmer: "The remarkable increase in the number of sheep slaughtered at the various packing points furnishes the most unmistakable proof that the meat-eating public is turning even from beef to mutton and that in the future less beef will be required per thousand of population than in the past. This is the result of the introduction on a large scale of the mutton or dual purpose sheep. So long as the special purpose Merino sheep were used the public did not care much for the mutton, but since the mutton sheep has been introduced the Anglo-Saxon on this side of the Atlantic is falling into the habit of his kinsfolk on the other side and becoming a mutton eater. This is probably one reason why, notwithstanding the decrease in the number of cattle in the United States, there has not been a greater advance in the price of beef cattle. It is one of the things which the farmer must notice and shape his business accordingly. The consumer cannot take an increased amount of mutton and at the same time his usual quantity of beef.

It is said that the Lakeside ranch in Kern county will this year produce 50,000 sacks of barley and 45,000 of wheat. One section alone yielded 13,000 sacks of barley, an average of over 20 sacks per acre.

Corns in Horses' Feet.

The diseased condition known by this name has long been a subject of study by veterinarians and farriers. It is an entirely different pathological condition from either hard or soft corns in men. Corns are indicated when the sole and white zone within the angle of the heel, formed by the wall and bar, are more or less stained with blood from congestion of the structures within, which secrete and nourish this part of the hoof. They are found in feet varying in conformation, the large foot and the small foot, the heal that is low and the heel that is high, in either the inner or outer half of heel, mostly in the fore feet, but occasionally they are met with the hind feet as well. Certain forms of the quarter predispose to corns, just as certain others predispose to other diseases of the quarter, such as quittor, quarter crack, enlarged and ossified cartilages, etc. This disease presents a variety of interesting features, for example: when a quarter, either the inner or outer, is narrower between the bar and wall than its fellow, it is generally an indication that the circulation within the confines of that part of the heel corresponding to the white zone that connects the sole and wall; if this is not corrected by relieving those crowded structures, the straining will gradually involve the part representing the sole as well, when, should there still remain sufficient vitality in the part, inflammation and its frequent terminations, the formation of matter may be the result.

Another interesting feature of these diseased conditions of the heels is found in very wide feet, that are short from the heel to the toe, and where one or both heels determine forward in their growth, an ill-fitted shoe may press too much on the heal, and a more or less bruised condition be the result. Indeed, it is not impossible that under certain circumstances this might accidentally happen to the same class of foot unshod.

When in the working animal such a quarter is treated improperly or neglected for a sufficient length of time, and the opposite quarter has to sustain all the weight, it will be observed that it also becomes diseased; the strain on the structures above causes shortening of the ligaments and increases the size of the cartilages, which in many cases become transformed into bone; or it may be that what are called "side bones" will grow as a result of the strain on the phalangeal ligaments at their insertions when their foot is distorted. Concurrent with the transformation of the cartilages into bone, it will be found that the wing of the coffin bone begins to degenerate, and to become more cancellated in structure, probably from the material intended to reach it, but unable to do so, being appropriated by the cartilages in their transformation into bone, just as we find a bone spavin, as the joint becomes anchylosed, the cancellated structures of the interior of the metatarsal bone dies of starvation, and even the compact bone below becomes absorbed as the new bone formation increases. This can be demonstrated by a comparison of the bones of the diseased leg with those of the sound one.

The treatment that I have found best in these cases is to recognize the horn produced under adverse circumstances as an obstruction to the circulation and to the normal secretion of new horn, consequently the bar must be carefully pared out and the wall thinned with a rasp, until the pressure on the structures within are relieved. Level and properly prepare the hoof for a shoe that will neither press on the part nor distort the foot. This can be done by lowering a part, or if there is too little hoof raise the part opposite by placing a piece of leather between the shoe and the horn. Keep the hoof moderately soft and elastic by occasionally poulticing and stuffing with flaxseed, coupled with frequent slight stimulations of the coronet, especially at the defective quarter, and a foot that will pay well for the trouble will be the result.

The part between the bar and wall ought never to be pared to the quick. It only protracts recovery and earth or gravel is liable to lodge and cause greater misceief. In bad cases a run at grass in a soft pastura is also beneficial.

The Extinction of the Horse.

In view of the extraordinary progress accomplished during the last few years in mechanical traction, notably in cycles and motor-cars, we are asked, as formerly when railroads were made, whether the horse was sooner or later condemned to disappear as a draft animal. And recently when the transformation of Parisian coaches into motor-cars took place, certain pessimistic spirits were not slow to proclaim that the days of "the most notable conquest of man" were numbered.

Let not the friends of the equine race be uneasy. In reality, since the adoption of railways, the number of horses has not diminished, on the contrary it has increased continuously and remarkably, and principally so in the country where the network of railways is the most developed.

At present it is computed there are about 37,000,000 horses in Europe, 24,000,000 in America, 5,000,000 in Asia, 2,000,000 in Australia and 1,000,000 only for all the African Continent.

That is to say there is in round numbers nearly 70,000,000 horses against 100,000 locomotives, 20,000 electric tramways and 10,000 automobile carriages. So it is easily seen that there is nothing to fear for a long time for the horse industry.—La Moniteur de la Sellerie.

The Pomona cannery is a very busy place these days, over 250 hands being employed in peeling peaches and pears. This institution has machinery which splits peaches and the only work left for the hread earner is the peeling industry. Peaches are being shipped in from Redlands in large quantities and in smaller quantities from as far south as San Diego. About 500 tons of peaches will be canned this season. Prunes are now coming into the drying yards in quantities, the crop being about two weeks earlier than usual this year. Growers are being offered from $18 to $20 per ton for their fruit at present. The Pomona Deciduous Fruit Growers' association expects to handle about 400 tons of prunes at its drying yards this year and owing to extensive improvements made for the dipping and handling of the fruit this year the association hopes to materially reduce the cost of preparing this crop for the market. The fruit generally is fine in quality and fair prices are expected, there being some apprehension owing to the heavy crops in Washington, Oregon and across the water in France.

J. H. Robbins, of McCoy county, Or., discovered a peculiar stool of barley in his fields in 1897, which neither he nor others have been able to classify. From the original stool of ten heads this thrifty farmer has just harvested the first product, twenty full pounds, and estimating the ground utilized in its production, calculates ninety-five bushels to the acre. It is a heavy grower and a strong one, with four-foot straw that is stiff and straight and does not fall under ordinary conditions. The main point of the new cereal is its pure white color and its fine quality as a winter grain. It differs from the common barley in that tha coh stands out vertically, as do the heavy beards indigenous to it. The new heads have yielded as high as 126 grains, or six rows of twenty-one grains each. In default of any style or classification it will ha known henceforth as "Robbin's Winter barley."

John McGowan has finished threshing his one-hundred acre field in the Pajaro Valley, says the Pajaronian. It has not turned out as well as was expected but has averaged thirty centals per acre—a very satisfactory showing for a dry year. The straw showing is heavy, and is estimated at from 300 to 400 tons. It has been sold as it stands to the Corralitos Paper Mill Co., and will, we understand, net Mr. McGowan $4 per ton, or from $1,200 to $1,600 in addition to his wheat returns. From $12 to $16 per acra for a product which was, in years gone hya, burned as waste, is quite a return in itself, and will pay harvesting expenses.

The crops on the Ranchs Cotati, in Sonoma county, this season have been the best in years, and good prices have been the rule for all that has been raised. The hay has not all yet been taken care of, owing to the difficulty experienced in obtaining halers, but a number of presses from Livermore having been brought in during the past few days it is now hoped that the crop will be looked out for without much further delay.

Word comes from Sonoma county that the fruit men are having difficulty in obtaining sufficient help to handle the fruit crop. This is a common complaint in all the fruit counties every year, and the fact that the same difficulty presents itself this year is pretty good evidence that the crop is not so much of a failure as it was believed a few months ago that it would be.

A number of the artesian wells which have been dry in the vicinity of Santa Clara for the past few months have commenced to flow, which will be welcome news to many of the farmers. For a number of years past the underground streams and springs would commence to grow stronger about September 1st, but this season they are a little earlier.

The wool clip of Humboldt county this year is about three hundred thousand pounds, valued at between forty-five and fifty thousand dollars.

Horses in the Philippines.

An Englishman traveling from China to London was a caller in the editorial rooms of The Horseman last week and while there gave as much valuable information concerning the resources of the various portions of the Orient and the Philippine Islands in particular. Discussing the horseflesh common in the East he said: "Your government has a splendid chance to do much for the improvement of the horses in the Philippines by sending over mares as well as geldings for the use of its cavalry. I have learned that the army regulations here require that only geldings shall be purchased for use in the cavalry and artillery branches of the service, but in view of the fact that the United States will be forced to undertake the entire regeneration and reconstruction of affairs in that country, it might make its cavalry mounts serve a dual purpose. The mares will do very nearly as well as the geldings and when the opportunity is presented that is, when the soldiers can be sent home, the mare would bring two or three times as much as the geldings. Besides the financial aspect of the transaction which, after all, is unimportant, the American mares would make the very best sort of foundation stock for a new and improved breed and it would not be long before those who obtained them could sell their produce at very satisfactory figures, provided American stallions should be taken over there to mate with them. The American mare might not perhaps be as satisfactory in that country in the service as might be wished for the change of conditions will be very great, but they will do as well as, in fact better than any others for your soldiers; and their progeny, reared in the Philippines will be better than all others put together for use there. Of course your government is going to keep all the territory it has conquered and for which it has shed the blood of your brave men and it might just as well begin now as later the regeneration of one special interest when it has the opportunity to do so by sending mares instead of unsexed animals for the use of the soldiers. There will be plenty of bidders for the mares when there is no farther use for them, not only among the residents of the islands themselves, but among the residents of other parts from three to five days sail from Manila."

This is a phase of the Eastern Question which has not been presented before and there is enough good, hard common sense about it to recommend itself to any one who will take the trouble to think about it for a moment or two. Of course the government cannot contemplate for a moment anything but the retention of every foot of land in the far East over which Old Glory flies to-day—land that is stained with the blood of our brave soldiers. Hence, as there can be no possibility of the United States doing anything but retain its conquered territory it might as well begin the work of reconstruction and regeneration "soon as syne." Why would it not be a good plan to adopt this Englishman's suggestion and if more mounts are needed by General Merritt, send him a lot, say one-half mares? This may seem to be a very small point in so vast a subject as the settlement of the Eastern Question; but it is in taking advantage of just such small details as well as larger ones that complete American success will be achieved. Why should not the interests of those who wish to engage in horse breeding in our new possessions be as carefully safeguarded and advanced as those who desire to engage in the production and sale of cordage fiber, sugar, tobacco or any other staple product, especially when that may be accomplished at no additional cost or sacrifice?—Chicago Horseman.

The Late B. C. Holly.

We regret to record the death of our old friend, B. C. Holly, who died recently at Montana. Our acquaintance began in 1874 when By lived in Grand Rapids and trained trotters there. His chief trotter was the handy going chestnut gelding Little Sam, 2:30, by Marshall Chief, which he campaigned from 1873 to 1877. By was afflicted with the asthma and suffered severely from it in 1874 when we roomed together at Indianapolis. In 1874, the week of the stirring race meeting managed by Dr. Van Hummel, when the indignant Hoosiers, on learning that their favorite horse Red Cloud would not start, drew a rope across the quarter stretch and shouted determinedly "Red Cloud or no race," Red Cloud started. The managers of Goldsmith Maid and Judge Fullerton had agreed with the Association for an exhibition race, but somehow Red Cloud's name was added to the programme. Goldsmith Maid won, closely pressed by Red Cloud in 2:23, the third heat over the old oxbow shaped track.

By Holly always had a running horse or two for the trotting meeting and went to California some eighteen years ago, which prolonged his life, and there entered extensively into running horse breeding and racing, but still kept in touch with the trotters. He was a tall, clean cut manly fellow, outspoken and true to the core with those whom he knew to be his friends.

DUBINO the Hawthorne meeting there were seventy-one races run and $30,350 given in stakes and purses. No less than ninety-eight different owners got some part of this, Pat Dunne easily leading them all with $3,315. Corrigan's share was only $25, Agnes C. running third once. Thorpe leads the winning jockeys, though Turner, who has been riding well of late, presses him closely. Willie Martin's average is good, as is little Johnny Reiff's. Burns was away for more than a week, and Conley was suspended. H. Martin has had few mounts, being under the weather.

STAMBOULETTE, by Stamboul, is one of the gamest stallions on the turf, as is shown by his fourth, fifth and sixth heats in 2:10¼, 2:13½ and 2:13¾ at Old Orchard.

KENNY, the hike man, will be in Sacramento ready to repair bikes on the spot. He will have some good ones with him to rent. Ask any of the "regulars" where to find him.

How to Harness a Horse.

The collar should fit snugly with enough room at the bottom to permit the hand being placed flatwise between it and the neck of the horse, and should bear equally on all points of the shoulder as nearly as possible. If the collar is too large it will cause sores somewhere by its continued rubbing. The adjustment should be such that the rim of the collar, and hence the hame, should rest parallel with the shoulder blade, which is a lever with its fulcrum, or pivot, near its middle point. While the horse is in motion this lever oscillates so that only the fulcrum or pivotal point moves uniformly forward. It is at this point that the trace should be attached to the hame. If attached near either end the action of the lever is handicapped for it should be concerned only in moving the body of the horse forward and not at all in moving the load, except as the strain falls upon its pivotal point. A very common violation of this principal is seen in the harness with breast collar so generally used for single carriage horses, where the lower end of the shoulder blade imparts a succession of jerks to the traces. When the collar fits well, if sores appear, they are usually at either end and not at the pivot of the shoulder blade. A sore indicates that the trace is attached too near the point. The pivotal point can usually be located by observing the horse in motion. From this point the trace should proceed at right angles to the hame. If deflected upward it will cause the collar to raise from the neck at the top and may even choke the horse by pressure at the bottom. If deflected downward the collar will bear hard on the top of the horse's neck and cause sores. In either case, the collar changes its position slightly at the moment the horse leans forward against it and part of the power is lost by the uncertainty of its position. Having adjusted the collar and hame, to adjust the back and belly bands, place the back pad squarely across just back of the withers and give the section of the trace from hame to back-hand its proper direction by means of a carpenter's square applied with one arm parallel with the bearing surface of the hame, bringing the trace to coincide with the other arm. Secure in that position by means of the buckle. Treat the other side the same and draw up the belly band just comfortably snug. A very short back band will cause sores back of the withers and by the upward deflection of the trace may even draw the collar up so as to choke the horse while pulling. A long back band and short belly band will saw uncomfortably under the horse's foreflank and by the downward deflection of the trace, pull the collar down on top of the horse's neck. Any such deflection of the line of traces causes loss of power. A continuation of the section trace permanently adjusted should proceed straight to the center of resistance in the load to which the horse is attached. In order to keep this line straight it will be necessary to lengthen or shorten the traces according as the center of resistence is high or low and this rule applies especially to plowing.

Used With Success For Cocked Ankles, Etc.

ANOOLA (Ind.), June 22, 1897.

Wish to use "Gombault's Caustic Balsam" on an outside splint, and as our dealer has no printed instructions I would be thankful if you would mail me pamphlet. Have used the above remedy with success on cocked ankles, curbs and enlarged glands, but want some instructions on this splint, as the patient is one of the favorite driving mares.

Whatsoever a Man Soweth

That shall he also reap.

OF THE MILLIONS who daily read this simple statement, how many can gainsay its awful import?

HOW MANY can reason that it is not so?

WHY do you hesitate now that it is within the reach of all who have reaped the results of folly to overcome its dire effects and stand again physically as one who has never sinned against the laws of God and Man.

BY CHARLES MARVIN.

This great practical horse book is a handsome, three hundred page octavo, bound in cloth, elegantly printed superbly illustrated, and explains in every detail the remarkable success of CHARLES MARVIN and the whole plans and methods pursued at Palo Alto as to breaking, training, shoeing, gaiting, driving, keeping racing and breeding trotters.

Read what J. C. Silby, the owner of St. Bel, says of this book: "In this work Marvin has let out all the mysteries of the craft, and it is so simple and plain that any breeder, owner, trainer or rubber who has any relish for his business can take a colt as a yearling and develope to the highest and fullest extent that colt's capacity as a trotter. The work impressed me so strongly that I have ordered twenty copies, and shall place one in the hands of every rubber on our farm.,

CALIFORNIA STATE FAIR.

Auspicious Opening of the State Agricultural Society's Annual Exposition.

It is forty-five years since the first State Fair was held in California. For the first few years the fair had no permanent location, hut was held in San Jose, Marysvill, San Francisco, and other places until the year 1858 when it was permanently located at Sacramento and a pavilion huilt in which to make an annual display of the State's products. Most of our readers will remember the old huilding on Sixth and M streets in the Capital City, and although the entire structure could be hidden in one of the wings of the magnificent pavilion in which the exhihits are now displayed it served its purpose, and the annual fair was a nucleus from which has grown the splendid exposition of California products now made each year at Sacramento.

It is a matter of surprise to the California visitor to the Fair this year, knowing that a very large section of the State has suffered severely from drouth, to see such a magnificent display of fruits and grains and other products of the soil. As the lamented "Caxton" said in a poem pronounced at the Fair in Sacramento in 1859,

> "Behold how free the hand of God hath rolled

The displays of agricultural, horticultural, viticultural and other products of the soil are equal this year to any ever spread hefore the eyes of Fair visitors. In the machinery department there is a most elahorate and most interesting exhihit. The art gallery is a little ahead of former years in class if not in quantity, and the poultry show in the annex seems to be more attractive than ever.

At the park are some splendid specimens of cattle, sheep and swine, while the equine exhihit is of such vast proportions that stall room inside the park is not to be had for more than two-thirds the horses that are entered and all the private stalls within a radius of a quarter of a mile of the grounds are occupied.

This is the first year of the Presidency of Mr. A. B. Spreckels and that gentleman is showing a lively interest in the State's Exposition. He presides in the judges' stand at the races each day and, ahly assisted hy Secretary Edwin F. Smith, is giving the puhlic some of the hest and cleanest racing ever seen over the Sacramento track. The meeting opened on Monday with a program of harness events, the first race of the day heing the rich Occident Stake, a trotting race for three-year-olds, the total value of the stake heing $2,525, which was divided into three moneys, 60, 30 and 10 per cent. When this race was called, Directors J. W. Wilson and W. P. Mathews, assisted hy Gen. A. W. Barrett, occupied the stand as judges, and Director De Long and A. L. Leach held the timers' watches. Dolly D., owned hy the Santa Rosa Stock Farm, was the favorite in the largest field that has started for this rich stake in several years, Prince Ansel heing second choice, though Lynhood, Maud Washington and Geo. Buckman hrought about the same price This race was an easy thing for Dolly D. Shc went right out in front the first heat, and won in a jog from Prince Ansel, who was four lengths hehind her at the finish. Dolly was then made a prohihitive favorite over the others and won as before, except that she was a few lengths farther ahead of her field at the end of the mile. The third heat was a repetition of the others, although the Prince made a hetter showing and forced Dolly D. to trot in 2:21, which she did so easily that it was no effort for her. Surely the richness of this stake, and the ease with which it has often heen won in slow time, should induce every hreeder to enter his foals in it every year.

The second race was a dash of a mile for the three-minute class. The starters were Aggregate, 12 to 1, Joe Selhy 12, Bertha R. 8, Sibyl S. 8, Bonsaline 4 to 5, Mamie Riley 4 to 1, Phoehe Childers 3 to 2. Mr. Wilson got them away after a few attempts in fairly good order. Joe Selhy seemed to have speed to spare, and went right out in front, hut Mamie Riley was close hehind him, with Bonsaline lapped on her wheel. At the three-quarter pole Selhy found that his speed was exhausted and fell hack, Mamie Riley continuing on and leading to the wire in 2:16, with Bonsaline a length behind her, Bertha R. one length further back and Phoehe Childers a fair fourth. Joe Selhy lasted long enough to finish fifth, Sibyl S. was sixth and Aggregate last.

Seven lined up for the 2:17trot, which was a mile and

A. B. SPRECKELS.
President California State Agricultural Society.

repeat, May B. heing 3 to 1, Our Jack 6 to 5, Daimont 10 to 1, Lou 3, Prince Gift 4, Dexter D. 6 and Myrtle Thorne 6. Our Jack on the strength of his mile in 2:13½ at Santa Rosa was thought to he the winner, hut there was a horse from Salinas owned hy J. B. I., .son that 2:13½ could not stop, and he went right out and trotted the first heat in 2:12, c.ming from hehind and heating Lou and May B. in the stretch. Our Jack acted badly, hroke several times and finished sixth, while Dexter D. was distanced. Prince Gift was then made the favorite, hut quite a number still pinned their faith to Our Jack at 9 to 5. Prince Gift got away in the lead and was never headed in the heat, though Lou, who is a good mare this year, and one that will hear watching from this time on, pressed him hard all the way. Prince Gift won hy a length in 2:14½, the two and a half seconds additional accounting for the better showing made by some of the others.

Belle W., at 8 to 1, surprised all the knowing ones in the three-minute pace. She had Topsy J., Gaff Topsail, Don, Lady Margaret and Mia Louise as contestants, and heing driven hy her owner, Mr. Wempe, was hardly considered. But Belle W. can pace and her owner can drive. Lady Margaret led to the far turn, where she was passed by Mia Louise, hut here Belle W. came with a rush and beat the others through the stretch and reached the wire in 2:16. Wempe received an ovation when he alighted, was cheered and called upon for a speech, hut his modesty compelled him to decline the invitation to address the crowd. Belle W. is hy Director, and paced this race with all the characteristics of that great family

There was another surprise in the last race of the day, the 2:18 pace. I Direct was thought to have a mortgage on first money in this race, hut he failed to foreclose. The field was a hig one and hard to manage. The horses that lined up were Captain Hackett 12 to 1, I Direct 6 to 5, Dave Ryan 10 to 1, Diawood 6, Ahdine 15, Munyon 15, Billy Baker 10, Dictatress 25, Nutway, Beau Brummel and Charles David 4 each.

When they were started Chas. David was in the lead with Diawood second and Munyon third, the favorite hack in fifth place. At the first quarter the three-year-old son of Diahlo, Diawood, poked his nose in front and was soon four lengths in the lead of that other good little three-year-old Dictatress. From here to the finish Diawood was never headed and won easily in 2:14¼ with Dictatress second and Munyon third. I Direct broke hadly, hut paced fast after getting settled and finished fifth. This was another popular win. Diawood was hred hy Mrs. D. P Callendine of Sacramento, though the lady recently sold the colt to Isaac Christie of the same place. He was well driven hy Mr. O. J Holmes Dictatress paced a splendid race for a three year old.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 6.

The runners hrought out a larger crowd on the second day and there was enough excitement and good sport to please everyone. But one favorite landed during the afternoon when Koko, a 50 to 1 shot, heat out Scarborough and Col Wheeler that were thought to outclass such horses as the winner.

There was a hit of excitement when one of the horses at the close of a race, holted through a gate and dashed into the crowd under the grand stand. A few persons were knocked down hut no one was seriously hurt.

The starting was superh in all the races hut the last, which was somewhat straggling. Havey used a new starting device, an elastic cord, that when released at one end shot across the track to the opposite side. In five of the races the horses were sent off at the first attempt.

President A. B. Spreckels officiated as presiding judge assisted by Director J. W. Wilson and M. F. Tarpey of Oakland. Director De Long and Al Leach occupied the timers' stand.

Shasta Water was the choice at even money in the first event of the afternoon, six furlongs, for four-year-olds and upward, but first money fell to San Mateo, the Salvator-Iris stallion, which was second choice at 6 to 5. O'Fleeta cut out the pace, but after the first quarter San Mateo went to the front and led at the three-quarter pole hy four lengths. Here Shasta Water came up from midway in the bunch and finished second, a half-length of day-light from the winner. Major Cook was third. Time, 1:14.

STEINWAY AS A TROTTER.

San Francisco, September 4, 1898.

Editor Breeder and Sportsman:—While in a leading down town club room last evening with a group of light harness horse lovers, and of course talking of horse affairs, one of the gentlemen asked me if I would give to your readers a history of Steinway and the races he was engaged in.

Steinway, 2:25¾, as a three-year-old, then the champion of his age and sex, by Strathmore, in my opinion, his poor opportunies considered, the greatest son of Hambletonian. First dam Abbess, dam of two better than 2:28, and two producing daughters, by Albion, one of the first stallions to trot in 2:40 in Kentucky, by Peter's Halcorn; second dam by Marshal Ney, thoroughbred son of imported Emancipation; third dam by that race horse Bertrand, a son of Sir Archy.

Steinway at three years old was a handsome bay colt 15.1½ hands high, with two white feet behind, a good, resolute head, set on a long, stout, arched neck, running well into well placed shoulders that did not mount very high at the withers. He had great length, a large, capacious middle piece, with good bone and substance, and was one of the biggest-gaited and squarest trotters that I ever saw. He trotted but four races in his life, the first in the fall of 1878.

At two years old at Lexington, Ky., mile heats, heating Memento, Jewett, 2:14, Admiration, 2:33, Mystery, 2:27, and Verbena in 2:39, 2:32, 2:31½. Memento won the first heat. This made him up to that date the champion of that age and sex.

As a three-year-old at Sharpsburg, Ky., early in the season, in a free for all, over a miserable half mile track, he beat Bushwhacker, 2:24, and Blackwood Jr., 2:22, at four heats in 2:38¼, 2:38, 2:37, 2:38, Bushwhacker winning third heat.

At the Lexington Fair in August the same year, he won a six-heat race in 2:37, 2:38, 2:37½, 2:30, 2:25¾, 2:30, heating Jewett, 2:14, Mystery, Fury, Catchfly, 2:18¼, and Monitor, 2:27. Jewett won the second and third heat, Mystery the first heat and Steinway the last three heats.

At the October meeting, 1878, Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders Association, for the Kentucky three-year-old stakes, he was beaten in three straight heats by a neck in 2:26½, 2:23½, 2:26. This was a great race for Steinway as 7,000 people saw the race and saw that he was lame both forward and behind and very poorly driven. It is a well-known fact that Steinway never had three months' work breaking and training up to that race. In the second heat he trotted the second quarter in 0:34 and the middle half in 1:08, a very creditable showing in those days. There are but three persons living who know by observation of Steinway's great turn of natural speed—Col. R. G. Stoner, Mike Bowerman and your humble servant. He was, in those days, a 2:10 trotter, sure. The next spring after arriving at his beautiful home, the Oakwood Park Stock Farm, his owner, the late Daniel Cook, asked me to let him move a quarter. I had worked him a little, well within himself, and as we had no sulky that fitted him, I was compelled to work him to a 100-pound skeleton wagon. The track that he was worked over is now the driveway avenue leading from the present track and training stables to the residence and up a grade. He trotted that quarter in 0:33½. He was ruptured a few days later so that he was useless for over three years. The last of 1885 and the first part of 1886, I worked him along carefully, slowly and gradually increasing his fast work until I had got to a point to ask him to step his clip three-quarters of a mile, which he did apparently with ease in 1:40, and on two former occasions a quarter in 0:32 and 0:31. I satisfied myself that it was an impossibility for me to bring him to the post and make a creditable showing with him, and lost no time in informing his owner that it was beyond my power to do it, but said that if any person could help him and bring him to the post good, he would prove to the public "a missing link." The late John Goldsmith would not try him, as he informed Mr. Cook and myself that it looked to him impossible. Mr. Hickok tried and soon convinced himself that the "jig was up." To my "un-admirers" as a trainer, I will simply say that I have no apology to make for my failure to bring that unfortunate fast horse to the post good to prove his great ability, and to-day I am not blind, but pay my tribute to his greatness as a sire of champion pacers. I am a great admirer of any stallion that can sire a fast trotter or pacer.

I have had the pleasure of sitting behind some speedy trotters and if I should cross "the divide" to-night, I will do so knowing that I have ridden behind a trotter sired by Steinway, faster than any trotter from 100 yards up to a half mile that ever lived, and a three-year-old at that. (The hard luck tale can be found in an early volume, in the two-eyed chapter of the one-eyed John.)

P. S.—As the animals of this Coast have done so much credit to it upon the turf this season, and as so many reforms in the conduct of racing have originated here, and as the "care taker" of turf performing animals who attends to his business and does his duty is usually a very intelligent and gentlemanly person, I move you sir that all trotting associations, and all gentlemen connected with the trotting turf strike from their vocabulary that word "swipe," and use for its substitute the one written on the badges of all well conducted associations, viz: "Attendant." All will find it just as easy to pronounce and more proper. Try and impress upon these persons that they all have equal rights with owners and trainers to act the part of gentlemen, so that any lady can visit the stables and see the noble animals under their charge. Hundreds of ladies would delight in seeing that part of the meeting. With a little refinement the grounds used for racing will become as popular with the public as the receptions of the President at the White House. The gentlemanly care taker, he he white or black, is just as essential to success with the trotter, as the breeder or the developer of speed, and skillful training, driving and caretaking must go hand in hand to produce the two-minute trotter or the 1:30 runner. Yours, Samuel Gamble.

Glenbrook Results.

September 1.--This was Ladies' Day at Glenbrook Park and the grand stand was packed with members of the fair sex, while down in the betting ring men were numerous.

First race, five and a half furlongs, for district horses, purse $125—Durango, the favorite, won, Suffrage second, Cyaro third.

Second race, six furlongs—Nonchalance, the favorite, won, P. A. Finnegan second, Christine third. Time, 1:15½.

Third race, 2:14 trot—Osito, the favorite, won, Mohave second, Silver Ring third. Best time, 2:20.

Fourth race, mixed trotting and pacing—Charles David, the favorite, won, Ned Thorne second, Philosopher third. Best time, 2:22½.

September 2.—This was Nevada City day and the biggest crowd of the week saw the Jockey Club races. The favorites all won.

The "Father Lode" purse for a three-quarters of a mile dash was won by Lost Girl in 1:15½. Fig Leaf was second and Durango third.

Moringa won the mile and an eighth race for the Glenbrook Park purse. Joe Terry was second and P. A. Finnegan third. Time, 1:56.

In the Holbrook purse, trotting, Osito came first under the wire in two straight heats, Mojave second, Silver Ring third and May B. fourth. Time, 2:20¾, 2:18½.

In the free for-all for district trotters and pacers there were six entries and four starters. Inez took the first and third heats and the race. Morengo won the second heat. Time, 2:36, 2:38, 2:36½.

September 3.—The attendance at the race this afternoon was the largest of the week by far.

In the five-eighths of a mile running, heats, for the Omaha Mining Company purse, Iron Jacket won in 1:04½ and 1:04.

The Nevada County Narrow-Guage Railroad Company Handicap, mile dash, was captured by P. A. Finnegan in 1:43½. Maringa took second money and Nonchalance third.

The free-for-all Grass Valley purse was won by Monterey in two straight heats. Time, 2:17½ and 2:15½.

In the 2:17 class trot for the Union Hotel purse Myrtle Thorne led under the wire in two straight heats. Time, 2:20½, 2:22.

The Union Livery Stable purse for pacers, 2:18 class, went to Billy Baker. Time, 2:22, 2:23½.

FINE STOCK FARM.

Something About Hon. A. W. Foster's Home at Hopland, Mendocino County.

The individual who has never visited the Hopland home of the Hon. A. W. Foster, President of the San Francisco and North Pacific railway, has missed seeing one of the most attractive farms in Northern California, says the Santa Rosa Prass-Democrat. Situated on the southeast side of Russian river, where the fertility of the famous Hopland valley reaches its best, and where there is enough of the mountainous to make the scenery charmingly picturesque, the farm possesses a variety of resources and beauties seldom found within the precincts of one place. The farm consists of two thousand acres. About two hundred acres are under cultivation, which shows that the farm is largely devoted to grazing and the stock industry. There are thirty-five acres in prunes, twelve in pears, fifteen in grapes, seventy-five in alfalfa, while there is some land devoted to corn and other crops.

The "home place" is just such an one as a busy man like Mr. Foster must delight to hie to for rest and recreation. The buildings are all ample and convenient, the appearance of the place, with its big yard, grand old trees and genial air reminding one not a little of the generous old-time hospitable homes of the South, and it is here Mr. Foster's estimable family usually spend a number of weeks each summer. It is hardly necessary to observe that everything about the farm is always in apple-pie order, for when it is known that all is under the management of Thomas Longmore, who for over nine years has been Mr. Foster's superintendent, it is seen at once that things could not well be otherwise. Few men are so well qualified for such management as Mr. Longmore, and a more genial, whole-souled fellow does not inhabit Mendocino county. Were the broad acres and fine stock his, he would not take more interest in, nor feel greater pride in them than he does as Mr. Foster's representative.

The dairy is about a mile and a half from the home place, and is fitted up with all modern equipments in the way of power, separator, churns, cheese presses, etc. There are 130 cows, half of them being Jerseys, the others being high grade stock. From these come the butter and cheese which have made the Foster brand so popular in the San Francisco market. One hundred head of pure bred Berkshires constitute the swine make-up of Hopland Stock Farm.

Mr. Foster is a great admirer of the horse, and few men in northern California have done so much to advance the horse industry. Much attention has been paid to the breeding of the standard bred trottar, and there are twenty-five splendid descendants of some of the best trotting families to be found there, among them being those from Sid Fleet, Memphis and Rafael. They range in age from sucklings to four-year-olds. In connection with the trotters must not be forgotten Pearlwood, the property of Mr. Longmore, and which was a present from Mr. Foster. Pearlwood is a beautiful bay by Ross S and out of an Echo mare. Pearlwood was purchased by Mr. Foster at Dr. Hick's sale, had the benefits of the kindergartan training, and can "go down the line" fast enough to suit anybody. January, the veteran side-wheeler that opened the eyes of the talent in a free-for-all at Ukiah some years ago, is a famous horse in that region. He was sired by Warwick, and was out of a thoroughbred mare.

At the head of the draught horses on Hopland farm is the magnificent Percheron stallion Captaine. Captaine is 16½ hands high and weighs 1700 pounds. His sire and dam were imported. He has a sturdy son, McKinley, two years old, and out of imported Buona, that has the making of an excellent sire. There are several splendid Percheron matrons on the place, and they, as well as the premier Captaine, have captured a number of valuable prizes at the State and other fairs. A pair of geldings out of McClalland mares and sired by Captaine show the value of a cross of that kind in breeding.

The little horses—The Hungarian ponies—they are the joy of every one at Hopland farm, and there are about fifty of them to be seen grazing on the place. At the head of the Hungarian stud is Carlyle. He is of the most fashionable color, a rich mahogany sorrel with white mane and tail. At the horse show in San Francisco he had the distinguished honor of winning a first and second prize in two different classes before he left the pit. He is 12 hands high and weighs 600 pounds, is as kind and gentle as a kitten. Among his progeny on the farm is the handsome stallion Emperor, and many others that would gladden the heart of any youngster who aspires to hold the ribbons over a sprightly little steed. There are twenty broodmares and there is a string of "babies" frisking about that, in the language of the enthusiastic young women, are just too cute for anything. Mr. Foster has sold a number of the Hungarians, and they are among the most profitable he has raised, and the growing popularity of the little fellows is a guarantee that there are bright times ahead for the breeder of this class of horses. They are easy to keep, can be broken easily, are very tractable and are full of life. All of the little fellows at Hopland farm are of good style and it is no wonder that so many of the best prizes fall to Mr. Foster when they are entered in the ring of competition.

G. D. Austin, who formerly had a large stable of trotters at Raleigh, N. C., is now engaged with C. X. Larrabee at his ranch in Montana. About 200 head of fashionably bred colts are being broken this season. They include the blood of Altamont, Baron Wilkes, Zombro, 2:11, and are out of such mares as Jennie Wilkes, 2:12½, Flowing Tide, 2:14¼, by Albert W., a full sister of Chehalis, 2:05½, and others that are quite near the top in speed, blood and merit. Mr. Austin seems well pleased with the many choice prospects in sight.

Askey, brown horse by McFarland, won the 2:18 trot at Independence, Iowa, on the last day of August, Iowa, on the last day of August, getting a record of 2:08¼ in the third heat. This equals the records made by Directum Kelly and The Abbot this year. Geo. W. McKinney started in the same race but after finishing 4-6-4, was distanced in the fourth heat.

STILL THE CHAMPION.

For Five Years Directum, 2:05 1-4, Has Held the Stallion Record.

The herdest merk for the trotters to hit is the stallion record of 2:05¼, made hy the California hred and owned horse, Directum, son of Director end Stemwinder, and owned hy John Green, of Dnhlin, Alameda county. Directnm made this record in a rece et Nashville, Tennessee, October 19, 1893, in which he defeated Hazel Wilkes, 2:11¼, and Nightingale, 2:08. The record which has stood for five years and hids feir to stand for some time in the future, was made in the third heet. Every year since there have been prognostications thet this or thet horse would, barring accidents, equal or rednce this record, hut the eccidents heve happened or the prophesies were based on imperfect knowledge, for the mark still stands.

It was confidently believed thet Directum wonld lower his own record during 1894 and 1895, hnt lameness prevented, end though he showed the necessary speed to do the trick, he was never afterwards in condition to go a full mile et the rate required to rednce the figures. He was therefore retired end made two seasons et the stnd in the East, one et Michigen, the other in Kentucky. In the latter State there are et the present time eighteen or nineteen of his foals, two-year-olds, end it is said none ere for sale, so confident ere their owners thet they will prove to be fast rece horses. In Michigan the seme state of affairs exists. Among all Directum's foels there is hut one pacer, the rest heing sqnere trotters. Major McDowell, of Lexington, has one that has shown qnarters so fast that he is being talked of already as e coming champion. A New York gentleman, who will not race any of his horses, owns two thet can trot better than 2:30 any day on the speed track. Up to this time hnt few of Directnm's get have been trained, and accidents or ill lnck have stopped severel of these from racing, hnt there has never yet heen e Directnm worked hnt he has shown speed of e high order. Mr. Green hopes to heve e few in training next yeer that will be e credit to the greet horse whose championship is nndisputed.

Directnm was meted with some thirty meres this yeer emong them severel with fast rece records and others of the choicest hreeding. Thet he will he a great sire of speed there is no donht, and thongh np to this time he has been given hut limited opportnoities in the stnd, his coming two and three-year olds will certeinly prove him to he e transmitter of greet speed end endnrance and ell those other qnelities so necessery in a rece horse.

Those who have seen Directnm letely believe thet with the proper training he wonld he ehle to eqnal or excel his present championship record. At Pleesanton last April, he was taken on the track hitched to a cart, end thongh as fat as e pig marched off e qnarter in 16¼ seconds without eny tronhle end Andy McDowell, who drove him, seid that were he not afraid of injuring the horse on acconnt of his gross condition, he felt certain he conld drive him the distance in 15 seconds or better.

In this connection we wish to correct e stetement made in the colnmns of many of the Eastern papers to the effect that Mr. Green has sold Directine, 2:16¾, hy Direct, 2:05½, from Stemwinder, Directnm's dem. Directina has not heen sold, hnt is rnnning in e peddock et Mr. Green's farm at Dnhlin. Several offers have heen made for the mere, end only last week Mr. Green received e dispetch from John Kelly, trainer of Directnm Kelly, offering a good figure for her, hnt up to this writing e sele has not heen mede.

NOWADAYS it is necessary for eny green horse sterted et eny importent meeting to be ehle to trot as fast as was reqnired of the free-for-allers in the hygone days mentioned. With the pecer, it is even worse then it is with the trotters, and it is ehont ea easy nowedays to win in the 2:15 class as it is in the 2:40 among the sidewheelers. This is the only logical ontcome of the conditions which for some yeers have snrrounded the indnstry," says the Horsemen. "Most hreeders have discontinued the recing of two-year-olds and not e few three-year-olds. This leaves the mejority of the performers to he started green in the matnred form, end prectically ahle to go as fest as they ever will he. Agein this mnst be said to be good for the tnrf, for it keeps the horses continnally chenging and it preclndes the possihility of the pnblic getting tired of seeing the same horses go year efter year. It is now merely e qnestion of one year in the slow classes and e year or two in the fast classes, and then retirement to make wey for newer and faster individnals. This will permit the retirement of the mares to the herem without heing drilled for meny years in the training stahle, and in that menner elmost totally nnfitted for reprodnctive pnrposes. It will give those hreeders, who succeed in prodncing speed of a high order, an opportnnity to obtain e reedier merket end better velues for it.

THE desd stallion, Ralph Wilkes, left thirty-seven foals, and as a resnlt of the Portland race in which King Malcolm, 2:17¾, and Malecca entered the 2:20 list, he now has nine with records of 2:30 or hetter. There are four of his get in training at Readville which have shown better than 2:20. It looks as thongh the son of Red Wilkes and Mary Mays wonld eventnally give Palo, Alto, 2:08¾, and ell other stallions a close rnh es regards per centege of get to take standard records.

ED MILLS is very anxions to hny a first-class pecer, according to the Boston Globe. He shonld come to California and get the four-year-old mare that peced to a record of 2:07¼ at Santa Rosa. She is Much Better than meny others thet heve gone faster.

OPEN-AIR HORSE SHOW.

The Country Club Will Give One at Burlingame This Month.

Arrangements for an open-air horse show hy the Burlingame Country Clnh, to he given at the Clnh gronnds et San Meteo, are ehout completed. The show gives promise of heing one of the most interesting of its kind ever held on this Coast. The dates are Fridey and Setnrdev, September 23d and 24th, from 10 A. M. to 5 P. M. The rnles of the Pacific Coest Horse Show Association are to govern the exhihition. Extensive preparetions are being made for the accommodation end comfort of guests and exhihitors. The associetion further annonnces that it will he pleased to heve classes nominated that do not appeer on their circnlar; for instance, stallions, with their get, or specials thet would not fill as a class, will be ewerded prizes end he judged eccording to merit.

Entries to close on Tnesdey, September 20, end blanks can he had et the office of the secretary, 3 Celifornie street.

ANENT the trip of E. R. Brown to Europe in the interests of the pacer, "Trotter end Pecer" says: "No one can donht that if the Enropeans conld see Ster Pointer, Joe Patchen end John R. Gentry performing et their flying gait they wonld take e fancy to the leteral gaited herness rece horse. The lack of appreciation of e pecer among our friends on the other side of the weter rises not from any prejndice ageinst hnt from leck of acqnaintance with him. We have opened up a splendid market from trotters in Enrope, end if we could now interest the Europeans in our pecing race horses it wonld certainly he e profitable thing for our hreeders. This wonld prove the more especielly welcome to our horsemen inasmnch as pecers are multiplying in this country very rapidly, and as a conseqnence are holding their own in our home merkets. While pacing races have nnqnestionably increased in popnlarity in the last few years, the disnarity in velne between pecers end trotters hes not at ell diminished, end if our Europenn friends shonld catch the pecing fever and hny our pacers as resdily end liberally es they do our trotters it wonld certainly prove a good thing for the hreeding interest in this country."

THE proposition to offer a hig purse for a two-minute pecing class, in order to give Star Pointer an opportnnity to meet all of his rivals at one time, is attracting considerable ettention. Turf, Field end Ferm, which first mede the snggestion, says in its latest issne: "At Joliet, Angnst 18th, Star Pointer peced egainst time in 1:59½, and, everything considered, it was a very greet performance. August 20th, over the same track, Joe Petchen, driven hy his owner, peced in 2:03. At Buffalo last week, W. J. Andrews drove John R. Gentry a preparetory mile in 2:06, last qnerter in 29½ seconds. There was talk at Buffalo ebont the ebility of Chehalis to pece three times in 2:01. All these things show that the time-destroying pecers are getting into shepe. Last week we snggested e two-minnte class. The right time for it wonld be the first week in October. There is no telling how meny pecple wonld go to see snch a race, and the winner wonld emerge from the contest a champion of champions."

IT wonld he well to keep an eye on the California stallion, Neerant, 2:12¼, hy Albert W., now racing in Illinois, says the Horse Review. He made his first start at Joliet, in the race won hy Caid, and showed to edventege. Last week he was at Decatnr and forced Sir Cherles to step a fifth heat in 2:11½. When he is fit end ready to win he looks like a 2:10 trotter.

JO PATCHEN is still fast, and his owner, C. W. Marks is a pretty good amateur driver. At Readville, Mass., August 21st Marks drove his horse an exhibition mile in 2:02, which is the fastest mile on record for an ameteur driver.

TROTTING AND PACING AT INGLESIDE.

The Classification Committee of the Golden Gate Park Driving Association met last Saturday evening and classified the horses entered for the races to be held at Ingleside track on the 9th and 10th inst. As will he seen from the program which follows, the committee has done its work well, and some splendid contests are certain to resnlt. The free-for-ell events on hoth days shonld result in some fast heats.

First Race—E. Aigeltinger's Oor Joe, J. C. Ohlandt's Haviland, H. Patrick's Steve S., F. Gommet's Pardee, Chas. Newman's Mend Newman, E. Cerceet's Bishop's Hero.

Humanity To Our Kine.

The chief distingnishing featnre of civilization is manifested in the care of end humenity displayed to dumh animals. The higher degree of enlightenment ettained is always menifest in solicitnde for the comfort of the domestic anlmals. A few years ego, owing to the high price of lumber end lehor, the dangerons and cruel harhed wire fence came into general use for the purpose of stock inclosnre. The nnmber of valnehle enimals that were constantly heing injured end disfigured by this style of fencing led our wire manufacturers to devise some style of fence that wonld he eqnally as sure to keep stock within hounds and et the same time serve the three-fold reqnirements of cheepness in cost, attrectiveness in appeerance and perfect adaptahility. To meet the growing demend (end this is indeed a growing one) of humane fine stock raisers, the "American Field Fence," with the following claime to superiority, is now placed on the market:

1. That it is the most durable. 2. The cheepest. 3. The easiest to erect.

The "Americen," with these prominent characteristics, supplemented with the fect thet it is sold et the lowest price possible, will well werrant its general nse. The nse of this humene fencing meets with our hearty epproval. Full particulars regerding wire fences will he furnished by The Amsrican Steel and Wire Company, 225 and 227 Fremont street. They are the largest producers in the world of harh wire, wire neils, market wires (all kinds), woven field fencing, "Ellwood" and "American" hailing wire, light chain, tacks, etc. Geo. H. Ismon, Pacific Coest egent. A. J. Rohinson, Ass't.

THE hlood of Surprise, son of Bonnie Scotland, who sired the dem of Dolly Smith, Phoebe Wilkes, 2:08¾, Prime, 2:12¼, etc., also crops ont in the pacer, Pendnlum, who took a record of 2:12¼ over the Toledo, O., half-mile track last week. His grenddem was elso a daughter of Surprise.

THAT The Monk, 2:08¾, is a hopeless cripple is evident. He has not been nemed for a race this year and the proposed starting of him end The Ahhott against the team record seems to have fallen through.

California State Fair.

Four good two-year-old fillies lined up for the five-furlong race. Magdalenas was the choice at 7 to 5, with Midlove second at even money, with 3 to 1 on Modwena and 5 to 1 on Crossmolina. The youngsters were sent away at the first effort, Modwena in the lead, Magdalenas next and Midlove and Crossmolina close up. These positions were held around the far turn, except that Modwena and Magdalena entered the stretch about even, with Midlove well up in third place. Down the stretch Modwena pulled away and won in 1:02. Midlove came up in a rush at the drawgate and took the place from Magdalenas and was one open length behind the winner at the outcome.

Again in the six and one half furlongs for three-year-olds and upward, the prime favorite went back on the talent. Harry Thoburn at 1 to 3 carried the coin, but had to be content with third place. Sport McAllister (4 to 1) got away in front and was never headed, though Thoburn and Venis hung to him most of the way. Sport held his own down the last stretch, beating Venis out a length in 1:22½, Thoburn third by a length. Flirtilla was a poor fourth.

In the six furlongs selling event for two-year-olds, Burns & Waterhouse were again in the money with their colt, Nepian (4 to 5), first going to Casdale (6 to 5) and second to Faversham (4 to 1). The colts were sent away without a moment's delay, Faversham cutting out the work, with Casdale and Napian lapping. Rounding the turn Cesdale moved up even, Napian being two lengths behind. In the last quarter, with the jockeys all plying the whip, Casdale pulled away and won by a length from Faversham in 1:16½, Napian third.

The fifth race, the Dewey Selling stake for three-year-olds, was one of the prettiest races ever seen on any track. The field got away in a bunch, with Marplot showing in front. Up the stretch and around the turn to the last quarter the half-dozen went in a group so closely bunched that no daylight showed between them. The Burns & Waterhouse orange and blue colors were still in the front by a half-length, when the three-quarters was reached, and it looked as if Marplot had the race by a small margin. In a driving race, however, Moringa (8 to 1) came up in the last eighth and shot ahead of Marplot, winning by a length in 1:14¾, Himera third by a length.

The sixth and last race of the day was seven and one-half furlongs for three-year-olds and upwards. The winner turned up in Koko, he beating out the cracks Scarborough and Colonel Wheeler in 1:37. The race was won in the last seventy yards, up to which time it looked like Wheeler's race, but the Colonel seemed to quit about that time, for both Koko and Scarborough beat him out. Only 4 to 5 was given in the books against Wheeler, and 2 to 3 Scarborough, while Koko went begging at 50 to 1. It was one of those upsets that gave the talent something to kick about for the rest of the day. Some of them who lost their money on the dead sure thing Wheeler charged that the horse was pulled.

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 7.

Hurrah for the light harness brigade! It has, up to this evening, furnished the best sport of the meeting and drawn the largest crowd. The contests were exciting in most instances, and the bookmakers were liberally patronized.

The first race was the 2:25 trot, in which there were nine starters. Dash races will not do where there are large fields. When all the contestants can line up at the start, each has a chance and the dash it a success. Where there are so many starters that two tiers of horses are necessary, the fastest horse may be back at the start and prevented from coming through no matter how much speed he may have. Otherwise the plan works all right, and from the number of entries received and the crowds drawn to witness the races, it is a success here. Bousaline was the favorite in this race at even money, Mamie Riley being at 8 to 5, the others from sixes to twelves. At the third score they were sent away to a rather poor start, Lottie, Joe Selby and Phoebe Childers in the lead, the favorite fourth and Mamie Riley next to last. The quarter was reached in 35½ seconds, Jo Selby being at least two lengths in advance of all the others, Mamie Riley moving up to fourth place and Bonsaline dropping back. At the half the positions were about the same except that the favorite was absolutely last, and seemed unable to show any speed. Jo Selby, as usual, shot his bolt by the time he reached the three-quarter pole, and Billy Durfee took Mamie Riley out in the lead and maintained that position the rest of the journey. The Salinas horse Shelby was second all the way after the first quarter pole had been reached, and was coming fast but broke in the last sixteenth. He was but two lengths behind Mamie Riley when she crossed the score in 2:16½. Menlo Belle was third.

Jimmie Sullivan landed his Alex Button horse Dr. J, winner in the 2:20 trot. May B. was the favorite but she acted badly and broke repeatedly. Dr. J. won the race pulled up in 2:17, Shelby, the same horse that finished second in the first race, getting the same position in this one.

Billy Durfee rode in front again in the third race, the 2:30 pace. Harry J. was made the favorite in this event, Belle W., on her win of Monday ruling as second choice at 2 to 1. Capt. Hackett met with his usual bad luck, the sulky to which he was hitched breaking down just before the half mile pole was reached, and causing Gaff Topsail and the favorite who were behind him to be pulled up. Mr. Durfee's little 700-pound mare Lady Margaret, who was at 4 to 1, lost no time after she got the word, but went to the front when rounding the first turn and was never headed, Belle W. being a good second all the way, Silas Simons third and the others from twenty to fifty lengths back. Lady Margaret's time for the mile was 2:17.

The 2:12 pace was a horse race from start to finish. There were six starters, Much Better being favorite at 7 to 10, Iran Wood fairly well played at 5 to 2, uncertain, but fast Dexter Alto at 3 to 1, F. W. the same, Little Thorne 5 to 1, Fiorancita going begging at 15 and 20 to 1. Everybody expected Much Better to win, of course, and there was a surprised look on the faces of many when Little Thorne rushed away in the lead when the word was given. Mr. Bunch's mare was not to be denied her chosen place, however, and she was first at the quarter in 0:32, increasing her speed and reaching the half in 1:03, at the three-quarters in 1:34½ and showing no signs of stopping. Rex Alto, who was fifth at the start, had gradually improved his position and came through the stretch with a rush, but Much Better was game and beat him by a length, the time, 2:09½, being very fast for the track, which is cut up next the rail every other day for the runners.

In the second heat a surprise was sprung on the bookmakers and the public by F. W. beating Much Better in the last hundred yards. The Derby mare led clear to the drawgate, pacing the quarters in 0:32½, 1:02½ and 1:35½, and although F. W. came at almost a two-minute clip at the end, it did not look to the spectators as though Bunch made an extra effort to stave off Gordon's rush. F. W. was at 7 to 1 for this heat, but scarcely any money was played on him.

Much Better won the third heat easily enough in slower time, and should have made the race two straight. Rex Alto and Beachwood were both very fast and the finishes in every heat were driving ones. Little Thorne was not right, and the judges permitted his trainer to withdraw him after the second heat. Following are the SUMMARIES.

Cause of the Ewe Neck.

"The question is often asked why are so many Western range horses ewe-necked; is it because of their breeding or what? Many causes are given, but the most reasonable is that instead of feeding from the mangers they graze on the ranches and that this constant practice of declining the head is the cause of the defect in conformation. All range horses are not thus affected, but the defect is a characteristic of the class."—Denver Field and Farm.

Getting his feed from the ground will not make a horse ewe-necked provided he gets plenty of it. It is starvation that makes the poor, thin neck in horses, cattle and often in the human family. Range horses do not always have plenty of feed. There are seasons of the year when cold or drought make feed scarce, and when food is scarce the crest will be lacking and the neck have a "lean and hungry look."

That $5,000 Match.

It will be remembered, by our readers that Mr. E. H. Harriman, owner of Stamboul, and Mr. Marcus Daly, owner of Prodigal, matched two three year-olds by their respective stallions to trot a race of mile heats, best three in five for $2,500 a side. The race came off at Goshen, New York, August 26th, and was won by Mr. Harriman's filly Elsie S., by Stamboul from Elysia by Heptagon. Limerick, Mr. Daly's galding by Prodigal, won two heats of the race, however, and trotted one dead heat with Elsie S. The fastest heat of the race was the dead heat made in 2:20½, which makes the honors of the race nearly even. Six heats in a two horse race between three-year-olds is a rather uncommon occurence.

C. A. DURFEE left Portland this week for his home in Oakland, Cal., taking with him the great young sire, McKinney, 2:11¼, Miss Jessie, 2:14, and a lot of young McKinneys. McKinney did fairly well here in the stud and with one exception. Mr. Durfee collected everything due him. A precedent that should be adhered to closely by other stallion owners in Oregon which would soon put the breeding business on a more substantial basis. Horse breeders have been too slack in their mode of doing business here in the past and the sooner they come closer to a cash basis, the sooner will their business flourish and the men engaged in it be more respected. A few men like Mr. Durfee would soon revolutionize the breeding business and place it on a higher plane.—North Pacific Rural Spirit.

Sulky Notes.

CRESCEUS is ticketed for the auction room.

SALINAS talks strongly of giving a meeting.

JOHN KELLY'S stable has won $20,000 this year.

DIRECT, 2:05½, has ten 2:20 performers to his credit.

DIRECTUM KELLY'S winnings for the season foot up $11,550.

ED GEERS has driven six four-year-olds with records better than 2:10.

RACES at Ingleside track Friday and Saturday, September 9th and 10th.

RUBENSTEIN, 2:05, is rounding to and will soon be ready for a race again.

THE Portland, Oregon, people have abandoned the attempt to hold a meeting this fall.

MISS LOGAN won in straight heats at Independence, Iowa, last week. Best time 2:09¾.

IF the rule against hopples is enforced next season there will be some very fast pacers kept in the barn.

ANDY MCDOWELL won a $1,000 purse with Caryle Carne Wednesday, at St. Paul. Fastest time, 2:12½.

PRINCE GIFT, 2:12 was sired by Good Gift, the horse which Senator Stanford sent to the Czar of Russia.

IT took eleven heats to decide the 2:16 pace at Danville, Ill. It was finally won by Clipsetta, by Elk Nutwood.

CHANTY, the four-year-old son of Guy Wilkes, won a great race at Readville on Wednesday. He now carries a record of 2:13¼.

SYLVANWAY has again reduced her record. It is now 2:10½, which is the fastest mile paced this year by a three-year-old filly.

THE average of heats trotted and paced at the Cleveland meeting was 2:10 3-5; at Columbus, 2:11½; Buffalo, 2:12 1-5; Detroit, 2:13½.

G. JUDD, driver of Klamath, 2:07½, is resting up for a few days at the Tonawanda track. The horse has an ailing leg, but is getting along nicely.

JOHN R. GENTRY gets his third 2:30 performer in the chestnut gelding Jim Ramey which made a record of 2:16¾ at Booneville, Ia., recently.

JOHNNIE DICKERSON has been heard from. He won a piece of the money with Fred Kohl at Goshen, and got a heat with Flare Up at Readville.

HERE is a pointer for those whom it may concern. The Chamber of Commerce, Dubuque, Iowa, purchased 10,000 tickets for the meeting held last week.

OLD Strathmore has two out this year that have very nearly approached the 2:10 mark—Terrill S. and Strathmeath, each with a new record of 2:10½.

THIS may be the last meeting held on the historical Sacramento track. If the necessary arrangements can be made, the next fair will be given on new grounds.

DIONE, 2:09½, has been twice beaten by Forbes Farm horses, first by Nico, 2:09½, and then by Bingen, 2:09¾. She made them both take records better than 2:10.

DIRECTOR J. W. WILSON, of the State Agricultural Society, has been starting the trotters and pacers during the State Fair, and has been very successful so far.

MY COMRADE, by Stamboul, 2:07½, dam by Electioneer, worked a quarter recently, at the trot, a shade better than 0:30. He is owned by W. W. Cawley, Lewisburg, Pa.

EX-MAYOR HERRARD, Newton, Mass., who was injured last spring in a smash up of an unmanageable horseless carriage, has recovered and is looking for a fine pair of trotting horses.

DOLLIE MARSHUTZ, by Chas. Derby—Lassie Jean, won a good race last Wednesday at Hamline, Minnesota. The best time was 2:19½, her former record. The purse was $1,000.

BLACKWOOD BELLE, 2:33, by Trouble, son of Almont, is the dam of two trotters that have beaten 2:20 this year—Congrazia, 2:19½, by Antevolo, and Ildico, 2:19½, by King Wilkes.

ANACONDA and Chehalis were both defeated at Hartford, Monday by Frank Bogash, Planet and Bumps. The fastest heat was the first, 2:04½, won by Bumps and the slowest the last 2:15 won by Frank Bogash.

THE number of four-year-old trotters that have beaten 2:08½ in a race is limited to Directum and Benzetta, but Directum Kelly, at Fort Erie, trotted two quarters in 1:02 and finished the mile in 2:08½ under restraint.

HORSEMEN all over the State are expressing the opinion that the meeting recently given at Santa Rosa did more for the advancement of light harness horse interests than anything that has been done in California this year.

MAUD MURRY is another of the fast ones that was thought early in the season to stand a good chance to win the Occident stake but had to be scratched. She has been ailing for several weeks and will not start again for some time.

A TOTAL of 220 head of horses were exported from Chicago last week by Dufour & Co., to Antwerp, Belgium. Their consignment included a large number of 16-hand high-stepping drivers, purchased there at from $160 to $250.

AT Cleveland, Colonel Edwards, president of the Cleveland Driving Association, called Thomas Keating to the stand and thanked him, saying that his stable had done more toward making the meeting a grand success than any other thing.

HARRY LOWDEN, who was at Grenbrook Park during the meeting held there last week informs us that the time made by Monterey, 2:09¼, in the free-for-all race on Saturday was 2:17½, and not 2:07½ as reported in the dispatches to the daily press.

DR. FRASSE, 2:18½, the three-year-old by Iran Alto that promised to trot down somewhere near 2:12 before the year was out, is quite lame. He had to be scratched in the Occident stake at Sacramento, and may not be able to start again this year.

ELEVEN two-year-olds worked at the Lexington track have beaten 2:30 this season, and the two-year-old filly Actual, by Alfred G., dam Pearl, by Hero of Thorndale, showed Lee Darnaby two miles in 2:31½ and 2:30½. She is owned by J. L. Tarlton.

DIONE won the 2:14 trot at Hartford last Monday in straight heats, defeating a field of nine consisting of Ruby, Al Rich, Alves, Tomboy, Town Lady, Equity, Preston, Bequita and Dupe. The heats were trotted in 2:11½, 2:09¾ and 2:10, and the purse was $2,000.

SAMUEL GAMBLE left this week for a trip down East. He will go as far as Boston, and hopes to get back as far Lexington in time for the big trotting meeting to be held there in October. Mr. Gamble will bring back with him several standard-bred mares and fillies for California parties.

GEORGE WATSON, the leading horse dealer of London, is in this country looking for high-steppers, and says he will the all he can buy at a reasonable figure. He declares that there is such a demand for fancy carriage horses in Europe that the dealers there are at a loss to know how to supply it.

THE rule against laying up heats, judging from the published summaries of Eastern races, is more honored in the breach than in the observance beyond the Rockies. Once in a while a reprimand is given a driver for being too far back during the first part of the race, but that does not often occur.

SUSIE T., by Ambassador, out of the dam of Bella Vara, 2:08¾, started in the 2:19 pace at Rigby and forced out the winner in 2:10¾ and 2:11½, earning second money. On the same afternoon she started in the 2:16 pace and fought out four heats. She won the third and took a new record of 2:13¾.

LAST week Mike Bowerman gave the black gelding, Sampson, by Wilton, out of the dam of McKinney, a slow mile, brushing him the last half in 1:06. Mike is teaching him to race at the matinee trots, and he gives every indication of making a first-class race horse. He is of fine size and is good-gaited.

JASPER AYRES is a good horse this year, and that runaway he had a few weeks ago doubtless got him into condition. He won a good race at Readville last Saturday, defeating Gayton, Cut Class and others of the best ones out this year. It was a seven-heat race. Jasper Ayers reduced his record to 2:09.

ALTHOUGH the runners have the best days given over to them during the State Fair, the trotters draw just about as much money in at the gate. There is more betting on the running days, however. People go to see harness racing who do not bet, while those who enjoy the running races most nearly always have a bet down.

THE $10,000 Charter Oak purse was won by John Nolan, son of Prodigal. He won the second, third and fourth heats. Time, 2:10¾, 2:09½, 2:11. Mattie Patterson won the first heat in 2:11¾, Stamboulette third, Othello, Battleton, Big Timber, Ed Locke, Timbret, Philipe, Carrie, Success, Nancy King, Belle J., Kilda, Spinalong and George also started.

THE Humane Society of Pittsburg, Pa., is on the warpath against the employes of the Schenley riding academy for docking horses, and has instructed its attorney to push the cases. A reward of $50 is offered for information that will lead to the arrest and conviction of any person "abusing horses in this manner."

"AMONG THE BARRELS"—This novel sign above the entrance to No. 863 Market Street is not a misnomer. The barrels are in evidence and the contents subject to your own analysis and at your own sweet will. The comfort of guests is the paramount feature, and the purity and excellence of goods the chief drawing cards. Call and see friends Armstrong and Hood. *

JAMES MACK, of California, called upon his many Buffalo friends the past week. Years ago he took care of Billy S., 2:14½, the Buffalo pacer, but drifted westward and crawled up the track and turf ladder to a first-class trainer and driver. He campaigned Waldo J., the gray gelding, with considerable success, until he went wrong, owing to the long trip from the coast.—Horse Review.

THE doubters who thought the Santa Rosa track was short because Much Better paced it in 2:07½, will now have to admit that the mare's performance at Sacramento Wednesday was even better. 2:09½ over the Sacramento track is a splendid performance. The track is cut up for eight feet next the rail every other day for the runners, and this makes it slow for the harness horses.

EVERY horseman who possibly can should attend the meeting to be given by the Golden Gate Park Driving Association at Inglesida Friday and Saturday, September 9th and 10th. This association is doing a great deal for light harness horse interests in San Francisco, and has caused a great revival in the recreation of road driving in this vicinity. It should be sustained in its efforts.

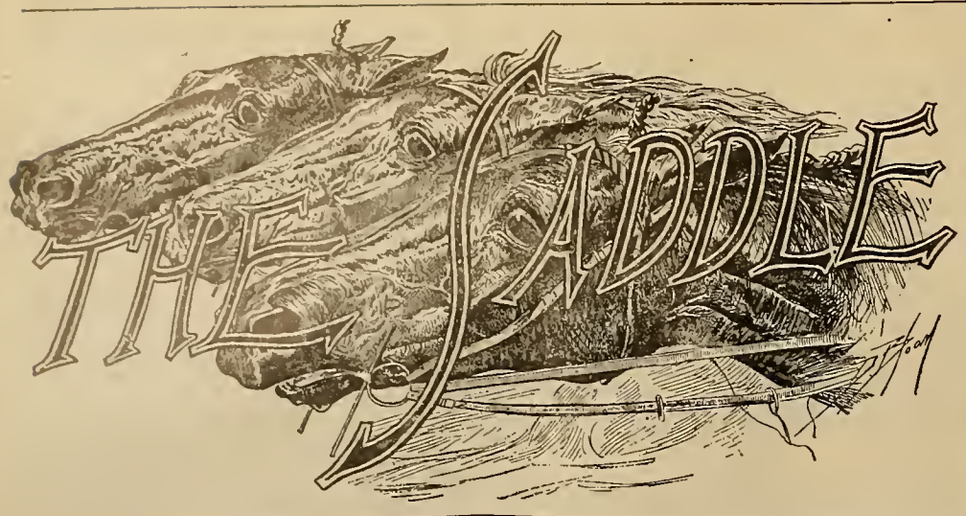
DIRECTUM KELLY 2:08½, Caid 2:09½, and Dupe 2:10½, are illustrations of the fact that it does not always ruin youngsters to trot them as colts. Caid took a two-year-old record of 2:22, three-year-old record of 2:14½, four-year-old record of 2:11, and week before last reduced it to 2:09½ in a winning race at Joliet. Directum Kelly took a record of 2:23¾ as a two-year-old, as a three-year-old he was worked some, but did not reduce his mark, while this year as a four-year-old he appears to be the horse of the year. Dupe took a two-year-old record of 2:13¾, but did nothing notable in his three-year-old form.

SPLAN & NEWGASS write the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN under date of September 1st: "The California horses that have been trotting through the Eastern country have certainly got their share of the money. I had the pleasure of seeing Searchlight go two heats better than 2:05 in his race at Dubuque, and he looks and acts like a horse that had a chance at the two-minute mark. Mr. Keating brought the grandest lot of horses that ever came across the mountains. I know of no other man with four horses that won as many races and as much money as he has. Everybody is delighted with his success. He certainly deserves it as he is a careful, conscientious man and deserves all the success he has had for his pains and trouble."

A PORTLAND, ME., dispatch dated the 26th says: The patrons of the pool box at the New England Fair are in a state of agitation bordering on nervous prostration. Two of the best races of the week were unfinished on Wednesday and were brought forward until to-day. There was heavy betting on them, especially on the 2:13 pace, in which the pool-box favorite was beaten by B. B. The total receipts of the two races up to the close of Wednesday's sales was about $10,000. When the contests were started this afternoon John Gibson, the cashier of the pool box, was not in his accustomed place. A messenger was sent to his hotel, but Gibson could not be found. Consequently the crowd, seeing no money coming on their tickets, declined to invest further, and the pool selling was suspended. Neither the missing man nor the money had been located up to midnight.

SYLVANWAY, 2:11½, by Steinway, from Lunado, by Electioneer, is owned by Mr. O'Callahan, Hartford, Conn. The filly was bought last winter at the Oakwood Park Stock Farm sale at Cleveland by Gene Hyde, and being a little off, was knocked down for the very moderate price of $85. When Hyde got her in shape he told Mr. O'Callahan he had a fat little chunk of a two-year-old filly he would like to sell him and the two adjourned to the stable. The filly was hooked up and went so well that she changed hands there and then, $175 being the figure. Since that time Hyde has handled her and the probabilities are that she will get a three-year-old mark of 2:10 or better before the season closes. Her owner is not in the racing business regularly, but he is very proud of his filly and is anxiously awaiting the day when she will have concluded her stake engagements, that he may get her home and drive her on the road.

FRANK FRAZIER, owner of Chehalis, writing to a friend at Pendleton, Oregon, in regard to the race at Buffalo, where his horse was defeated in two heats and then won the race, says: "We leave for Glen Falls at once. I can only briefly refer to the last race. I lost the first and second heats and then had a lively time with the judges. They were going to take me out of the sulky, and called for a driver. I told them it would not go; I would drive Jap (Chehalis) or he would not go; they could rule me off, but no driver could drive him when I was out to win. The third heat I went to the three-quarter pole in 1:32, slowed up and jogged home in 2:06½, and took the next two heats in a jog in 2:06. They are all afraid of him. If he did not wear hobbles I could get $20,000 for him now. Jap is going better, and I will be able soon to show some hot heats when I am ready, if he keeps right. Some of them think he can go in two minutes now. Ed Geers told me he thought him the most wonderful horse he ever saw. I may get beaten once in a while, but don't worry. I guess I can stand them off, if I am a sh[illegible] harder.



THE ENGLISH STALLION STAMFORD.

Los Angeles, Sept. 2, 1893.

To the Editor of the Breeder and Sportsman—I enjoyed the perusel of a letter from "Old Rusticus" in your last issue for there are meny idees set forth hy him thet are in foll hermony with my own. I certeinly was never shle to see anything greet in Mr. Bruce Lowe's "Breeding hy Figures," much es I personally admired its euthor who wes among the most loveeble of men. If there were eny real merit in the system, somebody in Austrelia, where it originieted, would heve something to show for it. The truth is, Frenk Reynolds, of Tocal, on the Patterson river, was as much the inventor of the system es was Mr. Lowe; and Mr. R. hred better horses before he got hold of the figure fad then he has ever done since. He bred Goldsborough who wes at least five pounds bettei then Sir Modred end one of the greatest hroodmare sires the world hes ever seen.

I also egree that Mr. Lowe's slighting of Waxy, just because no other equally great sire came from the same teproot mare, was unworthy of a writer of Mr. Lowe's generelly conceded ability. The English Recing Calender, which was the real basis of all Mr. Lowe's reseerch, will show that the male line of Wexy has won 40 per cent. of all the Derbys, Two Thousand Guineas end St. Legers thet have been ron; and almost 37 per cent. of the winners of the 1000 Guinees end Oaks. Mr. Lowe took these very races es the hesis of his computations, so thet his ignoring of Wexy looks to be more ingenious than ingenuous.

I egree with "Old Rusticus" thet Wexy got the dam of Filho da Puta, who won the St. Leger of 1815, but I differ with him es to Stamford's being out of a Waxy mere. Stamford, who was hy Sir Peter the Derby winner of 1787, wes out of Horatia hy Eclipse, the paternal grendsire of Waxy. Indeed, I douht if Waxy, who was foeled in 1790 had daughters that were old enough to breed at the time when Sir Peter got Stamford from Horatia.

Stamford seems to heve been a good horse without being in anywise great. I know of no great performer that he got, so that he caonot be classed with either Lexington in America or Goldshorough in Australia, hoth of whom got great performers, hut were feilures in the trensmission of male line blood. This is the more remarkable on the part of Goldshorough, who comes from the same line of mares as Beadsman, Orlando and Epirius in England, and Rohinson Crusoe and Nordenfeldt in Australia. But Stamford I cen only rank as a sire of hroodmares, though some of them were exceedingly good ones.

For instance, Stamford got Emily, the dem of Emilius, winner of the Derhy and who was premier sire of England from 1827 to 1840, his only rivals being Sultan and Tramp. Emilius got two winners each of the Derby and 2,000 guineas, one each of the St. Leger and Oaks and three of the Goodwood Cnp. Ooe of these was Priam, who won it with 139 pounds up. Emilius got Sovereign and Sarpedon, hoth very successful sires in America. The former got Prioress, winner of the Cesarswitch of 1857, after a triple deed heat with Qoeen Bess and El Hakins; and Serpedon goes down to history as the sire of Alice Carneal, dam of Lexington, a good sire of performers and the greatest hroodmare sire in all history.

Stanford got Lady Rachel and she was mated with Bourbon, a son of Sorcerer, the result heing Fleur de Lis, who won 1 Doncaster and 2 Glenwood Cups. She belonged to William IV, King of England, who was ruled off the track for having her pulled to Priam in the Goodwood Cup of 1832. That is the way that Col. Wade Hampton of South Carolina came to get hold of Sovereign, who was Fleur de Lis' first foal.

Stamford also got Marciana, who produced nothing of note herself hut her daughter hy Comus produced both Hetman Platoff and Don John, the latter heing the better horse. Don John won the Doncester Cup end St. Leger in 1838, hoth in the same week; end Hetman Pletoff won the Northumberlend Plate, two and three-quarters miles, two yeers later. As sires Platoff ranks the better, for Don John got only Lady Evelyn, winner of the Oaks, while Hetmen Pletoff got the Derby winner of 1847, es well es the dams of Daniel O'Rourke Derby of 1852 and Knight of St. George, St. Leger of 1854. Don John got Iego who ran second to Sir Tatton Sykes in the St. Leger of 1846 and beat him in the Grend Duke Michael Stakes.

I also fully concur in ell "Old Rusticus" seys about the Leeds Arabian. He might have added es much in favor of the Lister Turk without distorting the truth.

Auetralian Horeee for England.

The exodus of Australian horses to England continues, and it is very evident now, writes The Australasian, that those breeders who can produce the class of horse which will commend itself to English buyers can look forwerd to getting a feir return for the capital they mey invest in hroodmares end stallions. Some people regret the sudden eppreciation of Australien horses which has broken out in England. They argue that if we let our Carbines and Trentons go out of the country, the present standard of excellence cannot possibly he maintained. There mey he some truth in this. It is a pity England insists on having the hest, hut from time immemoriai foreigners have heen helping themselves to the pick of the horses in the old country, and still hreeders in other lands go to Englend when they want to improve their studs. We ourselves took Fishermen end Musket from the old country. As far as Musket was concerned his departure from the land of his birth wes passed over without regret. It is not so in the case of Fisherman, the cest-iron hero who reced so long and won so many long-distance races. The departure of Carbine was the signal for opening up a trade with England, which must, at ell events, be of great benefit to our hreeders. Of the horses thet heve followed the champion of champions, Trenton was probahly the hest sire that Victoria had possessed for many yeers, and Carnage, who was sold hy Mr. Wilson for 3,500 guineas, and has since been passed on to Germany for 10,000 guineas, wes full of promise. As to the other horses we have lost, Aurum only can, we think, be regretted with any show of reason. This wes the horse that should have stepped into Trenton's shoes at St. Alhans. We have no wish to underrate Patron, who was a very fine racehorse indeed, His victory in the Melhourne Cup surpassed anything Carnege ever did on the turf, hut where was the use of Mr. Purchase keeping Patron in Victoria? He tried him at the stud, and could get only the most limited patronege for him. The horse was being wasted at Marihyrnong, and it is much better thet he should have gone to England where he is sure to get a chance of perpetuating the qualities which he exhibited on the racecourse. Resolute and Amiahle, the last horses to go, had come to the end of their tether in Australia. Both had risen to prohihitive weights in handicaps, and there were not enough short-distance races at weight for age to make it worth while keeping them in Australie. They have a distinct velue in England hecause there are useful stakes for them to win almost every day of the racing season. The departure of horses like Aurum, Newhaven, Survivor, &c, robs our hig meetings of some interest. In England the crack of the year seldom races after his second season. His velue et the stud precludes this. With us it is different. A horse is kept in training as long as he is sound. But now that the trade with Englend is so firmly estahlished, we must expect to see the cracks of the future taken from us just as Aurum and Newhaven have heen. In return for our blood we shall keep on importing from England, the only difference heing thet we will not get the cream of English thoroughbreds. Australian prices will not justify our studmasters in giving the high figures necessary to secure the Isinglesses, Persimmons, and Galtee Mores of England. However, we heve the consoletion of knowing that horses imported to Australia succeed beyond what might he expected of them from their English reputetion, end even thongh we mey regret losing our Aurums and Newhevens be'ore they have done racing, the fact that, thanks to the English market, the value of a really good Australian horse is fully douhle what it wes, must he regarded as a very substentiel consoletion.

Retrenchment at Harlem.

When the Harlem meeting opens to-day John W. Kelsey end Col. Hamilton will not he in the judges' stend, seys a Chicego paper of August 22d. The Harlem Jockey Club has decided to dispense with their services in order to cerry out the line of rigid retreuchment of expenses recently determined upon. The news that these two popular racing officials will not have their usuel places is one of the largest surprises of the season in local turf circles.

In order to carry out the Turf Congress lew requiring three judges in the stend, Secretary Nathanson, of the Jockey Club, will take one of the vecant places, end Assistant Secretary Chivington will have the other. As formerly Col. Clark will preside. These are not the only officials who have lost positions. The services of H. E. Keough, patrol judge, ere said to have been dispensed with, and the little stand at the stretch turn of the track will prohehly be unoccupied during the meeting. Capt. Ward, who has been with the Harlem psople for yeers, also finds himself minus a position.

In eddition to these changes e score of minor employes have been discharged, including one in the paddock, one in the jockey room and several in the Secretary's office. It was no secret that the last meeting was run without financial profit, and Manager Meier determined to hew to the line and use every means to make the coming meeting a success. In addition to cutting down the force at the track, Press Agent George Siler has been discharged, and the clerk of the scale., P. P. Pomeroy, will assume his duties. Other employes have been given additional work, and there will be few sinecures at the meeting. All complimentary hedges—privilege, press, complimentary and ladies—have heen revoked, and only owners, trainers, jocke s and grooms will be honored at the gate. A number of the higher class horses will come from St. Louis to Harlem, as the Fair Grounds track will end its meeting on Saturday.

Saddle Notes.

The attendance so far at the State Fair meeting is ahead of last year's attendance.

J. W. Schorr has made "Skeets" Martin an offer to engage him to ride for one, two or three years.

Six hooks and a field hook had been handling the coin at Sacramento this week and doing a fair business.

The Anaconda meeting will close September 24th. The Montana racing has been very successful this year.

The Pacific Coast Jockey Club stakes close September 26th. The official announcement will appear next week.

Sausalito poolrooms feel the effects of near-by racing and have not been so largely attended since the State Fair opened.

Barney Schreiber is booking at Chicago and doing well. He may not come to California until after the new year opens.

Charlie Thorpe is an enthusiastic bicyclist, but he fell from a wheel in Chicago one day last week and was laid up for several days as a consequence.

Biggonet, the dam of Martimas, was a good race mare, and won a race once at Saratoga after a delay of two hours and twenty minutes at the post.

Mr. Haggin's proposition to sell his yearling fillies in England meets with almost universal endorsement and good prices are predicted for the first consignment.

Stakes for the Fall meeting of the California Jockey Club will close Monday, September 26th. The stakes with conditions are printed in full in our advertising columns today.

Arbaces, brother to Diggs, is fast, but he must be humored. He will not stand a hard drive, and whenever his rider begins to urge him he shows his temper and refuses to respond.

The California State Agricultural Society's President, A. B. Spreckels, presides in the judges' stand during the races at the State Fair and a better man for the place would be hard to find.

Jean Beraud and High Degree have been considered the best two-year-old colt and filly of the year. Sidney Paget now owns both, having purchased the filly at auction last week for $5,000.

The Coney Island Jockey Club has extended the courtesies of the racetrack for the autumn meeting to Rear-Admirals Sampson and Schley and the captains and officers of the naval squadron. The meeting began on August 23.

The foals at Menlo Stack Farm by imported Ormonde are not very numerous this year, but the few that are there are a grand looking lot. We understand there are five fillies and one colt in this years crop of foals by the great horse.

Harry Gilmore has sold Bosque Bonita Place, Ky., the farm of the late General Abe Buford and former home of the great race horse Enquirer, to George H. Watson, of Frankfort, Ky., for $15,125. The farm contains 121 acres.

The badge privilege has been so badly abused at former State Fairs, that new and stringent rules regarding admissions were adopted this year which has had a disastrous effect on the large dead head class that has heretofore infested the track.

T. C. Wagner and his jockey, L. Smith, who were suspended at Washington Park on account of the alleged suspicious running away of the horse Croesus, have been reinstated. Wagner always insisted injustice had been done in the matter.

Dr. Rowell has purchased from B. J. Johnson the bay filly Little Alarm, by Little Minch—Alarming, and also that widely touted maiden, The Last. The latter is by Medler—Lady Goldsmith. Both will be brought to California for a winter's campaign.

Johnnie Reiff is one of the most popular jockeys riding at Harlem and Hawthorne. The chances the little fellow takes are wonderful sometimes, and it is a very narrow opening that he will not attempt to go through if he thinks his mount has the speed.

Sport McAllister has probably been treated to a drink from the fountain of youth recently. He came out at Sacramento Tuesday and with four to one against him romped over six and a half furlongs in 1:22½ defeating Venis, Harry Thoburn and Flirtilla.

The Toronto Jockey Club of Toronto, Canada, has engaged Judge J. J. Burke to act as judge and presiding steward at the coming fall meeting to be held September 24 to October 1. Five races will be given each day, with purses and stakes ranging from $300 to $500.

The leading winning trainer in England so far this season is Richard Marsh, among whose patrons is the Prince of Wales. Marsh's horses have won £30,000. John Porter comes second with £14,000 to the credit of the horses trained at the famous Kingsclere establishment.

J. Hull Davidson, secretary and manager of the Kentucky Association, is making an earnest effort to hold a running meeting at Lexington in the fall. If the people of Lexington and the vicinity will give him encouragement and assistance, Mr. Davidson thinks a meeting can be arranged successfully.

An election of directors for the ensuing year was held at the office of the Latonia Jockey Club on August 22. The old board was re-elected. The directors will meet some time after Secretary Hopper's return to select officials for the fall meeting. It is hardly likely that there will be any change in the staff of officials.

A remarkable fact was that the third and fourth horses in the Futurity were both bred respectively upon the Kentucky and California breeding establishments of J. B. Haggin. The fourth horse, Dr. Eichburg, also is by Mr. Haggin's stallion, imp. Candlemas, as was the winner Martimas and the favorite Autumn.

R. J. Havey, who is starting the runners at Sacramento, is using a plain rubber band to line the horses up behind, instead of the Australian starting gate. This new and simple contrivance has been used in the East and on the Montana circuit with indifferent success. Mr. Havey has done excellent work with it thus far at Sacramento.

Form-players may be disappointed, but there is nothing that adds so much to the zest of racing or is as popular with the crowd as the occasional win of a "long shot." When Koko came first under the wire at Sacramento Tuesday with 50 to 1 against him, there was more enthusiastic cheering than was manifested over the result of any other race.

Matt Dawson, the premier trainer of England for forty years, died at his residence at Newmarket, August 19th. It was seldom that Dawson did not have a Derby favorite in his stables. He stood very high in the esteem of all who knew him, while to the English racing public he was the embodiment of honesty, ability and success in his business.

The Montana people like to see the shorthred horses race, and nearly every day or so there is a race on the card for the half-breeds, and they generally furnished the liveliest kind of a contest. The distance for these races was three-eighths of a mile, and the horses that participated in events of this kind were, as a rule, fast as a shot over such a short journey.

Our latest English exchanges report the safe arrival at Cobham Stud of the stallion, Patron, by Grand Flaneur, dam Olga, by Piscator; second dam Beatrice, by Stockowner. Notwithstanding a stormy voyage of nine weeks, Patron was landed in capital condition. Patron will take the place of Carnage, who was recently sold for a large sum, to go to Germany.

It is freely admitted that the main trouble in connection with racing near Cincinnati, outside of the fact of there being too many race tracks, lies in the fact of there being over half a dozen pool rooms in Covington and Cincinnati. These absorb the bulk of the speculative money that would otherwise flow to the tracks and in that way they materially injure the local racing game.

One of the features of the meeting at Saratoga was the debut of Louis V. Bell as a horse owner. He purchased that very blood-like filly, Matanzas, for, it is said, $5,000, and won two good stakes with her, namely, the Pepper Stake and and the second part of the Grand Union, both races being worth about $6,000. And yet this filly ran in a race at Brighton Beach this year to be sold for $500.

Nathan Coombs by Lodi, from Miami, by Belmont, died about two years ago, the property of Mr. Dodd, to whom he was presented by Wm. Boots of Milpitas. Nathan Coombs was foaled in 1872 and died from old age or the infirmities that come with years. He was a fair race horse and the sire of Ledette, the dam of Lucrstia Borgia, holder of the four-mile record, and the dams of several other winners.

Latonia's fall meeting will continue through the whole of October, when a number of valuable stakes will be run off. It will be a more successful one than that of the spring, and partly because the syndicate style of betting will be eliminated. The mutuel machines are to be given a thorough trial, so that the public instead of the bookies can fix the odds. Latonia will attract plenty of horses, and the racing should be of the best.

That pernicious plague of the race track, the tout, is getting very short picking at Sacramento this year. The genus "hayseed" is no longer numerous at the race tracks, and the amount of "sucker money" that can be steered into the pool boxes is very small and growing less each year. Your "Rube" reads the papers when he has nothing else to do and is not the ignoramus he is supposed to be.

When Handpress won at Sheepshead Bay last week he was bid up $1,100 over his entered selling price by John J. McCafferty. Phil Dwyer then bid the horse in at an advance of $5. In the bidding up lies a story. Phil Dwyer was one of the stewards of Saratoga who sat in judgment of McCafferty when the latter was accused of pulling Lexington Pirate. McCafferty's license as a jockey was taken away. Handpress winning gave McCafferty a chance to get even.

In the race for leading jockeys at Saratoga, Tod Sloan came out on top with 28 victories out of 50 mounts. Clawson, the crack Western lightweight, was second with 26 firsts out of 72 mounts. A. Barrett finished a poor third, for out of 62 mounts he could only win with 9. Maher made a good record during the few days he rode at Saratoga, as he managed to pilot 4 winners out of his 9 mounts. Fred Taral also did fairly well, as 6 out of his 17 mounts were winners.

"One would think from the number of rumors heard in regard to contracts with Tod Sloan for next season that he is the only first-class rider in the country. The latest is that he has as good as signed to ride for James R. Keene. Last week W. C. Whitney was to have first call on his services, and a few days previous it was positively announced that he would cast his lot with some English stable. As for an engagement with Mr. Keene, it is difficult to see why one should be made, for the stable is decidedly weak; in fact, the colors are not seen once a month. Of course the yearlings now in the stables may turn out some cracks, but this, at the best, is a speculation, and to engage a high priced rider on the chance looks foolish. Can it be that Sloan has a press agent who is seeking bids for his services?"

The death of Charles Victor Sass, which occurred somewhat unexpectedly at Paterson, N. J., Wednesday, August 24th, was a great shock to his many friends and to all metropolitan turfmen. Mr. Sass was born in New York about forty-five years ago, and was identified with the turf as a writer and as an official. For nine years he was the racing secretary of the Brighton Beach Racing Association, a position he filled with great credit. He also occupied a similar position at the old Clifton course.

Jockey Tommy Burns has got into an ugly tangle in connection with his riding services for the next two or three years. The boy, who is a minor, was brought out and developed by Tom Burns, with whom Burns had a contract, and for whom he rode for a few years. Early this year Burns traded the jockey to the Schorrs for the season, receiving quite a big sum. Lately Burns made a contract with the Schorrs for the next two years, the salary being a large one. Tom Burns, however, made a trip to Canada, where the Burns family live, and made a contract with the boy's parents for Tommy's services for 1899 and 1900. As young Burns is a minor, Burns claims the Schorr contract will not stand, while Tommy insists he will ride for the Schorrs or not ride at all. And thus the matter stands at present.

Starter Ferguson had a tough time of it at Anaconda one day last week. The people who attend the races there have been dissatisfied with his starts lately and on the 31st of August the dissatisfaction culminated in what promised to be a riot had the police not taken prompt measures to suppress it. The trouble was over the start of a race in which I Don't Know, Bill Howard, Omah Wood and Quicksilver were the contestants. Quicksilver was sent off with a flying start several lengths in advance of the others and won. Frank Reed, who owns I Don't Know called Ferguson all the vile names he could think of and Trainer Webb did the same—offering to give up his badge and he ruled off. Some of the female bettors took a whirl at the Kentuckian and made the air blue as indigo. The crowd finally quieted down as train time arrived, and the incident was closed.

The most notable feature in connection with the racing at Ascot, says an English journal, was the success which attended the Blacklock line as represented by Galopin, his son St. Simon and his grandson St. Serf. Galopin himself was represented by Goletta, who won the Trishal Stakes after a dead heat, while St. Serf's daughter Lowood secured the valuable Coronation Stakes for the Duke of Westminster, who won this race two years ago with Helm. But St. Simon once more came out on the top, and his sons Desmond and Simonside won the two races for two-year-olds, and the three-year-old Collar, whose dam is a sister to Ormond, secured the Trial Stakes. The Sterling line also came out well with Jeddah, for the Derby winner repeated his Epson victory in the Prince of Wales Stakes, carrying the full penalty, and he won in such style that, if only his two races at Newmarket could be forgotten, it would be easy to imagine that he was a really good racehorse.

"Jimmy" McCormick, when asked at Chicago about the notices of his intentions floating through the press, answered sarcastically: "When I was at the eastern tracks I must needs go to the Brower House to discover what I was to do. Here in Chicago they seem to know all about me around Chapin & Gore's and the Palmer House. Now, really, I haven't stated my plans to any reporter; in fact, I do not yet know what I shall do next winter. My contract with Burns & Waterhouse does not expire until November 1st next, and I can remain with them if I wish. These gentlemen, however, I agree with as to their cutting down expenses. They won with their stable $54,000 last winter in stakes and purses, still, expenses probably ate up that amount of money and more too. The breeding establishment is the famous one situated four miles from Sacramento, Cal., formerly owned by Theo. Winters of Norfolk fame, and all costs a lot of money. I may stay with Burns & Waterhouse and I may not. So you can see how much the reporter guessed who said I was to race at New Orleans."

Every once in a while that shrewd old horseman, Green B. Morris, springs upon the unsuspecting public a fairly good horse that just gallops away from the other contenders in the race, and incidentally conveys to the pockets of Mr. Morris and his friends big wads of money that half an hour before the race rested in the plethoric bankrolls of the bookmakers. He sent his colt Floronso to the post for the Dolphin Stakes at Sheepshead Bay, August 25th, at odds of 5 to 2, played four or five hundred on him and retired confidently to the grand stand. Sydney Paget's Martha II. and J. E. McDonald's Central Trust, both of which were heavily played by those who were not fortunate enough to enjoy the confidence of Mr. Morris, went out to the front when the flag went down and started to show the way home in the mile and an eighth journey. When the turn into the stretch was reached, however, Clawson sent the "good thing" up from the rear and he passed them with the ease that a stake horse shows when he passes selling platers. The stake was worth nearly fifteen hundred dollars to the winner.

As stated informally some time ago Marcus Daly's noted three-year-old champion, Hamburg, has probably seen his last days as a racing machine. When the Saratoga Association made overtures in the early stages of their meeting for a special race, to include the great son of Hanover—Lady Reel, his owner replied that the colt would not run again in America. This answer was accepted by some horsemen as indicating that Hamburg might race in England, but that idea now seems to be exploded, at least as far as this season is concerned. Hamburg has been shipped west to his owner's Bitter Root Stud, accompanied by his fleet stable companions, Ogden and Isidor. All three have proven good winners for the sporting "Copper King" since the season opened, and their retirement, if permanent, will cause general surprise. After his unexpected defeat in the Belmont Stakes, Hamburg began to show his true form, and his name will be treasured in racing history as the winner of the Realization Stakes and the Brighton Cup. Ogden ran second in the latter event, and, prior to that, won an owners' handicap at Brighton Beach and the Long Island Handicap and an overnight event at the Sheepshead Bay Spring meeting. Isidor scored a few times among the best of the sprinters, and the trio are at no lack for laurels on which to rest until they win fresh ones at the stud.—New York Sun.

HORSES WITH RECORDS are wanted in the East, and the faster records they have, the more money they will bring. This is the information sent to the Breeder and Sportsman by Eastern dealers and managers of the big auction houses. The demand for fast horses that can race,and trot or pace miles equal to their records, is very heavy and growing every day. It is a demand that will not be supplied next year. The boom which harness racing has entered upon is not of the mushroom order. It is founded on a solid basis and from this time henceforth the trotters and pacers that possess speed and can show it on the track or the road will not go begging. The American sport of harness racing is more popular with the people than ever, and the American recreation of driving a good horse or team on the road is growing in favor every day. Gentlemen who have the cash to pay for a good horse, however, expect actual value for their money. Prospective values do not tempt them as much as horse breeders and trainers have heretofore supposed. The horse that has a record of 2:10, if able to pass the veterinary, will bring more money, nine times out of ten, than the green horse that is guaranteed to show 2:10 speed. In one case the buyer has proof of what the horse has done, in the other he is in doubt. The breeder or trainer who wishes to sell, and expects a good price for his horse, should not be afraid of a fast record. It is simply evidence that his animal is all that he claims it to be, as far as speed is concerned. If any one will look over the list of sales made this year where large prices were obtained, he will find horses with fast records brought the most money. Sylvanway, a green mare from the Oakwood Park Stock Farm, that had shown quarters in 0:35 as a two-year old was knocked down for $85 at a sale at Cleveland last fall. She has started four times this year, paced to a mark of 2:10¼, and her owner has been offered $2,000 for her. It was the fast record that added $1,935 to her first value. California breeders who wish to supply horses for the Eastern demand cannot do better than give their animals fast race records and consign them to the Eastern sales

HOW DOES HE STAND on the subject of appropriations for district fairs? is the question that every owner and breeder of live stock will ask about the candidate for Governor of California this year before casting his vote. Among those engaged in the breeding and developing of light harness horses this question is a vital one. That the Legislature, representing as it does the taxpayers of the State, will pass the bill making appropriations for the fairs is certain. It will do as it has always done in this matter, which is to act in accordance with the wishes of its constituents. The question which the breeders and owners desire answered is: Will the man who occupies the Governor's chair next year respect their demands and affix his signature to the appropriation if it is made by the legislative body? If the various candidates for Governor of California answer yes to this interrogatory, the breeders and stockgrowers will not enter this fight on either side as an organized body of voters. Otherwise they will undoubtedly vote solidly for the candidate who is pledged to uphold their interests.

SPLAN & NEWGASS announce in the Breeder and Sportsman this week their great speed sale to take place at the Union Stock Yards, Chicago in December. This will be a speed sale and some of the best track and road horses in the country have already been consigned to it. Mr. Splan writes that finished horses, something a gentleman can use for either track or road, are what is wanted, and that for this class of animals there is now as good a market as he ever saw. Our California breeders and owners who have good, sound animals with records can do nothing that will advance their own interests more than making consignments to these auction sales. If good horses are sent East, the buyers will be looking for more of the same kind next year. A good market for his produce is what every sensible farmer and stockbreeder desires and should aid in building up. There are fifty good horses with records of 2:20 or better in California that would bring fair prices in the East at auction. Hundreds of others just as good can be raised and developed. Sell those now on hand and develop others for next year. The Splan & Newgass sale offers a splendid oppoatunity to get good good values for good horses. Read the advertisement.

THE STAKES offered by the California Jockey Club appear in full, with the conditions attached, in our advertising columns to-day. There is a tempting lot which should attract a very heavy list of entries. The fall racing season may be considered to have already opened in California, as there will be but one week's let up from the present time until the Oakland track is thrown open October 29th. Entries to these stakes, which are to be run between Saturday, October 29th, and Monday, January 2d, close with the Secretary R. B. Milroy, 204 Sutter street, San Francisco, on Monday September 26th.

DON'T FORGET that the entries for the Los Angeles meeting will close Saturday, September 17th, the last day of the State Fair. Horse owners and trainers who contemplate visiting Southern California this year will find some very rich purses awaiting them. From $800 to $1,500 a race is big money in any country and surely worth trying for. The Los Angeles meeting gives every promise of being the best ever held in Southern California. Don't miss it and don't forget the date of closing.

TWENTY THOUSAND DOLLARS is the sum offered by the Westchester Racing Association as a Stallion Stake for foals of 1898 to run in 1900. Stallions must be named next Thursday, September 15th. The conditions are most liberal and favorable, and we hope there will be a long list of California stallions named by their owners. Full conditions appear in our advertising columns, and entries are to close with H. G. Crickmore, Clerk of the Course, 173 Fifth avenue, New York. Entry blanks can be had at this office.

Well Gaited Trotters.

During the past year or two it has been most pronounced that the average trotter of the better class has become better gaited than the one of former years. Few of the fastest horses that are seen at the various trotting tracks exhibit the uneven, illy-balanced gait that has been so common in the past. That generations of rich breeding from sire to son of the trotting gait has much to do with this there is no doubt. To-day a large per centage of America's best trotters are by developed sires and good ones as well. Rough-gaited trotters are no longer useful, although one occasionally sees one of this type winning important events. The demand for good road horses has been and is so great that the badly-gaited trotters are of little or no account after they cease winning.

The fast young stallions that but yesterday were the kings of the turf are to-day the sires of many of the most notable performers. The idea that developed sires were no better than those untrained has long since ceased to be the case. Arion with his Nico, Direct with Directum Kelly, Allerton with Gayton, Axtell with Elloree, and Stamboul, Prodigal and other mighty trotters of a past generation speak volumes for the developed sire. Not only were the sires trotters themselves, but in most instances were great ones, stars of the first water, in fact. The champions come from champions and such will be the case from this time on. This being the case, only a few years must elapse before the lovers of light harness racing will see the sons and daughters of classic event winners themselves the victors in these same important races.

So far, we believe, no son or daughter of a winner has started in the Transylvania, although both Kremlin and Cheyenne have colts old enough to be eligible. The offspring of Futurity winners must come from mares, with one exception, and as Beuzetta is the only winner that has been bred, the future of her foal will be a matter of universal interest. An unusual interest is always attached to the victory of some horse in an important event, around whose memories is attached the name of his sire.

On the running turf the descendants of the mighty Hanover have followed in his footsteps and been returned winners of many of the great events of the turf, while among the eligibles of next season's Futurity is found a colt by His Highness out of The Butterflies, both winners of the richest prize on the American turf. This is an example of what is the foundation of the Bruce Lowe system of breeding, and eventually may apply to the breeding of trotters, which, while now in its infancy, should eventually be as scientifically conducted as is the breeding of the thoroughbred.—American Stock Farm.

THE Gentlemen's driving club of Cleveland has decided to give a wagon race open to the world on Sept. 24. Under the rules the regular events are confined to Cleveland horses, but to allow the fast horses of other cities to measure strides with the Cleveland cracks, this special event is offered. The owners of Grace Hastings, Cephas, Guy, 2:15, Dick Hubbard, Alrich and of other noted horses will be asked to enter. Cleveland will be represented by Praytell and Newcastle, and it is hoped that Eloree will be in condition to start also, and that H. M. Hanna will bring Mattie Patterson home and start her. The race is open to the world, and any owner of a fast wagon trotter is invited to enter. The prizes, while not of intrinsic value, will be highly prized by the winners. To the winner will go a beautiful whip and a special blue ribbon; to the second horse a silver cup offered by the Hollenden hotel, and a special ribbon by the club, while the third horse will receive a club ribbon.

Chicago Fly-Casters.

On Saturday, August 27th, was held the final contest of the Chicago Fly-Casting Club, determining the medal winners for the season. This meeting was also the final re entry day of the season. The casting took place at the usual place, the North Lagoon, Garfield Park.

The distribution of honors for the season's casting is as follows: President F. N. Peet wins the medal for long distance fly-casting; I. H. Bellows is winner of the medal for distance and accuracy; H. G. Hascal wins the bait casting medal, and I. H. Bellows is the winner of the All-Round championship cup.

The entries and scores in detail were as follows:

Names.	Long Distance Feet.	Distance & Accuracy Per Cent.	Accuracy & Delicacy Per Cent.	Bait Casting Per Cent.
I. H. Bellows	117	95	96 1-3	92 3-5

Holders of medals: long distance fly, I. H. Bellows; distance and accaracy, I. H. Bellows; accoracy and dalicacy, I. H Bellows; bait casting, H. A. Newkirk.

Complaint is made by the Yreka Journal to the following effect: "We understand that a man by the name of Montgomery has boilt a dam across Shasta river, some three miles below the electric light works. The object of the dam is to supply water for mining purposes. While we are glad to learn of the miners' success in extracting the bullion from the gravel, and encourage them in every way, we fear the man has gone a little too far, as we are informed that the dam prevents the fish from ascending the river, causing oor fisherman to complain. It is violating the law to obstruct a stream." It will probably save Mr. Montgomery some little trouble, time and money if he cumplies with the law applying to obstructions in streams. We desire to call the attention of the Board of Fish Commissioners to the matter, who will no doubt take proper action in the premises.

Fishing on a bank of sand laft bare by the tide would appaar to be a very profitless occupation, yet a ricb baul is thos obtained in some places on tha Eastern coast. As the tide goes down eels and sand-sprats bury themselves in the sand. At low water the fishermen come down and dig over the sands with five-pronged forks, and soon fill their baskets with these sand-sprats, said to be as delicate as whitebait.

A. K. C. Rules Committee Report on Pacific Coast Matters.

A meating of the Committee on Constitotion and Rules of the A. K. C. was held in New York, on August 24, 1898, for the purpose of consideration of the classification amendments received from the Pacific Coast. The report of the committee is as follows: "A convention of clubs was held in San Francisco, Cal., on July 27th, and the result of said meeting was submitted in two reports. That of the majority your committee cannot consider, for the following reasons:

1. That of the clubs represented at said convention three were not members of the American Kennel Club.

2. That one delegate present, being "a person not in good standing" with the American Kennel Club, could not under the rules act in any official capacity in any matter connected with the American Kennel Club.

Your committee would therefore recommend that the secretary be directed to return said report to the secretary of said convention, the same being irregular and therefore null and void.

The report submitted by the minority bears the signatures of the delegates of five clubs, all members in good standing of the American Kennel Club, and can be considered as a request, coming from them individually and collectively, and is therefore entitled to the careful consideration of your committee.

The amendments submitted by this report are:

1. That five wins in the winners' class be required to entitle to a championship.

2. That a win in the winners' class does not count as a regular class win.

Your committee is of the opinion that the adoption of the first of these suggested amendments is desirable, so far as applicable to the Pacific Coast shows, for the following reasons: There is no limit to the number of classes that may be opened for each breed at shows where there is not the restrictive influence of giving cash prizes, and at some shows on the Pacific Coast there have been more classes than dogs entered. In this way it has happened that not one dog entered in one of the several classes of his breed has also won a winners' prize. Formerly there was a special permission to Pacific Coast clubs regarding the cash prize list called for under the rules governing dog shows, the line of 110 degrees west longitude being the division in that respect. This stipulation, if applied to the amandment asked for, would seem to meet the case thoroughly, and the following insertion is recommended after the word "class" on the fourth line of Rule XII, Class 5: "Or five first prizes at shows held west of 110 degrees west longitude."

Your committee cannot recommend the adoption of the second suggested amandment, for the reason that the win in a winners' class is without doubt the most important that a dog can make at any show, and as it was decided at the last annual meeting that the winners' class shall be interpreted as a class, no good reason exists why any exception should be made.

Your committee, upon its own responsibility, recommends the following amandments: Rule XI., following the word "weighing" in the seventh line, to add "or measuring." Rule XII., following "under-mentioned classes" and end of the third line, to add "It is optional to provide each of the following classes as may be desired;" and following the word "and" at the beginning of the sixth line, to add "if registered in the stud book"—and in the same rule, same class, strike out the last clause, to wit: "Winners' classes must be provided in all cases when the regular classification will warrant them." In the rules governing clubs, etc., amand Rule II., Section 3, so as to read: "The classification shall be confined to established breeds, which may be divided or limited by variety, weight, color, height or sex, and otherwise as provided in the dog show rules. No change in classification not covered by the published regulations of the show in the premium list will be allowed, unless announced in the Kennel press before the date of closing entries. This, however, does not permit of any change in winners' classes from those announced in the premium list."

Rule X. Strike out the words on the fifth line "registration or."

Rule XIV. Following the words "disqualification" in the eleventh line, add the words "or suspension."

The foregoing action for the committee in regard to the majority raport submitted is exactly as was was predicted by the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN. The acceptance of a portion of the changes asked for in the minority raport is a strong criterion and also another of the evidences of good feeling towards the Pacific Coast by the A. K. C. The other changes suggested by the committee seems timely and tending to the benefit of bench shows. Action will be taken on the report submitted on September 22d, when the regular quarterly meeting of the A. K. C. will be held in New York.

The total number of entries for the Toronto Bench Show is 730.

A. K. C. registration blanks can be obtained upon application at the office of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN, 22½ Geary street.

Manitoba Field Trials Club Entries.

Following is a list of the entries received up to August 1st for the club's twelfth annual field trials to be run at Morris, Manitoba, commencing September 7, 1898. The All-Age stake shows a total of twenty-three nominations, consisting of thirteen setters and ten pointers, and the Amateur, eleven setters and three pointers:

J. B. Martin, the well-known fancier of this city, has presented to Dr. C. S. Sargent a promising fox terriar dog pup by Vrgilant out of Stiletto; this is a fine blood combination and the Doctor doubtless will have a prominent candidate for bench show honors next year.

The Belmont Kennels were doubly unfortunate recently in losing the well known mastiff bitch Lola (37,547), who has won more bench prizes than any other speciman of the breed on the coast, besides repeatedly winning specials for best brood bitch. Chino Don (40,560) another show winner and grand stod dog in the mastiff annals of the Pacific Coast, has gone the way of all good dogs.

Bess II., a fine mastiff bitch owned by M. D. Garrett, and formerly a conspicuous show dog, has also curled up and gone for that bone with which no canine returneth.

The famous English setter dog Antonio (Roderigo—Bo Peep) died recently. He was quite successful on the bench and was a famous field trial winner. In field trials, in 1891, he won first in the all-age stake of the Southern Sportsmen's Association, Lafayette, La.; first in the all-aga stake at the Southern Field Trial Club, New Albany, Miss; first in champion stake, Eastern Trials, High Point, N. C.; first in free-for-all of the Central Field Trial Club, Lexington, N. C. Bench shows: first in field trials class, Wasnington, March, 1893; first, New York, 1894; first, Philadelphia, 1894. He was owned by the Eldred Kennels, New York, and was whelped December, 1886.

The Purposes of Field Trials.

The increasing interest in field trials is strongly shown by the activity and energy displayed by the gentlemen most concerned in the coming January trials at Bakersfield and also by a number of new recruits in the ranks—this latter showing being a healthy indication of a successful perpetuity of the sport. The purposes of field trials to some extent are misunderstood, many assuming that the production of a good "shooting dog" is the principal result—offering the argument, that the return at the end of the day with a goodly-sized bag is the best criterion of the intelligence and ability of one's dog. The purpose of field trials has been presented by Major Taylor in his Book of Bench Show and Field Trial Records and Standards of Dogs in America (p 66) in a clear, concise and intelligent manner—a perusal of the article above referred to, which follows, will not only be pleasant reading to the veteran sportsman, but will convey a fund of interesting information to the general reader:

"Only those who are directly associated with field trials appear to understand their real purpose, and this remark holds true only in a general sense; for there are sportsmen who have attended trials many years in succession who fail to comprehend what field trial associations seek to establish. Sportsmen who have had large experience in practical field shooting and none at field trials, invariably look upon a field trial as theoretically an exhibition of finished field work, from their own standpoint as practical shooters. The first field trial, witnessed by a sportsman of this kind, is invariably disappointing to him. He compares the work of each dog in succession with the work of his favorite dog, and remarks: "If I only had Tiger here, I would show them a bird dog. Field trial dogs are no good." He does not consider the entirely different conditions and purposes governing a field trial, as compared with actual field shooting. Indeed, while in general appearance, they are very similar, in practice, they are very different.

In actual field shooting, the purposes of the shooter are directed toward killing birds and filling the bag. The work of the dog is secondary to this main purpose; that is, the shooter may in some instances admire a beautiful point, a superior piece of roading and pointing, great range and intelligent management, but only as these qualities result in practical success. They are not subjected to a strict record or searching analysis, or placed in comparison with the work of some other dog. Some dogs road a bird well, but are indifferent in pointing accurately or with judgment. A dog of this kind will afford the shooter good sport, if he follows the dog closely while roading to a flush. The result is a good opportunity to shoot at the birds, and it practically does not affect the interests of the bag. So a dog may alternately work diligently for a while, then loaf about a while, during a whole day, and his owner may not discover that his dog is not doing first-rate work; and so on through the other parts of a dog's usefulness in field work.

In a field trial, the entire test changes. Instead of being tested by the success in getting shots for the shooter, the dog is tested in the first place by an ideal standard of perfection in all the details of field work, roading, pointing, ranging, pace, manner of working out the ground intelligently; the whole being governed also in a manner by bird sense, a term used to designate a dog's knowledge of all the details of working skillfully to the gun, the habits of the birds, memory of their haunts in working the ground over a second or more times, etc. Thus, while a dog may make a most satisfactory showing in a day's shooting, if strong in some qualities his success in such work may be much greater than when working against a standard of perfection.

While being compared against an ideal in field trials, there comes in another complication which does not exist in actual field work. That is, a competition between two dogs in each heat, thus, a dog, which in actual field work might perform very accurately, might run against a competitor which might not be any more accurate, but might be much quicker in doing his work. Again, roading in actual field shooting, which might result in a flush and a kill, would be a demerit in a field trial. And so on with other qualities.

Besides the competition, there are the different orders and continuous whistling by the two handlers in a heat which interferes with the dog's effort, a circumstance which does not exist in actual field shooting. Even in the latter branch of the dog's place in field sports, if the shooter were to keep a score showing a good dog's errors in a day's work, he would be surprised to find how far they exceed his off-hand estimate.

Therefore in a field trial the test is more of the dog's natural capabilities, the manner in which he does his work, and not necessarily the amount. The manner is of a paramount importance, for the amount may be, and often is, merely a question of opportunity or accident. It is a fair inference that if a dog can do several pieces of work with quickness, skill and precision, showing such to be natural or habitual, he can do more of the same class of work. If he has any defects he will almost to a certainty show them in some one or more of his heats, so that the manner and perfection of a dog's performance are constantly under consideration.

To illustrate briefly in what manner the amount of work might be due to opportunity or accident, one circumstance which often occurs at field trials will be mentioned. Suppose that one dog finds all the bevies by superior diligence, knowledge and skill. Suppose that his handler, from being occupied in handling his dog, or from his position, fails to mark the scattered birds, and the other handler does mark them. The dog of the latter handler might get all the points on the scattered birds, perhaps far in excess of the other dog's points, and all this from the bevies in the first place being found for him by his competitor, thus having the opportunities afforded by no effort on his part; and, in the second place, being given every advantage of the opportunities by the help of his handler.

This will present an illustration of why the amount of work is not necessarily decisive in a heat between two dogs. Again, the dogs might be cast off, one to the left, one to the right, and one dog might go to a bevy in twenty yards, thus giving a point without any effort by an accidental find.

To go into all the nice details of field trials would require a large volume. The only purpose of this article is to give the novice in field trial matters a sound basis to start on, in field trial matters, by having a correct distinction as to actual field shooting and a field trial competition There is quite as much difference between field work and field trials as between a carriage drive for pleasure or business, and high-class horse racing."

Utica, N. Y.

Dr. H. Clay Glover, Dear Sir—It affords me great pleasure to testify to the excellence of your Mange Cure. My St. Bernard pup was in a very bad condition from mange. I read of your cure and sent for a bottle. After the first application the improvement was very noticeable, and it needed but the second to entirely heal the affected parts. The dog is now in fine condition. Yours truly,

J. Frank Day.

Woodcock Shooting in Illinois.

The season for Woodcock shooting in Illinois has been a most propitious one, as was augured by various favorable tokens known to those who are of the initiated. A story of the sport, with some timely philosophical comment, was recently given in the Chicago Inter-Ocean as follows:

"The woodcock season has opened. Birds are plentiful. Dogs and gunners have had a long rest. All along the Fox,
